CHAP. XXIII.

1 David, in his last words, professeth his faith in God's promises to be beyond sense or experience. 6 The different state of the wicked. 8 A catalogue of David's mighty men.

NOW these be the last words of David. David the son of Jesse said, [a] and the man who was raised up on high, [b] the anointed of the God of Jacob, and the sweet psalmist of Israel, said,

2 [c] The Spirit of the LORD spake by me, and his word was in my tongue.

3 The God of Israel said, [d] the Rock of Israel spake to me, * He that ruleth over men must be just, ruling [e] in the fear of God.

4 And [f] he shall be as the light of the morning, when the sun riseth, even a morning without clouds; as the tender grass springing out of the earth by clear shining after rain.

5 Although my house be not so with God; [g] yet he hath made with me an everlasting covenant, ordered in all things, and sure: for this is all my salvation, and all my desire, although he make it not to grow.

6 ¶ But the sons of Belial shall be all of them as thorns thrust away, because they cannot be taken with hands:

7 But the man that shall touch them must be † fenced with iron and the staff of a spear; and they shall be utterly burned with fire in the same place.

8 ¶ These be the names of the mighty men whom David had: ‡ The Tachmonite that sat in the seat, chief among the captains; the same was Adino the Eznite: § he lift up his spear against eight hundred, ‖ whom he slew at one time.

9 And after him was [h] Eleazar the son of Dodo the Ahohite, one of the three mighty men with David, when they defied the Philistines that were there gathered together to battle, and the men of Israel were gone away:

10 He arose, and smote the Philistines until his hand was weary, and his hand clave unto the sword: and the LORD wrought a great victory that day; and the people returned after him only to spoil.

11 And after him was [i] Shammah the son of Agee the Hararite. [k] And the Philistines were gathered together * into a troop, where was a piece of ground full of lentiles: and the people fled from the Philistines.

12 But he stood in the midst of the ground, and defended it, and slew the Philistines: and the LORD wrought a great victory.

13 And [l] † three of the thirty chief went down, and came to David in the harvest time unto [m] the cave of Adullam: and the troop of the Philistines pitched in [n] the valley of Rephaim.

14 And David was then in [o] an hold, and the garrison of the Philistines was then in Beth-lehem.

15 And David longed, and said, Oh that one would give me drink of the water of the well of Beth-lehem, which is by the gate!

16 And the three mighty men brake through the host of the Philistines, and drew water out of the well of Beth-lehem, that was by the gate, and took it, and brought it to David: nevertheless he would not drink thereof, but poured it out unto the LORD.

17 And he said, Be it far from me, O LORD, that I should do this: is not this [p] the blood of the men that went in jeopardy of their lives? therefore he would not drink it. These things did these three mighty men.

18 And [q] Abishai, the brother of Joab, the son of Zeruiah, was chief among three. And he lifted up his spear against three hundred, ‡ and slew them, and had the name among three.

19 Was he not most honourable of three? therefore he was their captain: howbeit he attained not unto the first three.

20 And Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, the son of a valiant man, of [r] Kabzeel, § who had done many acts, [s] he slew two ‖ lionlike men of Moab: he went down also and slew a lion in the midst of a pit in time of snow:

21 And he slew an Egyptian, * a goodly man: and the Egyptian had a spear in his hand; but he went down to him with a staff, and plucked the spear out of the Egyptian's hand, and slew him with his own spear.

22 These things did Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, and had the name among three mighty men.

23 He was † more honourable than the thirty, but he attained not to the first three. And David set him [t] over his ‡ § guard.

24 [u] Asahel the brother of Joab was one of the thirty; Elhanan the son of Dodo of Beth-lehem,

25 [x] Shammah the Harodite, Elika the Harodite,

26 Helez the Paltite, Ira the son of Ikkesh the Tekoite,

27 Abiezer the Anethothite, Mebunnai the Hushathite,

28 Zalmon the Ahohite, Maharai the Netophathite,

29 Heleb the son of Baanah, a Netophathite, Ittai the son of Ribai out of Gibeah of the children of Benjamin,

30 Benaiah the Pirathonite, Hiddai of the ‖ brooks of [y] Gaash,

31 Abi-albon the Arbathite, Azmaveth the Barhumite,

32 Eliahba the Shaalbonite, of the sons of Jashen, Jonathan,

33 Shammah the Hararite, Ahiam the son of Sharar the Hararite,

CHAP. XXIII. Ver. 1. The last words of David.—"The last words which he spake by the inspiration of God."—Poole. The sweet psalmist.—David not only composed most of the Psalms, but also set them to music.

Ver. 2. The Spirit of the Lord spake by me, &c.—He here declares the inspiration of his psalms.

Ver. 3. He that ruleth over men must be just.—More literally, "He that ruleth in man is the just one."

Ver. 4. He shall be as the light of the morning.—The Messiah is supposed to be here intended, and assuming this, Bishop Sherlock says, "Taking the sun to be an image or character of the JUST ONE, the sense will be—'This sun shall be like the kind, gentle light of the morning free from clouds, and when the earth, refreshed by showers, is putting forth fresh verdure.'"

Ver. 5. Although my house, &c.—Dr. Grey's interpretation of this verse is as follows:—"Although the present situation of myself and family, and of the people of God, fall so much short of those glorious characters; yet I am fully assured that such a time will come, according to the covenant he hath renewed with me, and his promise since the world began."

Ver. 17. Is not this the blood?—Their blood might have been the price of the waters.

I. KINGS. "These two following Books contain the history of the kings of Israel and Judah, from the beginning of Solomon's reign down to the captivity of Babylon, for the space of near six hundred years; taking into the account the history of the two foregoing Books. It is highly probable that they were composed by Ezra, who extracted them out of the public records, which were kept of what passed in that nation; as we read of the Book of the Acts of Solomon, in this very Book, chap. xi. 41; and frequently of the Books of the kings of Israel and of the kings of Judah; and of the Book of Jehu, in which was written the Acts of Jehoshaphat, 2 Chro. xx. 34. And Isaiah we read wrote the acts of Uzziah, first and last, 2 Chro. xxvi. 22. Out of which, and such like Books, Ezra composed this brief history; in which there are several things that heathens themselves have taken notice of, as Huetius observes in his Demonstratio Evangelica, prop. 4, where he answers the trifling objections which some have made against the antiquity of these Books."—Bishop Patrick.

"The First Book of Kings contains the history of one hundred and nineteen years, from A.M. 2989, to A.M. 3108. It contains a great variety of interesting particulars, the chief of which are the following:—The death of David; the reign of Solomon; the building and dedication of the Temple; the building of Solomon's palace; an account of his great wisdom, his magnificence and his fall; the division of Judah and Israel under Rehoboam; the idolatry of the ten tribes over whom Jeroboam became king. It states how Judah, Benjamin, and Levi attached themselves to the house of David; how Rehoboam was attacked by Shishak, king of Egypt, who pillaged the Temple; how Baasha destroyed the house of Jeroboam, and seized on the government of Israel; how Jehu predicted the ruin of Baasha; how Ahab married the impious Jezebel, and persecuted the prophets of the Lord. It relates to the acts of Elijah; the destruction of the prophets of Baal; the cruel death of Naboth; the death of Ahab; the good reign of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah; and the wicked reign of Ahaziah, king of Israel, &c."—Dr. Adam Clarke. See likewise Calmet's Preface to the First and Second Books of Kings.

1 David, having given a charge to Solomon, 3 of religiousness, 5 of Joab, 7 of Barzillai, 8 of Shimei, 10 dieth. 12 Solomon succeedeth. 13 Adonijah, moving Bath-sheba to sue unto Solomon for Abishag, is put to death. 26 Abiathar, having his life given him, is deprived of the priesthood. 28 Joab fleeing to the horns of the altar is there slain. 35 Benaiah is put in Joab's room, and Zadok in Abiathar's. 36 Shimei, confined to Jerusalem, by occasion of going thence to Gath, is put to death.

NOW [a] the days of David drew nigh that he should die; and he charged Solomon his son, saying,

2 [b] I go the way of all the earth: [c] be thou strong therefore, and shew thyself a man;

3 And keep the charge of the LORD thy God, to walk in his ways, to keep his statutes, and his commandments, and his judgments, and his testimonies, as it is written in the law of Moses, that thou mayest [d] *prosper in all that thou doest, and whithersoever thou turnest thyself:

4 That the LORD may [e] continue his word which he spake concerning me, saying, [f] If thy children take heed to their way, to [g] walk before me in truth with all their heart and with all their soul, [h] there shall not † fail thee (said he) a man on the throne of Israel.

5 Moreover thou knowest also what Joab the son of Zeruiah [i] did to me, and what he did to the two captains of the hosts of Israel, unto [k] Abner the son of Ner, and unto [l] Amasa the son of Jether, whom he slew, and ‡ shed the blood of war in peace, and put the blood of war upon his girdle that was about his loins, and in his shoes that were on his feet.

6 Do therefore [m] according to thy wisdom, and let not his hoar head go down to the grave in peace.

7 But shew kindness unto the sons of [n] Barzillai the Gileadite, and let them be of those that [o] eat at thy table: for so [p] they came to me when I fled because of Absalom thy brother.

8 And, behold, thou hast with thee [q] Shimei the son of Gera, a Benjamite of Bahurim, which cursed me with a § grievous curse in the day when I went to Mahanaim: but [r] he came down to meet me at Jordan, and [s] I sware to him by the LORD, saying, I will not put thee to death with the sword.

9 Now therefore [t] hold him not guiltless: for thou art a wise man, and knowest what thou oughtest to do unto him; but his hoar head [u] bring thou down to the grave with blood.

10 So [x] David slept with his fathers, and was buried in [y] the city of David.

11 And the days that David [z] reigned over Israel were forty years: seven years reigned he in Hebron, and thirty and three years reigned he in Jerusalem.

12 ¶ [a] Then sat Solomon upon the throne of David his father; and his kingdom was established greatly.

13 ¶ And Adonijah the son of Haggith came to Bath-sheba the mother of Solomon. And she said, [b] Comest thou peaceably? And he said, Peaceably.

14 He said moreover, I have somewhat to say unto thee. And she said, Say on.

15 And he said, Thou knowest that the kingdom was [c] mine, and that all Israel set their faces on me, that I should reign: howbeit the kingdom is turned about, and is become my brother's: for [d] it was his from the LORD.

16 And now I ask one petition of thee, ‖ deny me not. And she said unto him, Say on.

17 And he said, Speak, I pray thee, unto Solomon the king, (for he will not say thee nay,) that he give me [e] Abishag the Shunammite to wife.

18 And Bath-sheba said, Well; I will speak for thee unto the king.

19 ¶ Bath-sheba therefore went unto king Solomon, to speak unto him for Adonijah. And the king rose up to meet her, and [f] bowed himself unto her, and sat down on his throne, and caused a seat to be set for the king's mother; [g] and she sat on his right hand.

20 Then she said, I desire one small petition of thee; I pray thee, say me not nay. And the king said unto her, Ask on, my mother: for I will not say thee nay.

21 And she said, Let Abishag the Shunammite be given to Adonijah thy brother to wife.

22 And king Solomon answered and said unto his mother, And why dost thou ask Abishag the Shunammite for Adonijah? ask for him the kingdom also; for he is mine elder brother; even for him, and for [h] Abiathar the priest, and for Joab the son of Zeruiah.

23 Then king Solomon sware by the LORD, saying, [i] God do so to me, and more also, if Adonijah have not spoken this word against his own life.

24 Now therefore, as the LORD liveth, which hath established me, and set me on the throne of David my father, and who hath made me an house, as he [k] promised, Adonijah shall be put to death this day.

25 And king Solomon sent by the hand of Benaiah the son of Jehoiada; and he fell upon him that he died.

26 ¶ And unto Abiathar the priest said the king, Get thee to [l] Anathoth, unto thine own fields; for thou art * worthy of death: but I will not at this time put thee to death, [m] because thou barest the ark of the Lord God before David my father, and because [n] thou hast been afflicted in all wherein my father was afflicted.

B. C. 1015.

27 So Solomon thrust out Abiathar from being priest unto the LORD; that he might [o] fulfil the word of the LORD, which he spake concerning the house of Eli in Shiloh.

28 ¶ Then tidings came to Joab: for Joab [p] had turned after Adonijah, though he turned not after Absalom. And Joab fled unto the tabernacle of the LORD, and [q] caught hold on the horns of the altar.

29 And it was told king Solomon that Joab was fled unto the tabernacle of the LORD; and, behold, he is by the altar. Then Solomon sent Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, saying, Go, fall upon him.

30 And Benaiah came to the tabernacle of the LORD, and said unto him, Thus saith the king, Come forth. And he said, Nay; but I will die here. And Benaiah brought the king word again, saying, Thus said Joab, and thus he answered me.

31 And the king said unto him, [r] Do as he hath said, and fall upon him, and bury him; [s] that thou mayest take away the innocent blood, which Joab shed, from me, and from the house of my father.

32 And the LORD [t] shall return his blood upon his own head, who fell upon two men more righteous [u] and better than he, and slew them with the sword, my father David not knowing thereof, to wit, [x] Abner the son of Ner, captain of the host of Israel, and [y] Amasa the son of Jether, captain of the host of Judah.

33 Their blood shall therefore return upon the head of Joab, and [z] upon the head of his seed for ever: [a] but upon David, and upon his seed, and upon his house, and upon his throne, shall there be peace for ever from the LORD.

34 So Benaiah the son of Jehoiada went up, and fell upon him, and slew him: and he was buried in his own house in the wilderness.

35 ¶ And the king put Benaiah the son of Jehoiada in his room over the host: and [b] Zadok the priest did the king put in the room of [c] Abiathar.

36 ¶ And the king sent and called for [d] Shimei, and said unto him, Build thee an house in Jerusalem, and dwell there, and go not forth thence any whither.

37 For it shall be, that on the day thou goest out, and passest over [e] the brook Kidron, thou shalt know for certain that thou shalt surely die: [f] thy blood shall be upon thine own head.

38 And Shimei said unto the king, The saying is good: as my lord the king hath said, so will thy servant do. And Shimei dwelt in Jerusalem many days.

39 And it came to pass at the end of three years, that two of the servants of Shimei ran away unto [g] Achish son of Maachah king of Gath. And they told Shimei, saying, Behold, thy servants be in Gath.

40 And Shimei arose, and saddled his ass, and went to Gath to Achish to seek his servants: and Shimei went, and brought his servants from Gath.

B. C. 1011.

41 And it was told Solomon that Shimei had gone from Jerusalem to Gath, and was come again.

42 And the king sent and called for Shimei, and said unto him, Did I not make thee to swear by the LORD, and protested unto thee, saying, Know for a certain, on the day thou goest out, and walkest abroad any whither, that thou shalt surely die? and thou saidst unto me, The word that I have heard is good.

43 Why then hast thou not kept the oath of the LORD, and the commandment that I have charged thee with?

44 The king said moreover to Shimei, Thou knowest [h] all the wickedness which thine heart is privy to, that thou didst to David my father: therefore the LORD shall [i] return thy wickedness upon thine own head;

45 And king Solomon shall be blessed, and [k] the throne of David shall be established before the LORD for ever.

46 So the king commanded Benaiah the son of Jehoiada; which went out, and fell upon him, that he died. And the [l] kingdom was established in the hand of Solomon.

AND [a] Solomon made affinity with Pharaoh king of Egypt, and took Pharaoh's daughter, and brought her into the [b] city of David, until he had made an end of building his [c] own house, and [d] the house of the LORD, and [e] the wall of Jerusalem round about.

2 [f] Only the people sacrificed in high places, because there was no house built unto the name of the LORD, until those days.

3 And Solomon [g] loved the LORD, [h] walking in the statutes of David his father: only he sacrificed and burnt incense in high places.

4 And [i] the king went to Gibeon to sacrifice there; [k] for that was the great high place: a thousand burnt offerings did Solomon offer upon that altar.

5 ¶ [l] In Gibeon the LORD appeared to Solomon [m] in a dream by night: and God said, Ask what I shall give thee.

6 [n] And Solomon said, Thou hast shewed unto thy servant David my father great * mercy, according as he [o] walked before thee in truth, and in righteousness, and in uprightness of heart with thee; and thou hast kept for him this great kindness, that thou [p] hast given him a son to sit on his throne, as it is this day.

7 And now, O LORD my God, thou hast made thy servant king instead of David my father: [q] and I am but a little child: I know not how [r] to go out or come in.

8 And thy servant is in the midst of thy people which thou [s] hast chosen, a great people, [t] that cannot be numbered nor counted for multitude.

9 [u] Give therefore thy servant an † understanding heart [x] to judge thy people, that I may [y] discern between good and bad: for who is able to judge this thy so great a people?

10 And the speech pleased the LORD, that Solomon had asked this thing.

11 And God said unto him, Because thou hast asked this thing, and hast [z] not asked for thyself ‡ long life; neither hast asked riches for thyself, nor hast asked the life of thine enemies; but hast asked for thyself understanding § to discern judgment;

12 [a] Behold, I have done according to thy words: [b] lo, I have given thee a wise and an understanding heart; so that there was none like thee before thee, neither after thee shall any arise like unto thee.

13 And I have also [c] given thee that which thou hast not asked, both [d] riches, and honour: so that there ‖ shall not be any among the kings like unto thee all thy days.

14 And if thou wilt walk in my ways, to keep my statutes and my commandments, [e] as thy father David did walk, then I will [f] lengthen thy days.

15 And Solomon [g] awoke: and, behold, it was a dream. And he came to Jerusalem, and stood before the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and offered up burnt offerings, and offered peace offerings, and [h] made a feast to all his servants.

16 ¶ Then came there two women, that were harlots, unto the king, and [i] stood before him.

17 And the one woman said, O my lord, I and this woman dwell in one house; and I was delivered of a child with her in the house.

18 And it came to pass the third day after that I was delivered, that this woman was delivered also: and we were together; there was no stranger with us in the house, save we two in the house.

19 And this woman's child died in the night; because she overlaid it.

20 And she arose at midnight, and took my son from beside me, while thine handmaid slept, and laid it in her bosom, and laid her dead child in my bosom.

21 And when I rose in the morning to give my child suck, behold, it was dead: but when I had considered it in the morning, behold, it was not my son, which I did bear.

22 And the other woman said, Nay; but the living is my son, and the dead is thy son. And this said, No; but the dead is thy son, and the living is my son. Thus they spake before the king.

23 Then said the king, The one saith, This is my son that liveth, and thy son is the dead: and the other saith, Nay; but thy son is the dead, and my son is the living.

24 And the king said, Bring me a sword. And they brought a sword before the king.

25 And the king said, Divide the living child in two, and give half to the one, and half to the other.

26 Then spake the woman whose the living child was unto the king, for [k] her bowels * yearned upon her son, and she said, O my lord, give her the living child, and in no wise slay it. But the other said, Let it be neither mine nor thine, but divide it.

27 Then the king answered and said, Give her the living child, and in no wise slay it: she is the mother thereof.

28 And all Israel heard of the judgment which the king had judged; and they feared the king: for they saw that the [l] wisdom of God was † in him, to do judgment.

31 For he was [d] wiser than all men; [e] than Ethan the Ezrahite, [f] and Heman, and Chalcol, and Darda, the sons of Mahol: and his fame was in all nations round about.

32 And [g] he spake three thousand proverbs: and his [h] songs were a thousand and five.

33 And he spake of trees, from the cedar tree that is in Lebanon even unto the hyssop that springeth out of the wall: he spake also of beasts, and of fowl, and of creeping things, and of fishes.

B. C. 1014 desire concerning timber of cedar, and concerning timber of fir.

9 My servants shall bring them down from Lebanon unto the sea: [i] and I will convey them by sea in floats unto the place that thou shalt [§] appoint me, and will cause them to be discharged there, and thou shalt receive them: and thou shalt accomplish my desire, [k] in giving food for my houshold.

10 So Hiram gave Solomon cedar trees and fir trees according to all his desire.

11 [l] And Solomon gave Hiram twenty thousand [‖] measures of wheat for food to his houshold, and twenty measures of pure oil: thus gave Solomon to Hiram year by year.

12 And the LORD gave Solomon wisdom, [m] as he promised him: and there was peace between Hiram and Solomon; and they two made a league together.

13 ¶ And king Solomon raised a * levy out of all Israel; and the levy was thirty thousand men.

14 And he sent them to Lebanon, ten thousand a month by courses: a month they were in Lebanon, and two months at home: and [n] Adoniram was over the levy.

15 [o] And Solomon had threescore and ten thousand that bare burdens, and fourscore thousand hewers in the mountains;

16 Beside the chief of Solomon's officers which were over the work, three thousand and three hundred, which ruled over the people that wrought in the work.

17 And the king commanded, and they brought great stones, costly stones, and [p] hewed stones, to lay the foundation of the house.

18 And Solomon's builders and Hiram's builders did hew them, and the † stonesquarers: so they prepared timber and stones to build the house.

CHAP. VI.

1 The building of Solomon's temple. 5 The chambers thereof. 11 God's promise unto it. 15 The ceiling and adorning of it. 23 The cherubims. 31 The doors. 36 The court. 37 The time of building it.

AND [q] it came to pass in the four hundred and eightieth year after the children of Israel were come out of the land of Egypt, in the fourth year of Solomon's reign over Israel, in the month Zif, which is the second month, that [b] he * began to build the house of the LORD.

2 And [c] the house which king Solomon built for the LORD, the length thereof was threescore cubits, and the breadth thereof twenty cubits, and the height thereof thirty cubits.

3 And the porch before the temple of the house, twenty cubits was the length thereof, according to the breadth of the house; and ten cubits was the breadth thereof before the house.

4 And for the house he made [d] † windows of narrow lights.

5 ¶ And ‡ against the wall of the house he built [e] § chambers round about, against the walls of the house round about, both of the temple [f] and of the oracle: and he made ‖ chambers round about:

6 The nethermost chamber was five cubits broad, and the middle was six cubits broad, and the third was seven cubits broad: for without in the wall of the house he made * narrowed rests round about, that the beams should not be fastened in the walls of the house.

7 And [g] the house, when it was in building, was built of stone made ready before it was brought thither: so that there was neither hammer nor ax nor any tool of iron heard in the house, while it was in building.

8 The door for the middle chamber was in the right † side of the house: and they went up with winding stairs into the middle chamber, and out of the middle into the third.

9 [h] So he built the house, and finished it; and covered the house ‡ with beams and boards of cedar.

10 And then he built chambers against all the house, five cubits high: and they rested on the house with timber of cedar.

11 ¶ And the word of the LORD came to Solomon, saying,

12 Concerning this house which thou art in building, [i] if thou wilt walk in my statutes, and execute my judgments, and keep all my commandments to walk in them; then will I perform my word with thee, [k] which I spake unto David thy father:

13 And [l] I will dwell among the children of Israel, and will not [m] forsake my people Israel.

14 [n] So Solomon built the house, and finished it.

15 And he built the walls of the house within with boards of cedar, § both the floor of the house, and the walls of the ceiling: and he covered them on the inside with wood, and covered the floor of the house with planks of fir.

16 And he built twenty cubits on the sides of the house, both the floor and the walls with boards of cedar: he even built them for it within, even for the oracle, even for the [o] most holy place.

17 And the house, that is, the temple before it, was forty cubits long.

18 And the cedar of the house within was carved with ‖ knops and * open flowers: all was cedar; there was no stone seen.

19 And the oracle he prepared in the house within, to set there the ark of the covenant of the LORD.

20 And the oracle in the forepart was twenty cubits in length, and twenty cubits in breadth, and twenty cubits in the height thereof: and he † overlaid it with pure gold; and so covered the altar which was of cedar.

21 So Solomon overlaid the house within

19 And the chapiters that were upon the top of the pillars were of lily work in the porch, four cubits.

20 And the chapiters upon the two pillars had pomegranates also above, over against the belly which was by the network: and the pomegranates were [i] two hundred in rows round about upon the other chapiter.

21 [k] And he set up the pillars in [l] the porch of the temple: and he set up the right pillar, and called the name thereof § Jachin: and he set up the left pillar, and called the name thereof ‖ Boaz.

22 And upon the top of the pillars was lily work: so was the work of the pillars finished.

23 ¶ And he made [m] a molten sea, ten cubits * from the one brim to the other: it was round all about, and his height was five cubits: and a line of thirty cubits did compass it round about.

24 And under the brim of it round about there were knops compassing it, ten in a cubit, [n] compassing the sea round about: the knops were cast in two rows, when it was cast.

25 It stood upon [o] twelve oxen, three looking toward the north, and three looking toward the west, and three looking toward the south, and three looking toward the east: and the sea was set above upon them, and all their hinder parts were inward.

26 And it was an hand breadth thick, and the brim thereof was wrought like the brim of a cup, with flowers of lilies: it contained [p] two thousand baths.

27 ¶ And he made ten bases of brass; four cubits was the length of one base, and four cubits the breadth thereof, and three cubits the height of it.

28 And the work of the bases was on this manner: they had borders, and the borders were between the ledges:

29 And on the borders that were between the ledges were lions, oxen, and cherubims: and upon the ledges there was a base above: and beneath the lions and oxen were certain additions made of thin work.

30 And every base had four brasen wheels, and plates of brass: and the four corners thereof had undersetters: under the laver were undersetters molten, at the side of every addition.

31 And the mouth of it within the chapiter and above was a cubit: but the mouth thereof was round after the work of the base, a cubit and an half: and also upon the mouth of it were gravings with their borders, foursquare, not round.

32 And under the borders were four wheels; and the axletrees of the wheels were † joined to the base: and the height of a wheel was a cubit and half a cubit. B. C. cir. 1005

33 And the work of the wheels was like the work of a chariot wheel: their axletrees, and their naves, and their felloes, and their spokes, were all molten.

34 And there were four undersetters to the four corners of one base: and the undersetters were of the very base itself.

35 And in the top of the base was there a round compass of half a cubit high: and on the top of the base the ledges thereof and the borders thereof were of the same.

36 For on the plates of the ledges thereof, and on the borders thereof, he graved cherubims, lions, and palm trees, according to the ‡ proportion of every one, and additions round about.

37 After this manner he made the ten bases: all of them had one casting, one measure, and one size.

38 ¶ Then [q] made he ten lavers of brass: one laver contained forty baths: and every laver was four cubits: and upon every one of the ten bases one laver.

39 And he put five bases on the right § side of the house, and five on the left side of the house: and he set the sea on the right side of the house eastward over against the south.

40 ¶ And ‖ Hiram made the lavers, and the shovels, and the basons. So Hiram made an end of doing all the work that he made king Solomon for the house of the LORD:

6 And the priests [h] brought in the ark of the covenant of the LORD unto [i] his place, into the oracle of the house, to the most holy place, even [k] under the wings of the cherubims.

7 For the cherubims spread forth their two wings over the place of the ark, and the cherubims covered the ark and the staves thereof above.

8 And they [l] drew out the staves, that the † ends of the staves were seen out in the ‡ holy place before the oracle, and they were not seen without: and there they are unto this day.

9 [m] There was nothing in the ark [n] save the two tables of stone, which Moses [o] put there at Horeb, § [p] when the LORD made a covenant with the children of Israel, when they came out of the land of Egypt.

10 And it came to pass, when the priests were come out of the holy place, that the cloud [q] filled the house of the LORD,

11 So that the priests could not stand to minister because of the cloud: for the glory of the LORD had filled the house of the LORD.

12 ¶ [r] Then spake Solomon, The LORD said that he would dwell [s] in the thick darkness.

13 [t] I have surely built thee an house to dwell in, [u] a settled place for thee to abide in for ever.

14 And the king turned his face about, and [x] blessed all the congregation of Israel: (and all the congregation of Israel stood;)

15 And he said, [y] Blessed be the LORD God of Israel, which [z] spake with his mouth unto David my father, and hath with his hand fulfilled it, saying,

16 [a] Since the day that I brought forth my people Israel out of Egypt, I chose no city out of all the tribes of Israel to build an house, that [b] my name might be therein; but I chose [c] David to be over my people Israel.

17 And [d] it was in the heart of David my father to build an house for the name of the LORD God of Israel.

18 [e] And the LORD said unto David my father, Whereas it was in thine heart to build an house unto my name, thou didst well that it was in thine heart.

19 Nevertheless [f] thou shalt not build the house; but thy son that shall come forth out of thy loins, he shall build the house unto my name.

20 And the LORD hath performed his word that he spake, and I am risen up in the room of David my father, and sit on the throne of Israel, [g] as the LORD promised, and have built an house for the name of the LORD God of Israel.

21 And I have set there a place for the ark, wherein is [h] the covenant of the LORD, which he made with our fathers, when he brought them out of the land of Egypt.

22 ¶ And Solomon stood before [i] the altar of the LORD in the presence of all the congregation of Israel, and [k] spread forth his hands toward heaven:

23 And he said, [l] LORD God of Israel, [m] there is no God like thee, in heaven above, or on earth beneath, [n] who keepest covenant and mercy with thy servants that [o] walk before thee with all their heart:

24 Who hast kept with thy servant David my father that thou promisedst him: thou spakest also with thy mouth, and hast fulfilled it with thine hand, as it is this day.

25 Therefore now, LORD God of Israel, keep with thy servant David my father that thou promisedst him, saying, [p] ‖ There shall not fail thee a man in my sight to sit on the throne of Israel; * so that thy children take heed to their way, that they walk before me as thou hast walked before me.

26 [q] And now, O God of Israel, let thy word, I pray thee, be verified, which thou spakest unto thy servant David my father.

earth? behold, the heaven and [a]heaven of heavens cannot contain thee; how much less this house that I have builded?

28 Yet have thou respect unto the prayer of thy servant, and to his supplication, O LORD my God, to hearken unto the cry and to the prayer, which thy servant prayeth before thee to day:

29 That thine eyes may be open toward this house night and day, even toward the place of which thou hast said, [c]My name shall be there: that thou mayest hearken unto the prayer which thy servant shall make [u]†toward this place.

30 [x]And hearken thou to the supplication of thy servant, and of thy people Israel, when they shall pray ‡toward this place: and hear thou in heaven thy dwelling place: and when thou hearest, forgive.

31 ¶ If any man trespass against his neighbour, § and [y]an oath be laid upon him to cause him to swear, and the oath come before thine altar in this house:

32 Then hear thou in heaven, and do, and judge thy servants, [z]condemning the wicked, to bring his way upon his head; and justifying the righteous, to give him according to his righteousness.

33 ¶ [a]When thy people Israel be smitten down before the enemy, because they have sinned against thee, and [b]shall turn again to thee, and confess thy name, and pray, and make supplication unto thee ‖ in this house:

34 Then hear thou in heaven, and forgive the sin of thy people Israel, and bring them again unto the land which thou gavest unto their fathers.

35 ¶ [c] When heaven is shut up, and there is no rain, because they have sinned against thee; if they pray toward this place, and confess thy name, and turn from their sin, when thou afflictest them:

36 Then hear thou in heaven, and forgive the sin of thy servants, and of thy people Israel, that thou [d]teach them [e]the good way wherein they should walk, and give rain upon thy land, which thou hast given to thy people for an inheritance.

37 ¶ [f]If there be in the land famine, if there be pestilence, blasting, mildew, locust, or if there be caterpiller; if their enemy besiege them in the land of their *cities; whatsoever plague, whatsoever sickness there be;

38 What prayer and supplication soever be made by any man, or by all thy people Israel, which shall know every man the plague of his own heart, and spread forth his hands toward this house:

39 Then hear thou in heaven thy dwelling place, and forgive, and do, and give to every man according to his ways, whose heart thou knowest; (for thou, even thou only, [g]knowest the hearts of all the children of men;)

40 [h]That they may fear thee all the days that they live in the land which thou gavest unto our fathers.

41 Moreover concerning a stranger, that is not of thy people Israel, but cometh out of a far country for thy name's sake;

42 (For they shall hear of thy great name, and of thy [i]strong hand, and of thy stretched out arm;) when he shall come and pray toward this house;

43 Hear thou in heaven thy dwelling place, and do according to all that the stranger calleth to thee for: [k]that all people of the earth may know thy name, to [l]fear thee, as do thy people Israel; and that they may know that †this house, which I have builded, is called by thy name.

44 ¶ If thy people go out to battle against their enemy, whithersoever thou shalt send them, and shall pray unto the LORD ‡toward the city which thou hast chosen, and toward the house that I have built for thy name:

45 Then hear thou in heaven their prayer and their supplication, and maintain their § cause.

46 If they sin against thee, ([m]for there is no man that sinneth not,) and thou be angry with them, and deliver them to the enemy, so that they carry them away captives [n]unto the land of the enemy, far or near;

47 [o] Yet if they shall ‖ bethink themselves in the land whither they were carried captives, and repent, and make supplication unto thee in the land of them that carried them captives, [p]saying, We have sinned, and have done perversely, we have committed wickedness;

48 And so [q]return unto thee with all their heart, and with all their soul, in the land of their enemies, which led them away captive, and [r]pray unto thee toward their land, which thou gavest unto their fathers, the city which thou hast chosen, and the house which I have built for thy name:

49 Then hear thou their prayer and their supplication in heaven thy dwelling place, and maintain their * cause,

50 And forgive thy people that have sinned against thee, and all their transgressions wherein they have transgressed against thee, and [s]give them compassion before them who carried them captive, that they may have compassion on them:

51 For [t]they be thy people, and thine inheritance, which thou broughtest forth out of Egypt, [u]from the midst of the furnace of iron:

52 That thine eyes may be open unto the supplication of thy servant, and unto the supplication of thy people Israel, to hearken unto them in all that they call for unto thee.

53 For thou didst separate them from among all the people of the earth, to be thine inheritance, [x]as thou spakest by the hand of Moses thy servant, when thou broughtest our fathers out of Egypt, O Lord GOD.

22 For the king had at sea a navy of [q] Tharshish with the navy of Hiram: once in three years came the navy of Tharshish, bringing gold, and silver, * ivory, and apes, and peacocks.

23 So [r] king Solomon exceeded all the kings of the earth for riches and for wisdom.

24 ¶ And all the earth † sought to Solomon, to hear his wisdom, which God had put in his heart.

25 And they brought every man his present, vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and garments, and armour, and spices, horses, and mules, a rate year by year.

26 ¶ [s] And Solomon [t] gathered together chariots and horsemen: and he had a thousand and four hundred chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen, whom he bestowed in the cities for chariots, and with the king at Jerusalem.

27 [u] And the king ‡ made silver to be in Jerusalem as stones, and cedars made he to be as the sycomore trees that are in the vale, for abundance.

4 Thy father made our [d] yoke grievous: now therefore make thou the grievous service of thy father, and his heavy yoke which he put upon us, lighter, and we will serve thee.

[d] 1 Sam. 8. 11.—18. ch. 4. 7.

5 And he said unto them, Depart ye for three days, then come again to me. And the people departed.

6 ¶ And king Rehoboam consulted with the old men, that stood before Solomon his father while he yet lived, and said, How do ye advise that I may answer this people?

7 And they spake unto him, saying, [e] If thou wilt be a servant unto this people this day, and wilt serve them, and answer them, and speak good words to them, then they will be thy servants for ever.

8 But he forsook the counsel of the old men, which they had given him, and consulted with the young men that were grown up with him, and which stood before him:

9 And he said unto them, What counsel give ye that we may answer this people, who have spoken to me, saying, Make the yoke which thy father did put upon us lighter?

10 And the young men that were grown up with him spake unto him, saying, Thus shalt thou speak unto this people that spake unto thee, saying, Thy father made our yoke heavy, but make thou it lighter unto us; thus shalt thou say unto them, My little finger shall be thicker than my father's loins.

11 And now whereas my father did lade you with a heavy yoke, I will add to your yoke: my father hath chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions.

12 ¶ So Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam the third day, as the king had appointed, saying, Come to me again the third day.

6 And the king answered and said unto the man of God, [e] Intreat now the face of the LORD thy God, and pray for me, that my hand may be restored me again. And the man of God besought † the LORD, and the king's hand was restored him again, and became as it was before.

7 And the king said unto the man of God, Come home with me, and refresh thyself, and [f] I will give thee a reward.

8 And the man of God said unto the king, [g] If thou wilt give me half thine house, I will not go in with thee, neither will I eat bread nor drink water in this place:

9 For so was it charged me by the word of the LORD, saying, [h] Eat no bread, nor drink water, nor turn again by the same way that thou camest.

10 So he went another way, and returned not by the way that he came to Beth-el.

11 ¶ Now there dwelt an old prophet in Beth-el; and his ‡ sons came and told him all the works that the man of God had done that day in Beth-el: the words which he had spoken unto the king, them they told also to their father.

12 And their father said unto them, What way went he? For his sons had seen what way the man of God went, which came from Judah.

13 And he said unto his sons, Saddle me the ass. So they saddled him the ass: and he rode thereon.

14 And went after the man of God, and found him sitting under an oak: and he said unto him, Art thou the man of God that camest from Judah? And he said, I am.

15 Then he said unto him, Come home with me, and eat bread.

16 And he said, [i] I may not return with thee, nor go in with thee: neither will I eat bread nor drink water with thee in this place:

17 For § it was said to me [k] by the word of the LORD, Thou shalt eat no bread nor drink water there, nor turn again to go by the way that thou camest.

18 He said unto him, I am a prophet also as thou art; and an angel spake unto me by the word of the LORD, saying, Bring him back with thee into thine house, that he may eat bread and drink water. But he lied unto him.

19 So he went back with him, and did eat bread in his house, and drank water.

20 ¶ And it came to pass, as they sat at the table, that the word of the LORD came unto the prophet that brought him back:

21 And he cried unto the man of God that came from Judah, saying, Thus saith the LORD, Forasmuch as thou hast disobeyed the mouth of the LORD, and hast not kept the commandment which the LORD thy God commanded thee,

22 But camest back, and hast eaten bread and drunk water in the [l] place, of the which the LORD did say to thee, Eat no bread, and drink no water; thy carcase shall not come unto the sepulchre of thy fathers.

23 ¶ And it came to pass, after he had eaten bread, and after he had drunk, that he saddled for him the ass, to wit, for the prophet whom he had brought back.

24 And when he was gone, [m] a lion met him by the way, and slew him: and his carcase was cast in the way, and the ass

[f] in that ye have forsaken the commandments of the LORD, and thou hast followed Baalim.

19 Now therefore send, and gather to me all Israel unto mount [g] Carmel, and the prophets of Baal four hundred and fifty, [h] and the prophets of the groves four hundred, which eat at Jezebel's table.

20 So Ahab sent unto all the children of Israel, and [i] gathered the prophets together unto mount Carmel.

21 And Elijah came unto all the people, and said, [k] How long halt ye between two || opinions? if the LORD be God, follow him: but if Baal, [l] then follow him. And the people answered him not a word.

22 Then said Elijah unto the people, [m] I, even I only, remain a prophet of the LORD; [n] but Baal's prophets are four hundred and fifty men.

23 Let them therefore give us two bullocks; and let them choose one bullock for themselves, and cut it in pieces, and lay it on wood, and put no fire under: and I will dress the other bullock, and lay it on wood, and put no fire under:

24 And call ye on the name of your gods, and I will call on the name of the LORD: and the God that [o] answereth by fire, let him be God. And all the people answered and said, [*] It is well spoken.

25 And Elijah said unto the prophets of Baal, Choose you one bullock for yourselves, and dress it first; for ye are many; and call on the name of your gods, but put no fire under.

26 And they took the bullock which was given them, and they dressed it, and called on the name of Baal from morning even until noon, saying, O Baal, † hear us. But there was [p] no voice, nor any that ‡ answered. And they § leaped upon the altar which was made.

27 And it came to pass at noon, that Elijah mocked them, and said, Cry || aloud: for he is a god; either [*] he is talking, or he † is pursuing, or he is in a journey, or peradventure he sleepeth, and must be awaked.

28 And they cried aloud, and [q] cut themselves after their manner with knives and lancets, till ‡ the blood gushed out upon them.

29 And it came to pass, when mid-day was past, [r] and they prophesied until the time of the § offering of the evening sacrifice, that there was [s] neither voice, nor any to answer, nor any || that regarded.

30 And Elijah said unto all the people, Come near unto me. And all the people came near unto him. [t] And he repaired the altar of the LORD that was broken down.

31 And Elijah took twelve stones, according to the number of the tribes of the sons of Jacob, unto whom the word of the LORD came, saying, [u] Israel shall be thy name:

32 And with the stones he built an altar [x] in the name of the LORD: and he made a trench about the altar, as great as would contain two measures of seed.

33 And he [y] put the wood in order, and cut the bullock in pieces, and laid him on the wood, and said, Fill four barrels with water, and [z] pour it on the burnt sacrifice, and on the wood.

34 And he said, Do it the second time. And they did it the second time. And he said, Do it the third time. And they did it the third time.

35 And the water [*] ran round about the altar; and he filled [a] the trench also with water.

36 And it came to pass at the time of the offering of the evening sacrifice, that Elijah the prophet came near, and said, LORD [b] God of Abraham, Isaac, and of Israel, [c] let it be known this day that thou art God in Israel, and that I am thy servant, and that [d] I have done all these things at thy word.

37 Hear me, O LORD, hear me, that this people may know that thou art the LORD God, and that thou hast turned their heart back again.

38 Then [e] the fire of the LORD fell, and consumed the burnt sacrifice, and the wood, and the stones, and the dust, and licked up the water that was in the trench.

39 And when all the people saw it, they fell on their faces: and they said, [f] The LORD, he is the God; the LORD, he is the God.

40 And Elijah said unto them, † [g] Take the prophets of Baal; let not one of them escape. And they took them: and Elijah brought them down to the brook Kishon, and [h] slew them there.

41 ¶ And Elijah said unto Ahab, Get thee up, eat and drink; for there is ‡ a sound of abundance of rain.

42 So Ahab went up to eat and to drink. And Elijah went up to the top of Carmel; [i] and he cast himself down upon the earth, and put his face between his knees,

43 And said to his servant, Go up now, look toward the sea. And he went up, and said, There is nothing. And he said, Go again seven times.

44 And it came to pass at the seventh time, that he said, Behold, there ariseth a little cloud out of the sea, like a man's hand. And he said, Go up, say unto Ahab, § Prepare thy chariot, and get thee down, that the rain stop thee not.

45 And it came to pass in the mean while, that the heaven was black with clouds and wind, and there was a great rain. And Ahab rode, and went to Jezreel.

CHAP. XX.

1 Ben-hadad, not content with Ahab's homage, besiegeth Samaria. 13 By the direction of a prophet, the Syrians are slain. 22 As the prophet forewarned Ahab, the Syrians, trusting in the valleys, come against him in Aphek. 28 By the word of the prophet, and God's judgment, the Syrians are smitten again. 31 The Syrians submitting themselves, Ahab sendeth Ben-hadad away with a covenant. 35 The prophet, under the parable of a prisoner, making Ahab to judge himself, denounceth God's judgment against him.

5 And Jehoshaphat said unto the king of Israel, Enquire, I pray thee, at the word of the LORD to day.

6 Then the king of Israel [d] gathered the prophets together, about four hundred men, and said unto them, Shall I go against Ramoth-gilead to battle, or shall I forbear? And they said, Go up; for the LORD shall deliver it into the hand of the king.

7 And [e] Jehoshaphat said, Is there not here a prophet of the LORD besides, that we might enquire of him?

I pray thee, be like the word of one of them, and speak that which is good.

14 And Micaiah said, As the LORD liveth, [f] what the LORD saith unto me, that will I speak.

15 ¶ So he came to the king. And the king said unto him, Micaiah, shall we go against Ramoth-gilead to battle, or shall we forbear? And he answered him, Go, and prosper: for the LORD shall deliver it into the hand of the king.

16 And the king said unto him, How many times shall I adjure thee that thou tell me nothing but that which is true in the name of the LORD?

17 And he said, I saw all Israel [g] scattered upon the hills, as sheep that have not a shepherd: and the LORD said, These have no master: let them return every man to his house in peace.

18 And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat, Did I not tell thee that he would prophesy no good concerning me, but evil?

19 And he said, Hear thou therefore the word of the LORD: [h] I saw the LORD sitting on his throne, [i] and all the host of heaven standing by him on his right hand and on his left.

20 And the LORD said, Who shall § persuade Ahab, that he may go up and fall at Ramoth-gilead? And one said on this manner, and another said on that manner.

21 And there came forth a spirit, and stood before the LORD, and said, I will persuade him.

22 And the LORD said unto him, Wherewith? And he said, I will go forth, and I will be a lying spirit in the mouth of all his prophets. And he said, [k] Thou shalt persuade him, and prevail also: go forth, and do so.

23 [l] Now therefore, behold, the LORD hath put a lying spirit in the mouth of all these thy prophets, and the LORD hath spoken evil concerning thee.

24 But Zedekiah the son of Chenaanah went near, and smote Micaiah on the cheek, and said, [m] Which way went the Spirit of the LORD from me to speak unto thee?

25 And Micaiah said, Behold, thou shalt see in that day, when thou shalt go ‖ into * an inner chamber to hide thyself.

26 And the king of Israel said, Take Micaiah, and carry him back unto Amon the governor of the city, and to Joash the king's son;

27 And say, Thus saith the king, Put this fellow in the prison, and feed him with bread of affliction and with water of affliction, until I come in peace.

28 And Micaiah said, If thou return at all in peace, [n] the LORD hath not spoken by me. And he said, Hearken, O people, every one of you.

29 So the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat the king of Judah went up to Ramoth-gilead.

30 And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat, † I will disguise myself, and enter into the battle; but put thou on thy robes. And the king of Israel [o] disguised himself, and went into the battle.

31 But the king of Syria commanded his thirty and two captains that had rule over his chariots, saying, Fight neither with small nor great, save only with the king of Israel.

32 And it came to pass, when the captains of the chariots saw Jehoshaphat, that they said, Surely it is the king of Israel. And they turned aside to fight against him: and Jehoshaphat [p] cried out.

33 And it came to pass, when the captains of the chariots perceived that it was not the king of Israel, that they turned back from pursuing him.

34 And a certain man drew a bow ‡ at a venture, and smote the king of Israel between the § joints of the harness: wherefore he said unto the driver of his chariot, Turn thine hand, and carry me out of the host; for I am ‖ wounded.

35 And the battle * increased that day: and the king was stayed up in his chariot against the Syrians, and died at even: and the blood ran out of the wound into the † midst of the chariot.

36 And there went a proclamation throughout the host about the going down of the sun, saying, Every man to his city, and every man to his own country.

37 ¶ So the king died, and ‡ was brought to Samaria; and they buried the king in Samaria.

38 And one washed the chariot in the pool of Samaria; and the dogs licked up his blood; and they washed his armour; according [q] unto the word of the LORD which he spake.

39 Now the rest of the acts of Ahab, and all that he did, and [r] the ivory house which he made, and all the cities that he built, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

40 So Ahab slept with his fathers; and Ahaziah his son reigned in his stead.

41 ¶ And [s] Jehoshaphat the son of Asa began to reign over Judah in the fourth year of Ahab king of Israel.

42 Jehoshaphat was thirty and five years old when he began to reign; and he reigned twenty and five years in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Azubah the daughter of Shilhi.

II. KINGS. "The history contained in this Book records the government and actions of many successive kings of Judah and Israel, for the space of about three hundred years: from the death of Jehoshaphat, in the year of the world 3115, to the destruction of Jerusalem and the Temple, 3416. The connection and occasional quarrels which subsisted between the two nations during part of this time, till the conquest of Samaria by Shalmaneser, seem to have induced the sacred writers to blend the two histories, as in some measure treating of the same people. Both nations appear to have departed with almost equal steps from the service of the true God; and in the history of each we are presented with a succession of wicked and idolatrous kings, till each had completed the measure of its iniquity. The Book concludes with the account of the second siege of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar, which happened about eighteen years after the first, when the city and temple were burnt; and soon after, the whole destruction was completed by the massacre or flight of the remnant which had been left amidst the ruined cities of Judea."—Dr. Gray.

30 And the mother of the child said, [m] As the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. And he arose, and followed her.

31 And Gehazi passed on before them, and laid the staff upon the face of the child; but there was neither voice, nor ‖ hearing. Wherefore he went again to meet him, and told him, saying, The child is [n] not awaked.

32 And when Elisha was come into the house, behold, the child was dead, and laid upon his bed.

33 He [o] went in therefore, and shut the door upon them twain, [p] and prayed unto the LORD.

34 And he went up, and lay upon the child, and put his mouth upon his mouth, and his eyes upon his eyes, and his hands upon his hands: and [q] he stretched himself upon the child; and the flesh of the child waxed warm.

35 Then he returned, and walked in the house * to and fro; and went up, [r] and stretched himself upon him: and [s] the child sneezed seven times, and the child opened his eyes.

36 And he called Gehazi, and said, Call this Shunammite. So he called her. And when she was come in unto him, he said, Take up thy son.

37 Then she went in, and fell at his feet, and bowed herself to the ground, and [t] took up her son, and went out.

38 ¶ And Elisha came again to [u] Gilgal: and there was a [x] dearth in the land; and the sons of the prophets were [y] sitting before him: and he said unto his servant, Set on the great pot, and seethe pottage for the sons of the prophets.

39 And one went out into the field to gather herbs, and found a wild vine, and gathered thereof wild gourds his lap full, and came and shred them into the pot of pottage: for they knew them not.

40 So they poured out for the men to eat. And it came to pass, as they were eating of the pottage, that they cried out, and said, O thou man of God, there is [z] death in the pot. And they could not eat thereof.

41 But he said, Then bring meal. And [a] he cast it into the pot; and he said, Pour out for the people, that they may eat. And there was no † harm in the pot.

42 ¶ And there came a man from [b] Baal-shalisha, [c] and brought the man of God bread of the firstfruits, twenty loaves of barley, and full ears of corn ‡ in the husk thereof. And he said, Give unto the people, that they may eat.

43 And his servitor said, [d] What, should I set this before an hundred men? He said again, Give the people, that they may eat: for thus saith the LORD, [e] They shall eat, and shall leave thereof.

44 So he set it before them, and they did eat, [f] and left thereof, according to the word of the LORD.

CHAP. V.

1 Naaman by the report of a captive maid, is sent to Samaria to be cured of his leprosy. 8 Elisha, sending him to Jordan, cureth him. 15 He refusing Naaman's gifts granteth him some of the earth. 20 Gehazi, abusing his master's name unto Naaman, is smitten with leprosy.

B. C. 894.

NOW [a] Naaman, captain of the host of the king of Syria, was [b] a great man * with his master, and † ‡ honourable, because by him the LORD had given § deliverance unto Syria: he was also a mighty man in valour, but he was a leper.

2 And the Syrians had gone out by companies, and had brought away captive out of the land of Israel a little maid; and she ‖ waited on Naaman's wife.

3 And she said unto her mistress, Would God my lord were * with the prophet that is in Samaria! for he would † recover him of his leprosy.

4 And one went in, and told his lord, saying, Thus and thus said the maid that is of the land of Israel.

5 And the king of Syria said, Go to, go, and I will send a letter unto the king of Israel. And he departed, and [c] took ‡ with him ten talents of silver, and six thousand pieces of gold, and ten changes of raiment.

6 And he brought the letter to the king of Israel, saying, Now when this letter is come unto thee, behold, I have therewith sent Naaman my servant to thee, that thou mayest recover him of his leprosy.

7 And it came to pass, when the king of Israel had read the letter, that he rent his clothes, and said, Am I [d] God, to kill and to make alive, that this man doth send unto me to recover a man of his leprosy? wherefore consider, I pray you, and see how he seeketh a quarrel against me.

8 ¶ And it was so, when Elisha the man of God had heard that the king of Israel had rent his clothes, that he sent to the king, saying, Wherefore hast thou rent thy clothes? let him come now to me, and he shall know that there is a prophet in Israel.

9 So Naaman came with his horses and with his chariot, and stood at the door of the house of Elisha.

10 And Elisha sent a messenger unto him, saying, Go and [e] wash in Jordan seven times, and thy flesh shall come again to thee, and thou shalt be clean.

11 But Naaman was wroth, and went away, and said, Behold, § ‖ I thought, He will surely come out to me, and stand, and call on the name of the LORD his God, and * strike his hand over the place, and recover the leper.

12 Are not † Abana and Pharpar, rivers of Damascus, better than all the waters of Israel? may I not wash in them, and be clean? So he turned and went away in a rage.

13 And his servants came near, and spake unto him, and said, My father, if the prophet had bid thee do some great thing, wouldest thou not have done it? how much rather then, when he saith to thee, Wash, and be clean?

14 Then went he down, and dipped himself seven times in Jordan, according to the saying of the man of God: and [f] his flesh

12 And Hazael said, Why weepeth my lord? And he answered, Because I know [k] the evil that thou wilt do unto the children of Israel: their strong holds wilt thou set on fire, and their young men wilt thou slay with the sword, and [l] wilt dash their children, and rip up their women with child.

14 So he departed from Elisha, and came to his master; who said to him, What said Elisha to thee? And he answered, He told me that thou shouldest surely recover.

17 [p] Thirty and two years old was he when he began to reign; and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem.

18 And he walked in the way of the kings of Israel, as did the house of Ahab: for [q] the daughter of Ahab was his wife: and he did evil in the sight of the LORD.

19 Yet the LORD would not destroy Judah for David his servant's sake, [r] as he promised him to give him alway a ‖ light, and to his children.

20 ¶ In his days [s] Edom revolted from under the hand of Judah, [t] and made a king over themselves.

places in all their cities, [h] from the tower of the watchmen to the fenced city.

10 [i] And they set them up ‡ images and [k] groves [l] in every high hill, and under every green tree:

11 And there they burnt incense in all the high places, as did the heathen whom the LORD carried away before them; and wrought wicked things to provoke the LORD to anger:

12 For they served idols, [m] whereof the LORD had said unto them, [n] Ye shall not do this thing.

13 Yet the LORD testified against Israel, and against Judah, § by all the prophets, and by all [o] the seers, saying, [p] Turn ye from your evil ways, and keep my commandments and my statutes, according to all the law which I commanded your fathers, and which I sent to you by my servants the prophets.

14 Notwithstanding they would not hear, but [q] hardened their necks, like to the neck of their fathers, that did not believe in the LORD their God.

15 And they rejected his statutes, [r] and his covenant that he made with their fathers, and his testimonies which he testified against them; and they followed [s] vanity, and [t] became vain, and went after the heathen that were round about them, concerning whom the LORD had charged them, that they should [u] not do like them.

16 And they left all the commandments of the LORD their God, and [x] made them molten images, even two calves, [y] and made a grove, and worshipped all the host of heaven, [z] and served Baal.

17 [a] And they caused their sons and their daughters to pass through the fire, and [b] used divination and enchantments, and [c] sold themselves to do evil in the sight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger.

18 Therefore the LORD was very angry with Israel, and removed them out of his sight: there was none left [d] but the tribe of Judah only.

19 Also [e] Judah kept not the commandments of the LORD their God, but walked in the statutes of Israel which they made.

20 And the LORD rejected all the seed of Israel, and afflicted them, and [f] delivered them into the hand of spoilers, until he had cast them out of his sight.

21 For [g] he rent Israel from the house of David; and [h] they made Jeroboam the son of Nebat king: and Jeroboam drave Israel from following the LORD, and made them sin a great sin.

22 For the children of Israel walked in all the sins of Jeroboam which he did; they departed not from them;

23 Until the LORD removed Israel out of his sight, [i] as he had said by all his servants the prophets. [k] So was Israel carried away out of their own land to Assyria unto this day.

24 ¶ [l] And the king of Assyria brought men [m] from Babylon, and from Cuthah, and from [n] Ava, and from Hamath, and from Sepharvaim, and placed them in the cities of Samaria instead of the children of Israel: and they possessed Samaria, and dwelt in the cities thereof.

25 And so it was at the beginning of their dwelling there, that they feared not the LORD: therefore the LORD sent lions among them, which slew some of them.

26 Wherefore they spake to the king of Assyria, saying, The nations which thou hast removed, and placed in the cities of Samaria, know not the manner of the God of the land: therefore he hath sent lions among them, and, behold, they slay them, because they know not the manner of the God of the land.

27 Then the king of Assyria commanded, saying, Carry thither one of the priests whom ye brought from thence; and let them go and dwell there, and let him teach them the manner of the God of the land.

28 Then one of the priests whom they had carried away from Samaria came and dwelt in Beth-el, and taught them how they should fear the LORD.

29 Howbeit every nation made gods of their own, and put them in the houses of the high places which the Samaritans had made, every nation in their cities wherein they dwelt.

30 And the men of [o] Babylon made Succoth-benoth, and the men of Cuth made Nergal, and the men of Hamath made Ashima, 31 [p] And the Avites made Nibhaz and Tartak, and the Sepharvites [q] burnt their children in fire to Adrammelech and Anammelech, the gods of Sepharvaim.

32 So they feared the LORD, [r] and made unto themselves of the lowest of them priests of the high places, which sacrificed for them in the houses of the high places.

33 [s] They feared the LORD, and served their own gods, after the manner of the nations || whom they carried away from thence.

34 Unto this day they do after the former manners: they fear not the LORD, neither do they after their statutes, or after their ordinances, or after the law and commandment which the LORD commanded the children of Jacob, [t] whom he named Israel;

35 With whom the LORD had made a covenant, and charged them, saying, [u] Ye shall not fear other gods, nor [x] bow yourselves to them, nor serve them, nor sacrifice to them:

36 But the LORD, who brought you up

Ver. 30. The men of Babylon made Succoth-benoth.—The latter words signify, "The tabernacles of the young women," and it is supposed that these were the places where the young women exposed themselves to prostitution in honour of a Babylonish goddess, called Mylitta. Herodotus gives a particular account of these abominable practices, which there is reason to conclude from this passage the Babylonians introduced into Judæa.—Respecting Nergal, Ashima, &c., many conjectures have been formed, but none conclusive. 4 [c] It may be the LORD thy God will hear all the words of Rab-shakeh, [d] whom the king of Assyria his master hath sent to reproach the living God; and will [e] reprove the words which the LORD thy God hath heard: wherefore lift up thy prayer for the remnant that are † left.

fire: for they were no gods, but [x] the work of men's hands, wood and stone: therefore they have destroyed them

19 Now therefore, O LORD our God, I beseech thee, save thou us out of his hand, [y] that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that thou art the LORD God, even thou only.

20 ¶ Then Isaiah the son of Amoz sent to Hezekiah, saying, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, [z] That which thou hast prayed to me against Sennacherib king of Asayria [a] I have heard.

21 This is the word that the LORD hath spoken concerning him; The virgin [b] the daughter of Zion hath despised thee, and laughed thee to scorn; the daughter of Jerusalem [c] hath shaken her head at thee.

22 Whom hast thou reproached and blasphemed? and against whom hast thou exalted thy voice, and lifted up thine eyes on high? even against [d] the Holy One of Israel.

23 § [e] By thy messengers thou hast reproached the LORD, and hast said, [f] With the multitude of my chariots I am come up to the height of the mountains, to the sides of Lebanon, and will cut down ‖ the tall cedar trees thereof, and the choice fir trees thereof: and I will enter into the lodgings of his borders, and into * the forest of his Carmel.

24 I have digged and drunk strange waters, and with the sole of my feet have I dried up all the rivers of † besieged places.

25 ‡ Hast thou not heard long ago how § I have done it, and of ancient times that I have formed it? now have I brought it to pass, that [h] thou shouldest be to lay waste fenced cities into ruinous heaps.

26 Therefore their inhabitants were § of small power, they were dismayed and confounded; they were as the grass of the field, and as the green herb, as [i] the grass on the house tops, and as corn blasted before it be grown up.

27 But [k] I know thy ‖ abode, and thy going out, and thy coming in, and thy rage against me.

28 Because thy rage against me and thy tumult is come up into mine ears, therefore [l] I will put my hook in thy nose, and my bridle in thy lips, and I will turn thee back [m] by the way by which thou camest.

29 And this shall be [n] a sign unto thee, Ye shall eat this year such things as grow of themselves, and in the second year that which springeth of the same; and in the third year sow ye, and reap, and plant vineyards, and eat the fruits thereof.

30 [o] And * the remnant that is escaped of the house of Judah shall yet again take root downward, and bear fruit upward.

31 For out of Jerusalem shall go forth a remnant, and † they that escape out of mount Zion: [p] the zeal of the LORD of hosts shall do this.

32 Therefore thus saith the LORD concerning the king of Assyria, He shall not come into this city, nor shoot an arrow there, nor come before it with shield, nor cast a bank against it.

33 By the way that he came, by the same shall he return, and shall not come into this city, saith the LORD.

34 For [q] I will defend this city, to save it, for mine own sake, and [r] for my servant David's sake.

35 ¶ And [s] it came to pass that night, that the angel of the LORD went out, and smote in the camp of the Assyrians an hundred fourscore and five thousand: and when they arose early in the morning, behold, they were all dead corpses.

36 So Sennacherib king of Assyria departed, and went and returned, and dwelt at [t] Nineveh.

37 And it came to pass, as he was worshipping in the house of Nisroch his god, that [u] Adrammelech and Sharezer [x] his sons [y] smote him with the sword: and they escaped into the land of ‡ Armenia. And [z] Esarhaddon his son reigned in his stead.

IN [a] those days was Hezekiah sick unto death. And the prophet Isaiah the son of Amoz came to him, and said unto him, Thus saith the LORD, * Set thine house in order; for thou shalt die, and not live.

2 Then he turned his face to the wall, and prayed unto the LORD, saying,

6 And I will add unto thy days fifteen years; and I will deliver thee and this city out of the hand of the king of Assyria; and [g] I will defend this city for mine own sake, and for my servant David's sake.

7 And [h] Isaiah said, Take a lump of figs. And they took and laid it on the boil, and he recovered.

9 And Isaiah said, [k]This sign shalt thou have of the LORD, that the LORD will do the thing that he hath spoken: shall the shadow go forward ten degrees, or go back ten degrees?

10 And Hezekiah answered, It is a light thing for the shadow to go down ten degrees: nay, but let the shadow return backward ten degrees.

11 And Isaiah the prophet cried unto the LORD: and [l]he brought the shadow ten degrees backward, by which it had gone down in the § dial of Ahaz.

12 ¶ [m]At that time ‖ Berodach-baladan, the son of Baladan, king of Babylon, sent letters and a present unto Hezekiah: for he had heard that Hezekiah had been sick.

13 And [n]Hezekiah hearkened unto them, and shewed them all the house of his * precious things, the silver, and the gold, and the spices, and the precious ointment, and all the house of his †‡ armour, and all that was found in his treasures: there was nothing in his house, nor in all his dominion, that Hezekiah shewed them not.

14 ¶ Then came Isaiah the prophet unto king Hezekiah, and said unto him, What said these men? and from whence came they unto thee? And Hezekiah said, They are come from a far country, even from Babylon.

15 And he said, What have they seen in thine house? and Hezekiah answered, [o]All the things that are in mine house have they seen: there is nothing among my treasures that I have not shewed them.

16 And Isaiah said unto Hezekiah, Hear the word of the LORD.

17 Behold, the days come, that all that is in thine house, and that which thy fathers have laid up in store unto this day, [p]shall be carried into Babylon: nothing shall be left, saith the LORD.

18 And of thy sons that shall issue from thee, which thou shalt beget, [q]shall they take away; § and they shall be eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon.

19 Then said Hezekiah unto Isaiah, [r]Good is the word of the LORD which thou hast spoken. And he said, ‖ Is it not good, if peace and truth be in my days?

20 ¶ [s]And the rest of the acts of Hezekiah, and all his might, and how he [t]made a pool, and a conduit, and [u]brought water into the city, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

21 And [x]Hezekiah slept with his fathers: and Manasseh his son reigned in his stead.

MANASSEH [a]was twelve years old when he began to reign, and reigned fifty and five years in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Hephzi-bah.

B. C. cir. 698.

2 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, [b]after the abominations of the heathen, whom the LORD cast out before the children of Israel.

3 For he built up again the high places [c]which Hezekiah his father had destroyed; and he reared up altars for Baal, and made a grove, [d]as did Ahab king of Israel; and [e]worshipped all the host of heaven, and served them.

4 And [f]he built altars in the house of the LORD, of which the LORD said, [g]In Jerusalem will I put my name.

5 And he built altars for all the host of heaven in the two courts of the house of the LORD.

6 [h]And he made his son pass through the fire, and observed [i]times, and used enchantments, and dealt with familiar spirits and wizards: he wrought much wickedness in the sight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger.

7 And he set a graven image of the grove that he had made in the house, of which the LORD said to David, and to Solomon his son, [k]In this house, and in Jerusalem, which I have chosen out of all tribes of Israel, will I put my name for ever:

8 [l]Neither will I make the feet of Israel move any more out of the land which I gave their fathers; only if they will observe to do according to all that I have commanded them, and according to all the law that my servant Moses commanded them.

9 But they hearkened not: and Manasseh [m]seduced them to do more evil than did the nations whom the LORD destroyed before the children of Israel.

10 ¶ And the LORD spake by his servants the prophets, saying,

11 [n]Because Manasseh king of Judah hath done these abominations, [o]and hath done wickedly above all that the Amorites did, which were before him, and [p]hath made Judah also to sin with his idols:

12 Therefore thus saith the LORD God of Israel, Behold, I am bringing such evil upon Jerusalem and Judah, that whosoever heareth of it, both [q]his ears shall tingle.

13 And I will stretch over Jerusalem [r]the line of Samaria, and the plummet of the house of Ahab: and I will wipe Jerusalem as a man wipeth a dish * wiping it, and turning it upside down.

14 And I will forsake the remnant of mine inheritance, and deliver them into the hand of their enemies; and they shall become a prey and a spoil to all their enemies;

15 Because they have done that which was evil in my sight, and have provoked me to anger, since the day their fathers came forth out of Egypt, even unto this day.

6 [f] So Jehoiakim slept with his fathers: and Jehoiachin his son reigned in his stead.

I. CHRONICLES. "The ancient Hebrews made but one Book of the Chronicles, which they called Debri iamim—'the words of the days,'—that is, diaries or journals; and they supposed those Books to have been taken from the ancient Chronicles of the kings of Judah and Israel, which are so often referred to in these and the Books of Kings. The LXX entitle them 'the Books of that which is omitted;' hereby signifying that this work is a kind of supplement to the other Books of Scripture; and, indeed, we may find many particulars here which are omitted elsewhere. The writer of these Books is not well known. They are generally, says Mr. Locke, attributed to Ezra, who wrote them after the return from captivity, assisted by the prophets Haggai and Zechariah. Compare the last verses of the second Book of Chronicles with the beginning of Ezra. The Books of the Chronicles are so different in names, genealogies and other things, from the other Books of the Bibles, continues Mr. Locke, that very few Jews have ventured to comment upon them. The design of the author was certainly not to write a regular history, but a kind of supplement to the other Books. It is remarkable that he sometimes conceals the dishonour of the saints of God. He mentions not the fact of David and Uriah, nor the idolatry of Solomon; 2 Sam. xxiv. reckons four battles, 1 Chron. xx. but three. That wherein David came off with dishonour is omitted—the encounter of David and Ishbi-benob. St. Jerom, speaking of these Books, says it is a folly to pretend to have a true idea of the sacred writings without them; because in almost every chapter we meet with anecdotes omitted in the Books of Kings, and a great variety of circumstances related in the gospel illustrated and explained. The first Book contains a kind of recapitulation of the sacred history, by genealogies, from the beginning of the world to the death of David, in the year of the world 2299. And the second contains the history of the kings of Judah, and of those of Israel, in part, from the beginning of the reign of Solomon alone to the return from captivity in 3468. Speaking of the difference of names, &c., found in these Books, Calmet remarks very judiciously, that it is not extraordinary that Books which have passed through so many hands, for so many years, should have suffered some alteration in dates and numbers. In copies of Books so ancient, and written in a language so little known, we may certainly wonder rather that there are so few mistakes, than that there are any."—See Calmet's Preface and Le Clerc's Sentimens de Quelques Théologiens, &c.

CHAP. II.

1 The sons of Israel. 3 The posterity of Judah by Tamar. 13 The children of Jesse. 18 The posterity of Caleb the son of Hezron. 21 Hezron's posterity by the daughter of Machir. 25 Jerahmeel's posterity. 34 Sheshan's posterity. 42 Another branch of Caleb's posterity. 50 The posterity of Caleb the son of Hur.

THESE are the sons of * Israel; [a] Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah, Issachar, and Zebulun,

2 Dan, Joseph, and Benjamin, Naphtali, Gad, and Asher.

3 ¶ The sons of [b] Judah; Er, and Onan, and Shelah: which three were born unto him of the daughter of [c] Shua the Canaanitess. And [d] Er, the firstborn of Judah, was evil in the sight of the LORD; and he slew him.

4 And [e] Tamar his daughter in law bare him Pharez and Zerah. All the sons of Judah were five.

5 The sons of [f] Pharez; Hezron, and Hamul.

6 And the sons of Zerah; † Zimri, [g] and Ethan, and Heman, and Calcol, and ‡ Dara: five of them in all.

7 And the sons of [h] Carmi; § Achar, the troubler of Israel, who transgressed in the thing [i] accursed.

8 And the sons of Ethan; Azariah.

9 The sons also of Hezron, that were born unto him; Jerahmeel, and ‖ Ram, and * Chelubai.

10 And Ram [k] begat Amminadab; and Amminadab begat Nahshon, [l] prince of the children of Judah;

11 And Nahshon begat † Salma, and Salma begat Boaz,

12 And Boaz begat Obed, and Obed begat Jesse,

13 ¶ [m] And Jesse begat his firstborn Eliab, and Abinadab the second, and ‡ Shimma the third,

14 Nethaneel the fourth, Raddai the fifth,

15 Ozem the sixth, David the seventh:

16 Whose sisters were Zeruiah, and Abigail. [n] And the sons of Zeruiah; Abishai, and Joab, and Asahel, three.

17 And [o] Abigail bare Amasa: and the father of Amasa was § Jether the Ishmeelite.

18 ¶ And Caleb the son of Hezron begat children of Azubah his wife, and of Jerioth: her sons are these; Jesher, and Shobab, and Ardon.

19 And when Azubah was dead, Caleb took unto him [p] Ephrath, which bare him Hur.

20 And Hur begat Uri, and Uri begat [q] Bezaleel.

21 ¶ And afterward Hezron went in to the daughter of [r] Machir the father of Gilead, whom he ‖ married when he was threescore years old; and she bare him Segub.

22 And Segub begat Jair, who had three and twenty cities in the land of Gilead.

23 [s] And he took Geshur, and Aram, with the towns of Jair, from them, with Kenath, and the towns thereof, even threescore cities. All these belonged to the sons of Machir the father of Gilead.

B. C. cir. 1471.

24 And after that Hezron was dead in Caleb-ephratah, then Abiah Hezron's wife bare him [t] Ashur the father of Tekoa.

25 ¶ And the sons of Jerahmeel the firstborn of Hezron were, Ram the firstborn, and Bunah, and Oren, and Ozem, and Ahijah.

26 Jerahmeel had also another wife, whose name was Atarah; she was the mother of Onam.

27 And the sons of Ram the firstborn of Jerahmeel were, Maaz, and Jamin, and Eker.

28 And the sons of Onam were, Shammai, and Jada. And the sons of Shammai; Nadab, and Abishur.

29 And the name of the wife of Abishur was Abihail, and she bare him Ahban and Molid.

30 And the sons of Nadab; Seled, and Appaim: but Seled died without children.

31 And the sons of Appaim; Ishi. And the sons of Ishi; Sheshan. And [u] the children of Sheshan; Ahlai.

32 And the sons of Jada the brother of Shammai; Jether, and Jonathan: and Jether died without children.

33 And the sons of Jonathan; Peleth, and Zaza. These were the sons of Jerahmeel.

34 ¶ Now Sheshan had no sons, but daughters. And Sheshan had a servant, an Egyptian, whose name was Jarha.

35 And Sheshan gave his daughter to Jarha his servant to wife; and she bare him Attai.

36 And Attai begat Nathan, and Nathan begat [x] Zabad,

37 And Zabad begat Ephlal, and Ephlal begat Obed.

38 And Obed begat Jehu, and Jehu begat Azariah,

39 And Azariah begat Helez, and Helez begat Eleasah,

40 And Eleasah begat Sisamai, and Sisamai begat Shallum,

41 And Shallum begat Jekamiah, and Jekamiah begat Elishama.

42 ¶ Now the sons of Caleb the brother of Jerahmeel were, Mesha his firstborn, which was the father of Ziph; and the sons of Mareshah the father of Hebron.

43 And the sons of Hebron; Korah, and Tappuah, and Rekem, and Shema.

44 And Shema begat Raham, the father of Jorkoam: and Rekem begat Shammai.

45 And the son of Shammai was Maon: and Maon was the father of Beth-zur.

46 And Ephah, Caleb's concubine, bare Haran, and Moza, and Gazez: and Haran begat Gazez.

47 And the sons of Jahdai; Regem, and Jotham, and Gesham, and Pelet, and Ephah, and Shaaph.

48 Maachah, Caleb's concubine, bare Sheber, and Tirhanah.

Still the dignity and pre-eminence was allotted to the famous tribe of Judah. In this tribe was to be seen the long series of princes and rulers, and out of this was promised the great at of all princes, the Messiah. 7 And his brethren by their families, [g] when the genealogy of their generations was reckoned, were the chief, Jeiel, and Zechariah,

8 And Bela the son of Azaz, the son of ‡ Shema, the son of Joel, who dwelt in [h] Aroer, even unto Nebo and Baal-meon:

9 And eastward he inhabited unto the entering in of the wilderness from the river Euphrates: because their cattle were multiplied [i] in the land of Gilead.

10 And in the days of Saul they made war [k] with the Hagarites, who fell by their hand: and they dwelt in their tents § throughout all the east land of Gilead.

11 ¶ And the children of Gad dwelt over against them, in the land of [l] Bashan unto Salcah:

12 Joel the chief, and Shapham the next, and Jaanai, and Shaphat in Bashan.

13 And their brethren of the house of their fathers were, Michael, and Meshullam, and Sheba, and Jorai, and Jachan, and Zia, and Heber, seven.

14 These are the children of Abihail the son of Huri, the son of Jaroah, the son of Gilead, the son of Michael, the son of Jeshishai, the son of Jahdo, the son of Buz;

15 Ahi the son of Abdiel, the son of Guni, chief of the house of their fathers.

16 And they dwelt in Gilead in Bashan, and in her towns, and in all the suburbs of [m] Sharon, upon ‖ their borders.

17 All these were reckoned by genealogies in the days of [n] Jotham king of Judah, and in the days of [o] Jeroboam king of Israel.

