THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET JEREMIAH.—The prophet Jeremiah was of the Sacerdotal race, and appears to have been very young when called to the prophetical office, in the exercise of which he continued above forty years. He was a native of Anathoth, a village in the tribe of Benjamin, a short distance from Jerusalem.

"There were several collections of Jeremiah's prophecies; one made by God's command in the fourth year of Jehoiakim, chap. xxxvi. 2. This contained all the prophecies he had published at that time, as well against the other nations as against the Jews. The former of those in our present collection are put by themselves at the end of the book, from chapter xlvi. to the end of the list. But, in the present copies of the Septuagint, they follow immediately after the thirteenth verse of the twenty fifth chapter.

"Another collection of these prophecies is mentioned, chap. l. 3, comprehending all that Jeremiah had uttered to the time of the captivity. These may probably be supposed to have been collected by Baruch, his amanuensis, and were put together without any regard to the order of time, just as we find the collection of Psalms was made.

"To this was added another collection of Jeremiah's prophecies, published about the time of his going down into Egypt, contained in chap. xlii., xliii., xliv., at the end of which either Ezdras or some others, after the captivity, who undertook the completing of the Scripture canon, added those prophecies which Jeremiah had spoken against the Gentiles, thinking it most proper to put them by themselves, because they treat of a different subject from the rest of the book. And one of them, namely, that against Elam, chap. xlix. 34., bears date after the first collection made by Jeremiah himself, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim's reign."—W. Lowth.

CHAP. I. Ver. 1. The words of Jeremiah, &c.—Here is declared the divine commission to Jeremiah to fulfil the prophetical office, both to the Jews and heathens, its character being indicated by the two symbols—a rod of an almond tree, and a seething pot.

of the womb I [b] sanctified thee, and I [*] ordained thee a prophet unto the nations.

6 Then said I, [i] Ah, Lord GOD! behold, I cannot speak: for I am a child.

7 ¶ But the LORD said unto me, Say not, I am a child: for thou shalt go to all that I shall send thee, and [k] whatsoever I command thee thou shalt speak.

8 [l] Be not afraid of their faces: for [m] I am with thee to deliver thee, saith the LORD.

9 Then the LORD put forth his hand, and [n] touched my mouth. And the LORD said unto me, Behold, I have [o] put my words in thy mouth.

10 [p] See, I have this day set thee over the nations and over the kingdoms, to [q] root out, and to pull down, and to destroy, and to throw down, to build, and to plant.

11 ¶ Moreover the word of the LORD came unto me, saying, Jeremiah, what seest thou? And I said, I see a rod of an almond tree.

12 Then said the LORD unto me, Thou hast well seen: for I will hasten my word to perform it.

13 And the word of the LORD came unto me the second time, saying, What seest thou? And I said, I see [r] a seething pot; and the face thereof is † toward the north.

14 Then the LORD said unto me, Out of the [s] north an evil ‡ shall break forth upon all the inhabitants of the land.

15 For, lo, I will [t] call all the families of the kingdoms of the north, saith the LORD; and they shall come, and they shall [u] set every one his throne at the entering of the gates of Jerusalem, and against all the walls thereof round about, and against all the cities of Judah.

16 And I will utter my judgments against them touching all their wickedness, [x] who have forsaken me, and have burned incense unto other gods, and worshipped the works of their own hands.

17 ¶ Thou therefore [y] gird up thy loins, and arise, and speak unto them all that I command thee: [z] be not dismayed at their faces, lest I § confound thee before them.

18 For, behold, I have made thee this day [a] a defenced city, and an iron pillar, and brasen walls against the whole land, against the kings of Judah, against the princes thereof, against the priests thereof, and against the people of the land.

19 And they shall fight against thee; but they shall not prevail against thee; [b] for I am with thee, saith the LORD, to deliver thee.

CHAP. II.

1 God, having shewed his former kindness, expostulateth with the Jews their causeless revolt, 9 beyond any example. 14 They are the causes of their own calamities. 20 The sins of Judah. 31 Her confidence is rejected.

MOREOVER the word of the LORD came to me, saying,

2 Go and cry in the ears of Jerusalem, saying, Thus saith the LORD; I remember [*] thee, the kindness of thy [a] youth, the love of thine espousals, [b] when thou wentest after me in the wilderness, in a land that was not sown.

3 [c] Israel was holiness unto the LORD, and [d] the firstfruits of his increase: [e] all that devour him shall offend; evil shall come upon them, saith the LORD.

B. C. cir. 629.

4 Hear ye the word of the LORD, O house of Jacob, and all the families of the house of Israel:

5 ¶ Thus saith the LORD, [f] What iniquity have your fathers found in me, that they are gone far from me, [g] and have walked after vanity, and are become vain?

6 Neither said they, Where is the LORD that [h] brought us up out of the land of Egypt, that led us through [i] the wilderness, through a land of deserts and of pits, through a land of drought, and of the shadow of death, through a land that no man passed through, and where no man dwelt?

7 And I brought you into † [k] a plentiful country, to eat the fruit thereof and the goodness thereof; but when ye entered, ye [l] defiled my land, and made mine heritage an abomination.

8 The priests said not, Where is the LORD? and they that handle the [m] law knew me not: the pastors also transgressed against me, [n] and the prophets prophesied by Baal, and walked after things that [o] do not profit.

9 ¶ Wherefore [p] I will yet plead with you, saith the LORD, and [q] with your children's children will I plead.

10 For pass ‡ over the isles of Chittim, and see; and send unto Kedar, and consider diligently, and see if there be such a thing.

11 [r] Hath a nation changed their gods, which are [s] yet no gods? [t] but my people have changed their glory for [u] that which doth not profit.

12 [x] Be astonished, O ye heavens, at this, and be horribly afraid, be ye very desolate, saith the LORD.

13 For my people have committed two evils; they have forsaken me the [y] fountain of living waters, and hewed them out cisterns, broken cisterns, that can hold no water.

14 ¶ Is Israel [z] a servant? is he a homeborn slave? why is he § spoiled?

15 [a] The young lions roared upon him, and ‖ yelled, and they made his land waste: his cities are burned without inhabitant.

16 Also the children of Noph and [b] Tahapanes [*] have broken the crown of thy head.

17 [c] Hast thou not procured this unto thyself, in that thou hast forsaken the LORD thy God, when [d] he led thee by the way?

18 And now what hast thou to do [e] in the way of Egypt, to drink the waters of [f] Sihor? or what hast thou to do in the way of Assyria, to drink the waters of the river?

19 Thine own [g] wickedness shall correct thee, and thy backslidings shall reprove thee: know therefore and see that it is an evil thing and bitter, that thou hast forsaken the LORD thy God, and that my fear is not in thee, saith the Lord GOD of hosts.

20 ¶ For of old time I have broken thy yoke, and burst thy bands; and [h] thou saidst, I will not † transgress; when [i] upon every high hill and under every green tree thou wanderest, [k] playing the harlot.

21 Yet I had [l] planted thee a noble vine, wholly a right seed: how then art thou turned into [m] the degenerate plant of a strange vine unto me?

22 For though thou [n] wash thee with nitre, and take thee much sope, yet [o] thine iniquity is marked before me, saith the Lord GOD.

23 [p] How canst thou say, I am not polluted, I have not gone after Baalim? see thy thy way [q] in the valley, know what thou hast done: ‡ thou art a swift dromedary traversing her ways;

24 [r] § A wild ass ‖ used to the wilderness, that snuffeth up the wind at [*] her pleasure; in her occasion who can † turn her away? all they that seek her will not weary themselves; in her month they shall find her.

25 Withhold thy foot from being unshod, and thy throat from thirst: but [s] thou saidst, ‡ There is no hope: no; for I have loved [t] strangers, and after them will I go.

26 As the thief is ashamed when he is found, so is the house of Israel ashamed; they, their kings, their princes, and their priests, and their prophets,

27 Saying to a stock, Thou art my father; and to a stone, Thou hast § brought me forth: for they have turned ‖ their back unto me, and not their face: but in the time of their [u] trouble they will say, Arise, and save us.

28 But [x] where are thy gods that thou hast made thee? let them arise, if they [y] can save thee in the time of thy [*] trouble: for [z] according to the number of thy cities are thy gods, O Judah.

29 [a] Wherefore will ye plead with me? ye all have transgressed against me, saith the LORD.

30 In vain have I [b] smitten your children; they received no correction: your own sword hath [c] devoured your prophets, like a destroying lion.

31 ¶ O generation, see ye the word of the LORD. [d] Have I been a wilderness unto Israel? a land of darkness? wherefore say my people, † [e] We are lords; [f] we will come no more unto thee?

39 Can a maid forget her ornaments, or a bride her attire? yet my people [g] have forgotten me days without number.

33 Why trimmest thou thy way to seek love? therefore hast thou also taught the wicked ones thy ways.

34 Also in thy skirts is found [h] the blood of the souls of the poor innocents: I have not found it by ‡ secret search, but upon all these.

35 [i] Yet thou sayest, Because I am innocent, surely his anger shall turn from me. Behold, [k] I will plead with thee, [l] because thou sayest, I have not sinned.

36 [m] Why gaddest thou about so much to change thy way? [n] thou also shalt be ashamed of Egypt, [o] as thou wast ashamed of Assyria.

37 Yea, thou shalt go forth from him, and [p] thine hands upon thine head: for the LORD hath rejected thy confidences, and thou shalt not prosper in them.

CHAP. III.

1 God's great mercy in Judah's vile whoredom. 6 Judah is worse than Israel. 12 The promises of the Gospel to the penitent. 20 Israel reproved, and called by God, maketh a solemn confession of their sins.

THEY [*] say, If a man put away his wife, and she go from him, and become another man's, [a] shall he return unto her again? shall not that [b] land be greatly polluted? but thou hast [c] played the harlot with many lovers; [d] yet return again to me, saith the LORD.

2 Lift up thine eyes unto [e] the high places, and see where thou hast not been lien with. [f] In the ways hast thou sat for them, as the Arabian in the wilderness: [g] and thou hast polluted the land with thy whoredoms and with thy wickedness.

3 Therefore the [h] showers have been withholden, and there hath been no latter rain; and thou hadst a [i] whore's forehead, thou refusedst to be ashamed.

4 Wilt thou not from this time cry unto me, My father, thou art [k] the guide of [l] my youth?

5 [m] Will he reserve his anger for ever? will he keep it to the end? Behold, thou hast spoken and done evil things as thou couldest.

6 ¶ The LORD said also unto me in the days of Josiah the king, Hast thou seen that which [n] backsliding Israel hath done? she is [o] gone up upon every high mountain and under every green tree, and there hath played the harlot.

7 [p] And I said after she had done all these things, Turn thou unto me. But she returned not. And her treacherous [q] sister Judah saw it.

8 And I saw, when [r] for all the causes whereby backsliding Israel committed adultery I had [s] put her away, and given her a bill of divorce; [t] yet her treacherous sister Judah feared not, but went and played the harlot also.

9 And it came to pass through the † lightness of her whoredom, that she [u] defiled the land, and committed adultery with [x] stones and with stocks.

10 And yet for all this her treacherous sister Judah hath not turned unto me [y] with her whole heart, but ‡ feignedly, saith the LORD.

11 And the LORD said unto me, [z] The backsliding Israel hath justified herself more than treacherous Judah.

12 ¶ Go and proclaim these words toward [a] the north, and say, Return, thou backsliding Israel, saith the LORD; and I will not cause mine anger to fall upon you: for I am [b] merciful, saith the LORD, and I will not keep anger for ever.

13 [c] Only acknowledge thine iniquity, that thou hast transgressed against the LORD thy God, and hast [d] scattered thy ways to the [e] strangers [f] under every green tree, and ye have not obeyed my voice, saith the LORD.

14 Turn, O backsliding children, saith the LORD; [g] for I am married unto you: and I will take you [h] one of a city, and two of a family, and I will bring you to Zion:

B. C. cir. 612.

15 And I will give you [i]pastors according to mine heart, which shall [k]feed you with knowledge and understanding.

16 And it shall come to pass, when ye be multiplied and increased in the land, in those days, saith the LORD, they shall say no more, The ark of the covenant of the LORD: [l]neither shall it § come to mind: neither shall they remember it; neither shall they visit it; neither shall ‖ that be done any more.

17 At that time they shall call Jerusalem the throne of the LORD; and all the nations shall be gathered unto it, [m]to the name of the LORD, to Jerusalem: neither shall they [n]walk any more after the [o]imagination of their evil heart.

18 In those days [p]the house of Judah shall walk †with the house of Israel, and they shall come together out of the land of [p]the north to [q]the land that I have ‡given for an inheritance unto your fathers.

19 But I said, How shall I put thee among the children, and give thee [r]a § pleasant land, ‖a goodly heritage of the hosts of nations? and I said, Thou shalt call me, [s]My father; and shalt not turn away [t]from me.

20 ¶ Surely as a wife treacherously departeth from her †husband, so [t]have ye dealt treacherously with me, O house of Israel, saith the LORD.

21 A voice was heard upon [u]the high places, weeping and supplications of the children of Israel: for they have perverted their way, and they have forgotten the LORD their God.

22 [x]Return, ye backsliding children, and [y]I will heal your backslidings. Behold, we come unto thee; for thou art the LORD our God.

23 [z]Truly in vain is salvation hoped for from the hills, and from the multitude of mountains: [a]truly in the LORD our God is the salvation of Israel.

24 [b]For shame hath devoured the labour of our fathers from our youth; their flocks and their herds, their sons and their daughters.

25 We lie down in our shame, and our confuseth covereth us: [c]for we have sinned against the LORD our God, we and our fathers, from our youth even unto this day, and [d]have not obeyed the voice of the LORD our God.

CHAP. IV.

1 God calleth Israel by his promise. 3 He exhorteth Juday to repentance by fearful judgments. 19 A grievous lamentation for the miseries of Judah.

IF thou wilt return, O Israel, saith the LORD, [e]return unto me: and if thou wilt put away thine abominations out of my sight, then shalt thou not remove.

2 [b]And thou shalt swear, The LORD liveth, [c]in truth, in judgment, and in righteousness; [d]and the nations shall bless themselves in him, and in him shall they [e]glory.

3 ¶ For thus saith the LORD to the men of Judah and Jerusalem, [f]Break up your fallow ground, and [g]sow not among thorns.

4 [h]Circumcise yourselves to the LORD, and take away the foreskins of your heart, ye men of Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem: lest my fury come forth like fire, and burn that none can quench it, because of the evil of your doings.

5 Declare ye in Judah, and publish in Jerusalem; and say, Blow ye the trumpet in the land: cry, gather together, and say, [i]Assemble yourselves, and let us go into the defenced cities.

6 Set up the standard toward Zion: [o]retire, stay not: for I will bring evil from the [k]north, and a great †destruction.

7 [l]The lion is come up from his thicket, and [m]the destroyer of the Gentiles is on his way; he is gone forth from his place [n]to make thy land desolate; and thy cities shall be laid waste, without an inhabitant.

8 For this [o]gird you with sackcloth, lament and howl: for the fierce anger of the LORD is not turned back from us.

9 And it shall come to pass at that day, saith the LORD, that the heart of the king shall perish, and the heart of the princes; and the priests shall be astonished, and the prophets shall wonder.

10 Then said I, Ah, Lord GOD! [p]surely thou hast greatly deceived this people and Jerusalem, [q]saying, Ye shall have peace; whereas the sword reacheth unto the soul.

11 At that time shall it be said to this people and to Jerusalem, [r]A dry wind of the high places in the wilderness toward the daughter of my people, not to fan, nor to cleanse,

12 Even ‡a full wind from those places shall come unto me: now also [s]will I § give sentence against them.

13 Behold, he shall come up as clouds, and [t]his chariots shall be as a whirlwind: [u]his horses are swifter than eagles. Woe unto us! for we are spoiled.

14 O Jerusalem, [x]wash thine heart from wickedness, that thou mayest be saved. How long shall thy vain thoughts lodge within thee?

15 For a voice declareth [y]from Dan, and publisheth affliction from mount Ephraim.

16 Make ye mention to the nations; behold, publish against Jerusalem, that watchers come [z]from a far country, and give out their voice against the cities of Judah.

17 [a]As keepers of a field, are they against her round about; because she hath been rebellious against me, saith the LORD.

18 [b]Thy way and thy doings have procured these things unto thee; this is thy wickedness, because it is bitter, because it reacheth unto thine heart.

19 ¶ My [c]bowels, my bowels! I am pained at ‖ my very heart; my heart maketh a noise in me; I cannot hold my peace, because thou hast heard, O my soul, the sound of the trumpet, the alarm of war.

20 [d]Destruction upon destruction is cried; for the whole land is spoiled: suddenly are [e]my tents spoiled, and my curtains in a moment.

21 How long shall I see the standard, and hear the sound of the trumpet?

22 For my people is foolish, they have not known me; they are sottish children, and they have none understanding: [f]they are wise to do evil, but to do good they have no knowledge.

23 [g] I beheld the earth, and, lo, it was [h] without form and void; and the heavens, and they had no light.

24 [i] I beheld the mountains, and, lo, they trembled, and all the hills moved lightly.

25 I beheld, and, lo, there was no man, and [k] all the birds of the heavens were fled.

26 I beheld, and, lo, the fruitful place was a wilderness, and all the cities thereof were broken down at the presence of the LORD, and by his fierce anger.

27 For thus hath the LORD said, The whole land shall be desolate; [l] yet will I not make a full end.

28 For this [m] shall the earth mourn, and [n] the heavens above be black: because I have spoken it, I have purposed it, and [o] will not repent, neither will I turn back from it.

29 The whole city shall flee for the noise of the horsemen and bowmen; they shall go into thickets, and climb up upon the rocks: every city shall be forsaken, and not a man dwell therein.

30 And when thou art spoiled, what wilt thou do? Though thou clothest thyself with crimson, though thou deckest thee with ornaments of gold, [p] though thou rentest thy [*] face with painting, in vain shalt thou make thyself fair; [q] thy lovers will despise thee, they will seek thy life.

31 For I have heard a voice as of a woman in travail, and the anguish as of her that bringeth forth her first child, the voice of the daughter of Zion, that bewaileth herself, that [r] spreadeth her hands, saying, Woe is me now! for my soul is wearied because of murderers.

CHAP. V.

1 The judgments of God upon the Jews, for their perverseness, 7 for their adultery, 10 for their impiety, 19 for their contempt of God, 25 and for their great corruption in the civil state, 30 and ecclesiastical.

RUN ye to and fro through the streets of Jerusalem, and see now, and know, and seek in the broad places thereof, [a] if ye can find a man, [b] if there be any that executeth judgment, that seeketh the truth; [c] and I will pardon it.

2 And [d] though they say, [e] The LORD liveth; surely they [f] swear falsely.

3 O LORD, are not [g] thine eyes upon the truth? thou hast [h] stricken them, but they have not grieved: thou hast consumed them, but [i] they have refused to receive correction: they have made their faces harder than a rock; they have refused to return.

4 Therefore I said, Surely these are poor; they are foolish: for [k] they know not the way of the LORD, nor the judgment of their God.

5 I will get me unto the great men, and will speak unto them; for [l] they have known the way of the LORD, and the judgment of their God: but these have altogether [m] broken the yoke, and burst the bonds.

6 Wherefore [n] a lion out of the forest shall slay them, [o] and a wolf of the [*] evenings shall spoil them, [p] a leopard shall watch over their cities: every one that goeth out thence shall be torn in pieces: because their transgressions are many, and their backslidings † are increased.

7 ¶ How shall I pardon thee for this? thy children have forsaken me, and [q] sworn by them [r] that are no gods: [s] when I had fed them to the full, they then committed adultery, and assembled themselves by troops in the harlots' houses.

8 [t] They were as fed horses in the morning: every one [u] neighed after his neighbour's wife.

9 [x] Shall I not visit for these things? saith the LORD: [y] and shall not my soul be avenged on such a nation as this?

10 ¶ [z] Go ye up upon her walls, and destroy; [a] but make not a full end: take away her battlements; for they are not the LORD'S.

11 For [b] the house of Israel and the house of Judah have dealt very treacherously against me, saith the LORD.

12 [c] They have belied the LORD, and said, [d] It is not he; neither shall evil come upon us; [e] neither shall we see sword nor famine:

13 And the prophets shall become wind, and the word is not in them; thus shall it be done unto them.

14 Wherefore thus saith the LORD God of hosts, Because ye speak this word, [f] behold, I will make my words in thy mouth fire, and this people wood, and it shall devour them.

15 Lo, I will bring a [g] nation upon you [h] from far, O house of Israel, saith the LORD: it is a mighty nation, it is an ancient nation, a nation whose language thou knowest not, neither understandest what they say.

16 Their quiver is as an open sepulchre, they are all mighty men.

17 And they shall eat up thine [i] harvest, and thy bread, which thy sons and thy daughters should eat: they shall eat up thy flocks and thine herds: they shall eat up thy vines and thy fig trees: they shall impoverish thy fenced cities, wherein thou trustedst, with the sword.

18 Nevertheless in those days, saith the LORD, I [k] will not make a full end with you.

19 ¶ And it shall come to pass, when ye shall say, [l] Wherefore doeth the LORD our God all these things unto us? then shalt thou answer them, Like as ye have [m] forsaken me, and served strange gods in your land, so [n] shall ye serve strangers in a land that is not your's.

20 Declare this in the house of Jacob, and publish it in Judah, saying,

21 Hear now this, O [o] foolish people, and without ‡ understanding; which have eyes, and see not; which have ears, and hear not:

22 [p] Fear ye not me? saith the LORD: will ye not tremble at my presence, which have placed the sand for the [q] bound of the sea by a perpetual decree, that it cannot pass it: and though the waves thereof toss themselves, yet can they not prevail; though they roar, yet can they not pass over it?