18 ¶ The sons of Reuben, and the Gadites, and half the tribe of Manasseh, * of valiant men, men able to bear buckler and sword, and to shoot with bow, and skilful in war, were four and forty thousand seven hundred and threescore, that went out to the war.

19 And they made war with the Hagarites, with [p] Jetur, and Nephish, and Nodab.

20 And [q] they were helped against them, and the Hagarites were delivered into their hand, and all that were with them: for they cried to God in the battle, and he was intreated of them; because they [r] put their trust in him.

21 And they †took away their cattle; of their camels fifty thousand, and of sheep two hundred and fifty thousand, and of asses two thousand, and of ‡ men an hundred thousand.

22 For there fell down many slain, because the war was of God. And they dwelt in their steads until [s] the captivity.

23 ¶ And the children of the half tribe of Manasseh dwelt in the land: they increased from Bashan unto Baal-hermon and Senir, and unto mount Hermon.

24 And these were the heads of the house of their fathers, even Epher, and Ishi, and Eliel, and Azriel, and Jeremiah, and Hodaviah, and Jahdiel, mighty men of valour, § famous men, and heads of the house of their fathers.

25 ¶ And they transgressed against the God of their fathers, and went a [t] whoring after the gods of the people of the land, whom God destroyed before them.

5 And when his armourbearer saw that Saul was dead, he fell likewise on the sword, and died.

6 So Saul died, and his three sons, and all his house died together.

7 And when all the men of Israel that were in the valley saw that they fled, and that Saul and his sons were dead, then they forsook their cities, and fled: and the Philistines came and dwelt in them.

8 ¶ And it came to pass on the morrow, when the Philistines came to strip the slain, that they found Saul and his sons fallen in mount Gilboa.

9 And when they had stripped him, they took his head, and his armour, and sent into the land of the Philistines round about, to carry tidings unto their idols, and to the people.

12 And after him was Eleazar the son of Dodo, the Ahohite, who was one of the three mighties.

13 He was with David at ‖ Pas-dammim, and there the Philistines were gathered together to battle, where was a parcel of ground full of barley; and the people fled from before the Philistines.

14 And they * set themselves in the midst of that parcel, and delivered it, and slew the Philistines; and the LORD saved them by a great † deliverance.

15 ¶ Now ‡ three of the thirty captains [l] went down to the rock to David, into the cave of Adullam; and the host of the Philistines encamped [k] in the valley of Rephaim.

16 And David was then in the hold, and the Philistines' garrison was then at Bethlehem.

17 And David longed, and said, Oh that one would give me drink of the water of the well of Beth-lehem, that is at the gate!

18 And the three brake through the host of the Philistines, and drew water out of the well of Beth-lehem, that was by the gate, and took it, and brought it to David: but David would not drink of it, but poured it out to the LORD,

19 And said, My God forbid it me, that I should do this thing: shall I drink the blood of these men § that have put their lives in jeopardy? for with the jeopardy of their lives they brought it. Therefore he would not drink it. These things did these three mightiest.

20 ¶ [l] And Abishai the brother of Joab, he was chief of the three: for lifting up his spear against three hundred, he slew them, and had a name among the three.

21 [m] Of the three, he was more honourable than the two; for he was their captain: howbeit he attained not to the first three.

22 Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, the son of a valiant man of Kabzeel, ‖ who had done many acts; [n] he slew two lionlike men of Moab: also he went down and slew a lion in a pit in a snowy day.

AND David consulted with the captains of thousands and hundreds, and with every leader.

2 And David said unto all the congregation of Israel, If it seem good unto you, and that it be of the LORD our God, * let us send abroad unto our brethren every where, that are [a] left in all the land of Israel, and with them also to the priests and Levites which are † in their cities and suburbs, that they may gather themselves unto us:

3 And let us ‡ bring again the ark of our God to us: [b] for we enquired not at it in the days of Saul.

4 And all the congregation said that they would do so: for the thing was right in the eyes of all the people.

5 So [c] David gathered all Israel together, from [d] Shihor of Egypt even unto the entering of Hemath, to bring the ark of God [e] from Kirjath-jearim.

6 And David went up, and all Israel, to [f] Baalah, that is, to Kirjath-jearim, which belonged to Judah, to bring up thence the ark of God the LORD, [g] that dwelleth between the cherubims, whose name is called on it.

7 And they § carried the ark of God [h] in a new cart [i] out of the house of Abinadab: and Uzza and Ahio drave the cart.

8 [k] And David and all Israel played before God with all their might, and with ‖ singing, and with harps, and with psalteries, and with timbrels, and with cymbals, and with trumpets.

9 ¶ And when they came unto the threshingfloor of * Chidon, Uzza put forth his hand to hold the ark; for the oxen † stumbled.

10 And the anger of the LORD was kindled against Uzza, and he smote him, [l] because he put his hand to the ark: and there he [m] died before God.

11 And David was displeased, because the LORD had made a breach upon Uzza: wherefore that place is called ‡ Perez-uzza to this day.

12 And David was afraid of God that day, saying, How shall I bring the ark of God home to me?

13 So David § brought not the ark home to himself to the city of David, but carried it aside into the house of Obed-edom the Gittite.

14 [n] And the ark of God remained with the family of Obed-edom in his house three months. And the LORD blessed [o] the house of Obed-edom, and all that he had.

8 ¶ And when the Philistines heard that [c] David was anointed king over all Israel, all the Philistines went up to seek David. And David heard of it, and went out against them.

9 And the Philistines came and spread themselves [d] in the valley of Rephaim. 1047.

10 And David enquired of God, saying, Shall I go up against the Philistines? and wilt thou deliver them into mine hand? And the LORD said unto him, Go up; for I will deliver them into thine hand.

11 So they came up to Baal-perazim; and David smote them there. Then David said, God hath broken in upon mine enemies by mine hand like the breaking forth of waters: therefore they called the name of that place ‡ Baal-perazim.

12 And when they had left their gods there, David gave a commandment, and they were burned with fire.

13 [e] And the Philistines yet again spread themselves abroad in the valley.

14 Therefore David enquired again of God; and God said unto him, Go not up after them; turn away from them, [f] and come upon them over against the mulberry trees.

15 And it shall be, when thou shalt hear a sound of going in the tops of the mulberry trees, that then thou shalt go out to battle: for God is gone forth before thee to smite the host of the Philistines.

16 David therefore did as God commanded him: and they smote the host of the Philistines from [g] Gibeon even to Gazer.

17 And [h] the fame of David went out into all lands; and the LORD [i] brought the fear of him upon all nations.

1 David's messengers, sent to comfort Hanun the son of Nahash, are villanously entreated. 6 The Ammonites, strengthened by the Syrians, are overcome by Joab and Abishai. 16 Shophach, making a new supply of the Syrians, is slain by David.

cir. 1037. NOW [a] it came to pass after this, that Nahash the king of the children of Ammon died, and his son reigned in his stead.

a 2 Sam. 10. 1, &c.

2 And David said, I will shew kindness unto Hanun the son of Nahash, because his father shewed kindness to me. And David sent messengers to comfort him concerning his father. So the servants of David came into the land of the children of Ammon to Hanun, to comfort him.

3 But the princes of the children of Ammon said to Hanun, * Thinkest thou that David doth honour thy father, that he hath sent comforters unto thee? are not his servants come unto thee for to search, and to overthrow, and to spy out the land?

4 Wherefore Hanun took David's servants, and shaved them, and cut off their garments in the midst hard by their buttocks, and sent them away.

5 Then there went certain, and told David how the men were served. And he sent to meet them: for the men were greatly ashamed. And the king said, Tarry at Jericho until your beards be grown, and then return.

6 ¶ And when the children of Ammon saw that they had made themselves † odious to David, Hanun and the children of Ammon sent a thousand talents of silver to hire them chariots and horsemen out of Mesopotamia, and out of Syria-maachah, [b] and out of Zobah.

7 So they hired thirty and two thousand chariots, and the king of Maachah and his people; who came and pitched before Medeba. And the children of Ammon gathered themselves together from their cities, and came to battle.

8 And when David heard of it, he sent Joab, and all the host of the mighty men.

9 And the children of Ammon came out, and put the battle in array before the gate of the city: and the kings that were come were by themselves in the field.

10 Now when Joab saw that ‡ the battle was set against him before and behind, he chose out of all the § choice of Israel, and put them in array against the Syrians.

11 And the rest of the people he delivered unto the hand of ‖ Abishai his brother, and they set themselves in array against the children of Ammon.

12 And he said, If the Syrians be too strong for me, then thou shalt help me: but if the children of Ammon be too strong for thee, then I will help thee.

13 Be of good courage, and let us behave ourselves valiantly for our people, and for the cities of our God: and let the LORD do that which is good in his sight.

14 So Joab and the people that were with him drew nigh before the Syrians unto the battle; and they fled before him.

18 But the Syrians fled before Israel; and David slew of the Syrians seven thousand men which fought in chariots, and forty thousand footmen, and killed Shophach the captain of the host.

CHAP. XXI. Ver. 1. And Satan stood up.—"This evil Being," says Bishop Warburton, "was little known to the Jewish people until about this time; their great Lawgiver, where he so frequently enumerates and warns them of the snares and temptations which would draw them to transgress the law of God, never once mentions the capital enemy of heaven: yet this was an expedient the wisest Pagan lawgivers thought proper to use, to keep the populace in the ways of virtue. But as the fulness of time drew near, they were made more and more acquainted with this their capital enemy. When Ahab was suffered to be infatuated, (see note on 1 Kings xxii. 19, &c.) Satan is not recorded by name. On the return from the captivity we find him better known, and things are then ascribed to him as their immediate and proper author, which were before given in an improper sense, to the first and ultimate cause of all things. Thus in 2 Sam. xxiv. 1, it seems to be said that God moved David to number the people:—the anger of the Lord was kindled—and he moved, &c.—But in the passage before us, which was written after the captivity, SATAN is said to have moved David to this folly: for his history having an inseparable connexion with the redemption of mankind, the knowledge of them was to be conveyed together: and now their later prophets had given very lively descriptions of the Redeemer, and the other attendant truths."—Divine Legation.

B. C. 1017. LORD in the threshingfloor of Ornan the Jebusite.

19 And David went up at the saying of Gad, which he spake in the name of the LORD.

20 * And Ornan turned back, and saw the angel; and his four sons with him hid themselves. Now Ornan was threshing wheat.

21 And as David came to Ornan, Ornan looked and saw David, and went out of the threshingfloor, and bowed himself to David with his face to the ground.

22 Then David said to Ornan, † Grant me the place of this threshingfloor, that I may build an altar therein unto the LORD: thou shalt grant it me for the full price: that the plague may be stayed from the people.

23 And Ornan said unto David, Take it to thee, and let my lord the king do that which is good in his eyes: lo, I give thee the oxen also for burnt offerings, and the threshing instruments for wood, and the wheat for the meat offering; I give it all.

24 And king David said to Ornan, Nay; but I will verily buy it for the full price: for I will not take that which is thine for the LORD, nor offer burnt offerings without cost.

25 So [m] David gave to Ornan for the place six hundred shekels of gold by weight.

26 And David built there an altar unto the LORD, and offered burnt offerings and peace offerings, and called upon the LORD; and [n] he answered him from heaven by fire upon the altar of burnt offering.

27 And the LORD commanded the angel; and he put up his sword again into the sheath thereof.

28 ¶ At that time when David saw that the LORD had answered him in the threshingfloor of Ornan the Jebusite, then he sacrificed there.

29 [o] For the tabernacle of the LORD, which Moses made in the wilderness, and the altar of the burnt offering, were at that season in the high place at [p] Gibeon.

30 But David could not go before it to enquire of God: for he was afraid because of the sword of the angel of the LORD.

CHAP. XXII.

1 David, foreknowing the place of the temple, prepareth abundance for the building of it. 6 He instructeth Solomon in God's promises, and his duty in building the temple. 17 He chargeth the princes to assist his son.

THEN David said, [a] This is the house of the LORD God, and this is the altar of the burnt offering for Israel.

2 And David commanded to gather together [b] the strangers that were in the land of Israel; and he set masons to hew wrought stones to build the house of God.

3 And David prepared iron in abundance for the nails for the doors of the gates, and for the joinings; and brass in abundance [c] without weight;

4 Also cedar trees in abundance: for the [q] Zidonians and they of Tyre brought much cedar wood to David. B. C. 1017.

5 And David said, [e] Solomon my son is young and tender, and the house that is to be builded for the LORD must be exceeding magnifical, of fame and of glory throughout all countries: I will therefore now make preparation for it. So David prepared abundantly before his death.

6 ¶ Then he called for Solomon his son, and charged him to build an house for the LORD God of Israel.

7 And David said to Solomon, My son, as for me, [f] it was in my mind to build an house [g] unto the name of the LORD my God:

8 But the word of the LORD came to me, saying, [h] Thou hast shed blood abundantly, and hast made great wars: thou shalt not build an house unto my name, because thou hast shed much blood upon the earth in my sight.

9 [i] Behold, a son shall be born to thee, who shall be a man of rest; and I will give him [k] rest from all his enemies round about: for his name shall be [*] Solomon, and I will give peace and quietness unto Israel in his days.

10 [l] He shall build an house for my name; and [m] he shall be my son, and I will be his father; and I will establish the throne of his kingdom over Israel for ever.

11 Now, my son, [n] the LORD be with thee; and prosper thou, and build the house of the LORD thy God, as he hath said of thee.

12 Only the LORD [o] give thee wisdom and understanding, and give thee charge concerning Israel, that thou mayest keep the law of the LORD thy God.

13 [p] Then shalt thou prosper, if thou takest heed to fulfil the statutes and judgments which the LORD charged Moses with concerning Israel: [q] be strong, and of good courage; dread not, nor be dismayed.

14 Now, behold, † in my trouble I have prepared for the house of the LORD an hundred thousand talents of gold, and a thousand thousand talents of silver; and of brass and iron [r] without weight; for it is in abundance: timber also and stone have I prepared; and thou mayest add thereto.

16 Of the gold, the silver, and the brass, and the iron, there is no number. Arise therefore, and be doing, and [s] the LORD be with thee.

17 ¶ David also commanded all the princes of Israel to help Solomon his son, saying,

SO when David was old and full of days, he made [a] Solomon his son king over Israel.

2 ¶ And he gathered together all the princes of Israel, with the priests and the Levites.

3 Now the Levites were numbered from the age of [b] thirty years and upward: and their number by their polls, man by man, was thirty and eight thousand.

4 Of which, twenty and four thousand were * to set forward the work of the house of the LORD; and six thousand were [c] officers and judges:

5 Moreover four thousand were porters; and four thousand praised the LORD with the instruments [d] which I made, said David, to praise therewith.

6 And [e] David divided them into † courses among the sons of Levi, namely, Gershon, Kohath, and Merari.

7 ¶ Of the [f] Gershonites were, ‡ Laadan, and Shimei.

8 The sons of Laadan; the chief was Jehiel, and Zetham, and Joel, three.

9 The sons of Shimei; Shelomith, and Haziel, and Haran, three. These were the chief of the fathers of Laadan.

10 And the sons of Shimei were, Jahath, § Zina, and Jeush, and Beriah. These four were the sons of Shimei.

11 And Jahath was the chief, and Zizah the second: but Jeush and Beriah ‖ had not many sons; therefore they were in one reckoning, according to their father's house.

12 ¶ [g] The sons of Kohath; Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel, four.

13 The sons of [h] Amram; Aaron and Moses: and [i] Aaron was separated, that he should sanctify the most holy things, he and his sons for ever, [k] to burn incense before the LORD, [l] to minister unto him, and [m] to bless in his name for ever.

14 Now concerning Moses the man of God, [n] his sons were named of the tribe of Levi.

15 [o] The sons of Moses were, Gershom, and Eliezer.

16 Of the sons of Gershom, [p] * Shebuel was the chief.

17 And the sons of Eliezer were, [q] Rehabiah † the chief. And Eliezer had none other sons; but the sons of Rehabiah ‡ were very many.

18 Of the sons of Izhar; § Shelomith the chief.

19 [r] Of the sons of Hebron; Jeriah the first, Amariah the second, Jahaziel the third, and Jekameam the fourth.

20 Of the sons of Uzziel; Micah the first, and Jesiah the second.

21 ¶ [s] The sons of Merari; Mahli, and Mushi. The sons of Mahli; Eleazar, and [t] Kish.

22 And Eleazar died, and [u] had no sons, but daughters: and their ‖ brethren the sons of Kish [x] took them.

23 [y] The sons of Mushi; Mahli, and Eder, and Jeremoth, three.

24 ¶ These were the sons of [z] Levi after the house of their fathers; even the chief of the fathers, as they were counted by number of names by their polls, that did the work for the service of the house of the LORD, from the age of [a] twenty years and upward.

25 For David said, The LORD God of Israel [b] hath given rest unto his people, * that they may dwell in Jerusalem for ever:

26 And also unto the Levites; they shall no more [c] carry the tabernacle, nor any vessels of it for the service thereof.

27 For by the last words of David the Levites were † numbered from twenty years old and above:

28 Because ‡ their office was to wait on the sons of Aaron for the service of the house of the LORD, in the courts, and in the chambers, and in the purifying of all holy things, and the work of the service of the house of God;

29 Both for [d] the shewbread, and for [e] the fine flour for meat offering, and for [f] the unleavened cakes, and for [g] that which is baked in the § pan, and for that which is fried, and for all manner of [h] measure and size;

30 And to stand every morning to thank and praise the LORD, and likewise at even;

31 And to offer all burnt sacrifices unto the LORD [i] in the sabbaths, in the new moons, and on the [k] set feasts, by number, according to the order commanded unto them, continually before the LORD;

B. C. cir. 1015. of the sons of Ithamar, according to their offices in their service.

4 And there were more chief men found of the sons of Eleazar than of the sons of Ithamar; and thus were they divided. Among the sons of Eleazar there were sixteen chief men of the house of their fathers, and eight among the sons of Ithamar according to the house of their fathers.

5 Thus were they divided by lot, one sort with another; for the governors of the sanctuary, and governors of the house of God, were of the sons of Eleazar, and of the sons of Ithamar.

6 And Shemaiah the son of Nethaneel the scribe, one of the Levites, wrote them before the king, and the princes, and Zadok the priest, and Ahimelech the son of Abiathar, and before the chief of the fathers of the priests and Levites: one * principal household being taken for Eleazar, and one taken for Ithamar.

II. CHRONICLES. "The Second Book of the Chronicles contains a brief sketch of the sacred history, from the accession of Solomon to the throne, in the year of the world 2989, (before Christ 1015), to the return from captivity in the year 3468, (before Christ 536). It contains many things omitted in the historical Books which precede. It begins with a description of the reign of Solomon, and dilates with particular exactness on the magnificent piety of that monarch, in the construction of the Temple, minutely specifying its ornaments as typical of spiritual decorations, which were to embellish the Christian church; a subject highly interesting and useful to the Jews, who at the time this Book was written were preparing to rebuild the Temple. Hence the account of the solemn consecration of the first building; of the noble and comprehensive prayer of Solomon; and of the covenanted promises which God graciously imparted at the dedication, must have furnished much consolation to the Jews, scarce yet reviving from the despondence of captives. There is repeated from the Book of Kings the representation of the magnificence and prosperity which Solomon enjoyed agreeably to God's promise, chap. i. 11, 12. After this we are furnished with a recapitulation of the history of the kings of Judah occasionally interrupted with relations respecting Israel, when connected with Judah. Great part of this history is selected either immediately from the Book of Kings, or both Kings and Chronicles were copied from some larger annals, known under the title of the Books of Kings: since frequent references are herein made to some Books of Kings, and sometimes for circumstances not extant in the canonical Books, chap. xvi. 11.;—xvi.;—xxiv. 27.;—26.;—xxviii. 26.;—xxxii. 32.;—xxxvi. 18.;—xxxv. 27. Several predictions are scattered through the Book: as the promises made to Solomon chap. i. 12.;—vii. 17. to 22.; to Jehoshaphat xix. 2.;—xx. 15. 17. 37. and to others xxxiii. 8. Some sentiments appear to be transcribed from it into the New Testament, compare 2 Chron. ii. 5, 6. with Acts vii. 48, 49. and xvii. 24. also 2 Chron. xix. 7. with 1 Peter i. 17."—Dr. Gray

16 And he made chains, as in the oracle, and put them on the heads of the pillars; and made [k] an hundred pomegranates, and put them on the chains.

1 The altar of brass. 2 The molten sea upon twelve oxen. 6 The ten lavers, candlesticks, and tables. 9 The courts, and the instruments of brass. 19 The instruments of gold.

MOREOVER he made [a] an altar of brass, twenty cubits the length thereof, and twenty cubits the breadth thereof, and ten cubits the height thereof.

2 ¶ [b] Also he made a molten sea of ten cubits * from brim to brim, round in compass, and five cubits the height thereof; and a line of thirty cubits did compass it round about.

3 [c] And under it was the similitude of oxen, which did compass it round about: ten in a cubit, compassing the sea round about. Two rows of oxen were cast, when it was cast.

4 It stood upon twelve oxen, three looking toward the north, and three looking toward the west, and three looking toward the south, and three looking toward the east: and the sea was set above upon them, and all their hinder parts were inward.

B. C. 1012.

5 And the thickness of it was an handbreadth, and the brim of it like the work of the brim of a cup, † with flowers of lilies; and it received and held [d] three thousand baths.

6 ¶ He made also [e] ten lavers, and put five on the right hand, and five on the left, to wash in them: ‡ such things as they offered for the burnt offering they washed in them; but the sea was for the priests to wash in.

7 [f] And he made ten candlesticks of gold [g] according to their form, and set them in the temple, five on the right hand, and five on the left.

8 [h] He made also ten tables, and placed them in the temple, five on the right side, and five on the left. And he made an hundred § basons of gold.

9 ¶ Furthermore [i] he made the court of the priests, and the great court, and doors for the court, and overlaid the doors of them with brass.

10 And [k] he set the sea on the right side of the east end, over against the south.

11 And [l] Huram made the pots, and the shovels, and the ‖ basons. And Huram * finished the work that he was to make for king Solomon for the house of God;

12 To wit, the two pillars, and [m] the pommels, and the chapiters which were on the top of the two pillars, and the two wreaths to cover the two pommels of the chapiters which were on the pillars;

13 And [n] four hundred pomegranates on the two wreaths; two rows of pomegranates on each wreath, to cover the two pommels of the chapiters which were † upon the pillars.

14 He made also [o] bases, and ‡ lavers made he upon the bases;

15 One sea, and twelve oxen under it.

16 The pots also, and the shovels, and the fleshhooks, and all their instruments, did [p] Huram his father make to king Solomon for the house of the LORD of § bright brass.

17 [q] In the plain of Jordan did the king cast them, in the ‖ clay ground between Succoth and Zeredathah.

18 [r] Thus Solomon made all these vessels in great abundance: for the weight of the brass could not be found out.

19 ¶ And [s] Solomon made all the vessels that were for the house of God, the golden altar also, and the tables whereon [t] the shewbread was set;

20 Moreover the candlesticks with their lamps, that they should burn [u] after the manner before the oracle, of pure gold;

21 And [x] the flowers, and the lamps, and the tongs, made he of gold, and that ‡ perfect gold;

4 And he said, Blessed be the LORD God of Israel, who hath with his hands fulfilled that which he spake with his mouth to my father David, saying,

5 Since the day that I brought forth my people out of the land of Egypt I chose no city among all the tribes of Israel to build an house in, that my name might be there; neither chose I any man to be a ruler over my people Israel:

9 Notwithstanding thou shalt not build the house; but thy son which shall come forth out of thy loins, he shall build the house for my name.

before all the congregation of Israel, and spread forth his hands toward heaven,

14 And said, O LORD God of Israel, [h] there is no God like thee in the heaven, nor in the earth; which keepest covenant, and shewest mercy unto thy servants, that walk before thee with all their hearts:

15 [i] Thou which hast kept with thy servant David my father that which thou hast promised him; and spakest with thy mouth, and hast fulfilled it with thine hand, as it is this day.

16 Now therefore, O LORD God of Israel, keep with thy servant David my father that which thou hast promised him, saying, [k] + There shall not fail thee a man in my sight to sit upon the throne of Israel; [l] yet so that thy children take heed to their way to walk in my law, as thou hast walked before me.

17 Now then, O LORD God of Israel, let thy word be verified, which thou hast spoken unto thy servant David.

18 But will God in very deed dwell with men on the earth? [m] behold, heaven and the heaven of heavens cannot contain thee; how much less this house which I have built!

19 Have respect therefore to the prayer of thy servant, and to his supplication, O LORD my God, to hearken unto the cry and the prayer which thy servant prayeth before thee:

20 That thine eyes may be open upon this house day and night, upon the place whereof thou hast said that thou wouldest put thy name there; to hearken unto the prayer which thy servant prayeth ‡ toward this place.

21 Hearken therefore unto the supplications of thy servant, and of thy people Israel, which they shall § make toward this place: hear thou from thy dwelling place, even from heaven; and when thou hearest, forgive.

22 ¶ If a man sin against his neighbour, ‖ and an oath be laid upon him to make him swear, and the oath come before thine altar in this house;

23 Then hear thou from heaven, and do, and judge thy servants, by requiting the wicked, by recompensing his way upon his own head; and by justifying the righteous, by giving him according to his righteousness.

24 ¶ And if thy people Israel * be put to the worse before the enemy, because they have sinned against thee; and shall return and confess thy name, and pray and make supplication before thee + in this house;

25 Then hear thou from the heavens, and forgive the sin of thy people Israel, and bring them again unto the land which thou gavest to them and to their fathers.

26 ¶ When the [n] heaven is shut up, and there is no rain, because they have sinned against thee; yet if they pray toward this place, and confess thy name, and turn from their sin, when thou dost afflict them:

27 Then hear thou from heaven, and forgive the sin of thy servants, and of thy people Israel, when thou hast taught them the good way, wherein they should walk; and send rain upon thy land, which thou hast given unto thy people for an inheritance.

28 ¶ If there [o] be dearth in the land, if there be pestilence, if there be blasting, or mildew, locusts, or caterpillers; if their enemies besiege them ‡ in the cities of their land; whatsoever sore or whatsoever sickness there be:

29 Then what prayer or what supplication soever shall be made of any man, or of all thy people Israel, when every one shall know his own sore and his own grief, and shall spread forth his hands § in this house:

30 Then hear thou from heaven thy dwelling place, and forgive, and render unto every man according unto all his ways, whose heart thou knowest; (for thou only [p] knowest the hearts of the children of men:)

31 That they may fear thee, to walk in thy ways, ‖ so long as they live * in the land which thou gavest unto our fathers.

32 ¶ Moreover concerning the stranger, [q] which is not of thy people Israel, but is come from a far country for thy great name's sake, and thy mighty hand, and thy stretched out arm; if they come and pray in this house;

33 Then hear thou from the heavens, even from thy dwelling place, and do according to all that the stranger calleth to thee for; that all people of the earth may know thy name, and fear thee, as doth thy people Israel, and may know that † this house which I have built is called by thy name.

34 If thy people go out to war against their enemies by the way that thou shalt send them, and they pray unto thee toward this city which thou hast chosen, and the house which I have built for thy name;

35 Then hear thou from the heavens their prayer and their supplication, and maintain their ‡ cause.

36 If they sin against thee, (for there is [r] no man which sinneth not,) and thou be angry with them, and deliver them over before their enemies, and § they carry them away captives unto a land far off or near;

37 Yet if they ‖ bethink themselves in the land whither they are carried captive, and turn and pray unto thee in the land of their captivity, saying, We have sinned, we have done amiss, and have dealt wickedly;

38 If they return to thee with all their heart and with all their soul in the land of their captivity, whither they have carried them captives, and pray toward their land, which thou gavest unto their fathers, and toward the city which thou hast chosen, and toward the house which I have built for thy name:

CHAP. VII.

1 God having given testimony to Solomon's prayer by fire from heaven, and glory in the temple, the people worship him. 4 Solomon's solemn sacrifice. 8 Solomon having kept the feast of tabernacles, and the feast of the dedication of the altar, dismisseth the people. 12 God appearing to Solomon giveth him promises upon condition.

NOW [a] when Solomon had made an end of praying, the [b] fire came down from heaven, and consumed the burnt offering and the sacrifices; and [c] the glory of the LORD filled the house.

2 [d] And the priests could not enter into the house of the LORD, because the glory of the LORD had filled the LORD'S house.

3 And when all the children of Israel saw how the fire came down, and the glory of the LORD upon the house, they bowed themselves with their faces to the ground upon the pavement, and worshipped, and praised the LORD, [e] saying, For he is good; [f] for his mercy endureth for ever.

4 ¶ [g] Then the king and all the people offered sacrifices before the LORD.

5 And king Solomon offered a sacrifice of twenty and two thousand oxen, and an hundred and twenty thousand sheep: so the king and all the people dedicated the house of God.

6 [h] And the priests waited on their offices: the Levites also with instruments of musick of the LORD, which David the king had made to praise the LORD, because his mercy endureth for ever, when David praised * by their ministry; and [i] the priests sounded trumpets before them, and all Israel stood.

7 Moreover [k] Solomon hallowed the middle of the court that was before the house of the LORD: for there he offered burnt offerings, and the fat of the peace offerings, because the brasen altar which Solomon had made was not able to receive the burnt offerings, and the meat offerings, and the fat.

8 ¶ [l] Also at the same time Solomon kept the feast seven days, and all Israel with him, a very great congregation, from the entering in of Hamath unto [m] the river of Egypt.

9 And in the eighth day they made † a solemn assembly: for they kept the dedication of the altar seven days, and the feast seven days.

10 And [n] on the three and twentieth day of the seventh month he sent the people away into their tents, glad and merry in heart for the goodness that the LORD had shewed unto David, and to Solomon, and to Israel his people.

11 Thus [o] Solomon finished the house of the LORD, and the king's house: and all that came into Solomon's heart to make in the house of the LORD, and in his own house, he prosperously effected.

B. C. 1004.

12 ¶ And the LORD appeared to Solomon by night, and said unto him, I have heard thy prayer, [p] and have chosen this place to myself for an house of sacrifice.

13 [q] If I shut up heaven that there be no rain, or if I command the locusts to devour the land, or if I send pestilence among my people;

14 If my people, ‡ which are called by my name, shall [r] humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; [s] then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land.

15 Now [t] mine eyes shall be open, and mine ears attent § unto the prayer that is made in this place.

16 For now have [u] I chosen and sanctified this house, that my name may be there for ever: and mine eyes and mine heart shall be there perpetually.

17 [x] And as for thee, if thou wilt walk before me, as David thy father walked, and do according to all that I have commanded thee, and shalt observe my statutes and my judgments;

18 Then will I stablish the throne of thy kingdom, according as I have covenanted with David thy father, saying, [y] ‖ There shall not fail thee a man to be ruler in Israel.

19 [z] But if ye turn away, and forsake my statutes and my commandments, which I have set before you, and shall go and serve other gods, and worship them;

20 Then will I pluck them up by the roots out of my land which I have given them; and this house, which I have sanctified for my name, will I cast out of my sight, and will make it to be a proverb and a byword among all nations.

21 And this house, which is high, shall be an astonishment to every one that passeth by it; so that he shall say, [a] Why hath the LORD done thus unto this land, and unto this house?

22 And it shall be answered, Because they forsook the LORD God of their fathers, which brought them forth out of the land of Egypt, and laid hold on other gods, and worshipped them, and served them: therefore hath he brought all this evil upon them.

AND [a] Rehoboam went to Shechem: for to Shechem were all Israel come to make him king.

a 1 Kings 12. 1, &c.

2 And it came to pass, when Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who was in Egypt, [b] whither he had fled from the presence of Solomon the king, heard it, that Jeroboam returned out of Egypt.

b 1 Kings 11. 40.

3 And they sent and called him. So Jeroboam and all Israel came and spake to Rehoboam, saying,

4 Thy father made our yoke grievous: now therefore ease thou somewhat the grievous servitude of thy father, and his heavy yoke that he put upon us, and we will serve thee.

5 And he said unto them, Come again unto me after three days. And the people departed.

6 ¶ And king Rehoboam took counsel with the old men that had stood before Solomon his father while he yet lived, saying, What counsel give ye me to return answer to this people?

7 And they spake unto him, saying, If thou be kind to this people, and please them, and speak good words to them, they will be thy servants for ever.

8 But he forsook the counsel which the old men gave him, and took counsel with the young men that were brought up with him, that stood before him.

9 And he said unto them, What advice give ye that we may return answer to this people, which have spoken to me, saying, Ease somewhat the yoke that thy father did put upon us?

10 And the young men that were brought up with him spake unto him, saying, Thus shalt thou answer the people that spake unto thee, saying, Thy father made our yoke heavy, but make thou it somewhat lighter for us; thus shalt thou say unto them. My little finger shall be thicker than my father's loins.

11 For whereas my father * put a heavy yoke upon you, I will put more to your yoke: my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions.

B. C. 975.

13 And the king answered them roughly; and king Rehoboam forsook the counsel of the old men,

14 And answered them after the advice of the young men, saying, My father made your yoke heavy, but I will add thereto: my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions.

15 So the king hearkened not unto the people: [c] for the cause was of God, that the LORD might perform his word, which he spake by the [d] hand of Ahijah the Shilonite to Jeroboam the son of Nebat.

16 ¶ And when all Israel saw that the king would not hearken unto them, the people answered the king, saying, What portion have we in David? and we have none inheritance in the son of Jesse: every man to your tents, O Israel: and now, David, see to thine own house. So all Israel went to their tents.

17 But as for the children of Israel that dwelt in the cities of Judah, Rehoboam reigned over them.

18 Then king Rehoboam sent Hadoram that was over the tribute; and the children of Israel stoned him with stones, that he died. But king Rehoboam † made speed to get him up to his chariot, to flee to Jerusalem.

19 [e] And Israel rebelled against the house of David unto this day.

CHAP. XI.

1 Rehoboam raising an army to subdue Israel, is forbidden by Shemaiah. 5 He strengtheneth his kingdom with forts and provision. 13 The priests and Levites, and such as feared God, forsaken by Jeroboam, strengthen the kingdom of Judah. 18 The wives and children of Rehoboam.

AND [a] when Rehoboam was come to Jerusalem, he gathered of the house of Judah and Benjamin an hundred and fourscore thousand chosen men, which were warriors, to fight against Israel, that he might bring the kingdom again to Rehoboam.

2 But the word of the LORD came [b] to Shemaiah the man of God, saying,

3 Speak unto Rehoboam the son of Solomon, king of Judah, and to all Israel in Judah and Benjamin, saying,

4 Thus saith the LORD, Ye shall not go up, nor fight against your brethren: return every man to his house: for this thing is done of me. And they obeyed the words of the LORD, and returned from going against Jeroboam.

5 ¶ And Rehoboam dwelt in Jerusalem, and built cities for defence in Judah.

6 He built even Beth-lehem, and Etam, and Tekoa,

7 And Beth-zur, and Shoco, and Adullam,

8 And Gath, and Mareshah, and Ziph,

9 And Adoraim, and Lachish, and Azekah,

10 And Zorah, and Aijalon, and Hebron, which are in Judah and in Benjamin fenced cities.

11 And he fortified the strong holds, and put captains in them, and store of victual, and of oil and wine.

12 And in every several city he put shields, and spears, and made them exceeding strong, having Judah and Benjamin on his side.

13 ¶ And the priests and the Levites that were in all Israel * resorted to him out of all their coasts.

14 For the Levites left [c] their suburbs and their possession, and came to Judah and Jerusalem: for [d] Jeroboam and his sons had cast them off from executing the priest's office unto the LORD:

15 [e] And he ordained him priests for the high places, and for [f] the devils, and for [g] the calves which he had made.

16 [h] And after them out of all the tribes of Israel such as set their hearts to seek the LORD God of Israel came to Jerusalem, to sacrifice unto the LORD God of their fathers.

17 So they [i] strengthened the kingdom of Judah, and made Rehoboam the son of Solomon strong, three years: for three years they walked in the way of David and Solomon.

18 ¶ And Rehoboam took him Mahalath the daughter of Jerimoth the son of David to wife, and Abihail the daughter of Eliab the son of Jesse;

19 Which bare him children; Jeush, and Shamariah, and Zaham.

20 And after her he took [k] Maachah the daughter of Absalom; which bare him Abijah, and Attai, and Ziza, and Shelomith.

21 And Rehoboam loved Maachah the daughter of Absalom above all his wives and his concubines: (for he took eighteen wives, and threescore concubines; and begat twenty and eight sons, and threescore daughters.)

22 And Rehoboam [l] made Abijah the son of Maachah the chief, to be ruler among his brethren: for he thought to make him king.

23 And he dealt wisely, and dispersed of all his children throughout all the countries of Judah and Benjamin, unto every fenced city: and he gave them victual in abundance. And he desired † many wives.

2 [c] And it came to pass, that in the fifth year of king Rehoboam Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem, because they had transgressed against the LORD,

9 And he gathered all Judah and Benjamin, and [l] the strangers with them out of Ephraim and Manasseh, and out of Simeon: for they fell to him out of Israel in abundance, when they saw that the LORD his God was with him.

10 So they gathered themselves together at Jerusalem in the third month, in the fifteenth year of the reign of Asa.

11 [m] And they offered unto the LORD § the same time, of [n] the spoil which they had brought, seven hundred oxen and seven thousand sheep.

9'0 wis. From the reading of the ten tribes from Judah, over which Asa was now king. a 1 Kings 15. 17, &c. b ch. 15. 9.

IN the six and thirtieth year of the reign of Asa [a] Baasha king of Israel came up against Judah, and built Ramah, [b] to the intent that he might let none go out or come in to Asa king of Judah.

2 Then Asa brought out silver and gold out of the treasures of the house of the LORD and of the king's house, and sent to Benhadad king of Syria, that dwelt at * Damascus, saying,

5 And it came to pass, when Baasha heard it, that he left off building of Ramah, and let his work cease.

6 Then Asa the king took all Judah; and they carried away the stones of Ramah, and the timber thereof, wherewith Baasha was building; and he built therewith Geba and Mizpah.

7 ¶ And at that time [c] Hanani the seer came to Asa king of Judah, and said unto him, [d] Because thou hast relied on the king of Syria, and not relied on the LORD thy God, therefore is the host of the king of Syria escaped out of thine hand.

8 Were not * the Ethiopians and [f] the Lubims ‡ a huge host, with very many chariots and horsemen? yet, because thou didst rely on the LORD, he delivered them into thine hand.

1 Amaziah beginneth to reign well. 3 He executeth justice on the traitors. 5 Having hired an army of Israelites against the Edomites, at the word of a prophet he loseth the hundred talents, and dismisseth them. 11 He overthroweth the Edomites 10. 13 The Israelites, discontented with their dismission, spoil as they return home. 14 Amaziah, proud of his victory, serveth the gods of Edom, and despiseth the admonitions of the prophet. 17 He provoketh Joash to his overthrow. 25 His reign. 27 He is slain by conspiracy.

AMAZIAH [a] was twenty and five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty and nine years in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Jehoaddan of Jerusalem.

5 ¶ Moreover Amaziah gathered Judah together, and made them captains over thousands, and captains over hundreds, according to the houses of their fathers, throughout all Judah and Benjamin: and he numbered them [e] from twenty years old and above, and found them three hundred thousand choice men, able to go forth to war, that could handle spear and shield.

6 He hired also an hundred thousand mighty men of valour out of Israel for an hundred talents of silver.

7 But there came a man of God to him, saying, O king, let not the army of Israel go with thee; for the LORD is not with Israel, to wit, with all the children of Ephraim.

8 But if thou wilt go, do it, be strong for the battle: God shall make thee fall before the enemy: for God hath [f] power to help, and to cast down.

and led forth his people, and went to [h] the valley of salt, and smote of the children of Seir ten thousand.

12 And other ten thousand left alive did the children of Judah carry away captive, and brought them unto the top of the rock, and cast them down from the top of the rock that they all were broken in pieces.

13 ¶ But ‖ the soldiers of the army which Amaziah sent back, that they should not go with him to battle, fell upon the cities of Judah, from Samaria even unto Beth-horon, and smote three thousand of them, and took much spoil.

14 ¶ Now it came to pass, after that Amaziah was come from the slaughter of the Edomites, that [i] he brought the gods of the children of Seir, and set them up to be [k] his gods, and bowed down himself before them, and burned incense unto them.

15 Wherefore the anger of the LORD was kindled against Amaziah, and he sent unto him a prophet, which said unto him, Why hast thou sought after [l] the gods of the people, which [m] could not deliver their own people out of thine hand?

16 And it came to pass, as he talked with him, that the king said unto him, Art thou made of the king's counsel? forbear; why shouldest thou be smitten? Then the prophet forbare, and said, I know that God hath * [n] determined to destroy thee, because thou hast done this, and hast not hearkened unto my counsel.

17 ¶ Then [o] Amaziah king of Judah took advice, and sent to Joash, the son of Jehoahaz, the son of Jehu, king of Israel, saying, Come, let us see one another in the face.

18 And Joash king of Israel sent to Amaziah king of Judah, saying, The † thistle that was in Lebanon sent to the cedar that was in Lebanon, saying, Give thy daughter to my son to wife: and there passed by ‡ a wild beast that was in Lebanon, and trode down the thistle.

19 Thou sayest, Lo, thou hast smitten the Edomites; and thine heart lifted thee up to boast: abide now at home; why shouldest thou meddle to thine hurt, that thou shouldest fall, even thou, and Judah with thee?

20 But Amaziah would not hear; for [p] it came of God, that he might deliver them into the hand of their enemies, because they [q] sought after the gods of Edom.

21 So Joash the king of Israel went up; and they saw one another in the face, both he and Amaziah king of Judah, at Beth-shemesh, which belongeth to Judah.

22 And Judah was § put to the worse before Israel, and they fled every man to his tent.

23 And Joash the king of Israel took Amaziah king of Judah, the son of Joash, the son of [r] Jehoahaz, at Beth-shemesh, and brought him to Jerusalem, and brake down the wall of Jerusalem from the gate of Ephraim to ‖ the corner gate, four hundred cubits.

24 And he took all the gold and the silver, and all the vessels that were found in the house of God with Obed-edom, and the treasures of the king's house, the hostages also, and returned to Samaria.

25 ¶ [s] And Amaziah the son of Joash king of Judah lived after the death of Joash son of Jehoahaz king of Israel fifteen years.

26 Now the rest of the acts of Amaziah, first and last, behold, are they not written in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel?

27 ¶ Now after the time that Amaziah did turn away * from following the LORD they † made a conspiracy against him in Jerusalem; and he fled to Lachish: but they sent to Lachish after him, and slew him there.

28 And they brought him upon horses, and buried him with his fathers in the city of ‖ Judah.

2 He built Eloth, and restored it to Judah, after that the king slept with his fathers.

3 Sixteen years old was Uzziah when he began to reign, and he reigned fifty and two years in Jerusalem. His mother's name also was Jecoliah of Jerusalem.

4 And he did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, according to all that his father Amaziah did.

5 And [b] he sought God in the days of Zechariah, who [c] had understanding † in the visions of God: and as long as he sought the LORD, God made him to prosper.

12 Then certain of the heads of the children of Ephraim, Azariah the son of Johanan, Berechiah the son of Meshillemoth, and Jehizkiah the son of Shallum, and Amasa the son of Hadlai, stood up against them that came from the war,

13 And said unto them, Ye shall not bring in the captives hither: for whereas we have offended against the LORD already, ye intend to add more to our sins and to our trespass: for our trespass is great, and there is fierce wrath against Israel.

16 And the priests went into the inner part of the house of the LORD, to cleanse it, and brought out all the uncleanness that they found in the temple of the LORD into the court of the house of the LORD. And the Levites took it, to carry it out abroad into the brook Kidron.

726. 17 Now they began on the first day of the first month to sanctify, and on the eighth day of the month came they to the porch of the LORD: so they sanctified the house of the LORD in eight days; and in the sixteenth day of the first month they made an end.

18 Then they went in to Hezekiah the king, and said, We have cleansed all the house of the LORD, and the altar of burnt offering, with all the vessels thereof, and the shewbread table, with all the vessels thereof.

19 Moreover all the vessels, which king Ahaz in his reign did [o] cast away in his transgression, have we prepared and sanctified, and, behold, they are before the altar of the LORD.

20 ¶ Then Hezekiah the king rose early, and gathered the rulers of the city, and went up to the house of the LORD.

21 And they brought seven bullocks, and seven rams, and seven lambs, and seven he goats, for a [p] sin offering for the kingdom, and for the sanctuary, and for Judah. And he commanded the priests the sons of Aaron to offer them on the altar of the LORD.

22 So they killed the bullocks, and the priests received the blood, and [q] sprinkled it on the altar: likewise, when they had killed the rams, they sprinkled the blood upon the altar: they killed also the lambs, and they sprinkled the blood upon the altar.

23 And they brought * forth the he goats for the sin offering before the king and the congregation; and they laid their [r] hands upon them:

24 And the priests killed them, and they made reconciliation with their blood upon the altar, [s] to make an atonement for all Israel: for the king commanded that the burnt offering and the sin offering should be made for all Israel.

25 [t] And he set the Levites in the house of the LORD with cymbals, with psalteries, and with harps, [u] according to the commandment of David, and of [x] Gad the king's seer, and Nathan the prophet: [y] for so was the commandment † of the LORD ‡ by his prophets.

26 And the Levites stood with the instruments [z] of David, and the priests with [a] the trumpets.

27 And Hezekiah commanded to offer the burnt offering upon the altar. And § when the burnt offering began, [b] the song of the LORD began also with the trumpets, and with the ‖ instruments ordained by David king of Israel.

28 And all the congregation worshipped, and the * singers sang, and the trumpeters sounded: and all this continued until the burnt offering was finished.

29 And when they had made an end of offering, [c] the king and all that were † present with him bowed themselves, and worshipped.

30 Moreover Hezekiah the king and the princes commanded the Levites to sing praise unto the LORD with the words of David, and of Asaph the seer. And they sang praises with gladness, and they bowed their heads and worshipped.

31 Then Hezekiah answered and said, Now ye have ‡ consecrated yourselves unto the LORD, come near and bring sacrifices and [d] thank offerings into the house of the LORD. And the congregation brought in sacrifices and thank offerings; and as many as were of a free heart burnt offerings.

32 And the number of the burnt offerings, which the congregation brought, was threescore and ten bullocks, an hundred rams, and two hundred lambs: all these were for a burnt offering to the LORD.

33 And the consecrated things were six hundred oxen and three thousand sheep.

34 But the priests were too few, so that they could not flay all the burnt offerings: wherefore * their brethren the Levites § did help them, till the work was ended, and until the other priests had sanctified themselves: [f] for the Levites were more [g] upright in heart to sanctify themselves than the priests.

CHAP. XXIX. Ver. 17. On the first day.—According to the Targum, "the first day of the first month Nisan." This month answers to our March. It was the first month of the sacred year at the Exodus, and the seventh of the civil year. It is called Abib in the Pentateuch.

Ver. 34. But the priests were too few.—"The reason of this was that a great many priests, tainted with the corruptions of the foregoing reign, had neglected the king's order and did not appear prepared for the service; whereupon, as the Levites were far more zealous for the reformation, they were appointed to supply the defects of the priests at this time, by assisting in several matters that usually belonged to the priests."—Pyle.

B. C. 726.

35 And also the burnt offerings were in abundance, with [a] the fat of the peace offerings, and [1] the drink offerings for every burnt offering. So the service of the house of the LORD was set in order.

36 And Hezekiah rejoiced, and all the people, that God had prepared the people: for the thing was done suddenly.

CHAP. XXX.

1 Hezekiah proclaimeth a solemn passover on the second month for Judah and Israel. 13 The assembly, having destroyed the altars of idolatry, keep the feast fourteen days. 27 The priests and Levites bless the people.

AND Hezekiah sent to all Israel and Judah, and wrote letters also to Ephraim and Manasseh, that they should come to the house of the LORD at Jerusalem, to keep the passover unto the LORD God of Israel.

2 For the king had taken counsel, and his princes, and all the congregation in Jerusalem, to keep the passover in the second [a] month.

3 For they could not keep it [b] at that time, [c] because the priests had not sanctified themselves sufficiently, neither had the people gathered themselves together to Jerusalem.

4 And the thing [*] pleased the king and all the congregation.

5 So they established a decree to make proclamation throughout all Israel, from Beer-sheba even to Dan, that they should come to keep the passover unto the LORD God of Israel at Jerusalem: for they had not done it of a long time in such sort as it was written.

6 So the posts went with the letters [†] from the king and his princes throughout all Israel and Judah, and according to the commandment of the king, saying, Ye children of Israel, [d] turn again unto the LORD God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, and he will return to the remnant of you, that are escaped out of the hand of [e] the kings of Assyria.

7 And be not ye [f] like your fathers, and like your brethren, which trespassed against the LORD God of their fathers, who therefore [g] gave them up to desolation, as ye see.

8 Now [‡] be ye not [h] stiffnecked, as your fathers were, but § yield yourselves unto the LORD, and enter into his sanctuary, which he hath sanctified for ever: and serve the LORD your God, [i] that the fierceness of his wrath may turn away from you.

9 For if ye turn again unto the LORD, your brethren and your children shall find [k] compassion before them that lead them captive, so that they should come again into this land: for the LORD your God is [l] gracious and merciful, and will not turn away his face from you, if ye [m] return unto him.

10 So the posts passed from city to city through the country of Ephraim and Manasseh even unto Zebulun: but [n] they laughed them to scorn, and mocked them.

11 Nevertheless [o] divers of Asher and Manasseh and Zebulun humbled themselves, and came to Jerusalem.

12 Also in Judah [p] the hand of God was to give them one heart to do the commandment of the king and of the princes, [q] by the word of the LORD.

13 ¶ And there assembled at Jerusalem much people to keep the feast of unleavened bread in the second month, a very great congregation.

14 And they arose and took away the [r] altars that were in Jerusalem and all the altars for incense took they away, and cast them into the brook Kidron.

15 Then they killed the passover on the fourteenth day of the second month: and the priests and the Levites were [s] ashamed, and sanctified themselves, and brought in the burnt offerings into the house of the LORD.

16 And they stood in ‖ their place after their manner, according to the law of Moses the man of God: the priests sprinkled the blood, which they received of the hand of the Levites.

17 For there were many in the congregation that were not sanctified: [t] therefore the Levites had the charge of the killing of the passovers for every one that was not clean, to sanctify them unto the LORD.

18 For a multitude of the people, even [u] many of Ephraim, and Manasseh, Issachar, and Zebulun, had not cleansed themselves, [x] yet did they eat the passover otherwise than it was written. But Hezekiah prayed for them, saying, The good LORD pardon every one

19 That [y] prepareth his heart to seek God, the LORD God of his fathers, though he be not cleansed according to the purification of the sanctuary.

20 And the LORD hearkened to Hezekiah, and healed the people.

21 And the children of Israel that were [*] present at Jerusalem kept [z] the feast of unleavened bread seven days with great gladness: and the Levites and the priests praised the LORD day by day, singing with † loud instruments unto the LORD.

22 And Hezekiah spake [‡] comfortably unto all the Levites [a] that taught the good knowledge of the LORD: and they did eat throughout the feast seven days, offering peace offerings, and [b] making confession to the LORD God of their fathers.

23 And the whole assembly took counsel to keep [c] other seven days: and they kept other seven days with gladness.

24 For Hezekiah king of Judah § [d] did give to the congregation a thousand bullocks and seven thousand sheep; and the princes gave to the congregation a thousand bullocks and ten thousand sheep: and a great number of priests [e] sanctified themselves.

CHAP. XXX. Ver. 2. In the second month.—The month Jiar, which answers to our April.

Ver. 5. Make proclamation throughout all Israel.—At this time the golden calves which had caused the political separation of the tribes had been removed, so that the apostate Jews went in great numbers to worship at Jerusalem. Hoshea, moreover, who then reigned over Israel, being one of the most religious of her kings, had probably concurred with Hezekiah's proclamation before it was issued, and thus, as may reasonably be supposed, Hezekiah invited the subjects of Hoshea to celebrate the passover by permission of their king.

B. C. 726.

25 And all the congregation of Judah, with the priests and the Levites, and all the congregation [f] that came out of Israel, and the strangers that came out of the land of Israel, and that dwelt in Judah, rejoiced.

26 So there was great joy in Jerusalem: for since the time of Solomon the son of David king of Israel there was not the like in Jerusalem.

27 ¶ Then the priests the Levites arose and [g] blessed the people: and their voice was heard, and their prayer came up to || his holy dwelling place, even unto heaven.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 The people is forward in destroying idolatry. 2 Hezekiah ordereth the courses of the priests and Levites, and provideth for their work and maintenance. 5 The people's forwardness in offerings and tithes. 11 Hezekiah appointeth officers to dispose of the tithes. 20 The sincerity of Hezekiah.

NOW when all this was finished, all Israel that were * present went out to the cities of Judah, and [a] brake the † images in pieces, and cut down the groves, and threw down the high places and the altars out of all Judah and Benjamin, in Ephraim also and Manasseh, ‡ until they had utterly destroyed them all. Then all the children of Israel returned, every man to his possession, into their own cities.

2 ¶ And Hezekiah appointed [b] the courses of the priests and the Levites after their courses, every man according to his service, the priests and Levites [c] for burnt offerings and for peace offerings, to minister, and to give thanks, and to praise in the gates of the tents of the LORD.

3 He appointed also the king's portion of his substance for the burnt offerings, to wit, for the morning and evening burnt offerings, and the burnt offerings for the sabbaths, and for the new moons, and for the set feasts, as it is written in the [d] law of the LORD.

4 Moreover he commanded the people that dwelt in Jerusalem to give the * portion of the priests and the Levites, that they might be encouraged in [f] the law of the LORD.

5 ¶ And as soon as the commandment § came abroad, the children of Israel brought in abundance [g] the firstfruits of corn, wine, and oil, and || honey, and of all the increase of the field; and the tithe of all things brought they in abundantly.

6 And concerning the children of Israel and Judah, that dwelt in the cities of Judah, they also brought in the tithe of oxen and sheep, and the [h] tithe of holy things which were consecrated unto the LORD their God, and laid them * by heaps.

7 In the third month they began to lay the foundation of the heaps, and finished them in the seventh month.

8 And when Hezekiah and the princes came and saw the heaps, they blessed the LORD, and his people Israel.

9 Then Hezekiah questioned with the priests and the Levites concerning the heaps.

10 And Azariah the chief priest of the house of Zadok answered him, and said, [i] Since the people began to bring the offerings into the house of the LORD, we have had enough to eat, and have left plenty: for the LORD hath blessed his people; and that which is left is this great store.

11 ¶ Then Hezekiah commanded to prepare † chambers in the house of the LORD; and they prepared them.

12 And brought in the offerings and the tithes and the dedicated things faithfully: [k] over which Cononiah the Levite was ruler, and Shimei his brother was the next.

13 And Jehiel, and Azaziah, and Nahath, and Asahel, and Jeremoth, and Jozabad, and Eliel, and Ismachiah, and Mahath, and Benaiah, were overseers ‡ under the hand of Cononiah and Shimei his brother, at the commandment of Hezekiah the king, and Azariah the ruler of the house of God.

14 And Kore the son of Imnah the Levite, the porter towards the east, was over the free-will offerings of God, to distribute the oblations of the LORD, and the most holy things

15 And § next him were Eden, and Miniamin, and Jeshua, and Shemaiah, Amariah, and Shecaniah, in [l] the cities of the priests, in their || set office, to give to their brethren by courses, as well to the great as to the small:

16 Beside their genealogy of males, from three years old and upward, even unto every one that entereth into the house of the LORD, his daily portion for their service in their charges according to their courses;

17 Both to the genealogy of the priests by the house of their fathers, and the Levites [m] from twenty years old and upward, in their charges by their courses;

18 And to the genealogy of all their little ones, their wives, and their sons, and their daughters, through all the congregation: for in their * set office they sanctified themselves in holiness:

19 Also of the sons of Aaron the priests, which were in [n] the fields of the suburbs of their cities, in every several city, the men that were * expressed by name, to give portions to all the males among the priests, and to all that were reckoned by genealogies among the Levites.

20 ¶ And thus did Hezekiah throughout all Judah, and [p] wrought that which was good and right and truth before the LORD his God.

21 And in every work that he began in the service of the house of God, and in the law, and in the commandments, to seek his God, he did it with all his heart, and prospered.

B. C. cir. 536.

NOW in the first year of Cyrus king of Persia, that the word of the LORD [a] by the mouth of Jeremiah might be fulfilled, the LORD stirred up the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia, [b] that he [*] made a proclamation throughout all his kingdom, and put it also in writing, saying,

2 Thus saith Cyrus king of Persia, The LORD God of heaven hath given me all the kingdoms of the earth; and he hath [c] charged me to build him an house at Jerusalem, which is in Judah.

3 Who is there among you of all his people? his God be with him, and let him go up to Jerusalem, which is in Judah, and build the house of the LORD God of Israel, ([d] he is the God,) which is in Jerusalem.

4 And whosoever remaineth in any place where he sojourneth, let the men of his place [†] help him with silver, and with gold, and with goods, and with beasts, beside the free-will offering for the house of God that is in Jerusalem.

5 ¶ Then rose up the chief of the fathers of Judah and Benjamin, and the priests, and the Levites, with all them whose spirit [e] God had raised, to go up to build the house of the LORD which is in Jerusalem.

6 And all they that were about them [‡] strengthened their hands with vessels of silver, with gold, with goods, and with beasts, and with precious things beside all that was willingly offered.

7 ¶ [f] Also Cyrus the king brought forth the vessels of the house of the LORD, [g] which Nebuchadnezzar had brought forth out of Jerusalem, and had put them in the house of his gods;

8 Even those did Cyrus king of Persia bring forth by the hand of Mithredath the treasurer, and numbered them unto [h] Sheshbazzar the prince of Judah.

9 And this is the number of them: thirty chargers of gold, a thousand chargers of silver, nine and twenty knives,

10 Thirty basons of gold, silver basons of a second sort four hundred and ten, and other vessels a thousand.

11 All the vessels of gold and of silver were five thousand and four hundred. All these did Sheshbazzar bring up with them of § the captivity that were brought up from Babylon unto Jerusalem.

EZRA.—"Ezra, or Esdras, was a person of high esteem among the Jews: he was of the sacerdotal family, and bore a principal part in the restoration from Babylon. Some have asserted that he was chiefly concerned in revising and compiling most of the books of Scripture. Four, however, of those books go under his name; for amongst the Hebrews, this, and the book of Nehemiah being formerly reckoned but one, they are both inscribed in the Latin and Greek Bibles in the name of Ezra. These two only are acknowledged by our church to be canonical; the two others are apocryphal. The first of these books is certainly the work of Esdras, the second is commonly attributed to Nehemiah. It must, however, be confessed that some small matters have been added to it which cannot belong to Nehemiah. This book is a continuation of the history of the Jews, from the time wherein that of the Chronicles ends, to near the twentieth year of Artaxerxes Longimanus. It contains the history of eighty-two years, from the first year of the reign of Cyrus in Babylon, A. M. 3468, to the nineteenth year of Artaxerxes Longimanus, who sent Nehemiah to Jerusalem, A. M. 3553. The letter of RHUM and SHIMSHAI (chap. 4. 8.), to the king, and the king's answer, were written in the Chaldee language, as were the fifth and sixth chapters, and as far as the twenty-seventh verse of the seventh, and all the rest in Hebrew." (See Calmet's Dictionary on the word Esdras, Prideaux's connections, and Le Clerc's "Sentimens sur quelques Theologiens.")—Dodd.

CHAP. I. Ver. 1. Cyrus.—Concerning Cyrus see Isa. xliv. 28. He was born about six hundred years before the Christian era, and is said to have been the son of Cambyses, king of Persia, and Mandane, daughter of Astyages, king of the Medes.

Ver. 8. Sheshbazzar.—Zerubbabel, the former being his Chaldean name, the latter his Jewish.

Ver. 11. All the vessels, &c.—"Not so many as this number have been mentioned. It seems that only those of greater size and price have been specified: but here is given the gross sum of the whole."—Patrick.

CHAP. II. Ver. 1. These are the children of the province.—That is, of Judea, once a flourishing kingdom, now a tributary and dependant state, called a province, most probably, to signify how sadly it was reduced from its original power and importance among the nations of the earth.

4 The son of Zeraiah, the son of Uzzi, the son of Bukki,

5 The son of Abishua, the son of Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the chief priest:

6 This Ezra went up from Babylon; and he was [d] a ready scribe in the law of Moses, which the LORD God of Israel had given: and the king granted him all his request, [e] according to the hand of the LORD his God upon him.

7 [f] And there went up some of the children of Israel, and of the priests, and [g] the Levites, and the singers, and the porters, and [h] the Nethinims, unto Jerusalem, in the seventh year of Artaxerxes the king.

8 And he came to Jerusalem in the fifth month, which was in the seventh year of the king. B. C. 457.

9 For upon the first day of the first month [o] began he to go up from Babylon, and on the first day of the fifth month came he to Jerusalem, [i] according to the good hand of his God upon him.

10 For Ezra had prepared his heart to [k] seek the law of the LORD, and to do it, and to [l] teach in Israel statutes and judgments.

11 ¶ Now this is the copy of the letter that the king Artaxerxes gave unto Ezra the priest, the scribe, even a scribe of the words of the commandments of the LORD, and of his statutes to Israel.

12 Artaxerxes, [m] king of kings, † unto Ezra the priest, a scribe of the law of the God of heaven, perfect peace, [n] and at such a time.

16 [q] And all the silver and gold that thou canst find in all the province of Babylon, with the freewill offering of the people, and of the priests, [r] offering willingly for the house of their God which is in Jerusalem:

17 That thou mayest buy speedily with this money bullocks, rams, lambs, with their [s] meatofferings and their drink offerings, and [t] offer them upon the altar of the house of your God which is in Jerusalem.

18 And whatsoever shall seem good to thee, and to thy brethren, to do with the rest of the silver and the gold, that do after the will of your God.

19 The vessels also that are given thee for the service of the house of thy God, those deliver thou before the God of Jerusalem.

20 And whatsoever more shall be needful for the house of thy God, which thou shalt have occasion to bestow, bestow it out of the king's treasure house.

21 And I even I Artaxerxes the king, do make a decree to all the treasurers which are beyond the river, that whatsoever Ezra the priest, the scribe of the law of the God of heaven, shall require of you, it be done speedily,

CHAP. X.

1 Shechaniah encourageth Ezra to reform the strange marriages. 6 Ezra mourning assembleth the people. 9 The people, at the exhortation of Ezra, repent, and promise amendment. 15 The care to perform it. 18 The names of them which had married strange wives.

NOW [a]when Ezra had prayed, and when he had confessed, weeping and casting himself down [b]before the house of God, there assembled unto him out of Israel a very great congregation of men and women and children: for the people [*]wept very sore.

2 And Shechaniah the son of Jehiel, one of the sons of Elam, answered and said unto Ezra, We have [c]trespassed against our God, and have taken strange wives of the people of the land: yet now there is hope in Israel concerning this thing.

3 Now therefore let us make [d]a covenant with our God † to put away all the wives, and such as are born of them, according to the counsel of my lord, and of those that [e]tremble at [f]the commandment of our God; and let it be done according to the law.

4 Arise; for this matter belongeth unto thee: we also will be with thee: [g]be of good courage, and do it.

5 Then arose Ezra, and made the chief priests, the Levites, and all Israel, [h]to swear that they should do according to this word. And they sware.

6 ¶ [i]Then Ezra rose up from before the house of God, and went into the chamber of Johanan the son of Eliashib: and when he came thither, he [k]did eat no bread, nor drink water: for he mourned because of the transgression of them that had been carried away.

7 And they made proclamation throughout Judah and Jerusalem unto all the children of the captivity, that they should gather themselves together unto Jerusalem;

8 And that whosoever would not come within three days, according to the counsel of the princes and the elders, all his substance should be forfeited, ‡ and himself separated from the congregation of those that had been carried away.

9 ¶ Then all the men of Judah and Benjamin gathered themselves together unto Jerusalem within three days. It was the ninth month, and the twentieth day of the month; and [l]all the people sat in the street of the house of God, trembling because of this matter, and for § the great rain.

10 And Ezra the priest stood up, and said unto them, Ye have transgressed, and ‖ have taken strange wives, to increase the trespass of Israel.

11 Now therefore [m]make confession unto the LORD God of your fathers, and do his pleasure: and [n]separate yourselves from the people of the land, and from the strange wives.

12 Then all the congregation answered and said with a loud voice, As thou hast said, so must we do.

13 But the people are many, and it is a time of much rain, and we are not able to stand without, neither is this a work of one day or two: for [*]we are many that have transgressed in this thing.

14 Let now our rulers of all the congregation stand, and let all them which have taken strange wives in our cities come at appointed times, and with them the elders of every city, and the judges thereof, until [*]the fierce wrath of our God † for this matter be turned from us.

15 ¶ Only Jonathan the son of Asahel and Jahaziah the son of Tikvah ‡ were employed about this matter: and Meshullam and Shabbethai the Levite helped them.

16 And the children of the captivity did so. And Ezra the priest with certain chief of the fathers, after the house of their fathers, and all of them by their names, were separated, and sat down in the first day of the tenth month to examine the matter.

17 And they made an end with all the men that had taken strange wives by the first day of the first month.

18 ¶ And among the sons of the priests there were found that had taken strange wives: namely, of the sons of Jeshua the son of Jozadak, and his brethren; Maaseiah, and Eliezer, and Jarib, and Gedaliah.

19 And they [p]gave their hands that they would put away their wives; and being [q]guilty, they offered a ram of the flock for their trespass.

[c] Prov. 15. 13.

NEHEMIAH.—"This book begins with an account of Nehemiah's grief at the afflicted state of the Jews: of his application to Artaxerxes for permission to visit and rebuild Jerusalem," the place of his fathers' Sepulchres. Nehemiah then relates his departure and arrival at Jerusalem with authority; he feelingly describes the desolate state of Jerusalem, and his exertions to repair its dismantled walls. He records the names of those patriotic men who assisted him on this occasion; the conspiracy of the Ammonites, and other enemies, against the work, and the defeat of their designs. After the finishing of the walls and fortifications, Nehemiah applied himself to other public objects. The scarcity of inhabitants in the large city of Jerusalem first excited his attention. He fortunately at this time found a register of those persons who returned from captivity under Zerubbabel, which he repeats in the seventh chapter in order to complete the restoration of their possessions to the respective tribes, and to provide that none but the Levites and descendants of Aaron might officiate in the service of the temple and of the priesthood. Nehemiah then describes the public reading of the law to the people; the celebration of the feast of Tabernacles and other religious appointments, observed with a pathetic commemoration and thanksgiving for God's former mercies, as described in preceding books of Scripture. Then follows an account of the renewal of the covenant of obedience and respect to God's law recorded as a memorial, with the names of those who signed it; also a catalogue of those who were appointed by lot, or consented to live at Jerusalem, which was surrounded by hostile neighbours; and the book concludes with a description of the reformation, both civil and religious, which Nehemiah effected."—Dr. Gray.

Some suppose he was a priest, and of the house of Aaron, on the authority of 2 Mac. i. 18—21.; but this is slender evidence. 3 And said unto the king, [d]Let the king live for ever: why should not my countenance be sad, when [e]the city, the place of my fathers' sepulchres, lieth waste, and the gates thereof are consumed with fire?

4 Then the king said unto me, For what dost thou make request? So I prayed to the God of heaven.

5 And I said unto the king, If it please the king, and if thy servant have found favour in thy sight, that thou wouldest send me unto Judah, unto the city of my fathers' sepulchres, that I may build it.

6 And the king said unto me, (the * queen also sitting by him,) For how long shall thy journey be? and when wilt thou return? So it pleased the king to send me; and I set him [f]a time.

7 Moreover I said unto the king, If it please the king, let letters be given me to the governors beyond the river, that they may convey me over till I come into Judah;

8 And a letter unto Asaph the keeper of the king's forest, that he may give me timber to make beams for the gates of the palace which appertained [g]to the house, and for the wall of the city, and for the house that I shall enter into. And the king granted me, [h]according to the good hand of my God upon me.

9 ¶ Then I came to the governors beyond the river, and gave them the king's letters. Now the king had sent captains of the army and horsemen with me.

10 When Sanballat the Horonite, and Tobiah the servant, the Ammonite, heard of it, it grieved them exceedingly that there was come a man to seek the welfare of the children of Israel.

11 So I [i]came to Jerusalem, and was there three days.

12 ¶ And I arose in the night, I and some few men with me; neither told I any man what my God had put in my heart to do at Jerusalem: neither was there any beast with me, save the beast that I rode upon.

13 And I went out by night [k]by the gate of the valley, even before the dragon well, and to the dung port, and viewed the walls of Jerusalem, which were [l]broken down, and the gates thereof were consumed with fire.

14 Then I went on to the [m]gate of the fountain, and to the king's pool: but there was no place for the beast that was under me to pass.

15 Then went I up in the night by the [n]brook, and viewed the wall, and turned back, and entered by the gate of the valley and so returned.

16 And the rulers knew not whither I went, or what I did; neither had I as yet told it to the Jews, nor to the priests, nor to the nobles, nor to the rulers, nor to the rest that did the work.

17 ¶ Then said I unto them, Ye see the distress that we are in, how Jerusalem lieth waste, and the gates thereof are burned with fire: come, and let us build up the wall of Jerusalem, that we be no more [o]a reproach.

18 Then I told them of [p]the hand of my God which was good upon me; as also the king's words that he had spoken unto me. And they said, Let us rise up and build. So they [q]strengthened their hands for this good work.

19 But when Sanballat the Horonite, and Tobiah the servant, the Ammonite, and Geshem the Arabian, heard it, they [r]laughed us to scorn, and despised us, and said, What is this thing that ye do? [s]will ye rebel against the king?

20 Then answered I them, and said unto them, The God of heaven, he will prosper us; therefore we his servants will arise and build: [t]but ye have no portion, nor right, nor memorial in Jerusalem.

17 And after him repaired the Levites, Rehum the son of Bani. Next unto him repaired Hashabiah, the ruler of the half part of Keilah, in his part.

18 After him repaired their brethren, Bavai the son of Henadad, the ruler of the half part of Keilah.

19 And next to him repaired Ezer the son of Jeshua, the ruler of Mizpah, another piece over against the going up to the armoury at the [s]turning of the wall.

20 After him Baruch the son of § Zabbai earnestly repaired the other piece, from the turning of the wall unto the door of the house of Eliashib the high priest.

21 After him repaired Meremoth the son of Urijah the son of Koz another piece, from the door of the house of Eliashib even to the end of the house of Eliashib.

22 And after him repaired the priests, the men of the plain.

23 After him repaired Benjamin and Hashub over against their house. After him repaired Azariah the son of Maaseiah the son of Ananiah by his house.

24 After him repaired Binnui the son of Henadad another piece, from the house of Azariah unto [t]the turning of the wall, even unto the corner.

25 Palal the son of Uzai, over against the turning of the wall, and the tower which lieth out from the king's high house, that was by the [u] court of the prison. After him Pedaiah the son of Parosh.

26 Moreover [x]the Nethinims ‖ dwelt in [y]* Ophel, unto the place over against [z]the water gate toward the east, and the tower that lieth out.

27 After them the Tekoites repaired another piece, over against the great tower that lieth out, even unto the wall of Ophel.

28 From above the [a]horse gate repaired the priests, every one over against his house.

29 After them repaired Zadok the son of Immer over against his house. After him repaired also Shemaiah the son of Shechaniah, the keeper of the east gate.

30 After him repaired Hananiah the son of Shelemiah, and Hanun the sixth son of Zalaph, another piece. After him repaired Meshullam the son of Berechiah over against his chamber.

31 After him repaired Malchiah the goldsmith's son unto the place of the Nethinims, and of the merchants, over against the gate Miphkad, and to the † going up of the corner.

32 And between the going up of the corner unto the sheep gate repaired the goldsmiths and the merchants.

CHAP. IV.

1 While the enemies scoff, Nehemiah prayeth and continueth the work. 7 Understanding the wrath and secrets of the enemy, he setteth a watch. 13 He armeth the labourers, 19 and giveth military precepts.

BUT it came to pass, [a]that when Sanballat heard that we builded the wall, he was wroth, and took great indignation, and mocked the Jews.

2 And he spake before his brethren and the army of Samaria, and said, What do these feeble Jews? will they * fortify themselves? will they sacrifice? will they make an end in a day? will they revive the stones out of the heaps of the rubbish which are burned?

3 Now [b]Tobiah the Ammonite was by him, and he said, Even that which they build, if a fox go up, he shall even break down their stone wall.

4 [c]Hear, O our God; for we are † despised: and [d]turn their reproach upon their own head, and give them for a prey in the land of captivity:

5 And [e]cover not their iniquity, and let not their sin be blotted out from before thee: for they have provoked thee to anger before the builders.

6 So built we the wall; and all the wall was joined together unto the half thereof: for the people had a mind to work.

7 ¶ But it came to pass, that [f]when Sanballat, and Tobiah, and the Arabians, and the Ammonites, and the Ashdodites, heard that the walls of Jerusalem ‡ were made up, and that the breaches began to be stopped, then they were very wroth,

8 And [g]conspired all of them together to come and to fight against Jerusalem, and § to hinder it.

9 Nevertheless [h]we made our prayer unto our God, and set a watch against them day and night, because of them.

10 And Judah said, The strength of the bearers of burdens is decayed, and there is much rubbish; so that we are not able to build the wall.

11 And our adversaries said, They shall not know, neither see, till we come in the 12 And it came to pass, that when the Jews which dwelt by them came, they said unto us ten times, ‖ From all places whence ye shall return unto us they will be upon you.

‖ Or, That from all places ye shall return to us.

13 ¶ Therefore set I [o] in the lower places behind the wall, and on the higher places, I even set the people after their families with their swords, their spears, and their bows.

14 And I looked, and rose up, and said unto the nobles, and to the rulers, and to the rest of the people, [l] Be not ye afraid of them: remember the LORD, which is [k] great and terrible, and [l] fight for your brethren, your sons, and your daughters, your wives, and your houses.

[m] Job 5. 12.

16 And it came to pass from that time forth, that the half of my servants wrought in the work, and the other half of them held both the spears, the shields, and the bows, and the habergeons; and the rulers were behind all the house of Judah.

17 They which builded on the wall, and they that bare burdens, with those that laded, every one with one of his hands wrought in the work, and with the other hand held a weapon.

18 For the builders, every one had his sword girded † by his side, and so builded. And he that sounded the trumpet was by me.

22 Likewise at the same time said I unto the people, Let every one with his servant lodge within Jerusalem, that in the night they may be a guard to us, and labour on the day.

23 So neither I nor my brethren, nor my servants, nor the men of the guard which followed me, none of us put off our clothes, ‡ saving that every one put them off for washing.

8 Then I sent unto him, saying, There are no such things done as thou sayest, but thou feignest them out of thine own heart.

9 For they all made us afraid, saying, Their hand shall be weakened from the work, that it be not done. Now therefore, O God, B. C. 445. strengthen my hands.

16 ¶ So the people went forth, and brought them, and made themselves booths, every one upon the roof [y] of his house, and in their courts, and in the courts of the house of God, and in the street of the [z] water gate, [a] and in the street of the gate of Ephraim.

17 And all the congregation of them that were come again out of the captivity made booths, and sat under the booths: for since the days of Jeshua the son of Nun unto that day had not the children of Israel done so. And there was very [b] great gladness.

18 Also [c] day by day, from the first day unto the last day, he read in the book of the law of God. And they kept the feast seven days; and on the eighth day was ‡ a solemn assembly, [d] according unto the manner.

CHAP. IX.

1 A solemn fast, and repentance of the people. 4 The Levites make a religious confession of God's goodness, and their wickedness.

NOW in the twenty and fourth day of [a] this month the children of Israel were assembled with fasting, and with sackclothes, [b] and earth upon them.

2 And [c] the seed of Israel separated themselves from all * strangers, and stood and confessed their sins, and the iniquities of their fathers.

3 And they stood up in their place, and [d] read in the book of the law of the LORD their God one fourth part of the day; and another fourth part they confessed, and worshipped the LORD their God.

4 ¶ Then stood up upon the † stairs of the Levites, Jeshua, and Bani, Kadmiel, Shebaniah, Bunni, Sherebiah, Bani, and Chenani, and cried with a loud voice unto the LORD their God.

5 Then the Levites, Jeshua, and Kadmiel, Bani, Hashabniah, Sherebiah, Hodijah, Shebaniah, and Pethahiah, said, Stand up and bless the LORD your God for ever and ever: and blessed be [e] thy glorious name, which is exalted above all blessing and praise.

6 [f] Thou, even thou, art LORD alone; [g] thou hast made heaven, [h] the heaven of heavens, with [i] all their host, the earth, and all things that are therein, the seas, and all that is therein, and thou [k] preservest them all; and the host of heaven worshippeth thee.

7 Thou art the LORD the God who didst choose [l] Abram, and broughtest him forth out of Ur of the Chaldees, and gavest him the name of [m] Abraham;

8 And foundest his heart [n] faithful before thee, and madest a [o] covenant with him to give the land of the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Jebusites, and the Girgashites, to give it, I say, to his seed, and [p] hast performed thy words; for thou art righteous:

9 [q] And didst see the affliction of our fathers in Egypt, and [r] heardest their cry by the Red sea;

10 And [s] shewedst signs and wonders upon Pharaoh, and on all his servants, and on all the people of his land: for thou knewest that they [t] dealt proudly against them. So didst thou [u] get thee a name, as it is this day.

11 [x] And thou didst divide the sea before them, so that they went through the midst of the sea on the dry land; and their persecutors thou threwest into the deeps, [y] as a stone into the mighty waters.

12 Moreover thou [z] leddest them in the day by a cloudy pillar; and in the night by a pillar of fire, to give them light in the way wherein they should go.

13 [a] Thou camest down also upon mount Sinai, and spakest with them from heaven, and gavest them [b] right judgments, and ‡ true laws, good statutes and commandments:

14 And madest known unto them thy [c] holy sabbath, and commandedst them precepts, statutes, and laws, by the hand of Moses thy servant:

15 And [d] gavest them bread from heaven for their hunger, and [e] broughtest forth water for them out of the rock for their thirst, and promisedst them that they should [f] go in to possess the land § which thou hadst sworn to give them.

16 [g] But they and our fathers dealt proudly, and [h] hardened their necks, and hearkened not to thy commandments,

17 And refused to obey, [i] neither were mindful of thy wonders that thou didst among them; but hardened their necks, and in their rebellion appointed [k] a captain to return to their bondage: but thou art ‖ a God ready to pardon, [l] gracious and merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness, and forsookest them not.

18 Yea, [m] when they had made them a molten calf, and said, This is thy God that brought thee up out of Egypt, and had wrought great provocations;

19 Yet thou in thy [n] manifold mercies forsookest them not in the wilderness: the [o] pillar of the cloud departed not from them by day, to lead them in the way; neither the pillar of fire by night, to shew them light, and the way wherein they should go.

20 Thou gavest also thy [p] good spirit to instruct them, and withheldest not thy [q] manna from their mouth, and gavest them [r] water for their thirst.

21 Yea, [s] forty years didst thou sustain them in the wilderness, so that they lacked nothing; their [t] clothes waxed not old, and their feet swelled not.

22 Moreover thou gavest them kingdoms and nations, and didst divide them into corners: so they possessed the land of [u] Sihon, and the land of the king of Heshbon, and the land of Og king of Bashan.

23 [x] Their children also multipliedst thou as the stars of heaven, and broughtest them into the land, concerning which thou hadst promised to their fathers, that they should go in to possess it.

24 So [y] the children went in and possessed the land, and [z] thou subduedst before them the inhabitants of the land, the Canaanites, and gavest them into their hands, with their kings, and the people of the land, that they might do with them * as they would.

25 And they took strong cities, and a [a] fat land, and possessed [b] houses full of all goods, † wells digged, vineyards, and oliveyards, and ‡ fruit trees in abundance: so they did eat, and were filled, and [c] became fat, and delighted themselves in thy great [d] goodness.

26 Nevertheless they [e] were disobedient, and rebelled against thee, and [f] cast thy law behind their backs, and slew thy [g] prophets which testified against them to turn them to thee, and they wrought great provocations.

27 [h] Therefore thou deliveredst them into the hand of their enemies, who vexed them: and in the time of their trouble, when they cried unto thee, thou [i] heardest them from heaven; and according to thy manifold mercies [k] thou gavest them saviours, who saved them out of the hand of their enemies.

28 But after they had rest, ‖[l] they did evil again before thee: therefore leftest thou them in the hand of their enemies, so that they had the dominion over them: yet when they returned, and cried unto thee, thou heardest them from heaven; and [m] many times didst thou deliver them according to thy mercies;

29 And testifiedst against them, that thou mightest bring them again unto thy law: yet they [n] dealt proudly, and hearkened not unto thy commandments, but sinned against thy judgments, (° which if a man do, he shall live in them;) and [p] withdrew the shoulder, and hardened their neck, and would not hear.

30 Yet many years didst thou †forbear them, and testifiedst [p] against them by thy spirit ‡[q] in thy prophets: yet would they not give ear: [r] therefore gavest thou them into the hand of the people of the lands.

31 Nevertheless for thy great mercies' sake [s] thou didst not utterly consume them, nor forsake them; for thou art [t] a gracious and merciful God.

32 Now therefore, our God, the great, the [u] mighty, and the terrible God, who keepest covenant and mercy, let not all the § trouble seem little before thee, ‖ that hath come upon us, on our kings, on our princes, and on our priests, and on our prophets, and on our fathers, and on all thy people, [x] since the time of the kings of Assyria unto this day.

33 Howbeit [y] thou art just in all that is brought upon us; for thou hast done right, but [z] we have done wickedly:

34 Neither have our kings, our princes, our priests, nor our fathers, kept thy law, nor hearkened unto thy commandments and thy testimonies, wherewith thou didst testify against them.

35 For they have [a] not served thee in their kingdom, and in [b] thy great goodness that thou gavest them, and in the large and [c] fat land which thou gavest before them, neither turned they from their wicked works.

36 Behold, [d] we are servants this day, and for the land that thou gavest unto our fathers to eat the fruit thereof and the good thereof, behold, we are servants in it:

37 And [e] it yieldeth much increase unto the kings whom thou hast set over us because of our sins: also they have [f] dominion over our bodies, and over our cattle, at their pleasure, and we are in great distress.

38 And because of all this we [g] make a sure covenant, and write it; and our princes, Levites, and priests, [h] seal unto it.

38 And the priest the son of Aaron shall be with the Levites, [x] when the Levites take tithes: and the Levites shall bring up the tithe of the tithes unto the house of our God, to [y] the chambers, into the treasure house.

39 For the children of Israel and the children of Levi [z] shall bring the offering of the corn, of the new wine, and the oil, unto the chambers, where are the vessels of the sanctuary, and the priests that minister, and the porters, and the singers: [a] and we will not forsake the house of our God.

CHAP. XI.

1 The rulers, voluntary men, and the tenth man chosen by by lot, dwell at Jerusalem. 3 A catalogue of their names.
20 The residue dwell in other cities.

AND the rulers of the people dwelt at Jerusalem: the rest of the people also cast lots, to bring one of ten to dwell in Jerusalem [a] the holy city, and nine parts to dwell in other cities.

2 And the people blessed all the men, that [b] willingly offered themselves to dwell at Jerusalem.

3 ¶ [c] Now these are the chief of the province that dwelt in Jerusalem: but in the cities of Judah dwelt every one in his possession in their cities, to wit, Israel, the priests, and the Levites, and [d] the Nethinims, and [e] the children of Solomon's servants.

4 And [f] at Jerusalem dwelt certain of the children of Judah, and of the children of Benjamin. Of the children of Judah; Athaiah the son of Uzziah, the son of Zechariah, the son of Amariah, the son of Shephatiah, the son of Mahalaleel, of the children of [g] Perez;

5 And Maaseiah the son of Baruch, the son of Col-hozeh, the son of Hazaiah, the son of Adaiah, the son of Joiarib, the son of Zechariah, the son of Shiloni.

6 All the sons of Perez that dwelt at Jerusalem were four hundred threescore and eight valiant men.

7 And these are the sons of Benjamin; Sallu the son of Meshullam, the son of Joed, the son of Pedaiah, the son of Kolaiah, the son of Maaseiah, the son of Ithiel, the son of Jesaiah.

8 And after him Gabbai, Sallai, nine hundred twenty and eight.

9 And Joel the son of Zichri was their overseer: and Judah the son of Senuah was second over the city.

10 [h] Of the priests: Jedaiah the son of Joiarib, Jachin.

11 Seraiah the son of Hilkiah, the son of Meshullam, the son of Zadok, the son of Meraioth, the son of Ahitub, was the ruler of the house of God.

12 And their brethren that did the work of the house were eight hundred twenty and two: and Adaiah the son of Jeroham, the son of Pelaliah, the son of Amzi, the son of Zechariah, the son of Pashur, the son of Malchiah,

13 And his brethren, chief of the fathers, two hundred forty and two: and Amashai the son of Azareel, the son of Ahasai, the son of Meshillemoth, the son of Immer,

14 And their brethren, mighty men of valour, an hundred twenty and eight: and their overseer was Zabdiel, * the son of one of the great men.

15 Also of the Levites: Shemaiah the son of Hashub, the son of Azrikam, the son of Hashabiah, the son of Bunni;

16 And Shabbethai and Jozabad, of the chief of the Levites, † had the oversight of ‡ the outward business of the house of God.

17 And Mattaniah the son of Micha, the son of Zabdi, the son of Asaph, was the principal to begin the thanksgiving in prayer: and Bakbukiah the second among his brethren, and Abda the son of Shammua, the son of Galal, the son of Jeduthun.

18 All the Levites in [k] the holy city were two hundred fourscore and four.

19 Moreover the porters, Akkub, Talmon, and their brethren that kept ‡ the gates, were an hundred seventy and two.

20 ¶ And the residue of Israel, of the priests, and the Levites, were in all the cities of Judah, every one in his inheritance.

21 [l] But the Nethinims dwelt in § Ophel: and Ziha and Gispa were over the Nethinims.

22 The overseer also of the Levites at Jerusalem was Uzzi the son of Bani, the son of Hashabiah, the son of Mattaniah, the son of Micha. Of the sons of Asaph, the singers were over the business of the house of God.

24 And Pethahiah the son of Meshezabeel, of the children of [n] Zerah the son of Judah, was [o] at the king's hand in all matters concerning the people.

25 And for the villages, with their fields, [p] some of the children of Judah dwelt at [p] Kirjath-arba, and in the villages thereof, and at Dibon, and in the villages thereof, and at Jekabzeel, and in the villages thereof,

26 And at Jeshua, and at Moladah, and at Beth-phelet,

27 And at Hazar-shual, and at Beer-sheba, and in the villages thereof,

28 And at Ziklag, and at Mekonah, and in the villages thereof,

29 And at En-rimmon, and at Zareah, and at Jarmuth,

30 Zanoah, Adullam, and in their villages, at Lachish, and the fields thereof, at Azekah, and in the villages thereof. And they dwelt from Beer-sheba unto the valley of Hinnom.

31 The children also of Benjamin * from Geba dwelt † at Michmash, and Aija, and Beth-el, and in their villages,

32 And at Anathoth, Nob, Ananiah,

33 Hazor, Ramah, Gittaim,

34 Hadid, Zeboim, Neballat,

35 Lod, and Ono, [q] the valley of craftsmen.

36 And of the Levites were divisions in Judah, and in Benjamin.

NOW these are the [a] priests and the Levites that went up with Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, and Jeshua: [b] Seraiah, Jeremiah, Ezra,

2 Amariah, * Malluch, Hattush,

3 † Shechaniah, ‡ Rehum, § Meremoth,

4 Iddo, ‖ Ginnetho, [c] Abijah,

5 * Miamin, † Maadiah, Bilgah,

6 Shemaiah, and Joiarib, Jedaiah,

7 ‡Sallu, Amok, Hilkiah, Jedaiah. These were the chief of the priests and of their brethren in the days of [d] Jeshua.

8 Moreover the Levites: Jeshua, Binnui, Kadmiel, Sherebiah, Judah, and Mattaniah, [e] which was over § the thanksgiving, he and his brethren.

9 Also Bakbukiah and Unni, their brethren, were over against them in the watches.

10 ¶ And Jeshua begat Joiakim, Joiakim also begat Eliashib, and Eliashib begat Joiada, 11 And Joiada begat Jonathan, and Jonathan begat Jaddua.

12 And in the days of Joiakim were priests, the chief of the fathers: of Seraiah, Meraiah; of Jeremiah, Hananiah;

13 Of Ezra, Meshullam; of Amariah, Jehohanan;

14 Of Melicu, Jonathan; of Shebaniah, Joseph;

15 Of Harim, Adna; of Meraioth, Helkai;

16 Of Iddo, Zechariah; of Ginnethon, Meshullam;

17 Of Abijah, Zichri; of Miniamin; of Moadiah, Piltai;

18 Of Bilgah, Shamua; of Shemaiah, Jehonathan;

19 And of Joiarib, Mattenai; of Jedaiah, Uzzi;

20 Of Sallai, Kallai; of Amok, Eber;

21 Of Hilkiah, Hashabiah; of Jedaiah, Nethaneel.

22 ¶ The Levites in the days of Eliashib, Joiada, and Johanan, and Jaddua, were recorded chief of the fathers: also the priests, to the reign of Darius the Persian.

23 The sons of Levi, the chief of the fathers, were written in the book of the [f] chronicles, even until the days of Johanan the son of Eliashib.

24 And the chief of the Levites: Hashabiah, Sherebiah, and Jeshua the son of Kadmiel, with their brethren over against them, to praise and to give thanks, [g] according to the commandment of David the man of God, [h] ward over against ward.

25 Mattaniah, and Bakbukiah, Obadiah, Meshullam, Talmon, Akkub, were porters keeping the ward at the ‖ thresholds of the gates.

26 These were in the days of Joiakim the son of Jeshua, the son of Jozadak, and in the days of Nehemiah [i] the governor, and of Ezra the priest, [k] the scribe.

27 ¶ And at [l] the dedication of the wall of Jerusalem they sought the Levites out of all their places, to bring them to Jerusalem, to keep the dedication with gladness, [m] both with thanksgivings, and with singing, with cymbals, psalteries, and with harps.

28 And the sons of the singers gathered themselves together, both out of the plain country round about Jerusalem, and from the villages of Netophathi;

29 Also from the house of Gilgal, and out of the fields of Geba and Azmaveth: for the singers had builded them villages round about Jerusalem.

30 And the priests and the Levites purified themselves, and purified the people, and the gates, and the wall.

31 Then I brought up the princes of Judah upon the wall, and appointed two great companies of them that gave thanks, whereof [n] one went on the right hand upon the wall [o] toward the dung gate:

16 There dwelt men of Tyre also therein, which brought fish, and all manner of ware, and sold on the sabbath unto the children of Judah, and in Jerusalem.

17 [x]Then I contended with the nobles of Judah, and said unto them, What evil thing is this that ye do, and profane the sabbath day?

18 [y]Did not your fathers thus, and did not our God bring all this evil upon us, and upon this city? yet ye bring more wrath upon Israel by profaning the sabbath.

19 And it came to pass, that when the gates of Jerusalem [z]began to be dark before the sabbath, I commanded that the gates should be shut, and charged that they should not be opened till after the sabbath: [a]and some of my servants set I at the gates, that there should no burden be brought in on the sabbath day.

ESTHER.—"This book is, in the Hebrew, styled the 'Volume of Esther;' it was received into the Jewish canon with particular veneration, and esteemed above many of the prophetic books, probably because therein are described the origin and ceremonies of the feast of Purim. It is called the book of Esther because it contains the history of this Jewish captive, who, by her remarkable accomplishments, gained the affections of Ahasuerus, and by a marriage with him was raised to the throne of Persia. The author of the book is not certainly known. Some of the fathers suppose it to have been written by Ezra; others contend that it was composed by Joachim, high priest of the Jews and grandson of Jozedech. The Talmudists attribute it to the joint labours of the great synagogue, which succeeded Ezra in the superintendence of the canon of Scripture. The twentieth verse of the ninth chapter of the book has led others to believe that Mordecai was the author; but what is there related to have been written by him seems only to refer to the circular letter which he distributed. There are, lastly, other writers who maintain that the book was the production of Esther's and Mordecai's united industry, and probably they may have communicated an account of events, so interesting to the whole nation, to the great synagogue at Jerusalem, some of the members of which may, with great reason, be supposed to have digested the information thus received into its present form. We have, however, no sufficient evidence to determine, nor is it, perhaps, of much importance to ascertain precisely, who was the author; but that the book contains a faithful and genuine description of what actually did happen is certain, not only from its admission into the canon; but also from the institution of the feast of Purim, which, from its first establishment has been regularly observed as an annual solemnity on the fourteenth and fifteenth of the month Adar, in commemoration of the great deliverance which Esther, by her interest, had procured, and which is even now celebrated among the Jews with many peculiar ceremonies, and with rejoicings, even to intoxication. This festival was called Purim, or the feast of lots (Pur, in the Persian language, signifying a lot) from the events mentioned in chap. iii. 7. ix. 24.

"The book describes the advancement of Esther, who, by the interest which she conciliated with Ahasuerus, delivered the Jews from a great destruction which had been contrived for them by Haman, an insolent favourite of the king. It presents an interesting description of mortified pride, and of malice baffled to the destruction of its contrivers. It likewise exhibits a very lively representation of the vexations and troubles, of the anxieties, treachery and dissimulation, of a corrupt heart. The manners are painted with great force and fidelity; and the vicissitudes and characters are displayed with dramatic effect. The author seems to have been so intimately acquainted with the Persian customs that some have conceived a notion that he transcribed his work from the Persian chronicles. It has been remarked that the name of God is not mentioned throughout the book; His superintendent providence is, however, frequently illustrated: It is shown, indeed, in every part of the work, disconcerting evil designs, and producing great events by means seemingly inadequate."—Dr. Gray.

13 Then thus came every maiden unto the king; whatsoever she desired was given her to go with her out of the house of the women unto the king's house.

14 In the evening she went, and on the morrow she returned into the second house of the women, to the custody of Shaashgaz, the king's chamberlain, which kept the concubines: she came in unto the king no more, except the king delighted in her, and that she were called by name.

11 And the king said unto Haman, The silver is given to thee, the people also, to do with them as it seemeth good to thee.

12 [n] Then were the king's ‖ scribes called on the thirteenth day of the first month, and there was written according to all that Haman had commanded unto the king's lieutenants, and to the governors that were over every province, and to the rulers of every people of every province [o] according to the writing thereof, and to every people after their language; [p] in the name of king Ahasuerus was it written, and sealed with the king's ring.

14 [u] The copy of the writing for a commandment to be given in every province was published unto all people that they should be ready against that day.

B. C. 510.

WHEN Mordecai perceived all that was done, Mordecai [a] rent his clothes, and put on sackcloth [b] with ashes, and went out in to the midst of the city, and [c] cried with a loud and bitter cry;

2 And came even before the king's gate: for none might enter into the king's gate clothed with sackcloth.

3 And in every province, whithersoever the king's commandment and his decree came, there was great mourning among the Jews, and fasting, and weeping, and wailing; and [*] many lay in sackcloth and ashes.

4 ¶ So Esther's maids and her † chamberlains came and told it her. Then was the queen exceedingly grieved; and she sent raiment to clothe Mordecai, and to take away his sackcloth from him: but he received it not.

5 Then called Esther for Hatach, one of the king's chamberlains, ‡ whom he had appointed to attend upon her, and gave him a commandment to Mordecai, to know what it was, and why it was.

6 So Hatach went forth to Mordecai unto the street of the city, which was before the king's gate.

7 And Mordecai told him of all that had happened unto him, and of [d] the sum of the money that Haman had promised to pay to the king's treasuries for the Jews, to destroy them.

8 Also he gave him [e] the copy of the writing of the decree that was given at Shushan to destroy them, to shew it unto Esther, and to declare it unto her, and to charge her that she should go in unto the king, to make supplication unto him, and to make request before him for her people.

9 And Hatach came and told Esther the words of Mordecai.

10 ¶ Again Esther spake unto Hatach, and gave him commandment unto Mordecai;

11 All the king's servants, and the people of the king's provinces, do know, that whosoever, whether man or woman, shall come unto the king into [f] the inner court, who is not called, [g] there is one law of his to put him to death, except such [h] to whom the king shall hold out the golden sceptre, that he may live: but I have not been called to come in unto the king these thirty days.

12 And they told to Mordecai Esther's words.

13 Then Mordecai commanded to answer Esther, Think not with thyself that thou shalt escape in the king's house, more than all the Jews.

14 For if thou altogether holdest thy peace at this time, then shall there § enlargement and deliverance arise to the Jews from another place; but thou and thy father's house shall be destroyed: and who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for such a time as this?

15 ¶ Then Esther bade them return Mordecai this answer,

16 Go, gather together all the Jews that are ‖ present in Shushan, and fast ye for me, and neither eat nor drink [i] three days, night or day: I also and my maidens will fast likewise; and so will I go in unto the king, which is not according to the law: [k] and if I perish, I perish.

17 So Mordecai [*] went his way, and did according to all that Esther had commanded him.

4 And Esther answered, If it seem good unto the king, let the king and Haman come this day unto the banquet that I have prepared for him.

5 Then the king said, Cause Haman to make haste, that he may do as Esther hath said. So the king and Haman came to the banquet that Esther had prepared.

6 ¶ [f] And the king said unto Esther at the banquet of wine, [g] What is thy petition? and it shall be granted thee: and what is thy request? even to the half of the kingdom it shall be performed.

10 Nevertheless Haman [i] refrained himself: and when he came home, he sent and [†] called for his friends, and Zeresh his wife.

11 And Haman told them of the glory of his riches, and [k] the multitude of his children, and all the things wherein the king had promoted him, and how he had [l] advanced him above the princes and servants of the king.

12 Haman said moreover, Yea, Esther the queen did let no man come in with the king unto the banquet that she had prepared but myself; and to morrow am I invited unto her also with the king.

13 Yet all this availeth me nothing, so long as I see Mordecai the Jew sitting at the king's gate.

14 ¶ Then said Zeresh his wife and all his friends unto him, Let a [‡] [m] gallows be made of fifty cubits high, and to morrow [n] speak thou unto the king that Mordecai may be hanged thereon: then go thou in merrily with the king unto the banquet. And the thing pleased Haman; and he caused [o] the gallows to be made.

Here the historical portion of the Old Testament ends. For the period of history from the return of the Jews out of Babylon to the birth of our Saviour, having no inspired writings, the deficiency must be supplied from profane history. The following extract from Dr. Taylor's Scripture Divinity will help to supply it. For a more enlarged account, Dr. Prideaux's valuable work, The Old and New Testament Connected, &c., may be consulted.

"After the Babylonish captivity the Jews no more lapsed into idolatry, but remained steady in the acknowledgment and worship of the one living and true God. Even then they fell into new ways of perverting religion, and the wise and holy intentions of the divine law.

I. "By laying all the stress on the external and less momentous parts of it, while they neglected the weighty and substantial, true holiness of heart and life. Mankind are too easily drawn into this error. While they retain a sense of religion they are too apt to listen to any methods by which it may be reduced to a consistency with the gratification of their passions, pride and avarice. Thus by placing religion in mere profession, or in the zealous observance of rites and ceremonies, instead of real piety, purity, truth, and goodness, they learn to be religious without virtue.

II. "By speculating and commenting upon the divine commands and institutions, till their force is quite enervated, and they are refined into a sense that will commodiously allow a slight regard instead of sincere obedience.

III. "By establishing and confirming the two former methods of corrupting religion, by tradition and the authority of learned Rabbies; pretending that there was a system of religious rules delivered by word of mouth from Moses, explanatory of the written law, known only to those Rabbies; to whose judgment, therefore, and decision all the people were to submit.

"This, in time, the space of 219 years, became the general state of religion among the Jews, after they had discarded idolatry. And this spirit prevailed amongst them for some ages (290 years) before the coming of the Messiah. But, however, it did not interfere with the main system of Providence, or the introducing of the knowledge of God among the nations, as they still continued stedfast in their worship of the true God, without danger of deviating from it. Besides, they were now much more than formerly exercised in reading, thinking and reasoning, and were more capable of themselves of judging what was right (Luke xii. 57); and several of them did so judge. Some of them were truly religious and virtuous, and all of them had strong expectation of the Messiah about the time of his appearance, and were sufficiently qualified to judge of religious matters, and of the evidences of his mission. Thus, the Jews were prepared by the preceding dispensation for the reception of the Messiah, and the just notions of religion he was sent to inculcate: insomuch that their guilt must be greatly aggravated if they rejected him and his instructions. It could not be for want of capacity, but of integrity, and must be assigned to wilful blindness and obduracy. Out of regard to temporal power, grandeur, and enjoyments, they loved darkness rather than light.

"In the meantime the Pagan nations had made great openings in wisdom and virtue. Those arts that began in Greece had travelled into other lands: learning had got footing among the illiterate; and humanity and social affections among the barbarous; and many good and useful books, useful even to this day among Christians, were written in ethics for the right conduct of life. The light of Nature was carried high, or rather the darkness of it was much enlightened. Such was, at length, the state of the Gentiles, God having still been pleased, from time to time, to raise up among them persons uncommonly endowed for their instruction, and to fit them for the day when he should more explicitly reveal himself and his sacred will to them. In a word, what with time and the transmigrating of knowledge from region to region, and the labours of Poets and Philosophers, men, at about the classic æra, when our Lord came into the world, in general had gained tolerably just ideas of virtue and moral truth; and so were in a condition to apprehend and embrace the higher and more important truths of God and his providence, and a future state.

"For many ages the Jews had been well known in the Eastern Empires, among the Assyrians, Chaldeans, Medes, and Persians; but, till the time of Alexander the Great, they had no communication with the Grecians. About the year B. C. 332, Alexander built Alexandria in Egypt; and, to people his new city, removed thither many of the Jews, allowing them the use of their own laws and religion, and the same liberties as the Macedonians themselves. The Macedonians who spoke the Greek language, and other Greeks, were the principal inhabitants of Alexandria. From them the Jews learned to speak Greek, which was the common language of the city, and which soon became the native language of the Jews that lived there, who, on that account, were called Hellenists, or Greek Jews. These Greek Jews had synagogues in Alexandria, and for their benefit the five books of Moses, which alone were at first publicly read, were translated into Greek (by whom is uncertain) and read in their synagogues every Sabbath day. And in the time of Antiochus Epiphanes, about 168 B. C., when the Prophets also began to be read in the synagogues of Judea, the Prophets also were translated into Greek for the use of the Alexandrian Jews. This translation contributed much to the spreading of the knowledge of the true religion among the nations in the Western parts of the world.

"For the Jews, their synagogues and worship, were, after Alexander's death, dispersed almost every where among the nations. Ptolemy, one of Alexander's successors, having reduced Jerusalem and all Judea, 320, B. C., carried 100,000 Jews into Egypt, and there raised considerable numbers of them to places of trust and power, and several of them he placed in Cyrene and Lybia. Seleucus, another of Alexander's successors, about 300 B. C., built Antioch in Cilicia, and many other cities, in all thirty-five, and some of them capital cities in the greater and lesser Asia, in all which he planted the Jews, giving them equal privileges and immunities with the Greeks and Macedonians, especially at Antioch, in Syria, where they settled in great numbers, and became almost as considerable a part of that city as they were at Alexandria. On that memorable day of Pentecost, Acts ii. 5, were assembled in Jerusalem, Jews, devout men out of every nation under heaven, namely, Parthians, Medes, &c. &c., who were all either natural Jews or devout men, i. e. proselytes to the Jewish religion. And in every city of the Roman Empire where Paul preached he found a body of his countrymen, the Jews; except in Athens, which was then, I suppose, a town of no considerable trade. Which shews that the Jews and their synagogues, at the time of our Lord's appearance, were providentially scattered over the whole Roman Empire, and had in every place introduced, more or less among the nations, the knowledge and worship of God, and so had prepared great numbers for the reception of the Gospel.

About the time that Alexander built Alexandria in Egypt, the use of the papyrus for writing was first found out in that country. This invention was so favourable to literature that Ptolemy Soter, one of Alexander's successors, was thereby enabled to erect a museum or library, which, by his son and successor, Philadelphus, who died 247 B. C., was augmented to 100,000 volumes, and by succeeding Ptolemies to 700,000. Part of this library, which was placed in a separate building from the other part, happened to be burnt when Julius Cæsar laid siege to Alexandria; but after that loss it was again much augmented, and soon grew up to be larger and of more eminent note than the former, and so it continued to be for many ages of great fame and use in those parts, till at last it was burnt and finally destroyed by the Saracens, A. D. 642. This plainly proves how much the invention of turning the papyrus into paper contributed to the increase of books, and the advancement of learning for some ages before the coming of our Lord. For, doubtless, by this means private hands would also more easily be supplied with books than before.

"Add to this that the world, after many changes and revolutions, was by God's all-ruling wisdom, thrown into that form of civil affairs which best suited with the great intended alterations. The many petty states and tyrannies, whose passions and bigotry might have run counter to the schemes of Providence, were all swallowed up in one great power, the Romans, to which all appeals lay; the seat of which, Rome, lay at a great distance from Jerusalem, the spring from whence the Gospel was to arise and flow to all nations. And, therefore, as no material obstruction to the Gospel could arise but from that one quarter; none could suddenly arise, thence, but only in process of time, when the Gospel was sufficiently spread and established, as it did not in the least interfere with the Roman polity or government. The Gospel was at first published at a time of general peace and tranquillity throughout the world, which gave the preachers of it an opportunity of passing freely from one country to another, and the minds of men the advantage of attending calmly to it. Many savage nations were civilized by the Romans, and acquainted with the arts and virtues of their conquerors.

"Thus the darkest countries had their thoughts awakened, and were growing into a capacity of receiving, at the stated time, the knowledge of true religion. So that all things and circumstances conspired now with the views of heaven, and made this apparently the fullness of time, or the fittest juncture for God to reveal himself to the Gentiles and put an end to idolatry throughout the east. 12 And the LORD said unto Satan, Be-

JOB.—"Such a diversity of opinions has prevailed in the learned world concerning the nature and design of the poem of Job, that the only point in which commentators seem to agree is the extreme obscurity of the subject. The Book of Job appears to me to stand single and unparalleled in the sacred volume. It seems to have little connection with the other writings of the Hebrews, and no relation whatever to the affairs of the Israelites. The scene is laid in Idumæa; the history of an inhabitant of that country is the basis of the narrative; the characters who speak are Idumæans, or at least Arabians of the adjacent country, all originally of the race of Abraham. The language is pure Hebrew, although the author appears to be an Idumæan; for it is not improbable that all the posterity of Abraham, Israelites, Idumæans, and Arabians, whether of the family of Keturah or Ishmael, spoke for a considerable time one common language. That the Idumæans, however, and the Temanites in particular, were eminent for the reputation of wisdom appears by the testimony of the prophets Jeremiah and Obadiah; Baruch also particularly mentions them amongst "the authors (or expounders) of fables, and searchers out of understanding." The learned are very much divided in their sentiments concerning the author of this book. Our Lightfoot conjectures that it is the production of Elihu; and this conjecture seems, at first sight, rather countenanced by the exordium to the speech of Elihu, in which he seems to assume the character of the author, by continuing the narrative in his own person. That passage, however, which appears to interrupt the speech of Elihu and to be a part of the narrative is, I apprehend, nothing more than an apostrophe to Job, or possibly to himself; for it manifestly consists of two distichs; while, on the contrary, it is well known that all the narrative parts, all in which the author himself appears, are certainly written in prose. Another opinion, which has been still more generally received, attributes the work to Moses. This conjecture, however, for I cannot dignify it with any higher appellation, will be found to rest altogether upon another, namely, that this poem was originally a consolatory address to the Israelites, and an allegorical representation of their situation. And I must confess I can scarcely conceive any thing more futile than such an hypothesis, since it is impossible to trace, throughout the whole book, the slightest allusion to the manners, customs, ceremonies, or history of the Israelites. I will add, moreover, that the style of Job appears to me materially different from the poetical style of Moses; for it is much more compact, concise or condensed, more accurate in the poetical conformation of the sentences; as may be observed also in the prophecies of Balaam, the Mesopotamian, a foreigner, indeed, with respect to the Israelites, but neither unacquainted with their language nor with the worship of the true God. I confess myself, therefore, on the whole, more inclined to favour the opinion of those who suppose Job himself, or some contemporary, to be the author of this poem; for that it is the most ancient of all the sacred books is, I think, manifest from the subject, the language, the general character, and even from the obscurity of the work. Concerning also the time in which Job lived, although not directly specified, I see no great room for doubt. The length of his life evinces that he was before Moses, and probably contemporary with the Patriarchs. Not, however, to dwell upon the innumerable hypotheses of the learned on this subject, I will only mention that there is the utmost probability of his having lived prior to the promulgation of the Law, from the nature of the sacrifice which he institutes conformably to the command of God, namely, seven oxen and seven rams; for it is plain, from the example of Balaam, that a respect for that number prevailed in those countries, and at that period, from the traditional accounts which were still preserved among them of the seven days of creation. The truth of the narrative would never, I am persuaded, have been called in question, but from the immoderate affection of some allegorizing mystics for their own fictions, which run to such excesses as to prevent them from acceding to any thing but what was visionary and typical. When I speak of the poem as founded in fact I would be understood no further than concerns the general subject of the narrative; for, I apprehend, all the dialogue, and most likely some other parts, have partaken largely of the embellishments of poetry; but I cannot allow that this has by any means extended so far as to convert the whole into an allegory. Indeed I have not been able to trace any vestige of an allegorical meaning throughout the entire poem. And should even the exordium be suspected to be of this nature, we must recollect that the historical books are not destitute of similar narratives."—Lowth. (See Prælection 32.)

"Various conjectures," observes Calmet, "have been made concerning the book of Job. Some have thought that Job himself wrote it at first in Syriac or in Arabic and that Moses, or some other Israelite, translated it into Hebrew. Others suppose Elihu, one of Job's friends, to be the author. No decisive proof is furnished by the book itself. It seems to be beyond dispute that the composer of it was a Jew by religion. There are so many allusions in it to Scripture expressions that every one must believe Scripture was very familiar to the author of this poem.

"The original language of the Book of Job is Hebrew, but blended with many Arabic and Chaldee expressions, and several particular terms not usual in Hebrew, for which reason this work is obscure and difficult. It is written in verse, whose beauty consists principally in noble expressions, bold and sublime thoughts, lively emotions, fine descriptions, and great diversity of character. I do not believe that in all antiquity there is a piece of poetry more copious, more lofty, more magnificent, more diversified, more adorned, or more affecting.

"The author, whoever he was, has practised all the beauties of his art in the characters of the four persons whom he brings upon the stage. The history, as to the substance of it, is true; the sentiments, reasons and arguments of the several persons, are faithfully expressed: but it is very probable that the terms and turns of expression are the poet's own."

hold, all that he hath is in thy ‖ power; only upon himself put not forth thine hand. So Satan went forth from the presence of the LORD.

13 ¶ And there was a day [q] when his sons and his daughters were eating and drinking wine in their eldest brother's house:

14 And there came a messenger unto Job, and said, The oxen were plowing, and the asses feeding beside them:

15 And the Sabeans fell upon them, and took them away; yea, they have slain the servants with the edge of the sword; and I only am escaped alone to tell thee.

16 While he was yet speaking, there came also another, and said, * The fire of God is fallen from heaven, and hath burned up the sheep, and the servants, and consumed them; and I only am escaped alone to tell thee.

17 While he was yet speaking, there came also another, and said, The Chaldeans made out three bands, and † fell upon the camels, and have carrried them away, yea, and slain the servants with the edge of the sword; and I only am escaped alone to tell thee.

18 While he was yet speaking, there came also another, and said, [r] Thy sons and thy daughters were eating and drinking wine in their eldest brother's house:

19 And, behold, there came a great wind ‡ from the wilderness, and smote the four corners of the house, and it fell upon the young men, and they are dead; and I only am escaped alone to tell thee.

20 Then Job arose, [s] and rent his § mantle, and shaved his head, and [t] fell down upon the ground, and worshipped,

21 And said, [u] Naked came I out of my mother's womb, and naked shall I return thither: the LORD [x] gave, and the LORD hath [y] taken away; [z] blessed be the name of the LORD.

22 [a] In all this Job sinned not, nor ‖ charged God foolishly.

CHAP. II.

1 Satan appearing again before God obtaineth further leave to tempt Job. 7 He smiteth him with sore boils. 9 Job reproveth his wife, moving him to curse God. 11 His three friends condole with him in silence.

AGAIN [a] there was a day when the sons of God came to present themselves before the LORD, and Satan came also among them to present himself before the LORD.

2 And the LORD said unto Satan, From whence comest thou? And [b] Satan answered the LORD, and said, From going to and fro in the earth, and from walking up and down in it.

3 And the LORD said unto Satan, Hast thou considered my servant Job, that there is none like him in the earth, [c] a perfect and an upright man, one that feareth God, and escheweth evil? and still he [d] holdeth fast his integrity, although thou movedst me against him, * [e] to destroy him without cause.

4 And Satan answered the LORD, and said, Skin for skin, yea, all that a man hath will he give for his life.

5 [f] But put forth thine hand now, and touch his [g] bone and his flesh, and he will curse thee to thy face.

6 [h] And the LORD said unto Satan, Behold, he is in thine hand; † but save his life.

7 ¶ So went Satan forth from the presence of the LORD, and smote Job with sore boils [i] from the sole of his foot unto his crown.

8 And he took him a potsherd to scrape himself withal; [k] and he sat down among the ashes.

9 ¶ Then said his wife unto him, [l] Dost thou still [m] retain thine integrity? curse God, and die.

10 But he said unto her, Thou speakest as one of the foolish women speaketh. What? [n] shall we receive good at the hand of God, and shall we not receive evil? * In all this did not Job [p] sin with his lips.

11 ¶ Now when Job's three [q] friends heard of all this evil that was come upon him, they came every one from his own place; Eliphaz the [r] Temanite, and Bildad the [s] Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite: for they had made an appointment together to come [t] to mourn with him and to comfort him.

12 And when they lifted up their eyes afar off, and knew him not, they lifted up their voice, and wept; and they rent every one his mantle, and [u] sprinkled dust upon their heads toward heaven.

13 So they sat down with him upon the ground [x] seven days and seven nights, and none spake a word unto him: for they saw that his grief was very great.

CHAP. III.

1 Job curses the day and services of his birth. 13 The ease of death. 20 He complaineth of life, because of his anguish.

AFTER this opened Job his mouth, and cursed his day.

2 And Job * spake, and said,

3 [a] Let the day perish wherein I was born, and the night in which it was said, There is a man child conceived.

4 Let that day be darkness; let not God regard it from above, neither let the light shine upon it.

5 Let darkness and [b] the shadow of death † stain it; let a cloud dwell upon it; ‡ let the blackness of the day terrify it.

6 As for that night, let darkness seize upon it; § let it not be joined unto the days of the year, let it not come into the number of the months.

I Job sheweth that his complaints are not causeless. 8 He wisheth for death, wherein he is assured of comfort. 14 He reproveth his friends of unkindness.

BUT Job answered and said,

9 Even [d] that it would please God to destroy me; that he would let loose his hand, and cut me off!

10 Then should I yet have comfort; yea, I would harden myself in sorrow: let him not spare; for [e] I have not concealed the words of [f] the Holy One.

11 What is my strength, that I should hope? and what is mine end, that I should prolong my life?

12 Is my strength the strength of stones? or is my flesh ‖ of brass?

18 The paths of their way are turned aside; they go to nothing, and perish.

19 The troops of [k] Tema looked, the companies of [l] Sheba waited for them.

20 They were [m] confounded because they had hoped; they came thither, and were ashamed.

Ver. 15. to 21. Patrick's paraphrase of these verses is at once so beautiful and satisfactory that I insert it entire. "My dearest friends prove as deceitful as the torrents which make a great noise and run with a violent stream, when the melted ice and snow flow thick into them. They promise water, but in the summer time are dried up; so that you can scarcely find any mark of the course wherein they ran, they are so perfectly vanished. They that travel into our neighbouring countries expected to quench their thirst where they had sorrest mes seen so much water, but were shamefully disappointed, and blushed to think they should seek relief from such uncertain streams."

12 [i] Behold, he taketh away, § who can hinder him? who will say unto him, What doest thou?

16 If I had called, and he had answered me; yet would I not believe that he had hearkened unto my voice.

17 For he breaketh me with a tempest, and multiplieth my wounds [m] without cause.

18 He will not suffer me to take my breath, but filleth me with bitterness.

19 If I speak of strength, lo, he is strong: and if of judgment, who shall set me a time to plead?

20 If I justify myself, mine own mouth shall condemn me: if I say, I am perfect, it shall also prove me perverse.

21 Though I were perfect, yet would I not know my soul: I would despise my life.

22 This is one thing, therefore I said it, [n] He destroyeth the perfect and the wicked.

23 If the scourge slay suddenly, he will laugh at the trial of the innocent.

24 The earth is given into the hand of the wicked: [o] he covereth the faces of the judges thereof; if not, where, and who is he?

25 Now [p] my days are swifter than a post: they flee away, they see no good.

26 They are passed away as the * † swift ships: [q] as the eagle that hasteth to the prey.

27 [r] If I say, I will forget my complaint, I will leave off my heaviness, and comfort myself:

28 [s] I am afraid of all my sorrows, I know that thou [t] wilt not hold me innocent.

29 If I be wicked, why then labour I in vain?

30 [u] If I wash myself with snow water, and make my hands never so clean;

31 Yet shalt thou plunge me in the ditch, and mine own clothes shall ‡ abhor me.

32 For [x] he is not a man, as I am, that I should answer him, and we should come together in judgment.

33 [y] Neither is there § any ‖ days-man betwixt us, that might lay his hand upon us both.

34 [z] Let him take his rod away from me, and let not his fear terrify me:

35 Then would I speak, and not fear him; * but it is not so with me.

[1] MY [a] soul is * weary of my life; I will leave my complaint upon myself; [b] I will speak in the bitterness of my soul.

2 I will say unto God, Do not condemn me; shew me wherefore thou contendest with me.

Ver. 17 and 18. His roots, &c.—Dodd's note on these two verses, which are very obscure, is at least as good as any I have met with. Heath renders the seventeenth verse "He windeth his roots about a spring; he twisteth himself about a heap of stones." And he approves a slight alteration of the text made by Houbigant, who rather more elegantly reads, "He has his roots involved or fixed in a hill; he adheres to the midst of stones;" by which the writer seems to express the apparent firmness and worldly dependence of the hypocrite. The next verse should be rendered, according to Houbigant, "But when they shall eradicate or destroy him, his place shall disown him; it shall say, I never saw thee." Heath chooses rather to read, "When he shall destroy him," referring to the sun mentioned in the sixteenth verse, "the plant is green and full of sap before sun-rise; but when that sun is in its fervour, it is dried up."

1 Job appealeth from men to God. 6 The unmerciful dealing of men with the afflicted may astonish, but not discourage, the righteous. 11 His hope is not in life, but in death.

MY * breath is corrupt, my days are extinct, [a] the graves are ready for me.

2 Are there not mockers with me? and doth not mine eye † continue in their [b] provocation?

4 For thou hast hid their heart from understanding: therefore shalt thou not exalt them.

5 He that speaketh flattery to his friends, even the eyes of his children shall fail.

6 He hath made me also [d] a byword of the people; and ‡ aforetime I was as a tabret.

7 * Mine eye also is dim by reason of sorrow, and all § my members are as a shadow.

8 Upright men shall be astonied at this, and the innocent shall stir up himself against the hypocrite.

9 The righteous also shall hold on his way, and he that hath [f] clean hands ‖ shall be stronger and stronger.

10 But as for you all, [g] do ye return, and come now: for I cannot find one wise man among you.

11 [h] My days are past, my purposes are broken off, even ‖ the thoughts of my heart.

Chap. xvi. Ver. 5. But I would strengthen you with my mouth, &c. —I would support you by consolation, not depress you by reproaches.

Ver. 7. But now he hath made me weary.—My powers of endurance are exhausted by the number and strength of my afflictions.

Ver. 13. He poureth out my gall upon the ground.—He has reduced me to the last extremity; the expression is proverbial, and is supposed to allude to the separating of the gall from the entrails of slain beasts, lest it should flavour the flesh. Job here implies that his sufferings are such as if the gall were violently torn from his bowels.

Ver. 15. Defiled my horn in the dust.—Lost my authority and been reduced to the lowest state of contempt.

Ver. 18. O earth, &c.—The following is Patrick's paraphrase of this verse:—"If this be not true, let my blood be left to the dogs to lick when I am dead, and let neither God nor man regard my complaint when I am all'ce."

Chap. xvii. Ver. 2. Are there not mockers with me, &c.—The meaning of this verse is not very obvious. Calmet reads it thus, "If I have not been united in friendship with the wicked, why are my eyes in bitterness?"

Ver. 3. Lay down now.—Deposit a pledge.

Ver. 6 And aforetimes I was as a tabret.—Coverdale translates this clause, "I am his jestinge stocke among them."

1 Job, complaining of his friends' cruelty, sheweth there is misery enough in him to feed their cruelty. 21—24 He craveth pity. 25 He believeth the resurrection.

THEN Job answered and said,

2 How long will ye vex my soul, and break me in pieces with words?

3 These [a] ten times have ye reproached me: ye are not ashamed that ye [*] make yourselves strange to me.

4 And be it indeed that I have erred, mine error remaineth with myself.

5 If indeed ye will [b] magnify yourselves against me, and plead against me my reproach:

6 Know now that God hath overthrown me, and hath compassed me with his net.

7 Behold, I cry out of † wrong, but I am not heard: I cry aloud, but there is no judgment.

8 [c] He hath fenced up my way that I cannot pass, and he hath set darkness in my paths.

9 [d] He hath stript me of my glory, and taken the crown from my head.

10 He hath destroyed me on every side, and I am gone: and mine hope hath he removed like a tree.

11 He hath also kindled his wrath against me, and [e] he counteth me unto him as one of his enemies.

12 His troops come together, and [f] raise up their way against me, and encamp round about my tabernacle.

13 [g] He hath put my brethren far from me, and mine acquaintance are verily estranged from me.

14 My kinsfolk have failed, and my familiar friends have forgotten me.

15 They that dwell in mine house, and my maids, count me for a stranger: I am an alien in their sight.

16 I called my servant, and he gave me no answer; I entreated him with my mouth.

17 My breath is strange to my wife, though I entreated for the children's sake of ‡ mine own body.

CHAP. XX.

Zophar sheweth the state and portion of the wicked.

THEN answered Zophar the Naamathite, and said,

2 Therefore do my thoughts cause me to answer, and for this * I make haste.

3 I have heard the check of my reproach, and the spirit of my understanding causeth me to answer.

4 Knowest thou not this of old, since man was placed upon earth,

5 [q] That the triumphing of the wicked is † short, and the joy of the hypocrite but for a moment?

6 [b] Though his excellency mount up to the heavens, and his head reach unto the ‡ clouds;

7 Yet he shall perish for ever [c] like his own dung: they which have seen him shall say, Where is he?

8 He shall fly away [d] as a dream, and shall not be found: yea, he shall be chased away as a vision of the night.

9 [e] The eye also which saw him shall see him no more; neither shall his place any more behold him.

10 § His children shall seek to please the poor, and his hands [f] shall restore their goods.

11 His bones are full of [g] the sin of his youth, [h] which shall lie down with him in the dust.

12 Though wickedness be sweet in his mouth, though he hide it under his tongue;

13 Though he spare it, and forsake it not; but keep it still ‖ within his mouth:

14 Yet his meat in his bowels is turned, it is the gall of asps within him.

15 He hath swallowed down riches, and he shall vomit them up again: God shall cast them out of his belly.

16 He shall suck the poison of asps: the viper's tongue shall slay him.

17 He shall not see [i] the rivers, * the floods, the brooks of honey and butter.

18 That which he laboured for [k] shall he restore, and shall not swallow it down: † according to his substance shall the restitution be, and he shall not rejoice therein.

19 Because he hath ‡ oppressed and hath forsaken the poor; because he hath violently taken away an house which he builded not;

20 [l] Surely he shall not § feel quietness in his belly, he shall not save of that which he desired.

21 ‖ There shall none of his meat be left; therefore shall no man look for his goods.

22 In the fulness of his sufficiency he shall be in straits: every hand of the * wicked shall come upon him.

23 When he is about to fill his belly, God shall cast the fury of his wrath upon him, and shall rain it upon him [m] while he is eating.

24 [n] He shall flee from the iron weapon, and the bow of steel shall strike him through.

25 It is drawn, and cometh out of the body; yea, [o] the glittering sword cometh out of his gall: [p] terrors are upon him.

26 All darkness shall be hid in his secret places: [q] a fire not blown shall consume him; it shall go ill with him that is left in his tabernacle.

27 The heaven shall reveal his iniquity; and the earth shall rise up against him.

28 The increase of his house shall depart, and his goods shall flow away in the day of his wrath.

29 [r] This is the portion of a wicked man from God, and the heritage † appointed unto him by God.

CHAP. XXI.

Job sheweth that even in the judgment of man he hath reason to be grieved. Sometimes the wicked do so prosper, as they despise God. 16 Sometimes their destruction is manifest. 22 The happy and unhappy are alike in death. 27 The judgment of the wicked is in another world.

BUT Job answered and said,

2 Hear diligently my speech, and let this be your consolations.

3 Suffer me that I may speak; and after that I have spoken, [a] mock on.

4 As for me, is my complaint to man? and if it were so, why should not my spirit be * troubled?

5 † Mark me, and be astonished, [b] and lay your hand upon your mouth.

6 Even when I remember I am afraid, and trembling taketh hold on my flesh.

7 [c] Wherefore do the wicked live, become old, yea, are mighty in power?

8 Their seed is established in their sight with them, and their offspring before their eyes.

9 Their houses ‡ are safe from fear, [d] neither is the rod of God upon them.

10 Their bull gendereth, and faileth not; their cow calveth, and [e] casteth not her calf.

Ver. 29. And do ye not know their tokens.—"It was the custom of the ancients to bury near the high roads, or in the most public and conspicuous places; and to erect a pillar or monument over the dead to preserve his memory. These pillars, if they had any inscription at all upon them, recorded, no doubt, the name and title of the person, and perhaps some of the happiest circumstances of his life, or what was most remarkable in his death. These inscriptions usually bespoke attention by, 'Stop, traveller,' or words to that purpose. These then, probably, are the marks or tokens to which Job directs his friends, and which he advises them either to consult themselves, or to ask the travellers about them; and from thence they would be naturally led to make the inference or conclusion which follows in the next verse."—Peters.

CHAP. XXVI. Ver. 5. Dead things are formed from under the waters.—The word Rephaim, here rendered dead things, literally signifies giants; the meaning of the verse, therefore, seems to be this, "Shall the Rephaim (giants) be brought forth again from under the waters, with which they were overwhelmed at the flood, or their neighbours, those wicked souls which have since been gathered to their assembly?" Patrick's paraphrase is clear and gives a good sense, "I know, as well as thou canst inform me, the power of God, which appears not only in the heavens (to which thou biddest me look) but even in the lowest parts of the earth, where vast giant-like creatures are formed under the water, whose inhabitants are innumerable."

CHAP. XXVIII.

1 There is a knowledge of natural things. 12 But wisdom is an excellent gift of God.

SURELY there is * a vein for the silver, and a place for gold where they fine it.

2 Iron is taken out of the †earth, and brass is molten out of the stone.

3 He setteth an end to darkness, and searcheth out all perfection: the stones of darkness, and the shadow of death.

4 The flood breaketh out from the inhabitant; even the waters forgotten of the foot: they are dried up, they are gone away from men.

5 As for the earth, out of it cometh bread: and under it is turned up as it were fire.

6 The stones of it are the place of sapphires: and it hath ‡ dust of gold.

7 There is a path which no fowl knoweth, and which the vulture's eye hath not seen:

8 The lion's whelps have not trodden it, nor the fierce lion passed by it.

9 He putteth forth his hand upon the §rock; he overturneth the mountains by the roots.

10 He cutteth out rivers among the rocks; and his eye seeth every precious thing.

11 He bindeth the floods ‖ from overflowing; and the thing that is hid bringeth he forth to light.

12 [a] But where shall wisdom be found? and where is the place of understanding?

13 Man knoweth not the [b] price thereof; neither is it found in the land of the living.

14 [c] The depth saith, It is not in me: and the sea saith, It is not with me.

15 * It [d] cannot be gotten for gold, neither shall silver be weighed for the price thereof.

16 It cannot be valued with the gold of Ophir, with the precious onyx, or the sapphire.

17 The gold and the crystal cannot equal it: and the exchange of it shall not be for †jewels of fine gold.

18 No mention shall be made of ‡ coral, or of pearls: for the price of wisdom is above rubies.

19 The topaz of Ethiopia shall not equal it, neither shall it be valued with pure gold.

20 [e] Whence then cometh wisdom? and where is the place of understanding?

21 Seeing it is hid from the eyes of all living, and kept close from the fowls of the §air.

22 [f] Destruction and death say, We have heard the fame thereof with our ears.

23 God understandeth the way thereof, and he knoweth the place thereof.

24 For he looketh to the ends of the earth, and [g] seeth under the whole heaven;

25 [h] To make the weight for the winds; and he weigheth the waters by measure.

26 When he [i] made a decree for the rain, and a way for the lightning of the thunder:

27 Then did he see it, and ‖ declare it; he prepared it, yea, and searched it out.

28 And unto man he said, Behold, [k] the fear of the LORD, that is wisdom; and to depart from evil is understanding.

Job bemoaneth himself of his former prosperity and honour.

8 The young men saw me, and hid themselves: and the aged arose, and stood up.

9 The princes refrained talking, and [f] laid their hand on their mouth.

10 § The nobles held their peace, and their [g] tongue cleaved to the roof of their mouth.

11 When the ear heard me, then it blessed me; and when the eye saw me, it gave witness to me:

12 Because [h] I delivered the poor that cried, and the fatherless, and him that had none to help him.

13 The blessing of him that was ready to perish came upon me: and I caused the widow's heart to sing for joy.

14 [i] I put on righteousness, and it clothed me: my judgment was as a robe and a diadem.

15 I was [k] eyes to the blind, and feet was I to the lame.

16 I was a father to the poor: and [l] the cause which I knew not I searched out.

17 And I brake [m] ‖ the jaws of the wicked, and * plucked the spoil out of his teeth.

18 Then I said, [n] I shall die in my nest, and I shall multiply my days as the sand.

19 [o] My root was † spread out [p] by the waters, and the dew lay all night upon my branch.

20 My glory was ‡ fresh in me, and [q] my bow was § renewed in my hand.

CHAP. XXVIII. Ver. 3. He setteth an end to darkness. "'The stones of darkness,' and 'the shadow of death,' most surely mean the metallic ore in the deep and dark parts of the earth. The agent, then, who searcheth them out, must be man. He, also it is whose pride and presumption 'setteth an end to darkness,' that is, contracts its bounds by carrying light into the subterraneous caverns when he works the mines."—Scott.

Ver. 4. The flood breaketh, &c.—"A flood breaks out from some neighbouring place and disturbs the miners, for the waters seem as if they would stagnate there, and never stir a foot; but, by the hard labour of man, they are drained and leave the place dry again."—Patrick.

CHAP. XXIX. Ver. 3. When his candle shined upon my head.—Alluding, probably, to the lamps suspended from the ceiling in banquetting halls, the light of which fell upon the heads of the guests.

Ver. 4. When the secret of God was upon my tabernacle.—"When there was a secret blessing of God upon me and my family."—Poole.

Ver. 6. This verse denotes extraordinary prosperity.

Ver. 7. When I prepared my seat in the street!—When I sat in the open street administering justice indiscriminately to all.

15 [l]Did not he that made me in the womb make him? and † did not one fashion us in the womb?

16 If I have withheld the poor from their desire, or have caused the eyes of the widow to fail;

17 Or have eaten my morsel myself alone, and the fatherless hath not eaten thereof;

18 (For from my youth he was brought up with me, as with a father, and I have guided ‡ her from my mother's womb;)

19 If I have seen any perish for want of clothing, or any poor without covering;

20 If his loins have not [k]blessed me, and if he were not warmed with the fleece of my sheep;

21 If I have lifted up my hand [l]against the fatherless, when I saw my help in the gate:

22 Then let mine arm fall from my shoulder blade, and mine arm be broken from § the bone.

23 For [m]destruction from God was a terror to me, and by reason of his highness I could not endure.

24 [n]If I have made gold my hope, or have said to the fine gold, Thou art my confidence;

25 [o]If I rejoiced because my wealth was great, and because mine hand had ‖ gotten much;

26 [p]If I beheld * the sun when it shined, or the moon walking † in brightness;

27 And my heart hath been secretly enticed, or ‡ my mouth hath kissed my hand:

28 This also were [q]an iniquity to be punished by the judge: for I should have denied the God that is above.

29 [r]If I rejoiced at the destruction of him that hated me, or lifted up myself when evil found him:

CHAP. XXXII.

1 Elihu is angry with Job and his three friends. 6 Because wisdom cometh not from age, he executeth the boldness of his youth. 11 He reproveth them for not satisfying of Job. 16 His zeal to speak.

SO these three men ceased * to answer Job, because he was [a]righteous in his own eyes.

2 Then was kindled the wrath of Elihu the son of Barachel [b]the Buzite, of the kindred of Ram: against Job was his wrath kindled, because he justified † himself rather than God.

3 Also against his three friends was his wrath kindled, because they had found no answer, and yet had condemned Job.

4 Now Elihu had ‡ waited till Job had spoken, because they were § elder than he.

5 When Elihu saw that there was no answer in the mouth of these three men, then his wrath was kindled.

6 And Elihu the son of Barrachel the Buzite answered and said, I am ‖ young, [c]and ye are very old; wherefore I was afraid, and * durst not shew you mine opinion.

7 I said, Days should speak, and multitude of years should teach wisdom.

8 But there is a spirit in man: and [d]the inspiration of the Almighty giveth them understanding.

9 [e]Great men are not always wise: neither do the aged understand judgment.

10 Therefore I said, Hearken to me; I also will shew mine opinion.

11 Behold, I waited for your words; I gave ear to your † reasons, whilst ye searched out ‡ what to say.

12 Yea, I attended unto you, and, behold, there was none of you that convinced Job, or that answered his words:

13 [f]Lest ye should say, We have found out wisdom: God thrusteth him down, not man.

14 Now he hath not § directed his words against me: neither will I answer him with your speeches.

15 They were amazed, they answered no more: ‖ they left off speaking.

16 When I had waited, (for they spake not, but stood still, and answered no more;)

17 I said, I will answer also my part, I also will shew mine opinion.

CHAP. XXXIII. Ver. 14. God speaketh once, yea twice.—God admonishes man at different times and in various ways.

Ver. 16. And sealeth their instruction.—And imprints it on their minds as with a seal.

Ver. 22. To the destroyers.—To those various diseases which become the destroyers of human life.

CHAP. XXXIV. Ver. 6. Should I lie against my right?—Houbigant reads "As to my accusation, I am belied: my wound is mortal, though I have not transgressed."

Ver. 7. Who drinketh up scorning like water.—Who is very profuse in scornful and impetuous railing.

13 Who hath given him a charge over the earth? or who hath disposed § the whole world?

14 If he set his heart ‖ upon man, if he [k] gather unto himself his spirit and his breath;

15 [l] All flesh shall perish together, and man shall turn again unto dust.

16 If now thou hast understanding, hear this: hearken to the voice of my words.

17 [m] Shall even he that hateth right * govern? and wilt thou condemn him that is most just?

18 [n] Is it fit to say to a king, Thou art wicked? and to princes, Ye are ungodly?

19 How much less to him that [o] accepteth not the persons of princes, nor regardeth the rich more than the poor? for [p] they all are the work of his hands.

20 In a moment shall they die, and the people shall be troubled [q] at midnight, and pass away: and † the mighty shall be taken away without hand.

21 [r] For his eyes are upon the ways of man, and he seeth all his goings.

22 [s] There is no darkness, nor shadow of death, where the workers of iniquity may hide themselves.

23 For he will not lay upon man more than right; that he should ‡ enter into judgment with God.

24 [t] He shall break in pieces mighty men § without number, and set others in their stead.

25 Therefore he knoweth their works, and he overturneth them in the night, so that they are ‖ destroyed.

26 He striketh them as wicked men * in the open sight of others;

27 Because they [u] turned back † from him and [x] would not consider any of his ways:

28 So that they [y] cause the cry of the poor to come unto him, and he [z] heareth the cry of the afflicted.

29 When he giveth quietness, who then can make trouble? and when he hideth his face, who then can behold him? whether it be done against a nation, or against a man only:

30 That the hypocrite reign not, lest [a] the people be ensnared.

31 Surely it is meet to be said unto God, [b] I have borne chastisement, I will not offend any more:

32 That which I see not teach thou me: if I have done iniquity, I will do no more.

33 ‡ Should it be according to thy mind? he will recompense it, whether thou refuse, or whether thou choose; and not I: therefore speak what thou knowest.

34 Let men § of understanding tell me, and let a wise man hearken unto me.

35 [c] Job hath spoken without knowledge, and his words were without wisdom.

36 ‖ My desire is that Job may be tried unto the end because of his answers for wicked men.

37 For he addeth rebellion unto his sin, he clappeth his hands among us, and multiplieth his words against God.

CHAP. XXXV.

1 Comparison is not to be made with God, because our good or evil cannot extend unto him. 9 Many cry in their afflictions, but are not heard for want of faith.

ELIHU spake moreover, and said,

2 Thinkest thou this to be right, that thou saidst, My righteousness is more than God's?

3 For [a] thou saidst, What advantage will it be unto thee? and, What profit shall I have, * if I be cleansed from my sin?

4 † I will answer thee, and [b] thy companions with thee.

5 [c] Look unto the heavens, and see; and behold the clouds which are higher than thou.

6 If thou sinnest, what doest thou [d] against him? or if thy transgressions be multiplied, what doest thou unto him?

7 [e] If thou be righteous, what givest thou him? or what receiveth he of thine hand?

8 Thy wickedness may hurt a man as thou art; and thy righteousness may profit the son of man.

9 [f] By reason of the multitude of oppressions they make the oppressed to cry: they cry out by reason of the arm of the mighty.

10 But none saith, [g] Where is God my maker, [h] who giveth songs in the night;

11 Who [i] teacheth us more than the beasts of the earth, and maketh us wiser than the fowls of heaven?

12 [k] There they cry, but none giveth answer, because of the pride of evil men.

13 [l] Surely God will not hear vanity, neither will the Almighty regard it.

14 [m] Although thou sayest thou shalt not see him, yet judgment is before him; therefore [n] trust thou in him.

15 But now, because it is not so, ‡ he hath [o] visited in his anger; yet § he knoweth it not in great extremity:

16 [q] Therefore doth Job open his mouth in vain; he multiplieth words without knowledge.

CHAP. XXXVI.

1 Elihu sheweth how God is just in his ways. 16 How Job's sins hinder God's blessings. 24 God's works are to be magnified.

ELIHU also proceeded, and said,

2 Suffer me a little, and I will shew thee * that I have yet to speak on God's behalf.

3 I will fetch my knowledge from afar, and will ascribe righteousness to my Maker.

4 For truly my words shall not be false: he that is perfect in knowledge is with thee.

5 Behold, God is mighty, and despiseth not any: [a] he is mighty in strength and † wisdom.

6 He preserveth not the life of the wicked: but giveth right to the ‡ poor.

B. C. cir. 1520.

7 [b] He withdraweth not his eyes from the righteous: but [c] with kings are they on the throne; yea, he doth establish them for ever, and they are exalted.

8 And [d] if they be bound in fetters, and be holden in cords of affliction;

9 Then he sheweth them their work, and their transgressions that they have exceeded.

10 [e] He openeth also their ear to discipline, and commandeth that they return from iniquity.

11 If they obey and serve him, they shall [f] spend their days in prosperity, and their years in pleasures.

12 But if they obey not, § they shall perish by the sword, and they shall die without knowledge.

13 But the hypocrites in heart [g] heap up wrath: they cry not when he bindeth them.

14 [h] ‖ They die in youth, and their life is among the * unclean.

15 He delivereth the † poor in his affliction, and openeth their ears in oppression.

16 Even so would he have removed thee out of the strait [i] into a broad place, where there is no straitness; and ‡ [k] that which should be set on thy table should be full of [l] fatness.

17 But thou hast fulfilled the judgment of the wicked: § judgment and justice take hold on thee.

18 Because there is wrath, beware lest he take thee away with his stroke: then [m] a great ransom cannot ‖ deliver thee.

19 [n] Will he esteem thy riches? no, not gold, nor all the forces of strength.

20 Desire not the night, when people are cut off in their place.

21 Take heed, [o] regard not iniquity: for this [p] hast thou chosen rather than affliction.

22 Behold, God exalteth by his power: [q] who teacheth like him?

23 [r] Who hath enjoined him his way? or [s] who can say, Thou hast wrought iniquity?

24 Remember that thou [t] magnify his work, which men behold.

25 Every man may see it; man may behold it afar off.

26 Behold, God is great, and we [u] know him not, [x] neither can the number of his years be searched out.

27 For he [y] maketh small the drops of water: they pour down rain according to the vapour thereof:

28 [z] Which the clouds do drop and distil upon man abundantly.

29 Also can any understand the spreadings of the clouds, or the noise of his tabernacle?

30 Behold, he [a] spreadeth his light upon it, and covereth * the bottom of the sea.

31 For [b] by them judgeth he the people; he [c] giveth meat in abundance.

32 [d] With clouds he covereth the light; and commandeth it not to shine by the cloud that cometh betwixt.

33 [e] The noise thereof sheweth concerning it, the cattle also concerning † the vapour.

CHAP. XXXVII.

1 God is to be feared because of his great works. 15 His wisdom is unsearchable in them.

AT this also my heart trembleth, and is moved out of his place.

2 * Hear attentively the noise of his voice, and the sound that goeth out of his mouth.

3 He directeth it under the whole heaven, and his † lightning unto the ‡ ends of the earth.

4 After it [a] a voice roareth: he thundereth with the voice of his excellency; and he will not stay them when his voice is heard.

5 God thundereth marvellously with his voice; [b] great things doeth he, which we cannot comprehend.

6 For [c] he saith to the snow, Be thou on the earth; § likewise to the small rain, and to the great rain of his strength.

7 He sealeth up the hand of every man; [d] that all men may know his work.

8 Then the beasts [e] go into dens, and remain in their places.

9 ‖ Out of the south cometh the whirlwind: and cold out of the * north.

10 [f] By the breath of God frost is given: and the breadth of the waters is straitened.

11 Also by watering he weareth the thick cloud: he scattereth † his bright cloud:

12 And it is turned round about by his counsels: that they may [g] do whatsoever he commandeth them upon the face of the world in the earth.

13 [h] He causeth it to come, whether for ‡ correction, or [i] for his land, or [k] for mercy.

14 Hearken unto this, O Job: stand still, and [l] consider the wondrous works of God.

15 Dost thou know when God disposed them, and caused the light of his cloud to shine?

16 [m] Dost thou know the balancings of the clouds, the wondrous works of [n] him which is perfect in knowledge?

17 How thy garments are warm, when he quieteth the earth by the south wind?

18 Hast thou with him * spread out the sky, which is strong, and as a molten looking glass?

19 Teach us what we shall say unto him; for we cannot order our speech by reason of darkness.

20 Shall it be told him that I speak? if a man speak, surely he shall be swallowed up.

1 God challengeth Job to answer. 4 God, by his mighty work, convinceth Job of ignorance, 31 and of imbecility.

THEN the LORD answered Job [a] out of the whirlwind, and said,

2 [b] Who is this that darkeneth counsel by [c] words without knowledge?

3 Gird up now thy loins like a man; for I will demand of thee, and * answer thou me.

4 [d] Where wast thou when I laid the foundations of the earth? declare, † if thou hast understanding.

5 Who hath laid the measures thereof, if thou knowest? or who hath stretched the line upon it?

6 Whereupon are the ‡ foundations thereof § fastened? or who laid the corner stone thereof;

7 When the morning stars sang together, and all [f] the sons of God shouted for joy?

8 [g] Or who shut up the sea with doors, when it brake forth, as if it had issued out of the womb?

9 When I made the cloud the garment thereof, and thick darkness a swaddlingband for it,

10 And ‖ [h] brake up for it my decreed place, and set bars and doors,

11 And said, Hitherto shalt thou come, but no further: and here shall * thy proud waves [i] be stayed?

12 Hast thou [k] commanded the morning since thy days; and caused the dayspring to know his place;

13 That it might take hold of the † ends of the earth, that [l] the wicked might be shaken out of it?

14 It is turned as clay to the seal; and they stand as a garment.

15 And from the wicked their [m] light is withholden, and [n] the high arm shall be broken.

16 Hast thou [o] entered into the springs of the sea? or hast thou walked in the search of the depth?

17 Have [p] the gates of death been opened unto thee? or hast thou seen the doors of the shadow of death?

18 Hast thou perceived the breadth of the earth? declare if thou knowest it all.

19 Where is the way where light dwelleth? and as for darkness, where is the place thereof?

20 That thou shouldest take it ‡ to the bound thereof, and that thou shouldest know the paths to the house thereof?

21 Knowest thou it, because thou wast then born? or because the number of thy days is great?

22 Hast thou entered into [q] the treasures of the snow? or hast thou seen the treasures of the hail,

23 [r] Which I have reserved against the time of trouble, against the day of battle and war?

24 By what way is the light parted, which scattereth the east wind upon the earth?

25 Who [s] hath divided a watercourse for the overflowing of waters, or a way for the lightning of thunder;

26 To cause it to rain on the earth, where no man is; on the wilderness, wherein there is no man;

27 [t] To satisfy the desolate and waste ground; and to cause the bud of the tender herb to spring forth?

28 [u] Hath the rain a father? or who hath begotten the drops of dew?

29 Out of whose womb came the ice? and the [x] hoary frost of heaven, who hath gendered it?

30 The waters are hid as with a stone, and the face of the deep § is [y] frozen.

31 Canst thou bind the sweet influences of [z] ‖ * Pleiades, or loose the bands of † Orion?

32 Canst thou bring forth ‡ Mazzaroth in his season? or canst thou § guide Arcturus with his sons?

33 Knowest thou [a] the ordinances of heaven? canst thou set the dominion thereof in the earth?

34 Canst thou lift up thy voice to the clouds, that abundance of waters may cover thee?

35 Canst thou send lightnings, that they may go, and say unto thee, ‖ Here we are?

36 [b] Who hath put wisdom in the inward parts? or who hath given understanding to the heart?

37 Who can number the clouds in wisdom? or * who can stay the bottles of heaven, 38 † When the dust ‡ groweth into hardness, and the clods cleave fast together?

THE PSALMS.—"The book of Psalms is a most admirable piece of poetry, which moves more powerfully, and touches the mind more sensibly, than sentences in prose; especially when it is in such perfection as we find it in these divine inspirations. For, as Melancthon truly speaks, this is the most elegant work extant in the world, and hath performed that, I may add, which Plato himself wished for, but confessed was above the reach of mere men. There was no more efficacious way, that philosopher clearly saw, of instructing youth than by odes and songs; about which he discourses at large, and gives a great many cautions in his second book of laws; but, after all, concludes at last "This must be the work of God or of some divine man;" wherein he plainly acknowledges the defect of their institution, though certain poems were pretended then to have been anciently made by their goddess Isis, and marvellously justifies the Hebrew discipline, who taught their children or scholars by hymns which Moses, the man of God, began to compose (Exod. xv., Deut. xxxii.), and other inspired persons afterwards imitated (Judges v., I Sam. ii.), but was brought to perfection by David; who, as he was an admirable artist in music and himself invented some musical instruments, as we learn from the prophet Amos (vi. 5.), so was an incomparable poet, and took all occasions to exercise this faculty, not on such low subjects as those to which it is commonly debased, but in abundance of divine meditations, which are gathered together in this book; wherein he calls upon them to listen unto him, saying, "Come, ye children, hearken unto me, and I will teach you the fear of the Lord." Psalm xxxiv. 11. It is called in their language Sepher Tehillem, the Book of Psalms, or Hymns, that is, praises of the Lord; because, though there are many complaints, and imprecations, and prayers in it, yet the greatest part are praises or thanksgivings unto God: and in those others, there are many mixtures of acknowledgments of what God had formerly done for him, or of confidence in what he would still do, or of resolutions how thankful he would be when God granted him deliverance; which gave them such a strange power "to cure heaviness, to extirpate grief, to wipe away sorrow, to lay aside troublesome thoughts and passions, to ease us of our cares, to recreate those who are oppressed with any sort of pains, (these are the words of Proclus, Archbishop of Constantinople) as well as to move compunction for sin, and to stimulate unto piety," that no book in the world is to be compared with it for these purposes. And, as it is called the Book of Psalms or praises, from the major part, so they are called David's Psalms, because he made the most of them, though, it must be confessed, there were several other authors by whom some of them were composed."—Bishop Patrick.