23 But this people hath a revolting and a rebellious heart; they are revolted and gone.

24 Neither say they in their heart, Let us now fear the LORD our God, [r] that giveth cir 612.

O YE children of Benjamin, gather yourselves to flee out of the midst of Jerusalem, and blow the trumpet in Tekoa, and set up a sign of fire in [a] Beth-haccerem: [b] for evil appeareth out of the north, and great destruction.

2 I have likened the daughter of Zion to a * comely and delicate woman.

3 The shepherds with their flocks shall come unto her; [c] they shall pitch their tents against her round about; they shall feed every one in his place.

4 [d] Prepare ye war against her; arise, and let us go up [e] at noon. Woe unto us! for the day goeth away, for the shadows of the evening are stretched out.

5 Arise, and let us go by night, and let us destroy her palaces.

6 ¶ For thus hath the LORD of hosts said, Hew ye down trees, and † cast a mount against Jerusalem: this is the city to be visited; she is wholly oppression in the midst of her.

7 [f] As a fountain casteth out her waters, so she casteth out her wickedness: [g] violence and spoil is heard in her; before me continually is grief and wounds.

8 Be thou instructed, O Jerusalem, lest [h] my soul ‡ depart from thee; lest I make thee desolate, a land not inhabited.

9 ¶ Thus saith the LORD of hosts, They shall throughly glean the remnant of Israel as a vine: turn back thine hand as a grapegatherer into the baskets.

10 To whom shall I speak, and give warning, that they may hear? behold, their [i] ear is uncircumcised, and they cannot hearken: behold, [k] the word of the LORD is unto them a reproach; they have no delight in it.

11 Therefore I am full of the fury of the LORD; [l] I am weary with holding in: I will pour it out [m] upon the children abroad, and upon the assembly of young men together: for even the husband with the wife shall be taken, the aged with him that is full of days.

12 And [n] their houses shall be turned unto others, with their fields and wives together: for I will stretch out my hand upon the inhabitants of the land, saith the LORD.

13 For from the least of them even unto the greatest of them every one is given to [o] covetousness; and from the prophet even unto the priest every one dealeth falsely.

14 They have [p] healed also the § hurt of the daughter of my people slightly, [q] saying, Peace, peace; when there is no peace.

15 Were they [r] ashamed when they had committed abomination? nay, they were not at all ashamed, neither could they blush: not therefore they shall fall among them that fall: at the time that I visit them they shall be cast down, saith the LORD.

16 Thus saith the LORD, Stand ye in the ways, and see, and ask for the [s] old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein, and ye shall find [t] rest for your souls. But they said, We will not walk therein.

17 Also I set [u] watchmen over you, saying, Hearken to the sound of the trumpet. But they said, We will not hearken, 18 ¶ Therefore hear, ye nations, and know, O congregation, what is among them.

19 [x] Hear, O earth: behold, I will bring evil upon this people, even [y] the fruit of their thoughts, because they have not hearkened unto my words, nor to my law, but rejected it.

20 [z] To what purpose cometh there to me incense [a] from Sheba, and the sweet cane from a far country? [b] your burnt offerings are not acceptable, nor your sacrifices sweet unto me.

21 Therefore thus saith the LORD, Behold, I will lay stumblingblocks before this people, and the fathers and the sons together shall fall upon them; the neighbour and his friend shall perish.

22 Thus saith the LORD, Behold a people cometh from the [c] north country, and a great nation shall be raised from the sides of the earth.

23 They shall lay hold on bow and spear; they are cruel, and have no mercy; their voice [d] roareth like the sea; and they ride upon horses, set in array as men for war against thee, O daughter of Zion.

24 We have heard the fame thereof: our hands wax feeble: [e] anguish hath taken hold of us, and pain, as of a woman in travail.

25 Go not forth into the field, nor walk by the way; for the sword of the enemy and fear is on every side.

26 ¶ O daughter of my people [f] gird thee with sackcloth, [g] and wallow thyself in ashes: [h] make thee mourning, as for an only son, most bitter lamentation: for the spoiler shall suddenly come upon us.

cir. 600. THE word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD, saying,

2 [a] Stand in the gate of the LORD'S house, and proclaim there this word, and say, Hear the word of the LORD, all ye of Judah, that enter in at these gates to worship the LORD.

3 Thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, [b] Amend your ways and your doings, and I will cause you to dwell in this place.

4 [c] Trust ye not in lying words, saying, The temple of the LORD, The temple of the LORD, The temple of the LORD, are these.

5 For if ye throughly amend your ways and your doings; if ye throughly [d] execute judgment between a man and his neighbour;

6 If ye oppress not the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow, and shed not innocent blood in this place, [e] neither walk after other gods to your hurt:

7 [f] Then will I cause you to dwell in this place, in [g] the land that I gave to your fathers, for ever and ever.

8 ¶ Behold, [h] ye trust in [i] lying words, that cannot profit.

9 [k] Will ye steal, murder, and commit adultery, and swear falsely, and burn incense unto Baal, and [l] walk after other gods whom ye know not;

10 [m] And come and stand before me in this house, [n] which is called by my name, and say, We are delivered to do all these abominations?

11 Is [o] this house, which is called by my name, become a [p] den of robbers in your eyes? Behold, even I have seen it, saith the LORD.

12 But go ye now unto [q] my place which was in Shiloh, [r] where I set my name at the first, and see [s] what I did to it for the wickedness of my people Israel.

13 And now, because ye have done all these works, saith the LORD, and I spake unto you, [t] rising up early and speaking, but ye heard not; and I [u] called you, but ye answered not;

14 Therefore will I do unto this house, which is called by my name, wherein ye trust, and unto the place which I gave to you and to your fathers, as I have done to [x] Shiloh.

15 And I will cast you out of my sight, [y] as I have cast out all your brethren, [z] even the whole seed of Ephraim.

16 Therefore [a] pray thou not for this people, neither lift up cry nor prayer for them, neither make intercession to me: [b] for I will not hear thee.

17 ¶ Seest thou not what they do in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem?

18 [c] The children gather wood, and the fathers kindle the fire, and the women knead their dough, to make cakes to the † queen of heaven, and [d] to pour out drink offerings unto other gods, that they may provoke me to anger.

19 [e] Do they provoke me to anger? saith the LORD: do they not provoke themselves to the confusion of their own faces?

20 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, mine anger and my fury shall be poured out upon this place, upon man, and upon beast, and upon the trees of the field, and upon the fruit of the ground; and it shall burn, and shall not be quenched.

21 ¶ Thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel; [f] Put your burnt offerings unto your sacrifices, and eat flesh.

22 [g] For I spake not unto your fathers, nor commanded them in the day that I brought them out of the land of Egypt, ‡ concerning burnt offerings or sacrifices:

23 But this thing commanded I them, saying, [h] Obey my voice, and [i] I will be your God, and ye shall be my people: and walk ye in all the ways that I have commanded you, that it may be well unto you.

24 [k] But they hearkened not, nor inclined their ear, but [l] walked in the counsels and in the § imagination of their evil heart, and ‖ [m] went backward, and not forward.

25 Since the day that your fathers came forth out of the land of Egypt unto this day I have even [n] sent unto you all my servants the prophets, [o] daily rising up early and sending them:

26 [p] Yet they hearkened not unto me, nor inclined their ear, but [q] hardened their neck: [r] they did worse than their fathers.

27 Therefore [s] thou shalt speak all these words unto them; but they will not hearken to thee: thou shalt also call unto them; but they will not answer thee.

Hinnom, but the valley of slaughter: [d] for they shall bury in Tophet, till there be no place.

33 And the [e] carcases of this people shall be meat for the fowls of the heaven, and for the beasts of the earth; and none shall fray them away.

34 Then will I cause to [f] cease from the cities of Judah, and from the streets of Jerusalem, the voice of mirth, and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride: for [g] the land shall be desolate.

CHAP. VIII.

1 The calamity of the Jews, both dead and alive. 4 He upbraideth their foolish and shameless impenitency. 13 He sheweth their grievous judgment, 18 and bewaileth their desperate estate.

AT that time, saith the LORD, they shall bring out the bones of the kings of Judah, and the bones of his princes, and the bones of the priests, and the bones of the prophets, and the bones of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, out of their graves:

2 And they shall spread them before the sun, and the moon, and all the host of heaven, whom they have loved, and whom they have served, and after whom they have walked, and whom they have sought, and [a] whom they have worshipped: they shall not be gathered, [b] nor be buried; they shall be for [c] dung upon the face of the earth.

3 And [d] death shall be chosen rather than life by all the residue of them that remain of this evil family, which remain in all the places whither I have driven them, saith the LORD of hosts.

4 ¶ Moreover thou shalt say unto them, Thus saith the LORD; Shall they fall, and not arise? Shall he turn away, and not return?

5 Why then is this people of Jerusalem [e] slidden back by a perpetual backsliding? [f] they hold fast deceit, [g] they refuse to return.

6 [h] I hearkened and heard, but they spake not aright: no man repented him of his wickedness, saying, What have I done? every one turned to his course, as the horse rusheth into the battle.

7 Yea, [i] the stork in the heaven knoweth her appointed times; and [k] the turtle and the crane and the swallow observe the time of their coming; but [l] my people know not the judgment of the LORD.

8 How do ye say, We are wise, [m] and the law of the LORD is with us? Lo, certainly [n] in vain made he it; the pen of the scribes is in vain.

9 [o]† The wise men are ashamed, they are dismayed and taken: lo, they have rejected the word of the LORD; and ‡ what wisdom is in them?

10 Therefore [p] will I give their wives unto others, and their fields to them that shall inherit them: for every one from the least even unto the greatest is given to [p] covetousness, from the prophet even unto the priest every one dealeth falsely.

11 For they have [q] healed the hurt of the daughter of my people slightly, saying, [r] Peace, peace; when there is no peace.

12 Were they [s] ashamed when they had committed abomination? nay, they were not at all ashamed, neither could they blush: therefore shall they fall among them that fall: in the time of their visitation they shall be cast down, saith the LORD.

13 ¶ § I will surely consume them, saith the LORD: there shall be no grapes [t] on the vine, nor figs on the [u] fig tree, and the leaf shall fade; and the things that I have given them shall pass away from them.

14 Why do we sit still? [x]assemble yourselves, and let us enter into the defenced cities, and let us be silent there: for the LORD our God hath put us to silence, and given us [y] water of ‖ gall to drink, because we have sinned against the LORD.

15 We [z] looked for peace, but no good came; and for a time of health, and behold trouble!

16 The snorting of his horses was heard from [a] Dan: the whole land trembled at the sound of the neighing of his [b] strong ones; for they are come, and have devoured the land, and [*] all that is in it; the city, and those that dwell therein.

17 For, behold, I will send serpents, cockatrices, among you, which will not be [c] charmed, and they shall bite you, saith the LORD.

18 ¶ When I would comfort myself against sorrow, my heart is faint † in me.

19 Behold the voice of the cry of the daughter of my people ‡ because of them that dwell in [d] a far country: Is not the LORD in Zion? is not her king in her? Why have they [e] provoked me to anger with their graven images, and with strange vanities?

20 The harvest is past, the summer is ended, and we are not saved.

21 [f] For the hurt of the daughter of my people am I hurt; I am [g] black; astonishment hath taken hold on me.

22 Is there no [h] balm in Gilead; is there no physician there? why then is not the health of the daughter of my people § recovered?

CHAP. IX.

1 Jeremiah lamenteth the Jews for their manifold sins, 9 and for their judgment. 12 Disobedience is the cause of their bitter calamity. 17 He exhorteth to mourn for their destruction, 23 and to trust not in themselves, but in God. 25 He threateneth both Jews and Gentiles.

OH * [a] that my head were waters, and mine eyes a fountain of tears, that I might weep day and night for the slain of the daughter of my people!

2 Oh that I had in the wilderness a lodging place of wayfaring men; that I might leave my people, and go from them! for [b] they be all adulterers, an assembly of treacherous men.

3 And [c] they bend their tongues like their bow for lies: but they are not valiant for the truth upon the earth; for they proceed from evil to evil, and they [d] know not me, saith the LORD.

4 [e] Take ye heed every one of his † neighbour, and trust ye not in any brother: for

THE word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD, saying,

2 Hear ye the words of this covenant, and speak unto the men of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem;

3 And say thou unto them, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel; [a]Cursed be the man that obeyeth not the words of this covenant,

4 Which I commanded your fathers in the day that I brought them forth out of the land of Egypt, [b]from the iron furnace, saying, [c]Obey my voice, and do them, according to all which I command you: so shall ye be my people, and I will be your God:

5 That I may perform the [d]oath which I have sworn unto your fathers, to give them a land flowing with milk and honey, as it is this day. Then answered I, and said, * So be it, O LORD.

6 Then the LORD said unto me, Proclaim all these words in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, saying, Hear ye the words of this covenant, [e]and do them.

7 For I earnestly protested unto your fathers in the day that I brought them up out of the land of Egypt, even unto this day, [f]rising early and protesting, saying, Obey my voice.

8 [g]Yet they obeyed not, nor inclined their ear, but [h]walked every one in the † imagination of their evil heart: therefore I will bring upon them all the words of this covenant, which I commanded them to do; but they did them not.

9 And the LORD said unto me, [i]A conspiracy is found among the men of Judah, and among the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

10 They are turned back to [k]the iniquities of their forefathers, which refused to hear my words; and they went after other gods to serve them: the house of Israel and the house of Judah have broken my covenant which I made with their fathers.

11 ¶ Therefore thus saith the LORD, Behold, I will bring evil upon them, which they shall not be able ‡ to escape; and [l]though they shall cry unto me, I will not hearken unto them.

12 Then shall the cities of Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem go, and [m]cry unto the gods unto whom they offer incense: but they shall not save them at all in the time of their § trouble.

13 For according to the number of thy [n]cities were thy gods, O Judah; and according to the number of the streets of Jerusalem have ye set up altars to that ‖ shameful thing, even altars to burn incense unto Baal.

14 Therefore [o]pray not thou for this people, neither lift up a cry or prayer for them: for I will not hear them in the time that they cry unto me for their * trouble.

15 [p]† What hath my beloved to do in mine house, seeing she hath [q]wrought lewdness with many, and [r]the holy flesh is passed from thee? ‡ when thou doest evil, then thou [s]rejoicest.

16 The LORD called thy name, [t]A green olive tree, fair, and of goodly fruit: with the noise of a great tumult he hath kindled fire upon it, and the branches of it are broken.

17 For the LORD of hosts, [u]that planted thee, hath pronounced evil against thee, for the evil of the house of Israel and of the house of Judah, which they have done against

18 ¶ And the LORD hath given me knowledge of it, and I know it: then thou shewedst me their doings.

19 But I was like a lamb or an ox that is brought to the slaughter; and I knew not that [x] they had devised devices against me, saying, Let us destroy § the tree with the fruit thereof, [y] and let us cut him off from [z] the land of the living, that his name may be no more remembered.

20 But, O LORD of hosts, that judgest righteously, that [a] triest the reins and the heart, let me see thy vengeance on them: for unto thee have I revealed my cause.

21 Therefore thus saith the LORD of the men of Anathoth, [b] that seek thy life, saying, [c] Prophecy not in the name of the LORD, that thou die not by our hand:

22 Therefore thus saith the LORD of hosts, Behold, I will ‖ punish them: the young men shall die by the sword; their sons and their daughters shall die by famine:

23 And there shall be no remnant of them: for I will bring evil upon the men of Anathoth, even [d] the year of their visitation.

CHAP. XII.

1 Jeremiah, complaining of the wicked's prosperity, by faith seeth their ruin. 5 God admonisheth him of his brethren's treachery against him. 7 And lamenteth his heritage. 14 He promiseth to the penitent return from captivity.

RIGHTEOUS [a] art thou, O LORD, when I plead with thee: yet * let me talk with thee of thy judgments: [b] Wherefore doth the way of the wicked prosper? wherefore are all they happy that deal very treacherously?

2 Thou hast planted them, yea, they have taken root: † they grow, yea, they bring forth fruit: [c] thou art near in their mouth, and far from their reins.

3 But thou, O LORD, [d] knowest me: thou hast seen me, and [e] tried mine heart ‡ toward thee: pull them out like sheep for the slaughter, and prepare them for [f] the day of slaughter.

4 How long shall [g] the land mourn, and the herbs of every field wither, [h] for the wickedness of them that dwell therein? [i] the beasts are consumed, and the birds; because they said, He shall not see our last end.

5 ¶ If thou hast run with the footmen, and they have wearied thee, then how canst thou contend with horses? and if in the land of peace, wherein thou trustedst, they wearied thee, then how wilt thou do in [k] the swelling of Jordan?

6 For even [l] thy brethren, and the house of thy father, even they have dealt treacherously with thee; yea, § they have called a multitude after thee: [m] believe them not, though they speak ‖ fair words unto thee.

7 ¶ I have forsaken mine house, I have left mine heritage; I have given * the dearly beloved of my soul into the hand of her enemies.

8 Mine heritage is unto me as a lion in the forest; it †‡ crieth out against me: therefore have I hated it.

9 Mine heritage is unto me as a § speckled bird, the birds round about are against her; come ye, assemble all the beasts of the field, ‖ [n] come to devour.

10 Many [o] pastors have destroyed [p] my vineyard, they have [q] trodden my portion under foot, they have made my * pleasant portion a desolate wilderness.

11 They have made it desolate, and being desolate [r] it mourneth unto me; the whole land is made desolate, because [s] no man layeth it to heart.

12 The spoilers are come upon all high places through the wilderness: for the sword of the LORD shall devour from the one end of the land even to the other end of the land: no flesh shall have peace.

13 [t] They have sown wheat, but shall reap thorns: they have put themselves to pain, but shall not profit: and † they shall be ashamed of your revenues because of the fierce anger of the LORD.

14 ¶ Thus saith the LORD against all mine evil neighbours, that [u] touch the inheritance which I have caused my people Israel to inherit; Behold, I will [x] pluck them out of their land, and pluck out the house of Judah from among them.

15 [y] And it shall come to pass, after that I have plucked them out I will return, and have compassion on them, [z] and will bring them again, every man to his heritage, and every man to his land.

16 And it shall come to pass, if they will diligently learn the ways of my people, [a] to swear by my name, The LORD liveth; as they taught my people to swear by Baal; then shall they be [b] built in the midst of my people.

17 But if they will not [c] obey, I will utterly pluck up and destroy that nation, saith the LORD.

CHAP. XIII.

1 In the type of a linen girdle, hidden at Euphrates, God prefigureth the destruction of his people. 12 Under the parable of the bottles filled with wine he foretelleth their drunkenness in misery. 15 He exhorteth to prevent their future judgments. 22 He sheweth their abominations are the cause thereof.

THUS saith the LORD unto me, Go and cir 603 get thee a linen girdle, and put it upon thy loins, and put it not in water.

2 So I got a girdle according to the word of the LORD, and put it on my loins.

3 And the word of the LORD came unto me the second time, saying,

4 Take the girdle that thou hast got, which is upon thy loins, and arise, go to Euphrates, and hide it there in a hole of the rock.

5 So I went, and hid it by Euphrates, as the LORD commanded me.

6 And it came to pass after many days, that the LORD said unto me, Arise, go to Euphrates, and take the girdle from thence, which I commanded thee to hide there.

7 Then I went to Euphrates, and digged, and took the girdle from the place where I

CHAP. XII. Ver. 1. Righteous art thou, &c.—The latter end of the last chapter and the first six verses of this contain a denunciation against the people of Anathoth, who had sought to destroy Jeremiah. The concluding verses contain an assurance to the Israelites of retaliation upon these enemies by whom they had been so grievously afflicted.

had hid it: and, behold, the girdle was marred, it was profitable for nothing.

8 Then the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

9 Thus saith the LORD, After this manner [a] will I mar the pride of Judah, and the great pride of Jerusalem.

10 This evil people, which refuse to hear my words, which [b] walk in the * imagination of their heart, and walk after other gods, to serve them, and to worship them, shall even be as this girdle, which is good for nothing.

11 For as the girdle cleaveth to the loins of a man, so have I caused to cleave unto me the whole house of Israel and the whole house of Judah, saith the LORD; that [c] they might be unto me for a people, and [d] for a name, and for a praise, and for a glory: but they would not hear.

12 ¶ Therefore thou shalt speak unto them this word; Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, Every bottle shall be filled with wine: and they shall say unto thee, Do we not certainly know that every bottle shall be filled with wine?

13 Then shalt thou say unto them, Thus saith the LORD, Behold, I will fill all the inhabitants of this land, even the kings that sit upon David's throne, and the priests, and the prophets, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, [e] with drunkenness.

14 And [f] I will dash them † one against another, even the fathers and the sons together, saith the LORD: I will not pity, nor spare, nor have mercy, ‡ but destroy them.

15 ¶ Hear ye, and give ear; be not proud: for the LORD hath spoken.

16 [g] Give glory to the LORD your God, before he cause [h] darkness, and before your feet stumble upon the dark mountains, and, while ye [i] look for light, he turn it into [k] the shadow of death, and make it gross darkness.

17 But if ye will not hear it, my soul shall weep in secret places for your pride; and [l] mine eye shall weep sore, and run down with tears, because the LORD'S flock is carried away captive.

18 Say unto [m] the king and to the queen, Humble yourselves, sit down: for your § principalities shall come down, even the crown of your glory.

19 The cities of the south shall be shut up, and none shall open them: Judah shall be carried away captive all of it, it shall be wholly carried away captive.

20 Lift up your eyes, and behold them [n] that come from the north: where is the flock that was given thee, thy beautiful flock?

21 What wilt thou say when he shall ‖ punish thee? for thou hast taught them to be captains, and as chief over thee: shall not [o] sorrows take thee, as a woman in travail?

22 ¶ And if thou say in thine heart, [p] Wherefore come these things upon me? For the greatness of thine iniquity are [q] thy skirts discovered, and thy heels * made bare.

23 Can the Ethiopian change his skin, or the leopard his spots? then may ye also do good, that are † accustomed to do evil.

24 Therefore will I scatter them [r] as the stubble that passeth away by the wind of the wilderness.

25 [s] This is thy lot, the portion of thy measures from me, saith the LORD; because thou hast forgotten me, and trusted in [t] falsehood.

26 Therefore [u] will I discover thy skirts upon thy face, that thy shame may appear.

27 I have seen thine adulteries, and thy [x] neighings, the lewdness of thy whoredom, and thine abominations [y] on the hills in the fields. Woe unto thee, O Jerusalem! wilt thou not be made clean? ‡ when shall it once be?

1 The grievous famine 7 causeth Jeremiah to pray. 10 The Lord will not be intreated for the people. 13 Lying prophets are no excuse for them. 17 Jeremiah is moved to complain for them.

THE word of the LORD that came to Jeremiah concerning * the dearth.

2 Judah mourneth, and [a] the gates thereof languish; they are [b] black unto the ground; and the [c] cry of Jerusalem is gone up.

3 And their nobles have sent their little ones to the waters: they came to the pits, and found no water; they returned with their vessels empty; they were [d] ashamed and confounded, [e] and covered their heads.

4 Because the ground is chapt, for there was no rain in the earth, the plowmen were ashamed, they covered their heads.

5 Yea, the hind also calved in the field, and forsook it, because there was no grass.

6 And [f] the wild asses did stand in the high places, they snuffed up the wind like dragons; their eyes did fail, because there was no grass.

7 ¶ O LORD, though our iniquities testify against us, do thou it [g] for thy name's sake: for our backslidings are many; we have sinned against thee.

8 [h] O the hope of Israel, the saviour thereof in time of trouble, why shouldest thou be as a stranger in the land, and as a wayfaring man that turneth aside to tarry for a night?

9 Why shouldest thou be as a man astonied, as a mighty man [i] that cannot save? yet thou, O LORD, [k] art in the midst of us, and † we are called by thy name; leave us not.

10 ¶ Thus saith the LORD unto this people, [l] Thus have they loved to wander, they have not refrained their feet, therefore the LORD doth not accept them; [m] he will now remember their iniquity, and visit their sins.

11 Then said the LORD unto me, [n] Pray not for this people for their good.

12 [o] When they fast, I will not hear their cry; and [p] when they offer burnt offering and an oblation, I will not accept them: but [q] I will consume them by the sword, and by the famine, and by the pestilence.

13 ¶ [r] Then said I, Ah, Lord GOD! behold, the prophets say unto them, ye shall not see the sword, neither shall ye have famine; but I will give you ‡ assured peace in this place.

14 Then the LORD said unto me, [s] The prophets prophesy lies in my name: [t] I sent them not, neither have I commanded them, neither spake unto them: they prophesy unto you a false vision and divination, and a thing of nought, and the deceit of their heart.

15 Therefore thus saith the LORD concerning the prophets that prophesy in my name, and I sent them not, [u] yet, they say, Sword and famine shall not be in this land; By sword and famine shall those prophets be consumed.

16 And the people to whom they prophesy shall be cast out in the streets of Jerusalem because of the famine and the sword; [x] and they shall have none to bury them, them, their wives, nor their sons, nor their daughters: for I will pour their wickedness upon them.

17 ¶ Therefore thou shalt say this word unto them; [y] Let mine eyes run down with tears night and day, and let them not cease: [z] for the virgin daughter of my people is broken with a great breach, with a very grievous blow.

18 If I go forth into [a] the field, then behold the slain with the sword! and if I enter into the city, then behold them that are sick with famine! yea, both the prophet and the priest § go about into a land that they know not.

19 [b] Hast thou utterly rejected Judah? hath thy soul lothed Zion? why hast thou smitten us, and [c] there is no healing for us? [d] we looked for peace, and there is no good; and for the time of healing, and behold trouble!

20 We acknowledge, O LORD, our wickedness, and the iniquity of our fathers: for [e] we have sinned against thee.

21 Do not abhor us, for thy name's sake, do not disgrace the throne of thy glory: [f] remember, break not thy covenant with us.

22 [g] Are there any among [h] the vanities of the Gentiles that can cause rain? or can the heavens give showers? [i] art not thou he, O LORD our God? therefore we will wait upon thee: for thou hast made all these things.

1 The utter rejection and manifold judgments of the Jews. 10 Jeremiah, complaining of their spite, receiveth a promise for himself, 12 and a threatening for them. 15 He prayeth, 19 and receiveth a gracious promise.

THEN said the LORD unto me, [a] Though [b] Moses and [c] Samuel stood before me, yet my mind could not be toward this people: cast them out of my sight, and let them go forth.

2 And it shall come to pass, if they say unto thee, Whither shall we go forth? then thou shalt tell them, Thus saith the LORD; [d] Such as are for death, to death; and such as are for the sword, to the sword; and such as are for the famine, to the famine; and such as are for the captivity, to the captivity.

3 And I will [e] appoint over them four [*] kinds, saith the LORD: the sword to slay, and the dogs to tear, and [f] the fowls of the heaven, and the beasts of the earth, to devour and destroy.

4 And †I will cause them to be [g] removed into all kingdoms of the earth, because of [h] Manasseh the son of Hezekiah king of Judah, for that which he did in Jerusalem.

5 For [i] who shall have pity upon thee, O Jerusalem? or who shall bemoan thee? or who shall go aside ‡ to ask how thou doest?

6 [k] Thou hast forsaken me, saith the LORD, thou art [l] gone backward: therefore will I stretch out my hand against thee, and destroy thee; [m] I am weary with repenting.

7 And I will fan them with a fan in the gates of the land; I will bereave them of § children, I will destroy my people, since they [n] return not from their ways.

8 Their widows are increased to me above the sand of the seas: I have brought upon them ‖against the mother of the young men a spoiler at noonday: I have caused him to fall upon it suddenly, and terrors upon the city.

9 [o] She that hath borne seven languisheth: she hath given up the ghost; [p] her sun is gone down while it was yet day: she hath been ashamed and confounded: and the residue of them will I deliver to the sword before their enemies, saith the LORD.

10 ¶ [q] Woe is me, my mother, that thou hast borne me a man of strife and a man of contention to the whole earth! I have neither lent on usury, nor men have lent to me on usury; yet every one of them doth curse me.

11 The LORD said, Verily it shall be well with thy remnant; verily [*] I will cause [r] the enemy to entreat thee well in the time of evil and in the time of affliction.

12 Shall iron break the northern iron and the steel?

13 Thy substance and thy treasures will I give to the [s] spoil without price, and that for all thy sins, even in all thy borders.

14 And I will make thee to pass with thine enemies [t] into a land which thou knowest not: for a [u] fire is kindled in mine anger, which shall burn upon you.

15 ¶ O LORD, [x] thou knowest: remember me, and visit me, and [y] revenge me of my persecutors; take me not away in thy longsuffering: know that [z] for thy sake I have suffered rebuke.

16 Thy words were found, and I did [a] eat them; and [b] thy word was unto me the joy and rejoicing of mine heart: for †I am called by thy name, O LORD God of hosts.

17 [c] I sat not in the assembly of the mockers, nor rejoiced; I sat alone because of thy hand: for thou hast filled me with indignation.

19 ¶ Therefore thus saith the LORD, [g] If thou return, then will I bring thee again, and thou shalt [h] stand before me: and if thou [i] take forth the precious from the vile, thou shalt be as my mouth: let them return unto thee; but return not thou unto them.

7 [m] Blessed is the man that trusteth in the LORD, and whose hope the LORD is.

8 For he shall be [n] as a tree planted by the waters, and that spreadeth out her roots by the river, and shall not see when heat cometh, but her leaf shall be green; and shall not be careful in the year of ‡ drought, neither shall cease from yielding fruit.

9 ¶ The heart is deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked: who can know it?

10 I the LORD [o] search the heart, I try the reins, [p] even to give every man according to his ways, and according to the fruit of his doings.

11 As the partridge §sitteth on eggs, and hatcheth them not; so he that getteth riches, and not by right, [q] shall leave them in the midst of his days, and at his end shall be [r] a fool.

12 ¶ A glorious high throne from the beginning is the place of our sanctuary.

13 O LORD, [s] the hope of Israel, [t] all that forsake thee shall be ashamed, and they that depart from me shall be [u] written in the earth, because they have forsaken the LORD, the [x] fountain of living waters.

14 Heal me, O LORD, and I shall be healed; save me, and I shall be saved: for [y] thou art my praise.

15 ¶ Behold, they say unto me, [z] Where is the word of the LORD? let it come now.

16 As for me, [a] I have not hastened from being a pastor ‖ to follow thee: neither have I desired the woeful day; thou knowest: that which came out of my lips was right before thee.

17 Be not a terror unto me: [b] thou art my hope in the day of evil.

18 [c] Let them be confounded that persecute me, but [d] let not me be confounded: let them be dismayed, but let not me be dismayed: bring upon them the day of evil, and [*e] destroy them with double destruction.

19 ¶ Thus saith the LORD unto me; Go and stand in the gate of the children of the people, whereby the kings of Judah come in, and by the which they go out, and in all the gates of Jerusalem;

20 And say unto them, [f] Hear ye the word of the LORD, ye kings of Judah, and all Judah, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, that enter in by these gates:

21 Thus saith the LORD; [g] Take heed to yourselves, and bear no burden on the sabbath day, nor bring it in by the gates of Jerusalem;

22 Neither carry forth a burden out of your houses on the sabbath day, neither do ye any work, but hallow ye the sabbath day, as I [h] commanded your fathers.

23 [i] But they obeyed not, neither inclined their ear, but made their neck stiff, that they might not hear, nor receive instruction.

24 And it shall come to pass, if ye diligently hearken unto me, saith the LORD, to bring in no burden through the gates of this city on the sabbath day, but hallow the sabbath day, to do no work therein;

25 [k] Then shall there enter into the gates of this city kings and princes sitting upon the throne of David, riding in chariots and on horses, they, and their princes, the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem: and this city shall remain for ever.

26 And they shall come from the cities of Judah, and from [l] the places about Jerusalem, and from the land of Benjamin, and from [m] the plain, and from the mountains, and from [n] the south, bringing burnt offerings, and sacrifices, and meat offerings, and incense, and bringing [o] sacrifices of praise, unto the house of the LORD.

27 But if ye will not hearken unto me to hallow the sabbath day, and not to bear a burden, even entering in at the gates of Jerusalem on the sabbath day; then [p] will I kindle a fire in the gates thereof, [q] and it shall devour the palaces of Jerusalem, and it shall not be quenched.

1 Under the type of a potter is shewed God's absolute power in disposing of nations. 11 Judgments threatened to Judah for her strange revolt. 18 Jeremiah prayeth against his conspirators.

THE word which came to Jeremiah from the LORD, saying,

2 Arise, and go down to the potter's house, and there I will cause thee to hear my words.

3 Then I went down to the potter's house, and, behold, he wrought a work on the * wheels.

4 And the vessel that † he made of clay was marred in the hand of the potter: so he ‡ made it again another vessel, as seemed good to the potter to make it.

5 Then the word of the LORD came to me, saying,

6 O house of Israel, [a] cannot I do with you as this potter? saith the LORD. Behold, [b] as the clay is in the potter's hand, so are ye in mine hand, O house of Israel.

7 At what instant I shall speak concerning a nation, and concerning a kingdom, to [c] pluck up, and to pull down, and to destroy it;

8 [d] If that nation, against whom I have pronounced, turn from their evil, [e] I will repent of the evil that I thought to do unto them.

9 And at what instant I shall speak concerning a nation, and concerning a kingdom, to build and to plant it;

10 If it do evil in my sight, that it obey not my voice, then I will repent of the good, wherewith I said I would benefit them.

11 ¶ Now therefore go to, speak to the men of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, saying, Thus saith the LORD; Behold, I frame evil against you, and devise a device against you: [f] return ye now every one from his evil way, and make your ways and your doings good.

12 And they said, [g] There is no hope: but we will walk after our own devices, and we will every one do the imagination of his evil heart.

13 Therefore thus saith the LORD; [h] Ask ye now among the heathen, who hath heard such things: the virgin of Israel hath done [i] a very horrible thing.

18 ¶ Then said they, [s] Come, and let us devise devices against Jeremiah; [t] for the law shall not perish from the priest, nor counsel from the wise, nor the word from the prophet. Come, and let us smite him ‖ with the tongue, and, let us not give heed to any of his words.

19 Give heed to me, O LORD, and hearken to the voice of them that contend with me.

20 [u] Shall evil be recompensed for good? for [x] they have digged a pit for my soul. Remember that I stood before thee to speak good for them, and to turn away thy wrath from them.

CHAP. XIX.

Under the type of breaking a potter's vessel is foreshewed the desolation of the Jews for their sins.

THUS saith the LORD, Go and get a potter's earthen bottle, and take of the ancients of the people, and of the ancients of the priests;

2 And go forth unto the [a] valley of the son of Hinnom, which is by the entry of [*] the east gate, and proclaim there the words that I shall tell thee,

3 [b] And say, Hear ye the word of the LORD, O kings of Judah, and inhabitants of Jerusalem; Thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel; Behold, I will bring evil upon this place, the which whosoever heareth, his ears shall [c] tingle.

4 Because they [d] have forsaken me, and have estranged this place, and have burned incense in it unto other gods, whom neither they nor their fathers have known, nor the kings of Judah, and have filled this place with [e] the blood of innocents;

5 [f] They have built also the high places of Baal, to burn their sons with fire for burnt offerings unto Baal, [g] which I commanded not, nor spake it, neither came it into my mind:

6 Therefore, behold, the days come, saith the LORD, that this place shall no more be called Tophet, nor [h] The valley of the son of Hinnom, but The valley of slaughter.

7 And I will make void the counsel of Judah and Jerusalem in this place; [i] and I will cause them to fall by the sword before their enemies, and by the hands of them that seek their lives: and their [k] carcases will I give to be meat for the fowls of the heaven, and for the beasts of the earth:

8 And I will make this city [l] desolate, and an hissing; every one that passeth thereby shall be astonished and hiss because of all the plagues thereof.

9 And I will cause them to eat the [m] flesh of their sons and the flesh of their daughters, and they shall eat every one the flesh of his friend in the siege and straitness, wherewith their enemies, and they that seek their lives shall straiten them.

10 [n] Then shalt thou break the bottle in the sight of the men that go with thee,

11 And shalt say unto them, Thus saith the LORD of hosts; [o] Even so will I break this people and this city, as one breaketh a potter's vessel, that cannot † be made whole again: and they shall [p] bury them in Tophet, till there be no place to bury.

12 Thus will I do unto this place, saith the LORD, and to the inhabitants thereof, and even make this city as Tophet:

13 And the houses of Jerusalem, and the houses of the kings of Judah, shall be defiled [q] as the place of Tophet, because of all the houses upon whose [r] roofs they have burned incense unto all the host of heaven, and [s] have poured out drink offerings unto other gods.

14 Then came Jeremiah from Tophet, whither the LORD had sent him to prophesy; and he stood in [t] the court of the LORD's house; and said to all the people,

15 Thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel; Behold, I will bring upon this city and upon all her towns all the evil that I have pronounced against it, because [u] they have hardened their necks, that they might not hear my words.

THE [a] LORD shewed me, and, behold, two baskets of figs were set before the temple of the LORD, after that Nebuchadrezzar [b] king of Babylon had carried away captive [c] Jeconiah the son of Jehoiakim king of Judah, and the princes of Judah, with the carpenters and smiths, from Jerusalem, and had brought them to Babylon.

3 Then said the LORD unto me, What seest thou, Jeremiah? And I said, Figs; the good figs, very good; and the evil, very evil, that cannot be eaten, they are so evil.

4 ¶ Again the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

5 Thus saith the LORD, the God of Israel; Like these good figs, so will I acknowledge [†] them that are carried away captive of Judah, whom I have sent out of this place into the land of the Chaldeans for their good.

8 ¶ And as the evil [i] figs, which cannot be eaten, they are so evil; surely thus saith the LORD, So will I give Zedekiah the king of Judah, and his princes, and the residue of Jerusalem, that remain in this land, and [k] them that dwell in the land of Egypt:

CHAP. XXIV. Ver. 1. The Lord shewed me, &c.—The condition of the Jews under bondage and those who remained in Judea is characterized under two appropriate and expressive emblems.

CHAP. XXV. Ver. 1. The word that came, &c.—"The prophet here reproves the Jews for their disregard of the divine calls to repentance (ver. 1—7). He foretells their subjugation, together with that of the neighbouring nations, to the king of Babylon for seventy years, and the fall of the Babylonish empire at that period (ver. 8—14). The same is foreshown under the symbol of the cup of God's wrath, with which Jeremiah is sent, perhaps in a vision, to all nations, which are enumerated at large, to make them drink it to their utter subversion (ver. 15—29). And the like prophecy is the third time repeated in a strain of sublime and poetic imagery (ver. 30 to the end)."—Dr. Blayney.

9 Why hast thou prophesied in the name of the LORD, saying, This house shall be like Shiloh, and this city shall be desolate without an inhabitant? And all the people were gathered against Jeremiah in the house of the LORD.

10 ¶ When the princes of Judah heard these things, then they came up from the king's house unto the house of the LORD, and sat down * in the entry of the new gate of the LORD'S house.

11 Then spake the priests and the prophets unto the princes and to all the people, saying, † This man is worthy to die; [k] for he hath prophesied against this city, as ye have heard with your ears.

12 ¶ Then spake Jeremiah unto all the princes and to all the people, saying, The LORD sent me to prophesy against this house and against this city all the words that ye have heard.

13 Therefore now [l] amend your ways and your doings, and obey the voice of the LORD your God; and the LORD will [m] repent him of the evil that he hath pronounced against you.

14 As for me, behold, [n] I am in your hand: do with me ‡ as seemeth good and meet unto you.

15 But know ye for certain, that if ye put me to death, ye shall surely bring innocent blood upon yourselves, and upon this city, and upon the inhabitants thereof: for of a truth the LORD hath sent me unto you to speak all these words in your ears.

16 ¶ Then said the princes and all the people unto the priests and to the prophets; This man is not worthy to die: for he hath spoken to us in the name of the LORD our God.

17 [o] Then rose up certain of the elders of the land, and spake to all the assembly of the people, saying,

18 [p] Micah the Morasthite prophesied in the days of Hezekiah king of Judah, and spake to all the people of Judah, saying, Thus saith the LORD of hosts; [q] Zion shall be plowed like a field, and Jerusalem shall become heaps, and the mountain of the house as the high places of a forest.

19 Did Hezekiah king of Judah and all Judah put him at all to death? [r] did he not fear the LORD, and besought § the LORD, and the LORD [s] repented him of the evil which he had pronounced against them? [t] Thus might we procure great evil against our souls.

20 And there was also a man that prophesied in the name of the LORD, Urijah the son of Shemaiah of Kirjath-jearim, who prophesied against this city and against this land according to all the words of Jeremiah:

21 And when Jehoiakim the king, with all his mighty men, and all the princes, heard his words, the king sought to put him to death: but when Urijah heard it, he was afraid, and fled, and went into Egypt;

22 And Jehoiakim the king sent men into Egypt, namely, Elnathan the son of Achbor, and certain men with him into Egypt. B. C. cir. 609.

CHAP. XXVIII. Ver. 1. And it came to pass, &c.—This chapter contains an account of Hananiah's false prophecy, his judgment, and death.

CHAP. XXIX. Ver. 1. Now these are the words, &c.—This chapter contains the substance of two letters sent by Jeremiah to the captives in Babylon. In the first he recommends patience under their bonds, which shall continue seventy years. In the second he denounces God's judgments against those false prophets who deluded them with vain hopes of a speedy deliverance.

CHAP. XXX.

1 God sheweth Jeremiah the return of the Jews. 4 After their trouble they shall have deliverance. 10 He comforteth Jacob. 18 Their return shall be gracious. 20 Wrath shall fall on the wicked.

THE word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD, saying,

2 Thus speaketh the Lord GOD of Israel, saying, Write thee all the words that I have spoken unto thee in a book.

3 For, lo, the days come, saith the LORD, that [a] I will bring again the captivity of my people Israel and Judah, saith the LORD: [b] and I will cause them to return to the land that I gave to their fathers, and they shall possess it.

4 ¶ And these are the words that the LORD spake concerning Israel and concerning Judah.

5 For thus saith the LORD; We have heard a voice of trembling, [*] of fear, and not of peace.

6 Ask ye now, and see whether [†] a man doth travail with child? wherefore do I see every man with his hands on his loins, [c] as a woman in travail, and all faces are turned into paleness?

7 [d] Alas! for that day is great, [e] so that none is like it: it is even the time of Jacob's trouble; but he shall be saved out of it.

8 For it shall come to pass in that day, saith the LORD of hosts, that I will break his yoke from off thy neck, and will burst thy bonds, and strangers shall no more serve themselves of him:

9 But they shall serve the LORD their God, and [f] David their king, whom I will [g] raise up unto them.

10 ¶ Therefore [h] fear thou not, O my servant Jacob, saith the LORD; neither be dismayed, O Israel: for, lo, I will save thee from afar, and thy seed [i] from the land of their captivity; and Jacob shall return, and shall be in rest, and be quiet, and none shall make him afraid.

11 For I am with thee, saith the LORD, to save thee: [k] though I make a full end of all nations whither I have scattered thee, [l] yet will I not make a full end of thee: but I will correct thee [m] in measure, and will not leave thee altogether unpunished.

12 For thus saith the LORD, [n] Thy bruise is incurable, and thy wound is grievous.

13 There is none to plead thy cause, [‡] that thou mayest be bound up: [o] thou hast no healing medicines.

14 [p] All thy lovers have forgotten thee; they seek thee not; for I have wounded thee with the wound [q] of an enemy, with the chastisement [r] of a cruel one, for the multitude of thine iniquity; [s] because thy sins were increased.

15 Why [t] criest thou for thine affliction? thy sorrow is incurable for the multitude of thine iniquity: because thy sins were increased, I have done these things unto thee.

16 Therefore all they that devour thee [u] shall be devoured; and all thine adversaries, every one of them, shall go into captivity; and they that spoil thee shall be a spoil, and all that prey upon thee will I give for a prey.