PSALM I. Blessed is the man, &c.—This psalm is supposed to be a sort of introduction to the whole book. The Psalmist here points out the difference between pious and ungodly men, both in time and in eternity. The author of it is not positively ascertained, neither has it any title, but it is, with pretty general consent, ascribed to David. Fenwick, in his introduction to this psalm, thinks that the subject of it, as of the whole book, is the Messiah.

PSALM II. Why do the heathen, &c.—Bishop Patrick concurs with the Rabbins in supposing this psalm to contain an illustrious prophecy of the Messiah's dominion, which, in spite of the malicious obstructions of the Scribes and Pharisees, and the previous persecution of the heathens, flourished and has extended to every part of the habitable globe. It may be understood primarily to refer to the kingdom of David, secondarily to the kingdom of Christ, the one being a type of the other. In the first sense it celebrates actually the taking of Jerusalem and the overthrow of the neighbouring principalities; in the second prospectively, the victories obtained by the gospel over the Jews, the heathen governors of Rome and its dependant states.

¶ To the chief Musician on Neginoth [*] † upon Sheminith, A Psalm of David.

O [a] LORD, rebuke me not in thine anger, neither chasten me in thy hot displeasure.

Patrick. The term Neginoth, in the title, is supposed to signify the stringed instruments to which it was to be sung.

PSALM III. Ver. 1. Lord, how are they increased, &c.—This psalm is supposed to have been composed by David, when obliged to quit Jerusalem in consequence of the unnatural rebellion of his son, Absalom, when the majority of his subjects deserted him and sided with the rebel. Conceiving that his crown was lost to him, under the severe oppression of his grief, he gave utterance to this beautiful lamentation, which was afterwards set to music and sung in the temple. "It cannot be certainly known," observes Bishop Patrick, "what is meant by the word SELAH, which we meet with thrice in this short psalm. The most probable opinion is that it was a note for music, 'in which David,' as Theodoret observes upon this word, 'being a very great master, he set some of his psalms himself, to be sung to such instruments as he thought were most agreeable to the notes.' But that music being now lost, some interpreters have wholly omitted this word Selah."

PSALM IV. Ver. 1. Hear me, &c.—"We can learn no more from the title of this psalm but that David was the author of it, and that he delivered it to the master of music in the tabernacle, to be sung to the stringed instruments. But when, or upon what occasion, he penned it, is not certainly known, though the matter of it makes it probable it was in the same, or the like, distress, wherein he made the foregoing psalm."—Bishop

PSALM V. Ver. 1. Give ear, &c.—Of the title of this psalm it will be sufficient here to say that Nehiloth is supposed to signify wind instruments. The psalm was probably written by David, on account of his numerous enemies, and especially of Achitophel. He represents himself as performing his morning devotion in the temple, and supplicating the divine protection against those adversaries who had exercised their malice and falsehood against him, which he describes with great energy, at the same time expressing his certain confidence in God's favour and deliverance.

PSALM VI. Ver. 1. O Lord, rebuke me not.—This is one of the seven penitential psalms, in which David prays to be relieved from some grievous malady, which he evidently assumes to have been the punishment of his transgression, and this he knew was very serious. He exhibits, however, extreme penitence; his prayer is heard, and he obtains a complete triumph over those enemies who had rejoiced in his affliction. The word Sheminith, in the title, is supposed to signify a harp with eight strings.

PSALM IX.

1 David praiseth God for executing of judgment. 11 He inciteth others to praise him. 13 He prayeth that he may have cause to praise him.

To the chief Musician upon Muthlabben, 1018.
A Psalm of David.

I WILL praise thee, O LORD, with my whole heart; I will shew forth all thy marvellous works.

PSALM VII. Shiggaion.—This word denotes a wandering ode, and Bishop Horsely supposes the psalm may have had this title from the circumstance of its being divided into parts, each part embracing a different subject in a different style of composition. The subject is one of striking interest. David begins with praying for deliverance from his enemies, and from one enemy pre-eminent in malice above all others; next follows a protestation of his innocence; he then supplicates the divine justice on himself and all men; supposes the Deity on his tribunal in heaven, and prays for retribution to the wicked no less than for mercy to the just. Finally his enemy suffers defeat, and meets the reward of his iniquity. The psalm concludes with a fervent thanksgiving.

Cush, the Benjamite, is not a name known in Jewish history. "Whether Saul or Shimei," observes Bishop Horne, "or any one else, be intended under this name, it is sufficiently clear that David had been maliciously aspersed and calumniated by such a person, and that the psalm was written to vindicate himself from the imputation, whatever was the nature of it."

PSALM VIII. Upon Gittith.—This word signifies wine-presses, and, therefore, some commentators suppose that a musical instrument, used at the time of vintage, is here intended. It refers clearly to some description of musical instruments, but what kind cannot now be ascertained.

Ver. 1. O Lord, our Lord, &c.—This psalm manifestly relates to Christ's victory over death, his resurrection from the grave, and the consummation of that victory, his ascension into heaven, and his consequent redemption of his lapsed creatures from the dreadful penalty of sin. That Christ is the subject of this psalm will appear from Matt. xxi. 16., Heb. ii. 6–9.

PSALM IX. Muth-labben.—This is, perhaps, the name of some unknown musical instrument, or it may be the title of a tune, as Dr. S. Clarke observes. Upon what particular occasion this psalm was composed has not been ascertained; it was, however, very probably, as Bishop Horne supposes, to celebrate the victories obtained by David over the neighbouring nations, after God had exalted him to be king over his people, Israel.

9 [p]He lieth in wait § secretly as a lion in his den: he lieth in wait to catch the poor: he doth catch the poor, when he draweth him into his net.

10 ‖ He croucheth, and humbleth himself, that the poor may fall * by his strong ones.

11 He hath said in his heart, God hath forgotten: [q]he hideth his face; he will never see it.

12 Arise, O LORD; O God, [r]lift up thine hand: forget not the † humble.

13 Wherefore doth the wicked contemn God? he hath said in his heart, Thou wilt not require it.

14 Thou hast seen it; for thou beholdest mischief and spite, to requite it with thy hand: the poor ‡ [s]committeth himself unto thee; [t]thou art the helper of the fatherless.

15 [u]Break thou the arm of the wicked and the evil man: seek out his wickedness till thou find none.

16 [x]The LORD is King for ever and ever: the heathen are perished out his land.

17 LORD, thou hast heard the desire of the humble: thou wilt § [y]prepare their heart, thou wilt cause thine ear to hear:

18 To [z]judge the fatherless and the oppressed, that the man of the earth may no more ‖ oppress.

PSALM X. Ver. 1. Why standest thou, &c.—This psalm appears to belong to the time of the captivity, it is not known by whom, or upon what occasion it was composed, but it gives an energetic description of profligate rulers and persons in authority, who blaspheme the name of God and oppress his people, which he, in his infallible wisdom, appears to disregard, but which he will certainly avenge in his own time.

PSALM XI. Ver. 1. In the Lord, &c.—The form of dialogue in which this divine ode is written imparts to it great energy and beauty. It was, probably, composed upon David being obliged to betake himself to the mountainous parts of Judea, in order to remove himself beyond the reach of Saul's malice. "In the first verse David expostulates with his friends for advising him to fly to the mountainous parts of Judea, as the only safe retreat from Saul. In the second and third verses, he subjoins the reasons which his friends assign for their advice. In the four last he replies to the advice of his friends, telling them that the God of heaven, who searcheth the heart, would protect the innocent."—Green.

1 David complaineth of delay in help. 3 He prayeth for preventing grace. 5 He boasteth of divine mercy.

¶ To the * chief Musician, A Psalm of David.

HOW long wilt thou forget me, O LORD? for ever? [a]how long wilt thou hide thy face from me?

2 How long shall I take counsel in my soul, having sorrow in my heart daily? how long shall mine enemy be exalted over me?

3 Consider and hear me, O LORD my God: [b]lighten mine eyes, [c]lest I sleep the sleep of death;

4 [d]Lest mine enemy say, I have prevailed against him; and those that trouble me rejoice when I am moved.

5 But I have [e]trusted in thy mercy; my heart shall rejoice in thy salvation.

6 I will sing unto the LORD, because he hath [f]dealt bountifully with me.

PSALM XIV.

1 David describeth the corruption of a natural man. 4 He convinceth the wicked by the light of their conscience. 7 He glorieth in the salvation of God.

¶ To the chief Musician, A Psalm of David.

THE [a]fool hath said in his heart, There is no God. [b]They are corrupt, they have done abominable works, there is none that doeth good.

2 [c]The LORD looked down from heaven upon the children of men, to see if there were any that did understand, and seek God.

3 [d]They are all gone aside, they are all together become * filthy: there is none that doeth good, no, not one.

4 Have all the workers of iniquity no knowledge? who [e]eat up my people as they eat bread, and [f]call not upon the LORD.

5 There † were they in great fear: for God is in the generation of the righteous.

6 Ye have shamed the counsel of the poor, because the LORD is his [g]refuge.

7 ‡ [h]Oh that the salvation of Israel were come out of Zion! [i]when the LORD bringeth back the captivity of his people, Jacob shall rejoice, and Israel shall be glad.

PSALM XV.

David describeth a citizen of Zion.

¶ A Psalm of David.

LORD, [a]who shall * abide in thy tabernacle? who shall dwell in [b]thy holy hill?

2 [c]He that walketh uprightly, and worketh righteousness, and [d]speaketh the truth in his heart.

3 [e]He that backbiteth not with his tongue, nor doeth evil to his neighbour, [f]nor † taketh up a reproach against his neighbour.

4 [g]In whose eyes a vile person is contemned; but he honoureth them that fear the LORD. He that [h]sweareth to his own hurt, and changeth not.

5 [i]He that putteth not out his money to usury, [k]nor taketh reward against the innocent. He that doeth these things [l]shall never be moved.

PSALM XVI.

1 David, in distrust of merits, and hatred of idolatry, fleeth to God for preservation. 5 He setteth the hope of his calling, of the resurrection, and life everlasting.

¶ * † Michtam of David.

PRESERVE me, O God: [a]for in thee do I put my trust.

2 O my soul, thou hast said unto the LORD, Thou art my Lord: [b]my goodness extendeth not to thee;

3 But to the saints that are in the earth, and to the excellent, in whom is all my delight.

4 Their sorrows shall be multiplied that

PSALM XII. Ver. 1. Help, Lord, &c.—The Psalmist here complains of the profligacy, deceit, and treachery abounding in the world; particularly at the Court of Saul, and generally throughout his dominions. He, perhaps, points particularly at Doeg and the treacherous Ziphites, who promised David their friendship in order the more securely to abandon him to the vengeance of the tyrannical king.

PSALM XIII. Ver. 1. How long wilt thou forget me, &c.—It is conjectured by Theodoret that this psalm was composed by David when he was suffering under the rebellion of his undutiful son, Absalom. In the first four verses he represents his danger from his enemy, and prays for deliverance; in the last he expresses his assurance in the divine mercy.

PSALM XIV. Ver. 1. The fool hath said in his heart, &c.—The general profligacy of the people by whom the Israelites were led into captivity is the subject of this noble effusion of the inspired bard. He describes the miseries of Israel under bondage, and the crimes of the heathens, whose impiety was of the worst description; supplicating the Almighty to restore the former to that inheritance from which they had been borne into the most odious slavery.

PSALM XV. Ver. 1. Lord, who shall abide, &c.—It is not known when David composed this psalm, which contains an animated exhortation to sobriety of behaviour and godliness of living.

PSALM XVI. Michtam.—This title is placed before several psalms, and is rendered in the Septuagint, "An inscription for, or to be engraved on, a pillar." It has been, therefore, thought to mean that the psalms bearing this title are worthy of being written in letters of gold, that they may be held in everlasting remembrance. The real meaning, after all, is mere matter of conjecture. This divine song is supposed to contain a remarkable prophecy concerning the Messiah, pointing especially to his resurrection. It expresses, besides, trust in God under persecution by David's enemies, especially Saul.

PSALM XVII.

1 David, in confidence of his integrity, craveth defence of God against his enemies. 10 He sheweth their pride, craft, and eagerness. 13 He prayeth against them in confidence of his hope.

¶ A Prayer of David.

HEAR * the right, O LORD, attend unto my cry, give ear unto my prayer, that goeth † not out of feigned lips.

David praiseth God for his manifold and marvellous blessings.

¶ To the chief Musician, A Psalm of David, * the servant of the LORD, who spake unto the LORD the words of † this song in the day that the LORD delivered him from the hand of all his enemies, and from the hand of Saul: And he said,

I a WILL love thee, O LORD, my strength.

2 The LORD is my rock, and my fortress, and my deliverer; my God, ‡ my strength, b in whom I will trust; my buckler, and the horn of my salvation, and my high tower.

5 The ‖ sorrows of hell compassed me about: the snares of death prevented me.

6 In my distress I called upon the LORD, and cried unto my God: he heard my voice out of his temple, and my cry came before him, even into his ears.

7 e Then the earth shook and trembled; the foundations also of the hills moved and were shaken, because he was wroth.

8 There went up a smoke * out of his nostrils, and fire out of his mouth devoured: coals were kindled by it.

9 f He bowed the heavens also, and came down: and darkness was under his feet.

10 g And he rode upon a cherub, and did fly: yea, h he did fly upon the wings of the wind.

PSALM XVII. Ver. 1. Hear the right, &c.—This is a prayer of David, offered, probably, when he was under accusation of seeking Saul's life and aspiring to the crown. He earnestly beseeches God to deliver him from those who, eager after his life, are about to destroy him. He maintains his innocence against their calumnies, giving a vivid picture of their malice in the fourteenth verse, and concludes with supplicating the divine grace to establish him in righteousness, and that he may be ever enjoying the presence of God.

PSALM XVIII. Ver. 1. I will love thee, &c.—"This psalm begins with a solemn acknowledgment of God, as David's all-powerful protector and only refuge in danger, when he needed salvation from his enemies (ver. 1—3). He then describes the distresses he had been in (ver. 4, 5), and the wonderful manner by which God, in answer to his prayer, was pleased to deliver him; in which the terrors and dreadful effects of the divine vengeance are described by the sublimest images and loftiest expressions (ver. 6—19). He next proceeds to the mention of his own integrity in his adherence to God, and strict observance of the law of Moses; declaring that God's conduct towards himself, in thus rewarding him according to his righteousness, was agreeable to the settled method of his providence, and that all good men might expect from him constant marks of his protection and favour (ver. 20—27). He then gratefully ascribes all his military power, strength, and prudence; his successes, victories, the enlargement of his dominions, the destruction and subjugation of his enemies, to the favour and goodness of God; concluding the whole with a solemn thanksgiving for the mercy God had shown him, and the settlement of the crown and kingdom of Israel on his family for ever." (ver. 28—50.) Dodd.

14 [m] Yea, he sent out his arrows, and scattered them; and he shot out lightnings, and discomfited them.

15 [n] Then the channels of waters were seen, and the foundations of the world were discovered at thy rebuke, O LORD, at the blast of the breath of thy nostrils.

16 [o] He sent from above, he took me, he drew me out of † many waters.

17 He delivered me from my strong enemy, and from them which hated me: for they were too strong for me.

18 They prevented me in the day of my calamity: but the LORD was my stay.

19 [p] He brought me forth also into a large place; he delivered me, because he delighted in me.

20 [q] The LORD rewarded me according to my righteousness; according to the cleanness of my hands hath he recompensed me.

21 For I have kept the ways of the LORD, and have not wickedly departed from my God.

22 For all his judgments were before me, and I did not put away his statutes from me.

23 I was also upright ‡ before him, and I kept myself from mine iniquity.

24 [r] Therefore hath the LORD recompensed me according to my righteousness, according to the cleanness of my hands § in his eyesight.

25 [s] With the merciful thou wilt shew thyself merciful; with an upright man thou wilt shew thyself upright;

26 With the pure thou wilt shew thyself pure; and [t] with the froward thou wilt ‖ shew thyself froward.

27 For thou wilt save the afflicted people; but wilt bring down [u] high looks.

28 [x] For thou wilt light my [*] candle: the LORD my God will enlighten my darkness.

29 For by thee I have † run through a troop; and by my God have I leaped over a wall.

30 As for God, [y] his way is perfect: [z] the word of the LORD is ‡ tried: he is a buckler [a] to all those that trust in him.

31 [b] For who is God save the LORD? or who is a rock save our God?

32 It is God that [c] girdeth me with strength, and maketh my way perfect.

33 [d] He maketh my feet like hinds' feet, and [e] setteth me upon my high places.

34 [f] He teacheth my hands to war, so that a bow of steel is broken by mine arms.

35 Thou hast also given me the shield of thy salvation: and thy right hand hath holden me up, and § thy gentleness hath made me great.

36 Thou hast enlarged my steps under me, [g] that ‖ my feet did not slip.

37 I have pursued mine enemies, and overtaken them: neither did I turn again till they were consumed.

38 I have wounded them that they were not able to rise: they are fallen under my feet.

39 For thou hast girded me with strength unto the battle: thou hast [*] subdued under me those that rose up against me.

40 Thou hast also given me the necks of mine enemies; that I might destroy them that hate me.

41 They cried, but there was none to save them: [h] even unto the LORD, but he answered them not.

42 Then did I beat them small as the dust before the wind: I did [i] cast them out as the dirt in the streets.

43 [k] Thou hast delivered me from the strivings of the people; and [l] thou hast made me the head of the heathen: [m] a people whom I have not known shall serve me.

44 † As soon as they hear of me, they shall obey me: ‡ the strangers [n] shall § ‖ submit themselves unto me.

45 [o] The strangers shall fade away, and be afraid out of their close places.

46 The LORD liveth; and blessed be my rock; and let the God of my salvation be exalted.

47 It is God that [*] avengeth me, [p] and † subdueth the people unto me.

48 He delivereth me from mine enemies: yea, [q] thou liftest me up above those that rise up against me: thou hast delivered me from the ‡ violent man.

49 [r] Therefore will I § give thanks unto thee, O LORD, among the heathen, and sing praises unto thy name.

50 [s] Great deliverance giveth he to his king; and sheweth mercy to his anointed, to David, and to his seed [t] for evermore.

PSALM XIX.

1 The creatures shew God's glory. 7 The word, his grace. 12 David prayeth for grace.

¶ To the chief Musician, A Psalm of David.

THE [a] heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth his handy work.

2 Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night sheweth knowledge.

3 There is no speech nor language, [*] † where their voice is not heard.

4 [b] ‡ Their line is gone out through all the earth, and their words to the end of the world. In them hath he set a tabernacle for the sun,

5 Which is as a bridegroom coming out of his chamber, [c] and rejoiceth as a strong man to run a race.

6 His going forth is from the end of the heaven, and his circuit unto the ends of it: and there is nothing hid from the heat thereof.

7 [d] The § law of the LORD is perfect, ‖ converting the soul: the testimony of the LORD is sure, making wise the simple.

8 The statutes of the LORD are right, rejoicing the heart: [*] the commandment of the LORD is pure, [f] enlightening the eyes.

9 The fear of the LORD is clean, enduring for ever: the judgments of the LORD are [*] true and righteous altogether.

PSALM XIX. Ver. 1. The heavens declare, &c.—This is a most sublime composition, exhibiting the glory of God in his stupendous works, both of Nature and Grace. The wonders of creation and the blessings of revelation are alike set forth in this divine song, which concludes with a supplication for preservation from presumptuous sins and for acceptance with God.

PSALM XX. Ver. 1. The Lord hear thee, &c. This is one of what are called the dialogue psalms, and appears to be divided as follows: David, having resolved to commence a war against his enemies, repairs to the temple to offer the customary sacrifices. When these are completed, the people put up their prayers for his success; these are comprised in the three first verses. The fourth verse was spoken by the high-priest, the fifth by the king and his suite, except the last clause, which was uttered by the high-priest. The sixth verse was likewise uttered by the high-priest, after the victim had been consumed; the seventh and eighth by David and his attendants, and the ninth by the whole assembly, by way of chorus.

PSALM XXI. Ver. 1. Thou hast given him, &c. This psalm is generally supposed to refer to the spiritual conquests of the Messiah.

PSALM XXII. Ver. 1. My God, my God, &c.—Here is given a most touching representation of David's sufferings, his anguish of mind and disquietude of heart, at the calamities by which he was overtaken. The forms in which these sufferings are represented refer, as is generally supposed, to those endured by Christ for man's redemption. The type and antitype are here exhibited. The title, Aijeleth Shahar, has not been satisfactorily explained by any commentator, so far as I know. The literal meaning of it is "The hind of the morning." The explanation of Mudge is as probable as any. "The morning hind was probably a well known song, which gave name to a particular tune, if not instrument, most unlikely of the melancholy kind, as possibly it might describe a poor hind pursued by hunters."

¶ A Psalm of David.

THE [a] earth is the LORD'S, and the fulness thereof; the world, and they that dwell therein.
2 [b] For he hath founded it upon the seas, and established it upon the floods.
3 [c] Who shall ascend into the hill of the LORD? or who shall stand in his holy place?
4 [d] * He that hath [e] clean hands, and [f] a pure heart; who hath not lifted up his soul unto vanity, nor [g] sworn deceitfully.
5 He shall receive the blessing from the LORD, and righteousness from the God of his salvation.
6 This is the generation of them that seek him, that [h] seek thy face, † O Jacob. Selah.
7 [i] Lift up your heads, O ye gates; and be ye lift up, ye everlasting doors; [k] and the King of glory shall come in.
8 Who is this King of glory? The LORD strong and mighty, the LORD mighty in battle.
9 Lift up your heads, O ye gates; even lift them up, ye everlasting doors; and the King of glory shall come in.
10 Who is this King of glory? The LORD of hosts, he is the King of glory. Selah.

¶ A Psalm of David.

UNTO [a] thee, O LORD, do I lift up my soul.
2 O my God, I [b] trust in thee: let me not be ashamed, [c] let not mine enemies triumph over me.
3 Yea, let none that wait on thee be

PSALM XXIII. Ver. 1. The Lord is my shepherd, &c.—David's confidence in the divine sustentation is beautifully expressed in this psalm. He had been delivered from the persecutions of Saul, and placed upon the throne of Israel. The Deity had remarkably signalized the son of Jesse, who compares his Almighty benefactor first to a shepherd, who anxiously watches and carefully guards his flock, and next, to a generous benefactor upon whom he might always rely for kind entertainment and unfailing support.

PSALM XXIV. Ver. 1. The earth is the Lord's, &c.—"The bringing of the ark of God to Mount Zion by David (1. Chron. 15.) gave occasion to this psalm. The removal of the ark was celebrated in a great assembly of the people, and with suitable splendour during every part of the ceremony. The Levites led the procession, accompanied by a great variety of vocal and instrumental music; and this ode appears to have been sung to the people when they arrived at the summit of the mountain. The opening is expressive of the supreme and infinite dominion of God, arising from the right of creation."—Bp. Lowth.

PSALM XXV. Ver. 1. Unto thee, O Lord, &c.—This is one of the alphabetical or acrostic psalms, so called because in the original every line begins with a different letter of the Hebrew alphabet, taking each letter consecutively. It was, no doubt, written by David when suffering under severe anguish of mind, probably after the assassination of Uriah, when he was stung with remorse at the magnitude of his sin. It is remarkable that before this event he always spoke very confidently of his innocence, but subsequently with great contrition and self-abasement.

ashamed: let them be ashamed which transgress without cause.

4 [d]Shew me thy ways, O LORD; teach me thy paths.

5 Lead me in thy truth, and teach me: for thou art the God of my salvation; on thee do I wait all the day.

6 Remember, O LORD, [e]thy tender mercies and thy lovingkindnesses; for they have been ever of old.

7 Remember not [f]the sins of my youth, nor my transgressions: [g]according to thy mercy remember thou me for thy goodness' sake, O LORD.

8 Good and upright is the LORD: therefore will he teach sinners in the way.

9 The meek will he guide in judgment: and the meek will he teach his way.

10 All the paths of the LORD are mercy and truth unto such as keep his covenant and his testimonies.

11 [h]For thy name's sake, O LORD, pardon mine iniquity; [i]for it is great.

12 What man is he that feareth the LORD? [k]him shall he teach in the way that he shall choose.

13 [l]His soul † shall dwell at ease; and [m]his seed shall inherit the earth.

14 [n]The secret of the LORD is with them that fear him; ‡ and he will shew them his covenant.

15 [o]Mine eyes are ever toward the LORD; for he shall § pluck my feet out of the net.

16 [p]Turn thee unto me, and have mercy upon me; for I am desolate and afflicted.

17 The troubles of my heart are enlarged: O bring thou me out of my distresses.

18 [q]Look upon mine affliction and my pain; and forgive all my sins.

19 Consider mine enemies; for they are many; and they hate me with ‖ cruel hatred.

20 O keep my soul, and deliver me: [r]let me not be ashamed; for I put my trust in thee.

21 Let integrity and uprightness preserve me; for I wait on thee.

22 [s]Redeem Israel, O God, out of all his troubles.

PSALM XXVI.

David resorteth unto God in confidence of his integrity.

¶ A Psalm of David.

JUDGE [a]me, O LORD; for I have [b]walked in mine integrity: [c]I have trusted also in the LORD; therefore I shall not slide.

2 [d]Examine me, O LORD, and prove me; try my reins and my heart.

3 For thy lovingkindness is before mine eyes: and [e]I have walked in thy truth.

4 [f]I have not sat with vain persons, neither will I go in with dissemblers.

5 I have [g]hated the congregation of evil doers; [h]and will not sit with the wicked.

6 [i]I will wash mine hands in innocency: so will I compass thine altar, O LORD:

7 That I may publish with the voice of thanksgiving, and tell of all thy wondrous works.

8 LORD, [k]I have loved the habitation of thy house, and the place * where thine honour dwelleth.

9 + [l]Gather not my soul with sinners, nor my life with ‡ bloody men:

10 In whose hands is mischief, and their right hand is § full of [m]bribes.

11 But as for me, I will [n]walk in mine integrity: redeem me, and be merciful unto me.

12 [o]My foot standeth in an [p]even place: [q]in the congregation will I bless the LORD.

PSALM XXVII.

David sustaineth his faith by the power of God, 4 by his love to the service of God, 9 by prayer.

¶ A Psalm of David.

THE LORD is [a]my light and [b]my salvation; whom shall I fear? [c]the LORD is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid?

2 When the wicked, even mine enemies and my foes, * came upon me to [d]eat up my flesh, they stumbled and fell.

3 [e]Though an host should encamp against me, my heart shall not fear: though war should rise against me, in this will I be confident.

4 [f]One thing have I desired of the LORD, that will I seek after; that I may [g]dwell in the house of the LORD all the days of my life, to behold † [h]the beauty of the LORD, and to enquire in his temple.

5 For [i]in the time of trouble he shall hide me in his pavilion: in the secret of his tabernacle shall he hide me; he shall [k]set me upon a rock.

6 And now shall [l]mine head be lifted up above mine enemies round about me: therefore will I offer in his tabernacle sacrifices ‡ of joy; I will sing, yea, I will sing praises unto the LORD.

7 Hear, O LORD, when I cry with my voice: have mercy also upon me, and answer me.

8 § When thou saidst, [m]Seek ye my face; my heart said unto thee, Thy face, LORD, will I seek.

9 [n]Hide not thy face far from me; put not thy servant away in anger: thou hast been my help; leave me not, neither forsake me, O God of my salvation.

10 [o]When my father and my mother forsake me, then the LORD ‖ will take me up.

11 [p]Teach me thy way, O LORD, and lead me in * a plain path, because of † mine enemies.

12 [q]Deliver me not over unto the will of mine enemies: for [r]false witnesses are risen up against me, and such as [s]breathe out cruelty.

13 I had fainted, unless I had believed to see the goodness of the LORD [t]in the land of the living.

PSALM XXVI. Ver. 1. Judge me, &c.—Theodoret supposes this psalm to have been written by David, whilst he was among the Philistines, or in some place of secrecy whither he had fled from the persecution of Saul, to which it refers.

PSALM XXVII. Ver. 1. The Lord is my light, &c.—This seems to be a continuation of the foregoing psalm, referring likewise to the tyranny of Saul and the malice of David's enemies, but declaring his entire trust in God, who would deliver him from their evil machinations. He implores a continuance of the divine protection, of which he expresses an humble and pious confidence.

PSALM XXXI.

1 David shewing his confidence in God craveth his help. 7 He rejoiceth in his mercy. 9 He prayeth in his calamity. 19 He praiseth God for his goodness.

¶ To the chief Musician, A Psalm of David.

IN [a]thee, O LORD, do I put my trust; let me never be ashamed: [b]deliver me in thy righteousness.

[a] Ps. 22. 5. & 25. 2. & 71. 1. Isa. 49. 23. [b] Ps. 143. 1.

PSALM XXVIII. Ver. 1. Unto thee will I cry, &c.—"This psalm," says Mudge, "has several states. In the first five verses the author prays for support against his enemies, who seem to have acted treacherously towards him. In the sixth and seventh he has gained the victory and returns triumphant with songs. The eighth is a chorus of people or priests, echoing back the words of the preceeding verse. The last verse seems to be a prayer of the king for the people, in return to their acclamations for him."

PSALM XXIX. Ver. 1. Give unto the Lord, &c. This is a most sublime composition, and appears to have been produced immediately after a terrible thunder-storm, to which allusion is made in terms of prodigious grandeur. It is probable that by the sudden effects of the lightning, wind and rain, the foes of David had been thrown into such disorder that he was enabled to obtain an easy victory over them. He consequently takes the opportunity of exhorting his foes, as well as his own people, to submit to Him to whom the elements are obedient, and who can as easily discomfit a host of warriors as one man, but who, though he scattereth abroad the ungodly, will "bless his people with peace."

PSALM XXX. Ver 1. I will extol, &c.—Calmet supposes this psalm to have been composed by David on the dedication of the house which he built in the threshing floor of Araunah, the Jebusite, after the plague which had so nearly depopulated his kingdom (2 Sam. 24, 25). (Ver 1. 3.) The psalmist returns thanks to God for deliverance. (Ver. 4, 5.) He bids the righteous offer up their thanksgivings at the recollection of divine mercy. (Ver. 6, 7.) He speaks of his own feelings under prosperity, and how his trials brought him to a subdued and right temper of mind. (Ver. 8—10.) He exhibits the earnestness of his supplication for mercy. (Ver. 11, 12.) God hears and accepts his prayer, he rejoices and glorifies the Giver with the voice of thanksgiving.

PSALM XXXI. Ver. 1. In thee, O Lord, &c.—Mudge observes of this psalm, "There are many strokes in it which point to the prophet Jeremiah as the author. The thirteenth verse begins with exactly the same words as are found Jeremiah xx. 10. The account of his enemies agrees well with the people of Anathoth, who had plotted to take away his life, and in a treacherous manner, by drawing him in to say things on which they might ground a charge; the miraculous preservation he found at Jerusalem during the siege (ver. 19—21), where others suffered extremely, is another proof."

2 [c] Bow down thine ear to me; deliver me speedily: be thou [*] my strong rock, for an house of defence to save me.

3 [d] For thou art my rock and my fortress; therefore [e] for thy name's sake lead me, and guide me.

4 Pull me out of the net that they have laid privily for me: for thou art my strength.

5 [f] Into thine hand I commit my spirit: thou hast redeemed me, O LORD God of truth.

6 I have hated them [g] that regard lying vanities: but I trust in the LORD.

7 I will be glad and rejoice in thy mercy: for thou hast considered my trouble; thou hast [h] known my soul in adversities;

8 And hast not [i] shut me up into the hand of the enemy: [k] thou hast set my foot in a large room.

9 Have mercy upon me, O LORD, for I am in trouble: [l] mine eye is consumed with grief, yea, my soul and my belly.

10 For my life is spent with grief, and my years with sighing: my strength faileth because of mine iniquity, and [m] my bones are consumed.

11 [n] I was a reproach among all mine enemies, but [o] especially among my neighbours, and a fear to mine acquaintance: [p] they that did see me without fled from me.

12 [q] I am forgotten as a dead man out of mind: I am like † a broken vessel.

13 [r] For I have heard the slander of many: [s] fear was on every side: while they [t] took counsel together against me, they devised to take away my life.

14 But I trusted in thee, O LORD: I said, Thou art my God.

15 My times are in thy hand: deliver me from the hand of mine enemies, and from them that persecute me.

16 [u] Make thy face to shine upon thy servant: save me for thy mercies' sake.

17 [x] Let me not be ashamed, O LORD; for I have called upon thee: let the wicked be ashamed, and [y] ‡ let them be silent in the grave.

18 [z] Let the lying lips be put to silence; which [a] speak § grievous things proudly and contemptuously against the righteous.

19 [b] Oh how great is thy goodness, which thou hast laid up for them that fear thee; which thou hast wrought for them that trust in thee before the sons of men!

20 [c] Thou shalt hide them in the secret of thy presence from the pride of man: [d] thou shalt keep them secretly in a pavilion from the strife of tongues.

21 Blessed be the LORD: for [e] he hath shewed me his marvellous kindness [f] in a ‖ strong city.

22 For [g] I said in my haste, [h] I am cut off from before thine eyes: nevertheless thou heardest the voice of my supplications when I cried unto thee.

23 [i] O love the LORD, all ye his saints: for the LORD preserveth the faithful, and plentifully rewardeth the proud doer.

24 [k] Be of good courage, and he shall strengthen your heart, all ye that hope in the LORD.

PSALM XXXII.

1 Blessedness consisteth in remission of sins. 2 Confession of sins giveth ease to the conscience. 8 God's promises bring joy.

¶ [*] A Psalm of David, Maschil.

BLESSED is he whose [a] transgression is forgiven, whose sin is covered.

2 Blessed is the man unto whom the LORD [b] imputeth not iniquity, and [c] in whose spirit there is no guile.

3 When I kept silence, my bones waxed old through my roaring all the day long.

4 For day and night thy [d] hand was heavy upon me: my moisture is turned into the drought of summer. Selah.

5 I acknowledged my sin unto thee, and mine iniquity have I not hid. [e] I said, I will confess my transgressions unto the LORD; and thou forgavest the iniquity of my sin. Selah.

6 [f] For this shall every one that is godly [g] pray unto thee † in a time when thou mayest be found: surely in the floods of great waters they shall not come nigh unto him.

7 [h] Thou art my hiding place; thou shalt preserve me from trouble; thou shalt compass me about with [i] songs of deliverance. Selah.

8 I will instruct thee and teach thee in the way which thou shalt go: ‡ I will guide thee with mine eye.

9 [k] Be ye not as the horse, or as the mule, which have [l] no understanding: whose mouth must be held in with bit and bridle, lest they come near unto thee.

10 [m] Many sorrows shall be to the wicked: but [n] he that trusteth in the LORD, mercy shall compass him about.

11 [o] Be glad in the LORD, and rejoice, ye righteous: and shout for joy, all ye that are upright in heart.

PSALM XXXIII.

1 God is to be praised for his goodness, 6 for his power, 12 and for his providence. 20 Confidence is to be placed in God.

REJOICE [a] in the LORD, O ye righteous: for [b] praise is comely for the upright.

2 Praise the LORD with harp: sing unto him with the psaltery [c] and an instrument of ten strings.

3 [d] Sing unto him a new song; play skilfully with a loud noise.

4 For the word of the LORD is right; and all his works are done in truth.

5 [e] He loveth righteousness and judgment: [f] the earth is full of the [*] goodness of the LORD.

PSALM XXXII. Ver. 1. Blessed is he, &c.—This is one of the penitential psalms, and was, it is probable, composed after the murder of Uriah, the Hittite, by David's order. He expresses extreme penitence and deep remorse. It is called MASCHIL, that is, instruction or recollection, signifying that it was composed for the purpose of calling to mind this atrocious act of the king. Though he had sinned grievously, he found that mercy from a forgiving God which is never denied to deep and abiding contrition.

PSALM XXXIII. Ver. 1. Rejoice in the Lord, &c.—This psalm appears to have been composed for the purpose of celebrating the great power, wisdom, and mercy of God, "wherein," says Dr. Hammond, "all are obliged to sing praises to his name and faithfully to serve and depend upon him." The principal subjects of this divine ode are God's creation, and the various displays of his providential agency.

6 [g] By the word of the LORD were the heavens made; and [h] all the host of them [i] by the breath of his mouth.

7 [k] He gathereth the waters of the sea together as an heap: he layeth up the depth in storehouses.

8 Let all the earth fear the LORD: let all the inhabitants of the world stand in awe of him.

9 For [l] he spake, and it was done; he commanded, and it stood fast.

10 [m] The LORD † bringeth the counsel of the heathen to nought: he maketh the devices of the people of none effect.

11 [n] The counsel of the LORD standeth for ever, the thoughts of his heart ‡ to all generations.

12 [o] Blessed is the nation whose God is the LORD; and the people whom he hath [p] chosen for his own inheritance.

13 [q] The LORD looketh from heaven; he beholdeth all the sons of men.

14 From the place of his habitation he looketh upon all the inhabitants of the earth.

15 He fashioneth their hearts alike; [r] he considereth all their works.

16 [s] There is no king saved by the multitude of an host: a mighty man is not delivered by much strength.

17 [t] An horse is a vain thing for safety: neither shall he deliver any by his great strength.

18 [u] Behold, the eye of the LORD is [x] upon them that fear him, upon them that hope in his mercy;

19 To deliver their soul from death, and [y] to keep them alive in famine.

20 [z] Our soul waiteth for the LORD: [a] he is our help and our shield.

21 For our [b] heart shall rejoice in him, because we have trusted in his holy name.

22 Let thy mercy, O LORD, be upon us, according as we hope in thee.

PSALM XXXIV.

1 David praiseth God, and exhorteth others thereto by his experience. 8 They are blessed that trust in God. 11 He exhorteth to the fear of God. 15 The privileges of the righteous.

¶ A Psalm of David, when he changed his behaviour before [*] Abimelech; who drove him away, and he departed.

I WILL [a] bless the LORD at all times: his praise shall continually be in my mouth.

2 My soul shall make her [b] boast in the LORD: [c] the humble shall hear thereof, and be glad.

3 O [d] magnify the LORD with me, and let us exalt his name together.

4 I [e] sought the LORD, and he heard me, and delivered me from all my fears.

5 † They looked unto him, and were lightened: and their faces were not ashamed.

6 [f] This poor man cried, and the LORD heard him, and [g] saved him out of all his troubles.

7 [h] The angel of the LORD [i] encampeth round about them that fear him, and delivereth them.

8 O [k] taste and see that the LORD is good: [l] blessed is the man that trusteth in him.

9 [m] O fear the LORD, ye his saints: for there is no want to them that fear him.

10 [n] The young lions do lack, and suffer hunger: [o] but they that seek the LORD shall not want any good thing.

11 Come, ye children, hearken unto me: [p] I will teach you the fear of the LORD.

12 [q] What man is he that desireth life, and loveth many days, that he may see good?

13 Keep thy tongue from evil, and thy lips from [r] speaking guile.

14 [s] Depart from evil, and do good; [t] seek peace, and pursue it.

15 [q] The eyes of the LORD are upon the righteous, and his ears are open unto their [x] cry.

16 [y] The face of the LORD is against them that do evil, [z] to cut off the remembrance of them from the earth.

17 The righteous cry, and [a] the LORD heareth, and delivereth them out of all their troubles.

18 [b] The LORD is nigh [c] ‡ unto them that are of a broken heart; and saveth § such as be of a contrite spirit.

19 [d] Many are the afflictions of the righteous: [e] but the LORD delivereth him out of them all.

20 He keepeth all his bones: [f] not one of them is broken.

21 [g] Evil shall slay the wicked: and they that hate the righteous ‖ shall be desolate.

22 The LORD [h] redeemeth the soul of his servants: and none of them that trust in him shall be desolate.

PSALM XXXV.

1 David prayeth for his own safety, and his enemies' confusion. 11 He complaineth of their wrongful dealing. 22 Thereby he inciteth God against them.

¶ A Psalm of David.

PLEAD [a] my cause, O LORD, with them that strive with me: [b] fight against them that fight against me.

2 [c] Take hold of shield and buckler, and stand up for mine help.

3 Draw out also the spear, and stop the way against them that persecute me: say unto my soul, I am thy salvation.

4 [d] Let them be confounded and put to shame that seek after my soul: let them be [e] turned back and brought to confusion that devise my hurt.

5 [f] Let them be as chaff before the wind: and let the angel of the LORD chase them.

PSALM XXXIV. Ver. 1. I will bless the Lord, &c.—Dr Delaney is of opinion that David wrote this psalm for the use and instruction of those men who resorted to him at Adullam, after his departure from Gath. He begins by encouraging them to piety and gratitude to God from his own example (ver. 1—7). He then exhorts others to make trial of the same mercies: to learn the goodness of God from their own experience (ver. 8, 9). He next assures them that strength and magnanimity are no securities against want and distress; whereas, trust and confidence in God are a never-failing source of every thing that is good (ver. 10). After which he sums up all in a most pathetic and beautiful exhortation to piety, virtue, and confidence in God, in full assurance that, as he was the guardian and true protector of virtue in distress, so was he the unerring observer and steady avenger of wickedness. ABIMELECH, in the title of this psalm, was, no doubt, Achish, king of Gath, called by the Psalmist ABIMELECH because this was the name common to the Philistine kings, as PHARAOH was to those of Egypt.

PSALM XXXV. Ver. 1. Plead my cause, &c.—This is, no doubt, another of the psalms composed by David when suffering from the inveterate enmity and consequent persecutions of Saul, whose army he beseeches God to disperse and take vengeance upon his enemies, especially the false witnesses who had risen up against him.

6 Let their way be *[s] dark and slippery: and let the angel of the LORD persecute them.

7 For without cause have they [h] hid for me their net in a pit, which without cause they have digged for my soul.

8 Let [i] destruction come upon him † at unawares; and [k] let his net that he hath hid catch himself: into that very destruction let him fall.

9 And my soul shall be joyful in the LORD: [l] it shall rejoice in his salvation.

10 [m] All my bones shall say, LORD, [n] who is like unto thee, which deliverest the poor from him that is too strong for him, yea, the poor and the needy from him that spoileth him?

11 ‡ [o] False witnesses did rise up; § they laid to my charge things that I knew not.

12 [p] They rewarded me evil for good to the ‖ spoiling of my soul.

13 But as for me, [q] when they were sick, my clothing was sackcloth: I * humbled my soul with fasting; [r] and my prayer returned into mine own bosom.

14 I † behaved myself ‡ as though he had been my friend or brother: I bowed down heavily, as one that mourneth for his mother.

15 But in mine § adversity they rejoiced, and gathered themselves together: yea, [s] the abjects gathered themselves together against me, and I knew it not; they did [t] tear me, and ceased not:

16 With hypocritical mockers in feasts, [u] they gnashed upon me with their teeth.

17 LORD, how long wilt thou [x] look on? rescue my soul from their destructions, ‖ [y] my darling from the lions.

18 [z] I will give thee thanks in the great congregation: I will praise thee among * much people.

19 [a] Let not them that are mine enemies † wrongfully rejoice over me: neither [b] let them wink with the eye [c] that hate me without a cause.

20 For they speak not peace: but they devise deceitful matters against them that are quiet in the land.

21 Yea, they [d] opened their mouth wide against me, and said, [e] Aha, aha, our eye hath seen it.

22 This thou hast [f] seen, O LORD: [g] keep not silence: O LORD, be not [h] far from me.

23 [i] Stir up thyself, and awake to my judgment, even unto my cause, my God and my LORD.

24 [k] Judge me, O LORD my God, [l] according to thy righteousness; and [m] let them not rejoice over me.

25 [n] Let them not say in their hearts, ‡ Ah, so would we have it: let them not say, [o] We have swallowed him up.

26 [p] Let them be ashamed and brought to confusion together that rejoice at mine hurt: let them be [q] clothed with shame and dishonour that [r] magnify themselves against me.

27 [s] Let them shout for joy, and be glad, that favour § my righteous cause: yea, let them [t] say continually, Let the LORD be magnified, [u] which hath pleasure in the prosperity of his servant.

28 [x] And my tongue shall speak of thy righteousness and of thy praise all the day long.

PSALM XXXVI.

1 The grievous estate of the wicked. 5 The excellency of God's mercy. 10 David prayeth for favour to God's children.

¶ To the chief Musician, A Psalm of David the servant of the LORD.

THE transgression of the wicked saith within my heart, that [a] there is no fear of God before his eyes.

2 For [b] he flattereth himself in his own eyes, * until his iniquity be found to be hateful.

3 The words of his mouth are iniquity and [c] deceit: [d] he hath left off to be wise, and to do good.

4 * He deviseth † mischief upon his bed; he setteth himself [f] in a way that is not good; he abhorreth not evil.

5 [g] Thy mercy, O LORD, is in the heavens; and thy faithfulness reacheth unto the clouds.

6 Thy righteousness is like ‡ the great mountains; [h] thy judgments are a great deep: O LORD, [i] thou preservest man and beast.

7 [k] How § excellent is thy loving-kindness, O God! therefore the children of men [l] put their trust under the shadow of thy wings.

8 [m] They shall be ‖ abundantly satisfied with the fatness of thy house; and thou shalt make them drink of [n] the river [o] of thy pleasures.

9 [p] For with thee is the fountain of life: [q] in thy light shall we see light.

10 O * continue thy lovingkindness [r] unto them that know thee; and thy righteousness to the [s] upright in heart.

11 Let not the foot of pride come against me, and let not the hand of the wicked remove me.

12 There are the workers of iniquity fallen: they are cast down, [t] and shall not be able to rise.

PSALM XXXVII.

David persuadeth to patience and confidence in God, by the different estate of the godly and the wicked.

¶ A Psalm of David.

FRET [a] not thyself because of evil-doers, neither be thou envious against the workers of iniquity.

2 For they shall soon be cut down [b] like the grass, and wither as the green herb.

3 Trust in the LORD, and do good; so shalt thou dwell in the land, and * verily thou shalt be fed.

4 [c] Delight thyself also in the LORD; and he shall give thee the desires of thine heart.

PSALM XXXVI. Ver. 1. The transgression of the wicked, &c.—"There are three parts of this psalm: the first, in which the author describes the treacherous and false contrivances of wicked men; the second is the address of the good man to God, in which he acknowledges all those attributes which are the support of righteous men to be infinite and boundless; and from thence his assurance of being supported; the last, as the consequence of this, represents the downfall of the wicked."—Mudge.

PSALM XXXVII. Ver. 1. Fret not thyself, &c.—Here is a fine specimen of admonitory poetry, being an exhortation to good men to persevere in a religious course of life, the beneficial results of which the Psalmist exemplifies in his own. This is one of the alphabetical psalms, differing from those already noticed in having two verses under each letter, the others having only one.

5 † [d]Commit thy way unto the LORD; trust also in him; and he shall bring it to pass.

6 [e]And he shall bring forth thy righteousness as the light, and thy judgment as the noonday.

7 [f]‡ Rest in the LORD, [g]and wait patiently for him: [h]fret not thyself because of him who prospereth in his way, because of the man who bringeth wicked devices to pass.

8 Cease from anger, and forsake wrath: [i]fret not thyself in any wise to do evil.

9 [k]For evildoers shall be cut off: but those that wait upon the LORD, they shall [l]inherit the earth.

10 For [m]yet a little while, and the wicked shall not be: yea, [n]thou shalt diligently consider his place, and it shall not be.

11 [o]But the meek shall inherit the earth; and shall delight themselves in the abundance of peace.

12 The wicked § plotteth against the just, [p]and gnasheth upon him with his teeth.

13 [q]The LORD shall laugh at him: for he seeth that [r]his day is coming.

14 The wicked have drawn out the sword, and have bent their bow, to cast down the poor and needy, and to slay ‖ such as be of upright conversation.

15 [s]Their sword shall enter into their own heart, and their bows shall be broken.

16 [t]A little that a righteous man hath is better than the riches of many wicked.

17 For [u]the arms of the wicked shall be broken: but the LORD upholdeth the righteous.

18 The LORD [x]knoweth the days of the upright: and their inheritance shall be [y]for ever.

19 They shall not be ashamed in the evil time: and [z]in the days of famine they shall be satisfied.

20 But the wicked shall perish, and the enemies of the LORD shall be as * the fat of lambs: they shall consume; [a]into smoke shall they consume away.

21 The wicked borroweth, and payeth not again: but [b]the righteous sheweth mercy, and giveth.

22 [c]For such as be blessed of him shall inherit the earth; and they that be cursed of him [d]shall be cut off.

23 [e]The steps of a good man are † ordered by the LORD: and he delighteth in his way.

24 [f]Though he fall, he shall not be utterly cast down: for the LORD upholdeth him with his hand.

25 I have been young, and now am old; yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed [g]begging bread.

26 [h]He is ‡ ever merciful, and lendeth; and his seed is blessed.

27 [i]Depart from evil, and do good; and dwell for evermore.

28 For the LORD [k]loveth judgment, and forsaketh not his saints; they are preserved for ever: [l]but the seed of the wicked shall be cut off.

29 [m]The righteous shall inherit the land, and dwell therein for ever.

30 [n]The mouth of the righteous speaketh wisdom, and his tongue talketh of judgment.

31 [o]The law of his God is in his heart; none of his § steps shall slide.

32 The wicked [p]watcheth the righteous, and seeketh to slay him.

33 The LORD [q]will not leave him in his hand, nor [r]condemn him when he is judged.

34 [s]Wait on the LORD, and keep his way, and he shall exalt thee to inherit the land: [t]when the wicked are cut off, thou shalt see it.

35 [u]I have seen the wicked in great power, and spreading himself like ‖ a green bay tree.

36 Yet he [x]passed away, and, lo, he was not: yea, I sought him, but he could not be found.

37 Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright: for [y]the end of that man is peace.

38 [z]But the transgressors shall be destroyed together: the end of the wicked shall be cut off.

39 But [a]the salvation of the righteous is of the LORD: he is their strength [b]in the time of trouble.

40 And [c]the LORD shall help them, and deliver them: he shall deliver them from the wicked, and save them, [d]because they trust in him.

PSALM XXXVIII.

David moveth God to take compassion of his pitiful case.

¶ A Psalm of David, * to bring to remembrance.

O [a]LORD, rebuke me not in thy wrath: neither chasten me in thy hot displeasure.

2 For [b]thine arrows stick fast in me, and [c]thy hand presseth me sore.

3 There is no soundness in my flesh because of thine anger; [d]neither is there any † rest in my bones because of my sin.

4 For [e]mine iniquities are gone over mine head: as an heavy burden they are too [f]heavy for me.

5 My wounds stink and are corrupt because of my foolishness.

6 I am ‡ troubled; [g]I am bowed down greatly; [h]I go mourning all the day long.

7 For my loins are filled with a [i]loathsome disease: and there is [k]no soundness in my flesh.

8 I am feeble and sore broken: [l]I have roared by reason of the disquietness of my heart.

9 LORD, all my desire is before thee; and my groaning is not hid from thee.

10 My heart panteth, my strength faileth me: as for [m]the light of mine eyes, it also § is gone from me.

11 [n]My lovers and my friends [o]stand aloof from my ‖ sore; and * my kinsmen [p]stand afar off.

12 They also that seek after my life [q]lay snares for me: and they that seek my hurt

PSALM XXXVIII. Ver. 1. O Lord, rebuke me not, &c.—This is another of the penitential psalms, and was, no doubt, composed by David under some very severe affliction. His design in composing it, probably, was as a memorial of his grievous sins, of divine chastisement and deliverance.

PSALM XL.

1 The benefit of confidence in God. 6 Obedience is the best sacrifice. 11 The cause of David's evils inflameth his prayer.

¶ To the chief Musician, a Psalm of David.

I [*] [a] WAITED patiently for the LORD; and he inclined unto me, and heard my cry.

2 He brought me up also out of †an horrible pit, out of [b] the miry clay, and [c] set my feet upon a rock, and [d] established my goings.

3 [e] And he hath put a new song in my mouth, even praise unto our God: [f] many shall see it, and fear, and shall trust in the LORD.

4 [g] Blessed is that man that maketh the LORD his trust, and [h] respecteth not the proud, nor such as [i] turn aside to lies.

5 [k] Many, O LORD my God, are thy wonderful works which thou hast done, [l] and thy thoughts which are to us-ward: ‡they cannot be reckoned up in order unto thee: if I would declare and speak of them, they are more than can be numbered.

6 [m] Sacrifice and offering thou didst not desire; mine ears hast thou §opened: burnt offering and sin offering hast thou not required.

7 Then said I, Lo, I come: in the volume of the book it is [n] written of me,

8 [o] I delight to do thy will, O my God: yea, thy law is ‖ [p] within my heart.

9 [q] I have preached righteousness in the great congregation: lo, [r] I have not refrained my lips, O LORD, [s] thou knowest.

10 [t] I have not hid thy righteousness within my heart; I have declared thy faithfulness and thy salvation: I have not concealed thy loving-kindness and thy truth from the great congregation.

11 Withold not thou thy tender mercies from me, O LORD: [u] let thy loving-kindness and thy truth continually preserve me.

12 For innumerable evils have compassed me about: [x] mine iniquities have taken hold upon me, so that I am not able to look up; for they are more than the hairs of mine head: therefore [y] my heart [*] faileth me.

13 [z] Be pleased, O LORD, to deliver me: O LORD, make haste to help me.

14 [a] Let them be ashamed and confounded together that seek after my soul to destroy it;

[q] to consume away like a moth; [r] surely every man is vanity. Selah.

12 Hear my prayer, O LORD, and give ear unto my cry; hold not thy peace at my tears: [s] for I am a stranger with thee, and a sojourner, [t] as all my fathers were.

13 [u] O spare me, that I may recover strength, before I go hence, and [x] be no more.

PSALMS XXXIX. JEDUTHUN is supposed to have been one of the leaders of the band or quire belonging to the temple.

Ver. 1. I said, I will take heed to my ways, &c.—"The foundation of this psalm is much the same with the foregoing; the author laboured under some great illness; he knew it due to his sins; he was afraid, therefore, to speak in the presence of the wicked, lest he should say any thing of which they might take advantage; at last, however, he could hold no longer, but bursts forth into an acknowledgment of the weakness and vanity of man in the hands of God; confessing that, whatever he might think heretofore, he has now no longer any expectation but from God, whom, therefore, he supplicates for mercy."—Mudge.

PSALM XL. Ver. 1. I waited patiently, &c.—The Psalmist shows the advantages of confidence in God, and the blessedness of those who trust in him; that obedience is the best exercise, and his resolution to declare the divine goodness. He supplicates deliverance from his afflictions, acknowledges his iniquities to be manifold, prays that his enemies may be to shame, and that those who seek the Lord may rejoice and be glad in him. This psalm is supposed to be prophetical of the incarnation and expiatory sacrifice of Christ.

let them be driven backward and put to shame that wish me evil.

15 [b] Let them be [c] desolate for a reward of their shame that say unto me, Aha, aha.

16 [d] Let all those that seek thee rejoice and be glad in thee: let such as love thy salvation [e] say continually, The LORD be magnified.

17 [f] But I am poor and needy; yet [g] the LORD thinketh upon me: thou art my help and my deliverer; make no tarrying, O my God.

PSALM XLI.

1 God's care of the poor. 4 David complaineth of his enemies' treachery. 10 He feeleth to God for succour.

¶ To the chief Musician, A Psalm of David.

BLESSED [a] is he that considereth [*] the poor: the LORD will deliver him † in time of trouble.

2 The LORD will preserve him, and keep him alive; and he shall be blessed upon the earth: [b] and ‡ thou wilt not deliver him unto the will of his enemies.

3 The LORD will strengthen him upon the bed of languishing: thou wilt § make all his bed in his sickness.

4 I said, LORD, be merciful unto me: [c] heal my soul; for I have sinned against thee.

5 Mine enemies speak evil of me, When shall he die, and his name perish?

6 And if he come to see me he [d] speaketh vanity: his heart gathereth iniquity to itself; when he goeth abroad, he telleth it.

7 All that hate me whisper together against me: against me do they devise ‖ my hurt.

8 [*] An evil disease, say they, cleaveth fast unto him: and now that he lieth he shall rise up no more.

9 [e] Yea, † mine own familiar friend, in whom I trusted, [f] which did eat of my bread, hath ‡ lifted up his heel against me.

10 But thou, O LORD, be merciful unto me, and raise me up, that I may requite them.

11 By this I know that thou favourest me, because mine enemy doth not triumph over me.

12 And as for me, thou upholdest me in mine integrity, and [g] settest me before thy face for ever.

13 [h] Blessed be the LORD God of Israel from everlasting, and to everlasting. Amen, and Amen.

PSALM XLII.

1 David's zeal to serve God in the temple. 5 He encourageth his soul to trust in God.

1023.

[*] Or, A Psalm giving instruction: for the sons of Korah, A. See 1 Chr. 6. 31. 37. & 25. 5.

¶ To the chief Musician, [*] Maschil, for the sons of Korah.

AS the hart † panteth after the water brooks, so panteth my soul after thee, O God.

2 [a] My soul thirsteth for God, for [b] the living God: when shall I come and appear before God?

3 [c] My tears have been my meat day and night, while [d] they continually say unto me, Where is thy God?

4 When I remember these things, [e] I pour out my soul in me: for I had gone with the multitude, [f] I went with them to the house of God, with the voice of joy and praise, with a multitude that kept holyday.

5 [g] Why art thou ‡ cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted in me? [h] hope thou in God: for I shall yet § praise him ‖ for the help of his countenance.

6 O my God, my soul is cast down within me: therefore will I remember thee from the land of Jordan, and of the Hermonites, from [*] the hill Mizar.

7 [i] Deep calleth unto deep at the noise of thy waterspouts; [k] all thy waves and thy billows are gone over me.

8 Yet the LORD will [l] command his loving-kindness in the daytime, and [m] in the night his song shall be with me, and my prayer unto the God of my life.

9 I will say unto God my rock, Why hast thou forgotten me? [n] why go I mourning because of the oppression of the enemy?

10 As with a † sword in my bones, mine enemies reproach me; [o] while they say daily unto me, Where is thy God?

11 [p] Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted within me? hope thou in God: for I shall yet praise him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God.

PSALM XLIII.

1 David, praying to be restored to the temple, promiseth to serve God joyfully. 5 He encourageth his soul to trust in God.

1023.

[a] JUDGE me, O God, and [b] plead my cause against an [*] ungodly nation: O deliver me † from the deceitful and unjust man.

2 For thou art the God of [c] my strength: why dost thou cast me off? [d] why go I mourning because of the oppression of the enemy?

3 [e] O send out thy light and thy truth: let them lead me; let them bring me unto [f] thy holy hill, and to thy tabernacles.

4 Then will I go unto the altar of God, unto God ‡ my exceeding joy: yea, upon the harp will I praise thee, O God my God.

5 [g] Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted within me? hope in God: for I shall yet praise him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God.

PSALM XLII. Ver. 1. Blessed is he, &c.—This psalm seems to have been written in reference to the same subject as the three preceding, and relates to David's sufferings, his final cure from the malady with which he was afflicted, and his triumph over those enemies who had treated him with great indignity.

PSALM XLII. Ver. 1. As the hart panteth, &c.—Some descendant of Korah is supposed to have composed this during the captivity. Many commentators ascribe it to David, after the Syriac, which says, "It is a psalm which David sung when he was in exile and desired to return to Jerusalem."

PSALM XLIV. Ver. 1. We have heard with our ears, &c.—The subject of this psalm appears to be the same with that of the two preceding.

2 How [b] thou didst drive out the heathen with thy hand, and plantedst them; how thou didst afflict the people, and cast them out.

3 For [c] they got not the land in possession by their own sword, neither did their own arms save them: but thy right hand, and thine arm, and the light of thy countenance, [d] because thou hadst a favour unto them.

4 [e] Thou art my King, O God: command deliverances for Jacob.

5 Through thee [f] will we push down our enemies: through thy name will we tread them under that rise up against us.

6 For [g] I will not trust in my bow, neither shall my sword save me.

7 But thou hast saved us from our enemies, and hast [h] put them to shame that hated us.

8 [i] In God we boast all the day long, and praise thy name for ever. Selah.

9 But [k] thou hast cast off, and put us to shame; and goest not forth with our armies.

10 Thou makest us to [l] turn back from the enemy: and they which hate us spoil for themselves.

11 [m] Thou hast given us [*] like sheep appointed for meat; and hast [n] scattered us among the heathen.

12 [o] Thou sellest thy people [†] for nought, and dost not increase thy wealth by their price.

13 [p] Thou makest us a reproach to our neighbours, a scorn and a derision to them that are round about us.

14 [q] Thou makest us a byword among the heathen, [r] a shaking of the head among the people.

15 My confusion is continually before me, and the shame of my face hath covered me,

16 For the voice of him that reproacheth and blaspheneth; [s] by reason of the enemy and avenger.

17 [t] All this is come upon us; yet have we not forgotten thee, neither have we dealt falsely in thy covenant.

18 Our heart is not turned back, [u] neither have our [‡] steps declined from thy way;

19 Though thou hast sore broken us in [x] the place of dragons, and covered us [y] with the shadow of death.

20 If we have forgotten the name of our God, or [z] stretched out our hands to a strange god;

21 [a] Shall not God search this out? for he knoweth the secrets of the heart.

22 [b] Yea, for thy sake are we killed all the day long; we are counted as sheep for the slaughter.

23 [c] Awake, why sleepest thou, O LORD? arise, [d] cast us not off for ever.

24 [e] Wherefore hidest thou thy face, and forgettest our affliction and our oppression?

25 For [f] our soul is bowed down to the dust: our belly cleaveth unto the earth.

26 Arise [§] for our help, and redeem us for thy mercies' sake.

PSALM XLV.

1 The majesty and grace of Christ's kingdom. 10 The duty of the church, and the benefits thereof.

¶ To the chief Musician [*] upon Shoshannim, for the sons of Korah, [†] Maschil, A Song of loves.

MY heart [‡] is inditing a good matter: I speak of the things which I have made touching the king: my tongue is the pen of a ready writer.

2 Thou art fairer than the children of men: [a] grace is poured into thy lips: therefore God hath blessed thee for ever.

3 Gird thy [b] sword upon thy thigh, [c] O most mighty, with thy glory and thy majesty.

4 [d] And in thy majesty [§] ride prosperously because of truth and meekness and righteousness; and thy right hand shall teach thee terrible things.

5 Thine arrows are sharp in the heart of the king's enemies; whereby the people fall under thee.

6 [e] Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever: the sceptre of thy kingdom is a right sceptre.

7 [f] Thou lovest righteousness, and hatest wickedness: therefore [‖] [g] God, thy God, [h] hath anointed thee with the oil [i] of gladness above thy fellows.

8 [k] All thy garments smell of myrrh, and aloes, and cassia, out of the ivory palaces, whereby they have made thee glad.

9 [l] Kings' daughters were among thy honourable women: [m] upon thy right hand did stand the queen in gold of Ophir.

10 Hearken, O daughter, and consider, and incline thine ear; [n] forget also thine own people, and thy father's house;

11 So shall the king greatly desire thy beauty: [o] for he is thy Lord; and worship thou him.

12 And the daughter of Tyre shall be there with a gift; even [p] the rich among the people shall intreat [*] thy favour.

13 [q] The king's daughter is all glorious within: her clothing is of wrought gold.

14 [r] She shall be brought unto the king in raiment of needlework: the virgins her companions that follow her shall be brought unto thee.

15 With gladness and rejoicing shall they be brought: they shall enter into the king's palace.

16 Instead of thy fathers shall be thy children, [s] whom thou mayest make princes in all the earth.

17 [t] I will make thy name to be remembered in all generations: therefore shall the people praise thee for ever and ever.

PSALM XLV. Shoshannim, in the title, is supposed to signify instruments having six strings. Dr. Adam Clarke thus paraphrases the title, "To the chief musician, or master of the band, of those who played on the six-stringed instruments, giving instruction for the sons of Korah, a song of loves, or amatory ode: or a song of the beloved maids." He further observes, "I believe it to be an epithalamium, or nuptial song, which primarily respected Solomon's marriage with the daughter of Pharoah; and that it probably has a prophetic reference to the conversion of the Gentiles and the final aggrandisement of the Christian church."

5 God is [f] in the midst of her; she shall not be moved: God shall help her, ‖ and that right early.

6 [g] The heathen raged, the kingdoms were moved: he uttered his voice, [h] the earth melted.

7 [i] The LORD of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is * our refuge. Selah.

8 [k] Come, behold the works of the LORD, what desolations he hath made in the earth.

9 [l] He maketh wars to cease unto the end of the earth; [m] he breaketh the bow, and cutteth the spear in sunder; [n] he burneth the chariot in the fire.

PSALM XLIX.

1 An earnest persuasion to build the faith of resurrection, not on worldly power, but on God. 16 Worldly prosperity is not to be admired.

¶ To the chief Musician, A Psalm * for the sons of Korah.

HEAR this, all ye people; give ear, all ye inhabitants of the world:

2 Both [a] low and high, rich and poor, together.

3 My mouth shall speak of wisdom; and the meditation of my heart shall be of understanding.

4 [b] I will incline mine ear to a parable: I will open my dark saying upon the harp.

5 Wherefore should I fear in the days of evil, when [c] the iniquity of my heels shall compass me about?

PSALM XLVI. Alamoth.—This term signifies concerning the virgins, and may possibly refer to a quire of singing girls. The psalm is thought to have been composed by David, to commemorate his conquest over the Philistines and Moabites (2 Sam. viii. 1, 2).

PSALM XLVII. Ver. 1. O clap your hands, &c.—"This psalm was probably composed and sung on the occasion of bringing the ark either into the tabernacle on Mount Zion, by David, or thence into the temple of Solomon. And the ark being a type of Christ, as Mount Zion was of heaven, the carrying of the ark up to that mount may be considered as a type of Christ's ascension into heaven; and accordingly this psalm is appointed by the Church to be used on Ascension-day."—Note to D'Oyly and Mant's Bible.

PSALM XLVIII. Ver. 1. Great is the Lord, &c.—Bishop Horne observes that in this psalm, under images taken from the earthly Jerusalem, are celebrated the glory, beauty, and strength of the Christian Church, that city and temple of the Messiah: it is therefore appointed by the Church to be read on Whit-Sunday.

PSALM XLIX. Ver. 1. Hear this all ye people, &c.—The author of this psalm is not known, nor the particular occasion of it; "but," says Dr. Dodd, "it seems to be a meditation on the vanity of riches, and the usual haughtiness of those who possess them. As a remedy for this, it sets before them the near prospect of death, from which no riches can save, in which no riches can avail."

PSALM L.

1 The majesty of God in the church. 5 His order to gather saints. 7 The pleasure of God is not in ceremonies, 14 but in sincerity of obedience.

¶ A Psalm * of Asaph.

THE [a]mighty God, even the LORD, hath spoken, and called the earth from the rising of the sun unto the going down thereof.

2 Out of Zion, [b]the perfection of beauty, [c]God hath shined.

3 Our God shall come, and shall not keep silence: [d]a fire shall devour before him, and it shall be very tempestuous round about him.

4 [e]He shall call to the heavens from above, and to the earth, that he may judge his people.

5 Gather [f]my saints together unto me; [g]those that have made a covenant with me by sacrifice.

6 And [h]the heavens shall declare his righteousness: for [i]God is judge himself. Selah.

7 [k]Hear, O my people, and I will speak; O Israel, and I will testify against thee: [l]I am God, even thy God.

8 [m]I will not reprove thee [n]for thy sacrifices or thy burnt offerings, to have been continually before me.

9 [o]I will take no bullock out of thy house, nor he goats out of thy folds.

10 For every beast of the forest is mine, and the cattle upon a thousand hills.

11 I know all the fowls of the mountains: and the wild beasts of the field are † mine.

12 If I were hungry, I would not tell thee: [p]for the world is mine, and the fulness thereof.

13 Will I eat the flesh of bulls, or drink the blood of goats?

14 [q]Offer unto God thanksgiving; and [r]pay thy vows unto the most high:

15 And [s]call upon me in the day of trouble: I will deliver thee, and thou shalt [t]glorify me.

16 But unto the wicked God saith, What hast thou to do to declare my statutes, or that thou shouldest take my covenant in thy mouth?

17 [u]Seeing thou hatest instruction, and [x]castest my words behind thee.

18 When thou sawest a thief, then thou [y]consentedst with him, and ‡ hast been [x]partaker with adulterers.

19 § Thou givest thy mouth to evil, and [z]thy tongue frameth deceit.

20 Thou sittest and speakest against thy brother; thou slanderest thine own mother's son.

21 These things hast thou done, [b]and I kept silence; [c]thou thoughtest that I was altogether such an one as thyself: but [d]I will reprove thee, and set them in order before thine eyes.

22 Now consider this, ye that [e]forget God, lest I tear you in pieces, and there be none to deliver.

23 [f]Whoso offereth praise glorifieth me: and [g]to him ‖ that ordereth his conversation aright will I shew the salvation of God.

PSALM LI.

1 David prayeth for remission of sins, whereof he maketh a deep confession. 6 He prayeth for sanctification. 16 God delighteth not in sacrifice, but in sincerity. 18 He prayeth for the church.

¶ To the chief Musician, A Psalm of David, cir. 1034.
* when Nathan the prophet came unto him, after he had gone in to Bathsheba.

HAVE mercy upon me, O God, according to thy lovingkindness: according unto the multitude of thy tender mercies [a]blot out my transgressions.

2 [b]Wash me throughly from mine iniquity, and cleanse me from my sin.

3 For [c]I acknowledge my transgressions: and my sin is ever before me.

4 [d]Against thee, thee only, have I sinned, and done this evil [e]in thy sight: [f]that thou mightest be justified when thou speakest, and be clear when thou judgest.

5 [g]Behold, I was shapen in iniquity; [h]and in sin did my mother † conceive me.

6 Behold, thou desirest truth [i]in the inward parts: and in the hidden part thou shalt make me to know wisdom.

PSALM L. Ver. 1. The mighty God, &c.—It is not at all known upon what occasion this psalm was written, but it is applicable to the general state of the Jewish Church. Asaph appears to have been in great celebrity in the days of David, as he is mentioned as a seer or inspired poet. (See 1 Chron. xxix. 30.)

PSALM LI. Ver. 1. Have mercy upon me, &c.—This is one of the penitential psalms, in which David humbly confesses his sins and supplicates earnestly for pardon.

13 Then will I teach transgressors thy ways; and sinners shall be converted unto thee.

14 Deliver me from § [t] bloodguiltiness, O God, thou God of my salvation: and [u] my tongue shall sing aloud of thy righteousness.

15 O LORD, open thou my lips; and my mouth shall shew forth thy praise.

16 For [x] thou desirest not sacrifice; ‖ else would I give it: thou delightest not in burnt offering.

17 [y] The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit: a broken and a contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not despise.

19 Then shalt thou be pleased with [z] the sacrifices of righteousness, with burnt offering and whole burnt offering: then shall they offer bullocks upon thine altar.

PSALM LII.

1 David, condemning the spitefulness of Doeg, prophesieth his destruction. 6 The righteous shall rejoice at it. 8 David, upon his confidence in God's mercy, giveth thanks.

¶ To the chief Musician, Maschil, A Psalm of David, * when Doeg the Edomite came and † told Saul, and said unto him, David is come to the house of Ahimelech.

WHY boastest thou thyself in mischief, O [a] mighty man? the goodness of God endureth continually.

2 [b] Thy tongue deviseth mischiefs; [c] like a sharp razor, working deceitfully.

3 Thou lovest evil more than good; and [d] lying rather than to speak righteousness. Selah.

4 Thou lovest all devouring words, ‡ O thou deceitful tongue.

5 God shall likewise § destroy thee for ever, he shall take thee away, and pluck thee out of thy dwelling place, and [e] root thee out of the land of the living. Selah.

6 [f] The righteous also shall see, and fear, [g] and shall laugh at him:

7 Lo, this is the man that made not God his strength; but [h] trusted in the abundance of his riches, and strengthened himself in his ‖ wickedness.

8 But I am [i] like a green olive tree in the house of God: I trust in the mercy of God for ever and ever.

9 I will praise thee for ever, because thou hast done it: and I will wait on thy name; [k] for it is good before thy saints.

PSALM LIII.

1 David describeth the corruption of a natural man. 4 He convinceth the wicked by the light of their own conscience. 6 He glorieth in the salvation of God

¶ To the chief Musician upon Mahalath, Maschil. A Psalm of David.

THE [a] fool hath said in his heart, There is no God. Corrupt are they, and have done abominable iniquity: [b] there is none that doeth good.

2 God [c] looked down from heaven upon the children of men, to see if there were any that did understand, that did [d] seek God.

3 Every one of them is gone back: they are altogether become filthy; there is none that doeth good, no, not one.

4 Have the workers of iniquity [e] no knowledge? who eat up my people as they eat bread: they have not called upon God.

5 [f] There * were they in great fear, where no fear was: for God hath [g] scattered the bones of him that encampeth against thee: thou hast put them to shame, because God hath despised them.

6 [h] † Oh that the salvation of Israel were come out of Zion! When God bringeth back the captivity of his people, Jacob shall rejoice, and Israel shall be glad.

PSALM LIV.

1 David, complaining of the Ziphims, prayeth for salvation. 4 Upon his confidence in God's help he promiseth sacrifice.

¶ To the chief Musician on Neginoth, Maschil, A Psalm of David, * when the Ziphims came and said to Saul, Doth not David hide himself with us?

SAVE me, O God, by thy name, and judge me by thy strength.

2 Hear my prayer, O God; give ear to the words of my mouth.

3 For [a] strangers are risen up against me, and oppressors seek after my soul: they have not set God before them. Selah.