17 [x] For I will restore health unto thee, and I will heal thee of thy wounds, saith the LORD; because they called thee an Outcast, saying, This is Zion, whom no man seeketh after.

18 ¶ Thus saith the LORD; Behold, [y] I will bring again the captivity of Jacob's tents, and [z] have mercy on his dwellingplaces; and the city shall be builded upon her own § heap, and the palace shall remain after the manner thereof.

19 And [a] out of them shall proceed thanksgiving and the voice of them that make merry: [b] and I will multiply them, and they shall not be few; I will also glorify them, and they shall not be small.

20 Their children also shall be [c] as aforetime, and their congregation shall be established before me, and I will punish all that oppress them.

21 And their nobles shall be of themselves, [d] and their governor shall proceed from the midst of them; and I will [e] cause him to draw near, and he shall approach unto me: for who is this that engaged his heart to approach unto me? saith the LORD.

22 And ye shall be [f] my people, and I will be your God.

23 Behold, the [g] whirlwind of the LORD goeth forth with fury, a ‖ continuing whirlwind: it shall [*] fall with pain upon the head of the wicked.

24 The fierce anger of the LORD shall not return, until he have done it, and until he have performed the intents of his heart [h] in the latter days ye shall consider it.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 The restoration of Israel. 10 The publication thereof. 15 Rahel mourning is comforted. 18 Ephraim repenting is brought home again. 22 Christ is promised. 27 His care over the church. 31 His new covenant. 35 The stability, and amplitude of the church.

AT [a] the same time, saith the LORD, [b] will I be the God of all the families of Israel, and they shall be my people.

2 Thus saith the LORD, The people which were left of the sword found grace in the wilderness; even Israel, when [c] I went to cause him to rest.

3 The LORD hath appeared [*] of old unto me, saying, Yea, [d] I have loved thee with [e] an everlasting love: therefore [†] with lovingkindness have I [f] drawn thee.

4 Again [g] I will build thee, and thou shalt be built, O virgin of Israel: thou shalt again be adorned with thy [h] [‡] tabrets, and shalt go forth in the dances of them that make merry.

5 [i] Thou shalt yet plant vines upon the mountains of Samaria: the planters shall plant, and shall § eat them as common things.

6 For there shall be a day, that the watchmen upon the mount Ephraim shall cry, [k] Arise ye, and let us go up to Zion unto the LORD our God.

7 For thus saith the LORD; [l] sing with gladness for Jacob, and shout among the chief of the nations: publish ye, praise ye,

1 Jeremiah, being imprisoned by Zedekiah for his prophecy, buyeth Hanameel's field. 13 Baruch must preserve the evidences, as tokens of the people's return. 16 Jeremiah in his prayer complaineth to God. 26 God confirmeth the captivity for their sins, 36 and promiseth a gracious return.

cir. 590. THE word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD [a] in the tenth year of Zedekiah king of Judah, which was the eighteenth year of Nebuchadrezzar.

[a] 2 Kings 25. 1, 2. ch. 39. 1.

2 For then the king of Babylon's army besieged Jerusalem: and Jeremiah the prophet was shut up [b] in the court of the prison, which was in the king of Judah's house.

[b] Neh. 3. 25. ch. 33. 1. & 37. 21. & 38. 6. & 39. 14.

3 For Zedekiah king of Judah had shut him up, saying, Wherefore dost thou prophesy, and say, Thus saith the LORD, [c] Behold, I will give this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall take it;

[c] ch. 34. 2.

4 And Zedekiah king of Judah [d] shall not escape out of the hand of the Chaldeans, but shall surely be delivered into the hand of the king of Babylon, and shall speak with him mouth to mouth, and his eyes shall behold his eyes;

[d] ch. 34. 3. & 38. 18, 23. & 39. 5. & 52. 9.

5 And he shall lead Zedekiah to Babylon, and there shall he be [e] until I visit him, saith the LORD: [f] though ye fight with the Chaldeans, ye shall not prosper.

[e] ch. 27. 22. [f] ch. 21. 4. & 33. 5.

6 ¶ And Jeremiah said, The word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

7 Behold, Hanameel the son of Shallum thine uncle shall come unto thee, saying, Buy thee my field that is in Anathoth: for [g] the right of redemption is thine to buy it.

[g] Lev. 25. 24, 25, 32. Ruth 4. 4.

8 So Hanameel mine uncle's son came to me in the court of the prison according to the word of the LORD, and said unto me, Buy my field, I pray thee, that is in Anathoth, which is in the country of Benjamin: for the right of inheritance is thine, and the redemption is thine; buy it for thyself. Then I knew that this was the word of the LORD.

9 And I bought the field of Hanameel my uncle's son, that was in Anathoth, and [h] weighed him the money, even * seventeen shekels of silver.

[h] Gen. 23. 16. Zech. 11. 12. * Or, seven shekels and ten pieces of silver. † Heb. wrote in the book.

10 And I † subscribed the evidence, and sealed it, and took witnesses, and weighed him the money in the balances.

11 So I took the evidence of the purchase, both that which was sealed according to the law and custom, and that which was open:

12 And I gave the evidence of the purchase unto [i] Baruch the son of Neriah, the son of Maaseiah, in the sight of Hanameel mine uncle's son, and in the presence of the [k] witnesses that subscribed the book of the purchase, before all the Jews that sat in the court of the prison.

13 ¶ And I charged Baruch before them, saying,

14 Thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel; Take these evidences, this evidence of the purchase, both which is sealed, and this evidence which is open; and put them in an earthen vessel, that they may continue many days.

15 For thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel; Houses and fields and vineyards [l] shall be possessed again in this land.

16 ¶ Now when I delivered the evidence of the purchase unto Baruch the son of Neriah, I prayed unto the LORD, saying,

B.C. cir. 590. buchadrezzar king of Babylon, and he shall take it:

29 And the Chaldeans, that fight against this city, shall come and [g] set fire on this city, and burn it with the houses, [h] upon whose roofs they have offered incense unto Baal, and poured out drink offerings unto other gods, to provoke me to anger.

30 For the children of Israel and the children of Judah [i] have only done evil before me from their youth: for the children of Israel have only provoked me to anger with the work of their hands, saith the LORD.

31 For this city hath been to me as † a provocation of mine anger and of my fury from the day that they built it even unto this day; [k] that I should remove it from before my face,

32 Because of all the evil of the children of Israel and of the children of Judah, which they have done to provoke me to anger, [l] they, their kings, their princes, their priests, and their prophets, and the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

33 And they have turned unto me the ‡ [m] back, and not the face: though I taught them, [n] rising up early and teaching them, yet they have not hearkened to receive instruction.

34 But they [o] set their abominations in the house, which is called by my name, to defile it.

35 And they built the high places of Baal, which are in the valley of the son of Hinnom, to [p] cause their sons and their daughters to pass through the fire unto [q] Molech; [r] which I commanded them not, neither came it into my mind, that they should do this abomination, to cause Judah to sin.

36 ¶ And now therefore thus saith the LORD, the God of Israel, concerning this city, whereof ye say, [s] It shall be delivered into the hand of the king of Babylon by the sword, and by the famine, and by the pestilence;

37 Behold, I will [t] gather them out of all countries, whither I have driven them in mine anger, and in my fury, and in great wrath; and I will bring them again unto this place, and I will cause them [u] to dwell safely:

38 And they shall be [x] my people, and I will be their God:

39 And I will [y] give them one heart, and one way, that they may fear me § for ever, for the good of them, and of their children after them:

40 And [z] I will make an everlasting covenant with them, that I will not turn away ‖ from them, to do them good; but [a] I will put my fear in their hearts, that they shall not depart from me.

41 Yea, [b] I will rejoice over them to do them good, and [c] I will plant them in this land * assuredly with my whole heart and with my whole soul.

42 For thus saith the LORD; [d] Like as I have brought all this great evil upon this people, so will I bring upon them all the good that I have promised them.

43 And [e] fields shall be bought in this land, [f] whereof ye say, It is desolate without man or beast; it is given into the hand of the Chaldeans.

44 Men shall buy fields for money, and subscribe evidences, and seal them, and take witnesses in [g] the land of Benjamin, and in the places about Jerusalem, and in the cities of Judah, and in the cities of the mountains, and in the cities of the valley, and in the cities of the south: for [h] I will cause their captivity to return, saith the LORD.

CHAP. XXXIII.

1 God promiseth to the captivity a gracious return, 9 a joyful state, 12 a settled government, 15 Christ the Branch of righteousness, 17 a continuance of kingdom and priesthood, 20 and a stability of a blessed seed.

MOREOVER the word of the LORD came unto Jeremiah the second time, while he was yet [a] shut up in the court of the prison, saying,

2 Thus saith the LORD the [b] maker thereof, the LORD that formed it, to establish it; [*] [c] the LORD is his name;

3 [d] Call unto me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and † mighty things, which thou knowest not.

4 For thus saith the LORD, the God of Israel, concerning the houses of this city, and concerning the houses of the kings of Judah, which are thrown down by [e] the mounts, and by the sword;

5 [f] They come to fight with the Chaldeans, but it is to fill them with the dead bodies of men, whom I have slain in mine anger and in my fury, and for all whose wickedness I have hid my face from this city.

6 Behold, [g] I will bring it health and cure, and I will cure them, and will reveal unto them the abundance of peace and truth.

7 And [h] I will cause the captivity of Judah and the captivity of Israel to return, and will build them, [i] as at the first.

8 And I will [k] cleanse them from all their iniquity, whereby they have sinned against me; and I will [l] pardon all their iniquities, whereby they have sinned, and whereby they have transgressed against me.

9 ¶ [m] And it shall be to me a name of joy, a praise and an honour before all the nations of the earth, which shall hear all the good that I do unto them: and they shall [n] fear and tremble for all the goodness and for all the prosperity that I procure unto it.

10 Thus saith the LORD; Again there shall be heard in this place, [o] which ye say shall be desolate without man and without beast, even in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, that are desolate, without man, and without inhabitant, and without beast,

11 The [p] voice of joy, and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride, the voice of them that shall say, [q] Praise the LORD of hosts: for the LORD is good; for his mercy endureth for ever: and of them that shall bring [r] the sacrifice of praise into the house of the LORD. For [s] I will cause to return the captivity of the land, as at the first, saith the LORD.

B. C. cir. 590.

12 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; [t]Again in this place, which is desolate without man and without beast, and in all the cities thereof, shall be an habitation of shepherds causing their flocks to lie down.

13 [u] In the cities of the mountains, in the cities of the vale, and in the cities of the south, and in the land of Benjamin, and in the places about Jerusalem, and in the cities of Judah, shall the flocks [x] pass again under the hands of him that telleth them, saith the LORD.

14 [y] Behold, the days come, saith the LORD, that [z] I will perform that good thing which I have promised unto the house of Israel and to the house of Judah.

15 ¶ In those days, and at that time, will I cause the [a] Branch of righteousness to grow up unto David; and he shall execute judgment and righteousness in the land.

16 [b] In those days shall Judah be saved, and Jerusalem shall dwell safely: and this is the name wherewith she shall be called, ‡ The LORD our righteousness.

17 ¶ For thus saith the LORD; § David shall never [c] want a man to sit upon the throne of the house of Israel;

18 Neither shall the priests the Levites want a man before me to [d] offer burnt offerings, and to kindle meat offerings, and to do sacrifice continually.

19 ¶ And the word of the LORD came unto Jeremiah, saying,

20 Thus saith the LORD; [e] If ye can break my covenant of the day, and my covenant of the night, and that there should not be day and night in their season;

21 Then may also [f] my covenant be broken with David my servant, that he should not have a son to reign upon his throne; and with the Levites the priests, my ministers.

22 As [g] the host of heaven cannot be numbered, neither the sand of the sea measured: so will I multiply the seed of David my servant, and the Levites that minister unto me.

23 Moreover the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah, saying,

24 Considerest thou not what this people have spoken, saying, [h] the two families which the LORD hath chosen, he hath even cast them off? thus they have despised my people, that they should be no more a nation before them.

25 Thus saith the LORD; If [i] my covenant be not with day and night, and if I have not [k] appointed the ordinances of heaven and earth;

26 [l] Then will I cast away the seed of Jacob, and David my servant, so that I will not take any of his seed to be rulers over the seed of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob: for [m] I will cause their captivity to return, and have mercy on them.

CHAP. XXXIV.

1 Jeremiah prophesieth the captivity of Zedekiah and the city. The princes and the people having dismissed their bondservants, contrary to the covenant of God, reassume them. 12 Jeremiah, for their disobedience, giveth them and Zedekiah into the hands of their enemies.

cir. 591 THE word which came unto Jeremiah from the LORD, [a] when Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and all his army, and [b] all the kingdoms of the earth [c] of his dominion, and all the people, fought against Jerusalem, and against all the cities thereof, saying,

2 Thus saith the LORD, the God of Israel; Go and speak to Zedekiah king of Judah, and tell him, Thus saith the LORD; Behold, [c] I will give this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and [d] he shall burn it with fire:

3 And [e] thou shalt not escape out of his hand, but shalt surely be taken, and delivered into his hand; and thine eyes shall behold the eyes of the king of Babylon, and † he shall speak with thee mouth to mouth, and thou shalt go to Babylon.

4 Yet hear the word of the LORD, O Zedekiah king of Judah; Thus saith the LORD of thee, Thou shalt not die by the sword:

5 But thou shalt die in peace: and with [f] the burnings of thy fathers, the former kings which were before thee, [g] so shall they burn odours for thee; and [h] they will lament thee, saying, Ah lord! for I have pronounced the word, saith the LORD.

6 Then Jeremiah the prophet spake all these words unto Zedekiah king of Judah in Jerusalem,

7 When the king of Babylon's army fought against Jerusalem, and against all the cities of Judah that were left, against Lachish, and against Azekah: for [i] these defenced cities remained of the cities of Judah.

8 ¶ This is the word that came unto Jeremiah from the LORD, after that the king Zedekiah had made a covenant with all the people which were at Jerusalem, to proclaim [k] liberty unto them;

9 [l] That every man should let his manservant, and every man his maidservant, being an Hebrew or an Hebrewess, go free; [m] that none should serve himself of them, to wit, of a Jew his brother.

10 Now when all the princes, and all the people, which had entered into the covenant, heard that every one should let his manservant, and every one his maidservant, go free, that none should serve themselves of them any more, then they obeyed, and let them go.

11 But [n] afterward they turned, and caused the servants and the handmaids, whom they had let go free, to return, and brought them into subjection for servants and for handmaids.

12 ¶ Therefore the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah from the LORD, saying,

13 Thus saith the LORD, the God of Israel; I made a covenant with your fathers in the day that I brought them forth out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondmen, saying,

14 At the end of [o] seven years let ye go every man his brother an Hebrew, which ‡ hath been sold unto thee; and when he hath served thee six years, thou shalt let him go free from thee: but your fathers hearkened not unto me, neither inclined their ear.

15 And ye were § now turned, and had done right in my sight, in proclaiming liberty every man to his neighbour; and ye had berty every man to his neighbour; and ye had [p] made a covenant before me [q] in the house ‖ which is called by my name:

16 But ye turned and [r] polluted my name, and caused every man his servant, and every man his handmaid, whom ye had set at liberty at their pleasure, to return, and brought them into subjection, to be unto you for servants and for handmaids.

17 Therefore thus saith the LORD; Ye have not hearkened unto me, in proclaiming liberty, every one to his brother, and every man to his neighbour: [s] behold, I proclaim a liberty for you, saith the LORD, [t] to the sword, to the pestilence, and to the famine; and I will make you [u] to be [w] removed into all the kingdoms of the earth.

18 And I will give the men that have transgressed my covenant, which have not performed the words of the covenant which they had made before me, when [x] they cut the calf in twain, and passed between the parts thereof,

19 The princes of Judah, and the princes of Jerusalem, the eunuchs, and the priests, and all the people of the land, which passed between the parts of the calf;

20 I will even give them into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of them that seek their life: and their [y] dead bodies shall be for meat unto the fowls of the heaven, and to the beasts of the earth.

21 And Zedekiah king of Judah and his princes will I give into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of them that seek their life, and into the hand of the king of Babylon's army, [z] which are gone up from you.

22 [a] Behold, I will command, saith the LORD, and cause them to return to this city; and they shall fight against it, [b] and take it, and burn it with fire: and [c] I will make the cities of Judah a desolation without an inhabitant.

CHAP. XXXV.

1 By the obedience of the Rechabites, 12 Jeremiah condemneth the disobedience of the Jews. 18 God blesseth the Rechabites for their obedience.

THE word which came unto Jeremiah from the LORD in the days of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah king of Judah, saying,

2 Go unto the house of the [a] Rechabites, and speak unto them, and bring them into the house of the LORD, into one of [b] the chambers, and give them wine to drink.

3 Then I took Jaazaniah the son of Jeremiah, the son of Habaziniah, and his brethren, and all his sons, and the whole house of the Rechabites;

4 And I brought them into the house of the LORD, into the chamber of the sons of Hanan, the son of Igdaliah, a man of God, which was by the chamber of the princes, which was above the chamber of Maaseiah the son of Shallum, [c] the keeper of the [*] door:

5 And I set before the sons of the house of the Rechabites pots full of wine, and cups, and I said unto them, Drink ye wine.

6 But they said, We will drink no wine: for [d] Jonadab the son of Rechab our father commanded us, saying, Ye shall drink no wine, neither ye, nor your sons for ever:

7 Neither shall ye build house, nor sow seed, nor plant vineyard, nor have any: but all your days ye shall dwell in tents; [e] that ye may live many days in the land where ye be strangers.

8 Thus have we obeyed the voice of Jonadab the son of Rechab our father in all that he hath charged us, to drink no wine all our days, we, our wives, our sons, nor our daughters;

9 Nor to build houses for us to dwell in: neither have we vineyard, nor field, nor seed:

10 But we have dwelt in tents, and have obeyed, and done according to all that Jonadab our father commanded us.

11 But it came to pass, when Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon came up into the land, that we said, Come, and let us go to Jerusalem for fear of the army of the Chaldeans, and for fear of the army of the Syrians: so we dwell at Jerusalem.

12 ¶ Then came the word of the LORD unto Jeremiah, saying,

13 Thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel; go and tell the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, Will ye not [f] receive instruction to hearken to my words? saith the LORD.

14 The words of Jonadab the son of Rechab, that he commanded his sons not to drink wine, are performed; for unto this day they drink none, but obey their father's commandment: [g] notwithstanding I have spoken unto you, [h] rising early and speaking; but ye hearkened not unto me.

15 [i] I have sent also unto you all my servants the prophets, rising up early and sending them, saying, [k] Return ye now every man from his evil way, and amend your doings, and go not after other gods to serve them, and ye shall dwell in the land which I have given to you and to your fathers: but ye have not inclined your ear, nor hearkened unto me.

16 Because the sons of Jonadab the son of Rechab have performed the commandment of their father, which he commanded them; but this people hath not hearkened unto me:

17 Therefore thus saith the LORD God of hosts, the God of Israel; Behold, I will bring upon Judah and upon all the inhabitants of Jerusalem all the evil that I have pronounced against them: [l] because I have spoken unto them, but they have not heard; and I have called unto them, but they have not answered.

18 ¶ And Jeremiah said unto the house of the Rechabites, Thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel; Because ye have obeyed the commandment of Jonadab your father, and kept all his precepts, and done according unto all that he hath commanded you:

19 Therefore thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel; † Jonadab the son of Rechab shall not want a man to [m] stand before me for ever.

CHAP. XXXVI.

1 Jeremiah causeth Baruch to write his prophecy, 5 and publickly to read it. 11 The princes, having intelligence thereof by Michaiah, sent Jehudi to fetch the roll, and read it. 19 They will Baruch to hide himself and Jeremiah. 20 The king Jehoiakim, being certified thereof, heareth part of it, and burneth the roll. 27 Jeremiah denounceth his judgment. 32 Baruch writeth a new copy.

AND it came to pass in the fourth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah king of Judah, that this word came unto Jeremiah from the LORD, saying, c Isa. 8. 1. Ezek. 2. 9. Zech. 5. 1. & ch. 30. 2.

2 Take thee a [a]roll of a book, and [b]write therein all the words that I have spoken unto thee against Israel, and against Judah, and against [c]all the nations, from the day I spake unto thee, from the days of [d]Josiah, even unto this day.

e ver. 7. ch. 26. 3.

3 [e]It may be that the house of Judah will hear all the evil which I purpose to do unto them; that they may [f]return every man from his evil way; that I may forgive their iniquity and their sin.

4 Then Jeremiah [g]called Baruch the son of Neriah: and [h]Baruch wrote from the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of the LORD, which he had spoken unto him, upon a roll of a book.

5 And Jeremiah commanded Baruch, saying, I am shut up; I cannot go into the house of the LORD:

6 Therefore go thou, and read in the roll, which thou hast written from my mouth, the words of the LORD in the ears of the people in the LORD's house upon [i]the fasting day: and also thou shalt read them in the ears of all Judah that come out of their cities.

i Lev. 16. 29. & 23. 27. Isa. 58. 3. Acts 27. 9.

k ver. 3. * Heb. their supplication shall fall.

7 [k]It may be [*]they will present their supplication before the LORD, and will return every one from his evil way: for great is the anger and the fury that the LORD hath pronounced against this people.

8 And Baruch the son of Neriah did according to all that Jeremiah the prophet commanded him, reading in the book the words of the LORD in the LORD's house.

cir. 606.

9 And it came to pass in the fifth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah king of Judah, in the ninth month, that they proclaimed a fast before the LORD to all the people in Jerusalem, and to all the people that came from the cities of Judah unto Jerusalem.

10 Then read Baruch in the book the words of Jeremiah in the house of the LORD, in the chamber of Gemariah the son of Shaphan the scribe, in the higher court, at the [†]entry of the new gate of the LORD's house, in the ears of all the people.

† Or, door. † ch. 26. 10

11 ¶ When Michaiah the son of Gemariah, the son of Shaphan, had heard out of the book all the words of the LORD,

12 Then he went down into the king's house, into the scribe's chamber: and, lo, all the princes sat there, even Elishama the scribe, and Delaiah the son of Shemaiah, and Elnathan the son of Achbor, and Gemariah the son of Shaphan, and Zedekiah the son of Hananiah, and all the princes.

13 Then Michaiah declared unto them all the words that he had heard, when Baruch read the book in the ears of the people.

14 Therefore all the princes sent Jehudi the son of Nethaniah, the son of Shelemiah, the son of Cushi, unto Baruch, saying, Take in thine hand the roll wherein thou hast read in the ears of the people, and come. So Baruch the son of Neriah took the roll in his hand, and came unto them.

B. C. cir. 606.

15 And they said unto him, Sit down now, and read it in our ears. So Baruch read it in their ears.

16 Now it came to pass, when they had heard all the words, they were afraid both one and other, and said unto Baruch, We will surely tell the king of all these words.

17 And they asked Baruch, saying, Tell us now, How didst thou write all these words at his mouth?

18 Then Baruch answered them, He pronounced all these words unto me with his mouth, and I wrote them with ink in the book.

19 Then said the princes unto Baruch, Go, hide thee, thou and Jeremiah; and let no man know where ye be.

20 ¶ And they went in to the king into the court, but they laid up the roll in the chamber of Elishama the scribe, and told all the words in the ears of the king.

21 So the king sent Jehudi to fetch the roll: and he took it out of Elishama the the scribe's chamber. And Jehudi read it in the ears of the king, and in the ears of all the princes which stood beside the king.

22 Now the king sat in [m]the winterhouse in the ninth month: and there was a fire on the hearth burning before him.

m See Amos 3. 15

23 And it came to pass, that when Jehudi had read three or four leaves, he cut it with the penknife, and cast it into the fire that was on the earth, until all the roll was consumed in the fire that was on the hearth.

24 Yet they were not afraid, nor [n]rent their garments, neither the king, nor any of his servants that heard all these words.

n 2 Kgs. 22. 11. Isa. 37. 1. & 37. 1

25 Nevertheless Elnathan and Delaiah and Gemariah had made intercession to the king that he would not burn the roll: but he would not hear them.

26 But the king commanded Jerahmeel the son of ‡Hammelech, and Seraiah the son of Azriel, and Shelemiah the son of Abdeel, to take Baruch the scribe and Jeremiah the prophet: but the LORD hid them.

‡ Or, the king's son ch. 38. 6.

27 ¶ Then the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah, after that the king had burned the roll, and the words which Baruch wrote at the mouth of Jeremiah, saying,

28 Take thee again another roll, and write in it all the former words that were in the first roll, which Jehoiakim the king of Judah hath burned.

29 And thou shalt say to Jehoiakim king of Judah, Thus saith the LORD; Thou hast burned this roll, saying, Why hast thou written therein, saying, The king of Babylon shall certainly come and destroy this land, and shall cause to cease from thence man and beast?

30 Therefore thus saith the LORD of Jehoiakim king of Judah; [o]He shall have none to sit upon the throne of David: and his dead body shall be [p]cast out in the day to the heat, and in the night to the frost.

THE word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD, [a] after that Nebuzar-adan the captain of the guard had let him go from Ramah, when he had taken him being bound in * chains among all that were carried away captive of Jerusalem and Judah, which were carried away captive unto Babylon.

2 And the captain of the guard took Jeremiah, and [b] said unto him, The LORD thy God hath pronounced this evil upon this place.

3 Now the LORD hath brought it, and done according as he hath said: [c] because ye have sinned against the LORD, and have not obeyed his voice, therefore this thing is come upon you.

4 And now, behold, I loose thee this day from the chains which † were upon thine hand. [d] If it seem good unto thee to come with me into Babylon, come; and ‡ I will look well unto thee: but if it seem ill unto thee to come with me into Babylon, forbear: behold, [e] all the land is before thee: whither it seemeth good and convenient for thee to go, thither go.

5 Now while he was not yet gone back, he said, Go back also to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam the son of Shaphan, [f] whom the king of Babylon hath made governor over the cities of Judah, and dwell with him among the people: or go wheresoever it seemeth convenient unto thee to go. So the captain of the guard gave him victuals and a reward, and let him go.

6 [g] Then went Jeremiah unto Gedaliah the son of Ahikam to [h] Mizpah; and dwelt with him among the people that were left in the land.

7 ¶ [i] Now when all the captains of the forces which were in the fields, even they and their men, heard that the king of Babylon had made Gedaliah the son of Ahikam governor in the land, and had committed unto him men, and women, and children, and of [k] the poor of the land, of them that were not carried away captive to Babylon;

8 Then they came to Gedaliah to Mizpah, [l] even Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, and Johanan and Jonathan the sons of Kareah, and Seraiah the son of Tanhumeth, and the sons of Ephai the Netophathite, and Jezaniah the son of a Maachathite, they and their men.

9 And Gedaliah the son of Ahikam the son of Shaphan sware unto them and to their men, saying, Fear not to serve the Chaldeans: dwell in the land, and serve the king of Babylon, and it shall be well with you.

10 As for me, behold, I will dwell at Mizpah, § to serve the Chaldeans, which will come unto us: but ye, gather ye wine, and summer fruits, and oil, and put them in your vessels, and dwell in your cities that ye have taken.

11 Likewise when all the Jews that were in Moab, and among the Ammonites, and in Edom, and that were in all the countries, heard that the king of Babylon had left a remnant of Judah, and that he had set over them Gedaliah the son of Ahikam the son of Shaphan;

12 Even all the Jews returned out of all places whither they were driven, and came to the land of Judah, to Gedaliah, unto Mizpah, and gathered wine and summer fruits very much.

13 ¶ Moreover Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces that were in the fields, came to Gedaliah to Mizpah,

1 Ishmael, treacherously killing Gedaliah and others, purposeth with the residue to flee unto the Ammonites. 11 Johanan recovereth the captives, and mindeth to flee into Egypt.

NOW it came to pass in the seventh month, [a] that Ishmael the son of Nethaniah the son of Elishama, of the seed royal, and the princes of the king, even ten men with him, came unto Gedaliah the son of Ahikam to Mizpah; and there they did eat bread together in Mizpah.

[a] 2 Kin. 25. 25. ch. 40. 6, 8.

2 Then arose Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, and the ten men that were with him, and [b] smote Gedaliah the son of Ahikam the son of Shaphan with the sword, and slew him, whom the king of Babylon had made governor over the land.

[b] 2 Kin. 25. 25.

3 Ishmael also slew all the Jews that were with him, even with Gedaliah, at Mizpah, and the Chaldeans that were found there, and the men of war.

4 And it came to pass the second day after he had slain Gedaliah, and no man knew it,

5 That there came certain from Shechem, from Shiloh, and from Samaria, even four score men, [c] having their beards shaven, and their clothes rent, and having cut themselves, with offerings and incense in their hand, to bring them to [d] the house of the LORD.

15 But Ishmael the son of Nethaniah escaped from Johanan with eight men, and went to the Ammonites.

soever thing the LORD shall answer you, I will declare it unto you; I will [f]keep nothing back from you.

5 Then they said to Jeremiah, [g] The LORD be a true and faithful witness between us, if we do not even according to all things for the which the LORD thy God shall send thee to us.

6 Whether it be good, or whether it be evil, we will obey the voice of the LORD our God, to whom we send thee; [h] that it may be well with us, when we obey the voice of the LORD our God.

7 ¶ And it came to pass after ten days, that the word of the LORD came unto Jeremiah.

8 Then called he Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces which were with him, and all the people from the least even to the greatest,

9 And said unto them, thus saith the LORD, the God of Israel, unto whom ye sent me to present your supplication before him;

10 If ye will still abide in this land, then [i] will I build you, and not pull you down, and I will plant you, and not pluck you up: for I [k]repent me of the evil that I have done unto you.

11 Be not afraid of the king of Babylon, of whom ye are afraid; be not afraid of him, saith the LORD: [l] for I am with you to save you, and to deliver you from his hand.

12 And [m] I will shew mercies unto you, that he may have mercy upon you, and cause you to return to your own land.

13 ¶ But if [n] ye say, We will not dwell in this land, neither obey the voice of the LORD your God,

14 Saying, No; but we will go into the land of Egypt, where we shall see no war, nor hear the sound of the trumpet, nor have hunger of bread; and there will we dwell:

15 And now therefore hear the word of the LORD, ye remnant of Judah; Thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel; If ye [o] wholly set your [p] faces to enter into Egypt, and go to sojourn there;

16 Then it shall come to pass, that the sword, [q] which ye feared, shall overtake you there in the land of Egypt, and the famine, whereof ye were afraid, [+] shall follow close after you there in Egypt; and there ye shall die.

17 [‡] So shall it be with all the men that set their faces to go into Egypt to sojourn there; they shall die [r] by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence: and [s] none of them shall remain or escape from the evil that I will bring upon them.

18 For thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel; As mine anger and my fury hath been [t] poured forth upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem; so shall my fury be poured forth upon you, when ye shall enter into Egypt: and [u] ye shall be an execration, and an astonishment, and a curse, and a reproach; and ye shall see this place no more.

19 ¶ The LORD hath said concerning you, O ye remnant of Judah; [x] Go ye not into Egypt: know certainly that I have § admonished you this day.

20 For ‖ ye dissembled in your hearts, when ye sent me unto the LORD your God, saying, [y] Pray for us unto the LORD our God; and according unto all that the LORD our God shall say, so declare unto us, and we will do it.

21 And now I have this day declared it to you; but ye have not obeyed the voice of the LORD your God, nor any thing for the which he hath sent me unto you.

22 Now therefore know certainly that [z] ye shall die by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence, in the place whither ye desire [*] to go and to sojourn.

CHAP. XLIII.

1 Johanan, discrediting Jeremiah's prophecy, carrieth Jeremiah and others into Egypt. 8 Jeremiah prophesieth by a type the conquest of Egypt by the Babylonians.

AND it came to pass, that when Jeremiah had made an end of speaking unto all the people all the words of the LORD their God, for which the LORD their God had sent him to them, even all these words,

2 [a] Then spake Azariah the son of Hoshaiah, and Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the proud men, saying unto Jeremiah, Thou speakest falsely: the LORD our God hath not sent thee to say, Go not into Egypt to sojourn there:

3 But Baruch the son of Neriah setteth thee on against us, for to deliver us into the hand of the Chaldeans, that they might put us to death, and carry us away captives into Babylon.

4 So Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces, and all the people, obeyed not the voice of the LORD, to dwell in the land of Judah.

5 But Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces, took [b] all the remnant of Judah, that were returned from all nations, whither they had been driven, to dwell in the land of Judah;

6 Even men, and women, and children, [c] and the king's daughters, [d] and every person that Nebuzar-adan the captain of the guard had left with Gedaliah the son of Ahikam the son of Shaphan, and Jeremiah the prophet, and Baruch the son of Neriah.

7 So they came into the land of Egypt: for they obeyed not the voice of the LORD: thus came they even to [e] Tahpanhes.

8 ¶ Then came the word of the LORD unto Jeremiah in Tahpanhes, saying,

9 Take great stones in thine hand, and hide them in the clay in the brick-kiln, which is at the entry of Pharaoh's house in Tahpanhes, in the sight of the men of Judah;

10 And say unto them, Thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel; Behold, I will send and take Nebuchadrezzar the king of Babylon, [f] my servant, and will set his throne upon these stones that I have hid; and he shall spread his royal pavilion over them.

25 Thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, saying; [c] Ye and your wives have both spoken with your mouths, and fulfilled with your hand, saying, We will surely perform our vows that we have vowed, to burn incense to the queen of heaven, and to pour out drink offerings unto her: ye will surely accomplish your vows, and surely perform your vows.

26 Therefore hear ye the word of the LORD, all Judah that dwell in the land of Egypt; Behold, [d] I have sworn by my great name, saith the LORD, that [e] my name shall no more be named in the mouth of any man of Judah in all the land of Egypt, saying, The Lord GOD liveth.

1 Baruch being dismayed, 4 Jeremiah instructeth and comforteth him.

cir. 607.

THE [a] word that Jeremiah the prophet spake unto Baruch the son of Neriah, when he had written these words in a book at the mouth of Jeremiah, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah king of Judah, saying,

[a] ch. 36. 1, 4, 32.

2 Thus saith the LORD, the God of Israel, unto thee, O Baruch;

3 Thou didst say, Woe is me now! for the LORD hath added grief to my sorrow; I fainted in my sighing, and I find no rest.

4 ¶ Thus shalt thou say unto him, The LORD saith thus; Behold, [b] that which I have built will I break down, and that which I have planted I will pluck up, even this whole land.

[b] Isa. 5. 5.

5 And seekest thou great things for thyself? seek them not: for, behold, [c] I will bring evil upon all flesh, saith the LORD: but thy life will I give unto thee [d] for a prey in all places whither thou goest.

23 They shall [b] cut down her forest, saith the LORD, though it cannot be searched; because they are more than [c] the grasshoppers, and are innumerable.

24 The daughter of Egypt shall be confounded; she shall be delivered into the hand of [d] the people of the north.

25 The LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, saith; Behold, I will punish the § ‖ multitude of [e] No, and Pharaoh, and Egypt, [f] with their gods, and their kings; even Pharaoh, and all them that trust in him:

26 [g] And I will deliver them into the hand of those that seek their lives, and into the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, and into the hand of his servants: and [h] afterward it shall be inhabited, as in the days of old, saith the LORD.

27 ¶ [i] But fear not thou, O my servant Jacob, and be not dismayed, O Israel: for, behold, I will save thee from afar off, and thy seed from the land of their captivity; and Jacob shall return, and be in rest and at ease, and none shall make him afraid.

28 Fear thou not, O Jacob my servant, saith the LORD: for I am with thee; for I will make a full end of all the nations whither I have driven thee: but I will not make [k] a full end of thee, but correct thee in measure; yet will I * not leave thee wholly unpunished.

The destruction of the Philistines.

cir. 630.

THE word of the LORD that came to Jeremiah the prophet [a] against the Philistines, [b] before that Pharaoh smote * Gaza.

2 Thus saith the LORD; Behold, [c] waters rise up [d] out of the north, and shall be an overflowing flood, and shall overflow the land, and † all that is therein; the city, and them that dwell therein: then the men shall cry, and all the inhabitants of the land shall howl.

3 At the [e] noise of the stamping of the hoofs of his strong horses, at the rushing of his chariots, and at the rumbling of his wheels, the fathers shall not look back to their children for feebleness of hands;

4 Because of the day that cometh to spoil all the Philistines, and to cut off from [f] Tyrus and Zidon every helper that remaineth: for the LORD will spoil the Philistines, [g] the remnant of ‡ the country of [h] Caphtor.

5 [i] Baldness is come upon Gaza; [k] Ashkelon is cut off with the remnant of their valley: how long wilt thou [l] cut thyself?

The judgment of Moab. 7 for their pride. 11 for their security. 14 for their carnal confidence. 26 and for their contempt of God and his people. 47 The restoration of Moab.

cir. 600.

AGAINST [a] Moab thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel; Woe unto [b] Nebo! for it is spoiled: [c] Kiriathaim is confounded and taken: [d] Misgab is confounded and dismayed.

2 [e] There shall be no more praise of Moab: in [f] Heshbon they have devised evil against it; come, and let us cut it off from being a nation. Also thou shalt † be cut down, O Madmen; the sword shall ‡ pursue thee.

3 [g] A voice of crying shall be from Horonaim, spoiling and great destruction.

4 Moab is destroyed; her little ones have caused a cry to be heard.

5 [h] For in the going up of Luhith § continual weeping shall go up; for in the going down of Horonaim the enemies have heard a cry of destruction.

6 [i] Flee, save your lives, and be like ‖ the [j] heath in the wilderness.

7 ¶ For because thou hast trusted in thy works and in thy treasures, thou shalt also be taken: and [k] Chemosh shall go forth into captivity with his [l] priests and his princes together.

8 And [m] the spoiler shall come upon every city, and no city shall escape: the valley also shall perish, and the plain shall be destroyed, as the LORD hath spoken.

9 [n] Give wings unto Moab, that it may flee and get away: for the cities thereof shall be desolate, without any to dwell therein.

10 [o] Cursed be he that doeth the work of the LORD * deceitfully, and cursed be he that keepeth back his sword from blood.

11 ¶ Moab hath been at ease from his youth, and he [p] hath settled on his lees, and hath not been emptied from vessel to vessel, neither hath he gone into captivity: therefore his taste † remained in him, and his scent is not changed.

12 Therefore, behold, the days come, saith the LORD, that I will send unto him wanderers, that shall cause him to wander, and shall empty his vessels, and break their bottles.

13 And Moab shall be ashamed of [q] Chemosh, as the house of Israel [r] was ashamed of [s] Beth-el their confidence.

14 ¶ How say ye, [t] We are mighty and strong men for the war?

15 [u] Moab is spoiled, and gone up out of her cities, and ‡ his chosen young men are [x] gone down to the slaughter, saith [y] the king, whose name is the LORD of hosts.

16 The calamity of Moab is near to come, and his affliction hasteth fast.

17 All ye that are about him, bemoan him; and all ye that know his name, say, [z] How is the strong staff broken, and the beautiful rod!

18 [a] Thou daughter that dost inhabit [b] Dibon, come down from thy glory, and sit in thirst; for [c] the spoiler of Moab shall come upon thee, and he shall destroy thy strong holds.

19 O § inhabitant of [d] Aroer, [e] stand by the way, and espy; ask him that fleeth, and her that escapeth, and say, What is done?

20 Moab is confounded; for it is broken down: [f] howl and cry; tell ye it in [g] Arnon, that Moab is spoiled,

21 And judgment is come upon [h] the plain country; upon Holon, and upon Jahazah, and upon Mephaath,

22 And upon Dibon, and upon Nebo, and upon Beth-diblathaim,

23 And upon Kiriathaim, and upon Bethgamul, and upon Beth-meon,

24 And upon [i] Kerioth, and upon Bozrah, and upon all the cities of the land of Moab, far or near.

25 [k] The horn of Moab is cut off, and his [l] arm is broken, saith the LORD.

26 ¶ [m] Make ye him drunken: for he magnified himself against the LORD: Moab also shall wallow in his vomit, and he also shall be in derision.

27 For [n] was not Israel a derision unto thee? [o] was he found among thieves? for since thou spakest of him, thou ‖ skippedst for joy.

28 O ye that dwell in Moab, leave the cities, and [p] dwell in the rock, and be like [q] the dove that maketh her nest in the sides of the hole's mouth.

29 We have heard the [r] pride of Moab, (he is exceeding proud) his loftiness, and his arrogancy, and his pride, and the haughtiness of his heart.

30 I know his wrath, saith the LORD; but it shall not be so; [s] his lies shall not so effect it.

31 Therefore [t] will I howl for Moab, and I will cry out for all Moab; mine heart shall mourn for the men of Kir-heres.

32 [u] O vine of Sibmah, I will weep for thee with the weeping of Jazer: thy plants are gone over the sea, they reach even to the sea of Jazer: the spoiler is fallen upon thy summer fruits and upon thy vintage.

33 And [x] joy and gladness is taken from the plentiful field, and from the land of Moab; and I have caused wine to fail from the winepresses: none shall tread with shouting; their shouting shall be no shouting.

34 [y] From the cry of Heshbon even unto Elealeh, and even unto Jahaz, have they uttered their voice, [z] from Zoar even unto Horonaim, as an heifer of three years old: for the waters also of Nimrim shall be † desolate.

35 Moreover I will cause to cease in Moab, saith the LORD, [a] him that offereth in the high places, and him that burneth incense to his gods.

36 Therefore [b] mine heart shall sound for Moab like pipes, and mine heart shall sound like pipes for the men of Kir-heres: because [c] the riches that he hath gotten are perished.

37 For [d] every head shall be bald, and every beard ‡ clipped: upon all the hands shall be cuttings, and [e] upon the loins sackcloth.

38 There shall be lamentation generally upon all the housetops of Moab, and in the streets thereof: for I have broken Moab like [f] a vessel wherein is no pleasure, saith the LORD.

39 They shall howl, saying, How is it broken down! how hath Moab turned the § back with shame! so shall Moab be a derision and a dismaying to all them about him.

40 For thus saith the LORD; Behold, [g] he shall fly as an eagle, and shall [h] spread his wings over Moab.

41 [i] ‖ Kerioth is taken, and the strong holds are surprised, and [k] the mighty men's hearts in Moab at that day shall be as the heart of a woman in her pangs.

42 And Moab shall be destroyed [l] from being a people, because he hath magnified himself against the LORD.

43 [m] Fear, and the pit, and the snare, shall be upon thee, O inhabitant of Moab, saith the LORD.

44 He that fleeth from the fear shall fall into the pit; and he that getteth up out of the pit shall be taken in the snare: for [n] I will bring upon it, even upon Moab, the year of their visitation, saith the LORD.

45 They that fled stood under the shadow of Heshbon because of the force: but [o] a fire shall come forth out of Heshbon, and a flame from the midst of Sihon, and [p] shall devour the corner of Moab, and the crown of the head of the * tumultuous ones.

46 [q] Woe be unto thee, O Moab! the people of Chemosh perisheth: for thy sons are taken † captives, and thy daughters captives.

47 ¶ Yet will I bring again the captivity of Moab [r] in the latter days, saith the LORD. Thus far is the judgment of Moab.

d Isa. 22. 11. ch. 4. 8. & 6. 26.
‡ Or, Melcom. 1 Kings 11. 5, 33.
e ch. 48. 7. Amos 1. 15.

3 Howl, O Heshbon, for Ai is spoiled: cry, ye daughters of Rabbah, [d] gird you with sackcloth; lament, and run to and fro by the hedges; for ‡ their king shall go into captivity, and his [e] priests and his princes together.

f Or, thy valley floweth away.
g ch. 21. 13.