4 Behold, God is mine helper: [b] the LORD is with them that uphold my soul.

5 He shall reward evil unto † mine enemies: cut them off [c] in thy truth.

6 I will freely sacrifice unto thee: I will praise thy name, O LORD; [d] for it is good.

7 For he hath delivered me out of all trouble: [e] and mine eye hath seen his desire upon mine enemies.

PSALM LII. Ver. 1. Why boastest thou, &c.—This psalm, as Dr. Chandler observes, is composed of three parts; the first part contains a description of Doeg's character; the second foretells his utter ruin and that of his family; in the third the Psalmist assures himself of protection and future prosperity from God. The subject of the psalm is fully explained in the title.

PSALM LIII. Mahalath was some hollow instrument, probably a flute or pipe. This psalm, with some slight variations, is a repetition of psalm the fourteenth.

PSALM LIV. The title of this psalm, says Dr. A. Clarke, is, "To the chief musician upon Neginoth (a stringed instrument), an instructive psalm of David, when the Ziphites came to Saul and said, 'Doth not David conceal himself among us?'

"Ziph was a village in the southern part of Palestine. David having taken refuge in the mountains of that country, the Ziphites went to Saul and informed him of the fact. Saul, with his army, immediately went thither, and was on one side of the mountain while David was on the other. Just when he was about to fall into the hands of his merciless pursuer, an express came to Saul that the Philistines had invaded Israel, on which he gave up the pursuit and returned to save his country, and David escaped to En-gedi. (See 1 Sam. xxiii. 19—29.) It is supposed to have been after his deliverance that he composed this psalm."

a Ps. 57. 1. & 63. 7.

PSALM LV. Ver. 1 Give ear to my prayer, &c.—The subject is similar to that in the foregoing psalm.

PSALM LVI. "The title of this psalm is very long. 'To the conqueror, concerning the dumb dove in foreign places; golden psalm of David.' The Vulgate translates the original thus: 'To the end. For the people who were afar off from holy things.' 'This inscription David placed here for a title when the Philistines kept him in Gath.' So the Septuagint and Æthiopic. The Chaldee is profuse, 'For praise, for the congregation of Israel, which are compared to the silence of a dove, when they were afar off from their cities: but, being returned, they praise the Lord of the world, like David, contrite and upright, when the Philistines kept him in Gath.' The Syriac, 'A thanksgiving of the righteous man, because he was delivered from his enemy and from the hands of Saul. Also concerning the Jews and Christ.' Bochart translates, 'To the tune of the dove in the remote woods.'"—Dr. A. Clarke.

"Thus David," observes Dodd, referring to Bochart's rendering of the word Jonath-elem-rechokim, "might call himself, when, after many wanderings, he got into the forest of Hareth, where he had leisure to reflect upon was past and to compose this psalm."

PSALM LVII. AL-TASCHITH.—Destroy not. "This psalm was thus entitled because some of David's men, observing the advantage he had over Saul, would fain have despatched him if David had not forbidden the person who was ready to strike the blow, saying, Destroy not. The same title is prefixed to the two following, and to the seventy-sixth psalm, most probably to show that they were to be sung to the same tune."—Dodd.

1 David reproveth wicked judges, 3 describeth the nature of the wicked, 6 denounceth them to God's judgments, 10 whereat the righteous shall rejoice.

¶ To the chief Musician, * † Al-taschith, Michtam of David.

4 They run and prepare themselves without my fault: [d] awake ‖ to help me, and behold.

5 Thou therefore, O LORD God of hosts, the God of Israel, awake to visit all the heathen: be not merciful to any wicked transgressors. Selah.

6 [e] They return at evening: they make a noise like a dog, and go round about the city.

7 Behold, they belch out with their mouth: [f] swords are in their lips: for [g] who, say they, doth hear?

8 But [h] thou, O LORD, shalt laugh at them; thou shalt have all the heathen in derision.

9 Because of his strength will I wait upon thee: [i] for God is * my defence.

10 The God of my mercy shall [k] prevent me: God shall let [l] me see my desire upon † mine enemies.

PSALM LVIII. Bishop Patrick observes that the order of time in placing this, the former and the following psalms, is inverted, for the occasion of the fifty-ninth was first. Then, upon Saul's missing David, he supposes him to have called his council together: when they, to ingratiate themselves with the reigning prince, adjudged David to be guilty of treason, in aspiring to the throne of Israel; which he thinks to have been the occasion of this psalm. And this was prior to what happened in the cave, which gave occasion to the last psalm.

PSALM LIX. Ver. 1. Deliver me, &c.—"This psalm is a noble vindication of David's innocence, in that he could, in the most private retirement, and upon the most deliberate reflection, thus solemnly appeal to God that he was not chargeable with the least perfidy, wickedness, or crime which could excite the hatred of his enemies and give occasion to Saul to pursue him with such eagerness and malice to his destruction (ver. 3, 4): for he represents them as falsely defaming him, running to prepare themselves and execute Saul's commands; as some of them besetting his house by night, and like snarling dogs ready to bite, threatening to lay hold of and murder him; whilst others went about the city to prevent any possible way of escaping; so that, according to the history, Michal was forced to let him down through the window to secure his retreat. He therefore earnestly prays for God's protection, declares that his dependance for safety was on his power, assures himself that God would defend him, and resolves to celebrate the praises of him who had been his refuge and security in time of danger."—Chandler.

PSALM LX. Upon Shushan-eduth—Houbigant and Waterland render this word, Upon the beseeched of the testimony, but the meaning of it is extremely uncertain. The psalmist here expresses his grief for the visitations which had fallen upon his country and prays for deliverance. He then declares his trust in divine providence that he shall overcome several nations which he enumerates.

PSALM LXI. Ver. 1. Hear my cry, &c. This psalm appears to have been written about the end of the captivity. It begins with a prayer for the banished and ends with a determination to praise God daily.

PSALM LXII. Jeduthun—See the note on the title of the thirty-ninth psalm. This was probably composed during the rebellion of Absalom.

PSALM LXIII. Ver. 1. O God, thou art my God, &c.—This psalm was written, as appears from the title, when David was in the wilderness of Judah, but it is probable that the exile here alluded to is when he took refuge in the wilderness of Ziph, after he had quitted the court of Achish.

PSALM LXIV.

1 David prayeth for deliverance, complaining of his enemies. 7 He promiseth himself to see such an evident destruction of his enemies as the righteous shall rejoice at it.

¶ To the chief Musician, A Psalm of David.

HEAR my voice, O God, in my prayer: preserve my life from fear of the enemy.

2 Hide me from the secret counsel of the wicked; from the insurrection of the workers of iniquity:

[a] Ps. 11. 2. & 57. 4. [b] Ps. 58. 7. Jer. 9. 3.

3 [a] Who whet their tongue like a sword, [b] and bend their bows to shoot their arrows, even bitter words:

4 That they may shoot in secret at the perfect: suddenly do they shoot at him, and fear not.

PSALM LXV. Ver. 1. Hear my voice, &c.—David seems to have composed this sacred song during the persecutions which he suffered from Saul. He supplicates the divine protection and foretells the destruction of his enemies.

PSALM LXV. Ver. 1. Praise waiteth for thee, &c.—Dr. Hammond observes of this psalm that, "it is a thankful commemoration of God's mercies and deliverances; written, probably, on the occasion of his restoring plenty after the three years' famine" (2 Sam. 21.).

PSALM LXVI. Ver. 1. Make a joyful noise, &c.—This psalm was, probably, composed upon the occasion of some great national deliverance. It is a solemn invocation to the Israelites to celebrate the wonderful works of God, especially the great miracles of deliverance from Egyptian bondage wrought in their behalf, and the scarcely less wonderful passage of the Jordan, over the channel of which they entered into Canaan.

PSALM LXVII. Ver. 1. God be merciful to us, &c.—Here reference appears to be made to the Incarnation of the eternal Son of God and to the vocation of the Gentiles. The psalm is supposed to have been written on the return from the Babylonish captivity, to cheer the returning captives with the hope of future blessings.

PSALM LXVIII. Ver. 1. Let God arise, &c.—"The occasion of this psalm," observes Lowth, "was, most probably, the removing the ark to Mount Zion by David; or rather it might be composed soon after that translation, and with reference to it. In the mystical sense, which is authorised by St. Paul (Eph. iv. 8.), it refers to the ascension of Christ into heaven, and his session at the right hand of the Father, with the consequent formation and preservation of his Church, and the destruction both of his own enemies and those of the Church. But almost every part of this noble poem is involved in an impenetrable darkness. It would otherwise have afforded a singular example of the true sublime; the scattered rays of which, breaking forth with difficulty through the thick clouds that surround it, we yet behold with a mixture of admiration and pleasure."

[b] Ps. 85. 10. Isa. 32. 17. & 52. 7.

PSALM LXX. Ver. 1. Make haste, O God, &c.—This psalm is a repetition, almost word for word, of the five concluding verses of the fortieth psalm.

PSALM LXXI. Ver. 1. In thee, O Lord, &c.—This exquisite composition is thought to have been occasioned by Absalom's rebellion. David prays not to be abandoned in his old age, but to be favoured with the divine protection. He receives assurance of this, and praises God for his mercy towards him.

PSALM LXXII. Ver. 1. Give the king, &c.—As the title imports, this psalm was, no doubt, composed when David nominated Solomon to the succession, and caused the Israelites to acknowledge him as their future king.

"This psalm," writes Dr. Hales, "describes, in the most beautiful imagery and most lively colours, the peaceful glories of the Messiah's future reign; his righteousness or impartial administration of justice; the universal homage and worship to be paid to him; the perpetuity of his dominion, whose name shall endure for ever, in whom mankind shall be blessed, and whom all nations shall call blessed."

PSALM LXXIII. Ver. 1. Truly God is good to Israel, &c.—The Psalmist enters into the question why the wicked are permitted to prosper and the righteous to be afflicted. This had almost tempted him to doubt the providence of God, but his doubt subsides when he considers the miracles God had wrought for his people, and is succeeded by the most perfect affiance.

PSALM LXXIV. Ver. 1. O God, why hast thou, &c.—This psalm was probably written after the destruction of the temple at Jerusalem. Calmet supposes it to be a lamentation over the temple destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar.

PSALM LXXVIII.

1 An exhortation both to learn and to preach the law of God. 9 The story of God's wrath against the incredulous and disobedient. 67 The Israelites being rejected, God chose Judah, Zion, and David.

¶ * † Maschil of Asaph.

[a] GIVE ear, O my people, to my law: incline your ears to the words of my mouth.

2 [b] I will open my mouth in a parable: I will utter dark sayings of old:

3 [c] Which we have heard and known, and our fathers have told us.

4 [d] We will not hide them from their children, [e] shewing to the generation to come the praises of the LORD, and his strength, and his wonderful works that he hath done.

5 For [f] he established a testimony in Jacob, and appointed a law in Israel, which he commanded our fathers, [g] that they should make them known to their children:

6 [h] That the generation to come might know them, even the children which should be born; who should arise and declare them to their children:

7 That they might set their hope in God, and not forget the works of God, but keep his commandments:

8 And [i] might not be as their fathers, [k] a stubborn and rebellious generation; a generation ‡ [l] that set not their heart aright, and whose spirit was not stedfast with God.

9 The children of Ephraim, being armed, and § carrying bows, turned back in the day of battle.

10 [m] They kept not the covenant of God, and refused to walk in his law;

11 And [n] forgat his works, and his wonders that he had shewed them.

12 [o] Marvellous things did he in the sight of their fathers, in the land of Egypt, [p] in the field of Zoan.

13 [q] He divided the sea, and caused them to pass through; and [r] he made the waters to stand as an heap.

14 [s] In the daytime also he led them with a cloud, and all the night with a light of fire.

15 [t] He clave the rocks in the wilderness, and gave them drink as out of the great depths.

16 He brought [u] streams also out of the rock, and caused waters to run down like rivers.

17 And they sinned yet more against him by [x] provoking the most high in the wilderness.

18 And [y] they tempted God in their heart by asking meat for their lust.

19 [z] Yea, they spake against God; they said, Can God ‖ furnish a table in the wilderness?

20 [a] Behold, he smote the rock, that the waters gushed out, and the streams overflowed; can he give bread also? can he provide flesh for his people?

21 Therefore the LORD heard this, and [b] was wroth: so a fire was kindled against Jacob, and anger also came up against Israel;

22 Because they [c] believed not in God, and trusted not in his salvation:

23 Though he had commanded the clouds from above, [d] and opened the doors of heaven.

24 [e] And had rained down manna upon them to eat, and had given them of the corn of heaven.

25 * Man did eat angels' food: he sent them meat to the full.

26 [f] He caused an east wind † to blow in the heaven: and by his power he brought in the south wind.

dust, and ‡ feathered fowls like as the sand of the sea:

28 And he let it fall in the midst of their camp, round about their habitations.

29 So they did eat, and were well filled: for he gave them their own desire;

30 They were not estranged from their lust. But while their meat was yet in their mouths,

31 The wrath of God came upon them, and slew the fattest of them, and § smote down the ‖ chosen men of Israel.

32 For all this they sinned still, and believed not for his wondrous works.

33 Therefore their days did he consume in vanity, and their years in trouble.

34 When he slew them, then they sought him: and they returned and enquired early after God.

35 And they remembered that God was their rock, and the high God their redeemer.

36 Nevertheless they did flatter him with their mouth, and they lied unto him with their tongues.

37 For their heart was not right with him, neither were they steadfast in his covenant.

38 But he, being full of compassion, forgave their iniquity, and destroyed them not: yea, many a time turned he his anger away, and did not stir up all his wrath.

39 For he remembered that they were but flesh; a wind that passeth away, and cometh not again.

40 How oft did they provoke him in the wilderness, and grieve him in the desert!

41 Yea, they turned back and tempted God, and limited the Holy One of Israel.

42 They remembered not his hand, nor the day when he delivered them † from the enemy,

43 How he had ‡ wrought his signs in Egypt, and his wonders in the field of Zoan:

44 And had turned their rivers into blood; and their floods, that they could not drink.

45 He sent divers sorts of flies among them, which devoured them; and frogs, which destroyed them.

46 He gave also their increase unto the caterpiller, and their labour unto the locust.

47 He § destroyed their vines with hail, and their sycamore trees with ‖ frost.

48 He gave up their cattle also to the hail, and their flocks to † hot thunderbolts.

49 He cast upon them the fierceness of his anger, wrath, and indignation, and trouble, by sending evil angels among them.

50 ‡ He made a way to his anger; he spared not their soul from death, but gave § their life over to the pestilence;

51 And smote all the firstborn in Egypt; the chief of their strength in the tabernacles of Ham:

52 But made his own people to go forth like sheep, and guided them in the wilderness like a flock.

53 And he led them on safely, so that they feared not: but the sea ‖ overwhelmed their enemies.

54 And he brought them to the border of his sanctuary, even to this mountain, which his right hand had purchased.

55 He cast out the heathen also before them, and divided them an inheritance by line, and made the tribes of Israel to dwell in their tents.

56 Yet they tempted and provoked the most high God, and kept not his testimonies:

57 But turned back, and dealt unfaithfully like their fathers: they were turned aside like a deceitful bow.

58 For they provoked him to anger with their high places, and moved him to jealousy with their graven images.

59 When God heard this, he was wroth, and greatly abhorred Israel:

60 So that he forsook the tabernacle of Shiloh, the tent which he placed among men;

61 And delivered his strength into captivity, and his glory into the enemy's hand.

62 He gave his people over also unto the sword; and was wroth with his inheritance.

63 The fire consumed their young men; and their maidens were not * given to marriage.

64 Their priests fell by the sword; and their widows made no lamentation.

65 Then the LORD awaked as one out of sleep, and like a mighty man that shouteth by reason of wine.

66 And he smote his enemies in the hinder part: he put them to a perpetual reproach.

67 Moreover he refused the tabernacle of Joseph, and chose not the tribe of Ephraim:

68 But chose the tribe of Judah, the mount Zion which he loved.

69 And he built his sanctuary like high palaces, like the earth which he hath † established for ever.

70 He chose David also his servant, and took him from the sheep-folds:

71 ‡ From following the ewes great with young he brought him to feed Jacob his people, and Israel his inheritance.

72 So he fed them according to the integrity of his heart; and guided them by the skilfulness of his hands.

PSALM LXXIX. Ver. 1. O God, the heathen, &c.—This psalm was evidently composed during the Babylonish captivity, when the holy city of the Israelites was dismantled and their temple desecrated. The author supplicates the mercy of Jehovah, that he will pardon his people, Israel, and pour out the visitations of his wrath upon their idolatrous foes. This beautiful composition has been attributed to Jeremiah the prophet.

neighbours, a scorn and derision to them that are round about us.

5 [g] How long, LORD? wilt thou be angry for ever? shall thy [h] jealousy burn like fire?

6 [i] Pour out thy wrath upon the heathen that have [k] not known thee, and upon the kingdoms that have [l] not called upon thy name.

7 For they have devoured Jacob, and laid waste his dwelling place.

8 [m] O remember not against us †former iniquities: let thy tender mercies speedily prevent us: for we are [n] brought very low.

9 [o] Help us, O God of our salvation, for the glory of thy name: and deliver us, and purge away our sins, [p] for thy name's sake.

10 [q] Wherefore should the heathen say, Where is their God? let him be known among the heathen in our sight by the ‡revenging of the blood of thy servants which is shed.

11 Let [r] the sighing of the prisoner come before thee; according to the greatness of §thy power ‖preserve thou those that are appointed to die;

PSALM LXXX.

1 The psalmist in his prayer complaineth of the miseries of the church. 8 God's former favours are turned into judgments. 14 He prayeth for deliverance.

¶ To the chief Musician [*] upon Shoshannim-Eduth, A Psalm †of Asaph.

GIVE ear, O Shepherd of Israel, thou [a] that leadest Joseph like a flock; [b] thou that dwellest between the cherubims, [c] shine forth.

2 [d] Before Ephraim and Benjamin and Manasseh stir up thy strength, and ‡come and save us.

3 [e] Turn us again, O God, [f] and cause thy face to shine; and we shall be saved.

4 O LORD God of hosts, how long §wilt thou be angry against the prayer of thy people?

5 [g] Thou feedest them with the bread of tears; and givest them tears to drink in great measure.

6 [h] Thou makest us a strife unto our neighbours: and our enemies laugh among themselves.

7 [i] Turn us again, O God of hosts, and cause thy face to shine; and we shall be saved.

8 Thou hast brought [k] a vine out of Egypt: [l] thou hast cast out the heathen, and planted it.

9 Thou [m] preparedst room before it, and didst cause it to take deep root, and it filled the land.

10 The hills were covered with the shadow of it, and the boughs thereof were like ‖the goodly cedars.

11 She sent out her boughs unto the sea, and her branches [n] unto the river.

12 Why hast thou then [o] broken down her hedges, so that all they which pass by the way do pluck her?

13 The boar out of the wood doth waste it, and the wild beast of the field doth devour it.

14 Return, we beseech thee, O God of hosts: [p] look down from heaven, and behold, and visit this vine;

15 And the vineyard which thy right hand hath planted, and the branch that thou madest strong [q] for thyself.

16 It is burned with fire, it is cut down: [r] they perish at the rebuke of thy countenance.

17 [s] Let thy hand be upon the man of thy right hand, upon the son of man whom thou madest strong for thyself.

18 So will not we go back from thee: quicken us, and we will call upon thy name.

19 [t] Turn us again, O LORD God of hosts, cause thy face to shine; and we shall be saved.

PSALM LXXXI.

1 An exhortation to a solemn praising of God. 4 God challengeth that duty by reason of his benefits. 8 God, exhorting to obedience, complaineth of their disobedience, which proveth their own hurt.

¶ To the chief Musician [*] upon Gittith, A Psalm † of Asaph.

SING aloud unto God our strength: make a joyful noise unto the God of Jacob.

2 Take a psalm, and bring hither the timbrel, the pleasant harp with the psaltery.

3 Blow up the trumpet in the new moon, in the time appointed, on our solemn feast day.

4 For [*] this was a statute for Israel, and a law of the God of Jacob.

5 This he ordained in Joseph for a testimony, when he went out ‡through the land of Egypt: [b] where I heard a language that I understood not.

6 [c] I removed his shoulder from the burden: his hands §were delivered from [d] the pots.

7 [e] Thou calledst in trouble, and I delivered thee; [f] I answered thee in the secret place of thunder: I [g] proved thee at the waters of ‖Meribah. Selah.

8 [h] Hear, O my people, and I will testify unto thee: O Israel, if thou wilt hearken unto me;

9 [i] There shall no [k] strange god be in thee; neither shalt thou worship any strange god.

10 [l] I am the LORD thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt: [m] open thy mouth wide, and I will fill it.

11 But my people would not hearken to my voice; and Israel would [n] none of me.

12 [o] So I gave them up [*] unto their own hearts' lust: and they walked in their own counsels.

13 [p] Oh that my people had hearkened unto me, and Israel had walked in my ways!

14 I should soon have subdued their enemies, and turned my hand against their adversaries.

15 [q] The haters of the LORD should have †‡ submitted themselves unto him: but their time should have endured for ever.

It is an ode composed for the feast of trumpets (Levit. xxiii., 24.), in the first new moon of the civil year. The object and end of this poem appears to be an exhortation to obedience, from the consideration of the paternal love, the beneficence, and the promises of the Deity; and this is accomplished with wonderful art, elegance, variety, and ingenuity."—Lowth.

PSALM LXXXII. Ver. 1. God standeth in the congregation, &c.—In this and the following verses there is a strong invective against injustice, as exercised by judges and rulers among men. God is supreme over all magistrates, and will call corrupt ministers to account, however mighty.

PSALM LXXXIII. Ver. 1. Keep not thou silence, &c.—"Several of the neighbouring nations being gathered together to make war against the Israelites, the prophet entreats the Lord in this psalm to destroy those nations, as he had formerly destroyed the kings who assaulted their forefathers."—Ferrein.

PSALM LXXXIV. Ver. 1. How amiable are thy tabernacles, &c.—"It is uncertain to what particular time this beautiful composition relates; the author of it, under the figure of an Israelite deprived of all access to Jerusalem and the sanctuary, laments his banishment from the assemblies of the faithful, describes the happiness of those who are blessed with opportunities of frequenting God's house, and beseeches God to make him a partaker of that happiness."—Travell.

PSALM LXXXV. Ver. 1. Lord, thou hast been favourable, &c.—This psalm appears to have been written to celebrate the return of the Israelites from their captivity in Babylon. This is evidently referred to in the first three verses. Then follows an appeal to the Almighty deliverer to restore his people to their former prosperity. Upon having assurance that this supplication will be realised (ver. 8) he bursts forth into a prophetical rapture at the prospect of that final deliverance by Christ, which shall rescue mankind from the bondage of corruption, and exalt them to that liberty which is eternal in the heavens.

PSALM LXXXVI. Ver. 1. Bow down thine ear, &c.—This is likely to have been one of the "songs of Zion," produced during the captivity. It is evidently a prayer under affliction from the slanders and persecutions of evil men.

PSALM LXXXVII. Ver. 1. His foundation, &c.—"This psalm," according to Dr. Hammond, "contains a brief comparison, first, between Zion, the place of God's worship and all Judea besides, and then between it and all heathen countries."

PSALM LXXXVIII. Ver. 1. O Lord God of my salvation, &c.—"This psalm," as Mr. Mudge observes, "may well be said to be composed according to its title, Leannoth, to create dejection, to raise a pensive gloom or melancholy in the mind; the whole subject of it being, quite throughout, heavy and full of the most dismal complaints. The nature and degree of the sufferings related in it; the strength of the expressions used to describe them; the consent of ancient expositors; the appointment of the psalm by the Church to be read on Good Friday; all these circumstances concur in directing an application of the whole to our blessed Lord. His unexampled sorrows, both in body and soul; his devotion in the day of trouble; his bitter passion and approaching death, with his frequent and fervent prayers for the accomplishment of the promises, for the salvation of the Church through him, and for the manifestation of God's glory; these are the particulars treated of in this instructive and most affecting composition."—*Bp. 7 Thy wrath lieth hard upon me, and [g]thou hast afflicted me with all thy waves. Selah.

8 [h] Thou hast put away mine acquaintance far from me; thou hast made me an abomination unto them: [i]I am shut up, and I cannot come forth.

9 [k] Mine eye mourneth by reason of affliction: LORD, [l]I have called daily upon thee, [m] I have stretched out my hands unto thee.

10 [n] Wilt thou shew wonders to the dead? shall the dead arise and praise thee? Selah.

11 Shall thy lovingkindness be declared in the grave? or thy faithfulness in destruction?

12 [o] Shall thy wonders be known in the dark? [p] and thy righteousness in the land of forgetfulness?

13 But unto thee have I cried, O LORD; and [q] in the morning shall my prayer prevent thee.

14 LORD, [r] why castest thou off my soul? why [s] hidest thou thy face from me?

15 I am afflicted and ready to die from my youth up: while [t] I suffer thy terrors I am distracted.

16 Thy fierce wrath goeth over me; thy terrors have cut me off.

17 They came round about me ‖ daily like water; they [u] compassed me about together.

18 [x] Lover and friend hast thou put far from me, and mine acquaintance into darkness.

PSALM LXXXIX.

1 The psalmist praiseth God for his covenant, 5 for his wonderful power, 15 for the care of his church, 19 for his favour to the kingdom of David. 38 Then, complaining of contrary events, 46 he expostulateth, prayeth, and blesseth God.

¶ * Maschil of † Ethan the Ezrahite.

[a] I WILL sing of the mercies of the LORD for ever: with my mouth will I make known thy faithfulness ‡ to all generations.

2 For I have said, Mercy shall be built up for ever: [b] thy faithfulness shalt thou establish in the very heavens.

3 [c] I have made a covenant with my chosen, I have [d] sworn unto David my servant,

4 [e] Thy seed will I establish for ever, and build up thy throne [f] to all generations. Selah.

5 And [g] the heavens shall praise thy wonders, O LORD: thy faithfulness also in the congregation [h] of the saints.

6 For [i] who in the heaven can be compared unto the LORD? who among the sons of the mighty can be likened unto the LORD?

7 [k] God is greatly to be feared in the assembly of the saints, and to be had in reverence of all them that are about him.

8 O LORD God of hosts, who is a strong LORD [l] like unto thee? or to thy faithfulness round about thee?

9 [m] Thou rulest the raging of the sea: when the waves thereof arise, thou stillest them.

10 [n] Thou hast broken § Rahab in pieces, as one that is slain; thou hast scattered thine enemies ‖ with thy strong arm.

11 [o] The heavens are thine, the earth also is thine: as for the world and the fulness thereof thou hast founded them.

12 [p] The north and the south thou hast created them: [q] Tabor and [r] Hermon shall rejoice in thy name.

13 Thou hast * a mighty arm: strong is thy hand, and high is thy right hand.

14 [s] Justice and judgment are the † habitation of thy throne: [t] mercy and truth shall go before thy face.

15 Blessed is the people that know the [u] joyful sound: they shall walk, O LORD, in the [x] light of thy countenance.

16 In thy name shall they rejoice all the day: and in thy righteousness shall they be exalted.

17 For thou art the glory of their strength: [y] and in thy favour our horn shall be exalted.

18 For ‡ the LORD is our defence; and the Holy One of Israel is our king.

19 Then thou spakest in vision to thy holy one, and saidst, I have laid help upon one that is mighty; I have exalted one [z] chosen out of the people.

20 [a] I have found David my servant; with my holy oil have I anointed him:

21 [b] With whom my hand shall be established: mine arm also shall strengthen him.

22 [c] The enemy shall not exact upon him; nor the son of wickedness afflict him.

23 [d] And I will beat down his foes before his face, and plague them that hate him.

24 But [e] my faithfulness and my mercy shall be with him: and [f] in my name shall his horn be exalted.

25 [g] I will set his hand also in the sea, and his right hand in the rivers.

26 He shall cry unto me, Thou art [h] my father, my God, and [i] the rock of my salvation.

27 Also I will make him [k] my first-born, [l] higher than the kings of the earth.

28 [m] My mercy will I keep for him for evermore, and [n] my covenant shall stand fast with him.

29 [o] His seed also will I make to endure for ever, [p] and his throne [q] as the days of heaven.

30 [r] If his children [s] forsake my law, and walk not in my judgments;

31 If they § break my statutes, and keep not my commandments;

32 Then [t] will I visit their transgression with the rod, and their iniquity with stripes.

33 [u] Nevertheless my lovingkindness ‖ will I not utterly take from him, nor suffer my faithfulness * to fail.

34 My covenant will I not break, nor alter the thing that is gone out of my lips.

35 Once have I sworn [x] by my holiness † that I will not lie unto David.

PSALM LXXXIX. Ver. 1. I will sing, &c.—"This psalm divides itself into two grand parts; the first extends from ver. 1 to 37, in which the Psalmist shows God's mercy to the house of David, and the promises which he has given to it of support and perpetuity. The second part begins with ver. 38, and ends with the psalm; and in it the author complains that, notwithstanding these promises, the kingdom of Judah is overthrown and the royal family ruined; and he entreats the Lord to remember his covenant made with that family and restore them from their captivity."—*Dr. A. 38 But thou hast [a]cast off and [b]abhorred, thou hast been wroth with thine anointed.

39 Thou hast made void the covenant of thy servant: [c]thou hast profaned his crown by casting it to the ground.

40 [d]Thou hast broken down all his hedges; thou hast brought his strong holds to ruin.

41 All that pass by the way spoil him: he is [e]a reproach to his neighbours.

1 Moses, setting forth God's providence, 3 complaineth of humane fragility, 7 divine chastisements, 10 and brevity of life. 12 He prayeth for the knowledge and sensible experience of God's good providence.

¶ *A Prayer †of Moses the man of God.

LORD, [a]thou hast been our dwelling place ‡in all generations.

2 [b]Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God.

3 Thou turnest man to destruction; and sayest, [c]Return, ye children of men.

4 [d]For a thousand years in thy sight are but as yesterday §when it is past, and as a watch in the night.

5 Thou carriest them away as with a flood; [e]they are as a sleep: in the morning [f]they are like grass which ‖groweth up.

6 [g]In the morning it flourisheth, and groweth up; in the evening it is cut down, and withereth.

7 For we are consumed by thine anger, and by thy wrath are we troubled.

8 [h]Thou hast set our iniquities before thee, our [i]secret sins in the light of thy countenance.

9 For all our days are [*]passed away in thy wrath: we spend our years †as a tale that is told.

10 ‡The days of our years are threescore years and ten; and if by reason of strength they be fourscore years, yet is their strength labour and sorrow; for it is soon cut off, and we fly away.

11 Who knoweth the power of thine anger? even according to thy fear, so is thy wrath.

12 [k]So teach us to number our days, that we may §apply our hearts unto wisdom.

13 Return, O LORD, how long? and let it [l]repent thee concerning thy servants.

14 O satisfy us early with thy mercy; [m]that we may rejoice and be glad all our days.

15 Make us glad according to the days wherein thou hast afflicted us, and the years wherein we have seen evil.

PSALM XC. Ver. 1. Lord thou hast been, &c.—This has generally been considered as a composition of Moses, for the instruction of the Israelites in the wilderness, when God limited their lives on account of their murmurings and mutinies. It chiefly relates, as Travell observes, to the mortal and transitory state of man upon earth, and is therefore adopted by our Church in the funeral service.

PSALM XCI.

1 The state of the godly. 3 Their safety. 9 Their habitation. 11 Their servants. 14 Their friend; with the effects of them all.

HE [a]that dwelleth in the secret place of the most high shall *abide [b]under the shadow of the Almighty.

2 [c]I will say of the LORD, He is my refuge and my fortress: my God; in him will I trust.

3 Surely [d]he shall deliver thee from the snare of the fowler, and from the noisome pestilence.

4 [e]He shall cover thee with his feathers, and under his wings shalt thou trust: his truth shall be thy shield and buckler.

5 [f]Thou shalt not be afraid for the terror by night; nor for the arrow that flieth by day;

6 Nor for the pestilence that walketh in darkness; nor for the destruction that wasteth at noonday.

7 A thousand shall fall at thy side, and ten thousand at thy right hand; but it shall not come nigh thee.

8 Only [g]with thine eyes shalt thou behold and see the reward of the wicked.

9 Because thou hast made the LORD which is [h]my refuge, even the most high, [i]thy habitation;

10 [k]There shall no evil befall thee, neither shall any plague come nigh thy dwelling.

11 [l]For he shall give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways.

PSALM XCI. Ver. 1. He that dwelleth, &c.—"The subject of this psalm," observes Lowth, "is the security, the success, and the reward of piety. Without a question," he says, "the pious person, the king or high priest, perhaps, who in the literal sense is the principal character of the poem, is meant in reality to represent some greater and sublimer personage."

PSALM XCII.

1 The prophet exhorteth to praise God, 4 for his great works, 6 for his judgments on the wicked, 10 and for his goodness to the godly.

¶ A Psalm or Song for the sabbath day.

IT is a [a] good thing to give thanks unto the LORD, and to sing praises unto thy name, O most high:

2 To [b] shew forth thy lovingkindness in the morning, and thy faithfulness * every night,

3 [c] Upon an instrument of ten strings, and upon the psaltery; † upon the harp with ‡ a solemn sound.

4 For thou, LORD, hast made me glad through thy work: I will triumph in the works of thy hands.

5 [d] O LORD, how great are thy works! and [e] thy thoughts are very deep.

6 [f] A brutish man knoweth not; neither doth a fool understand this.

7 When [g] the wicked spring as the grass, and when all the workers of iniquity do flourish; it is that they shall be destroyed for ever:

8 ¶ [h] But thou, LORD, art most high for evermore.

9 For, lo, thine enemies, O LORD, for, lo, thine enemies shall perish; all the workers of iniquity shall [i] be scattered.

10 But [k] my horn shalt thou exalt like the horn of an unicorn: I shall be [l] anointed with fresh oil.

11 [m] Mine eye also shall see my desire on mine enemies, and mine ears shall hear my desire of the wicked that rise up against me.

12 [n] The righteous shall flourish like the palm tree: he shall grow like a cedar in Lebanon.

13 Those that be planted in the house of the LORD shall flourish [o] in the courts of our God.

14 They shall still bring forth fruit in old age; they shall be fat and § flourishing;

15 To shew that the LORD is upright: [p] he is my rock, and [q] there is no unrighteousness in him.

PSALM XCIII.

The majesty, power, and holiness of Christ's kingdom.

THE [a] LORD reigneth, [b] he is clothed with majesty; the LORD is clothed with strength, [c] wherewith he hath girded himself: [d] the world also is stablished, that it cannot be moved.

2 [e] Thy throne is established * of old: thou art from everlasting.

3 The floods have lifted up, O LORD, the floods have lifted up their voice; the floods lift up their waves.

4 [f] The LORD on high is mightier than the noise of many waters, yea, than the mighty waves of the sea.

5 Thy testimonies are very sure: holiness becometh thine house, O LORD, † for ever.

PSALM XCIV.

1 The prophet, calling for justice, complaineth of tyranny and impiety. 8 He teacheth God's providence. 12 He sheweth the blessedness of affliction. 16 God is the defender of the afflicted.

O LORD * God, [a] to whom vengeance belongeth; O God, to whom vengeance belongeth, † shew thyself.

2 [b] Lift up thyself, thou [c] judge of the earth: render a reward to the proud.

3 LORD, [d] how long shall the wicked, how long shall the wicked triumph?

4 How long shall they [e] utter and speak hard things? and all the workers of iniquity boast themselves?

5 They break in pieces thy people, O LORD, and afflict thine heritage.

6 They slay the widow and the stranger, and murder the fatherless.

7 [f] Yet they say, The LORD shall not see, neither shall the God of Jacob regard it.

8 [g] Understand, ye brutish among the people: and ye fools, when will ye be wise?

9 [h] He that planted the ear, shall he not hear? he that formed the eye, shall he not see?

10 He that chastiseth the heathen, shall not he correct? he that [i] teacheth man knowledge, shall not he know?

11 [k] The LORD knoweth the thoughts of man, that they are vanity.

12 [l] Blessed is the man whom thou chastenest, O LORD, and teachest him out of thy law;

13 That thou mayest give him rest from the days of adversity, until the pit be digged for the wicked.

14 [m] For the LORD will not cast off his people, neither will he forsake his inheritance.

15 But judgment shall return unto righteousness: and all the upright in heart ‡ shall follow it.

16 Who will rise up for me against the evildoers? or who will stand up for me against the workers of iniquity?

17 [n] Unless the LORD had been my help, my soul had § almost dwelt in silence.

18 When I said, [o] My foot slippeth; thy mercy, O LORD, held me up.

19 In the multitude of my thoughts within me thy comforts delight my soul.

20 Shall [p] the throne of iniquity have fellowship with thee, which [q] frameth mischief by a law?

21 [r] They gather themselves together against the soul of the righteous, and [s] condemn the innocent blood.

22 But the LORD is [t] my defence; and my God is the rock of my refuge.

PSALM XCII. Ver. 1. It is a good thing, &c.—Calmet supposes this psalm to have been composed by some of the Levites during, or near the close of, the Babylonish captivity, acknowledging the mercy of God, and foreseeing the desolation of their enemies, and their own return to Jerusalem and to their temple service.

PSALM XCIII. Ver. 1. The Lord reigneth, &c.—This appears to be a continuation of the preceding.

PSALM XCIV. Ver. 1. O Lord God, to whom vengeance belongeth, &c.—This was probably a prayer for deliverance by the captives in Babylon, but by whom written is uncertain.

PSALM XCV.

1 An exhortation to praise God, 3 for his greatness, 6 and for his goodness, 8 and not to tempt him.

O COME, let us sing unto the LORD: [a] let us make a joyful noise to [b] the rock of our salvation.

2 Let us [*] come before his presence with thanksgiving, and make a joyful noise unto him with psalms.

3 For [c] the LORD is a great God, and a great King above all gods.

4 † In his hand are the deep places of the earth: ‡ the strength of the hills is his also.

5 § [d] The sea is his, and he made it: and his hands formed the dry land.

6 O come, let us worship and bow down: let [e] us kneel before the LORD our maker.

7 For he is our God; and [f] we are the people of his pasture, and the sheep of his hand. [g] To day if ye will hear his voice,

8 Harden not your heart, [h] as in the ‖ provocation, and as in the day of temptation in the wilderness:

9 When [i] your fathers tempted me, proved me, and [k] saw my work.

10 [l] Forty years long was I grieved with this generation, and said, It is a people that do err in their heart, and they have not known my ways:

PSALM XCVI.

1 An exhortation to praise God, 4 for his greatness, 8 for his kingdom, 11 for his general judgment.

O [a] SING unto the LORD a new song: sing unto the LORD, all the earth.

2 Sing unto the LORD, bless his name; shew forth his salvation from day to day.

3 Declare his glory among the heathen, his wonders among all people.

4 For [b] the LORD is great, and [c] greatly to be praised: [d] he is to be feared above all gods.

5 For [e] all the gods of the nations are idols: [f] but the LORD made the heaven.

6 Honour and majesty are before him: strength and [g] beauty are in his sanctuary.

7 [h] Give unto the LORD, O ye kindreds of the people, give unto the LORD glory and strength.

8 Give unto the LORD the glory [*] due unto his name: bring an offering, and come into his courts.

9 O worship the LORD [i] § in the beauty of holiness: fear before him, all the earth.

10 Say among the heathen that [k] the LORD reigneth: the world also shall be established that it shall not be moved: [l] he shall judge the people righteously.

1 The majesty of God's kingdom. 7 The church rejoiceth at God's judgments upon idolators. 10 An exhortation to godliness and gladness.

THE [a] LORD reigneth; let the earth rejoice; let the [*] multitude of [b] isles be glad thereof.

2 [c] Clouds and darkness are round about him: [d] righteousness and judgment are the † habitation of his throne.

3 [e] A fire goeth before him, and burneth up his enemies round about.

4 [f] His lightnings enlightened the world: the earth saw, and trembled.

5 [g] The hills melted like wax at the presence of the LORD, at the presence of the LORD of the whole earth.

6 [h] The heavens declare his righteousness, and all the people see his glory.

7 [i] Confounded be all they that serve graven images, that boast themselves of idols: [k] worship him, all ye gods.

8 Zion heard, and was glad; and the daughters of Judah rejoiced because of thy judgments, O LORD.

9 For thou, LORD, art [l] high above all the earth: [m] thou art exalted far above all gods.

10 Ye that love the LORD, [n] hate evil: [o] he preserveth the souls of his saints; [p] he delivereth them out of the hand of the wicked.

PSALM XCVIII.

1 The psalmist exhorteth the Jews, 4 the Gentiles, 7 and all the creatures to praise God.

¶ A Psalm.

O [a] SING unto the LORD a new song; for [b] he hath done marvellous things: [c] his right hand, and his holy arm, hath gotten him the victory.

2 [d] The LORD hath made known his salvation: [e] his righteousness hath he [*] openly shewed in the sight of the heathen.

3 He hath [f] remembered his mercy and his truth toward the house of Israel: [g] all the ends of the earth have seen the salvation of our God.

4 [h] Make a joyful noise unto the LORD, all the earth: make a loud noise, and rejoice, and sing praise.

[h] Ps. 95. 1. & 100. 1.

PSALM XCV. Ver. 1. O come, let us sing, &c.—This psalm is generally attributed to David. It is an invitation to the Israelites, when assembled on solemn occasions, to praise God and attend to the revelations of his will. It is acknowledged even by the Jews to have special reference to the Messiah.

PSALM XCVI. Ver. 1. O sing unto the Lord, &c.—David was undoubtedly the author of this divine song, which was, probably, composed by him when the ark was removed from the house of Obed-edom to the place prepared for it on Mount Zion. The whole composition is universally considered to refer to the times of Christ.

PSALM XCVII. Ver. 1. The Lord reigneth, &c.—This is clearly by the same author as the preceding and is likewise applicable to the spiritual dominion of the Saviour.

PSALM XCVIII. Ver. 1. O sing unto the Lord, &c.—Another of David's psalms, embracing much the same subject as the last and the one preceding to which it bears a near resemblance.

3 Know ye that the LORD he is God: [b]it is he that hath made us, § and not we ourselves; [c]we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture.

4 [d]Enter into his gates with thanksgiving, and into his courts with praise: be thankful unto him, and bless his name.

5 For the LORD is good; [e]his mercy is everlasting; and his truth endureth ‖ to all generations.

PSALM XCIX. Ver. 1. The Lord reigneth, &c.—"This also," says Dr. Dodd, "is attributed to David by the seventy and most other ancient versions. It seems to relate to his quiet establishment on his throne. The Syriac tells us that it treats primarily of the slaughter of the Midianites, and that in its secondary sense it is a prediction of the glory of Christ's kingdom."

PSALM C. Ver. 1. Make a joyful noise, &c.—The title of this psalm is supposed to have been assumed in consequence of its being well adapted to be chaunted when the sacrifices of thanksgiving were offered (see Levit. xii. 12.). "It is a solemn invitation to all the world," says Travell, "to acknowledge, serve, and praise God, the creator of all men, guardian of his people and the merciful performer of all his promises through all generations."

PSALM CI.

David maketh a vow and profession of Godliness.

¶ A Psalm of David.

[a] Ps. 89. 1.

[a]I WILL sing of mercy and judgment: unto thee, O LORD, will I sing.

[b] 1 Sam. 18. 14.

PSALM CII.

1 The prophet in his prayer maketh a grievous complaint. 12 He taketh comfort in the eternity and mercy of God. 18 The mercies of God are to be recorded. 23 He sustaineth his weakness by the unchangeableness of God.

¶ A Prayer [*]of the afflicted, [†]when he is overwhelmed, and poureth out his complaint before the LORD.

11 [q]My days are like a shadow that declineth; and [r]I am withered like grass.

PSALM CI. Ver. 1. I will sing of mercy, &c.—David here shows how he desired his own conduct should be regulated on assuming the crown. It was therefore selected as one of the psalms used at the inauguration of our sovereigns.

PSALM CII. Ver. 1. Hear my prayer, &c.—This seems to have been a prayer of the captive Israelites in Babylon, when they were reduced to the lowest extreme of wretchedness on account of the cruelties and odious tyranny to which they had been subjected. It depicts their sufferings in gloomy terms, and contains a touching appeal to Jehovah to restore their unhappy city and its forsaken sanctuary to their former dignity. It is a most sublime composition.

12 But [a]thou, O LORD, shalt endure for ever; and [b]thy remembrance unto all generations.

13 Thou shalt arise, and [c]have mercy upon Zion: for the time to favour her, yea, the [x]set time, is come.

14 For thy servants take pleasure in [y]her stones, and favour the dust thereof.

15 So the heathen shall [z]fear the name of the LORD, and all the kings of the earth thy glory.

16 When the LORD shall build up Zion, [a]he shall appear in his glory.

17 [b]He will regard the prayer of the destitute, and not despise their prayer.

18 This shall be [c]written for the generation to come: and [d]the people which shall be created shall praise the LORD.

19 For he hath [e]looked down from the height of his sanctuary; from heaven did the LORD behold the earth;

20 [f]To hear the groaning of the prisoner; to loose ‖ those that are appointed to death;

21 To [g]declare the name of the LORD in Zion, and his praise in Jerusalem;

22 When the people are gathered together, and the kingdoms, to serve the LORD.

23 He [*]weakened my strength in the way; he [h]shortened my days.

24 [i]I said, O my God, take me not away in the midst of my days: [k]thy years are throughout all generations.

25 [l]Of old hast thou laid the foundation of the earth: and the heavens are the work of thy hands.

26 [m]They shall perish, but [n]thou shalt †endure: yea, all of them shall wax old like a garment; as a vesture shalt thou change them, and they shall be changed:

27 But [o]thou art the same, and thy years shall have no end.

28 [p]The children of thy servants shall continue, and their seed shall be established before thee.

PSALM CIII.

1 An exhortation to bless God for his mercy, 15 and for the constancy thereof.

¶ A Psalm of David.

BLESS [a]the LORD, O my soul: and all that is within me, bless his holy name.

2 Bless the LORD, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits:

3 [b]Who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who [c]healeth all thy diseases;

4 Who [d]redeemeth thy life from destruction; [e]who crowneth thee with lovingkindness and tender mercies;

5 Who satisfieth thy mouth with good things; so that [f]thy youth is renewed like the eagle's.

6 [g]The LORD executeth righteousness and judgment for all that are oppressed.

7 [h]He made known his ways unto Moses, his acts unto the children of Israel.

8 [i]The LORD is merciful and gracious, slow to anger, and [*]plenteous in mercy.

9 [k]He will not always chide: neither will he keep his anger for ever.

10 [l]He hath not dealt with us after our sins; nor rewarded us according to our iniquities.

11 [m]For †as the heaven is high above the earth, so great is his mercy toward them that fear him.

12 As far as the east is from the west, so far hath he [n]removed our transgressions from us.

13 [o]Like as a father pitieth his children, so the LORD pitieth them that fear him.

14 For he knoweth our frame; [p]he remembereth that we are [q]dust.

15 As for man, [r]his days are as grass: [s]as a flower of the field, so he flourisheth.

16 For the wind passeth over it, and ‡it is gone; and [t]the place thereof shall know it no more.

17 But the mercy of the LORD is from everlasting to everlasting upon them that fear him, and his righteousness [u]unto children's children;

18 [x]To such as keep his covenant, and to those that remember his commandments to do them.

19 The LORD hath prepared his [y]throne in the heavens; and [z]his kingdom ruleth over all.

20 [a]Bless the LORD, ye his angels, § that excel in strength, that [b]do his commandments, hearkening unto the voice of his word.

21 Bless ye the LORD, all ye [c]his hosts; [d]ye ministers of his, that do his pleasure.

PSALM CIII. Ver. 1. Bless the Lord, &c.—In this psalm David expresses earnest gratitude to God for his superabounding mercies towards himself and the people whom he had been especially chosen to govern. It exhibits the most pressing motives for serving God diligently, and worshipping him with devout affiance.

PSALM CIV. Ver. 1. Bless the Lord, &c.—This seems to be a continuation of the preceding psalm: in it God's providence, in his creation and government of the world, are celebrated in strains of surpassing grandeur. "There is nothing of the kind extant," says Lowth, "indeed, nothing can be conceived more perfect than this hymn, whether it be considered with respect to its intrinsic beauties, or as a model of that species of composition."

not pass over; [q] that they turn not again to cover the earth.

10 ‡ He sendeth the springs into the valleys, which § run among the hills.

11 They give drink to every beast of the field: the wild asses ‖ quench their thirst.

12 By them shall the fowls of the heaven have their habitation, which * sing among the branches.

13 [r] He watereth the hills from his chambers: [s] the earth is satisfied with [t] the fruit of thy works.

14 [u] He causeth the grass to grow for the cattle, and herb for the service of man: that he may bring forth [x] food out of the earth;

15 And [y] wine that maketh glad the heart of man, and †oil to make his face to shine, and bread which strengtheneth man's heart.

16 The trees of the LORD are full of sap; the cedars of Lebanon, [z] which he hath planted;

17 Where the birds make their nests: as for the stork, the fir trees are her house.

18 The high hills are a refuge for the wild goats; and the rocks for [a] the conies.

19 [b] He appointed the moon for seasons: the sun [c] knoweth his going down.

20 [d] Thou makest darkness, and it is night: wherein ‡ all the beasts of the forest do creep forth.

21 [e] The young lions roar after their prey, and seek their meat from God.

22 The sun ariseth, they gather themselves together, and lay them down in their dens.

23 Man goeth forth unto [f] his work and to his labour until the evening.

24 [g] O LORD, how manifold are thy works! in wisdom hast thou made them all: the earth is full of thy riches.

25 So is this great and wide sea, wherein are things creeping innumerable, both small and great beasts.

26 There go the ships: there is [h] leviathan, whom thou hast § made to play therein.

27 [i] These wait all upon thee; that thou mayest give them their meat in due season.

28 That thou givest them they gather; thou openest thine hand, they are filled with good.

29 Thou hidest thy face, they are troubled: [k] thou takest away their breath, they die, and return to their dust.

30 [l] Thou sendest forth thy spirit, they are created: and thou renewest the face of the earth.

31 The glory of the LORD ‖ shall endure for ever: the LORD [m] shall rejoice in his works.

33 He looketh on the earth, and it [n] trembleth: [o] he toucheth the hills, and they smoke.

33 [p] I will sing unto the LORD as long as I live: I will sing praise to my God while I have my being.

34 My meditation of him shall be sweet: I will be glad in the LORD.

35 Let [q] the sinners be consumed out of the earth, and let the wicked be no more.

[r] Bless thou the LORD, O my soul. Praise ye the LORD.

PSALM CV.

1 An exhortation to praise God, and to seek out his works. 7 The story of God's providence over Abraham, 16 over Joseph, 23 over Jacob in Egypt. 26 over Moses delivering the Israelists, 37 over the Israelites brought out of Egypt, fed in the wilderness, and planted in Canaan.

O [a] GIVE thanks unto the LORD; call upon his name: [b] make known his deeds among the people.

2 Sing unto him, sing psalms unto him: [c] talk ye of all his wondrous works.

3 Glory ye in his holy name: let the heart of them rejoice that seek the LORD.

4 Seek the LORD, and his strength: [d] seek his face evermore.

5 [e] Remember his marvellous works that he hath done; his wonders, and the judgments of his mouth;

6 O ye seed of Abraham his servant, ye children of Jacob his chosen.

7 He is the LORD our God: [f] his judgments are in all the earth.

8 He hath [g] remembered his covenant for ever, the word which he commanded to a thousand generations.

9 [h] Which covenant he made with Abraham, and his oath unto Isaac;

10 And confirmed the same unto Jacob for a law, and to Israel for an everlasting covenant:

11 Saying, [i] Unto thee will I give the land of Canaan, * the lot of your inheritance:

12 [k] When there were but a few men in number; yea, very few, [l] and strangers in it.

13 When they went from one nation to another, from one kingdom to another people;

14 [m] He suffered no man to do them wrong: yea, [n] he reproved kings for their sakes;

15 Saying, Touch not mine anointed, and do my prophets no harm.

16 Moreover [o] he called for a famine upon the land: he brake the whole [p] staff of bread.

17 [q] He sent a man before them, even Joseph, who [r] was sold for a servant:

18 [s] Whose feet they hurt with fetters: † he was laid in iron:

19 Until the time that his word came: [t] the word of the LORD tried him.

20 [u] The king sent and loosed him; even the ruler of the people, and let him go free.

21 [x] He made him LORD of his house, and ruler of all his ‡ substance:

22 To bind his princes at his pleasure; and teach his senators wisdom.

23 [y] Israel also came into Egypt; and Jacob sojourned [z] in the land of Ham.

24 And [a] he increased his people greatly; and make them stronger than their enemies.

25 [b] He turned their heart to hate his people, to deal subtilly with his servants.

26 [c] He sent Moses his servant; and Aaron [d] whom he had chosen.

27 [e] They shewed § his signs among them, [f] and wonders in the land of Ham.

PSALM CV. Ver. 1. O give thanks, &c.—This psalm may be considered an historical summary of God's dealings with the seed of Abraham, from the days of that patriarch until their final settlement in Canaan. The circumstance of a portion of this psalm being found in 1 Chron. xvi. determines the author to have been David 28 [g] He sent darkness, and made it dark; and [h] they rebelled not against his word.

29 [i] He turned their waters into blood, and slew their fish.

30 [k] Their land brought forth frogs in abundance, in the chambers of their kings.

31 [l] He spake, and there came divers sorts of flies, and lice in all their coasts.

32 [m] ‖ He gave them hail for rain, and flaming fire in their land.

33 [n] He smote their vines also and their fig trees; and brake the trees of their coasts.

34 [o] He spake, and the locusts came, and caterpillars, and that without number,

35 And did eat up all the herbs in their land, and devoured the fruit of their ground.

36 [p] He smote also all the firstborn in their land, [q] the chief of all their strength.

37 [r] He brought them forth also with silver and gold: and there was not one feeble person among their tribes.

38 [s] Egypt was glad when they departed: for the fear of them fell upon them.

39 [t] He spread a cloud for a covering; and fire to give light in the night.

40 [u] The people asked, and he brought quails, and [x] satisfied them with the bread of heaven.

41 [y] He opened the rock, and the waters guished out; they ran in the dry places like a river.

42 For he remembered [z] his holy promise, and Abraham his servant.

43 And he brought forth his people with joy, and his chosen with * gladness:

44 [a] And gave them the lands of the heathen: and they inherited the labour of the people;

45 [b] That they might observe his statutes, and keep his laws. †Praise ye the LORD.

PSALM CVI.

1 The psalmist exhorteth to praise God. 4 He prayeth for pardon of sin, as God did with the fathers. 7 The story of the people's rebellion, and God's mercy. 47 He concludeth with prayer and praise.

PRAISE * ye the LORD. [a] O [b] give thanks unto the LORD; for he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever.

2 [c] Who can utter the mighty acts of the LORD? who can shew forth all his praise?

3 Blessed are they that keep judgment, and he that [d] doeth righteousness at [e] all times.

4 [f] Remember me, O LORD, with the favour that thou bearest unto thy people: O visit me with thy salvation;

5 That I may see the good of thy chosen, that I may rejoice in the gladness of thy nation, that I may glory with thine inheritance.

6 [g] We have sinned with our fathers, we have committed iniquity, we have done wickedly.

7 Our fathers understood not thy wonders in Egypt; they remembered not the multitude of thy mercies; [h] but provoked him at the sea, even at the Red sea.

8 Nevertheless he saved them [i] for his name's sake, [k] that he might make his mighty power to be known.

9 [l] He rebuked the Red sea also, and it was dried up: so [m] he led them through the depths, as through the wilderness.

10 And he [n] saved them from the hand of him that hated them, and redeemed them from the hand of the enemy.

11 [o] And the waters covered their enemies: there was not one of them left.

12 [p] Then believed they his words; they sang his praise.

13 [q] † They soon forgat his works; they waited not for his counsel:

14 [r] But ‡ lusted exceedingly in the wilderness, and tempted God in the desert.

15 [s] And he gave them their request; but sent leanness into their soul.

16 [u] They envied Moses also in the camp, and Aaron the saint of the LORD.

17 [x] The earth opened and swallowed up Dathan, and covered the company of Abiram.

18 [y] And a fire was kindled in their company; the flame burned up the wicked.

19 [z] They made a calf in Horeb, and worshipped the molten image.

20 Thus [a] they changed their glory into the similitude of an ox that eateth grass.

21 They [b] forgat God their saviour, which had done great things in Egypt;

22 Wondrous works in [c] the land of Ham, and terrible things by the Red sea.

23 [d] Therefore he said that he would destroy them, had not Moses his chosen [e] stood before him in the breach, to turn away his wrath, lest he should destroy them.

24 Yea, they despised [§] the pleasant land, they [g] believed not his word:

25 [h] But murmured in their tents, and hearkened not unto the voice of the LORD.

26 [i] Therefore he [k] lifted up his hand against them, to overthrow them in the wilderness:

27 ‖ [l] To overthrow their seed also among the nations, and to scatter them in the lands.

28 [m] They joined themselves also unto Baal-peor, and ate the sacrifices of the dead.

29 Thus they provoked him to anger with their inventions: and the plague brake in upon them.

30 [n] Then stood up Phineas, and executed judgment: and so the plague was stayed.

31 And that was counted unto him [o] for righteousness unto all generations for evermore.

32 [p] They angered him also at the waters of strife, [q] so that it went ill with Moses for their sakes:

33 [r] Because they provoked his spirit, so that he spake unadvisedly with his lips.

34 [s] They did not destroy the nations, [t] concerning whom the LORD commanded them:

35 [u] But were mingled among the heathen, and learned their works.

36 And [x] they served their idols: [y] which were a snare unto them.

37 Yea, [z] they sacrificed their sons and their daughters unto [a] devils,

38 And shed innocent blood, even the blood

PSALM CVI. Ver. 1. Praise ye the Lord, &c.—This psalm is very similar to the preceding, and as the first and two last verses are given in 1 Chronicles, as the 106th, we may reasonably conclude him to have been the author of the whole. It represents God's mercies towards the Israelites from the Exodus to their final settlement in the land of Promise and their ungrateful return made by them.

36 And there he maketh the hungry to dwell, that they may prepare a city for habitation;

37 And sow the fields, and plant vineyards, which may yield fruits of increase.

PSALM CVII. Ver. 1. O give thanks unto the Lord, &c.—This psalm was, most probably, composed by David, and seems to relate to the deliverance of the Israelites out of Egypt. Some Commentators, however, suppose it to have been written subsequently to the return from Babylon.

The prophet takes occasion to magnify the divine mercies towards all mankind, as exhibited in his kind dealing with who are those suffering under calamity. From it the greatest consolation, under deep and trying afflictions, may be drawn.

38 [q] He blesseth them also, so that they [r] are multiplied greatly; and suffereth not their cattle to decrease.

39 Again, they are [s] minished and brought low through oppression, affliction, and sorrow.

40 [t] He poureth contempt upon upon princes, and causeth them to wander in the * wilderness, where there is no way.

41 [u] Yet setteth he the poor on high † from affliction, and [x] maketh him families like a flock.

42 [y] The righteous shall see it, and rejoice: and all [z] iniquity shall stop her mouth.

43 [a] Whoso is wise, and will observe these things, even they shall understand the lovingkindness of the LORD.

PSALM CVIII.

1 David encourageth himself to praise God. 5 He prayeth for God's assistance according to his promise. 11 His confidence in God's help.

¶ A Song or Psalm of David.

O [a] GOD, my heart is fixed; I will sing and give praise, even with my glory.

2 [b] Awake, psaltery and harp: I myself will awake early.

3 I will praise thee, O LORD, among the people: and I will sing praises unto thee among the nations.

4 For thy mercy is great above the heavens: and thy truth reacheth unto the * clouds.

5 [c] Be thou exalted, O God, above the heavens: and thy glory above all the earth;

6 [d] That thy beloved may be delivered: save with thy right hand, and answer me.

7 God hath spoken in his holiness; I will rejoice, I will divide Shechem, and mete out the valley of Succoth.

8 Gilead is mine; Manasseh is mine; Ephraim also is the strength of mine head;

9 Judah is my lawgiver;

9 Moab is my washpot; over Edom will I cast out my shoe; over Philistia will I triumph.

10 [f] Who will bring me into the strong city? who will lead me into Edom?

11 Wilt not thou, O God, who hast cast us off? and wilt not thou, O God, go forth with our hosts?

12 Give us help from trouble: for vain is the help of man.

13 [g] Through God we shall do valiantly: for he it is that shall tread down our enemies.

PSALM CIX.

1 David, complaining of his slanderous enemies, under the person of Judas devoteth them. 16 He sheweth their sin. 21 Complaining of his own misery, he prayeth for help. 29 He promiseth thankfulness.

¶ To the chief Musician, A Psalm of David.

HOLD [a] not thy peace, O God of my praise;

2 For the mouth of the wicked and the * mouth of the deceitful † are opened against me: they have spoken against me with a lying tongue.

3 They compassed me about also with words of hatred; and fought against me [b] without a cause.

4 For my love they are my adversaries: but I give myself unto prayer.

5 And [c] they have rewarded me evil for good, and hatred for my love.

6 Set thou a wicked man over him: and let [d] ‡ Satan stand at his right hand.

7 When he shall be judged, let him § be condemned: and [e] let his prayer become sin.

8 Let his days be few; and [f] let another take his ‖ office.

9 [g] Let his children be fatherless, and his wife a widow.

10 Let his children be continually vagabonds, and beg: let them seek their bread also out of their desolate places.

11 [h] Let the extortioner catch all that he hath; and let the strangers spoil his labour.

12 Let there be none to extend mercy unto him: neither let there be any to favour his fatherless children.

13 [i] Let his posterity be cut off; and in the generation following let their [k] name be blotted out.

14 [l] Let the iniquity of his fathers be remembered with the LORD; and let not the sin of his mother [m] be blotted out.

15 Let them be before the LORD continually, that he may [n] cut off the memory of them from the earth:

16 Because that he remembered not to shew mercy, but persecuted the poor and needy man, that he might even slay the [o] broken in heart.

17 [p] As he loved cursing, so let it come unto him: as he delighted not in blessing, so let it be far from him.

18 As he clothed himself with cursing like as with his garment, so let it [p] come * into his bowels like water, and like oil into his bones.

19 Let it be unto him as the garment which covereth him, and for a girdle wherewith he is girded continually.

20 Let this be the reward of mine adversaries from the LORD, and of them that speak evil against my soul.

21 But do thou for me, O GOD the Lord for thy name's sake: but thy mercy is good, deliver thou me.

22 For I am poor and needy, and my heart is wounded within me.

23 I am gone [r] like the shadow when it declineth: I am tossed up and down as the locust.

24 My [s] knees are weak through fasting; and my flesh faileth of fatness.

25 I became also [t] a reproach unto them: when they looked upon me [u] they shaked their heads.

PSALM CVIII. Ver. 1. O God, my heart is fixed, &c.—The former part of this psalm, as Dr. Dodd observes, is very little different from the last five verses of the fifty-seventh, which David is supposed to have placed here, instead of those with which the sixtieth psalm begins, because he had now made some progress in those wars upon which he was but entering when he composed the sixtieth psalm; he therefore begins here to thank God for his mercy, as there he laments the ill condition of his affairs.

PSALM CIX. Ver. 1. Hold not thy peace, O God, &c.—This divine song is generally admitted to have been composed by David, but whether when suffering under the persecution of Saul, or from the rebellion of Absalom, is uncertain. He, however, foretells the divine retribution upon his enemies, whoever these were. St. Peter (Acts 1. 20.) applies the eighth verse expressly to the traitor Judas.

26 Help me, O LORD my God: O save me according to thy mercy:

27 [x] That they may know that this is thy hand; that thou, LORD, hast done it.

28 [y] Let them curse, but bless thou: when they arise, let them be ashamed; but let [z] thy servant rejoice.

29 [a] Let mine adversaries be clothed with shame, and let them cover themselves with their own confusion, as with a mantle.

30 I will greatly praise the LORD with my mouth; yea, [b] I will praise him among the multitude.

31 For [c] he shall stand at the right hand of the poor, to save him † from those that condemn his soul.

PSALM CX.

1 The kingdom, 4 the priesthood, 5 the conquest, 7 and the passion of Christ.

¶ A Psalm of David.

THE [a] LORD said unto my Lord, Sit thou at my right hand, until I make thine enemies thy footstool.

2 The LORD shall send the rod of thy strength out of Zion: rule thou in the midst of thine enemies.

3 [b] Thy people shall be willing in the day of thy power, [c] in the beauties of holiness [*] from the womb of the morning: thou hast the dew of thy youth.

4 The LORD hath sworn, and [d] will not repent, [e] Thou art a priest for ever after the order of Melchisedek.

5 The LORD [f] at thy right hand shall strike through kings [g] in the day of his wrath.

6 He shall judge among the heathen, he shall fill the places with the dead bodies; [h] he shall wound the heads over † many countries.

7 [i] He shall drink of the brook in the way: [k] therefore shall he lift up the head.

PSALM CXI.

1 The psalmist by his example inciteth others to praise God for his glorious, 5 and gracious works. 10 The fear of God breedeth true wisdom.

PRAISE [*] ye the LORD. [a] I will praise the LORD with my whole heart, in the assembly of the upright, and in the congregation.

2 [b] The works of the LORD are great, [c] sought out of all them that have pleasure therein.

3 His work is [d] honourable and glorious: and his righteousness endureth for ever.

4 He hath made his wonderful works to be remembered: [e] the LORD is gracious and full of compassion.

5 He hath given † [f] meat unto them that fear him: he will ever be mindful of his covenant.

6 He hath shewed his people the power of his works, that he may give them the heritage of the heathen.

7 The works of his hands are [g] verity and judgment; [h] all his commandments are sure.

8 [i] They ‡ stand fast for ever and ever, and are [k] done in truth and uprightness.

9 [l] He sent redemption unto his people: he hath commanded his covenant for ever: [m] holy and reverend is his name.

10 [n] The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom: § a good understanding have all they ‖ that do his commandments: his praise endureth for ever.

PSALM CXII.

1 Godliness hath the promises of this life, 4 and of the life to come. 10 The prosperity of the godly shall be an eye-sore to the wicked.

PRAISE [*] ye the LORD. [a] Blessed is the man that feareth the LORD, that [b] delighteth greatly in his commandments.

2 [c] His seed shall be mighty upon earth: the generation of the upright shall be blessed.

3 [d] Wealth and riches shall be in his house: and his righteousness endureth for ever.

4 [e] Unto the upright there ariseth light in the darkness: he is gracious, and full of compassion, and righteous.

5 [f] A good man sheweth favour, and lendeth: he will guide his affairs [g] with † discretion.

6 Surely [h] he shall not be moved for ever: [i] the righteous shall be in everlasting remembrance.

7 [k] He shall not be afraid of evil tidings: his [l] heart is fixed, [m] trusting in the LORD.

8 His heart is established, [n] he shall not be afraid, until he [*] see his desire upon his enemies.

9 [p] He hath dispersed, he hath given to the poor; [q] his righteousness endureth for ever; [r] his horn shall be exalted with honour.

10 [s] The wicked shall see it, and be grieved; [t] he shall gnash with his teeth, and [u] melt away: [x] the desire of the wicked shall perish.

PSALM CXIII.

1 An exhortation to praise God for his excellency, 6 for his mercy.

PRAISE [*] ye the LORD. [a] Praise, O ye servants of the LORD, praise the name of the LORD.

2 [b] Blessed be the name of the LORD from this time forth and for evermore.

3 [c] From the rising of the sun unto the going down of the same the LORD'S name is to be praised.

4 The LORD is [d] high above all nations, and [e] his glory above the heavens.

5 [f] Who is like unto the LORD our God, who † dwelleth on high,

6 [g] Who humbleth himself to behold the things that are in heaven, and in the earth!

7 [h] He raiseth up the poor out of the dust, and lifteth the needy out of the dunghill;

8 That he may [i] set him with princes, even with the princes of his people.

9 [k] He maketh the barren woman ‡ to keep house, and to be a joyful mother of children. Praise ye the LORD.

PSALM CXII. Ver. 1. Praise ye the Lord, &c.—This, and the last, are acrostic or alphabetical psalms. They were, probably, both composed after the captivity. The latter describes the blessings which shall await those who fear and obey the Lord. Their happiness shall be an "eye-sore to the wicked."

PSALM CXIII. Ver. 1. Praise ye the Lord, &c.—This, together with the five following psalms, were sung by the Jews at their great festivals. The people are exhorted to praise God every where for his merciful dealings with man. This psalm was, probably, composed after the captivity.

O [a] GIVE thanks unto the LORD; for he is good: because his mercy endureth for ever.

a 1 Chron. 16. 8, 34. Ps. 106. 1. & 107. 1. & 136. 1.

PSALM CXIV. Ver. 1. When Israel, &c.—This, and the following, would appear to have originally formed one psalm. It celebrates the deliverance of the Israelites from Egyptian bondage, and the miracles performed at the Red Sea, Jordan, and the rock of Horeb.

PSALM CXV. Ver. 1. Not unto us, &c.—"This," says Dr. Adam Clarke, "seems to be an epinikion, or triumphal song, in which the victory gained is entirely ascribed to Jehovah." This is one of the psalms sung by the Jews after eating the passover.

PSALM CXVI. Ver. 1. I love the Lord, &c.—"The Syriac supposes this psalm to have been written on the occasion of Saul coming to the mouth of the cave in which David lay hidden; but spiritually taken, it relates to the bringing of a new people, the Gentiles, to the Christian faith. In a few MSS. this psalm is joined to the preceding. Many think it relates wholly to the passion, death, and triumph of Christ. Most of the Fathers were of this opinion."—Dr. A. Clarke.

PSALM CXVII. Ver. 1. O praise the Lord, &c.—Here appears to be a brief prophecy of the blessings which would subsequently redound to mankind in consequence of the incarnation of the Lord Jesus Christ.

PSALM CXVIII. Ver. 1. O give thanks, &c.—"This is a psalm of triumph, of which the four first verses are the preface; from thence to the eighteenth an account of the victory, in which the author seems to have had a narrow escape from death. He attributes his deliverance and victory to the particular protection of the Almighty. After this is a kind of sacred dialogue. David, being come to the temple, speaks the nineteenth verse; they that open the gates the twentieth; he, again, as he enters, the twenty-first; they with him seem to speak the four next verses to the twenty-fifth; the priests of the temple the twenty-sixth; the first part to the king, the other to the people; the people the twenty-seventh; he the twenty-eighth; the twenty-ninth is the chorus verse, concluding as it began."—Mudge.

PSALM CXIX. Ver. 1. Blessed are the undefiled, &c.—This is the most remarkable of the acrostic psalms; it is divided into twenty-two parts, each part is divided into eight verses, all these verses beginning with the same letter, which forms the title to the part. The twenty-two parts embrace the whole Hebrew alphabet, the first section of eight verses beginning with aleph, the next with beth, these being the first and second letters of the Hebrew alphabet, and so on. This psalm, as Dr. Dodd observes, contains a great many pious reflections and excellent rules, without any great connexion or dependence upon each other; tending, principally, to set forth the excellence of the divine laws; and this want of connection, probably, was the reason why the psalm was written in this alphabetical method, that the initial letters might be a help to the memory of those who were to learn it in the original."

24 [a] Thy testimonies also are my delight and § my counsellors.

DALETH.

25 [b] My soul cleaveth unto the dust: [a] quicken thou me according to thy word.

26 I have declared my ways, and thou heardest me: [x] teach me thy statutes.

27 Make me to understand the way of thy precepts: so [y] shall I talk of thy wondrous works.

28 [z] My soul ‖ melteth for heaviness: strengthen thou me according unto thy word.

29 Remove from me the way of lying: and grant me thy law graciously.

30 I have chosen the way of truth: thy judgments have I laid before me.

31 I have stuck unto thy testimonies: O LORD, put me not to shame.

32 I will run the way of thy commandments, when thou shalt [a] enlarge my heart.

HE.

33 [b] Teach me, O LORD, the way of thy statutes; and I shall keep it [c] unto the end.

34 [d] Give me understanding, and I shall keep thy law; yea, I shall observe it with my whole heart.

35 Make me to go in the path of thy commandments; for therein do I [e] delight.

36 Incline my heart unto thy testimonies, and not to [f] covetousness.

37 [g] * Turn away mine eyes from [h] beholding vanity; and [i] quicken thou me in thy way.

38 [k] Stablish thy word unto thy servant, who is devoted to thy fear.

39 Turn away my reproach which I fear: for thy judgments are good.

40 Behold, I have [l] longed after thy precepts: [m] quicken me in thy righteousness.

VAU.

41 [n] Let thy mercies come also unto me, O LORD, even thy salvation, according to thy word.

42 † So shall I have wherewith to answer him that reproacheth me: for I trust in thy word.

43 And take not the word of truth utterly out of my mouth; for I have hoped in thy judgments.

44 So shall I keep thy law continually for ever and ever.

45 And I will walk ‡ at liberty: for I seek thy precepts.

46 [o] I will speak of thy testimonies also before kings, and will not be ashamed.

47 And I will [p] delight myself in thy commandments, which I have loved.

48 My hands also will I lift up unto thy commandments, which I have loved; and I will [q] meditate in thy statutes.

ZAIN.

49 Remember the word unto thy servant, upon which thou hast caused me to [r] hope.

50 This is my [s] comfort in my affliction: for thy word hath quickened me.

51 The proud have had me greatly [t] in derision: yet have I not [u] declined from thy law.

52 I remembered thy judgments of old, O LORD; and have comforted myself.

53 [x] Horror hath taken hold upon me because of the wicked that forsake thy law.

54 Thy statutes have been my songs in the house of my pilgrimage.

55 [y] I have remembered thy name, O LORD, in the night, and have kept thy law.

56 This I had, because I kept thy precepts.

CHETH.

57 [z] Thou art my portion, O LORD: I have said that I would keep thy words.

58 I intreated thy § favour with my whole heart: be merciful unto me [a] according to thy word.

59 I [b] thought on my ways, and turned my feet unto thy testimonies.

60 I made haste, and delayed not to keep thy commandments.

61 The ‖ bands of the wicked have robbed me: but I have not forgotten thy law.

62 [c] At midnight I will rise to give thanks unto thee because of thy righteous judgments.

63 I am a companion of all them that fear thee, and of them that keep thy precepts.

64 [d] The earth, O LORD, is full of thy mercy: [e] teach me thy statutes.

TETH.