4 Wherefore gloriest thou in the valleys, § thy flowing valley, O [f] backsliding daughter? that trusted in her treasures, [g] saying, Who shall come unto me?

5 Behold, I will bring a fear upon thee, saith the Lord GOD of hosts, from all those that be about thee; and ye shall be driven out every man right forth; and none shall gather up him that wandereth.

h Or, afterward. Isa. 49. 47.

6 And [h] afterward I will bring again the captivity of the children of Ammon, saith the LORD.

i Ezek. 25. 13. Amos 1. 11.
l See Isa. 19. 11.

7 ¶ [i] Concerning Edom, thus saith the LORD of hosts; [k] Is wisdom no more in Teman? [l] is counsel perished from the prudent? is their wisdom vanished?

m Or, Go.
n ch. 25. 23.

8 [m] Flee ye, ‖ turn back, dwell deep, O inhabitants of [n] Dedan; for I will bring the calamity of Esau upon him, the time that I will visit him.

o Obad. 5.

9 If [o] grapegatherers come to thee, would they not leave some gleaning grapes? if thieves by night, they will destroy [*] till they have enough.

* Heb. their sufficiency.

10 [p] But I have made Esau bare, I have uncovered his secret places, and he shall not be able to hide himself: his seed is spoiled, and his brethren, and his neighbours, and [q] he is not.

q Isa. 17. 14.

11 Leave thy fatherless children, I will preserve them alive; and let thy widows trust in me.

r ch. 25. 29. Obad. 16.

12 For thus saith the LORD; Behold, [r] they whose judgment was not to drink of the cup have assuredly drunken; and art thou he that shall altogether go unpunished? thou shalt not go unpunished, but thou shalt surely drink of it.

s Gen. 22. 16. Isa. 45. 23. Amos 6. 8. & Heb. 6. 13. t Isa. 34. 6. & 63. 1.

13 For I have [s]sworn by myself, saith the LORD, that [t] Bozrah shall become a desolation, a reproach, a waste, and a curse; and all the cities thereof shall be perpetual wastes.

u Obad. 1. 2, 3.

14 I have heard a [u] rumour from the LORD, and an ambassador is sent unto the heathen, saying, Gather ye together, and come against her, and rise up to the battle.

15 For, lo, I will make thee small among the heathen, and despised among men.

16 Thy terribleness hath deceived thee, and the pride of thine heart, O thou that dwellest in the clefts of the rock, that holdest the height of the hill: [x] though thou shouldest make thy [y] nest as high as the eagle, [z] I will bring thee down from thence, saith the LORD.

x Obad. 4.
z Amos 9. 2.

17 Also Edom shall be a desolation: [a]every one that goeth by it shall be astonished, and shall hiss at all the plagues thereof.

a ch. 19. 16. & 50. 13.

18 [b] As in the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah and the neighbour cities thereof, saith the LORD, no man shall abide there, neither shall a son of man dwell in it.

b Gen. 19. 25. Deut. 29. 23. ch. 50. 40. Amos 4. 11.

19 [c] Behold, he shall come up like a lion from [d] the swelling of Jordan against the habitation of the strong: but I will suddenly make him run away from her: and who is a chosen man, that I may appoint over her? for [e] who is like me? and who will † appoint me the time? and [f] who is that shepherd that will stand before me?

B. C. cir. 595.

12 [a] Set up the standard upon the walls of Babylon, make the watch strong, set up the watchmen, prepare the ‡ ambushes: for the LORD hath both devised and done that which he spake against the inhabitants of Babylon.

13 [b] O thou that dwellest upon many waters, abundant in treasures, thine end is come, and the measure of thy covetousness.

14 [c] The LORD of hosts hath sworn § by himself, saying, Surely I will fill thee with men, [d] as with caterpillars; and they shall ‖ lift [e] up a shout against thee.

15 [f] He hath made the earth by his power, he hath established the world by his wisdom, and [g] hath stretched out the heaven by his understanding.

16 [h] When he uttereth his voice, there is a * multitude of waters in the heavens; and [i] he causeth the vapours to ascend from the ends of the earth: he maketh lightnings with rain, and bringeth forth the wind out of his treasures.

17 [k] Every man † is brutish by his knowledge; every founder is confounded by the graven image: [l] for his molten image is falsehood, and there is no breath in them.

18 [m] They are vanity, the work of errors: in the time of their visitation they shall perish.

19 [n] The portion of Jacob is not like them; for he is the former of all things: and Israel is the rod of his inheritance: the LORD of hosts is his name.

20 [o] Thou art my battle ax and weapons of war: for ‡ with thee will I break in pieces the nations, and with thee will I destroy kingdoms;

21 And with thee will I break in pieces the horse and his rider; and with thee will I break in pieces the chariot and his rider;

22 With thee also will I break in pieces man and woman; and with thee will I break in pieces [p] old and young; and with thee will I break in pieces the young man and the maid;

23 I will also break in pieces with thee the shepherd and his flock; and with thee will I break in pieces the husbandman and his yoke of oxen; and with thee will I break in pieces captains and rulers.

24 [q] And I will render unto Babylon and to all the inhabitants of Chaldea all their evil that they have done in Zion in your sight, saith the LORD.

25 Behold, I am against thee, [r] O destroying mountain, saith the LORD, which destroyest all the earth: and I will stretch out mine hand upon thee, and roll thee down from the rocks, [s] and will make thee a burnt mountain.

26 And they shall not take of thee a stone for a corner, nor a stone for foundations; [t] but thou shalt be § desolate for ever, saith the LORD.

27 [u] Set ye up a standard in the land, blow the trumpet among the nations, [x] prepare the nations against her, call together against her [y] the kingdoms of Ararat, Minni, and Ashchenaz; appoint a captain against her; cause the horses to come up as the rough caterpillers.

28 Prepare against her the nations with [z] the kings of the Medes, the captains thereof, and all the rulers thereof, and all the land of his dominion.

29 And the land shall tremble and sorrow: for every purpose of the LORD shall be performed against Babylon, [a] to make the land of Babylon a desolation without an inhabitant.

30 The mighty men of Babylon have forborn to fight, they have remained in their holds: their might hath failed; [b] they became as women: they have burned her dwellingplaces; [c] her bars are broken.

31 [d] One post shall run to meet another, and one messenger to meet another, to shew the king of Babylon that his city is taken at one end, 32 And that [e] the passages are stopped, and the reeds they have burned with fire, and the men of war are affrighted.

33 For thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel; The daughter of Babylon is [f] like a threshingfloor, [g] ‖ it is time to thresh her: yet a little while, [h] and the time of her harvest shall come.

34 Nebuchadrezzar the king of Babylon hath [i] devoured me, he hath crushed me, he hath made me an empty vessel, he hath swallowed me up like a dragon, he hath filled his belly with my delicates, he hath cast me out.

35 * The violence done to me and to my † flesh be upon Babylon, shall the ‡ inhabitant of Zion say; and my blood upon the inhabitants of Chaldea, shall Jerusalem say.

36 Therefore thus saith the LORD; Behold, [k] I will plead thy cause, and take vengeance for thee; [l] and I will dry up her sea, and make her springs dry.

37 [m] And Babylon shall become heaps, a dwellingplace for dragons, [n] an astonishment, and an hissing, without an inhabitant.

38 They shall roar together like lions: they shall § yell as lions' whelps.

39 In their heat I will make their feasts, and * I will make them drunken, that they may rejoice, and sleep a perpetual sleep, and not wake, saith the LORD.

40 I will bring them down like lambs to the slaughter, like rams with he goats.

41 How is [p] Sheshach taken! and how is [q] the praise of the whole earth surprised! how is Babylon become an astonishment among the nations!

42 [r] The sea is come upon Babylon: she is covered with the multitude of the waves thereof.

43 [s] Her cities are a desolation, a dry land, and a wilderness, a land wherein no man dwelleth, neither doth any son of man pass thereby.

44 [t] And I will punish Bel in Babylon, and I will bring forth out of his mouth that which he hath swallowed up: and the nations shall not flow together any more unto him: yea, [u] the wall of Babylon shall fall.

45 [x] My people, go ye out of the midst of her, and deliver ye every man his soul from the fierce anger of the LORD.

46 And ‖ lest your heart faint, and ye fear [y] for the rumour that shall be heard in the land; a rumour shall both come one year, and after that in another year shall come a rumour, and violence in the land, ruler against ruler.

Some have supposed it placed here as a proper introduction to the book of Lamentations. But more probably the design was, by immediately subjoining this historical narrative of the desolations of the Jewish nation to the predictions of Jeremiah concerning them, to hold forth a nearer view of the exact accomplishment of the divine word of prophecy."—Dr. Blayney.

THE LAMENTATIONS OF JEREMIAH.—"Perhaps the most perfect and regular elegiack composition in the world is the Lamentations of Jeremiah; the prophet mourns in this book over the destruction of the temple and the holy city, and the overthrow of the whole state; he assembles all the affecting images which a subject so melancholy could suggest. The composition is uncommonly artificial. By turns, the prophet and the city of Jerusalem are introduced, as pouring forth their sorrows, and in the end a chorus of the people send up the most earnest and plaintive supplications to God. The lines of the original, as may in part appear from our translation, are longer than is usual in other kinds of Hebrew poetry, and the melody is rendered thereby more flowing and better adapted to the querimonious strains of elegy."—Dr. Blair.

her [l] children are gone into captivity before the enemy.

6 And from the daughter of Zion all her beauty is departed: her princes are become like harts that find no pasture, and they are gone without strength before the pursuer.

7 Jerusalem remembered in the days of her affliction and of her miseries all her † pleasant things that she had in the days of old, when her people fell into the hand of the enemy, and none did help her: the adversaries saw her, and did mock at her sabbaths.

8 [m] Jerusalem hath grievously sinned; therefore she ‡ is removed: all that honoured her despise her, because [n] they have seen her nakedness: yea, she sigheth, and turneth backward.

9 Her filthiness is in her skirts; she [o] remembereth not her last end; therefore she came down wonderfully: [p] she had no comforter. O LORD, behold my affliction: for the enemy hath magnified himself.

10 The adversary hath spread out his hand upon [q] all her § pleasant things: for she hath seen that [r] the heathen entered into her sanctuary, whom thou didst command that [s] they should not enter into thy congregation.

11 All her people sigh, they seek bread: they have given their pleasant things for meat ‖ to relieve the soul: see, O LORD, and consider; for I am become vile.

12 ¶ [t] Is it nothing to you, all ye that † pass by? behold, and see [u] if there be any sorrow like unto my sorrow, which is done unto me, wherewith the LORD hath afflicted me in the day of his fierce anger.

13 From above hath he sent fire into my bones, and it prevaileth against them: he hath [x] spread a net for my feet, he hath turned me back: he hath made me desolate and faint all the day.

14 [y] The yoke of my transgressions is bound by his hand: they are wreathed, and come up upon my neck: he hath made my strength to fall, the LORD hath delivered me into their hands, from whom I am not able to rise up.

15 The LORD hath trodden under foot all my mighty men in the midst of me: he hath called an assembly against me to crush my young men: [z] the LORD hath trodden ‡ the virgin, the daughter of Judah, as in a winepress.

16 For these things I weep; [a] mine eye, mine eye runneth down with water, because [b] the comforter that should † relieve my soul is far from me: my children are desolate, because the enemy prevailed.

17 [c] Zion spreadeth forth her hands, and [d] there is none to comfort her: the LORD hath commanded concerning Jacob, that his adversaries should be round about him: Jerusalem is as a menstruous woman among them.

18 ¶ The LORD is [e] righteous; for I have [f] rebelled against his ‖ commandment: hear, I pray you, all people, and behold my sorrow: my virgins and my young men are gone into captivity.

19 I called for my lovers, but [g] they deceived me: my priests and mine elders gave up the ghost in the city, [h] while they sought their meat to relieve their souls.

20 Behold, O LORD; for I am in distress: my [i] bowels are troubled; mine heart is turned within me; for I have grievously rebelled: [k] abroad the sword bereaveth, at home there is as death.

21 They have heard that I sigh: [l] there is none to comfort me: all mine enemies have heard of my trouble; they are glad that thou hast done it: thou wilt bring [m] the day that thou hast * called, and they shall be like unto me.

22 [n] Let all their wickedness come before thee; and do unto them, as thou hast done unto me for all my transgressions: for my sighs are many, and ° my heart is faint.

CHAP. II.

1 Jeremiah lamenteth the misery of Jerusalem. 20 He complaineth thereof to God.

HOW hath the LORD covered the daughter of Zion with a cloud in his anger, [a] and cast down from heaven unto the earth [b] the beauty of Israel, and remembered not ° his footstool in the day of his anger!

2 The LORD hath swallowed up all the habitations of Jacob, [d] and hath not pitied: he hath thrown down in his wrath the strong holds of the daughter of Judah; he hath * brought them down to the ground: [e] he hath polluted the kingdom and the princes thereof.

3 He hath cut off in his fierce anger all the horn of Israel: [f] he hath drawn back his right hand from before the enemy, [g] and he burned against Jacob like a flaming fire, which devoureth round about.

4 [h] He hath bent his bow like an enemy: he stood with his right hand as an adversary, and slew † [i] all that were pleasant to the eye in the tabernacle of the daughter of Zion: he poured out his fury like fire.

5 [k] The LORD was an enemy: he hath swallowed up Israel, [l] he hath swallowed up all her palaces: he hath destroyed his strong holds, and hath increased in the daughter of Judah mourning and lamentation.

6 And he hath violently [m] taken away his ‡ tabernacle, [n] as if it were of a garden: he hath destroyed his places of the assembly: ° the LORD hath caused the solemn feasts and sabbaths to be forgotten in Zion, and hath despised in the indignation of his anger the king and the priest.

7 The LORD hath cast off his altar, he hath abhorred his sanctuary, he hath § given up into the hand of the enemy the walls of her palaces; [p] they have made a noise in the house of the LORD, as in the day of a solemn feast.

8 The LORD hath purposed to destroy the wall of the daughter of Zion: [q] he hath stretched out a line, he hath not withdrawn his hand from ‖ destroying: therefore he made the rampart and the wall to lament; they languished together.

9 Her gates are sunk into the ground; he hath destroyed and [r] broken her bars: [s] her king and her princes are among the Gentiles:

THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET EZEKIEL.—"Ezekiel was of the Sacerdotal race and carried captive into Babylon by Nebuchadnezzar, five hundred and ninety-nine years before the birth of Christ. He began his ministry in the thirtieth year of his age, according to the general account, and prophesied twenty years. When Ezekiel was among the captives, on the river Chebar, the Lord appeared to him in a vision, on the throne, borne by four cherubims, supported upon four wheels. The Lord appointed him the watchman of his people; commanded him to shut himself up in his house, and foretold that he should be seized and bound with chains as a madman. While thus confined God commanded him to delineate on a brick, or a piece of soft earth, the city of Jerusalem, besieged and surrounded with ramparts; to put a wall of iron between him and the city; and to continue three hundred and ninety days lying on his left side, analagous to the iniquity of the kingdom of Israel; and forty days on his right side, to signify the iniquities of Judah. These four hundred and thirty days denoted also the siege of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar, its duration, and the subsequent captivity from the sackage of Jerusalem in the reign of Zedekiah. He was afterwards commanded to make as many loaves of mixed corn as he was to continue days lying upon his side, and to bake them with cow-dung; signifying hereby that the inhabitants of Jerusalem should be reduced during the siege to the necessity of eating unclean bread, in small quantities and in continual terror. After this he was to cut off his hair, to divide it into three parts; to burn one part, to cut another to pieces with the sword, and to scatter the rest in the wind, typifying the fate of the people. The year following Ezekiel was transported in spirit to Jerusalem, and shown the abominations committed there: God commanded an angel to mark, as a pledge of security, the penitents in the city, and other angels to slay those not marked. Five years before the last siege of Jerusalem, the Lord directed Ezekiel to prepare for escape, as it were from enemies, by stealth, in like manner as king Zedekiah should do. He adds a strong invective against false prophets and prophetesses, and those seduced by them. During these predictions of the prophet in Mesopotamia, Zedekiah, king of Judah, combined with Egypt, Edom, and the neighbouring princes, to rebel against Nebuchadnezzar. The Babylonian prince marched against Jerusalem and besieged it, A. M. 3414. On the same day Ezekiel, who was in Mesopotamia, two hundred leagues from Jerusalem, declared this event to the Jews, his companions in captivity, and predicted to them the ruin of their metropolis. At this time the prophet's wife dying, God forbade him to mourn for her. The people asking the prophet what was meant by these figurative actions; he answered that God was about to deprive them of their temple, city, country, and friends; and that they should not even have the sad consolation of mourning for them. During the siege of Jerusalem, Ezekiel prophesied against Egypt and Tyre. He was not informed that Jerusalem was taken till the fifth day of the tenth month, A. M. 3417, about six months after the event; whence we may judge that the prophet was at that time in some retired situation remote from Babylon; where this news, without doubt, was brought very soon. In the evening of that day the Lord opened the prophet's mouth, to foretel that the remains of the people would likewise be dispersed: as it happened four years after. He also foretold the calamities of Sidon, Tyre, Edom, and Ammon, which happened five years after the destruction of Jerusalem. The siege of Tyre and Nebuchadnezzar's war against Egypt are, next to the affairs of the Jews, what is most remarkable in Ezekiel. After these melancholy visions, God showed him more consolatory events—the return from the captivity, the rebuilding of the temple and city, the restoration of the kingdom of Judah and Israel, &c.

"Jerome is of opinion that, as Jeremiah prophesied at Jerusalem at the same time as Ezekiel did beyond the Euphrates, the prophecies of Ezekiel were sent to Jerusalem, and those of Jeremiah into Mesopotamia, to comfort and encourage the captive Jews."—Calmet.

9 ¶ Take thou also unto thee wheat, and barley, and beans, and lentiles, and millet, and ‖ fitches, and put them in one vessel, and make thee bread thereof, according to the number of the days that thou shalt lie upon thy side, three hundred and ninety days shalt thou eat thereof.

10 And thy meat which thou shalt eat shall be by weight, twenty shekels a day: from time to time shalt thou eat it.

11 Thou shalt drink also water by measure, the sixth part of an hin: from time to time shalt thou drink.

12 And thou shalt eat it as barley cakes, and thou shalt bake it with dung that cometh out of man, in their sight.

15 Then he said unto me, Lo, I have given thee cow's dung for man's dung, and thou shalt prepare thy bread therewith.

16 Moreover he said unto me, Son of man, behold, I will break the [h] staff of bread in Jerusalem: and they shall [i] eat bread by weight, and with care; and they shall [k] drink water by measure, and with astonishment:

5 ¶ Thus saith the Lord GOD; This is Jerusalem: I have set it in the midst of the nations and countries that are round about her.

6 And she hath changed my judgments into wickedness more than the nations, and my statutes more than the countries that are round about her: for they have refused my judgments and my statutes, they have not walked in them.

7 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; Because ye multiplied more than the nations that are round about you, and have not walked in my statutes, neither have kept my judgments, [g] neither have done according to the judgments of the nations that are round about you;

[g] Jer. 2. 10. ch. 16. 47.

8 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, I, even I, am against thee, and will execute judgments in the midst of thee in the sight of the nations.

CHAP. VI.

1 The judgment of Israel for their idolatry. 8 A remnant shall be blessed. 11 The faithful are exhorted to lament their calamities.

AND the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, [a] set thy face toward the [b] mountains of Israel, and prophesy against them,

3 And say, Ye mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord GOD; Thus saith the Lord GOD to the mountains, and to the hills, to the rivers, and to the valleys; Behold, I, even I, will bring a sword upon you, and [c] I will destroy your high places.

4 And your altars shall be desolate, and your [e] images shall be broken: and [d] I will cast down your slain men before your idols.

5 And I will † lay the dead carcases of the children of Israel before their idols; and I will scatter your bones round about your altars.

6 In all your dwellingplaces the cities shall be laid waste, and the high places shall be desolate; that your altars may be laid waste and made desolate, and your idols may be broken and cease, and your images may be cut down, and your works may be abolished.

7 And the slain shall fall in the midst of you, and [e] ye shall know that I am the LORD.

8 ¶ [f] Yet will I leave a remnant, that ye may have some that shall escape the sword among the nations, when ye shall be scattered through the countries.

9 And they that escape of you shall remember me among the nations whither they shall be carried captives, because [g] I am broken with their whorish heart, which hath departed from me, and [h] with their eyes, which go a whoring after their idols: and [i] they shall lothe themselves for the evils which they have committed in all their abominations.

10 And they shall know that I am the LORD, and that I have not said in vain that I would do this evil unto them.

11 ¶ Thus saith the Lord GOD; Smite [k] with thine hand, and stamp with thy foot, and say, Alas for all the evil abominations of the house of Israel! [l] for they shall fall by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence.

12 He that is far off shall die of the pestilence; and he that is near shall fall by the sword; and he that remaineth and is besieged shall die by the famine: [m] thus will I accomplish my fury upon them.

13 Then [n] shall ye know that I am the LORD, when their slain men shall be among their idols round about their altars, [o] upon every high hill, [p] in all the tops of the mountains, and [q] under every green tree, and under every thick oak, the place where they did offer sweet savour to all their idols.

14 So will I [r] stretch out my hand upon them, and make the land desolate, yea, ‡ more desolate than the wilderness toward [s] Diblath, in all their habitations: and they shall know that I am the LORD.

CHAP. VII.

1 The final desolation of Israel. 16 The mournful repentance of them that escape. 20 The enemies defile the sanctuary because of the Israelites' abominations. 23 Under the type of a chain is shewed their miserable captivity.

MOREOVER the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Also, thou son of man, thus saith the Lord GOD unto the land of Israel; [a] An end, the end is come upon the four corners of the land.

3 Now is the end come upon thee, and I will send mine anger upon thee, and [b] will judge thee according to thy ways, and will [*] recompense upon thee all thine abominations.

4 And [c] mine eye shall not spare thee, neither will I have pity: but I will recompense thy ways upon thee, and thine abominations shall be in the midst of thee: [d] and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

5 Thus saith the Lord GOD; An evil, an only evil, behold, is come.

6 An end is come, the end is come: it † watcheth for thee; behold, it is come.

7 [e] The morning is come unto thee, O thou that dwellest in the land: [f] the time is come, the day of trouble is near, and not the ‡ sounding again of the mountains.

8 Now will I shortly [g] pour out my fury upon thee, and accomplish mine anger upon thee: [h] and I will judge thee according to thy ways, and will recompense thee for all thine abominations.

9 And [i] mine eye shall not spare, neither will I have pity: I will recompense § thee according to thy ways and thine abominations that are in the midst of thee; [k] and ye shall know that I am the LORD that smiteth.

10 Behold the day, behold, it is come: [l] the morning is gone forth; the rod hath blossomed, pride hath budded.

11 [m] Violence is risen up into a rod of wickedness: none of them shall remain, nor of their ‖ multitude, nor of any of [*] their's: [n] neither shall there be wailing for them.

12 [o] The time is come, the day draweth near: let not the buyer rejoice, nor the seller mourn: for wrath is upon all the multitude thereof.

13 For the seller shall not return to that which is sold, † although they were yet alive: for the vision is touching the whole multitude thereof, which shall not return; neither shall any strengthen himself ‡ in § the iniquity of his life.

14 They have blown the trumpet, even to make all ready; but none goeth to the battle: for my wrath is upon all the multitude thereof.

15 [p] The sword is without, and the pestilence and the famine within: he that is in the field shall die with the sword; and he that is in the city, famine and pestilence shall devour him.

16 ¶ But [q] they that escape of them shall escape, and shall be on the mountains like doves of the valleys, all of them mourning, every one for his iniquity.

17 All [r] hands shall be feeble, and all knees shall ‖ be weak as water.

18 They shall also [s] gird themselves with sackcloth, and [t] horror shall cover them; and shame shall be upon all faces, and baldness upon all their heads.

21 And I will give it into the hands of the strangers for a prey, and to the wicked of the earth for a spoil; and they shall pollute it.

22 My face will I turn also from them, and they shall pollute my secret place: for the § robbers shall enter into it, and defile it.

23 ¶ Make a chain: for [z] the land is full of bloody crimes, and the city is full of violence.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Ezekiel, in a vision of God at Jerusalem, 5 is shewed the image of jealousy, 7 the chambers of imagery, 13 the mourners for Tammuz, 15 the worshippers towards the sun. 18 God's wrath for their idolatry.

AND it came to pass in the sixth year, in the sixth month, in the fifth day of the month, as I sat in mine house, and [a] the elders of Judah sat before me, that [b] the hand of the Lord GOD fell there upon me.

2 [c] Then I beheld, and lo a likeness as the appearance of fire: from the appearance of his loins even downward, fire; and from his loins even upward, as the appearance of brightness, [d] as the colour of amber.

3 And he * put forth the form of an hand, and took me by a lock of mine head; and [f] the spirit lifted me up between the earth and the heaven, and [g] brought me in the visions of God to Jerusalem, to the door of the inner gate that looketh toward the north; [h] where was the seat of the image of jealousy, which [i] provoketh to jealousy.

4 And, behold, the glory of the God of Israel was there, according to the vision that [k] I saw in the plain.

5 ¶ Then said he unto me, Son of man, lift up thine eyes now the way toward the north. So I lifted up mine eyes the way toward the north, and behold northward at the gate of the altar this image of jealousy in the entry.

6 He said furthermore unto me, Son of man, seest thou what they do? even the great abominations that the house of Israel committeth here, that I should go far off from my sanctuary? but turn thee yet again, and thou shalt see greater abominations.

7 ¶ And he brought me to the door of the court; and when I looked, behold a hole in the wall.

8 Then said he unto me, Son of man, dig now in the wall: and when I had digged in the wall, behold a door.

9 And he said unto me, Go in, and behold the wicked abominations that they do here.

10 So I went in and saw; and behold every form of creeping things, and abominable beasts, and all the idols of the house of Israel, pourtrayed upon the wall round about.

11 And there stood before them seventy men of the ancients of the house of Israel, and in the midst of them stood Jaazaniah the son of Shaphan, with every man his censer in his hand; and a thick cloud of incense went up.

12 Then said he unto me, Son of man, hast thou seen what the ancients of the house of Israel do in the dark, every man in the chambers of his imagery? for they say, [l] The LORD seeth us not; the LORD hath forsaken the earth.

13 ¶ He said also unto me, Turn thee yet again, and thou shalt see greater abominations that they do.

14 Then he brought me to the door of the gate of the LORD's house which was toward the north; and, behold, there sat women weeping for Tammuz.

15 ¶ Then said he unto me, Hast thou seen this, O son of man? turn thee yet again, and thou shalt see greater abominations than these.

16 And he brought me into the inner court of the LORD's house, and, behold, at the door of the temple of the LORD, [m] between the porch and the altar, [n] were about five and twenty men, [o] with their backs toward the temple of the LORD, and their faces toward the east; and they worshipped [p] the sun toward the east.

17 ¶ Then he said unto me, Hast thou seen this, O son of man? * Is it a light thing to the house of Judah that they commit the abominations which they commit here? for they have [q] filled the land with violence, and have returned to provoke me to anger: and, lo, they put the branch to their nose.

18 [r] Therefore will I also deal in fury: mine [s] eye shall not spare, neither will I have pity: and though they [t] cry in mine ears with a loud voice, yet will I not hear them.

1 A vision whereby is shewed the preservation of some, 5 and the destruction of the rest. 8 God cannot be entreated for them.

cir. 594.

HE cried also in mine ears with a loud voice, saying, Cause them that have charge over the city to draw near, even every man with his destroying weapon in his hand.

2 And, behold, six men came from the way of the higher gate, * which lieth toward the north, and every man † a slaughter weapon in his hand; [a] and one man among them was clothed with linen, with a writer's inkhorn ‡ by his side: and they went in, and stood beside the brasen altar.

3 And [b] the glory of the God of Israel was gone up from the cherub, whereupon he was, to the threshold of the house. And he called to the man clothed with linen, which had the writer's inkhorn by his side;

4 And the LORD said unto him, Go through the midst of the city, through the midst of Jerusalem, and § set [c] a mark upon the foreheads of the men [d] that sigh and that cry for all the abominations that be done in the midst thereof.

5 ¶ And to the others he said in ‖ mine hearing, Go ye after him through the city, and smite: [e] let not your eye spare, neither have ye pity:

6 [f] Slay [g] utterly old and young, both maids, and little children, and women: but [g] come not near any man upon whom is the mark; and [h] begin at my sanctuary. [i] Then they began at the ancient men which were before the house.

7 And he said unto them, Defile the house, and fill the courts with the slain: go ye forth. And they went forth, and slew in the city.

8 ¶ And it came to pass, while they were slaying them, and I was left, that I [k] fell upon my face, and cried, and said, [l] Ah Lord GOD! wilt thou destroy all the residue of Israel in thy pouring out of thy fury upon Jerusalem?

9 Then said he unto me, The iniquity of the house of Israel and Judah is exceeding great, and [m] the land is † full of blood, and the city full of ‡ perverseness: for they say, [n] The LORD hath forsaken the earth, and [o] the LORD seeth not.

10 And as for me also, mine [p] eye shall not spare, neither will I have pity, but [q] I will recompense their way upon their head.

11 And, behold, the man clothed with linen, which had the inkhorn by his side, § reported the matter, saying, I have done as thou hast commanded me.

1 The vision of the coals of fire, to be scattered over the city. 8 The vision of the cherubims.

THEN I looked, and, behold, in the [a] firmament that was above the head of the cherubims there appeared over them as it were a sapphire stone, as the appearance of the likeness of a throne.

2 [b] And he spake unto the man clothed with linen, and said, Go in between the wheels, even under the cherub, and fill * thine hand with [c] coals of fire from between the cherubims, and [d] scatter them over the city. And he went in in my sight.

3 Now the cherubims stood on the right side of the house, when the man went in; and the cloud filled the inner court.

4 [e] Then the glory of the LORD † went up from the cherub, and stood over the threshold of the house; and [f] the house was filled with the cloud, and the court was full of the brightness of the LORD's glory.

5 And the [g] sound of the cherubims' wings was heard even to the outer court, as [h] the voice of the Almighty God when he speaketh.

6 And it came to pass, that when he had commanded the man clothed with linen, saying, Take fire from between the wheels, from between the cherubims; then he went in, and stood beside the wheels.

7 And one cherub ‡ stretched forth his hand from between the cherubims unto the fire that was between the cherubims, and took thereof, and put it into the hands of him that was clothed with linen: who took it, and went out.

8 ¶ [i] And there appeared in the cherubims the form of a man's hand under their wings.

9 And [k] when I looked, behold the four wheels by the cherubims, one wheel by one cherub, and another wheel by another cherub: and the appearance of the wheels was as the colour of a [l] beryl stone.

10 And as for their appearances, they four had one likeness, as if a wheel had been in the midst of a wheel.

11 [m] When they went, they went upon their four sides; they turned not as they went, but to the place whither the head looked they followed it; they turned not as they went.

12 And their whole § body, and their backs, and their hands, and their wings, and [n] the wheels, were full of eyes round about, even the wheels that they four had.

13 As for the wheels, ‖ it was cried unto them in my hearing, O wheel.

14 [o] And every one had four faces: the first face was the face of a cherub, and the second face was the face of a man, and the third the face of a lion, and the fourth the face of an eagle.

15 And the cherubims were lifted up. This is [p] the living creature that I saw by the river of Chebar.

16 [q] And when the cherubims went, the wheels went by them: and when the cherubims lifted up their wings to mount up from the earth, the same wheels also turned not from beside them.

17 [r] When they stood, these stood; and when they were lifted up, these lifted up themselves also: for the spirit * of the living creature was in them.

18 Then [s] the glory of the LORD [t] departed from off the threshold of the house, and stood over the cherubims.

19 And [u] the cherubims lifted up their

14 Again the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

16 Therefore say, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Although I have cast them far off among the heathen, and although I have scattered them among the countries, [t] yet will I be to them as a little sanctuary in the countries where they shall come.

17 Therefore say, Thus saith the Lord GOD; [u] I will even gather you from the people, and assemble you out of the countries where ye have been scattered, and I will give you the land of Israel.

18 And they shall come thither, and [x] they shall take away all the detestable things thereof and all the abominations thereof from thence.

19 And [y] I will give them one heart, and I will put [z] a new spirit within you; and I will take [a] the stony heart out of their flesh, and will give them an heart of flesh:

21 But as for them whose heart walketh after the heart of their detestable things and their abominations, [d] I will recompense their way upon their own heads, saith the Lord GOD.

22 ¶ Then did the cherubims [e] lift up their wings, and the wheels beside them; and the glory of the God of Israel was over them above.

23 And [f] the glory of the LORD went up from the midst of the city, and stood [g] upon the mountain [h] which is on the east side of the city.

24 ¶ Afterwards [i] the spirit took me up, and brought me in a vision by the Spirit of God into Chaldea, to them of the captivity. So the vision that I had seen went up from me.

THEN [a] came certain of the elders of Israel unto me, and sat before me.

2 And the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

3 Son of man, these men have set up their idols in their heart, and put [b] the stumblingblock of their iniquity before their face: [c] should I be inquired of at all by them?

4 Therefore speak unto them, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Every man of the house of Israel that setteth up his idols in his heart, and putteth the stumblingblock of his iniquity before his face, and cometh to the prophet; I the LORD will answer him that cometh according to the multitude of his idols;

5 That I may take the house of Israel in their own heart, because they are all estranged from me through their idols.

6 ¶ Therefore say unto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Repent, and turn * yourselves from your idols; and turn away your faces from all your abominations.

7 For every one of the house of Israel, or of the stranger that sojourneth in Israel, which separateth himself from me, and setteth up his idols in his heart, and putteth the stumblingblock of his iniquity before his face, and cometh to a prophet to enquire of him concerning me; I the LORD will answer him by myself:

8 And [d] I will set my face against that man, and will make him a [e] sign and a proverb, and I will cut him off from the midst of my people; [f] and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

9 And if the prophet be deceived when he hath spoken a thing, I the LORD [g] have deceived that prophet, and I will stretch out my hand upon him, and will destroy him from the midst of my people Israel.

10 And they shall bear the punishment of their iniquity: the punishment of the prophet shall be even as the punishment of him that seeketh unto him;

11 That the house of Israel may [h] go no more astray from me, neither be polluted any more with all their transgressions; [i] but that they may be my people, and I may be their God, saith the Lord GOD.

12 ¶ The word of the LORD came again to me, saying,

13 Son of man, when the land sinneth against me by trespassing grievously, then will I stretch out mine hand upon it, and will break the [k] staff of the bread thereof, and will send famine upon it, and will cut off man and beast from it:

14 [l] Though these three men, Noah, Daniel, and Job, were in it, they should deliver but their own souls [m] by their righteousness, saith the Lord GOD.

16 [o] Though these three men were ‡ in it, as I live, saith the Lord GOD, they shall deliver neither sons nor daughters; they only shall be delivered, but the land shall be desolate.

22 ¶ [y] Yet, behold, therein shall be left a remnant that shall be brought forth, both sons and daughters: behold, they shall come forth unto you, and [z] ye shall see their way and their doings: and ye shall be comforted concerning the evil that I have brought upon Jerusalem, even concerning all that I have brought upon it.

23 And they shall comfort you, when ye see their ways and their doings: and ye shall know that I have not done [a] without cause all that I have done in it, saith the Lord GOD.

CHAP. XV.

1 By the unfitness of the vine branch for any work 6 is shewed the rejection of Jerusalem.

AND the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, What is the vine tree more than any tree, or than a branch which is among the trees of the forest?

3 Shall wood be taken thereof to do any work? or will men take a pin of it to hang any vessel thereon?

4 Behold, [a] it is cast into the fire for fuel; the fire devoureth both the ends of it, and the midst of it is burned. [*] Is it meet for any work?

5 Behold, when it was whole, it was † meet for no work: how much less shall it be meet yet for any work, when the fire hath devoured it, and it is burned?

6 ¶ Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; As the vine tree among the trees of the forest, which I have given to the fire for fuel, so will I give the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

7 And [b] I will set my face against them; [c] they shall go out from one fire, and another fire shall devour them; [d] and ye shall know that I am the LORD, when I set my face against them.

8 And I will make the land desolate, because they have ‡ committed a trespass, saith the Lord GOD.

1 Under the similitude of a wretched infant is shewed the natural state of Jerusalem. 6 God's extraordinary love towards her. 15 Her monstrous whoredom. 35 Her grievous judgment. 44 Her sin, watching her mother, and exceeding her sisters, Sodom and Samaria, calleth for judgments, 60 Mercy is promised her in the end.

AGAIN the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, [a] cause Jerusalem to know her abominations,

3 And say, Thus saith the Lord GOD unto Jerusalem; Thy [*] birth [b] and thy nativity is of the land of Canaan; [c] thy father was an Amorite, and thy mother an Hittite.

4 And as for thy nativity, [d] in the day thou wast born thy navel was not cut, neither was thou washed in water † to supple thee; thou wast not salted at all, nor swaddled at all.

5 None eye pitied thee, to do any of these unto thee, to have compassion upon thee; but thou wast cast out in the open field, to the lothing of thy person, in the day that thou wast born.

6 ¶ And when I passed by thee, and saw thee ‡ polluted in thine own blood, I said unto thee when thou wast in thy blood, Live; yea, I said unto thee when thou wast in thy blood, Live.

7 [e] I have § caused thee to multiply as the bud of the field, and thou hast increased and waxen great, and thou art come to ‖ excellent ornaments: thy breasts are fashioned, and thine hair is grown, whereas thou wast naked and bare.

8 Now when I passed by thee, and looked upon thee, behold, thy time was the time of love; [f] and I spread my skirt over thee, and covered thy nakedness: yea, I sware unto thee, and entered into a covenant with thee, saith the Lord GOD, and [g] thou becamest mine.

9 Then washed I thee with water; yea, I throughly washed away thy [*] blood from thee, and I anointed thee with oil.

10 I clothed thee also with broidered work, and shod thee with badgers' skin, and I girded thee about with fine linen, and I covered thee with silk.

11 I decked thee also with ornaments, and I [h] put bracelets upon thy hands, [i] and a chain on thy neck.

12 And I put a jewel on thy † forehead, and earrings in thine ears, and a beautiful crown upon thine head.

13 Thus wast thou decked with gold and silver; and thy raiment was of fine linen, and silk, and broidered work; [k] thou didst eat fine flour, and honey, and oil: and thou wast exceeding [l] beautiful, and thou didst prosper into a kingdom.

14 And [m] thy renown went forth among the heathen for thy beauty: for it was perfect through my comeliness, which I had put upon thee, saith the Lord GOD.

22 ¶ Thus saith the Lord GOD; I will also take of the highest [a] branch of the high cedar, and will set it; I will crop off from the top of his young twigs [b] a tender one, and will [c] plant it upon an high mountain and eminent:

23 [d] In the mountain of the height of Israel will I plant it: and it shall bring forth boughs, and bear fruit, and be a goodly cedar: and [e] under it shall dwell all fowl of every wing; in the shadow of the branches thereof shall they dwell.

24 And all the trees of the field shall know that I the LORD [f] have brought down the high tree, have exalted the low tree, have dried up the green tree, and have made the dry tree to flourish: [g] I the LORD have spoken and have done it.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 God reproveth the unjust parable of sour grapes. 5 He sheweth how he dealeth with a just father: 10 with a wicked son of a just father: 14 with a just son of a wicked father: 19 with a wicked man repenting: 24 with a just man revolting. 25 He defendeth his justice, 31 and exhorteth to repentance.

591. THE word of the LORD came unto me again, saying,

2 What mean ye, that ye use this proverb concerning the land of Israel, saying, The [a] fathers have eaten sour grapes, and the children's teeth are set on edge?

3 As I live, saith the Lord GOD, ye shall not have occasion any more to use this proverb in Israel.

4 Behold, all souls are mine; as the soul of the father, so also the soul of the son is mine: [b] the soul that sinneth, it shall die.

5 ¶ But if a man be just, and do [*] that which is lawful and right,

6 [c] And hath not eaten upon the mountains, neither hath lifted up his eyes to the idols of the house of Israel, neither hath [d] defiled his neighbour's wife, neither hath come near to [e] a menstruous woman,

7 And hath not [f] oppressed any, but hath restored to the debtor his [g] pledge, hath spoiled none by violence, hath [h] given his bread to the hungry, and hath covered the naked with a garment;

8 He that hath not given forth upon [i] usury, neither hath taken any increase, that hath withdrawn his hand from iniquity, [k] hath executed true judgment between man and man,

9 Hath walked in my statutes, and hath kept my judgments, to deal truly; he is just, he shall surely [l] live, saith the Lord GOD.

10 ¶ If he beget a son that is a † robber, [m] a shedder of blood, and ‡ that doeth the like to any one of these things,

11 And that doeth not any of those duties, but even hath eaten upon the mountains, and defiled his neighbour's wife,

12 Hath oppressed the poor and needy, hath spoiled by violence, hath not restored the pledge, and hath lifted up his eyes to the idols, hath [n] committed abomination,

13 Hath given forth upon usury, and hath taken increase: shall he then live? he shall not live: he hath done all these abominations; he shall surely die; [o] his § blood shall be upon him.

14 ¶ Now, lo, if he beget a son, that seeth all his father's sins which he hath done, and considereth, and doeth not such like,

15 [p] That hath not eaten upon the mountains, neither hath lifted up his eyes to the idols of the house of Israel, hath not defiled his neighbour's wife,

16 Neither hath oppressed any, ‖ hath not withholden the pledge, neither hath spoiled by violence, but hath given his bread to the hungry, and hath covered the naked with a garment,

17 That hath taken off his hand from the poor, that hath not received usury nor increase, hath executed my judgments, hath walked in my statutes; he shall not die for the iniquity of his father, he shall surely live.

19 As for his father, because he cruelly oppressed, spoiled his brother by violence, and did that which is not good among his people, lo, even [q] he shall die in his iniquity.

19 ¶ Yet say ye, Why? [r] doth not the son bear the iniquity of the father? When the son hath done that which is lawful and right, and hath kept all my statutes, and hath done them, he shall surely live.

20 [s] The soul that sinneth, it shall die. [t] The son shall not bear the iniquity of the father, neither shall the father bear the iniquity of the son: [u] the righteousness of the righteous shall be upon him, [x] and the wickedness of the wicked shall be upon him.

21 But [y] if the wicked will turn from all his sins that he hath committed, and keep all my statutes, and do that which is lawful and right, he shall surely live, he shall not die.

22 [z] All his transgressions that he hath committed, they shall not be mentioned unto him: in his righteousness that he hath done he shall live.

23 [a] Have I any pleasure at all that the wicked should die? saith the Lord GOD: and not that he should return from his ways, and live?

24 ¶ But [b] when the righteous turneth away from his righteousness, and committeth iniquity, and doeth according to all the abominations that the wicked man doeth, shall he live? [c] All his righteousness that he hath done shall not be mentioned: in his trespass that he hath trespassed, and in his sin that he hath sinned, in them shall he die.

25 ¶ Yet ye say, [d] The way of the LORD is not equal. Hear now, O house of Israel;

CHAP. XVIII. Ver. 1. The word of the Lord, &c.—This chapter contains an answer to the complaint of the Jews that God was dealing unjustly with them in punishing them for the sins of their ancestors. They are told that according to their own conduct under captivity will be the severity or lightness of their punishment. The prophet lays before them the character of the divine dispensations, the eternal rules of justice with regard to the rewards and punishments of the next life.