65 Thou hast dealt well with thy servant, O LORD, according unto thy word.

66 Teach me good judgment and knowledge: for I have believed thy commandments.

67 [f] Before I was afflicted I went astray: but now have I kept thy word.

68 Thou art [g] good, and doest good; [b] teach me thy statutes.

69 The proud have [l] forged a lie against me: but I will keep thy precepts with my whole heart.

70 [k] Their heart is as fat as grease; but I [l] delight in thy law.

71 [m] It is good for me that I have been afflicted; that I might learn thy statutes.

72 [n] The law of thy mouth is better unto me than thousands of gold and silver.

JOD.

73 [o] Thy hands have made me and fashioned me: [p] give me understanding, that I may learn thy commandments.

74 [q] They that fear thee will be glad when they see me; because [r] I have hoped in thy word.

75 I know, O LORD, that thy judgments are [*] right, and [t] that thou in faithfulness hast afflicted me.

76 Let, I pray thee, thy merciful kindness be † for my comfort, according to thy word unto thy servant.

77 [t] Let thy tender mercies come unto me, that I may live: for [u] thy law is my delight.

78 Let the proud [x] be ashamed; [y] for they dealt perversely with me without a cause: but I will [z] meditate in thy precepts.

79 Let those that fear thee turn unto me, and those that have known thy testimonies.

80 Let my heart be sound in thy statutes; that I be not ashamed.

CAPH.

81 [a] My soul fainteth for thy salvation: but [b] I hope in thy word.

82 [c] Mine eyes fail for thy word, saying, When wilt thou comfort me?

83 For [d] I am become like a bottle in the smoke; yet do I not forget thy statutes.

84 [e] How many are the days of thy servant? [f] when wilt thou execute judgment on them that persecute me?

85 [g] The proud have digged pits for me, which are not after thy law.

86 All thy commandments are ‡ faithful: [h] they persecute me [i] wrongfully; help thou me.

87 They had almost consumed me upon earth; but I forsook not thy precepts.

88 [k] Quicken me after thy lovingkindness; so shall I keep the testimony of thy mouth.

LAMED.

89 [l] For ever, O LORD, thy word is settled in heaven.

90 Thy faithfulness is § unto all generations: thou hast established the earth, and it ‖ abideth.

91 They continue this day according to [m] thine ordinances: for all are thy servants.

92 Unless [n] thy law had been my delights, I should then have perished in mine affliction.

93 I will never forget thy precepts: for with them thou hast quickened me.

94 I am thine, save me; for I have sought thy precepts.

95 The wicked have waited for me to destroy me: but I will consider thy testimonies.

96 [o] I have seen an end of all perfection: but thy commandment is exceeding broad.

MEM.

97 O how love I thy law! [p] it is my meditation all the day.

98 Thou through thy commandments hast made me [q] wiser than mine enemies: for * they are ever with me.

99 I have more understanding than all my teachers: [r] for thy testimonies are my meditation.

100 [s] I understand more than the ancients, because I keep thy precepts.

101 I have [t] refrained my feet from every evil way, that I might keep thy word.

102 I have not departed from thy judgments: for thou hast taught me.

103 [u] How sweet are thy words unto my †taste! yea, sweeter than honey to my mouth!

104 Through thy precepts I get understanding: therefore [x] I hate every false way.

NUN.

105 [y] Thy word is a ‡ lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path.

106 [z] I have sworn, and I will perform it, that I will keep thy righteous judgments.

107 I am afflicted very much: [a] quicken me, O LORD, according unto thy word.

108 Accept, I beseech thee, [b] the freewill offerings of my mouth, O LORD, and [c] teach me thy judgments.

109 [d] My soul is continually in my hand: yet do I not forget thy law.

110 [e] The wicked have laid a snare for me: yet I [f] erred not from my precepts.

111 [g] Thy testimonies have I taken as an heritage for ever: for [h] they are the rejoicing of my heart.

112 I have inclined mine heart § to perform thy statutes alway, [i] even unto the end.

SAMECH.

113 I hate vain thoughts: but thy law do I love.

114 [k] Thou art my hiding place and my shield: [l] I hope in thy word.

115 [m] Depart from me, ye evildoers: for I will keep the commandments of my God.

116 Uphold me according unto thy word, that I may live: and let me not [n] be ashamed of my hope.

117 Hold thou me up, and I shall be safe: and I will have respect unto thy statutes continually.

118 Thou hast trodden down all them that [o] err from thy statutes: for their deceit is falsehood.

119 Thou ‖ puttest away all the wicked of the earth [p] like dross: therefore I love thy testimonies.

120 [q] My flesh trembleth for fear of thee; and I am afraid of thy judgments.

AIN.

121 I have done judgment and justice: leave me not to mine oppressors.

122 Be [r] surety for thy servant for good: let not the proud oppress me.

123 [s] Mine eyes fail for thy salvation, and for the word of thy righteousness.

124 Deal with thy servant according unto thy mercy, and [t] teach me thy statutes.

125 [u] I am thy servant; give me understanding, that I may know thy testimonies.

126 It is time for thee, LORD, to work: for they have made void thy law.

127 [x] Therefore I love thy commandments above gold; yea, above fine gold.

128 Therefore I esteem all thy precepts concerning all things to be right; and I [y] hate every false way.

PE.

129 Thy testimonies are wonderful: therefore doth my soul keep them.

130 The entrance of thy words giveth light; [z] it giveth understanding unto the simple.

131 I opened my mouth, and panted: for I [a] longed for thy commandments.

132 [b] Look thou upon me, and be merciful unto me,  as thou usest to do unto those that love thy name.

133 [d] Order my steps in my word: and [e] let not any iniquity have dominion over me.

134 [f] Deliver me from the oppression of man: so will I keep thy precepts.

135 [g] Make thy face to shine upon thy servant; and [h] teach me thy statutes.

136 [i] Rivers of waters run down mine eyes, because they keep not thy law.

TZADDI.

137 [k] Righteous art thou, O LORD, and upright are thy judgments.

138 [l] Thy testimonies that thou hast commanded are †righteous and very ‡ faithful.

PSALM CXXII.

1 David professeth his joy for the church, 6 and prayeth for the peace thereof.

¶ A Song of degrees of David.

I WAS glad when they said unto me, [a] Let us go into the house of the LORD.

2 Our feet shall stand within thy gates, O Jerusalem.

3 Jerusalem is builded as a city that is [b] compact together:

4 [c] Whither the tribes go up, the tribes of the LORD, unto [d] the testimony of Israel, to give thanks unto the name of the LORD.

5 [e] For there [*] are set thrones of judgment, the thrones of the house of David.

6 [f] Pray for the peace of Jerusalem: they shall prosper that love thee.

7 Peace be within thy walls, and prosperity within thy palaces.

8 For my brethren and companions' sakes, will now say, Peace be within thee.

1 The godly profess their confidence in God, 3 and pray to be delivered from contempt.

¶ A Song of degrees.

UNTO thee [a] lift I up mine eyes, O thou [b] that dwellest in the heavens.

2 Behold, as the eyes of servants look unto the hand of their masters, and as the eyes of a maiden unto the hand of her mistress; so our eyes wait upon the LORD our God, until that he have mercy upon us.

3 Have mercy upon us, O LORD, have mercy upon us: for we are exceedingly filled with contempt.

4 Our soul is exceedingly filled with the scorning of those that are at ease, and with the contempt of the proud.

PSALM CXXIV.

The church blesseth God for a miraculous deliverance.

¶ A Song of degrees of David.

IF it had not been the LORD who was on our side, [a] now may Israel say;

2 If it had not been the LORD who was on our side, when men rose up against us:

3 Then they had [b] swallowed us up quick, when their wrath was kindled against us:

4 Then the waters had overwhelmed us, the stream had gone over our soul:

5 Then the proud waters had gone over our soul.

6 Blessed be the LORD, who hath not given us as a prey to their teeth.

7 Our soul is escaped [c] as a bird out of the snare of the fowlers: the snare is broken, and we are escaped.

PSALM CXXII. Ver. 1. I was glad, &c.—Bishop Horne says of this animated composition, that its subject "is that of joy which the people were wont to express upon their going up in companies to keep a feast at Jerusalem, when the divine services were regulated, and that city was appointed to be a place of public worship."

PSALM CXXIII. Ver. 1. Unto thee, &c.—This seems to be a complaint of the captives of Babylon and to refer to the cruel oppressions under which they groaned.

PSALM CXXIV. Ver. 1. If it had not been, &c.—This psalm was, probably, a thanksgiving for deliverances wrought by God in behalf of the Israelites. It may refer to the captivity, or to some signal deliverance after their return.

PSALM CXXV. Ver. 1. They that trust, &c.—Dr. Delaney supposes this psalm to have been composed by David, just before the attack of the strongholds of Zion; and in this light he would consider the Psalmist as answering the objections which we may imagine to have been made in a council of war held upon this occasion, from the great strength of the place; and religiously reminding them that, under the good providence of God, they might be confident of surmounting all difficulties.

PSALM CXXVI. Ver. 1. When the Lord, &c.—This psalm was, no doubt, written about the close of the captivity, and foretells peace and blessings to Israel after her hard bondage.

PSALM CXXVII. Ver. 1. Except the Lord build the house, &c.—This psalm is attributed to Solomon, and is observed, as Dr. Dodd remarks, to be a commentary upon a pious maxim several times repeated in the Proverbs, that no endeavours of man can be prosperous without the divine blessing and assistance.

PSALM CXXXV.

1 An exhortation to praise God for his mercy, 5 for his power, 8 for his judgments. 15 The vanity of idols. 19 An exhortation to bless God.

PRAISE ye the LORD. Praise ye the name of the LORD; [a]praise him, O ye servants of the LORD.

2 [b] Ye that stand in the house of the LORD, in [c] the courts of the house of our God,

3 Praise the LORD; for [d] the LORD is good: sing praises unto his name; [e] for it is pleasant.

4 For [f] the LORD hath chosen Jacob unto himself, and Israel for his peculiar treasure.

5 For I know that [g] the LORD is great, and that our LORD is above all gods.

6 [h] Whatsoever the LORD pleased, that did he in heaven, and in earth, in the seas, and all deep places.

7 [i] He causeth the vapours to ascend from the ends of the earth; [k] he maketh lightnings for the rain; he bringeth the wind out of his [l] treasuries.

8 [m] Who smote the firstborn of Egypt, *both of man and beast.

9 [n] Who sent tokens and wonders into the midst of thee, O Egypt, [o] upon Pharoah, and upon all his servants.

10 [p] Who smote great nations, and slew mighty kings;

11 Sihon king of the Amorites, and Og king of Bashan, and [q] all the kingdoms of Canaan:

12 [r] And gave their land for an heritage, an heritage unto Israel his people.

13 [s] Thy name, O LORD, endureth for ever; and thy memorial, O LORD, †throughout all generations.

14 [t] For the LORD will judge his people, and he will repent himself concerning his servants.

15 [u] The idols of the heathen are silver and gold, the work of men's hands.

16 They have mouths, but they speak not; eyes have they, but they see not;

17 They have ears, but they hear not; neither is there any breath in their mouths.

18 They that make them are like unto them: so is every one that trusteth in them.

19 [x] Bless the LORD, O house of Israel: bless the LORD, O house of Aaron:

20 Bless the LORD, O house of Levi: ye that fear the LORD, bless the LORD.

21 Blessed be the LORD [y] out of Zion, which dwelleth at Jerusalem. Praise ye the LORD.

PSALM CXXXVI.

An exhortation to give thanks to God for particular mercies.

O [a]GIVE thanks unto the LORD; for he is good: [b] for his mercy endureth for ever.

2 O give thanks unto [c] the God of gods: for his mercy endureth for ever.

3 O give thanks to the Lord of lords: for his mercy endureth for ever.

4 To him [d] who alone doeth great wonders: for his mercy endureth for ever.

5 [e] To him that by wisdom made the heavens: for his mercy endureth for ever.

6 [f] To him that stretched out the earth above the waters: for his mercy endureth for ever.

7 [g] To him that made great lights: for his mercy endureth for ever:

8 [h] The sun [*] to rule by day: for his mercy endureth for ever:

9 The moon and stars to rule by night: for his mercy endureth for ever.

10 [i] To him that smote Egypt in their firstborn: for his mercy endureth for ever:

11 [k] And brought out Israel from among them: for his mercy endureth for ever:

12 [l] With a strong hand, and with a stretched out arm: for his mercy endureth for ever.

13 [m] To him which divided the Red sea into parts: for his mercy endureth for ever:

14 And made Israel to pass through the midst of it: for his mercy endureth for ever:

15 [n] But †overthrew Pharaoh and his host in the Red sea: for his mercy endureth for ever.

16 [o] To him which led his people through the wilderness: for his mercy endureth for ever.

17 [p] To him which smote great kings: for his mercy endureth for ever:

18 [q] And slew famous kings: for his mercy endureth for ever:

19 [r] Sihon king of the Amorites: for his mercy endureth for ever:

20 [s] And Og the king of Bashan: for his mercy endureth for ever:

21 [t] And gave their land for an heritage: for his mercy endureth for ever:

22 Even an heritage unto Israel his servant: for his mercy endureth for ever.

PSALM CXXXIII. Ver. 1. Behold how good, &c.—A psalm recommending unity among kindred and communities.

PSALM CXXXIV. Ver. 1. Behold, bless ye, &c.—This is the last of those psalms called psalms of degrees or ascensions. It is an exhortation to the priests and Levites who kept nightly watch in the temple to be attentive to their duties whilst so engaged.

PSALM CXXXV. Ver. 1. Praise ye the Lord, &c.—The exhortation of the last psalm to praise the Lord is continued in this, in which his great mercies towards the Israelites are set forth in the plagues which he brought upon the Egyptians for their sakes, and his discomfiture of the Canaanite kings in order to give his chosen people the inheritance promised to their fathers. This psalm, as Dr. Wells observes, is thought to have been sung by the Levites at the opening of the temple gates.

PSALM CXXXVI. Ver. 1. O give thanks, &c.—This is a song of thanksgiving. The first part of each verse was probably sung by the quire of Levites, the latter part by the congregation in full chorus.

PSALM CXXXVII. Ver. 1. By the rivers of Babylon, &c.—This was, no doubt, composed by one of the Jewish captives in Babylon, and contains a lamentation at the sad condition of the Israelites banished from their native land and cruelly oppressed by the tyrants who had enslaved them.

PSALM CXXXVIII. Ver. 1. I will praise thee, &c.—This was probably composed by David upon his accession or immediately after, to the throne of Israel: it contains an acknowledgment of the divine favour towards him, and was, as it would appear from the Septuagint, afterwards introduced by Haggai and Zechariah at the rebuilding of the temple.

PSALM CXXXIX. Ver. 1. O Lord, thou hast searched me, &c.—The divine wisdom is sublimely celebrated in this psalm. It is a composition exhibiting extreme elevation and solemnity of style. The author has not been ascertained; whether by David or not, it is one of the finest compositions in this sacred and inspired collection of Hebrew lyrics.

PSALM CXL. Ver. 1. Deliver me, O Lord, &c.—"This psalm," says Dr. Hammond, "is a prayer of David for deliverance from his malicious and treacherous enemies, such as Doeg and the Ziphites, who had undertaken to overthrow him, and a prediction of the evils which should fall upon them as a just reward of their dealings with him."

PSALM CXLI. Ver. 1. Lord, I cry unto thee, &c.—David is generally acknowledged to be the author of this psalm, and to have composed it during his persecution by Saul. Many Commentators consider that it was written by David when he determined to seek refuge from Saul's persecutions in the court of Achish, king of Gath.

PSALM CXLII. Ver. 1. I cried unto the Lord, &c.—This is a prayer to God under great difficulty and peril, offered up by David, probably, either in the cave of Adullam, whither he had fled from the pursuit of Achish, or in that of En-gedi, where he had concealed himself to escape the malicious rage of Saul.

PSALM CXLIII. Ver. 1. Hear my prayer, &c.—This psalm is supposed to have been written by David whilst he was suffering under the rebellion of his son Absalom.

PSALM CXLIV.

1 David blesseth God for his mercy both to him and to man. 5 He prayeth that God would powerfully deliver him from his enemies. 9 He promiseth to praise God. 11 He prayeth for the happy state of the kingdom.

¶ A Psalm of David.

BLESSED be the LORD * my strength, a which teacheth my hands † to war, and my fingers to fight:

* Heb. my rock. Ps. 18. 2, 31. a 2 Sam. 22. 35. Ps. 18. 34. † Heb. to the war, &c.

2 b My goodness, and my fortress; my high tower, and my deliverer; my shield, and he in whom I trust; who subdueth my people under me.

b 2 Sam. 22. 2, 3, 10, 18. ‡ Or, My mercy.

3 c LORD, what is man, that thou takest knowledge of him! or the son of man, that thou makest account of him!

c Job 7. 17. Ps. 8. 4. Heb. 2. 6.

4 d Man is like to vanity: * his days are as a shadow that passeth away.

d Job 4. 19. & 14. 2. Ps. 39. 5. & 62. 9. * Ps. 102. 11.

5 f Bow thy heavens, O LORD, and come down: g touch the mountains, and they shall smoke.

PSALM CXLV.

1 David praiseth God for his fame, 8 for his goodness, 11 for his kingdom, 14 for his providence, 17 for his saving mercy.

¶ David's s Psalm of praise.

s Ps. 100, title

I WILL extol thee, my God, O king; and I will bless thy name for ever and ever.

2 Every day will I bless thee; and I will praise thy name for ever and ever.

3 b Great is the LORD, and greatly to be praised; * and c his greatness is unsearchable.

b Ps. 96. 4. & 147. 5. * Heb. end of his greatness there is no search. c Job 5. 9. & 9. 10. Rom. 11. 33. d Isa. 38. 19.

4 d One generation shall praise thy works to another, and shall declare thy mighty acts.

5 I will speak of the glorious honour of thy majesty, and of thy wondrous † works.

† Heb. things, or, words.

6 And men shall speak of the might of thy terrible acts: and I will ‡ declare thy greatness.

‡ Heb. declare it.

7 They shall abundantly utter the memory of thy great goodness, and shall sing of thy righteousness.

8 e The LORD is gracious, and full of compassion; slow to anger, and § of great mercy.

e Exod. 34. 6, 7. Num. 14. 18. Ps. 86. 5, 15. & 103. 8. § Heb. great in mercy.

9 f The LORD is good to all: and his tender mercies are over all his works.

f Ps. 100. 5. Nah. 1. 7.

10 g All thy works shall praise thee, O LORD; and thy saints shall bless thee.

g Ps. 19. 1.

11 They shall speak of the glory of thy kingdom, and talk of thy power;

12 To make known to the sons of men his mighty acts, and the glorious majesty of his kingdom.

13 h Thy kingdom is ‖ an everlasting kingdom, and thy dominion endureth throughout all generations.

h Ps. 146. 10. 1 Tim. 1. 17. ‖ Heb. a kingdom of all ages.

14 The LORD upholdeth all that fall, and i raiseth up all those that be bowed down.

16 Thou openest thine hand, m and satisfiest the desire of every living thing.

m Ps. 104. 21. & 147. 9.

17 The LORD is righteous in all his ways, and † holy in all his works.

† Or, merciful, or, bountiful.

18 n The LORD is nigh unto all them that call upon him, to all that call upon him o in truth.

n Deut. 4. 7.

o John 4. 24.

19 He will fulfil the desire of them that fear him: he also will hear their cry, and will save them.

20 p The LORD preserveth all them that love him: but all the wicked will he destroy.

p Ps. 31. 23. & 97. 10.

PSALM CXLIV. Ver. 1. Blessed be the Lord, &c.—This appears to have been a song of triumph upon some signal victory, probably over the Philistines, who were among the most powerful of Israel's foes.

PSALM CXLV. Ver. 1. I will extol thee, &c.—This is the last of the alphabetical or acrostic psalms. It is evidently a hymn of praise for God's manifold and great mercies.

21 My mouth shall speak the praise of the LORD: and let all flesh bless his holy name for ever and ever.

PSALM CXLVI.

1 The psalmist voweth perpetual praises to God. 3 He exhorteth not to trust in man. 5 God, for his power, justice, mercy, and kingdom, is only worthy to trusted.

PRAISE * ye the LORD. [a] Praise the LORD, O my soul.

2 [b] While I live will I praise the LORD: I will sing praises unto my God while I have any being.

3 [c] Put not your trust in princes, nor in the son of man, in whom there is no † help.

4 [d] His breath goeth forth, he returneth to his earth; in that very day [e] his thoughts perish.

5 [f] Happy is he that hath the God of Jacob for his help, whose hope is in the LORD his God:

6 [g] Which made heaven, and earth, the sea, and all that therein is: which keepeth truth for ever:

7 [h] Which executeth judgment for the oppressed: [i] which giveth food to the hungry. [k] The LORD looseth the prisoners:

8 [l] The LORD openeth the eyes of the blind: [m] the LORD raiseth them that are bowed down: the LORD loveth the righteous:

9 [n] The LORD preserveth the strangers; he relieveth the fatherless and widow: [o] but the way of the wicked he turneth upside down.

10 [p] The LORD shall reign for ever, even thy God, O Zion, unto all generations. Praise ye the LORD.

PSALM CXLVII.

1 The prophet exhorteth to praise God for his care of the church, 4 his power, 6 and his mercy: 7 to praise him for his providence: 12 to praise him for his blessings upon the kingdom, 15 for his power over the meteors, 19 and for his ordinances in the church.

PRAISE ye the LORD: for [a] it is good to sing praises unto our God; [b] for it is pleasant; and [c] praise is comely.

2 The LORD doth [d] build up Jerusalem; [e] he gathereth together the outcasts of Israel.

3 [f] He healeth the broken in heart, and bindeth up their * wounds.

4 [g] He telleth the number of the stars; he calleth them all by their names.

5 [h] Great is our LORD, and of [i] great power: † [k] his understanding is infinite.

6 [l] The LORD lifteth up the meek: he casteth the wicked down to the ground.

7 Sing unto the LORD with thanksgiving; sing praise upon the harp unto our God:

8 [m] Who covereth the heaven with clouds, who prepareth rain for the earth, who maketh grass to grow upon the mountains.

9 [n] He giveth to the beast his food, and [o] to the young ravens which cry.

10 [p] He delighteth not in the strength of the horse: he taketh not pleasure in the legs of a man.

11 The LORD taketh pleasure in them that fear him, in those that hope in his mercy.

12 Praise the LORD, O Jerusalem; praise thy God, O Zion.

13 For he hath strengthened the bars of thy gates; he hath blessed thy children within thee.

14 ‡ [q] He maketh peace in thy borders, and [r] filleth thee with the § finest of the wheat.

15 [s] He sendeth forth his commandment upon earth: his word runneth very swiftly.

16 [t] He giveth snow like wool: he scattereth the hoarfrost like ashes.

17 He casteth forth his ice like morsels: who can stand before his cold ?

18 [u] He sendeth out his word, and melteth them: he causeth his wind to blow, and the waters flow.

19 [x] He sheweth ‖ his word unto Jacob, [y] his statutes and his judgments unto Israel.

20 [z] He hath not dealt so with any nation: and as for his judgments, they have not known them. Praise ye the LORD.

PSALM CXLVIII.

1 The psalmist exhorteth the celestial, 7 the terrestrial, 11 and the rational creatures to praise God.

PRAISE * ye the LORD. Praise ye the LORD from the heavens: praise him in the heights.

2 [a] Praise ye him, all his angels: praise ye him, all his hosts.

3 Praise ye him, sun and moon: praise him, all ye stars of light.

4 Praise him, [b] ye heavens of heavens, and [c] ye waters that be above the heavens.

5 Let them praise the name of the LORD: for [d] he commanded, and they were created.

6 [e] He hath also stablished them for ever and ever: he hath made a decree which shall not pass.

7 Praise the LORD from the earth, [f] ye dragons, and all deeps:

8 Fire, and hail; snow, and vapours; stormy wind [g] fulfilling his word:

9 [h] Mountains, and all hills; fruitful trees, and all cedars:

10 Beasts, and all cattle; creeping things, and † flying fowl:

11 Kings of the earth, and all people; princes, and all judges of the earth:

12 Both young men, and maidens; old men, and children:

13 Let them praise the name of the LORD: for [i] his name alone is ‡ excellent; [k] his glory is above the earth and heaven.

14 [l] He also exalteth the horn of his people, [m] the praise of all his saints; even of the children of Israel, [n] a people near unto him. Praise ye the LORD.

PSALM CXLIX.

1 The prophet exhorteth to praise God for his love to the church, 5 and for that power which he hath given to the church to rule the consciences of men.

PRAISE * ye the LORD. [a] Sing unto the LORD a new song, and his praise in the congregation of saints.

THE PROVERBS.—"This book is entitled 'The Proverbs;' but what we call proverbs, properly and strictly speaking, are of a different nature, and most of Solomon's proverbs are rather to be called maxims or sentences. A proverb is a short moral sentence which means something else than what the words naturally and literally imply; that is to say, it must be expressed in a figurative manner. When Solomon says, 'Trust in the Lord with all thine heart, and lean not unto thine own understanding;' this is no proverb, but a moral sentence. When he says, 'Drink waters out of thine own cistern;' this is a proverb, and means 'meddle not with that which belongs to another.' These proverbs of Solomon are a collection of wise and moral sayings, usually plain and concise; they are also of the poetical kind and fall into metre, and therefore were the more easily learned and remembered by those in whose language they were written. They have not that air of smartness, vivacity, and wit, which modern writers have usually affected in their maxims and sentences; but they have what is better, truth and solid good sense. No one subject is long pursued in this treatise of Solomon, nor is there any coherence or connection between its parts. The nature of this sort of writing does not admit it. But, though the composition be of the disjointed kind, yet there is a general design running through the whole, which the author keeps always in view, and that is to instruct the people, and particularly young people, at their entrance into public and active life; to give them an early love and earnest desire of real wisdom, and to lay down such clear rules for their behaviour as shall carry them through the world with peace and credit.

"Solomon is the first author that we know of who may be called a moralist; and as such he appears in this book, as well as in that of Ecclesiastes. He says nothing, or very little, concerning the law of Moses; he leaves the explaining or enforcing of it to the Prophets, the Priests and the Levites. He says nothing about revealed religion, but rather confines himself to natural religion or morality. He wrote under the assistance of the Divine Spirit, but has no claim that we perceive, to the title of a prophet; for he does not discourse in the prophetical style and manner; he says not, 'The word of the Lord came to me,' and 'Thus saith the Lord:' he foretold no future events, and wrought no miracles."—Dr. Jortin.

27 When [z] your fear cometh as desolation, and your destruction cometh as a whirlwind; when distress and anguish cometh upon you.

28 [y] Then shall they call upon me, but I will not answer; they shall seek me early, but they shall not find me:

29 For that they [z] hated knowledge, and did not [a] choose the fear of the LORD:

30 [b] They would none of my counsel: they despised all my reproof.

31 Therefore [c] shall they eat of the fruit of their own way, and be filled with their own devices.

32 For the ‡turning away of the simple shall slay them, and the prosperity of fools shall destroy them.

33 But [d] whoso hearkeneth unto me shall dwell safely, and [e] shall be quiet from fear of evil.

CHAP. II.

1 Wisdom promiseth godliness to her children, 10 and safety from evil company, 20 and direction in good ways.

MY son, if thou wilt receive my words and [a] hide my commandments with thee;

2 So that thou incline thine ear unto wisdom, and apply thine heart to understanding;

3 Yea, if thou criest after knowledge, and [a] liftest up thy voice for understanding;

4 [b] If thou seekest her as silver, and searchest for her as for hid treasures;

5 Then shalt thou understand the fear of the LORD, and find the knowledge of God.

6 [c] For the LORD giveth wisdom: out of his mouth cometh knowledge and understanding.

7 He layeth up sound wisdom for the righteous: [d] he is a buckler to them that walk uprightly.

8 He keepeth the paths of judgment, and [e] preserveth the way of his saints.

9 Then shalt thou understand righteousness, and judgment, and equity; yea, every good path.

10 ¶ When wisdom entereth into thine heart, and knowledge is pleasant unto thy soul;

11 Discretion shall preserve thee, [f] understanding shall keep thee:

12 To deliver thee from the way of the evil man, from the man that speaketh froward things;

13 Who leave the paths of uprightness, to [g] walk in the ways of darkness;

14 Who [h] rejoice to do evil, and [i] delight in the frowardness of the wicked;

15 [k] Whose ways are crooked, and they froward in their paths:

16 To deliver thee from [l] the strange woman, [m] even from the stranger which flattereth with her words;

17 [n] Which forsaketh the guide of her youth, and forgetteth the covenant of her God.

18 For [o] her house inclineth unto death, and her paths unto the dead.

19 None that go unto her return again, neither take they hold of the paths of life.

20 That thou mayest walk in the way of good men, and keep the paths of the righteous.

21 [p] For the upright shall dwell in the land, and the perfect shall remain in it.

22 [q] But the wicked shall be cut off from the earth, and the transgressors shall be †rooted out of it.

CHAP. III.

1 An exhortation to obedience, 5 to faith, 7 to mortification, 9 to devotion, 11 to patience. 13 The happy gain of wisdom. 19 The power, 21 and the benefits of wisdom. 27 An exhortation to charitableness, 30 peaceableness, 31 and contentedness. 33 The cursed state of the wicked.

MY son, forget not my law; [a] but let thine heart keep my commandments:

2 For length of days, and *long life, and [b] peace, shall they add to thee.

3 Let not mercy and truth forsake thee: [c] bind them about thy neck; [d] write them upon the table of thine heart:

4 [e] So shalt thou find favour and †good understanding in the sight of God and man.

5 ¶ [f] Trust in the LORD with all thine heart; [g] and lean not unto thine own understanding.

6 [h] In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall [i] direct thy paths.

7 ¶ [k] Be not wise in thine own eyes: [l] fear the LORD, and depart from evil.

8 It shall be ‡health to thy navel, and §[m] marrow to thy bones.

9 [n] Honour the LORD with thy substance, and with the firstfruits of all thine increase:

10 [o] So shall thy barns be filled with plenty, and thy presses shall burst out with new wine.

11 ¶ [p] My son, despise not the chastening of the LORD; neither be weary of his correction:

12 For whom the LORD loveth he correcteth; [q] even as a father the son in whom he delighteth.

13 ¶ [r] Happy is the man that findeth wisdom, and ‖ the man that getteth understanding.

14 [s] For the merchandise of it is better than the merchandise of silver, and the gain thereof than fine gold.

15 She is more precious than rubies: and [t] all the things thou canst desire are not to be compared unto her.

16 [u] Length of days is in her right hand; and in her left hand riches and honour.

17 [x] Her ways are ways of pleasantness, and all her paths are peace.

18 She is [y] a tree of life to them that lay hold on her: and happy is every one that retaineth her.

19 [z] The LORD by wisdom hath founded the earth; by understanding hath he *established the heavens.

20 [a] By his knowledge the depths are broken up, and [b] the clouds drop down the dew.

21 ¶ My son, let not them depart from thine eyes: keep sound wisdom and discretion:

22 So shall they be life unto thy soul, and [c] grace to thy neck.

23 [d] Then shalt thou walk in thy way safely, and thy foot shall not stumble.

18 Come, let us take our fill of love until the morning: let us solace ourselves with loves.

19 For the goodman is not at home, he is gone a long journey:

20 He hath taken a bag of money ‖ with him, and will come home at * the day appointed.

21 With [l] her much fair speech she caused him to yield, [m] with the flattering of her lips she forced him.

22 He goeth after her † straightway, as an ox goeth to the slaughter, or as a fool to the correction of the stocks;

23 Till a dart strike through his liver; [n] as a bird hasteth to the snare, and knoweth not that it is for his life.

24 ¶ Hearken unto me now therefore, O ye children, and attend to the words of my mouth.

25 Let not thine heart decline to her ways, go not astray in her paths.

26 For she hath cast down many wounded: yea, * many strong men have been slain by her.

27 [p] Her house is the way to hell, going down to the chambers of death.

CHAP. VIII.

1 The fame and evidency of wisdom. 10 The excellency, 12 the nature, 15 the power, 18 the riches, 22 and the eternity of wisdom. 32 Wisdom is to be desired for the blessedness it bringeth,

DOTH not [a] wisdom cry? and understanding put forth her voice?

2 She standeth in the top of high places, by the way in the places of the paths.

3 She crieth at the gates, at the entry of the city, at the coming in at the doors.

4 Unto you, O men, I call; and my voice is to the sons of man.

5 O ye simple, understand wisdom: and, ye fools, be ye of an understanding heart.

6 Hear; for I will speak of [b] excellent things; and the opening of my lips shall be right things.

7 For my mouth shall speak truth; and wickedness is * an abomination to my lips.

8 All the words of my mouth are in righteousness; there is nothing † froward or perverse in them.

9 They are all plain to him that understandeth, and right to them that find knowledge.

10 Receive my instruction, and not silver; and knowledge rather than choice gold.

11 [c] For wisdom is better than rubies; and all the things that may be desired are not to be compared to it.

12 I wisdom dwell with ‡ prudence, and find out knowledge of witty inventions.

13 [d] The fear of the LORD is to hate evil: * pride, and arrogancy, and the evil way, and the [e] froward mouth, do I hate.

14 Counsel is mine, and sound wisdom: I am understanding; § I have strength.

15 [h] By me kings reign, and princes decree justice.

16 By me princes rule, and nobles, even all the judges of the earth.

17 [i] I love them that love me; and [k] those that seek me early shall find me.

18 [l] Riches and honour are with me; yea, durable riches and righteousness.

19 [m] My fruit is better than gold, yea, than fine gold; and my revenue than choice silver.

20 I § lead in the way of righteousness, in the midst of the paths of judgment:

21 That I may cause those that love me to inherit substance; and I will fill their treasures.

22 [n] The LORD possessed me in the beginning of his way, before his works of old.

23 [o] I was set up from everlasting, from the beginning, or ever the earth was.

24 When there were no depths, I was brought forth; when there were no fountains abounding with water.

25 [p] Before the mountains were settled, before the hills was I brought forth:

26 While as yet he had not made the earth, nor the ‖ fields, nor * the highest part of the dust of the world.

27 When he prepared the heavens, I was there: when he set † a compass upon the face of the depth:

28 When he established the clouds above: when he strengthened the fountains of the deep:

29 [q] When he gave to the sea his decree, that the waters should not pass his commandment: when [r] he appointed the foundations of the earth:

30 [s] Then I was by him, as one brought up with him: [t] and I was daily his delight, rejoicing always before him;

31 Rejoicing in the habitable part of his earth; and [u] my delights were with the sons of men.

32 Now therefore hearken unto me, O ye children: for [x] blessed are they that keep my ways.

33 Hear instruction, and be wise, and refuse it not.

34 [y] Blessed is the man that heareth me,

35 For whoso findeth me findeth life, and shall ‡ [a]obtain favour of the LORD.

36 But he that sinneth against me [b]wrongeth his own soul: all they that hate me love death.

CHAP. IX.

1 The discipline, 4 and doctrine of wisdom. 13 the custom, 16 and error of folly.

WISDOM hath [a]builded her house, she hath hewn out her seven pillars:

2 [b]She hath killed [c]her beasts; [c]she hath mingled her wine; she hath also furnished her table.

3 She hath [d]sent forth her maidens: [e]she crieth [f]upon the highest places of the city,

4 [g]Whoso is simple, let him turn in hither: as for him that wanteth understanding, she saith to him,

5 [h]Come, eat of my bread, and drink of the wine which I have mingled.

6 Forsake the foolish, and live; and go in the way of understanding.

7 He that reproveth a scorner getteth to himself shame: and he that rebuketh a wicked man getteth himself a blot.

8 [i]Reprove not a scorner, lest he hate thee: [k]rebuke a wise man, and he will love thee.

9 Give instruction to a wise man, and he will be yet wiser: teach a just man, [l]and he will increase in learning.

10 [m]The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom: and the knowledge of the holy is understanding.

11 [n]For by me thy days shall be multiplied, and the years of thy life shall be increased.

12 [o]If thou be wise, thou shalt be wise for thyself: but if thou scornest, thou alone shalt bear it.

13 ¶ [p]A foolish woman is clamorous: she is simple, and knoweth nothing.

14 For she sitteth at the door of her house, on a seat [q]in the high places of the city,

15 To call passengers who go right on their ways:

16 [r]Whoso is simple, let him turn in hither: and as for him that wanteth understanding, she saith to him,

17 [s]Stolen waters are sweet, and bread †eaten in secret is pleasant.

18 But he knoweth not that [t]the dead are there; and that her guests are in the depths of hell.

CHAP. X.

From this chapter to the five and twentieth are sundry observations of moral virtues, and their contrary vices.

THE proverbs of Solomon. [a]A wise son maketh a glad father: but a foolish son is the heaviness of his mother.

2 [b]Treasures of wickedness profit nothing: [c]but righteousness delivereth from death.

3 [d]The LORD will not suffer the soul of the righteous to famish: but he casteth away [e]the substance of the wicked.

4 [e]He becometh poor that dealeth with a slack hand: but [f]the hand of the diligent maketh rich.

5 He that gathereth in summer is a wise son: but he that sleepeth in harvest is [g]a son that causeth shame.

6 Blessings are upon the head of the just: but[h] violence covereth the mouth of the wicked.

7 [i]The memory of the just is blessed: but the name of the wicked shall rot.

8 The wise in heart will receive commandments: [k]but † a prating fool ‡ shall fall.

9 [l]He that walketh uprightly walketh surely: but he that perverteth his ways shall be known.

10 [m]He that winketh with the eye causeth sorrow: [n]but a prating fool §shall fall.

11 [o]The mouth of a righteous man is a well of life: but [p]violence covereth the mouth of the wicked.

12 Hatred stirreth up strifes: but [q]love covereth all sins.

13 In the lips of him that hath understanding wisdom is found: but [r]a rod is for the back of him that is void of ‖ understanding.

14 Wise men lay up knowledge: but [s]the mouth of the foolish is near destruction.

15 [t]The rich man's wealth is his strong city: the destruction of the poor is their poverty.

16 The labour of the righteous tendeth to life: the fruit of the wicked to sin.

17 He is in the way of life that keepeth instruction: but he that refuseth reproof [u]erreth.

18 He that hideth hatred with lying lips, and [v]he that uttereth a slander, is a fool.

19 [x]In the multitude of words there wanteth not sin: but [y]he that refraineth his lips is wise.

20 The tongue of the just is as choice silver: the heart of the wicked is little worth.

21 The lips of the righteous feed many: but fools die for want †of wisdom.

22 [z]The blessing of the LORD, it maketh rich, and he addeth no sorrow with it.

23 [a]It is as sport to a fool to do mischief: but a man of understanding hath wisdom.

24 [b]The fear of the wicked, it shall come upon him: but [c]the desire of the righteous shall be granted.

25 As the whirlwind passeth, [d]so is the wicked no more: but [e]the righteous is an everlasting foundation.

26 As vinegar to the teeth, and as smoke to the eyes, so is the sluggard to them that send him.

27 [f]The fear of the LORD ‡prolongeth days: but [g]the years of the wicked shall be shortened.

28 The hope of the righteous shall be gladness: but the [h]expectation of the wicked shall perish.

29 The way of the LORD is strength to the upright: [i]but destruction shall be to the workers of iniquity.

30 [k]The righteous shall never be removed: but the wicked shall not inhabit the earth.

31 [l]The mouth of the just bringeth forth wisdom: but the froward tongue shall be cut out.

32 The lips of the righteous know what is acceptable: but the mouth of the wicked speaketh § frowardness.

CHAP. XI.

A [a] [*] FALSE balance is abomination to the LORD: but † a just weight is his delight.

2 [b] When pride cometh, then cometh shame: but with the lowly is wisdom.

3 [c] The integrity of the upright shall guide them: but the perverseness of transgressors shall destroy them.

4 [b] Riches profit not in the day of wrath but [e] righteousness delivereth from death.

5 The righteousness of the perfect shall ‡ direct his way: but the wicked shall fall by his own wickedness.

6 The righteousness of the upright shall deliver them: but [f] transgressors shall be taken in their own naughtiness.

7 [g] When a wicked man dieth, his expectation shall perish: and the hope of unjust men perisheth.

8 [h] The righteous is delivered out of trouble, and the wicked cometh in his stead.

9 An [i] hypocrite with his mouth destroyeth his neighbour: but through knowledge shall the just be delivered.

10 [k] When it goeth well with the righteous, the city rejoiceth: and when the wicked perish, there is shouting.

11 [l] By the blessing of the upright the city is exalted: but it is overthrown by the mouth of the wicked.

12 He that is § void of wisdom despiseth his neighbour: but a man of understanding holdeth his peace.

13 [m] || A talebearer revealeth secrets: but he that is of a faithful spirit concealeth the matter.

14 [n] Where no counsel is, the people fall: but in the multitude of counsellors there is safety.

15 [o] He that is surety for a stranger [*] shall smart for it: and he that hateth † suretiship is sure.

16 [p] A gracious woman retaineth honour: and strong men retain riches.

17 [q] The merciful man doeth good to his own soul: but he that is cruel troubleth his own flesh.

18 The wicked worketh a deceitful work: but [r] to him that soweth righteousness shall be a sure reward.

19 As righteousness tendeth to life: so he that pursueth evil pursueth it to his own death.

20 They that are of a froward heart are abomination to the LORD: but such as are upright in their way are his delight.

21 [s] Though hand join in hand, the wicked shall not be unpunished: but [t] the seed of the righteous shall be delivered.

22 As a jewel of gold in a swine's snout, so is a fair woman which ‡ is without discretion.

23 The desire of the righteous is only good: but the expectation of the wicked [u] is wrath.

24 There is that [x] scattereth, and yet increaseth; and there is that withholdeth more than is meet, but it tendeth to poverty.

25 [y] § The liberal soul shall be made fat: [z] and he that watereth shall be watered also himself.

26 [a] He that withholdeth corn, the people shall curse him: but [b] blessing shall be upon the head of him that selleth it.

27 He that diligently seeketh good procureth favour: [c] but he that seeketh mischief, it shall come unto him.

28 [d] He that trusteth in his riches shall fall: but [e] the righteous shall flourish as a branch.

29 He that troubleth his own house [f] shall inherit the wind: and the fool shall be servant to the wise of heart.

30 The fruit of the righteous is a tree of life; and [g] he that || winneth souls is wise.

31 [h] Behold, the righteous shall be recompensed in the earth: much more the wicked and the sinner.

CHAP. XII.

WHOSO loveth instruction loveth knowledge: but he that hateth reproof is brutish.

2 [a] A good man obtaineth favour of the LORD: but a man of wicked devices will he condemn.

3 A man shall not be established by wickedness: but the [b] root of the righteous shall not be moved.

4 [c] A virtuous woman is a crown to her husband: but she that maketh ashamed is [d] as rottenness in his bones.

5 The thoughts of the righteous are right: but the counsels of the wicked are deceit.

6 [e] The words of the wicked are to lie in wait for blood: [f] but the mouth of the upright shall deliver them.

7 [g] The wicked are overthrown, and are not: but the house of the righteous shall stand.

8 A man shall be commended according to his wisdom: [h] but he that is [*] of a perverse heart shall be despised.

9 [i] He that is despised, and hath a servant, is better than he that honoureth himself, and lacketh bread.

10 [k] A righteous man regardeth the life of his beast: but the † tender mercies of the wicked are cruel.

11 [l] He that tilleth his land shall be satisfied with bread: but he that followeth vain persons [m] is void of understanding.

12 The wicked desireth ‡ the net of evil men: but the root of the righteous yieldeth fruit.

13 § [n] The wicked is snared by the transgression of his lips: [o] but the just shall come out of trouble.

14 [p] A man shall be satisfied with good by the fruit of his mouth: [q] and the recompence of a man's hands shall be rendered unto him.

CHAP. XI. Ver. 21. Though hand join in hand.—Though they strengthen themselves by confederacies.

Ver. 29. Shall inherit the wind.—Shall be disappointed in his expectation of advantages. They shall, as the wind, pass away and leave nothing behind.

CHAP. XII. Ver. 7. And are not.—They cease to exist.

15 [r] The way of a fool is right in his own eyes: but he that hearkeneth unto counsel is wise.

16 [s] A fool's wrath is ‖ presently known: but a prudent man covereth shame.

17 [t] He that speaketh truth sheweth forth righteousness: but a false witness deceit.

18 [u] There is that speaketh like the pierc-ings of a sword: but the tongue of the wise is health.

19 The lip of truth shall be established for ever: [x] but a lying tongue is but for a moment.

20 Deceit is in the heart of them that imagine evil: but to the counsellors of peace is joy.

21 There shall no evil happen to the just: but the wicked shall be filled with mischief.

22 [y] Lying lips are abomination to the LORD: but they that deal truly are his delight.

23 [z] A prudent man concealeth knowledge: but the heart of fools proclaimeth foolishness.

24 [a] The hand of the diligent shall bear rule: but the * slothful shall be under tribute.

25 [b] Heaviness in the heart of man maketh it stoop: but [c] a good word maketh it glad.

26 The righteous is more † excellent than his neighbour: but the way of the wicked seduceth them.

27 The slothful man roasteth not that which he took in hunting: but the substance of a diligent man is precious.

28 In the way of righteousness is life; and in the pathway thereof there is no death.

CHAP. XIII.

A WISE son heareth his father's instruction: [a] but a scorner heareth not rebuke.

2 [b] A man shall eat good by the fruit of his mouth: but the soul of the transgressors shall eat violence.

3 [c] He that keepeth his mouth keepeth his life: but he that openeth wide his lips shall have destruction.

4 [d] The soul of the sluggard desireth, and hath nothing: but the soul of the diligent shall be made fat.

5 A righteous man hateth lying: but a wicked man is loathsome, and cometh to shame.

6 [e] Righteousness keepeth him that is upright in the way: but wickedness overthroweth * the sinner.

7 [f] There is that maketh himself rich, yet hath nothing: there is that maketh himself poor, yet hath great riches.

8 The ransom of a man's life are his riches: but the poor heareth not rebuke.

9 The light of the righteous rejoiceth: [g] but the † lamp of the wicked shall be put out.

10 Only by pride cometh contention: but with the well advised is wisdom.

11 [h] Wealth gotten by vanity shall be diminished: but he that gathereth ‡ by labour shall increase.

12 Hope deferred maketh the heart sick: but [i] when the desire cometh, it is a tree of life.

13 Whoso [k] despiseth the word shall be destroyed: but he that feareth the command-ment § shall be rewarded.

14 [l] The law of the wise is a fountain of life, to depart from [m] the snares of death.

15 Good understanding giveth favour: but the way of transgressors is hard.

16 [n] Every prudent man dealeth with know-ledge: but a fool ‖ layeth open his folly.

17 A wicked messenger falleth into mis-chief: but [o] * a faithful ambassador is health.

18 Poverty and shame shall be to him that refuseth instruction: but [p] he that regardeth reproof shall be honoured.

19 [q] The desire accomplished is sweet to the soul: but it is abomination to fools to depart from evil.

20 He that walketh with wise men shall be wise: but a companion of fools † shall be destroyed.

21 [r] Evil pursueth sinners: but to the righteous good shall be repayed.

22 A good man leaveth an inheritance to his children's children: and [s] the wealth of the sinner is laid up for the just.

23 [t] Much food is in the tillage of the poor: but there is that is destroyed for want of judgment.

24 [u] He that spareth his rod hateth his son: but he that loveth him chasteneth him betimes.

25 [x] The righteous eateth to the satisfying of his soul: but the belly of the wicked shall want.

CHAP. XIV.

EVERY [a] wise woman [b] buildeth her house: but the foolish plucketh it down with her hands.

2 He that walketh in his uprightness fear-eth the LORD: [c] but he that is perverse in his ways despiseth him.

3 In the mouth of the foolish is a rod of pride: [d] but the lips of the wise shall preserve them.

4 Where no oxen are, the crib is clean: but much increase is by the strength of the ox.

5 [e] A faithful witness will not lie: but a false witness will utter lies.

6 A scorner seeketh wisdom, and findeth it not: but [f] knowledge is easy unto him that understandeth.

7 Go from the presence of a foolish man, when thou perceivest not in him the lips of knowledge.

8 The wisdom of the prudent is to under-stand his way: but the folly of fools is deceit.

9 [g] Fools make a mock at sin: but among the righteous there is favour.

10 The heart knoweth * his own bitter-ness; and a stranger doth not intermeddle with his joy.

11 [h] The house of the wicked shall be over-thrown: but the tabernacle of the upright shall flourish.

12 [i] There is a way which seemeth right unto a man, but [k] the end thereof are the ways of death.

B. C. cir. 1000.

13 Even in laughter the heart is sorrowful; and [l]the end of that mirth is heaviness.

14 The backslider in heart shall be [m]filled with his own ways: and a good man shall be satisfied from himself.

15 The simple believeth every word: but the prudent man looketh well to his going.

16 [n]A wise man feareth, and departeth from evil: but the fool rageth, and is confident.

17 He that is soon angry dealeth foolishly: and a man of wicked devices is hated.

18 The simple inherit folly: but the prudent are crowned with knowledge.

19 The evil bow before the good; and the wicked at the gates of the righteous.

20 [o]The poor is hated even of his own neighbour: but [†]the rich hath many friends.

21 He that despiseth his neighbour sinneth: [p]but he that hath mercy on the poor, happy is he.

22 Do they not err that devise evil? but mercy and truth shall be to them that devise good.

23 In all labour there is profit: but the talk of the lips tendeth only to penury.

24 The crown of the wise is their riches: but the foolishness of fools is folly.

25 [q]A true witness delivereth souls: but a deceitful witness speaketh lies.

26 In the fear of the LORD is strong confidence: and his children shall have a place of refuge.

27 [r]The fear of the LORD is a fountain of life, to depart from the snares of death.

28 In the multitude of people is the king's honour: but in the want of people is the destruction of the prince.

29 [s]He that is slow to wrath is of great understanding: but he that is [‡]hasty of spirit exalteth folly.

30 A sound heart is the life of the flesh: but [t]envy [u]the rottenness of the bones.

31 [x]He that oppresseth the poor reproacheth [y]his Maker: but he that honoureth him hath mercy on the poor.

32 The wicked is driven away in his wickedness: but [z]the righteous hath hope in his death.

33 Wisdom resteth in the heart of him that hath understanding: but [a]that which is in the midst of fools is made known.

34 Righteousness exalteth a nation: but sin is a reproach §to any people.

35 [b]The king's favour is toward a wise servant: but his wrath is against him that causeth shame.

CHAP. XV.

A [c]SOFT answer turneth away wrath: but [b]grievous words stir up anger.

2 The tongue of the wise useth knowledge aright: [c]but the mouth of fools [*]poureth out foolishness.

3 [d]The eyes of the LORD are in every place, beholding the evil and the good.

4 [†]A wholesome tongue is a tree of life: but perverseness therein is a breach in the spirit.

5 [e]A fool despiseth his father's instruction: [f]but he that regardeth reproof is prudent.

6 In the house of the righteous is much treasure: but in the revenues of the wicked is trouble. B. C. cir. [illegible]

7 The lips of the wised isperse knowledge: but the heart of the foolish doeth not so.

8 [g]The sacrifice of the wicked is an abomination to the LORD: but the prayer of the upright is his delight.

9 The way of the wicked is an abomination unto the LORD: but he loveth him that [h]followeth after righteousness.

10 [‡]Correction is [i]grievous unto him that forsaketh the way: and [k]he that hateth reproof shall die.

11 [l]Hell and destruction are before the LORD: how much more then [m]the hearts of the children of men?

12 [n]A scorner loveth not one that reproveth him: neither will he go unto the wise.

13 [o]A merry heart maketh a cheerful countenance: but [p]by sorrow of the heart the spirit is broken.

14 The heart of him that hath understanding seeketh knowledge: but the mouth of fools feedeth on foolishness.

15 All the days of the afflicted are evil: [q]but he that is of a merry heart hath a continual feast.

16 [r]Better is little with the fear of the LORD than great treasure and trouble therewith.

17 [s]Better is a dinner of herbs where love is, than a stalled ox and hatred therewith.

18 [t]A wrathful man stirreth up strife: but he that is slow to anger appeaseth strife.

19 [u]The way of the slothful man is as an hedge of thorns: but the way of the righteous §is made plain.

20 [x]A wise son maketh a glad father: but a foolish man despiseth his mother.

21 [y]Folly is joy to him that is ‖destitute of wisdom: [z]but a man of understanding walketh uprightly.

22 [a]Without counsel purposes are disappointed: but in the multitude of counsellors they are established.

23 A man hath joy by the answer of his mouth: and [b]a word spoken [*]in due season, how good is it!

24 [c]The way of life is above to the wise, that he may depart from hell beneath.

25 [d]The LORD will destroy the house of the proud: but [e]he will establish the border of the widow.

26 [f]The thoughts of the wicked are an abomination to the LORD: [g]but the words of the pure are [†]pleasant words.

27 [h]He that is greedy of gain troubleth his own house; but he that hateth gifts shall live.

28 The heart of the righteous [i]studieth to answer: but the mouth of the wicked poureth out evil things.

29 [k]The LORD is far from the wicked: but [l]he heareth the prayer of the righteous.

30 The light of the eyes rejoiceth the heart: and a good report maketh the bones fat.

31 [m] The ear that heareth the reproof of life abideth among the wise.

32 He that refuseth ‡ instruction despiseth his own soul: but he that § heareth reproof ‖ getteth understanding.

33 [n] The fear of the LORD is the instruction of wisdom; and [o] before honour is humility.

CHAP. XVI.

THE [a] [*] preparations of the heart in man, [b] and the answer of the tongue, is from the LORD.

2 [c] All the ways of a man are clean in his own eyes; but [b] the LORD weigheth the spirits.

3 [d] [†] Commit thy works unto the LORD, and thy thoughts shall be established.

4 [f] The LORD hath made all things for himself: [g] yea, even the wicked for the day of evil.

5 [h] Every one that is proud in heart is an abomination to the LORD: [i] though hand join in hand, he shall not be ‡ unpunished.

6 [k] By mercy and truth iniquity is purged: and [l] by the fear of the LORD men depart from evil.

7 When a man's ways please the LORD, he maketh even his enemies to be at peace with him.

8 [m] Better is a little with righteousness than great revenues without right.

9 [n] A man's heart deviseth his way: [o] but the LORD directeth his steps.

10 § A divine sentence is in the lips of the king: his mouth transgresseth not in judgment.

11 [p] A just weight and balance are the LORD's: ‖ all the weights of the bag are his work.

12 It is an abomination to kings to commit wickedness: for [q] the throne is established by righteousness.

13 [r] Righteous lips are the delight of kings; and they love him that speaketh right.

14 [s] The wrath of a king is as messengers of death: but a wise man will pacify it.

15 In the light of the king's countenance is life; and [t] his favour is [u] as a cloud of the latter rain.

16 [x] How much better is it to get wisdom than gold? and to get understanding rather to be chosen than silver?

17 The highway of the upright is to depart from evil: he that keepeth his way preserveth his soul.

18 [y] Pride goeth before destruction, and a haughty spirit before a fall.

19 Better it is to be of an humble spirit with the lowly, than to divide the spoil with the proud.

20 [*] He that handleth a matter wisely shall find good: and whoso [z] trusteth in the LORD, happy is he.

21 The wise in heart shall be called prudent: and the sweetness of the lips increaseth learning.

22 [a] Understanding is a wellspring of life unto him that hath it: but the instruction of fools is folly.

23 [b] The heart of the wise † teacheth his mouth, and addeth learning to his lips.

24 Pleasant words are as an honeycomb, sweet to the soul, and health to the bones.

25 [c] There is a way that seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death.

26 [d] ‡ He that laboureth laboureth for himself; for his mouth § craveth it of him.

27 ‖ An ungodly man diggeth up evil: and in his lips there is as a burning fire.

28 [e] A froward man [*] soweth strife: and [f] a whisperer separateth chief friends.

29 A violent man [g] enticeth his neighbour, and leadeth him into the way that is not good.

30 He shutteth his eyes to devise froward things: moving his lips he bringing evil to pass.

31 [h] The hoary head is a crown of glory, if it be found in the way of righteousness.

32 [i] He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty; and he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh a city.

33 The lot is cast into the lap; but the whole disposing thereof is of the LORD.

CHAP. XVII.

BETTER is [a] a dry morsel, and quietness therewith, than an house full of [*] sacrifices with strife.

2 A wise servant shall have rule over [b] a son that causeth shame, and shall have part of the inheritance among the brethren.

3 [c] The fining pot is for silver, and the furnace for gold: but the LORD trieth the hearts.

4 A wicked doer giveth heed to false lips; and a liar giveth ear to a naughty tongue.

5 [d] Whoso mocketh the poor reproacheth his Maker: and [e] he that is glad at calamities shall not be † unpunished.

6 [f] Children's children are the crown of old men; and the glory of children are their fathers.

7 ‡ Excellent speech becometh not a fool: much less do § lying lips a prince.

8 [g] A gift is as ‖ a precious stone in the eyes of him that hath it: whithersoever it turneth, it prospereth.

9 [h] He that covereth a transgression [*] seeketh love; but [i] he that repeateth a matter separateth very friends.

10 † A reproof entereth more into a wise man than an hundred stripes into a fool.

11 An evil man seeketh only rebellion: therefore a cruel messenger shall be sent against him.

12 Let [k] a bear robbed of her whelps meet a man, rather than a fool in his folly.

13 Whoso [l] rewardeth evil for good, evil shall not depart from his house.

B. C. cir. 1000. he that condemneth the just, even they both are abomination to the LORD.

16 Wherefore is there a price in the hand of a fool to get wisdom, [o] seeing he hath no heart to it?

17 [p] A friend loveth at all times, and a brother is born for adversity.

18 [q] A man void of ‡ understanding striketh hands, and becometh surety in the presence of his friend.

19 He loveth transgression that loveth strife: and [r] he that exalteth his gate seeketh destruction.

20 § He that hath a froward heart findeth no good: and he that hath [s] a perverse tongue falleth into mischief.

21 [t] He that begetteth a fool doeth it to his sorrow: and the father of a fool hath no joy.

22 [u] A merry heart doeth good ‖ like a medicine: [x] but a broken spirit drieth the bones.

23 A wicked man taketh a gift out of the bosom [y] to pervert the ways of judgment.

24 [z] Wisdom is before him that hath understanding; but the eyes of a fool are in the ends of the earth.

25 [a] A foolish son is a grief to his father, and bitterness to her that bare him.

26 Also [b] to punish the just is not good, nor to strike princes for equity.

27 [c] He that hath knowledge spareth his words: and a man of understanding is of [*] an excellent spirit.

28 [d] Even a fool, when he holdeth his peace, is counted wise: and he that shutteth his lips is esteemed a man of understanding.

CHAP. XVIII.

THROUGH [*] desire a man, having separated himself, seeketh and intermeddleth with all wisdom.

2 A fool hath no delight in understanding, but that his heart may discover itself.

3 When the wicked cometh, then cometh also contempt, and with ignominy reproach.

4 [a] The words of a man's mouth are as deep waters, [b] and the wellspring of wisdom as a flowing brook.

5 [c] It is not good to accept the person of the wicked, to overthrow the righteous in judgment.

6 A fool's lips enter into contention, and his mouth calleth for strokes.

7 [d] A fool's mouth is his destruction, and his lips are the snare of his soul.

8 [e] The words of a † talebearer are ‡ as wounds, and they go down into the § innermost parts of the belly.

9 He also that is slothful in his work is [f] brother to him that is a great waster.

10 [g] The name of the LORD is a strong tower: the righteous runneth into it, and ‖ is safe.

11 [h] The rich man's wealth is his strong city, and as an high wall in his own conceit.

12 [i] Before destruction the heart of man is haughty, and before honour is humility.

13 He that [*] answereth a matter [k] before he heareth it, it is folly and shame unto him.

14 The spirit of a man will sustain his infirmity; but a wounded spirit who can bear?

15 The heart of the prudent getteth knowledge; and the ear of the wise seeketh knowledge.

16 [l] A man's gift maketh room for him, and bringeth him before great men.

17 He that is first in his own cause seemeth just; but his neighbour cometh and searcheth him.

18 The lot causeth contentions to cease, and parteth between the mighty.

19 A brother offended is harder to be won than a strong city: and their contentions are like the bars of a castle.

20 [m] A man's belly shall be satisfied with the fruit of his mouth; and with the increase of his lips shall he be filled.

21 [n] Death and life are in the power of the tongue: and they that love it shall eat the fruit thereof.

22 [o] Whoso findeth a wife findeth a good thing, and obtaineth favour of the LORD.

23 The poor useth intreaties; but the rich answereth [p] roughly.

24 A man that hath friends must shew himself friendly: [q] and there is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother.

CHAP. XIX.

BETTER [a] is the poor that walketh in his integrity, than he that is perverse in his lips, and is a fool.

2 Also, that the soul be without knowledge, it is not good; and he that hasteth with his feet sinneth.

3 The foolishness of man perverteth his way: [b] and his heart fretteth against the LORD.

4 [c] Wealth maketh many friends; but the poor is separated from his neighbour.

father: [r] and the contentions of a wife are a continual dropping.

14 [s] House and riches are the inheritance of fathers: and [t] a prudent wife is from the LORD.

15 [u] Slothfulness casteth into a deep sleep; and an idle soul shall [x] suffer hunger.

16 [y] He that keepeth the commandment keepeth his own soul; but he that despiseth his ways shall die.

17 [z] He that hath pity upon the poor lendeth unto the LORD; and ‖ that which he hath given will he pay him again.

18 [a] Chasten thy son while there is hope, and let not thy soul spare [*] for his crying.

19 A man of great wrath shall suffer punishment: for if thou deliver him, yet thou must †do it again.

20 Hear counsel, and receive instruction, that thou mayest be wise [b] in the latter end.

21 [c] There are many devices in a man's heart; nevertheless the counsel of the LORD, that shall stand.

22 The desire of man is his kindness: and a poor man is better than a liar.

23 [d] The fear of the LORD tendeth to life: and he that hath it shall abide satisfied; he shall not be visited with evil.

24 [e] A slothful man hideth his hand in his bosom, and will not so much as bring it to his mouth again.

25 [f] Smite a scorner, and the simple ‡[g] will beware: and [h] reprove one that hath understanding, and he will understand knowledge.

26 He that wasteth his father, and chaseth away his mother, is [i] a son that causeth shame, and bringeth reproach.

27 Cease, my son, to hear the instruction that causeth to err from the words of knowledge.

28 § An ungodly witness scorneth judgment: and [k] the mouth of the wicked devoureth iniquity.

29 Judgments are prepared for scorners, [l] and stripes for the back of fools.

CHAP. XX.

WINE [*] is a mocker, strong drink is raging: and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise.

2 [b] The fear of a king is as the roaring of a lion: whoso provoketh him to anger [c] sinneth against his own soul.

3 [d] It is an honour for a man to cease from strife: but every fool will be meddling.

4 [e] The sluggard will not plow by reason of the [*] cold; [f] therefore shall he beg in harvest, and have nothing.

5 [g] Counsel in the heart of man is like deep water; but a man of understanding will draw it out.

6 [h] Most men will proclaim every one his own †goodness: but [i] a faithful man who can find?

7 [k] The just man walketh in his integrity: [l] his children are blessed after him.

8 [m] A king that sitteth in the throne of judgment scattereth away all evil with his eyes.

9 [n] Who can say, I have made my heart clean, I am pure from my sin?

10 [o] ‡ Divers weights, and § divers measures, both of them are alike abomination to the LORD.

11 Even a child is [p] known by his doings, whether his work be pure, and whether it be right.

12 [q] The hearing ear, and the seeing eye, the LORD hath made even both of them.

13 [r] Love not sleep, lest thou come to poverty; open thine eyes, and thou shalt be satisfied with bread.

14 It is naught, it is naught, saith the buyer: but when he is gone his way, then he boasteth.

15 There is gold, and a multitude of rubies: but [s] the lips of knowledge are a precious jewel.

16 [t] Take his garment that is surety for a stranger: and take a pledge of him for a strange woman.

17 [u] ‖ Bread of deceit is sweet to a man; but afterwards his mouth shall be filled with gravel.

18 [x] Every purpose is established by counsel: [y] and with good advice make war.

19 [z] He that goeth about as a tale-bearer revealeth secrets: therefore meddle not with him [a] that [*] flattereth with his lips.

20 [b] Whoso curseth his father or his mother, [c] his †lamp shall be put out in obscure darkness.

21 [d] An inheritance may be gotten hastily at the beginning; [e] but the end thereof shall not be blessed.

22 [f] Say not thou, I will recompense evil; but [g] wait on the LORD, and he shall save thee.

23 [h] Divers weights are an abomination unto the LORD; and ‡ a false balance is not good.

24 [i] Man's goings are of the LORD; how can a man then understand his own way?

25 It is a snare to the man who devoureth that which is holy, and [k] after vows to make enquiry.

26 [l] A wise king scattereth the wicked, and bringeth the wheel over them.

27 [m] The spirit of man is the § candle of the LORD, searching all the inward parts of the belly.

28 [n] Mercy and truth preserve the king: and his throne is upholden by mercy.

29 The glory of young men is their strength: and [o] the beauty of old men is the grey head.

30 The blueness of a wound ‖ cleanseth away evil: so do stripes the inward parts of the belly.

CHAP. XXI.

THE king's heart is in the hand of the LORD, as the rivers of water: he turneth it whithersoever he will.

2 [a] Every way of a man is right in his own eyes: [b] but the LORD pondereth the hearts.

3 [c] To do justice and judgment is more acceptable to the LORD than sacrifice.

4 [d] * An high look, and a proud heart, and † the plowing of the wicked, is sin.

5 [e] The thoughts of the diligent tend only to plenteousness; but of every one that is hasty only to want.

6 [f] The getting of treasures by a lying tongue is a vanity tossed to and fro of them that seek death.

7 The robbery of the wicked shall ‡ destroy them; because they refuse to do judgment.

8 The way of man is froward and strange: but as for the pure, his work is right.

9 [g] It is better to dwell in a corner of the housetop, than with § a brawling woman in ‖ a wide house.

10 [h] The soul of the wicked desireth evil: his neighbour * findeth no favour in his eyes.

11 [i] When the scorner is punished, the simple is made wise: and when the wise is instructed, he receiveth knowledge.

12 The righteous man wisely considereth the house of the wicked: but God overthroweth the wicked for their wickedness.

13 [k] Whoso stoppeth his ears at the cry of the poor, he also shall cry himself, but shall not be heard.

14 [l] A gift in secret pacifieth anger: and a reward in the bosom strong wrath.

15 It is joy to the just to do judgment: [m] but destruction shall be to the workers of iniquity.

16 The man that wandereth out of the way of understanding shall remain in the congregation of the dead.

17 He that loveth † pleasure shall be a poor man: he that loveth wine and oil shall not be rich.

18 [n] The wicked shall be a ransom for the righteous, and the transgressor for the upright.

19 [o] It is better to dwell ‡ in the wilderness, than with a contentious and an angry woman.

20 [p] There is treasure to be desired and oil in the dwelling of the wise; but a foolish man spendeth it up.

21 [q] He that followeth after righteousness and mercy findeth life, righteousness, and honour.

22 [r] A wise man scaleth the city of the mighty, and casteth down the strength of the confidence thereof.

23 [s] Whoso keepeth his mouth and his tongue keepeth his soul from troubles.

24 Proud and haughty scorner is his name who dealeth § in proud wrath.

25 [t] The desire of the slothful killeth him; for his hands refuse to labour.

26 He coveteth greedily all the day long: but the [u] righteous giveth and spareth not.

27 [x] The sacrifice of the wicked is abomination: how much more, when he bringeth it ‖ with a wicked mind?

28 [y] * A false witness shall perish: but the man that heareth speaketh constantly.

29 A wicked man hardeneth his face: but as for the upright, he † directeth his way.

30 [z] There is no wisdom nor understanding nor counsel against the LORD.

31 [a] The horse is prepared against the day of battle: but [b] ‡ safety is of the LORD.

CHAP. XXII.

A [a] GOOD name is rather to be chosen than great riches, and * loving favour rather than silver and gold.

2 [b] The rich and poor meet together: [c] the LORD is the maker of them all.

3 [d] A prudent man foreseeth the evil, and hideth himself: but the simple pass on, and are punished.

4 [e] † By humility and the fear of the LORD are riches, honour, and life.

5 [f] Thorns and snares are in the way of the froward: [g] he that doth keep his soul shall be far from them.

6 [h] ‡ Train up a child § in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it.

7 [i] The rich ruleth over the poor, and the borrower is servant ‖ to the lender.

8 [k] He that soweth iniquity shall reap vanity: * and the rod of his anger shall fail.

9 [l] † He that hath a bountiful eye shall be blessed; for he giveth of his bread to the poor.

10 [m] Cast out the scorner, and contention shall go out; yea, strife and reproach shall cease.

11 [n] He that loveth pureness of heart, ‖ for the grace of his lips the king shall be his friend.

12 The eyes of the LORD preserve knowledge, and he overthroweth § the words of the transgressor.

14 [p] The mouth of strange women is a deep pit: [q] he that is abhorred of the LORD shall fall therein.

15 Foolishness is bound in the heart of a child; but [r] the rod of correction shall drive it far from him.

16 He that oppresseth the poor to increase his riches, and he that giveth to the rich, shall surely come to want.

17 Bow down thine ear, and hear the words of the wise, and apply thine heart unto my knowledge.

18 For it is a pleasant thing if thou keep them ‖ within thee; they shall withal be fitted in thy lips.

19 That thy trust may be in the LORD, I have made known to thee this day, * even to thee.

20 Have not I written to thee * excellent things in counsels and knowledge,

21 [t] That I might made thee know the certainty of the words of truth; [u] that thou mightest answer the words of truth † to them that send unto thee?

22 [x] Rob not the poor, because he is poor: [y] neither oppress the afflicted in the gate:

23 [z] For the LORD will plead their cause, and spoil the soul of those that spoiled them.

24 Make no friendship with an angry man; and with a furious man thou shalt not go:

WHEN thou sittest to eat with a ruler, consider diligently what is before thee:
2 And put a knife to thy throat, if thou be a man given to appetite.
3 Be not desirous of his dainties: for they are deceitful meat.
4 [a] Labour not to be rich: [b] cease from thine own wisdom.
5 [c] Wilt thou set thine eyes upon that which is not? for riches certainly make themselves wings; they fly away as an eagle toward heaven.
6 [c] Eat thou not the bread of him that hath [d] an evil eye, neither desire thou his dainty meats:
7 For as he thinketh in his heart, so is he: Eat and drink, [e] saith he to thee; but his heart is not with thee.
8 The morsel which thou hast eaten shalt thou vomit up, and lose thy sweet words.
9 [f] Speak not in the ears of a fool: for he will despise the wisdom of thy words.
10 [g] Remove not the old † landmark; and enter not into the fields of the fatherless:
11 [h] For their redeemer is mighty; he shall plead their cause with thee.
12 Apply thine heart unto instruction, and thine ears to the words of knowledge.
13 [i] Withhold not correction from the child: for if thou beatest him with the rod, he shall not die.
14 Thou shalt beat him with the rod, and [k] shalt deliver his soul from hell.
15 My son, [l] if thine heart be wise, my heart shall rejoice, ‡ even mine.
16 Yea, my reins shall rejoice, when thy lips speak right things.
17 [m] Let not thine heart envy sinners: but [n] be thou in the fear of the LORD all the day long.
18 [o] For surely there is an § end; and thine expectation shall not be cut off.
19 Hear thou, my son, and be wise, and guide thine heart in the way.
20 [q] Be not among winebibbers; among riotous eaters ‖ of flesh:
21 For the drunkard and the glutton shall come to poverty: and [r] drowsiness shall clothe a man with rags.
22 [s] Hearken unto thy father that begat thee, and despise not thy mother when she is old.
23 [t] Buy the truth, and sell it not; also wisdom, and instruction, and understanding.
24 [u] The father of the righteous shall greatly rejoice: and he that begetteth a wise child shall have joy of him.
25 Thy father and thy mother shall be glad, and she that bare thee shall rejoice.
26 My son, give me thine heart, and let thine eyes observe my ways.
27 [x] For a whore is a deep ditch; and a strange woman is a narrow pit.
28 [y] She also lieth in wait * as for a prey, and increaseth the transgressors among men.
29 [z] Who hath woe? who hath sorrow? who hath contentions? who hath babbling? who hath wounds without cause? who [a] hath redness of eyes?
30 [b] They that tarry long at the wine; they that go to seek [c] mixed wine.
31 Look not thou upon the wine when it is red, when it giveth his colour in the cup, when it moveth itself aright.
32 At the last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like † an adder.
33 Thine eyes shall behold strange women, and thine heart shall utter perverse things.
34 Yea, thou shalt be as he that lieth down ‡ in the midst of the sea, or as he that lieth upon the top of a mast.
35 [d] They have stricken me, shalt thou say, and I was not sick; they have beaten me, and § [e] I felt it not: [f] when shall I awake? I will seek it yet again.

CHAP. XXIV.

BE not thou [a] envious against evil men, [b] neither desire to be with them.
2 [c] For their heart studieth destruction, and their lips talk of mischief.
3 Through wisdom is an house builded; and by understanding it is established:
4 And by knowledge shall the chambers be filled with all precious and pleasant riches.
5 [d] A wise man * is strong; yea, a man of knowledge † increaseth strength.
6 [e] For by wise counsel thou shalt make thy war: and in multitude of counsellors there is safety.
7 [f] Wisdom is too high for a fool: he openeth not his mouth in the gate.
8 He that [g] deviseth to do evil shall be called a mischievous person.
9 The thought of foolishness is sin: and the scorner is an abomination to men.
10 If thou faint in the day of adversity, thy strength is ‡ small.
11 [h] If thou forbear to deliver them that are drawn unto death, and those that are ready to be slain;
12 If thou sayest, Behold, we knew it not; doth not [i] he that pondereth the heart consider it? and he that keepeth thy soul, doth not he know it? and shall not he render to every man [k] according to his works?
13 My son, [l] eat thou honey, because it is good; and the honeycomb, which is sweet § to thy taste:
14 [m] So shall the knowledge of wisdom be unto thy soul: when thou hast found it, [n] then there shall be a reward, and thy expectation shall not be cut off.
15 [o] Lay not wait, O wicked man, against the dwelling of the righteous; spoil not his resting place:
16 [p] For a just man falleth seven times, and riseth up again: [q] but the wicked shall fall into mischief.

17 [r] Rejoice not when thine enemy falleth, and let not thine heart be glad when he stumbleth:

18 Lest the LORD see it, and ‖ it displease him, and he turn away his wrath from him.

19 [s] Fret not thyself because of evil men, neither be thou envious at the wicked;

20 For [t] there shall be no reward to the evil man; [u] the † candle of the wicked shall be put out.

21 My son, [x] fear thou the LORD and the king: and meddle not with ‡ them that are given to change:

22 For their calamity shall rise suddenly; and who knoweth the ruin of them both?

23 These things also belong to the wise. [y] It is not good to have respect of persons in judgment.

24 [z] He that saith unto the wicked, Thou art righteous; him shall the people curse, nations shall abhor him:

25 But to them that rebuke him shall be delight, and § a good blessing shall come upon them.

26 Every man shall kiss his lips ‖ that giveth a right answer.

27 [a] Prepare thy work without, and make it fit for thyself in the field; and afterwards build thine house.

28 [b] Be not a witness against thy neighbour without cause; and deceive not with thy lips.

29 [c] Say not, I will do so to him as he hath done to me: I will render to the man according to his work.

30 I went by the field of the slothful, and by the vineyard of the man void of understanding;

31 And, lo, [d] it was all grown over with thorns, and nettles had covered the face thereof, and the stone wall thereof was broken down.

32 Then I saw, and * considered it: I looked upon it, and received instruction.

33 [e] Yet a little sleep, a little slumber, a little folding of the hands to sleep:

1 Observations about kings, 8 and about avoiding causes of quarrels, and sundry causes thereof.

[a] THESE are also proverbs of Solomon, which the men of Hezekiah king of Judah copied out.

2 [b] It is the glory of God to conceal a thing: but the honour of kings is [c] to search out a matter.

3 The heaven for height, and the earth for depth, and the heart of kings * is unsearchable.

4 [d] Take away the dross from the silver, and there shall come forth a vessel for the finer.

5 [e] Take away the wicked from before the king, and [f] his throne shall be established in righteousness.

6 † Put not forth thyself in the presence of the king, and stand not in the place of great men:

7 [g] For better it is that it be said unto thee, Come up hither; than that thou should-est be put lower in the presence of the prince whom thine eyes have seen.

8 [h] Go not forth hastily to strive, lest thou know not what to do in the end thereof, when thy neighbour hath put thee to shame.

9 [i] Debate thy cause with thy neighbour himself; and ‡ discover not a secret to another:

10 Lest he that heareth it put thee to shame, and thine infamy turn not away.

11 [k] A word § fitly spoken is like apples of gold in pictures of silver.

12 As an earring of gold, and an ornament of fine gold, so is a wise reprover upon an obedient ear.

13 [l] As the cold of snow in the time of harvest, so is a faithful messenger to them that send him: for he refresheth the soul of his masters.

14 [m] Whoso boasteth himself ‖ of a false gift is like [n] clouds and wind without rain.

15 [o] By long forbearing is a prince persuaded, and a soft tongue breaketh the bone.

16 [p] Hast thou found honey? eat so much as is sufficient for thee, lest thou be filled therewith, and vomit it.

17 * Withdraw thy foot from thy neighbour's house; lest he be † weary of thee, and so hate thee.

18 [q] A man that beareth false witness against his neighbour is a maul, and a sword and a sharp arrow.

19 Confidence is an unfaithful man in time of trouble is like a broken tooth, and a foot out of joint.

20 As he that taketh away a garment in cold weather, and as vinegar upon nitre, so is he that [r] singeth songs to an heavy heart.

21 [s] If thine enemy be hungry, give him bread to eat; and if he be thirsty, give him water to drink:

22 For thou shalt heap coals of fire upon his head, [t] and the LORD shall reward thee.

23 [u] ‡ The north wind driveth away rain: so doth an angry countenance [x] a backbiting tongue.

24 [y] It is better to dwell in the corner of the housetop, than with a brawling woman and in a wide house.

25 As cold waters to a thirsty soul, so is good news from a far country.

26 A righteous man falling down before the wicked is as a troubled fountain, and a corrupt spring.

27 [z] It is not good to eat much honey: so for men [a] to search their own glory is not glory.

28 [b] He that hath no rule over his own spirit is like a city that is broken down, and without walls.

1 Observations about fools, 13 about sluggards, 17 and about contentious busybodies.

AS snow in summer, [a] and as rain in harvest, so honour is not seemly for a fool.

Ver. 27. Prepare thy work, &c.—Do not build thy house until thou hast made every preparation. For to see that thy fields are in a state to become productive, before thou venturest upon the expense of building a house.

Ver. 11. Like apples of gold in pictures of silver.—"Like golden balls or beautiful apples presented in a silver net-work basket."—Patrick.

Ver. 13. As the cold of snow.—This alludes to the eastern practice of cooling wines with snow when it was procurable.

Ver. 18. A maul. A sort of hammer.

Ver. 20. As vinegar upon nitre.—Properly upon an alkali, which causes an immediate effervescence.

26 * Whose hatred is covered by deceit, his wickedness shall be shewed before the whole congregation.

27 [p] Whoso diggeth a pit shall fall therein: and he that rolleth a stone, it will return upon him.

28 A lying tongue hateth those that are afflicted by it; and a flattering mouth worketh ruin.

CHAP. XXVIII.

General observations of impiety and religious integrity.

THE [a] wicked flee when no man pursueth: but the righteous are bold as a lion.

2 For the transgression of a land many are the princes thereof: but * by a man of understanding and knowledge the state thereof shall be prolonged.

3 [b] A poor man that oppresseth the poor is like a sweeping rain † which leaveth no food.

4 [c] They that forsake the law praise the wicked: [d] but such as keep the law contend with them.

5 [e] Evil men understand not judgment: but [f] they that seek the LORD understand all things.

6 [g] Better is the poor that walketh in his uprightness, than he that is perverse in his ways, though he be rich.

7 [h] Whoso keepeth the law is a wise son: but he that ‡ is a companion of riotous men shameth his father.

8 [i] He that by usury and § unjust gain increaseth his substance, he shall gather it for him that will pity the poor.

9 [k] He that turneth away his ear from hearing the law, [l] even his prayer shall be abomination.

10 [m] Whoso causeth the righteous to go astray in an evil way, he shall fall himself into his own pit: [n] but the upright shall have good things in possession.

11 The rich man is wise ‖ in his own conceit; but the poor that hath understanding searcheth him out.

12 [o] When righteous men do rejoice, there is great glory: but when the wicked rise, a man is * hidden.

13 [p] He that covereth his sins shall not prosper: but whoso confesseth and forsaketh them shall have mercy.

14 Happy is the man [q] that feareth alway: [r] but he that hardeneth his heart shall fall into mischief.

15 [s] As a roaring lion, and a ranging bear; [t] so is a wicked ruler over the poor people.

16 The prince that wanteth understanding is also a great oppressor: but he that hateth covetousness shall prolong his days.

17 [u] A man that doeth violence to the blood of any person shall flee to the pit; let no man stay him.

18 [x] Whoso walketh uprightly shall be saved: but [y] he that is perverse in his ways shall fall at once.

19 [z] He that tilleth his land shall have plenty of bread: but he that followeth after vain persons shall have poverty enough.

20 A faithful man shall abound with blessings: [a] but he that maketh haste to be rich shall not be † innocent.

21 [b] To have respect of persons is not good: [c] for a piece of bread that man will transgress.

22 ‡ [d] He that hasteth to be rich hath an evil eye, and considereth not that poverty shall come upon him.

23 [e] He that rebuketh a man afterwards shall find more favour than he that flattereth with the tongue.

24 Whoso robbeth his father or his mother, and saith, It is no transgression; the same [f] is the companion of § a destroyer.

25 [g] He that is of a proud heart stirreth up strife: [h] but he that putteth his trust in the LORD shall be made fat.

26 He that trusteth in his own heart is a fool: but whoso walketh wisely, he shall be delivered.

27 [i] He that giveth unto the poor shall not lack: but he that hideth his eyes shall have many a curse.

28 [k] When the wicked rise, [l] men hide themselves: but when they perish, the righteous increase.

* HE, [a] that being often reproved hardeneth his neck, shall suddenly be destroyed, and that without remedy.

2 [b] When the righteous are † in authority, the people rejoice: but when the wicked beareth rule, [c] the people mourn.

3 [d] Whoso loveth wisdom rejoiceth his father: * but he that keepeth company with harlots spendeth his substance.

4 The king by judgment establisheth the land: but ‡ he that receiveth gifts overthroweth it.

5 A man that flattereth his neighbour spreadeth a net for his feet.

6 In the transgression of an evil man there is a snare: but the righteous doth sing and rejoice.

7 [f] The righteous considereth the cause of the poor: but the wicked regardeth not to know it.

8 [g] Scornful men § bring a city into a snare: but wise men [h] turn away wrath.

9 If a wise man contendeth with a foolish man, [i] whether he rage or laugh, there is no rest.

10 ‖ [k] The bloodthirsty hate the upright: but the just seek his soul.

B. C. cir. 709.

16 When the wicked are multiplied, transgression increaseth: [e] but the righteous shall see their fall.

17 [f] Correct thy son, and he shall give thee rest; yea, he shall give delight unto thy soul.

18 [g] Where there is no vision, the people † perish: but [z] he that keepeth the law, happy is he.

19 A servant will not be corrected by words: for though he understand he will not answer.

20 Seest thou a man that is hasty ‡ in his words? [y] there is more hope of a fool than of him.

21 He that delicately bringeth up his servant from a child shall have him become his son at the length.

22 [z] An angry man stirreth up strife, and a furious man aboundeth in transgression.

23 [a] A man's pride shall bring him low: but honour shall uphold the humble in spirit.

24 Whoso is partner with a thief hateth his own soul: [b] he heareth cursing, and bewrayeth it not.

25 [c] The fear of man bringeth a snare: but whoso putteth his trust in the LORD § shall be safe.

26 [d] Many seek ‖ the ruler's favour; but every man's judgment cometh from the LORD.

27 An unjust man is an abomination to the just: and he that is upright in the way is abomination to the wicked.

20 Such is the way of an adulterous woman; she eateth, and wipeth her mouth, and saith, I have done no wickedness.

21 For three things the earth is disquieted, and for four which it cannot bear:

22 [r] For a servant when he reigneth; and a fool when he is filled with meat;

23 For an odious woman when she is married; and an handmaid that is heir to her mistress.

24 There be four things which are little upon the earth, but they are ‖ exceeding wise:

25 [s] The ants are a people not strong, yet they prepare their meat in the summer;

26 [t] The conies are but a feeble folk, yet make they their houses in the rocks;

27 The locusts have no king, yet go they forth all of them * by bands;

28 The spider taketh hold with her hands, and is in king's palaces.

29 There be three things which go well, yea, four are comely in going:

30 A lion which is strongest among beasts, and turneth not away for any;

31 A †‡ greyhound; an he goat also; and a king, against whom there is no rising up.

32 If thou hast done foolishly in lifting up thyself, or if thou hast thought evil, [u] lay thine hand upon thy mouth.

33 Surely the churning of milk bringeth forth butter, and the wringing of the nose bringeth forth blood: so the forcing of wrath bringeth forth strife.

ECCLESIASTES.—"The book entitled in Greek Ecclesiastes, and in English The Preacher, seems to be a philosophical discourse, written in a rhetorical style, here and there interspersed with verses which gave a handle to cavil it among the poetical books. The author's design is to prove the immortality of the soul, or rather, the necessity of another state after this life, from such arguments as may be afforded by reason and experience. In the course of the argument, the author now and then inserts some observations that do not directly respect the main design of the treatise, but must be looked upon as either consequences naturally arising from the same principles which it was his business to establish, in order to come to the main conclusion; or considerations, without which his principles must have lain exposed to objections and chicaneries, from the libertines or pretended free-thinkers of the age. My reasons for being of this opinion are chiefly two. The one is taken from the conclusion of the book; the other from the whole series of the discourse, when I can find no connection of ideas, no design pursued, no constant method observed upon any other scheme. But to judge of the whole series, and to determine what it requires, that series must be considered at length. The whole discourse may be reduced to three propositions, every one of which, when properly reflected upon, yields a strong proof of a future state of rewards and punishments. But it must be observed that, though in all reasonings two propositions must be apprehended by the mind, in order to form any conclusion, yet it is not always necessary that both should be expressed. When the second is so obvious that it, in a manner, obtrudes itself upon the mind as soon as the first is mentioned, or so certainly true that no man in his right senses can well question it, then a philosopher may, according to the strictest rules, and an orator generally does, leave it to be understood and supplied by the attentive reader or hearer, and that is what the logicians call enthymeme. Now, I hope this proposition, "Human affairs are under the inspection of a wise, powerful, and infinitely perfect Being, who can never be supposed to act but agreeably to his attributes," will be easily granted to be one of those which may be left unexpressed in a religious argument. Then let it be considered as the minor or second proposition of a syllogism, whereof any of the three we are going to mention is the major, or first proposition, and I am much mistaken if the doctrine I took upon, as being chiefly taught in this book, does not appear to be the regular consequence of such a syllogism. These three propositions, every one of which is attended with its proper apparatus of proofs and special observations, are the following:—First. No labour or trouble of men in this world can ever be so profitable as to produce in them a lasting contentment and thorough satisfaction of mind (see chap. i. 2, 3). Second. Earthly goods and whatever we can acquire by our utmost trouble and labour in this world, are so far from making us lastingly happy that they may be even looked upon as real obstacles to our ease and tranquillity (see chap. v. 13). Third. Men know not what is or is not truly advantageous to them, because they are either ignorant or unmindful of that which must come to pass after they are dead (see chap. xvi. 12). Therefore any one may conclude that there must be a state of true solid happiness for men out of this world, except He who is allowed to have made them what they are, to have implanted in their hearts that strong desire of happiness which often makes them miserable in this world, and to have the absolute command of their faith, be absurdly supposed to have acted whimsically in their formation, and to act so still in the dispensation of Providence."—See Desvoeux's Philosophical and Critical Essay on Ecclesiastes.

7 I got me servants and maidens, and had ‡ servants born in my house; also I had great possessions of great and small cattle above all that were in Jerusalem before me:

e 1 Kin. 9. 28. & 10. 10, 14, 21, &c.

8 [e] I gathered me also silver and gold, and the peculiar treasure of kings and of the provinces: I gat me men singers and women singers, and the delights of the sons of men, as § musical instruments, and that of all sorts.

§ Heb. musical instrument and instruments

9 So [f] I was great, and increased more than all that were before me in Jerusalem: also my wisdom remained with me.

f ch. 1. 16

10 And whatsoever mine eyes desired I kept not from them, I withheld not my heart from any joy; for my heart rejoiced in all my labour: and [g] this was my portion of all my labour.

B. C. cir 977.

g ch. 3. 22 & 5. 18. & 9. 9

11 Then I looked on all the works that my hands had wrought, and on the labour that I had laboured to do: and, behold, all was [h] vanity and vexation of spirit, and there was no profit under the sun.

h ch. 1. 3, 14.

12 ¶ And I turned myself to behold wisdom, [i] and madness, and folly: for what can the man do that cometh after the king? ‖even that which hath been already done.

i ch. 1. 17. & 7. 25.

‖ Or, in the things ch. 5. here been already done.

13 Then I saw • that wisdom excelleth folly, as far as light excelleth darkness.

• Heb. that there is an excellency in wisdom more than in folly, &c.

14 [k] The wise man's eyes are in his head; but the fool walketh in darkness: and I myself perceived also that [l] one event happeneth to them all.

k Prov. 17. 24. ch. 8. 1. Dan. 4. 9, 10. ch. 9. 2, 3, 11

l Job 9. 22.

15 Then said I in my heart, As it happeneth to the fool, so it † happeneth even to me; and why was I then more wise? Then I said in my heart, that this also is vanity.

† Heb. happeneth to me, even to me.

16 For there is no remembrance of the wise more than of the fool for ever; seeing that which now is in the days to come shall all be forgotten. And how dieth the wise man? as the fool.

17 Therefore I hated life; because the work that is wrought under the sun is grievous unto me: for all is vanity and vexation of spirit.

18 ¶ Yea, I hated all my labour which I had ‡ taken under the sun: because [m] I should leave it unto the man that shall be after me.

m Ps. 49. 10

19 And who knoweth whether he shall be a wise man or a fool? yet shall he have rule over all my labour wherein I have laboured, and wherein I have shewed myself wise under the sun. This is also vanity.

20 Therefore I went about to cause my heart to despair of all the labour which I took under the sun.

21 For there is a man whose labour is in wisdom, and in knowledge, and in equity; yet to a man that hath not laboured therein shall he § leave it for his portion. This also is vanity and a great evil.

§ Heb. give.

22 [n] For what hath man of all his labour, and of the vexation of his heart, wherein he hath laboured under the sun?

n ch. 1. 3. & 3. 9.

23 For all his days are • sorrow, and his travail grief; yea, his heart taketh not rest in the night. This is also vanity.

• Job 5. 7 & 14. 1

‖ Or, cause his soul.

25 For who can eat, or who else can hasten hereunto more than I?

26 For God giveth to a man that is good • in his sight wisdom, and knowledge, and joy: but to the sinner he giveth travail, to gather and to heap up, that [q] he may give to him that is good before God. This also is vanity and vexation of spirit.

CHAP. III.

1 By the necessary change of times, vanity is added to Human travail. 11 There is an excellency in God's works. 18 That as for man, God shall judge his works there, and here he shall be like a beast.

B. C. cir. 977

TO every thing there is a season, and a [a] time to every purpose under the heaven:

2 A time [*] to be born, and [b] a time to die; a time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted;

3 A time to kill, and a time to heal; a time to break down, and a time to build up;

4 A time to weep, and a time to laugh; a time to mourn, and a time to dance;

5 A time to cast away stones, and a time to gather stones together; a time to embrace, and [c] a time † to refrain from embracing;

6 A time to ‡ get, and a time to lose; a time to keep, and a time to cast away;

7 A time to rend, and a time to sew; [d] a time to keep silence, and a time to speak;

8 A time to love, and a time to [e] hate; a time of war, and a time of peace.

9 [f] What profit hath he that worketh in that wherein he laboureth?

10 [g] I have seen the travail, which God hath given to the sons of men to be exercised in it.

11 He hath made every thing beautiful in his time: also he hath set the world in their heart, so that [h] no man can find out the work that God maketh from the beginning to the end.

12 [i] I know that there is no good in them, but for a man to rejoice, and to do good in his life.

13 And also [k] that every man should eat and drink, and enjoy the good of all his labour, it is the gift of God.

14 I know that, whatsoever God doeth, it shall be for ever: [l] nothing can be put to it, nor any thing taken from it: and God doeth it, that men should fear before him.

15 [m] That which hath been is now; and that which is to be hath already been; and God requireth § that which is past.

16 ¶ And moreover [n] I saw under the sun the place of judgment, that wickedness was there; and the place of righteousness, that iniquity was there.

17 I said in mine heart, [o] God shall judge the righteous and the wicked: for there is [p] a time there for every purpose and for every work.

18 I said in mine heart concerning the estate of the sons of men, ‖ that God might manifest them, and that they might see that they themselves are beasts.

19 [q] For that which befalleth the sons of men befalleth beasts; even one thing befalleth them: as the one dieth, so dieth the other; yea, they have all one breath; so that a man hath no pre-eminence above a beast: for all is vanity.

20 All go unto one place; [r] all are of the dust, and all turn to dust again.

21 [s] Who knoweth the spirit * of man that † goeth upward, and the spirit of the beast that goeth downward to the earth?

22 [t] Wherefore I perceive that there is nothing better, than that a man should rejoice in his own works; for [u] that is his portion: [x] for who shall bring him to see what shall be after him?

CHAP. IV.

1 Vanity is increased unto men by oppression, 4 by envy, 5 by idleness, 7 by covetousness, 9 by solitariness, 13 by wilfulness.

SO I returned, and considered all the [a] oppressions that are done under the sun: and behold the tears of such as were oppressed, and they had no comforter; and on the * side of their oppressors there was power; but they had no comforter.

2 [b] Wherefore I praised the dead which are already dead more than the living which are yet alive.

3 [c] Yea, better is he than both they, which hath not yet been, who hath not seen the evil work that is done under the sun.

4 ¶ Again, I considered all travail, and † every right work, that ‡ for this a man is envied of his neighbour. This is also vanity and vexation of spirit.

5 [d] The fool foldeth his hands together, and eateth his own flesh.

6 [e] Better is an handful with quietness, than both the hands full with travail and vexation of spirit.

7 ¶ Then I returned, and I saw vanity under the sun.

8 There is one alone, and there is not a second; yea, he hath neither child nor brother: yet is there no end of all his labour; neither is his [f] eye satisfied with riches; [g] neither saith he, For whom do I labour, and bereave my soul of good? This is also vanity, yea, it is a sore travail.

9 ¶ Two are better than one; because they have a good reward for their labour.

10 For if they fall, the one will lift up his fellow: but woe to him that is alone when he falleth; for he hath not another to help him up.

11 Again, if two lie together, then they have heat: but how can one be warm alone?

12 And if one prevail against him, two shall withstand him; and a threefold cord is not quickly broken.

13 ¶ Better is a poor and a wise child than an old and foolish king, § who will no more be admonished.

14 For out of prison he cometh to reign whereas also he that is born in his kingdom becometh poor.

15 I considered all the living which walk under the sun, with the second child that shall stand up in his stead.

16 There is no end of all the people, even of all that have been before them: they also that come after shall not rejoice in him. Surely this also is vanity and vexation of spirit.

[a] THERE is an evil which I have seen under the sun, and it is common among men:

2 A man to whom God hath given riches, wealth, and honour, [b] so that he wanteth nothing for his soul of all that he desireth, [c] yet God giveth him not power to eat thereof, but a stranger eateth it: this is vanity, and it is an evil disease.

8 Better is the end of a thing than the beginning thereof: and [f] the patient in spirit is better than the proud in spirit.

9 [g] Be not hasty in thy spirit to be angry: for anger resteth in the bosom of fools.

10 Say not thou, What is the cause that the former days were better than these? for thou dost not enquire ‡ wisely concerning this.

11 ¶ Wisdom § is good with an inheritance: and by it there is profit [h] to them that see the sun.

12 For wisdom is a ‖ defence, and money is a defence: but the excellency of knowledge is, that wisdom giveth life to them that have it.

13 Consider the work of God: for [i] who can make that straight, which he hath made crooked?

14 [k] In the day of prosperity be joyful, but in the day of adversity consider: God also hath * set the one over against the other, to the end that man should find nothing after him.

15 All things have I seen in the days of my vanity: [l] there is a just man that perisheth in his righteousness, and there is a wicked man that prolongeth his life in his wickedness.

16 [m] Be not righteous over much; [n] neither make thyself over wise: why shouldest thou † destroy thyself?

17 Be not over much wicked, neither be thou foolish: [o] why shouldest thou die ‡ before thy time?

18 It is good that thou shouldest take hold of this; yea, also from this withdraw not thine hand: for he that feareth God shall come forth of them all.

19 [p] Wisdom strengtheneth the wise more than ten mighty men which are in the city.

20 [q] For there is not a just man upon earth, that doeth good, and sinneth not.

21 Also § take no heed unto all words that are spoken; lest thou hear thy servant curse thee:

22 For oftentimes also thine own heart knoweth that thou thyself likewise hast cursed others.

23 ¶ All this have I proved by wisdom: [r] I said, I will be wise; but it was far from me.

24 [s] That which is far off, and [t] exceeding deep, who can find it out?

25 ‖ [u] I applied mine heart to know, and to search, and to seek out wisdom, and the reason of things, and to know the wickedness of folly, even of foolishness and madness:

26 [x] And I find more bitter than death the woman, whose heart is snares and nets, and her hands as bands: * whoso pleaseth God shall escape from her; but the sinner shall be taken by her.

27 Behold, this have I found, saith [y] the preacher, †counting one by one, to find out the account:

28 Which yet my soul seeketh, but I find not: [z] one man among a thousand have I found; but a woman among all those have I not found.

29 Lo, this only have I found, [a] that God hath made man upright; but [b] they have sought out many inventions.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Kings are greatly to be respected. 6 The divine providence is to be observed. 12 It is better with the godly in adversity, than with the wicked in prosperity. 16 The work of God is unsearchable.

WHO is as the wise man? and who knoweth the interpretation of a thing? [a] a man's wisdom maketh his face to shine, and * [b] the boldness of his face shall be changed.

2 I counsel thee to keep the king's commandment, [c] and that in regard of the oath of God.

3 [d] Be not hasty to go out of his sight: stand not in an evil thing; for he doeth whatsoever pleaseth him.

4 Where the word of a king is, there is power: and [e] who may say unto him, What doest thou?

5 Whoso keepeth the commandment † shall feel no evil thing: and a wise man's heart discerneth both time and judgment.

6 ¶ Because [f] to every purpose there is time and judgment, therefore the misery of man is great upon him.

7 [g] For he knoweth not that which shall be: for who can tell him ‡ when it shall be?

8 [h] There is no man that hath power [i] over the spirit to retain the spirit; neither hath he power in the day of death: and there is no § discharge in that war; neither shall wickedness deliver those that are given to it.

9 All this have I seen, and applied my heart unto every work that is done under the sun: there is a time wherein one man ruleth over another to his own hurt.

10 And so I saw the wicked buried, who had come and gone from the place of the holy, and they were forgotten in the city where they had so done: this is also vanity.

11 [k] Because sentence against an evil work is not executed speedily, therefore the heart of the sons of men is fully set in them to do evil.

12 ¶ [l] Though a sinner do evil an hundred times, and his days be prolonged, yet surely I know that [m] it shall be well with them that fear God, which fear before him:

13 But it shall not be well with the wicked, neither shall he prolong his days, which are as a shadow; because he feareth not before God.

14 There is a vanity which is done upon the earth; that there be just men, unto whom it [n] happeneth according to the work of the wicked; again, there be wicked men, to whom it happeneth according to the work of the righteous: I said that this also is vanity.

15 [o] Then I commended mirth, because a man hath no better thing under the sun, than to eat, and to drink, and to be merry: for that shall abide with him of his labour the days of his life, which God giveth him under the sun.

16 ¶ When I applied mine heart to know wisdom, and to see the business that is done upon the earth: (for also there is that neither day nor night seeth sleep with his eyes:)

17 Then I beheld all the work of God, that [p] a man cannot find out the work that is

B. C. cir. 977. done under the sun: because though a man labour to seek it out, yet he shall not find it; yea farther; though a wise man think to know it, [q] yet shall he not be able to find it.

[q] Ps. 73. 16.

CHAP. IX.

1 Like things happen to good and bad. 4 There is a necessity of death unto men. 7 Comfort is all their portion in this life. 11 God's providence ruleth over all. 13 Wisdom is better than strength.

FOR all this [a]I considered in my heart even to declare all this, [b]that the righteous, and the wise, and their works, are in the hand of God: no man knoweth either love or hatred by all that is before them.

[a] Heb. I gave, or, set to my heart.
[b] ch. 8. 14.

[b] Job 21. 7, &c. Ps. 73. 3, 12, 13. Mal. 3. 15.

2 [b]All things come alike to all: there is one event to the righteous, and to the wicked; to the good and to the clean, and to the unclean; to him that sacrificeth, and to him that sacrificeth not: as is the good, so is the sinner; and he that sweareth, as he that feareth an oath.

3 This is an evil among all things that are done under the sun, that there is one event unto all: yea, also the heart of the sons of men is full of evil, and madness is in their heart while they live, and after that they go to the dead.

4 ¶ For to him that is joined to all the living there is hope: for a living dog is better than a dead lion.

5 For the living know that they shall die: but [c]the dead know not any thing, neither have they any more a reward; for [d]the memory of them is forgotten.

[c] Job 14. 21. Isa. 63. 16.
[d] Job 7. 8, 9, 10. Isa. 26. 14.

6 Also their love, and their hatred, and their envy, is now perished; neither have they any more a portion for ever in any thing that is done under the sun.

[e] ch. 8. 15.

7 ¶ Go thy way, [e]eat thy bread with joy, and drink thy wine with a merry heart; for God now accepteth thy works.

8 Let thy garments be always white; and let thy head lack no ointment.

† Heb. See, or, enjoy life.

9 †Live joyfully with the wife whom thou lovest all the days of the life of thy vanity, which he hath given thee under the sun, all the days of thy vanity: [f]for that is thy portion in this life, and in thy labour which thou takest under the sun.

[f] ch. 2. 10, 24. & 3. 13, 22. & 5. 18.

10 Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might; for there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom, in the grave, whither thou goest.

[g] Amos 2. 14, 15. Jer. 9. 23.

11 ¶ I returned, [g]and saw under the sun, that the race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, neither yet bread to the wise, nor yet riches to men of understanding, nor yet favour to men of skill; but time and chance happeneth to them all.

[h] ch. 8. 7.

12 For [h]man also knoweth not his time: as the fishes that are taken in an evil net, and as the birds that are caught in the snare; so are the sons of men [i]snared in an evil time, when it falleth suddenly upon them.

[i] Prov. 29. 6. Luke 12. 20, 39. & 17. 26, &c. 1 Thess. 5. 3.

13 ¶ This wisdom have I seen also under the sun, and it seemed great unto me:

[k] See 2 Sam. 20. 16—22.

14 [k]There was a little city, and few men within it; and there came a great king against it, and besieged it, and built great bulwarks against it:

15 Now there was found in it a poor wise man, and he by his wisdom delivered the city; yet no man remembered that same poor man.

B. C. cir. 977.

16 [l]Then said I, Wisdom is better than strength: nevertheless [m]the poor man's wisdom is despised, and his words are not heard.

[l] Prov. 21. 22 & 24. 5, ch. 7. 19, ver. 18.
[m] Mark 6. 2, 3.

17 The words of wise men are heard in quiet more than the cry of him that ruleth among fools.

18 [n]Wisdom is better than weapons of war: but [o]one sinner destroyeth much good.

[n] ver. 16.
[o] Josh. 7. 1, 11, 12.

CHAP. X.

1 Observations of wisdom and folly: 16 of riot, 18 slothfulness, 19 and money. 20 Men's thoughts of kings ought to be reverent.

DEAD *[a] flies cause the ointment of the apothecary to send forth a stinking savour: so doth a little folly him that is in reputation for wisdom and honour.

[a] Heb. Flies of death

2 A wise man's heart is at his right hand; but a fool's heart at his left.

3 Yea also, when he that is a fool walketh by the way, †his wisdom faileth him, [a]and he saith to every one that he is a fool.

† Heb. he lacketh heart.

9 Whoso removeth stones shall be hurt therewith; and he that cleaveth wood shall be endangered thereby.

11 Surely the serpent will bite [g]without enchantment; and a ‖ babbler is no better.

[k] Heb. grace.
[l] Prov. 10. 14. & 18. 7.

13 The beginning of the words of his mouth is foolishness: and the end of †his talk is mischievous madness.

† Heb. his mouth.

14 [k]A fool also ‡is full of words: a man cannot tell what shall be; and [l]what shall be after him, who can tell him?

[k] Prov. 15. 2.
‡ Heb. multiplieth words.
[l] ch. 3. 22 & 6. 12 & 8. 7.

15 The labour of the foolish wearieth every one of them, because he knoweth not how to go to the city.

16 ¶ [m]Woe to thee, O land, when thy king is a child, and thy princes eat in the morning!

[m] Isa. 3. 4, 5, 12. & 5. 11.

17 Blessed art thou, O land, when thy king is the son of nobles, and [n]thy princes eat in due season, for strength, and not for drunkenness!

[n] Prov. 31. 4.

18 ¶ By much slothfulness the building decayeth; and through idleness of the hands the house droppeth through.

CHAP. XI.

1 Directions for charity. 7 Death in life, 9 and the day of judgment in the days of youth, are to be thought on.

CAST thy bread [a] upon the waters: [b] for thou shalt find it after many days.

2 [c] Give a portion [d] to seven, and also to eight; [e] for thou knowest not what evil shall be upon the earth.

3 If the clouds be full of rain, they empty themselves upon the earth: and if the tree fall toward the south, or toward the north, in the place where the tree falleth, there it shall be.

4 He that observeth the wind shall not sow; and he that regardeth the clouds shall not reap.

5 As [f] thou knowest not what is the way of the spirit, [g] nor how the bones do grow in the womb of her that is with child: even so thou knowest not the works of God who maketh all.

6 In the morning sow thy seed, and in the evening withhold not thine hand: for thou knowest not whether † shall prosper, either this or that, or whether they both shall be alike good.

7 ¶ Truly the light is sweet, and a pleasant thing it is for the eyes [h] to behold the sun:

8 But if a man live many years, and rejoice in them all; yet let him remember the days of darkness; for they shall be many. All that cometh is vanity.

9 ¶ Rejoice, O young man, in thy youth; and let thy heart cheer thee in the days of thy youth, [i] and walk in the ways of thine heart, and in the sight of thine eyes: but know thou, that for all these things [k] God will bring thee into judgment.

10 Therefore remove ‡ sorrow from thy heart, and [l] put away evil from thy flesh: [m] for childhood and youth are vanity.

CHAP. XII.

1 The Creator is to be remembered in due time. 8 The preacher's care to edify. 13 The fear of God is the chief antidote of vanity.

REMEMBER [a] now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, while the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh, [b] when thou shalt say, I have no pleasure in them;

2 While the sun, or the light, or the moon, or the stars, be not darkened, nor the clouds return after the rain:

3 In the day when the keepers of the house shall tremble, and the strong men shall bow themselves, and * the grinders cease because they are few, and those that look out of the windows be darkened,

4 And the doors shall be shut in the streets, when the sound of the grinding is low, and he shall rise up at the voice of the bird, and all [c] the daughters of musick shall be brought low;

5 Also when they shall be afraid of that which is high, and fears shall be in the way, and the almond tree shall flourish, and the grasshopper shall be a burden, and desire shall fail: because man goeth to [d] his long home, and [e] the mourners go about the streets:

6 Or ever the silver cord be loosed, or the golden bowl be broken, or the pitcher be broken at the fountain, or the wheel broken at the cistern.

7 [f] Then shall the dust return to the earth as it was: [g] and the spirit shall return unto God [h] who gave it.

8 ¶ [i] Vanity of vanities, saith the preacher; all is vanity.

9 And † moreover, because the preacher was wise, he still taught the people knowledge; yea, he gave good heed, and sought out, and [k] set in order many proverbs.

10 The preacher sought to find out ‡ acceptable words: and that which was written was upright, even words of truth.

11 The words of the wise are as goads and as nails fastened by the masters of assemblies, which are given from one shepherd.

12 And further, by these, my son, be admonished: of making many books there is no end; and [l] much § study is a weariness of the flesh.

13 ¶ ‖ Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter: [m] Fear God, and keep his commandments: for this is the whole duty of man.

14 For [n] God shall bring every work into judgment, with every secret thing, whether it be good, or whether it be evil.

The SONG of SOLOMON.

B. C. written cir. 1014.

CHAP. I.

The church's love unto Christ. 5 She confesseth her deformity, 7 and prayeth to be directed to his flock. 8 Christ directeth her to the shepherds' tents: 9 and shewing his love to her, 11 giveth her gracious promises. 12 The church and Christ congratulate one another.

a 1 Kin. 4. 32.

THE [a] song of songs, which is Solomon's.

2 Let him kiss me with the kisses of his mouth: [b] for [*] thy love is better than wine.

b ch. 4. 10.
* Heb. thy loves.

3 Because of the savour of thy good ointments thy name is as ointment poured forth, therefore do the virgins love thee.

4 [c] Draw me, [d] we will run after thee: the king [e] hath brought me into his chambers: we will be glad and rejoice in thee, we will remember thy love more than wine: † the upright love thee.

c Hosea 11. 4. John 6. 44. & 12. 32.
d Phil. 3. 12, 13, 14.
e Ps. 45. 14, 15. John 14. 2. Ephes. 2. 6.
† Or, they love thee uprightly.

5 I am black, but comely, O ye daughters of Jerusalem, as the tents of Kedar, as the curtains of Solomon.

6 Look not upon me, because I am black, because the sun hath looked upon me: my mother's children were angry with me; they made me keeper of the vineyards; but mine own vineyard have I not kept.

7 Tell me, O thou whom my soul loveth, where thou feedest, where thou makest thy flock to rest at noon: for why should I be ‡ as one that turneth aside by the flocks of thy companions?

‡ Or, as one that is veiled.

8 ¶ If thou know not, [f] O thou fairest among women, go thy way forth by the footsteps of the flock, and feed thy kids beside the shepherds' tents.

f ch. 5. 9. & 6. 1.

9 I have compared thee, [g] O my love, [h] to a company of horses in Pharaoh's chariots.

g ch. 2. 2, 10. 14. & 4. 1, 7. & 5. 2. & 6. 4. John 15. 14, 15. & 2 Chron. 1. 16, 17.

10 [i] Thy cheeks are comely with rows of jewels, thy neck with chains of gold.

11 We will make thee borders of gold with studs of silver.

12 ¶ While the king sitteth at his table, my spikenard sendeth forth the smell thereof.

13 A bundle of myrrh is my wellbeloved unto me; he shall lie all night betwixt my breasts.

14 My beloved is unto me as a cluster of § camphire in the vineyards of En-gedi.

§ Or, cypress. ch. 1. 13.
i ch. 4. 1. & 5. 12.

15 [k] Behold, thou art fair, ‖ my love; behold, thou art fair; thou hast doves' eyes.

‖ Or, my companion.

16 Behold, thou art fair, my beloved, yea, pleasant: also our bed is green.

7 ‖ [c] I charge you, O ye daughters of Jerusalem, by the roes, and by the hinds of the field, that ye stir not up, nor awake my love, till he please.

‖ Heb. I adjure you.
c ch. 3. 5. & 8. 4.

8 ¶ The voice of my beloved! behold, he cometh leaping upon the mountains, skipping upon the hills.

9 [d] My beloved is like a roe or a young hart: behold, he standeth behind our wall, he looketh forth at the windows, [*] shewing himself through the lattice.

d ver. 17.
* Heb. flourishing.

10 My beloved spake, and said unto me, [*] Rise up, my love, my fair one, and come away.

* ver. 13.

11 For, lo, the winter is past, the rain is over and gone;

12 The flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing of birds is come, and the voice of the turtle is heard in our land;

13 The fig tree putteth forth her green figs, and the vines with the tender grape give a good smell. [f] Arise, my love, my fair one, and come away.

f ver. 10.

14 ¶ O my dove, that art in the clefts of the rock, in the secret places of the stairs, let me see thy countenance, [g] let me hear thy voice; for sweet is thy voice, and thy countenance is comely.

g ch. 8. 13

15 Take us [h] the foxes, the little foxes, that spoil the vines: for our vines have tender grapes.

h Ps. 80. 13. Ezek. 13. 4. Luke 13. 32

16 ¶ [i] My beloved is mine, and I am his: he feedeth among the lilies.

CHAP. III.

1 The church's fight and victory in temptation. 6 The church glorieth in Christ.

BY [a] night on my bed I sought him whom my soul loveth: I sought him, but I found him not.

a Isa. 26. 9

2 I will rise now, and go about the city in the streets, and in the broad ways I will seek him whom my soul loveth: I sought him, but I found him not.

3 [b] The watchmen that go about the city found me: to whom I said, Saw ye him whom my soul loveth?

b ch. 5. 7.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON.—"It is supposed that Solomon composed this book on the occasion of his marriage with the king of Egypt's daughter; but, according to most commentators, it is a continued allegory, wherein a divine and spiritual marriage, between the Redeemer and his Church, is expressed.

"Seven nights and seven days are distinctly marked in this song, because weddings among the Hebrews were celebrated seven days, and it relates, poetically, the transactions of these seven days. The Hebrews, apprehending it might be understood grossly, forbade the reading of it by any person before the age of thirty.

"The Church, as well as the synagogue, received this book generally as canonical. If it be objected that neither Christ nor his Apostles have cited it, and that the name of God is not found in it, we answer that there are several other sacred books which our Saviour has not quoted; and that in an allegory, wherein the Son of God is concealed under the figure of a husband, it is not necessary that he should be expressed by his proper name; it would then cease to be an allegory."—Calmet.

17 Learn to do well; e seek judgment,

THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET ISAIAH.—"Isaiah prophesied above sixty years, computing from the year in which Uzziah died, when he was solemnly called to the prophetical office (Isaiah vi. 1.) to the end of Hezekiah's reign; whom he is said to have outlived, and to have been put to death by Manasses, his body being sawn in the middle at the command of that wicked king, as the Jewish tradition informs us, to which cruel death the Apostle to the Hebrews is thought to allude (chap. xl. 37).

"St. Jerome, in his preface to Isaiah, tells us that he was of noble birth, and he is said to have lived at court, and that his daughter was married to king Manasses. His style answers his birth and education, and is lofty and elegant; his metaphors and illustrations are noble and suitable to the dignity of the subjects he treats of; and he hath this pre-eminence above all the prophets, that he foretells the coming and times of the Messiah more clearly and frequently than any of them. Accordingly he is often cited in the writings of the New Testament, and hath obtained the character of the Evangelical Prophet in succeeding ages. To this sense the ancient Jews expounded his prophecy, as appears from the character which the son of Sirach gives of him (Ecclus. xlviii. 24, 25), 'He saw by an excellent spirit what should come to pass at the last,' the last, or latter times, an expression signifying the days of the Messias in the Old Testament; and, 'he comforteth those then known in Sion; he showed what would come to pass for ever.'

"Besides this prophecy, Isaiah wrote the history of Uzziah's reign, mentioned 2 Chron. xxvi. 22.

"We may distinguish this prophecy into several parts or sections; the first of which reaches from the beginning of the book to the end of the fifth chapter. The second, from thence to the end of the twelfth. The third is continued to the end of the twenty-seventh. The fourth to the end of the thirty-fifth. Then follows an account of Sennacherib's invasion, and Hezekiah's sickness, which happened at the same time, chap. 36, 37, and 38 (that history being a key to explain several passages in the foregoing prophecies), with a brief prediction of the Jewish captivity, chap. 39, from whence the prophet proceeds to foretell the return from captivity, and thence takes occasion to set forth the several advances of Christ's kingdom in after times. This seems to be the only subject of a great part of the following prophecies, especially from the sixteenth verse of the fifty-ninth chapter, to the end of the book."—Wm. Lowth, Prebendary of Winchester.

N.B. As it will require more space than can be allotted, to give any thing like the quantity of notes necessary to explain the numerous dark passages of the prophecies, I must content myself with giving a brief abstract of each chapter.

CHAP. I. Ver. 1. The vision, &c.—The prophecy contained in this chapter forms one complete subject. The prophet remonstrates in severe terms against the prevailing vices of the Jews of his time, threatens the impenitent with punishment, and promises future blessings upon their reformation.

B. C. 760. * relieve the oppressed, judge the fatherless, plead for the widow.

18 Come now, and [f] let us reason together, saith the LORD: though your sins be as scarlet, [g] they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool.

19 If ye be willing and obedient, ye shall eat the good of the land:

20 But if ye refuse and rebel, ye shall be devoured with the sword: [h] for the mouth of the LORD hath spoken it.

21 ¶ [i] How is the faithful city become an harlot! it was full of judgment; righteousness lodged in it; but now murderers.

22 [k] Thy silver is become dross, thy wine mixed with water:

23 [l] Thy princes are rebellious, and [m] companions of thieves: [n] every one loveth gifts, and followeth after rewards: they [o] judge not the fatherless, neither doth the cause of the widow come unto them.

24 Therefore saith the Lord, the LORD of hosts, the mighty One of Israel, Ah, [p] I will ease me of mine adversaries, and avenge me of mine enemies:

25 ¶ And I will turn my hand upon thee, and † [q] purely purge away thy dross, and take away all thy tin:

26 And I will restore thy judges [r] as at the first, and thy counsellors as at the beginning: afterward [s] thou shalt be called, The city of righteousness, the faithful city.

27 Zion shall be redeemed with judgment, and ‡ her converts with righteousness.

28 ¶ And the [t] § destruction of the transgressors and of the sinners shall be together, and they that forsake the LORD shall be consumed.

29 For they shall be ashamed of [u] the oaks which ye have desired, [x] and ye shall be confounded for the gardens that ye have chosen.

30 For ye shall be as an oak whose leaf fadeth, and as a garden that hath no water.

31 [y] And the strong shall be [z] as tow, ‖ and the maker of it as a spark, and they shall both burn together, and none shall quench them.

CHAP. II.

1 Isaiah prophesieth the coming of Christ's kingdom. 6 Wickedness is the cause of God's forsaking. 10 He exhorteth to fear, because of the powerful effects of God's majesty.

THE word that Isaiah the son of Amoz saw concerning Judah and Jerusalem.

2 And [a] it shall come to pass [b] in the last days, [c] that the mountain of the LORD's house shall [*] be established in the top of the mountains, and shall be exalted above the hills; [d] and all nations shall flow unto it.

3 And many people shall go and say, [e] Come ye, and let us go up to the mountain of the LORD, to the house of the God of Jacob; and he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths: [f] for out of Zion shall go forth the law, and the word of the LORD from Jerusalem.

4 And he shall judge among the nations, and shall rebuke many people: and [g] they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into † pruninghooks: nation shall not lift up sword against nation, [h] neither shall they learn war any more.

5 O house of Jacob, come ye, and let us [i] walk in the light of the LORD.

6 ¶ Therefore thou hast forsaken thy people the house of Jacob, because they be replenished ‡ [k] from the east, and [l] are soothsayers like the Philistines, [m] and they § please themselves in the children of strangers.

7 [n] Their land also is full of silver and gold, neither is there any end of their treasures; their land is also full of horses, neither is there any end of their chariots:

8 [o] Their land also is full of idols; they worship the work of their own hands, that which their own fingers have made:

9 And the mean man boweth down, and the great man humbleth himself: therefore forgive them not.

10 ¶ [p] Enter into the rock, and hide thee in the dust, for fear of the LORD, and for the glory of his majesty.

11 The [q] lofty looks of man shall be humbled, and the haughtiness of men shall be bowed down, and the LORD alone shall be exalted [r] in that day.

12 For the day of the LORD of hosts shall be upon every one that is proud and lofty, and upon every one that is lifted up; and he shall be brought low:

13 And upon all [s] the cedars of Lebanon, that are high and lifted up, and upon all the oaks of Bashan,

14 And [t] upon all the high mountains, and upon all the hills that are lifted up,

15 And upon every high tower, and upon every fenced wall,

16 [u] And upon all the ships of Tarshish, and upon all ‖ pleasant pictures.

17 [x] And the loftiness of man shall be bowed down, and the haughtiness of men shall be made low: and the LORD alone shall be exalted [y] in that day.

18 And [*] the idols he shall utterly abolish.

19 And they shall go into the [z] holes of the rocks, and into the caves of † the earth, [a] for fear of the LORD, and for the glory of his majesty, when he ariseth [b] to shake terribly the earth.

20 [c] In that day a man shall cast ‡ his idols of silver, and his idols of gold, § which they made each one for himself to worship, to the moles and to the bats;

21 [d] To go into the clefts of the rocks, and into the tops of the ragged rocks, [e] for fear of the LORD, and for the glory of his majesty, when he ariseth to shake terribly the earth.

22 [f] Cease ye from man, whose [g] breath is in his nostrils: for wherein is he to be accounted of?

CHAP. III.

1 The great confusion which cometh by sin. 9 The impudency of the people. 12 The oppression and covetousness of the rulers. 16 The judgments which shall be for the pride of the women.

FOR, behold, the Lord, the LORD of hosts, [*] doth take away from Jerusalem and from Judah [b] the stay and the staff,

CHAP. II. Ver. 1. The word that Isaiah, &c.—This and the two subsequent chapters form one series of consecutive predictions, delivered at the same time. The former part of this chapter foretells the advent of the Messiah in the flesh; the latter his advent to judgment. These two advents are frequently mooted by the prophets, probably because the subversion of the Jewish polity, which is supposed to be typical of the general dissolution of the Universe, almost immediately followed the promulgation of the gospel.

CHAP. III. Ver. 1. For, behold the Lord, &c.—The calamities to befall the Jews during the decline of their government, in consequence of their idolatries and other evil practices, are here predicted, and to end in the captivity

2 [c] The mighty man, and the man of war, the judge, and the prophet, and the prudent, and the ancient,

3 The captain of fifty, and [*] the honourable man, and the counsellor, and the cunning artificer, and the [†] eloquent orator.

4 And I will give [d] children to be their princes, and babes shall rule over them.

5 And the people shall be oppressed, every one by another, and every one by his neighbour: the child shall behave himself proudly against the ancient, and the base against the honourable.

6 When a man shall take hold of his brother of the house of his father, saying, Thou hast clothing, be thou our ruler, and let this ruin be under thy hand:

7 In that day shall he [‡] swear, saying, I will not be an [§] healer; for in my house is neither bread nor clothing: make me not a ruler of the people.

8 For [e] Jerusalem is ruined, and Judah is fallen: because their tongue and their doings are against the LORD, to provoke the eyes of his glory.

9 ¶ The shew of their countenance doth witness against them; and they declare their sin as [f] Sodom, they hide it not. Woe unto their soul! for they have rewarded evil unto themselves.

10 Say ye to the righteous, [g] that it shall be well with him: [h] for they shall eat the fruit of their doings.

11 Woe unto the wicked! [i] it shall be ill with him: for the reward of his hands shall be [‖] given him.

12 ¶ As for my people, [k] children are their oppressors, and women rule over them. O my people, [l] [*] they which lead thee cause thee to err, and [†] destroy the way of thy paths.

13 The LORD standeth up [m] to plead, and standeth to judge the people.

14 The LORD will enter into judgment with the ancients of his people, and the princes thereof: for ye have [‡] eaten up [n] the vineyard; the spoil of the poor is in your houses.

15 What mean ye that ye [o] beat my people to pieces, and grind the faces of the poor? saith the Lord GOD of hosts.

16 ¶ Moreover the LORD saith, Because the daughters of Zion are haughty, and walk with stretched forth necks and [§] wanton eyes, walking and [‖] mincing as they go, and making a tinkling with their feet:

17 Therefore the LORD will smite with [p] a scab the crown of the head of the daughters of Zion, and the LORD will [*] [q] discover their secret parts.

18 In that day the LORD will take away he bravery of their tinkling ornaments about their feet, and their [†] cauls, and their [r] round tires like the moon,

19 The [‡] chains, and the bracelets, and the [§] mufflers,

20 The bonnets, and the ornaments of the legs, and the headbands, and the [‖] tablets, and the earrings,

21 The rings, and nose jewels,

22 The changeable suits of apparel, and the mantles, and the wimples, and the crisping pins,

23 The glasses, and the fine linen, and the hoods, and the vails.

24 And it shall come to pass, that instead of sweet smell there shall be stink; and instead of a girdle a rent; and instead of well set hair [s] baldness; and instead of a stomacher a girding of sackcloth; and burning instead of beauty.

25 Thy men shall fall by the sword, and thy [*] mighty in the war.

26 [t] And her gates shall lament and mourn; and she being [†] [‡] desolate [u] shall sit upon the ground.

CHAP. IV.

1 In the extremity of evils, Christ's kingdom shall be a sanctuary.

AND [a] in that day seven women shall take hold of one man, saying, We will [b] eat our own bread, and wear our own apparel: only [*] let us be called by thy name, [†] to take away [c] our reproach.

2 In that day shall [d] the branch of the LORD be [‡] beautiful and glorious, and the fruit of the earth shall be excellent and comely [§] for them that are escaped of Israel.

3 And it shall come to pass, that he that is left in Zion, and he that remaineth in Jerusalem, [e] shall be called holy, even every one that is [f] written [‖] among the living in Jerusalem:

4 When [g] the LORD shall have washed away the filth of the daughters of Zion, and shall have purged the blood of Jerusalem from the midst thereof by the spirit of judgment, and by the spirit of burning.

5 And the LORD will create upon every dwelling place of mount Zion, and upon her assemblies, [h] a cloud and smoke by day, and [i] the shining of a flaming fire by night: for [*] upon all the glory shall be [†] a defence.

6 And there shall be a tabernacle for a shadow in the daytime from the heat, and [k] for a place of refuge, and for a covert from storm and from rain.

CHAP. V.

1 Under the parable of a vineyard God excuseth his severe judgments. 8 His judgments upon covetousness, 11 upon licentiousness, 13 upon impiety, 20 and upon injustice. 26 The executioners of God's judgments.

NOW will I sing to my wellbeloved a song of my beloved touching [] his vineyard. My wellbeloved hath a vineyard in [] a very fruitful hill:

2 And he [†] fenced it, and gathered out the stones thereof, and planted it with the choicest vine, and built a tower in the midst of it, and also [‡] made a winepress therein: [b] and he looked that it should bring forth grapes, and it brought forth wild grapes.

3 And now, O inhabitants of Jerusalem, and men of Judah, [c] judge, I pray you, betwixt me and my vineyard.

CHAP. VI. Ver. 1. In the year, &c.—The vision here described is a mystical representation of Isaiah's call to the prophetical office. It likewise refers to the deserved sufferings of the Jews under the captivity to which they had brought themselves by their obduracy, but promises that a remnant shall be left, from whom a people shall spring, and that in them should be fulfilled all the divine promises.

8 Also I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for [k] us? Then said I, ‡ Here am I; send me.

9 ¶ And he said, Go, and tell this people, [l] Hear ye § ‖ indeed, but understand not; and see ye [*] indeed, but perceive not.

10 Make [m] the heart of this people fat, and make their ears heavy, and shut their eyes; [n] lest they see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and understand with their heart, and convert, and be healed.

11 Then said I, Lord, how long? And he answered, [o] Until the cities be wasted without inhabitant, and the houses without man, and the land be † utterly desolate,

12 [p] And the Lord have removed men far away, and there be a great forsaking in the midst of the land.

13 ¶ But yet in it shall be a tenth, ‡ and it shall return, and shall be eaten: as a teil tree, and as an oak, whose § substance is in them, when they cast their leaves: so [q] the holy seed shall be the substance thereof.

CHAP. VII.

1 Ahaz, being troubled with fear of Rezin and Pekah, is comforted by Isaiah. 10 Ahaz, having liberty to choose a sign, and refusing it, hath for a sign, Christ promised. 17 His judgment is prophesied to come by Assyria.

B. C. cir. 742.

AND it came to pass in the days of [a] Ahaz the son of Jotham, the son of Uzziah, king of Judah, that Rezin the king of Syria, and Pekah the son of Remaliah, king of Israel, went up toward Jerusalem to war against it, but could not prevail against it.

2 And it was told the house of David, saying, Syria [*] is confederate with Ephraim. And his heart was moved, and the heart of his people, as the trees of the wood are moved with the wind.

3 Then said the Lord unto Isaiah, Go forth now to meet Ahaz, thou, [b] and † Shear-jashub thy son, at the end of the [c] conduit of the upper pool in the ‡ highway of the fuller's field;

4 And say unto him, Take heed, and be quiet; fear not, § neither be fainthearted for the two tails of these smoking firebands, for the fierce anger of Rezin with Syria, and of the son of Remaliah.

5 Because Syria, Ephraim, and the son of Remaliah, have taken evil counsel against thee, saying,

6 Let us go up against Judah, and ‖ vex it, and let us make a breach therein for us, and set a king in the midst of it, even the son of Tabaal:

7 Thus saith the Lord God, [d] It shall not stand, neither shall it come to pass.

8 [e] For the head of Syria is Damascus, and the head of Damascus is Rezin; and within threescore and five years shall Ephraim be broken, [*] that it be not a people.

9 And the head of Ephraim is Samaria, and the head of Samaria is Remaliah's son. [f] † If ye will not believe, surely ye shall not be established.

10 ¶ ‡ Moreover the Lord spake again unto Ahaz, saying,

11 [g] Ask thee a sign of the Lord thy God; § ask it either in the depth, or in the height above.

B. C. cir. 677.

12 But Ahaz said, I will not ask, neither will I tempt the Lord.

13 And he said, Hear ye now, O house of David; Is it a small thing for you to weary men, but will ye weary my God also?

14 Therefore the Lord himself shall give you a sign; [h] Behold, a virgin shall conceive, and bear [i] a son, and ‖ shall call his name [k] Immanuel.

15 Butter and honey shall he eat, that he may know to refuse the evil, and choose the good.

16 [l] For before the child shall know to refuse the evil, and choose the good, the land that thou abhorrest shall be forsaken of [m] both her kings.

17 ¶ [n] The Lord shall bring upon thee, and upon thy people, and upon thy father's house, days that have not come, from the day that [o] Ephraim departed from Judah; even the king of Assyria.

18 And it shall come to pass in that day, that the Lord [p] shall hiss for the fly that is in the uttermost part of the rivers of Egypt, and for the bee that is in the land of Assyria.

19 And they shall come, and shall rest all of them in the desolate valleys, and in [q] the holes of the rocks, and upon all thorns, and upon all [*] bushes.

20 In the same day shall the Lord shave with a [r] razor that is hired, namely, by them beyond the river, by the king of Assyria, the head, and the hair of the feet: and it shall also consume the beard.

21 And it shall come to pass in that day, that a man shall nourish a young cow, and two sheep;

22 And it shall come to pass, for the abundance of milk that they shall give he shall eat butter: for butter and honey shall every one eat that is left † in the land.

23 And it shall come to pass in that day, that every place shall be, where there were a thousand vines at a thousand silverlings, [s] it shall even be for briars and thorns.

24 With arrows and with bows shall men come thither; because all the land shall become briars and thorns.

25 And on all hills that shall be digged with the mattock, there shall not come thither the fear of briers and thorns: but it shall be for the sending forth of oxen, and for the treading of lesser cattle.

CHAP. VIII.

1 In Maher-shalal-hash-baz, he prophesieth that Syria and Israel shall be subdued by Assyria. 5 Judah likewise for their infidelity. 9 God's judgments shall be unresistible. 11 Comfort shall be to them that fear God. 19 Great afflictions to idolaters.

CHAP. VII. Ver. 1. And it came to pass, &c.—The prophet here assures the king and court of Judah that, notwithstanding the threatened invasion by Rezin and Pekah, God would preserve the house of David, from which the Messiah should eventually spring, but that he would destroy the confederate kings of Syria and Israel. He concludes by foretelling the calamities that should accrue to the Jews from the Assyrian invasion by Sennacherib.

CHAP. VIII. Ver. 1. Moreover the Lord, &c.—The promises made to Ahaz in the last chapter are here renewed. These were to be completed in Christ, for the rejection of whom, by the Jews, Isaiah foretells their final dispersion and consequent miseries.

4 [c] For before the child shall have knowledge to cry, My father, and my mother, ‡ [d] the riches of Damascus and the spoil of Samaria shall be taken away before the king of Assyria.

5 ¶ The LORD spake also unto me again, saying,

6 Forasmuch as this people refuseth the waters of [e] Shiloah that go softly, and rejoice [f] in Rezin and Remeliah's son;

7 Now therefore, behold, the LORD bringeth up upon them the waters of the river, strong and many, even [g] the king of Assyria, and all his glory: and he shall come up over all his channels, and go over all his banks:

8 And he shall pass through Judah; he shall overflow and go over, [h] he shall reach even to the neck; and § the stretching out of his wings shall fill the breadth of thy land, O [i] Immanuel.

9 ¶ [k] Associate yourselves, O ye people, ‖ and ye shall be broken in pieces; and give ear, all ye of far countries: gird yourselves, and ye shall be broken in pieces; gird yourselves, and ye shall be broken in pieces.

10 [l] Take counsel together, and it shall come to nought; speak the word, [m] and it shall not stand: [n] for God is with us.

11 ¶ For the LORD spake thus to me * with a strong hand, and instructed me that I should not walk in the way of this people, saying,

12 Say ye not, A confederacy, to all them to whom [o] this people shall say, A confederacy; [p] neither fear ye their fear, nor be afraid.

13 [q] Sanctify the LORD of hosts himself; and [r] let him be your fear, and let him be your dread.

14 And [s] he shall be for a sanctuary; but for [t] a stone of stumbling and for a rock of offence to both the houses of Israel, for a gin and for a snare to the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

15 And many among them shall [u] stumble, and fall, and be broken, and be snared, and be taken.

16 Bind up the testimony, seal the law among my disciples.

17 And I will wait upon the LORD, that [x] hideth his face from the house of Jacob, and I [y] will look for him.

18 [z] Behold, I and the children whom the LORD hath given me [a] are for signs and for wonders in Israel from the LORD of hosts, which dwelleth in mount Zion.

19 ¶ And when they shall say unto you, [b] Seek unto them that have familiar spirits, and unto wizards [c] that peep, and that mutter: should not a people seek unto their God? for the living [d] to the dead?

20 [e] To the law and to the testimony: if they speak not according to this word, it is because [f] there is + no light in them.

21 And they shall pass through it, hardly bestead and hungry: and it shall come to pass, that when they shall be hungry, they shall fret themselves, and [g] curse their king and their God, and look upward.

22 And [h] they shall look unto the earth; and behold trouble and darkness, [i] dimness of anguish; and they shall be driven to darkness.

CHAP. IX.

1 What joy shall be in the midst of afflictions, by the kingdom and birth of Christ. 8 The judgments upon Israel for their pride, 13 for their hypocrisy, 18 and for their impenitency.

NEVERTHELESS [a] the dimness shall not be such as was in her vexation, when at the [b] first he lightly afflicted the land of Zebulun and the land of Naphtali, and [c] afterward did more grievously afflict her by the way of the sea, beyond Jordan, in Galilee * of the nations.

2 [d] The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light: they that dwell in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined.

3 Thou hast multiplied the nation, and + not increased the joy: they joy before thee according to the joy in harvest, and as men rejoice [e] when they divide the spoil.

4 ‡ For thou hast broken the yoke of his burden, and [f] the staff of his shoulder, the rod of his oppressor, as in the day of [g] Midian.

5 § For every battle of the warrior is with confused noise, and garments rolled in blood; [h] ‖ but this shall be with burning and * fuel of fire.

7 Of the increase of his government and peace [p] there shall be no end, upon the throne of David, and upon his kingdom, to order it, and to establish it with judgment and with justice from henceforth even for ever. The [q] zeal of the LORD of hosts will perform this.

8 ¶ The LORD sent a word into Jacob, and it hath lighted upon Israel.

9 And all the people shall know, even Ephraim and the inhabitant of Samaria, that say in the pride and stoutness of heart,

WOE unto them that [a] decree unrighteous decrees, and [*] that write grievousness which they have prescribed;

3 And [b] what will ye do in [c] the day of visitation, and in the desolation which shall come from far? to whom will ye flee for help? and where will ye leave your glory?

4 Without me they shall bow down under the prisoners, and they shall fall under the slain. [d] For all this his anger is not turned away, but his hand is stretched out still.

5 ¶ † O ‡ Assyrian, [e] the rod of mine anger, § and the staff in their hand is mine indignation.

6 I will send him against [f] an hypocritical nation, and against the people of my wrath will I [g] give him a charge, to take the spoil, and to take the prey, and ‖ to tread them down like the mire of the streets.

7 [h] Howbeit he meaneth not so, neither doth his heart think so; but it is in his heart to destroy and cut off nations not a few.

8 [i] For he saith, Are not my princes altogether kings?

9 Is not [k] Calno [l] as Carchemish? is not Hamath as Arpad? is not Samaria [m] as Damascus?

10 As my hand hath found the kingdoms of the idols, and whose graven images did excel them of Jerusalem and of Samaria;

11 Shall I not, as I have done unto Samaria and her idols, so do to Jerusalem and her idols?

12 Wherefore it shall come to pass, that when the Lord hath performed his whole work [n] upon mount Zion and on Jerusalem, [o] I will [*] punish the fruit † of the stout heart of the king of Assyria, and the glory of his high looks.

13 [p] For he saith, By the strength of my hand I have done it, and by my wisdom; for I am prudent: and I have removed the bounds of the people, and have robbed their treasures, and I have put down the inhabitants ‡ like a valiant man:

14 And [q] my hand hath found as a nest the riches of the people: and as one gathereth eggs that are left, have I gathered all the earth; and there was none that moved the wing, or opened the mouth, or peeped.

15 Shall [r] the ax boast itself against him that heweth therewith? or shall the saw magnify itself against him that shaketh it? § as if the rod should shake itself against them that lift it up, or as if the staff should lift up ‖ itself, as if it were no wood.

16 Therefore shall the Lord, the Lord of hosts, send among his [s] fat ones leanness; and under his glory he shall kindle a burning like the burning of a fire.

17 And the light of Israel shall be for a fire, and his Holy One for a flame: [t] and it shall burn and devour his thorns and his briers in one day;

18 And shall consume the glory of his forest, and of [u] his fruitful field, [*] both soul and body: and they shall be as when a standardbearer fainteth.

19 And the rest of the trees of his forest shall be † few, that a child may write them.

20 ¶ And [v] it shall come to pass in that day, that the remnant of Israel, and such as are escaped of the house of Jacob, [x] shall no more again stay upon him that smote them; but shall stay upon the LORD, the Holy One of Israel, in truth.

21 [y] The remnant shall return, even the remnant of Jacob, unto the mighty God.

22 [z] For though thy people Israel be as the sand of the sea, [a] yet a remnant ‡ of them shall return: [b] the consumption decreed shall overflow § with righteousness.

23 [c] For the Lord GOD of hosts shall make a consumption, even determined, in the midst of all the land.

24 ¶ Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD of hosts, O my people that dwellest in Zion, [d] be not afraid of the Assyrian: he shall smite thee with a rod, ‖ and shall lift up his staff against thee, after the manner of [e] Egypt.

25 [f] For yet a very little while, [g] and the indignation shall cease, and mine anger in their destruction.

26 And the LORD of hosts shall stir up [h] a scourge for him according to the slaughter of [i] Midian at the rock of Oreb: and [k] as his rod was upon the sea, so shall he lift it up after the manner of Egypt.

27 And it shall come to pass in that day, that [l] his burden [*] shall be taken away from off thy shoulder, and his yoke from off thy neck, and the yoke shall be destroyed because of [m] the anointing.

6 [h] The wolf also shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; and the calf and the young lion and the fatling together; and a little child shall lead them.

7 And the cow and the bear shall feed; their young ones shall lie down together: and the lion shall eat straw like the ox:

8 And the sucking child shall play on the hole of the asp, and the weaned child shall put his hand on the ‡ cockatrice' den.

9 [i] They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain: for [k] the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the LORD, as the waters cover the sea.

10 ¶ [l] And in that day [m] there shall be a root of Jesse, which shall stand for an ensign of the people; to it shall the [n] Gentiles seek: and [o] his rest shall be § glorious.

11 And it shall come to pass [p] in that day, that the LORD shall set his hand again the second time to recover the remnant of his people, which shall be left, [q] from Assyria, and from Egypt, and from Pathros, and from Cush, and from Elam, and from Shinar, and from Hamath, and from the islands of the sea.

12 And he shall set up an ensign for the nations, and shall assemble the outcasts of Israel, and gather together [r] the dispersed of Judah from the four || corners of the earth.

13 [s] The envy also of Ephraim shall depart, and the adversaries of Judah shall be cut off: Ephraim shall not envy Judah, and Judah shall not vex Ephraim.

14 But they shall fly upon the shoulders of the Philistines toward the west; they shall spoil * them of the east together: † they shall lay their hand upon Eden and Moab; ‡ and the children of Ammon [u] shall obey them.

15 And the LORD [x] shall utterly destroy the tongue of the Egyptian sea; and with his mighty wind shall he shake his hand over the river, and shall smite it in the seven streams, [y] and make men go over § dryshod.

16 And [z] there shall be an highway for the remnant of his people, which shall be left, from Assyria; [a] like as it was to Israel in the day that he came up out of the land of Egypt.

A joyful thanksgiving of the faithful for the mercies of God.

AND [a] in that day thou shalt say, O LORD, I will praise thee: though thou wast angry with me, thine anger is turned away, and thou comfortedst me.

2 Behold, God is my salvation; I will trust, and not be afraid: for the LORD [b] JEHOVAH is my [c] strength and my song; he also is become my salvation.

CHAP. XI. Ver. 1. And there shall come forth, &c.—Here is a prophetic allusion to Christ's advent in the flesh, and the rapid spread of Christianity, under the image of a tender shoot growing from the root of an old tree which had been cut down. From the tenth verse to the conclusion of the chapter is foretold the final uniting of the Jews and Gentiles, when the former shall embrace the gospel, and form, with the latter, one church.

CHAP. XII. Ver. 1. And in that day, &c.—This appears to be a song of thanksgiving for the signal deliverance of the Israelites from the Babylonish captivity: in this hymn a prophetic reference is made to man's redemption through Christ.

CHAP. XIII. Ver. 1. The burden of Babylon.—This and the following chapter, to the twenty-eighth verse, contains one complete prophecy. After a description of those glorious times which should come to pass in the latter days, the prophet foretells the terrible destruction of God's enemies, and begins by detailing the dreadful cruelties to be inflicted upon the Babylonians by the Medes, who shall massacre the inhabitants and utterly destroy their city thered together: the LORD of hosts mustereth the host of the battle.

5 They come from a far country, from the end of heaven, even the LORD, and the weapons of his indignation, to destroy the whole land.

6 ¶ Howl ye; [s] for the day of the LORD is at hand; [h] it shall come as a destruction from the Almighty.

7 Therefore shall all hands † be faint, and every man's heart shall melt:

8 And they shall be afraid: [i] pangs and sorrows shall take hold of them; they shall be in pain as a woman that travaileth: they shall ‡ be amazed § one at another; their faces shall be as ‖ flames.

9 Behold, [k] the day of the LORD cometh cruel both with wrath and fierce anger, to lay the land desolate: and he shall destroy [l] the sinners thereof out of it.

10 For the stars of heaven and the constellations thereof shall not give their light: the sun shall be [m] darkened in his going forth, and the moon shall not cause her light to shine.

11 And I will punish the world for their evil, and the wicked for their iniquity; [n] and I will cause the arrogancy of the proud to cease, and will lay low the haughtiness of the terrible.

12 I will make a man more precious than fine gold; even a man than the golden wedge of Ophir.

13 [o] Therefore I will shake the heavens, and the earth shall remove out of her place, in the wrath of the LORD of hosts, and in [p] the day of his fierce anger.

14 And it shall be as the chased roe, and as a sheep that no man taketh up: [q] they shall every man turn to his own people, and flee every one into his own land.

15 Every one that is found shall be thrust through; and every one that is joined unto them shall fall by the sword.

16 Their children also shall be [r] dashed to pieces before their eyes; their houses shall be spoiled, and their wives ravished.

17 [s] Behold, I will stir up the Medes against them, which shall not regard silver; and as for gold, they shall not delight in it.

18 Their bows also shall dash the young men to pieces; and they shall have no pity on the fruit of the womb; their eye shall not spare children.

19 ¶ [t] And Babylon, the glory of kingdoms, the beauty of the Chaldees' excellency, shall be [u] as when God overthrew [u] Sodom and Gomorrah.

20 [x] It shall never be inhabited, neither shall it be dwelt in from generation to generation: neither shall the Arabian pitch tent there; neither shall the shepherds make their fold there.

21 [y] But † wild beasts of the desert shall lie there; and their houses shall be full of ‡ doleful creatures; and § ‖ owls shall dwell there, and satyrs shall dance there.

22 And [z] the wild beasts of the islands shall cry in their † desolate houses, and dragons in their pleasant palaces: [a] and her time is near to come, and her days shall not be prolonged.

1 God's merciful restoration of Israel. 4 Their triumphant insultation over Babel. 24 God's purpose against Assyria. 29 Palestina is threatened.

FOR the LORD [a] will have mercy on Jacob, and [b] will yet choose Israel, and set them in their own land: [c] and the strangers shall be joined with them, and they shall cleave to the house of Jacob.

2 And the people shall take them, [d] and bring them to their place: and the house of Israel shall possess them in the land of the LORD for servants and handmaids: and they shall take them captives, whose captives [e] they were; [e] and they shall rule over their oppressors.

3 And it shall come to pass in the day that the LORD shall give thee rest from thy sorrow, and from thy fear, and from the hard bondage wherein thou wast made to serve,

B. C. cir. 719.

18 All the kings of the nations, even all of them, lie in glory, every one in his own house.

19 But thou art cast out of thy grave like an abominable branch, and as the raiment of those that are slain, thrust through with a sword, that go down to the stones of the pit; as a carcase trodden under feet,

20 Thou shalt not be joined with them in burial, because thou hast destroyed thy land, and slain thy people: [r] the seed of evildoers shall never be renowned.

21 Prepare slaughter for his children [s] for the iniquity of their fathers; that they do not rise, nor possess the land, nor fill the face of the world with cities.

22 For I will rise up against them, saith the LORD of hosts, and cut off from Babylon [t] the name, and [u] remnant, [x] and son, and nephew, saith the LORD.

23 [y] I will also make it a possession for the bittern, and pools of water: and I will sweep it with the besom of destruction, saith the LORD of hosts.

25 ¶ The LORD of hosts hath sworn, saying, Surely as I have thought, so shall it come to pass; and as I have purposed, so shall it stand:

25 That I will break the Assyrian in my land, and upon my mountains tread him under foot: then shall [z] his yoke depart from off them, and his burden depart from off their shoulders.

26 This is the purpose that is purposed upon the whole earth: and this is the hand that is stretched out upon all the nations.

27 For the LORD of hosts hath [a] purposed, and who shall disannul it? and his hand is stretched out, and who shall turn it back?

28 In the year that [b] king Ahaz died was this burden.

29 ¶ Rejoice not thou, whole Palestina, [c] because the rod of him that smote thee is broken: for out of the serpent's root shall come forth a ‖ cockatrice, [d] and his fruit shall be a fiery flying serpent.

30 And the firstborn of the poor shall feed, and the needy shall lie down in safety: and I will kill thy root with famine, and he shall slay thy remnant.

31 Howl, O gate; cry, O city; thou, whole Palestina, art dissolved: for there shall come from the north a smoke, and [*] none shall be alone in his †appointed times.

32 What shall one then answer the messengers of the nation? That [e] the LORD hath founded Zion, and [f] the poor of his people shall ‡trust in it.

CHAP. XV.

The lamentable state of Moab.

THE [a] burden of Moab. Because in the night [b] Ar of Moab is laid waste, and [*] brought to silence; because in the night Kir of Moab is laid waste, and brought to silence;

2 [c] He is gone to Bajith, and to Dibon, the high places, to weep: Moab shall howl over Nebo, and over Medeba: [d] on all their heads shall be baldness, and every beard cut off.

3 In their streets they shall gird themselves with sackcloth: [e] on the tops of their houses, and in their streets, every one shall howl, †weeping abundantly.

4 And Heshbon shall cry, [f] and Elealeh: their voice shall be heard even unto Jahaz: therefore the armed soldiers of Moab shall cry out; his life shall be grievous unto him.

5 [g] My heart shall cry out for Moab; ‡his fugitives shall flee unto Zoar, an [h] heifer of three years old: for [i] by the mounting up of Luhith with weeping shall they go it up; for in the way of Horonaim they shall raise up a cry of § destruction.

6 For the waters [k] of Nimrim shall be ‖ desolate: for the hay is withered away, the grass faileth, there is no green thing.

7 Therefore the abundance they have gotten, and that which they have laid up, shall they carry away to the [*] brook of the willows.

8 For the cry is gone round about the borders of Moab; the howling thereof unto Eglaim, and the howling thereof unto Beer-elim.

9 For the waters of Dimon shall be full of blood: for I will bring † more upon Dimon, [l] lions upon him that escapeth of Moab, and upon the remnant of the land.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Moab is exhorted to yield obedience to Christ's kingdom. 6 Moab is threatened for her pride. 9 The prophet bewaileth her. 12 The judgment of Moab.

[a] SEND ye the lamb to the ruler of the land [b] from [*] †Sela to the wilderness, unto the mount of the daughter of Zion.

2 For it shall be, that, as a wandering bird ‡cast out of the nest, so the daughters of Moab shall be at the fords of [c] Arnon.

3 § Take counsel, execute judgment; make thy shadow as the night in the midst of the noonday; hide the outcasts; bewray not him that wandereth.

4 Let mine outcasts dwell with thee, Moab; be thou a covert to them from the face of the spoiler: for the ‖ extortioner is at an end, the spoiler ceaseth, [*] the oppressors are consumed out of the land.

5 And in mercy [d] shall the throne be †established: and he shall sit upon it in truth in the tabernacle of David, [e] judging, and seeking judgment, and hasting righteousness.

6 ¶ We have heard of the [f] pride of Moab; he is very proud: even of his haughtiness, and his pride, and his wrath: [g] but his lies shall not be so.

7 Therefore shall Moab [h] howl for Moab, every one shall howl: for the foundations [i] of Kir-hareseth shall ye ‡mourn; surely they are stricken.

8 For [k] the fields of Heshbon languish, and [l] the vine of Sibmah: the lords of the heathen have broken down the principal plants thereof, they are come even unto Jazer, they wandered through the wilderness: her branches are § stretched out, they are gone over the sea.

9 ¶ Therefore [m] I will bewail with the weeping of Jazer the vine of Sibmah: I will water thee with my tears, [n] O Heshbon, and Elealeh: for ‖ the shouting for thy summer fruits and for thy harvest is fallen.

CHAP. XVII. Ver. 1. The burden of Damascus.—"In this chapter, to the twelfth verse, the prophet renews his threatenings against Syria and Israel, whose destruction he had foretold in the seventh and eighth chapters. The three concluding verses are a distinct prophecy, which seems to relate to the formidable invasion of the Assyrians upon Judea, and their sudden overthrow."—W. Lowth.

Ver. 1. Woe to the land, &c.—"This," observes Bishop Lowth, "is one of the most obscure prophecies in the whole book of Isaiah. The subject of it, the end and design of it, the people to whom it is addressed, the history to which it belongs, the person who sends the messengers, and the nation to whom the messengers are sent, are all obscure and doubtful."

CHAP. XIX. Ver. 1. The burden of Egypt. This chapter contains a prophecy concerning Egypt under the tyranny of Babylon and Persia. The prophet refers to the conquest of Egypt by Nebuchadnezzar and by Cambyses the Persian; from the yoke of the latter it was delivered by the conquest of Persia by Alexander of Macedon. From the eighteenth verse to the conclusion, the flourishing state of the Jewish religion seems to be predicted. This was subsequently so great that Philo reckons the number of Jews in Egypt to have reached, in his time, the vast amount of one million. These must have been the means of spreading the worship and knowledge of the true God through the country.

B. C. cir. 714. Egypt shall be moved at his presence, and the heart of Egypt shall melt in the midst of it.

2 And I will [*] [d] set the Egyptians against the Egyptians: and they shall fight every one against his brother, and every one against his neighbour; city against city, and kingdom against kingdom.

3 And the spirit of Egypt † shall fail in the midst thereof; and I will ‡ destroy the counsel thereof: and they shall [e] seek to the idols, and to the charmers, and to them that have familiar spirits, and to the wizards.

4 And the Egyptians will I § give over [f] into the hand of a cruel lord; and a fierce king shall rule over them, saith the Lord, the LORD of hosts.

5 [g] And the waters shall fail from the sea, and the river shall be wasted and dried up.

6 And they shall turn the rivers far away; and the brooks [h] of defence shall be emptied and dried up: the reeds and flags shall wither.

7 The paper reeds by the brooks, by the mouth of the brooks, and every thing sown by the brooks, shall wither, be driven away, ‖ and be no more.

8 The fishers also shall mourn, and all they that cast angle into the brooks shall lament, and they that spread nets upon the waters shall languish.

9 Moreover they that work in [i] fine flax, and they that weave [*] networks, shall be confounded.

10 And they shall be broken in the † purposes thereof, all that make sluices and ponds ‡ for fish.

11 ¶ Surely the princes of [k] Zoan are fools, the counsel of the wise counsellors of Pharaoh is become brutish: how say ye unto Pharaoh, I am the son of the wise, the son of ancient kings?

12 [l] Where are they? where are thy wise men? and let them tell thee now, and let them know what the LORD of hosts hath purposed upon Egypt.

13 The princes of Zoan are become fools, [m] the princes of Noph are deceived; they have also seduced Egypt, even § ‖ they that are the stay of the tribes thereof.

15 Neither shall there be any work for Egypt, which [o] the head or tail, branch or rush, may do.

16 In that day shall Egypt [p] be like unto women: and it shall be afraid and fear because of the shaking of the hand of the LORD of hosts, [q] which he shaketh over it.

17 And the land of Judah shall be a terror unto Egypt, every one that maketh mention thereof shall be afraid in himself, because of the counsel of the LORD of hosts, which he hath determined against it.

18 ¶ In that day shall five cities in the land of Egypt [r] speak † the language of Canaan, and swear to the LORD of hosts; one shall be called, The city ‡ of destruction.

19 In that day [s] shall there be an altar to the LORD in the midst of the land of Egypt, and a pillar at the border thereof to the LORD.

20 And [t] it shall be for a sign and for a witness unto the LORD of hosts in the land of Egypt: for they shall cry unto the LORD because of the oppressors, and he shall send them a saviour, and a great one, and he shall deliver them.

21 And the LORD shall be known to Egypt, and the Egyptians shall know the LORD in that day, and [u] shall do sacrifice and oblation; yea, they shall vow a vow unto the LORD, and perform it.

22 And the LORD shall smite Egypt: he shall smite and heal it: and they shall return even to the LORD, and he shall be intreated of them, and shall heal them.

23 ¶ In that day [x] shall there be a highway out of Egypt to Assyria, and the Assyrian shall come into Egypt, and the Egyptian into Assyria, and the Egyptians shall serve with the Assyrians.

24 In that day shall Israel be the third with Egypt and with Assyria, even a blessing in the midst of the land:

25 Whom the LORD of hosts shall bless, saying, Blessed be Egypt my people, and Assyria [y] the work of my hands, and Israel mine inheritance.

2 At the same time spake the LORD [*] by Isaiah the son of Amoz, saying, Go and loose [b] the sackcloth from off thy loins, and put off thy shoe from thy foot. And he did so, [c] walking naked and barefoot.

3 And the LORD said, Like as my servant Isaiah hath walked naked and barefoot three years [d] for a sign and wonder upon Egypt and upon Ethiopia;

4 So shall the king of Assyria lead away † the Egyptians prisoners, and the Ethiopians captives, young and old, naked and barefoot, [e] even with their buttocks uncovered, to the ‡ shame of Egypt.

5 [f] And they shall be afraid and ashamed of Ethiopia their expectation, and of Egypt their glory.

13 And behold joy and gladness, slaying oxen, and killing sheep, eating flesh, and drinking wine: [n] let us eat and drink; for to morrow we shall die.

14 [o] And it was revealed in mine ears by the Lord of hosts, Surely this iniquity [p] shall not be purged from you till ye die, saith the Lord God of hosts.

19 And I will drive thee from thy station, and from thy state shall he pull thee down.

20 ¶ And it shall come to pass in that day, that I will call my servant [u] Eliakim the son of Hilkiah:

CHAP. XXIII. Ver. 1. The burden of Tyre.—The siege of Tyre by Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, is generally supposed to be referred to ehre. It held out against the Babylonians thirteen years, when it was taken.

CHAP. XXIV. Ver. 1. Behold, the Lord maketh the earth empty.—Commentators differ much in their opinion respecting the particular objects referred to in this chapter. According to Prebendary Lowth, "The prophet gives a general description of the state of the ten tribes, whose country was ruined and themselves carried captives by Salmaneser, under these calamities; but withal, he uses such expressions as plainly denote the general destruction of the world at the last day; as, indeed, all God's particular judgments are earnests and forerunners of the general judgment." of the land among the people, [g] there shall be as the shaking of an olive tree, and as the gleaning grapes when the vintage is done.

14 They shall lift up their voice, they shall sing for the majesty of the LORD, they shall cry aloud from the sea.

15 Wherefore glorify ye the LORD in the § fires, even the name of the LORD God of Israel in the isles of the sea.

16 ¶ From the ‖ uttermost part of the earth have we heard songs, even glory to the righteous. But I said, [a] My leanness, my leanness, woe unto me! [b] the treacherous dealers have dealt treacherously; yea, the treacherous dealers have dealt very treacherously.

17 [k] Fear, and the pit, and the snare, are upon thee, O inhabitant of the earth.

18 And it shall come to pass, that he who fleeth from the noise of the fear shall fall into the pit; and he that cometh up out of the midst of the pit shall be taken in the snare: for [l] the windows from on high are open, and [m] the foundations of the earth do shake.

19 [n] The earth is utterly broken down, the earth is clean dissolved, the earth is moved exceedingly.

20 The earth shall [o] reel to and fro like a drunkard, and shall be removed like a cottage; and the transgression thereof shall be heavy upon it; and it shall fall, and not rise again.

21 And it shall come to pass in that day, that the LORD shall † punish the host of the high ones that are on high, [p] and the kings of the earth upon the earth.

22 And they shall be gathered together, ‡ as prisoners are gathered in the § pit, and shall be shut up in the prison, and after many days shall they be ‖ visited.

23 Then the [q] moon shall be confounded, and the sun ashamed, when the LORD of hosts shall [r] reign in [s] mount Zion, and in Jerusalem, and [t] before his ancients gloriously.

CHAP. XXV.

1 The prophet praiseth God, for his judgments, 6 for his saving benefits, 9 and for his victorious salvation.

O LORD, thou art my God; [a] I will exalt thee, I will praise thy name; [b] for thou hast done wonderful things; [c] thy counsels of old are faithfulness and truth.

2 For thou hast made [d] of a city an heap; of a defenced city a ruin: a palace of strangers to be no city; it shall never be built.

3 Therefore shall the strong people [e] glorify thee, the city of the terrible nations shall fear thee.

4 For thou hast been a strength to the poor, a strength to the needy in his distress, [f] a refuge from the storm, a shadow from the heat, when the blast of the terrible ones is as a storm against the wall.

5 Thou shalt bring down the noise of strangers, as the heat in a dry place; even the heat with the shadow of a cloud: the branch of the terrible ones shall be brought low.

6 ¶ And in [g] this mountain shall [h] the LORD of hosts make unto [i] all people a feast of fat things, a feast of wines on the lees, of fat things full of marrow, of wines on the lees well refined.

7 And he will [*] destroy in this mountain the face of the covering † cast over all people, and [k] the vail that is spread over all nations.

8 He will [l] swallow up death in victory; and the Lord GOD will [m] wipe away tears from off all faces; and the rebuke of his people shall he take away from off all the earth: for the LORD hath spoken it.

9 ¶ And it shall be said in that day, Lo, this is our God; [n] we have waited for him, and he will save us: this is the LORD; we have waited for him, [o] we will be glad and rejoice in his salvation.

10 For in this mountain shall the hand of the LORD rest, and Moab shall be ‡ trodden down under him, even as straw is § trodden down for the dunghill.

11 And he shall spread forth his hands in the midst of them, as he that swimmeth spreadeth forth his hands to swim: and he shall bring down their pride together with the spoils of their hands.

12 And the [p] fortress of the high fort of thy walls shall he bring down, lay low, and bring to the ground, even to the dust.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 A song inciting to confidence in God, 5 for his judgments, 12 and for his favour to his people. 20 An exhortation to wait on God.

IN [a] that day shall this song be sung in the land of Judah; we have a strong city; [b] salvation will God appoint for walls and bulwarks.

2 [c] Open ye the gates, that the righteous nation which keepeth the [*] truth may enter in.

3 Thou wilt keep him † in perfect peace, whose ‡ mind is stayed on thee: because he trusteth in thee.

4 Trust ye in the LORD for ever: [d] for in the LORD JEHOVAH is § everlasting strength:

5 ¶ For he bringeth down them that dwell on high; [e] the lofty city, he layeth it low; he layeth it low, even to the ground; he bringeth it even to the dust.

6 The foot shall tread it down, even the feet of the poor, and the steps of the needy.

7 The way of the just is uprightness: [f] thou, most upright, dost weigh the path of the just.

8 Yea, [g] in the way of thy judgments, O LORD, have we waited for thee; the desire of our soul is to thy name, and to the remembrance of thee.

9 [h] With my soul have I desired thee in the night; yea, with my spirit within me will I seek thee early: for when thy judgments are in the earth, the inhabitants of the world will learn righteousness.

10 [i] Let favour be shewed to the wicked, yet will he not learn righteousness: in [k] the land of uprightness will he deal unjustly, and will not behold the majesty of the LORD.

B. C. cir. 712.

11 LORD, when thy hand is lifted up,[l] they will not see: but they shall see, and be ashamed for their envy ‖ at the people; yea, the fire of thine enemies shall devour them.

12 ¶ LORD, thou wilt ordain peace for us: for thou also hast wrought all our works [o] in us.

13 O LORD our God, [m] other lords beside thee have had dominion over us: but by thee only will we make mention of thy name.

14 They are dead, they shall not live; they are deceased, they shall not rise: therefore hast thou visited and destroyed them, and made all their memory to perish.

15 Thou hast increased the nation, O LORD, thou hast increased the nation: thou art glorified: thou hadst removed it far unto all the ends of the earth.

16 LORD, [n] in trouble have they visited thee, they poured out a † prayer when thy chastening was upon them.

17 Like as [o] a woman with child, that draweth near the time of her delivery, is in pain, and crieth out in her pangs; so have we been in thy sight, O LORD.

18 We have been with child, we have been in pain, we have as it were brought forth wind; we have not wrought any deliverance in the earth; neither have [p] the inhabitants of the world fallen.

19 [q] Thy dead men shall live, together with my dead body shall they arise. [r] Awake and sing, ye that dwell in dust: for thy dew is as the dew of herbs, and the earth shall cast out the dead.

20 ¶ Come, my people, [s] enter thou into thy chambers, and shut thy doors about thee: hide thyself as it were [t] for a little moment, until the indignation be overpast.

21 For, behold, the LORD [u] cometh out of his place to punish the inhabitants of the earth for their iniquity: the earth also shall disclose her ‡ blood, and shall no more cover her slain.

CHAP. XXVII.

1 The care of God over his vineyard. 7 His chastisements differ from judgments. 12 The church of Jews and Gentiles.

IN that day the LORD with his sore and great and strong sword shall punish leviathan the [a] piercing serpent, [a] even leviathan that crooked serpent; and he shall slay [b] the dragon that is in the sea.

2 In that day [c] sing ye unto her, [d] A vineyard of red wine.

3 [e] I the LORD do keep it; I will water it every moment: lest any hurt it, I will keep it night and day.

4 Fury is not in me: who would set [f] the briers and thorns against me in battle? I would †go through them, I would burn them together.

5 Or let him take hold [g] of my strength, that he may [h] make peace with me; and he shall make peace with me.

6 He shall cause them that come of Jacob [i] to take root: Israel shall blossom and bud, and fill the face of the world with fruit.

7 ¶ Hath he smitten him, ‡ as he smote those that smote him? or is he slain according to the slaughter of them that are slain by him?

8 [k] In measure, § when it shooteth forth, thou wilt debate with it: ‖ [l] he stayeth his rough wind in the day of the east wind.

9 By this therefore shall the iniquity of Jacob be purged; and this is all the fruit to take away his sin; when he maketh all the stones of the altar as chalkstones that are beaten in sunder, the groves and [o] images shall not stand up.

10 Yet the defenced city shall be desolate, and the habitation forsaken, and left like a wilderness: [m] there shall the calf feed, and there shall he lie down, and consume the branches thereof.

11 When the boughs thereof are withered, they shall be broken off: the women come, and set them on fire: for [n] it is a people of no understanding: therefore he that made them will not have mercy on them, and [o] he that formed them will shew them no favour.

12 ¶ And it shall come to pass in that day, that the LORD shall beat off from the channel of the river unto the stream of Egypt, and ye shall be gathered one by one, O ye children of Israel.

13 [p] And it shall come to pass in that day, [q] that the great trumpet shall be blown, and they shall come which were ready to perish in the land of Assyria, and the outcasts in the land of Egypt, and shall worship the LORD in the holy mount at Jerusalem.

3 [d] The crown of pride, the drunkards of Ephraim, shall be trodden †under feet:

the way; [g] the priest and the prophet have erred through strong drink, they are swallowed up of wine, they are out of the way through strong drink; they err in vision, they stumble in judgment.

8 For all tables are full of vomit and filthiness, so that there is no place clean.

9 ¶ [h] Whom shall he teach knowledge? and whom shall he make to understand § doctrine? them that are weaned from the milk, and drawn from the breasts.

10 For precept ‖ must be upon precept, precept upon precept; line upon line, line upon line; here a little, and there a little:

11 For with [i] stammering lips and another tongue † will he speak to this people.

12 To whom he said, This is the rest wherewith ye may cause the weary to rest; and this is the refreshing: yet they would not hear.

13 But the word of the LORD was unto them precept upon precept, precept upon precept; line upon line, line upon line; here a little, and there a little; that they might go, and fall backward, and be broken, and snared, and taken.

14 ¶ Wherefore hear the word of the LORD, ye scornful men, that rule this people which is in Jerusalem.

15 Because ye have said, We have made a covenant with death, and with hell are we at agreement; when the overflowing scourge shall pass through, it shall not come unto us: [k] for we have made lies our refuge, and under falsehood have we hid ourselves:

16 ¶ Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD, Behold, I lay in Zion for a foundation [l] a stone, a tried stone, a precious corner stone, a sure foundation: he that believeth shall not make haste.

17 Judgment also will I lay to the line, and righteousness to the plummet: and the hail shall sweep away [m] the refuge of lies, and the waters shall overflow the hiding place.

18 ¶ And your covenant with death shall be disannulled, and your agreement with hell shall not stand; when the overflowing scourge shall pass through, then ye shall be ‡ trodden down by it.

19 From the time that it goeth forth it shall take you: for morning by morning shall it pass over, by day and by night: and it shall be a vexation only § to understand the report.

20 For the bed is shorter than that a man can stretch himself on it: and the covering narrower than that he can wrap himself in it.

21 For the LORD shall rise up as in mount [n] Perazim, he shall be wroth as in the valley of [o] Gibeon, that he may do his work, [p] his strange work; and bring to pass his act, his strange act.

22 Now therefore be ye not mockers, lest your bands be made strong: for I have heard from the Lord GOD of hosts [q] a consumption, even determined upon the whole earth.

23 ¶ Give ye ear, and hear my voice: hearken, and hear my speech.

24 Doth the plowman plow all day to sow? doth he open and break the clods of his ground?

25 When he hath made plain the face thereof, doth he not cast abroad the fitches, and scatter the cummin, and cast in ‖ the principal wheat and the appointed barley and the * rie in their † place?

26 ‡ [r] For his God doth instruct him to discretion, and doth teach him.

27 For the fitches are not threshed with a threshing instrument, neither is a cart wheel turned about upon the cummin; but the fitches are beaten out with a staff, and the cummin with a rod.

28 Bread corn is bruised; because he will not ever be threshing it, nor break it with the wheel of his cart, nor bruise it with his horsemen.

29 This also cometh forth from the LORD of hosts, * which is wonderful in counsel, and excellent in working.

WOE * [t] to Ariel, to Ariel, † the city [b] where David dwelt! add ye year to year; let them ‡ kill sacrifices.

2 Yet I will distress Ariel, and there shall be heaviness and sorrow: and it shall be unto me as Ariel.

3 And I will camp against thee round about, and will lay siege against thee with a mount, and I will raise forts against thee.

4 And thou shalt be brought down, and shalt speak out of the ground, and thy speech shall be low out of the dust, and thy voice shall be, as of one that hath a familiar spirit, [c] out of the ground, and thy speech shall § whisper out of the dust.

5 Moreover the multitude of thy [d] strangers shall be like small dust, and the multitude of the terrible ones shall be [e] as chaff that passeth away: yea, it shall be [f] at an instant suddenly.

6 [g] Thou shalt be visited of the LORD of hosts with thunder, and with earthquake, and great noise, with storm and tempest, and the flame of devouring fire.

7 ¶ [h] And the multitude of all the nations that fight against Ariel, even all that fight against her and her munition, and that distress her, shall be [i] as a dream of a night vision.

8 [k] It shall even be as when an hungry man dreameth, and, behold, he eateth; but he awaketh, and his soul is empty: or as when a thirsty man dreameth, and, behold, he drinketh; but he awaketh, and, behold, he is faint, and his soul hath appetite: so shall the multitude of all the nations be, that fight against mount Zion.

9 ¶ Stay yourselves, and wonder; ‖ cry ye out, and cry: [l] they are drunken, [m] but not with wine; they stagger, but not with strong drink.

CHAP. XXIX. Ver. 1. Woe to Ariel.—"The subject of this and the four following chapters," observes Bishop Lowth, "is the invasion of Sennacherib; the great distress of the Jews while it continued; their sudden and unexpected deliverance by God's immediate interposition in their favour; the subsequent prosperous state of the kingdom under Hezekiah, interspersed with severe reproofs and threats of punishment for their hypocrisy, stupidity, infidelity, their want of trust in God, and their vain reliance on the assistance of Egypt; and with promises of better times, both immediately to succeed and to be expected in the future age. The whole making, not one continued discourse, but rather a collection of different discourses upon the same subject, which is treated with great eloquence and variety. Though the matter is various and the transitions sudden, yet the prophet seldom goes far from his subject. It is properly enough divided by the chapters in the common translation."

10 For [n] the LORD hath poured out upon you the spirit of deep sleep, and hath [o] closed your eyes: the prophets and your [*] rulers, [p] the seers hath he covered.

11 And the vision of all is become unto you as the words of a [†] book [q] that is sealed, which men deliver to one that is learned, saying, Read this, I pray thee: [r] and he saith, I cannot; for it is sealed:

12 And the book is delivered to him that is not learned, saying, Read this, I pray thee: and he saith, I am not learned.

13 ¶ Wherefore the Lord said, [s] Forasmuch as this people draw near me with their mouth, and with their lips do honour me, but have removed their heart far from me, and their fear toward me is taught by [t] the precept of men:

14 [u] Therefore, behold, [‡] I will proceed to do a marvellous work among this people, even a marvellous work and a wonder: [x] for the wisdom of their wise men shall perish, and the understanding of their prudent men shall be hid.

15 [y] Woe unto them that seek deep to hide their counsel from the LORD, and their works are in the dark, and [z] they say, [a] Who seeth us? and who knoweth us?

16 Surely your turning of things upside down shall be esteemed as the potter's clay: for shall the [b] work say of him that made it, He made me not? or shall the thing framed say of him that framed it, He had no understanding?

17 Is it not yet a very little while, and [c] Lebanon shall be turned into a fruitful field, and the fruitful field shall be esteemed as a forest?

18 ¶ And [d] in that day shall the deaf hear the words of the book, and the eyes of the blind shall see out of obscurity, and out of darkness.

19 [e] The meek also § shall increase their joy in the LORD, and [f] the poor among men shall rejoice in the Holy One of Israel.

20 For the terrible one is brought to nought, and [g] the scorner is consumed, and all that [h] watch for iniquity are cut off:

21 That make a man an offender for a word, and [i] lay a snare for him that reproveth in the gate, and turn aside the just [k] for a thing of nought.

22 Therefore thus saith the LORD, [l] who redeemed Abraham, concerning the house of Jacob, Jacob shall not now be ashamed, neither shall his face now wax pale.

23 But when he seeth his children, [m] the work of mine hands, in the midst of him, they shall sanctify my name, and sanctify the Holy One of Jacob, and shall fear the God of Israel.

24 They also [n] that erred in spirit ‖ shall come to understanding, and they that murmured shall learn doctrine.

WOE to the rebellious children, saith the LORD, [a] that take counsel, but not of me; and that cover with a covering, but not of my spirit, [b] that they may add sin to sin:

2 [c] That walk to go down into Egypt, and [d] have not asked at my mouth; to strengthen themselves in the strength of Pharaoh, and to trust in the shadow of Egypt!

3 [e] Therefore shall the strength of Pharaoh be your shame, and the trust in the shadow of Egypt your confusion.

4 For his princes were at [f] Zoan, and his ambassadors came to Hanes.

5 [g] They were all ashamed of a people that could not profit them, nor be an help nor profit, but a shame, and also a reproach.

6 [h] The burden of the beasts of the south: into the land of trouble and anguish, from whence come the young and old lion, [i] the viper and fiery flying serpent, they will carry their riches upon the shoulders of young asses, and their treasures upon the bunches of camels, to a people that shall not profit them.

7 [k] For the Egyptians shall help in vain, and to no purpose: therefore have I cried [*] concerning this, [l] Their strength is to sit still.

8 ¶ Now go, [m] write it before them in a table, and note it in a book, that it may be for [†] the time to come for ever and ever:

9 That [n] this is a rebellious people, lying children, children that will not hear the law of the LORD:

10 [o] Which say to the seers, See not; and to the prophets, Prophesy not unto us right things, [p] speak unto us smooth things, prophesy deceits:

11 Get you out of the way, turn aside out of the path, cause the Holy One of Israel to cease from before us.

12 Wherefore thus saith the Holy One of Israel, Because ye despise this word, and trust in [‡] oppression and perverseness, and stay thereon:

13 Therefore this iniquity shall be to you [q] as a breach ready to fall, swelling out in a high wall, whose breaking [r] cometh suddenly at an instant.

14 And [s] he shall break it as the breaking of § the potters' vessel that is broken in pieces; he shall not spare: so that there shall not be found in the bursting of it a sherd to take fire from the hearth, or to take water withal out of the pit.

15 For thus saith the Lord GOD, the Holy One of Israel; [t] In returning and rest shall ye be saved; in quietness and in confidence shall be your strength: [u] and ye would not.

16 But ye said, No; for we will flee upon horses; therefore shall ye flee: and, We will ride upon the swift; therefore shall they that pursue you be swift.

17 [x] One thousand shall flee at the rebuke of one; at the rebuke of five shall ye flee: till ye be left as ‖ a beacon upon the top of a mountain, and as an ensign on an hill.

18 ¶ And therefore will the LORD wait, that he may be gracious unto you, and therefore will he be exalted, that he may have mercy upon you: for the LORD is a God of judgment: [y] blessed are all they that wait for him.

CHAP. XXXVI. Ver. 1. Now it came to pass, &c.—"This and the three following chapters, excepting part of the thirty-eighth, are almost word for word the same with the second book of Kings, from the thirteenth verse of the eighteenth chapter to the twentieth verse of the twentieth chapter. From whence we may probably conjecture that this was part of that history of Hezekiah's reign which Isaiah wrote, as we read 2 Chron. xxxii. 32. It is inserted here because it gives great light to several particulars of the foregoing prophecies, especially those passages which speak of Sennacherib's invasion; and the thirty-ninth chapter contains a prophecy of the captivity, and is an introduction to the remainder of Isaiah's prophecies; a great part of which relate to the restoration of the Jews, and their return into their own land. For the same reason the history of the taking of Jerusalem by the Babylonians is annexed to Jeremiah's prophecies, because it helps to explain and confirm several passages in them. See Jer. lii."—*W. b 2 Kings 18. 19, &c.

4 ¶ [b]And Rabshakeh said unto them, Say ye now to Hezekiah, Thus saith the great king, the king of Assyria, What confidence is this wherein thou trustest?

† Heb. a word of lips. ‡ Or, but counsel and strength are for the war. c Isai. 29. 6, 7.

5 I say, sayest thou, (but they are but † vain words) ‡ I have counsel and strength for war: now on whom dost thou trust, that thou rebellest against me?

6 Lo, thou trustest in the [c]staff of this broken reed, on Egypt; whereon if a man lean, it will go into his hand, and pierce it: so is Pharaoh king of Egypt to all that trust in him.

7 But if thou say to me, We trust in the LORD our God: is it not he, whose high places and whose altars Hezekiah hath taken away, and said to Judah and to Jerusalem, Ye shall worship before this altar?

§ Or, hostages.

8 Now therefore give §pledges, I pray thee, to my master the king of Assyria, and I will give thee two thousand horses, if thou be able on thy part to set riders upon them.

9 How then wilt thou turn away the face of one captain of the least of my master's servants, and put thy trust on Egypt for chariots and for horsemen?

10 And am I now come up without the LORD against this land to destroy it? the LORD said unto me, Go up against this land, and destroy it.

11 ¶ Then said Eliakim and Shebna and Joah unto Rabshakeh, Speak, I pray thee, unto thy servants in the Syrian language; for we understand it: and speak not to us in the Jews' language, in the ears of the people that are on the wall.

12 ¶ But Rabshakeh said, Hath my master sent me to thy master and to thee to speak these words? hath he not sent me to the men that sit upon the wall, that they may eat their own dung, and drink their own piss with you?

13 Then Rabshakeh stood, and cried with a loud voice in the Jews' language, and said, Hear ye the words of the great king, the king of Assyria.

14 Thus saith the king, Let not Hezekiah deceive you: for he shall not be able to deliver you.

15 Neither let Hezekiah make you trust in the LORD, saying, The LORD will surely deliver us: this city shall not be delivered into the hand of the king of Assyria.

‖ Or, Seek my favour by a present. * Heb. Make with me a blessing. d Zech. 3. 10.

16 Hearken not to Hezekiah: for thus saith the king of Assyria, ‖ *Make an agreement with me by a present, and come out to me: [d]and eat ye every one of his vine, and every one of his fig tree, and drink ye every one the waters of his own cistern;

17 Until I come and take you away to a land like your own land, a land of corn and wine, a land of bread and vineyards.

18 Beware lest Hezekiah persuade you, saying, The LORD will deliver us. Hath any of the gods of the nations delivered his land out of the hand of the king of Assyria? B. C. abt. 710

19 Where are the gods of Hamath and Arphad? where are the gods of Sepharvaim? and have they delivered Samaria out of my hand?

20 Who are they among all the gods of these lands, that have delivered their land out of my hand, that the LORD should deliver Jerusalem out of my hand?

21 But they held their peace, and answered him not a word: for the king's commandment was, saying, Answer him not.

22 ¶ Then came Eliakim, the son of Hilkiah, that was over the houshold, and Shebna the scribe, and Joah, the son of Asaph, the recorder, to Hezekiah with their clothes rent, and told him the words of Rabshakeh.

1 Hezekiah mourning sendeth to Isaiah to pray for them. 6 Isaiah comforteth them. 8 Sennacherib, going to encounter Tirhakah, sendeth a blasphemous letter to Hezekiah. 14 Hezekiah's prayer. 21 Isaiah's prophecy of the pride and destruction of Sennacherib, and the good of Zion. 36 An angel slayeth the Assyrians. 37 Sennacherib is slain at Nineveh by his own sons.

AND [a]it came to pass, when king Hezekiah heard it, that he rent his clothes, and covered himself with sackcloth, and went into the house of the LORD. a 2 Kings 19. 1, &c.

2 And he sent Eliakim, who was over the houshold, and Shebna the scribe, and the elders of the priests covered with sackcloth, unto Isaiah the prophet the son of Amoz.

3 And they said unto him, Thus saith Hezekiah, This day is a day of trouble, and of rebuke, and of *blasphemy: for the children are come to the birth, and there is not strength to bring forth. * Or, provocation.

4 It may be the LORD thy God will hear the words of Rabshakeh, whom the king of Assyria his master hath sent to reproach the living God, and will reprove the words which the LORD thy God hath heard: wherefore lift up thy prayer for the remnant that is †left. † Heb. found.

5 So the servants of king Hezekiah came to Isaiah.

6 ¶ And Isaiah said unto them, Thus shall ye say unto your master, Thus saith the LORD, Be not afraid of the words that thou hast heard, wherewith the servants of the king of Assyria have blasphemed me.

‡ Or, put a spirit into him.

7 Behold, I will ‡send a blast upon him, and he shall hear a rumour, and return to his own land; and I will cause him to fall by the sword in his own land.

8 ¶ So Rabshakeh returned, and found the king of Assyria warring against Libnah: for he had heard that he was departed from Lachish.

9 And he heard say concerning Tirhakah king of Ethiopia, He is come forth to make war with thee. And when he heard it, he sent messengers to Hezekiah, saying,

10 Thus shall ye speak to Hezekiah king of Judah, saying, Let not thy God, in whom thou trustest, deceive thee, saying, Jerusalem shall not be given into the hand of the king of Assyria.

11 Behold, thou hast heard what the kings of Assyria have done to all lands by destroying them utterly; and shalt thou be delivered?

14 ¶ And Hezekiah received the letter from the hand of the messengers, and read it: and Hezekiah went up unto the house of the LORD, and spread it before the LORD.

15 And Hezekiah prayed unto the LORD, saying,

16 O LORD of hosts, God of Israel, that dwellest between the cherubims, thou art the God, even thou alone, of all the kingdoms of the earth: thou hast made heaven and earth.

CHAP. XLI. Ver. 1. Keep silence, &c.—"In this and the five following chapters, God is introduced as pleading his own cause against the false gods of the heathen, and challenging the idols to show such instances of their power and goodness in protecting their votaries as might be alleged in his behalf, with respect to his care and providence over the Jews. These instruments were very proper to confirm that people in their religion and preserve them from being drawn aside to comply with the Babylonish idolatry; and they likewise contain in them a plain prediction of the calling of the Gentiles and their turning from idols to serve the true and living God."—*W. help thee; Fear not, O Jacob, my servant; and thou [o] Jesurun, whom I have chosen.

3 For I will [d] pour water upon him that is thirsty, and floods upon the dry ground: I will pour my spirit upon thy seed, and my blessing upon thine offspring:

4 And they shall spring up as among the grass, as willows by the water courses.

5 One shall say, I am the LORD's; and another shall call himself by the name of Jacob; and another shall subscribe with his hand unto the LORD, and surname himself by the name of Israel.

6 Thus saith the LORD the King of Israel, [e] and his redeemer the LORD of hosts; [f] I am the first, and I am the last; and beside me there is no God.

7 And [g] who, as I, shall call, and shall declare it, and set it in order for me, since I appointed the ancient people? and the things that are coming, and shall come, let them shew unto them.

8 Fear ye not, neither be afraid: [h] have not I told thee from that time, and have declared it? [i] ye are even my witnesses. Is there a God beside me? yea, [k] there is no [*] God; I know not any.

9 ¶ [l] They that make a graven image are all of them vanity; and their † delectable things shall not profit; and they are their own witnesses; [m] they see not, nor know; that they may be ashamed.

12 [p] The smith ‡ with the tongs both worketh in the coals, and fashioneth it with hammers, and worketh it with the strength of his arms: yea, he is hungry, and his strength faileth: he drinketh no water, and is faint.

13 The carpenter stretcheth out his rule; he marketh it out with a line; he fitteth it with planes, and he marketh it out with the compass, and maketh it after the figure of a man, according to the beauty of a man; that it may remain in the house.

14 He heweth him down cedars, and taketh the cypress and the oak, which he § strengtheneth for himself among the trees of the forest: he planteth an ash, and the rain doth nourish it.

15 Then shall it be for a man to burn: for he will take thereof, and warm himself; yea, he kindleth it, and baketh bread; yea, he maketh a god, and worshippeth it; he maketh it a graven image, and falleth down thereto.

16 He burneth part thereof in the fire; with part thereof he eateth flesh; he roasteth roast, and is satisfied: yea, he warmeth himself, and saith, Aha, I am warm, I have seen the fire:

17 And the residue thereof he maketh a god, even his graven image: he falleth down unto it, and worshippeth it, and prayeth unto it, and saith, Deliver me; for thou art my god.

22 [x] I have blotted out, as a thick cloud, thy transgressions, and, as a cloud, thy sins: return unto me; for [y] I have redeemed thee.

23 [z] Sing, O ye heavens; for the LORD hath done it: shout, ye lower parts of the earth: break forth into singing, ye mountains, O forest, and every tree therein: for the LORD hath redeemed Jacob, and glorified himself in Israel.

24 Thus saith the LORD, [a] thy redeemer, and [b] he that formed thee from the womb, I am the LORD that maketh all things; [c] that stretcheth forth the heavens alone; that spreadeth abroad the earth by myself;

25 That [d] frustrateth the tokens [e] of the liars, and maketh diviners mad; that turneth wise men backward, [f] and maketh their knowledge foolish;

CHAP. XLVII.

1 God's judgment upon Babylon and Chaldea, 6 for their unmercifulness, 7 pride, 10 and overboldness, 11 shall be unexcusable.

COME [a] down, and [b] sit in the dust, O virgin daughter of Babylon, sit on the ground: there is no throne, O daughter of the Chaldeans: for thou shalt no more be called tender and delicate.

2 [c] Take the millstones, and grind meal: uncover thy locks, make bare the leg, uncover the thigh, pass over the rivers.

3 [d] Thy nakedness shall be uncovered, yea, thy shame shall be seen: [e] I will take vengeance, and I will not meet thee as a man.

4 As for [f] our redeemer, the LORD of hosts is his name, the Holy One of Israel.

5 Sit thou [g] silent, and get thee into darkness, O daughter of the Chaldeans: [h] for thou shalt no more be called, The lady of kingdoms.

6 ¶ [i] I was wroth with my people, [k] I have polluted mine inheritance, and given them into thine hand: thou didst shew them no mercy; [l] upon the ancient hast thou very heavily laid thy yoke.

7 ¶ And thou saidst, I shall be [m] a lady for ever: so that thou didst not [n] lay these things to thy heart, [o] neither didst remember the latter end of it.

8 Therefore hear now this, thou that art given to pleasures, that dwellest carelessly, that sayest in thine heart, [p] I am, and none else beside me; [q] I shall not sit as a widow, neither shall I know the loss of children:

9 But [r] these two things shall come to thee [s] in a moment in one day, the loss of children, and widowhood: they shall come upon thee in their perfection [t] for the multitude of thy sorceries, and for the great abundance of thine enchantments.

10 ¶ For thou [u] hast trusted in thy wickedness: [x] thou hast said, None seeth me. Thy wisdom and thy knowledge, it hath [*] perverted thee; [y] and thou hast said in thine heart, I am, and none else beside me.

11 ¶ Therefore shall evil come upon thee; thou shalt not know † from whence it riseth: and mischief shall fall upon thee; thou shalt not be able to ‡ put it off: and [z] desolation shall come upon thee suddenly, which thou shalt not know.

12 Stand now with thine enchantments, and with the multitude of thy sorceries, wherein thou hast laboured from thy youth; if so be thou shalt be able to profit, if so be thou mayest prevail.

13 [a] Thou art wearied in the multitude of thy counsels. Let now [b] the § astrologers, the stargazers, ‖ the monthly prognosticators, stand up, and save thee from these things that shall come upon thee.

14 Behold, they shall be [c] as stubble; the fire shall burn them; they shall not deliver [*] themselves from the power of the flame: there shall not be a coal to warm at, nor fire to sit before it.

15 Thus shall they be unto thee with whom thou hast laboured, even [d] thy merchants, from thy youth: they shall wander every one to his quarter; none shall save thee.

CHAP. XLVIII.

1 God, to convince the people of their foreknown obstinacy, revealed his prophecies. 9 He saveth them for his own sake. 12 He exhorteth them to obedience, because of his power and providence. 16 He lamenteth their backwardness. 20 He powerfully delivereth his out of Babylon.

HEAR ye this, O house of Jacob, which are called by the name of Israel, and [a] are come forth out of the waters of Judah, [b] which swear by the name of the LORD, and make mention of the God of Israel, [c] but not intruth, nor in righteousness.

2 For they call themselves [d] of the holy city, and [e] stay themselves upon the God of Israel; The LORD of hosts is his name.

3 [f] I have declared the former things from the beginning; and they went forth out of my mouth, and I shewed them; I did them suddenly, [g] and they came to pass.

4 Because I knew that thou art [*] obstinate, and [h] thy neck is an iron sinew, and thy brow brass;

5 [i] I have even from the beginning declared it to thee; before it came to pass I shewed it thee: lest thou shouldest say, Mine idol hath done them, and my graven image, and my molten image, hath commanded them.

6 Thou hast heard, see all this; and will not ye declare it? I have shewed thee new things from this time, even hidden things, and thou didst not know them.

7 They are created now, and not from the beginning; even before the day when thou heardest them not; lest thou shouldest say, Behold, I knew them.

8 Yea, thou heardest not; yea, thou knewest not; yea, from that time that thine ear was not opened: for I knew that thou wouldest deal very treacherously, and wast called [k] a transgressor from the womb.

9 ¶ [l] For my name's sake [m] will I defer mine anger, and for my praise will I refrain for thee, that I cut thee not off.

10 Behold, [n] I have refined thee, but not † with silver; I have chosen thee [o] in the furnace of affliction.

11 [p] For mine own sake, even for mine own sake, will I do it: for [q] how should my name be polluted? and [r] I will not give my glory unto another.

12 ¶ Hearken unto me, O Jacob and Israel, my called; [s] I am he; I am the [t] first, I also am the last.

13 [u] Mine hand also hath laid the foundation of the earth, and ‡ my right hand hath spanned the heavens: when [x] I call unto them, they stand up together.

14 [y] All ye, assemble yourselves, and hear; which among them hath declared these things? [z] The LORD hath loved him: [a] he will do his pleasure on Babylon, and his arm shall be on the Chaldeans.

15 I, even I, have spoken; yea, [b] I have called him: I have brought him, and he shall make his way prosperous.

16 ¶ Come ye near unto me, hear ye this; [c] I have not spoken in secret from the beginning; from the time that it was, there am I: and now [d] the Lord GOD, and his Spirit, hath sent me.

17 Thus saith [e] the LORD, thy Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel; I am the LORD thy God which teacheth thee to profit, [f] which leadeth thee by the way that thou shouldest go.

18 [g] O that thou hadst hearkened to my commandments! [h] then had thy peace been as a river, and thy righteousness as the waves of the sea:

19 [i] Thy seed also had been as the sand, and the offspring of thy bowels like the gravel thereof; his name should not have been cut off nor destroyed from before me.

20 ¶ [k] Go ye forth of Babylon, flee ye from the Chaldeans, with a voice of singing declare ye, tell this, utter it even to the end of the earth; say ye, The LORD hath [l] redeemed his servant Jacob.

21 And they [m] thirsted not when he led them through the deserts: he [n] caused the waters to flow out of the rock for them: he clave the rock also, and the waters gushed out.

LISTEN, [a] O isles, unto me; and hearken, ye people, from far; [b] The LORD hath called me from the womb; from the bowels of my mother hath he made mention of my name.

2 And he hath made [c] my mouth like a sharp sword; [d] in the shadow of his hand hath he hid me, and made me [e] a polished shaft; in his quiver hath he hid me;

3 And said unto me, [f] Thou art my servant, O Israel, [g] in whom I will be glorified.

4 [h] Then I said, I have laboured in vain, I have spent my strength for nought, and in vain: yet surely my judgment is with the LORD, and * my work with my God.

5 ¶ And now, saith the LORD [i] that formed me from the womb to be his servant, to bring Jacob again to him, † Though Israel [k] be not gathered, yet shall I be glorious in the eyes of the LORD, and my God shall be my strength.

6 And he said, ‡ It is a light thing that thou shouldest be my servant to raise up the tribes of Jacob, and to restore the § preserved of Israel: I will also give thee for a [l] light to the Gentiles, that thou mayest be my salvation unto the end of the earth.

8 Thus saith the LORD, [o] In an acceptable time have I heard thee, and in a day of salvation have I helped thee: and I will preserve thee, [p] and give thee for a covenant of the people, to * establish the earth, to cause to inherit the desolate heritages;

9 That thou mayest say [q] to the prisoners, Go forth; to them that are in darkness, Shew yourselves. They shall feed in the ways, and their pastures shall be in all high places.

10 They shall not [r] hunger nor thirst; [s] neither shall the heat nor sun smite them: for he that hath mercy on them [t] shall lead them, even by the springs of water shall he guide them.

11 [u] And I will make all my mountains a way, and my highways shall be exalted.

12 Behold, [x] these shall come from far: and, lo, these from the north and from the west; and these from the land of Sinim.

13 ¶ [y] Sing, O heavens; and be joyful, O earth; and break forth into singing, O mountains: for the LORD hath comforted his people, and will have mercy upon his afflicted.

14 [z] But Zion said, The LORD hath forsaken me, and my Lord hath forgotten me.

15 [a] Can a woman forget her sucking child, † that she should not have compassion on the son of her womb? yea, they may forget, [b] yet will I not forget thee.

16 Behold, [c] I have graven thee upon the palms of my hands; thy walls are continually before me.

17 Thy children shall make haste; [d] thy destroyers and they that made thee waste shall go forth of thee.

18 ¶ [e] Lift up thine eyes round about, and behold: all these gather themselves together, and come to thee. As I live, saith the LORD, thou shalt surely clothe thee with them all, [f] as with an ornament, and bind them on thee, as a bride doeth.

19 For thy waste and thy desolate places, and the land of thy destruction, [g] shall even now be too narrow by reason of the inhabitants, and they that swallowed thee up shall be far away.

20 [h] The children which thou shalt have, [i] after thou hast lost the other, shall say again in thine ears, The place is too strait for me: give place to me that I may dwell.

21 Then shalt thou say in thine heart, Who hath begotten me these, seeing I have lost my children, and am desolate, a captive, and removing to and fro? and who hath brought up these? Behold, I was left alone; these, where had they been?

22 [k] Thus saith the Lord GOD, Behold, I will lift up mine hand to the Gentiles, and set up my standard to the people: and they shall bring thy sons in their ‡ arms, and thy daughters shall be carried upon their shoulders.

CHAP. L. Ver. 1 Thus saith the Lord, &c.—The glad tidings of Redemption are here proclaimed by the prophet, notwithstanding that God has dealt severely with his people, who are exhorted to confide in him and not in themselves.

CHAP. LI. Ver. 1. Hearken to me, &c.—The prophet here exhorts the pious fugitives to rely upon the divine promises, and the Gentiles to confide in the same salvation offered to the seed of Abraham, through Christ. He refers to the temporal deliverance of the Israelites from Egyptian bondage as a symbol of proof of God's power to deliver them eventually; and concludes with a consolation over Jerusalem, but consoles the people with a joyful prospect of happier times.

CHAP. LII. Ver. 1. Awake, awake, &c.—The subject introduced at the conclusion of the last chapter is here resumed. Jerusalem is represented as awakened out of her long slumber to a course of more active holiness, and congratulated on her restoration from captivity. Here is a manifest allusion to the state of the Church under the gospel, which did in truth, in the language of the Psalmist, "awake to righteousness. Christ's humiliation and sufferings are detailed at length, and his ultimate triumph over sin, and death, and hell, which occupies the conclusion of this, from the twelfth verse, and the whole of the following chapter, exhibiting in a most striking point of view the fundamental doctrines of the christian dispensation.

CHAP. LIV. Ver. 1. Sing, O barren, &c.—The prophet here describes more at large the consequences that should follow Christ's sufferings, the prosperity and increased glory of the Church, which, though commencing with the Saviour's passion, should not reach their consummation until his second advent, when, the Jews having been restored to God's favour, it should be changed from a Church militant to a Church triumphant.

CHAP. LV. Ver. 1. Ho, every one, &c.—The freeness of the gospel blessings are here proclaimed. All persons are invited to embrace them. They are assured to a sincere repentance for past but forsaken sins.

6 ¶ [1]Seek ye the LORD while he may be found, call ye upon him while he is near:

7 [m] Let the wicked forsake his way, and † the unrighteous man [n] his thoughts: and let him return unto the LORD, [o] and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for ‡ he will abundantly pardon.

8 ¶ [p] For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways, my ways, saith the LORD.

9 [q] For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts.

10 [r] For as the rain cometh down, and the snow from heaven, and returneth not thither, but watereth the earth, and maketh it bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower, and bread to the eater:

11 [s] So shall my word be that goeth forth out of my mouth: it shall not return unto me void, but it shall accomplish that which I please, and it shall prosper in the thing whereto I sent it.

12 [t] For ye shall go out with joy, and be led forth with peace: the mountains and the hills shall [u] break forth before you into singing, and [x] all the trees of the field shall clap their hands.

13 [y] Instead of [z] the thorn shall come up the fir tree, and instead of the brier shall come up the myrtle tree: and it shall be to the LORD [a] for a name, for an everlasting sign that shall not be cut off.

1 The prophet exhorteth to sanctification. 3 He promiseth it shall be general without respect of persons. 9 He inveigheth against blind watchmen.

THUS saith the LORD, Keep ye * judgment, and do justice: [a] for my salvation is near to come, and my righteousness to be revealed.

2 Blessed is the man that doeth this, and the son of man that layeth hold on it; [b] that keepeth the sabbath from polluting it, and keepeth his hand from doing any evil.

3 ¶ Neither let [c] the son of the stranger, that hath joined himself to the LORD, speak, saying, The LORD hath utterly separated me from his people: neither let the eunuch say, Behold, I am a dry tree.

4 For thus saith the LORD unto the eunuchs that keep my sabbaths, and choose the things that please me, and take hold of my covenant;

5 Even unto them will I give in [d] mine house and within my walls a place [e] and a name better than of sons and of daughters: I will give them an everlasting name, that shall not be cut off.

6 Also the sons of the stranger, that join themselves to the LORD, to serve him, and to love the name of the LORD, to be his servants, every one that keepeth the sabbath from polluting it, and taketh hold of my covenant;

7 Even them will I [f] bring to my holy mountain, and make them joyful in my house of prayer: [g] their burnt offerings and their sacrifices shall be accepted upon mine altar; for [h] mine house shall be called an house of prayer [i] for all people.

8 The Lord GOD [k] which gathereth the outcasts of Israel saith, [l] Yet will I gather others to him, † beside those that are gathered unto him.

9 ¶ [m] All ye beasts of the field, come to devour, yea, all ye beasts in the forest.

10 His watchmen are [n] blind: they are all ignorant, [o] they are all dumb dogs, they cannot bark; ‡ sleeping, lying down, loving to slumber.

11 Yea, they are § [p] greedy dogs which ‖ [q] can never have enough, and they are shepherds that cannot understand: they all look to their own way, every one for his gain, from his quarter.

12 Come ye, say they, I will fetch wine, and we will fill ourselves with strong drink; [r] and to morrow shall be as this day, and much more abundant.

3 ¶ But draw near hither, [d] ye sons of the sorceress, the seed of the adulterer and the whore.

4 Against whom do ye sport yourselves? against whom make ye a wide mouth, and draw out the tongue? are ye not children of transgression, a seed of falsehood,

5 Enflaming yourselves ‖ with idols * under every green tree, [f] slaying the children in the valleys under the clifts of the rocks?

6 Among the smooth stones of the stream is thy portion; they, they are thy lot: even to them hast thou poured a drink offering, thou hast offered a meat offering. Should I receive comfort in these?

7 [g] Upon a lofty and high mountain hast thou set [h] thy bed: even thither wentest thou up to offer sacrifice.

CHAP. LVI. Ver. 1. Thus saith the Lord, &c.—The first eight verses of this chapter contain exhortations to the captive Jews, and to those strangers who had embraced their religion. "The prophetic part," observes Dodd, "contains three predictions; the first, of the remarkable amplification of the Church, ver. 8; the second, of the irruption of barbarous people who should lay waste the Church, ver. 9; the third, of a remarkable corruption in the rulers of the church, as the cause of that judgment, ver. 10. 11. For my salvation, &c., seems to allude particularly to that manifestation of the kingdom of God which was made by his signal judgments in the destruction of Jerusalem by the Romans."

CHAP. LVII. Ver. 1. The righteous perisheth, &c.—The subject of the last chapter is continued in this. The idolatries practised by the Israelites which caused God to deliver them into the power of the Babylonians, are reproved by the prophet, who, nevertheless, proclaims God's promises of deliverance.

remembered me, nor laid it to thy heart? [a] have not I held my peace even of old, and thou fearest me not?

12 I will declare thy righteousness, and thy works; for they shall not profit thee.

13 ¶ When thou criest, let thy companies deliver thee; but the wind shall carry them all away; vanity shall take them: but he that putteth his trust in me shall possess the land, and shall inherit my holy mountain;

14 And shall say, [c] Cast ye up, cast ye up, prepare the way, take up the stumblingblock out of the way of my people.

15 For thus saith the high and lofty One that inhabiteth eternity, [p] whose name is Holy; [q] I dwell in the high and holy place, [r] with him also that is of a contrite and humble spirit, [s] to revive the spirit of the humble, and to revive the heart of the contrite ones.

16 [t] For I will not contend for ever, neither will I be always wroth: for the spirit should fail before me, and the souls [u] which I have made.

17 For the iniquity of [x] his covetousness was I wroth, and smote him: [y] I hid me, and was wroth, [z] and he went on ‖ frowardly in the way of his heart.

18 I have seen his ways, and [a] will heal him: I will lead him also, and restore comforts unto him and to [b] his mourners.

19 I create [c] the fruit of the lips; Peace, peace [d] to him that is far off, and to him that is near, saith the LORD; and I will heal him.

20 [e] But the wicked are like the troubled sea, when it cannot rest, whose waters cast up mire and dirt.

21 [f] There is no peace, saith my God, to the wicked.

CHAP. LVIII.

1 The prophet, being sent to reprove hypocrisy, 3 expresseth a counterfeit fast and a true. 8 He declareth what promises are due unto godliness, 13 and to the keeping of the sabbath.

CRY * aloud, spare not, lift up thy voice like a trumpet, and shew my people their transgression, and the house of Jacob their sins.

2 Yet they seek me daily, and delight to know my ways, as a nation that did righteousness, and forsook not the ordinance of their God: they ask of me the ordinances of justice; they take delight in approaching to God.

3 ¶ [a] Wherefore have we fasted, say they, and thou seest not? wherefore have we [b] afflicted our soul, and thou takest no knowledge? Behold, in the day of your fast ye find pleasure, and exact all your † ‡ labours.

4 [c] Behold, ye fast for strife and debate, and to smite with the fist of wickedness: § ye shall not fast as ye do this day, to make your voice to be heard on high.

5 Is it [d] such a fast that I have chosen? [e] ‖ a day for a man to afflict his soul? is it to bow down his head as a bulrush, and [f] to spread sackcloth and ashes under him? wilt thou call this a fast, and an acceptable day to the LORD?

6 Is not this the fast that I have chosen? to loose the bands of wickedness, [g] to undo * the heavy burdens, and [h] to let the † oppressed go free, and that ye break every yoke?

7 Is it not [i] to deal thy bread to the hungry, and that thou bring the poor that are ‡ cast out to thy house? [k] when thou seest the naked, that thou cover him; and that thou hide not thyself from [l] thine own flesh?

8 ¶ [m] Then shall thy light break forth as the morning, and thine health shall spring forth speedily: and thy righteousness shall go before thee; [n] the glory of the LORD § shall be thy rereward.

9 Then shalt thou call, and the LORD shall answer; thou shalt cry, and he shall say, Here I am. If thou take away from the midst of thee the yoke, the putting forth of the finger, and [o] speaking vanity;

10 And if thou draw out thy soul to the hungry, and satisfy the afflicted soul; then shall thy light rise in obscurity, and thy darkness be as the noon day:

11 And the LORD shall guide thee continually, and satisfy thy soul in ‖ drought, and make fat thy bones: and thou shalt be like a watered garden, and like a spring of water, whose waters * fail not.

12 And they that shall be of thee [p] shall build the old waste places: thou shalt raise up the foundations of many generations; and thou shalt be called, The repairer of the breach, The restorer of paths to dwell in.

13 ¶ If [q] thou turn away thy foot from the sabbath, from doing thy pleasure on my holy day; and call the sabbath a delight, the holy of the LORD, honourable; and shalt honour him, not doing thine own ways, nor finding thine own pleasure, nor speaking thine own words:

14 [r] Then shalt thou delight thyself in the LORD; and I will cause thee to [s] ride upon the high places of the earth, and feed thee with the heritage of Jacob thy father: [t] for the mouth of the LORD hath spoken it.

CHAP. LIX.

1 The damnable nature of sin. 3 The sins of the Jews. 9 Calamity is for sin. 16 Salvation is only of God. 20 The covenant of the Redeemer.

BEHOLD, the LORD's hand is not [a] shortened, that it cannot save; neither his ear heavy, that it cannot hear:

2 But your iniquities have separated between you and your God, and your sins * have hid his face from you, that he will not hear.

3 For [b] your hands are defiled with blood, and your fingers with iniquity; your lips have spoken lies, your tongue hath muttered perverseness.

4 None calleth for justice, nor any pleadeth for truth: they trust in vanity, and speak lies; [c] they conceive mischief, and bring forth iniquity.

5 They hatch † cockatrice' eggs, and weave the spider's web: he that eateth of their eggs dieth, and ‡ that which is crushed breaketh out into a viper.

CHAP. LVIII. Ver. 1. Cry aloud, &c.—The wickedness of the idolatrous Jews being here shown to be extreme, they are instructed how they ought to perform the duties of repentance and humiliation on the particular days set apart for those purposes.

CHAP. LIX. Ver. 1. Behold the Lord's, &c.—"This chapter contains a general reproof of the Jews, of their acts of bloodshed, violence, falsehood, and injustice. At verse 9. they are introduced as making an ample confession of their sins, and deploring their wretched state in consequence of them. On this act of humiliation a promise is given that God, in his mercy and zeal for his people, will rescue them from this miserable condition: that the Redeemer will come like a mighty hero to deliver them. He will destroy his enemies, convert both Jews and Gentiles to himself, and give them a new covenant and a law which shall never be abolished."—Bishop Lowth.

17 For brass I will bring gold, and for iron I will bring silver, and for wood brass, and for stones iron: I will also make thy officers peace, and thine exactors righteousness.

18 Violence shall no more be heard in thy land, wasting nor destruction within thy borders; but thou shalt call [f]thy walls Salvation, and thy gates Praise.

19 The [g]sun shall be no more thy light by day; neither for brightness shall the moon give light unto thee: but the LORD shall be unto thee an everlasting light, and [h]thy God thy glory.

20 [i]Thy sun shall no more go down; neither shall thy moon withdraw itself: for the LORD shall be thine everlasting light, and the days of thy mourning shall be ended.

21 [k]Thy people also shall be all righteous: [l]they shall inherit the land for ever, [m]the branch of my planting, [n]the work of my hands, that I may be glorified.

22 [o]A little one shall become a thousand, and a small one a strong nation: I the LORD will hasten it in his time.

CHAP. LXI.

1 The office of Christ. 4 The forwardness, 7 and blessings of the faithful.

THE [a]Spirit of the Lord GOD is upon me; because the LORD [b]hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek; he hath sent me [c]to bind up the broken-hearted, to proclaim [d]liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound;

2 [e]To proclaim the acceptable year of the LORD, and [f]the day of vengeance of our God; [g]to comfort all that mourn;

3 To appoint unto them that mourn in Zion, [h]to give unto them beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness; that they might be called trees of righteousness, [i]the planting of the LORD, [k]that he might be glorified.

4 ¶ And they shall [l]build the old wastes, they shall raise up the former desolations, and they shall repair the waste cities, the desolations of many generations.

5 And [m]strangers shall stand and feed your flocks, and the sons of the alien shall be your plowmen and your vinedressers.

6 [n]But ye shall be named the Priests of the LORD: men shall call you the Ministers of our God: [o]ye shall eat the riches of the Gentiles, and in their glory shall ye boast yourselves.

7 ¶ [p]For your shame ye shall have double; and for confusion they shall rejoice in their portion: therefore in their land they shall possess the double: everlasting joy shall be unto them.

8 For [q]I the LORD love judgment, [r]I hate robbery for burnt offering; and I will direct their work in truth, [s]and I will make an everlasting covenant with them.

9 And their seed shall be known among the Gentiles, and their offspring among the people: all that see them shall acknowledge them, [t]that they are the seed which the LORD hath blessed.

10 [u]I will greatly rejoice in the LORD, my soul shall be joyful in my God; for [x]he hath clothed me with the garments of salvation, he hath covered me with the robe of righteousness, [y]as a bridegroom [z]decketh himself with ornaments, and as a bride adorneth herself with her jewels.

11 For as the earth bringeth forth her bud, and as the garden causeth the things that are sown in it to spring forth; so the Lord GOD will cause [a]righteousness and [a]praise to spring forth before all the nations.

CHAP. LXII.

1 The fervent desire of the prophet to confirm the church in God's promises. 5 The office of the ministers unto which they are incited in preaching the Gospel, 10 and preparing the people thereto.

FOR Zion's sake will I not hold my peace, and for Jerusalem's sake I will not rest, until the righteousness thereof go forth as brightness, and the salvation thereof as a lamp that burneth.

2 [a]And the Gentiles shall see thy righteousness, and all kings thy glory: [b]and thou shalt be called by a new name, which the mouth of the LORD shall name.

3 Thou shalt also be [c]a crown of glory in the hand of the LORD, and a royal diadem in the hand of thy God.

4 [d]Thou shalt no more be termed [e]Forsaken; neither shall thy land any more be termed [f]Desolate: but thou shalt be called [*]Hephzi-bah, and thy land †Beulah: for the LORD delighteth in thee, and thy land shall be married.

5 ¶ For as a young man marrieth a virgin, so shall thy sons marry thee: and ‡as the bridegroom rejoiceth over the bride, so [g]shall thy God rejoice over thee.

6 [h]I have set watchmen upon thy walls, O Jerusalem, which shall never hold their peace day nor night: § ye that make mention of the LORD, keep not silence,

7 And give him no ‖rest, till he establish, and till he make Jerusalem [i]a praise in the earth.

8 The LORD hath sworn by his right hand, and by the arm of his strength, [*]Surely I will no more [k]give thy corn to be meat for thine enemies; and the sons of the stranger shall not drink thy wine, for the which thou hast laboured:

9 But they that have gathered it shall eat it, and praise the LORD; and they that have brought it together shall drink it [l]in the courts of my holiness.

10 ¶ Go through, go through the gates; [m]prepare ye the way of the people; cast up, cast up the highway; gather out the stones; [n]lift up a standard for the people.

11 Behold, the LORD hath proclaimed unto the end of the world, [o]Say ye to the daughter of Zion, Behold, thy salvation cometh; behold, his [p]reward is with him, and his [†]work before him.

12 And they shall call them, The holy people, The redeemed of the LORD: and thou shalt be called, Sought out, A city [q]not forsaken.

CHAP. LXIII.

1 Christ sheweth who he is, 2 what his victory over his enemies, 7 and what his mercy toward his church. 10 In his just wrath he remembereth his free mercy. 15 The church in their prayer, 17 and complaint, profess their faith.

WHO is this that cometh from Edom, with dyed garments from Bozrah? this that is [*]glorious in his apparel, travelling in the greatness of his strength? I that speak in righteousness, mighty to save.

2 Wherefore [a]art thou red in thine apparel, and thy garments like him that treadeth in the winefat?

3 I have [b]trodden the winepress alone; and of the people there was none with me: for I will tread them in mine anger, and trample them in my fury; and their blood shall be sprinkled upon my garments, and I will stain all my raiment.

4 For the [c]day of vengeance is in mine heart, and the year of my redeemed is come.

5 [d]And I looked, and [e]there was none to help; and I wondered that there was none to uphold: therefore mine own [f]arm brought salvation unto me; and my fury, it upheld me.

6 And I will tread down the people in mine anger, and [g]make them drunk in my fury, and I will bring down their strength to the earth.

7 ¶ I will mention the lovingkindnesses of the LORD, and the praises of the LORD, according to all that the LORD hath bestowed on us, and the great goodness toward the house of Israel, which he hath bestowed on them according to his mercies, and according to the multitude of his lovingkindnesses.

8 For he said, Surely they are my people, children that will not lie: so he was their Saviour.

9 [h]In all their affliction he was afflicted, [i]and the angel of his presence saved them: [k]in his love and in his pity he redeemed them; and [l]he bare them, and carried them all the days of old.

10 ¶ But they [m]rebelled, and [n]vexed his holy Spirit: [o]therefore he was turned to be their enemy, and he fought against them.

11 Then he remembered the days of old, Moses, and his people, saying, Where is he that [p]brought them up out of the sea with the †shepherd of his flock? [q]where is he that put his holy Spirit within him?

12 That led them by the right hand of Moses [r]with his glorious arm, [s]dividing the water before them, to make himself an everlasting name?

13 [t]That led them through the deep, as an horse in the wilderness, that they should not stumble?

14 As a beast goeth down into the valley, the Spirit of the LORD caused him to rest: so didst thou lead thy people, [u]to make thyself a glorious name.

15 ¶ [x]Look down from heaven, and behold [y]from the habitation of thy holiness and of thy glory: where is thy zeal and thy strength, ‡the sounding [z]of thy bowels and of thy mercies toward me? are they restrained?

16 [a]Doubtless thou art our father, though Abraham [b]be ignorant of us, and Israel acknowledge us not: thou, O LORD, art our father, §our redeemer; thy name is from everlasting.

17 ¶ O LORD, why hast thou [c]made us to err from thy ways, and [d]hardened our heart from thy fear? [e]Return for thy servants' sake, the tribes of thine inheritance.

18 [f]The people of thy holiness have possessed it but a little while: [g]our adversaries have trodden down thy sanctuary.

19 We are thine: thou never barest rule over them; ‖ they were not called by thy name.

CHAP. LXIV.

1 The church prayeth for the illustration of God's power, 5 Celebrating God's mercy, it worketh confession of their natural corruptions. 10 It complaineth of their affliction.

OH that thou wouldest [a]rend the heavens, that thou wouldest come down, that [b]the mountains might flow down at thy presence,

2 As when [*]the melting fire burneth, the fire causeth the waters to boil, to make thy name known to thine adversaries, that the nations may tremble at thy presence!

3 When [c]thou didst terrible things which we looked not for, thou camest down, the mountains flowed down at thy presence.

4 For since the beginning of the world [d]men have not heard, nor perceived by the ear, neither hath the eye †seen, O God, beside thee, what he hath prepared for him that waiteth for him.

5 Thou meetest him that rejoiceth [*]and worketh righteousness, [f]those that remember thee in thy ways: behold, thou art wroth; for we have sinned: [g]in those is continuance, and we shall be saved.

6 But we are all as an unclean thing, and all [h]our righteousnesses are as filthy rags; and we all do [i]fade as a leaf; and our iniquities, like the wind, have taken us away.

7 And [k]there is none that calleth upon thy name, that stirreth up himself to take hold of thee: for thou hast hid thy face from us, and hast ‡consumed us, §because of our iniquities.

8 [l]But now, O LORD, thou art our father; we are the clay, [m]and thou our potter; and we all are [n]the work of thy hand.

9 ¶ Be not [o]wroth very sore, O LORD, neither remember iniquity for ever: behold, see, we beseech thee, [p]we are all thy people.

10 Thy holy cities are a wilderness, Zion is a wilderness, [q]Jerusalem a desolation.

11 [r]Our holy and our beautiful house, where our fathers praised thee, is burned up with fire: and all [s]our pleasant things are laid waste.

12 [t]Wilt thou refrain thyself for these things, O LORD? [u]wilt thou hold thy peace, and afflict us very sore?

Then follows from the seventh verse of this to the end of the sixty-fourth chapter, devout meditations upon God's former mercies to his people, mixed with expostulations for his forsaking them, and casting them off, and humble acknowledgments of their sins, which deserved such treatment."—*W. CHAP. LXV.

1 The calling of the Gentiles. 2 The Jews, for their incredulity, idolatry, and hypocrisy, are rejected. 8 A remnant shall be saved. 11 Judgments on the wicked, and blessings on the godly. 17 The blessed state of the new Jerusalem.

I [a] AM sought of them that asked not for me; I am found of them that sought me not: I said, Behold me, behold me, unto a nation that [b] was not called by my name.

2 [c] I have spread out my hands all the day unto a rebellious people, which walketh in a way that was not good, after their own thoughts;

3 A people [d] that provoketh me to anger continually to my face; [e] that sacrificeth in gardens, and burneth incense [*] upon altars of brick;

4 [f] Which remain among the graves, and lodge in the monuments, [g] which eat swine's flesh, and † broth of abominable things is in their vessels;

5 [h] Which say, Stand by thyself, come not near to me; for I am holier than thou. These are a smoke in my ‡ nose, a fire that burneth all the day.

6 Behold, [i] it is written before me: [k] I will not keep silence, [l] but will recompense, even recompense into their bosom,

7 Your iniquities, and [m] the iniquities of your fathers together, saith the LORD, [n] which have burned incense upon the mountains, [o] and blasphemed me upon the hills: therefore will I measure their former work into their bosom.

8 ¶ Thus saith the LORD, As the new wine is found in the cluster, and one saith, Destroy it not; for [p] a blessing is in it: so will I do for my servants' sakes, that I may not destroy them all.

9 And I will bring forth a seed out of Jacob, and out of Judah an inheritor of my mountains: and mine [q] elect shall inherit it, and my servants shall dwell there.

10 And [r] Sharon shall be a fold of flocks, and [s] the valley of Achor a place for the herds to lie down in, for my people that have sought me.

11 ¶ But ye are they that forsake the LORD, that forget [t] my holy mountain, that prepare [u] a table for that § troop, and that furnish the drink offering unto that ‖ number.

12 Therefore will I number you to the sword, and ye shall all bow down to the slaughter: [x] because when I called, ye did not answer; when I spake, ye did not hear; but did evil before mine eyes, and did choose that wherein I delighted not.

13 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD, Behold, my servants shall eat, but ye shall be hungry: behold, my servants shall drink, but ye shall be thirsty: behold, my servants shall rejoice, but ye shall be ashamed:

14 Behold, my servants shall sing for joy of heart, but ye shall cry for sorrow of heart, and [y] shall howl for [*] vexation of spirit.

15 And ye shall leave your name [z] for a curse unto [a] my chosen: for the Lord GOD shall slay thee, and [b] call his servants by another name:

16 [c] That he who blesseth himself in the earth shall bless himself in the God of truth; and [d] he that sweareth in the earth shall swear by the God of truth; because the former troubles are forgotten, and because they are hid from mine eyes.

17 ¶ For, behold, I create [e] new heavens and a new earth: and the former shall not be remembered, nor † come into mind.

18 But be ye glad and rejoice for ever in that which I create: for, behold, I create Jerusalem a rejoicing, and her people a joy.

19 And [f] I will rejoice in Jerusalem, and joy in my people: and the [g] voice of weeping shall be no more heard in her, nor the voice of crying.

20 There shall be no more thence an infant of days, nor an old man that hath not filled his days: for the child shall die an hundred years old; [h] but the sinner being an hundred years old shall be accursed.

21 And [i] they shall build houses, and inhabit them; and they shall plant vineyards, and eat the fruit of them.

22 They shall not build, and another inhabit; they shall not plant, and another eat: for [k] as the days of a tree are the days of my people, and [l] mine elect ‡ shall long enjoy the work of their hands.

23 They shall not labour in vain, [m] nor bring forth for trouble; for [n] they are the seed of the blessed of the LORD, and their offspring with them.

24 And it shall come to pass, that [o] before they call, I will answer; and while they are yet speaking, I will hear.

25 The [p] wolf and the lamb shall feed together, and the lion shall eat straw like the bullock: [q] and dust shall be the serpent's meat. They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain, saith the LORD.

CHAP. LXVI.

1 The glorious God will be served in humble sincerity. 5 He comforteth the humble with the marvellous generation. 13 and with the gracious benefits of the church. 15 God's severe judgments against the wicked. 19 The Gentiles shall have an holy church, 24 and see the damnation of the wicked.

THUS saith the LORD, [a] The heaven is my throne, and the earth is my footstool: where is the house that ye build unto me? and where is the place of my rest?

2 For all those things hath mine hand made, and all those things have been, saith the LORD: [b] but to this man will I look, [c] even to him that is poor and of a contrite spirit, and [d] trembleth at my word.

3 [e] He that killeth an ox is as if he slew a man; he that sacrificeth a [*] lamb, as if he [f] cut off a dog's neck; he that offereth an oblation, as if he offered swine's blood; he that † burneth incense, as if he blessed an idol. Yea, they have chosen their own

CHAP. LXV. Ver. 1. I am sought, &c.—A contrast is here prospectively drawn between the Jews, who rejected the preaching of Christ, and the Gentiles who accepted it. The former are rebuked for their general profaneness, but pardon is promised to the repentant.

CHAP. LXVI. Ver. 1. Thus saith the Lord, &c.—The subject of the foregoing chapter is continued in this, which commences with God's answer to the complaints of the Jews respecting the destruction of the Temple. He tells them that he is not to be worshipped with sacrifice and mere carnal worship, but in spirit and in truth. He then declares the cause of his rejecting the Jews and calling the Gentiles, but promises ultimately to unite them in one church and worship.

Dr. Dodd thus concludes his commentary upon this sublime prophet: "The regularity, sublimity, and elegance of his composition are sufficient to recommend it to every reader of taste; but when the depth, the clearness, and extent of the prophecies contained in it are taken into the account, we shall not be thought to speak too largely when we say that the book of Isaiah is, perhaps, of all compositions, human or divine, the most complete and excellent, and the most deserving an attentive and repeated perusal."