B. C. cir 594. o ch. 26. 17. & 27. 2. MOREOVER o take thou up a lamentation for the princes of Israel,

2 And say, What is thy mother? A lioness: she lay down among lions, she nourished her whelps among young lions.

3 And she brought up one of her whelps: p it became a young lion, and it learned to catch the prey; it devoured men.

4 The nations also heard of him; he was taken in their pit, and they brought him with chains unto the land of q Egypt.

5 Now when she saw that she had waited, and her hope was lost, then she took r another of her whelps, and made him a young lion.

6 s And he went up and down among the lions, t he became a young lion, and learned to catch the prey, and devoured men.

7 And he knew u their desolate palaces, and he laid waste their cities; and the land was desolate, and the fulness thereof, by the noise of his roaring.

8 x Then the nations set against him on every side from the provinces, and spread their net over him: y he was taken in their pit.

9 z And they put him in ward †in chains, and brought him to the king of Babylon: they brought him into holds, that his voice should no more be heard upon a the mountains of Israel.

12 But she was plucked up in fury, she was cast down to the ground, and the e east wind dried up her fruit: her strong rods were broken and withered; the fire consumed them.

13 And now she is planted in the wilderness, in a dry and thirsty ground.

14 f And fire is gone out of a rod of her branches, which hath devoured her fruit, so that she hath no strong rod to be a sceptre to rule. g This is a lamentation, and shall be for a lamentation.

baths, to be a sign between me and them, that they might know that I am the LORD that sanctify them.

13 But the house of Israel [t] rebelled against me in the wilderness: they walked not in my statutes, and they [u] despised my judgments, which if a man do, he shall even live in them; and my sabbaths they greatly [x] polluted: then I said, I would pour out my fury upon them in the [y] wilderness, to consume them.

14 [z] But I wrought for my name's sake, that it should not be polluted before the heathen, in whose sight I brought them out.

15 Yet also [a] I lifted up my hand unto them in the wilderness, that I would not bring them into the land which I had given them, flowing with milk and honey, [d] which is the glory of all lands;

16 [c] Because they despised my judgments, and walked not in my statutes, but polluted my sabbaths: for [d] their heart went after their idols.

17 [e] Nevertheless mine eye spared them from destroying them, neither did I make an end of them in the wilderness.

18 But I said unto their children in the wilderness, Walk ye not in the statutes of your fathers, neither observe their judgments, nor defile yourselves with their idols:

19 I am the LORD your God; [f] walk in my statutes, and keep my judgments, and do them;

20 [g] And hallow my sabbaths; and they shall be a sign between me and you, that ye may know that I am the LORD your God.

21 Notwithstanding [h] the children rebelled against me: they walked not in my statutes, neither kept my judgments to do them, [i] which if a man do, he shall even live in them; they polluted my sabbaths: then I said, [k] I would pour out my fury upon them, to accomplish my anger against them in the wilderness.

22 [l] Nevertheless I withdrew mine hand, and [m] wrought for my name's sake, that it should not be polluted in the sight of the heathen, in whose sight I brought them forth.

23 I lifted up mine hand unto them also in the wilderness, that [n] I would scatter them among the heathen, and disperse them through the countries;

24 [o] Because they had not executed my judgments, but had [p] despised my statutes, and had polluted my sabbaths, and [p] their eyes were after their fathers' idols.

25 Wherefore [q] I gave them also statutes that were not good, and judgments whereby they should not live;

26 And I polluted them in their own gifts, in that they caused to pass [r] through the fire all that openeth the womb, that I might make them desolate, to the end that they [s] might know that I am the LORD.

27 ¶ Therefore, son of man, speak unto the house of Israel, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Yet in this your fathers have [t] blasphemed me, in that they have § committed a trespass against me.

28 For when I had brought them into the land, for the which I lifted up mine hand to give it to them, then [u] they saw every high hill, and all the thick trees, and they offered there their sacrifices, and there they presented the provocation of their offering: there also they made their [x] sweet savour, and poured out there their drink offerings.

29 Then ‖ I said unto them, What is the high place whereunto ye go? And the name thereof is called Bamah unto this day.

30 Wherefore say unto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Are ye polluted after the manner of your fathers? and commit ye whoredom after their abominations?

31 For when ye offer [y] your gifts, when ye make your sons to pass through the fire, ye pollute yourselves with all your idols, even unto this day: and [z] shall I be enquired of by you, O house of Israel? As I live, saith the Lord GOD, I will not be enquired of by you.

32 And that [a] which cometh into your mind shall not be at all, that ye say, We will be as the heathen, as the families of the countries, to serve wood and stone.

33 ¶ As I live, saith the Lord GOD, surely with a mighty hand, and [b] with a stretched out arm, and with fury poured out, will I rule over you:

34 And I will bring you out from the people, and will gather you out of the countries wherein ye are scattered, with a mighty hand, and with a stretched out arm, and with fury poured out.

35 And I will bring you into the wilderness of the people, and there [c] will I plead with you face to face.

36 [d] Like as I pleaded with your fathers in the wilderness of the land of Egypt, so will I plead with you, saith the Lord GOD.

37 And I will cause you to [e] pass under the rod, and I will bring you into [*] the bond the covenant:

38 And [f] I will purge out from among you the rebels, and them that transgress against me: I will bring them forth out of the country where they sojourn, and [g] they shall not enter into the land of Israel: [h] and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

39 As for you, O house of Israel, thus saith the Lord GOD; [i] Go ye, serve ye every one his idols, and hereafter also, if ye will not hearken unto me: [k] but pollute ye my holy name no more with your gifts, and with your idols.

40 For [l] in mine holy mountain, in the mountain of the height of Israel, saith the Lord GOD, there shall all the house of Israel, all of them in the land, serve me: there [m] will I accept them, and there will I require your offerings, and the † firstfruits of your oblations, with all your holy things.

41 I will accept you with your ‡ [n] sweet savour, when I bring you out from the people, and gather you out of the countries wherein ye have been scattered; and I will be sanctified in you before the heathen.

42 [o] And ye shall know that I am the LORD, [p] when I shall bring you into the land of Israel, into the country for the which I lifted up mine hand to give it to your fathers.

AND the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 [a] Son of man, set thy face toward Jerusalem, and [b] drop thy word toward the holy places, and prophesy against the land of Israel,

3 And say to the land of Israel, Thus saith the LORD; Behold, I am against thee, and will draw forth my sword out of his sheath, and will cut off from thee [c] the righteous and the wicked.

4 Seeing then that I will cut off from thee the righteous and the wicked, therefore shall my sword go forth out of his sheath against all flesh [d] from the south to the north:

5 That all flesh may know that I the LORD have drawn forth my sword out of his sheath: it [e] shall not return any more.

6 [f] Sigh therefore, thou son of man, with the breaking of thy loins; and with bitterness sigh before their eyes.

7 And it shall be, when they say, unto thee, Wherefore sighest thou? that thou shalt answer, For the tidings; because it cometh: and every heart shall melt, and [g] all hands shall be feeble, and every spirit shall faint, and all knees [e] shall be weak as water: behold, it cometh, and shall be brought to pass, saith the Lord GOD.

8 ¶ Again the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

9 Son of man, prophesy, and say, Thus saith the LORD; Say, [h] A sword, a sword is sharpened, and also furbished:

10 It is sharpened to make a sore slaughter; it is furbished that it may glitter: should we then make mirth? † it contemneth the rod of my son, as every tree.

11 And he hath given it to be furbished, that it may be handled: this sword is sharpened, and it is furbished, to give it into the hand of [i] the slayer.

12 Cry and howl, son of man: for it shall be upon my people, it shall be upon all the princes of Israel: ‡ terrors by reason of the sword shall be upon my people: [k] smite therefore upon thy thigh.

13 § Because it is [l] a trial, and what if the sword contemn even the rod? [m] it shall be no more, saith the Lord GOD.

14 Thou therefore, son of man, prophesy, and [n] smite thine ‖ hands together, and let the sword be doubled the third time, the sword of the slain: it is the sword of the great men that are slain, which entereth into their [o] privy chambers.

15 I have set the [*] point of the sword against all their gates, that their heart may faint, and their ruins be multiplied: ah! [p] it is made bright, it is † wrapped up for the slaughter.

16 [q] Go thee one way or other, either on the right hand, ‡ or on the left, whithersoever thy face is set.

17 I will also [r] smite mine hands together, and [s] I will cause my fury to rest: I the LORD have said it.

18 ¶ The word of the LORD came unto me again, saying,

19 Also, thou son of man, appoint thee two ways, that the sword of the king of Babylon may come: both twain shall come forth out of one land: and choose thou a place, choose it at the head of the way to the city.

20 Appoint a way, that the sword may come to [t] Rabbath of the Ammonites, and to Judah in Jerusalem the defenced.

21 For the king of Babylon stood at the § parting of the way, at the head of the two ways, to use divination: he made his ‖ arrows bright, he consulted with [*] images, he looked in the liver.

22 At his right hand was the divination for Jerusalem, to appoint † ‡ captains, to open the mouth in the slaughter, to [u] lift up the voice with shouting, [x] to appoint battering rams against the gates, to cast a mount, and to build a fort.

23 And it shall be unto them as a false divination in their sight, § to them that [y] have sworn oaths: but he will call to remembrance the iniquity, that they may be taken.

24 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; Because ye have made your iniquity to be remembered, in that your transgressions are discovered, so that in all your doings your sins do appear; because, I say, that ye are come to remembrance, ye shall be taken with the hand.

25 ¶ And thou, [z] profane wicked prince of Israel, [a] whose day is come, when iniquity shall have an end.

26 Thus saith the Lord GOD; Remove the diadem, and take off the crown: this shall not be the same: [b] exalt him that is low, and abase him that is high.

27 ‖ I will overturn, overturn, overturn, it: [c] and it shall be no more, until he come whose right it is; and I will give it him.

28 ¶ And thou, son of man, prophesy abandoned by God, and his kingdom devoted to destruction. The chapter concludes with a prophecy against the Ammonites.

MOREOVER the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Now, thou son of man, [a] wilt thou * judge, wilt thou judge [b] the † bloody city? yea, thou shalt ‡ shew her all her abominations.

3 Then say thou, Thus saith the Lord GOD; The city sheddeth blood in the midst of it, that her time may come, and maketh idols against herself to defile herself.

4 Thou art become guilty in thy blood that thou hast [c] shed: and hast defiled thyself in thine idols which thou hast made; and thou hast caused thy days to draw near, and art come even unto thy years: [d] therefore have I made thee a reproach unto the heathen, and a mocking to all countries.

5 Those that be near, and those that be far from thee, shall mock thee, which art § infamous and much vexed.

6 Behold, [e] the princes of Israel, every one were in thee to their ‖ power to shed blood.

7 In thee have they [f] set light by father and mother: in the midst of thee have they [g] dealt by * oppression with the stranger: in thee have they vexed the fatherless and the widow.

8 Thou hast [h] despised mine holy things, and hast [i] profaned my sabbaths.

9 In thee are † [k] men that carry tales to shed blood: [l] and in thee they eat upon the mountains: in the midst of thee they commit lewdness.

10 In thee have they [m] discovered their fathers' nakedness: in thee have they humbled her that was [n] set apart for pollution.

11 And ‡ one hath committed abomination [o] with his neighbour's wife; and § another [p] hath ‖ lewdly defiled his daughter in law; and another in thee hath humbled his [q] sister, his father's daughter.

12 In thee [r] have they taken gifts to shed blood; [s] thou hast taken usury and increase, and thou hast greedily gained of thy neighbours by extortion, and [t] hast forgotten me, saith the Lord GOD.

13 ¶ Behold, therefore I have [u] smitten mine hand at thy dishonest gain which thou hast made, and at thy blood which hath been in the midst of thee.

14 [x] Can thine heart endure, or can thine hands be strong, in the days that I shall deal with thee? [y] I the LORD have spoken it, and will do it.

15 And [z] I will scatter thee among the heathen, and disperse thee in the countries, and [a] will consume thy filthiness out of thee.

16 And thou * shalt take thine inheritance in thyself in the sight of the heathen, and [b] thou shalt know that I am the LORD.

17 And the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

18 Son of man, [c] the house of Israel is to me become dross: all they are brass, and tin, and iron, and lead, in the midst of the furnace; they are even the † dross of silver.

19 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; Because ye are all become dross, behold, therefore I will gather you into the midst of Jerusalem.

20 ‡ As they gather silver, and brass, and iron, and lead, and tin, into the midst of the furnace, to blow the fire upon it, to melt it; so will I gather you in mine anger and in my fury, and I will leave you there, and melt you.

21 Yea, I will gather you, and [d] blow upon you in the fire of my wrath, and ye shall be melted in the midst thereof.

22 As silver is melted in the midst of the furnace, so shall ye be melted in the midst thereof; and ye shall know that I the LORD have [e] poured out my fury upon you.

23 ¶ And the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

24 Son of man, say unto her, Thou art the land that is not cleansed, nor rained upon in the day of indignation.

25 [f] There is a conspiracy of her prophets in the midst thereof, like a roaring lion ravening the prey; they [g] have devoured souls; [h] they have taken the treasure and precious things; they have made her many widows in the midst thereof.

26 [i] Her priests have § violated my law, and have [k] profaned mine holy things: they have put no [l] difference between the holy and profane, neither have they shewed difference between the unclean and the clean, and have hid their eyes from my sabbaths, and I am profaned among them.

27 Her [m] princes in the midst thereof are like wolves ravening the prey, to shed blood, and to destroy souls, to get dishonest gain.

28 And [n] her prophets have daubed them with untempered morter, [o] seeing vanity, and divining lies unto them, saying, Thus saith the Lord GOD, when the LORD hath not spoken.

29 [p] The people of the land have used ‖ oppression, and exercised robbery, and have vexed the poor and needy: yea, they have [q] oppressed the stranger * wrongfully.

that should [t]make up the hedge, and [t]stand in the gap before me for the land, that I should not destroy it: but I found none.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 The whoredoms of Aholah and Aholibah. 22 Aholibah is to be plagued by her lovers. 36 The prophet reproveth the adulteries of them both, 45 and sheweth their judgments.

593. THE word of the LORD came again unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, there were [a]two women, the daughters of one mother:

3 And [b]they committed whoredoms in Egypt; they committed whoredoms in [c]their youth: there were their breasts pressed, and there they bruised the teats of their virginity.

4 And the names of them were Aholah the elder, and Aholibah her sister: and [d]they were mine, and they bare sons and daughters. Thus were their names; Samaria is * Aholah, and Jerusalem † Aholibah.

5 And Aholah played the harlot when she was mine; and she doted on her lovers, on [e]the Assyrians her neighbours,

6 Which were clothed with blue, captains and rulers, all of them desirable young men, horsemen riding upon horses.

7 Thus she ‡committed her whoredoms with them, with all them that were § the chosen men of Assyria, and with all on whom she doted: with all their idols she defiled herself.

8 Neither left she her whoredoms brought [f]from Egypt: for in her youth they lay with her, and they bruised the breasts of her virginity, and poured their whoredom upon her.

9 Wherefore I have delivered her into the hand of her lovers, into the hand of the [g]Assyrians, upon whom she doted.

10 These [h]discovered her nakedness: they took her sons and her daughters, and slew her with the sword: and she became ‖famous among women; for they had executed judgment upon her.

11 And [i]when her sister Aholibah saw this, [k]* she was more corrupt in her inordinate love than she, and in her whoredoms † more than her sister in her whoredoms.

12 She doted upon the [l]Assyrians her neighbours, [m]captains and rulers clothed most gorgeously, horsemen riding upon horses, all of them desirable young men.

13 Then I saw that she was defiled, that they took both one way,

14 And that she increased her whoredoms: for when she saw men pourtrayed upon the wall, the images of the Chaldeans pourtrayed with vermillion,

15 Girded with girdles upon their loins, exceeding in dyed attire upon their heads, all of them princes to look to, after the manner of the Babylonians of Chaldea, the land of their nativity:

16 [n]And ‡as soon as she saw them with her eyes, she doted upon them, and sent messengers unto them into Chaldea.

17 And the § Babylonians came to her into the bed of love, and they defiled her with their whoredom, and she was polluted with them, and [o]her mind was ‖alienated from them.

18 So she discovered her whoredoms, and discovered her nakedness: then [p]my mind was alienated from her, like as my mind was alienated from her sister.

19 Yet she multiplied her whoredoms, in calling to remembrance the days of her youth, [q]wherein she had played the harlot in the land of Egypt.

20 For she doted upon her paramours, [r]whose flesh is as the flesh of asses, and whose issue is like the issue of horses.

21 Thus thou calledst to remembrance the lewdness of thy youth, in bruising thy teats by the Egyptians for the paps of thy youth.

22 ¶ Therefore, O Aholibah, thus saith the Lord GOD; [s]Behold, I will raise up thy lovers against thee, from whom thy mind is alienated, and I will bring them against thee on every side;

23 The Babylonians, and all the Chaldeans, [t]Pekod, and Shoa, and Koa, and all the Assyrians with them: [u]all of them desirable young men, captains and rulers, great lords and renowned, all of them riding upon horses.

24 And they shall come against thee with chariots, wagons, and wheels, and with an assembly of people, which shall set against thee buckler and shield and helmet round about: and I will set judgment before them, and they shall judge thee according to their judgments.

25 And I will set my jealousy against thee, and they shall deal furiously with thee: they shall take away thy nose and thine ears; and thy remnant shall fall by the sword: they shall take thy sons and thy daughters; and thy residue shall be devoured by the fire.

26 [x]They shall also strip thee out of thy clothes, and take away thy * fair jewels.

27 Thus [y]will I make thy lewdness to cease from thee, and [z]thy whoredom brought from the land of Egypt: so that thou shalt not lift up thine eyes unto them, nor remember Egypt any more.

28 For thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, I will deliver thee into the hand of them [a]whom thou hatest, into the hand of them [b]from whom thy mind is alienated:

29 And they shall deal with thee hatefully, and shall take away all thy labour, and [c]shall leave thee naked and bare: and the nakedness of thy whoredoms, shall be discovered, both thy lewdness and thy whoredoms.

30 I will do these things unto thee, because thou hast [d]gone a whoring after the heathen, and because thou art polluted with their idols.

31 Thou hast walked in the way of thy sister; therefore will I give her *cup into thine hand.

32 Thus saith the Lord GOD; Thou shalt drink of thy sister's cup deep and large: [f]thou shalt be laughed to scorn and had in derision; it containeth much.

33 Thou shalt be filled with drunkenness and sorrow, with the cup of astonishment and desolation, with the cup of thy sister Samaria.

34 Thou shalt [e] even drink it and suck it out, and thou shalt break the sherds thereof, and pluck off thine own breasts: for I have spoken it, saith the Lord GOD.

35 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; Because thou [h] hast forgotten me, and [i] cast me behind thy back, therefore bear thou also thy lewdness and thy whoredoms.

36 ¶ The LORD said moreover unto me; Son of man, wilt thou [k] † judge Aholah and Aholibah? yea, [l] declare unto them their abominations;

37 That they have committed adultery, and [m] blood is in their hands, and with their idols have they committed adultery, and have also caused their sons, [n] whom they bare unto me, to pass for them through the fire, to devour them.

38 Moreover this they have done unto me: they have defiled my sanctuary in the same day, and [o] have profaned my sabbaths.

39 For when they had slain their children to their idols, then they came the same day into my sanctuary to profane it; and, lo, [p] thus have they done in the midst of mine house.

40 And furthermore, that ye have sent for men ‡ to come from far, [q] unto whom a messenger was sent; and, lo, they came: for whom thou didst [r] wash thyself, [s] paintedst thy eyes, and deckedst thyself with ornaments,

41 And satest upon a § stately [t] bed, and a table prepared before it, [u] whereupon thou hast set mine incense and mine oil.

42 And a voice of a multitude being at ease was with her: and with the men ‖ of the common sort were brought [x] Sabeans from the wilderness, which put bracelets upon their hands, and beautiful crowns upon their heads.

43 Then said I unto her that was old in adulteries, Will they now commit † whoredoms with her, and she with them?

44 Yet they went in unto her, as they go in unto a woman that playeth the harlot: so went they in unto Aholah and unto Aholibah, the lewd women.

45 ¶ And the righteous men, they shall [z] judge them after the manner of adulteresses, and after the manner of women that shed blood; because they are adulteresses, and [a] blood is in their hands.

46 For thus saith the Lord GOD; [b] I will bring up a company upon them, and will give them ‡ to be removed and spoiled.

47 [c] And the company shall stone them with stones, and § dispatch them with their swords; [d] they shall slay their sons and their daughters, and burn up their houses with fire.

48 Thus [e] will I cause lewdness to cease out of the land, [f] that all women may be taught not to do after your lewdness.

49 And they shall recompense your lewdness upon you, and ye shall [g] bear the sins of your idols: [h] and ye shall know that I am the Lord GOD.

CHAP. XXIV. Ver. 1. Again in the ninth year, &c.—Under the image of a boiling pot the destruction of the Jewish capital and of its citizens is exhibited; and, in order to picture the extent of the calamities about to befal that devoted city, the prophet is forbidden to mourn for his wife, signifying thereby that those calamities shall be so great as to exceed all bounds of sorrow, and render all expressions of it unavailing.

CHAP. XXIV.

B. C. cir 590

1 Under the parable of a boiling pot, 6 is shewed the irrevocable destruction of Jerusalem. 15 By the sign of Ezekiel not mourning for the death of his wife, 19 is shewed the calamity of the Jews to be beyond all sorrow.

AGAIN in the ninth year, in the tenth month, in the tenth day of the month, the word of the LORD came unto me, saying, 590.

2 Son of man, write thee the name of the day, even of this same day: the king of Babylon set himself against Jerusalem [a] this same day.

3 [b] And utter a parable unto the rebellious house, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD; [c] Set on a pot, set it on, and also pour water into it:

4 Gather the pieces thereof into it, even every good piece, the thigh, and the shoulder; fill it with the choice bones.

5 Take the choice of the flock, and [*] burn also the bones under it, and make it boil well, and let them seethe the bones of it therein.

6 ¶ Wherefore thus saith the Lord GOD; Woe to [d] the bloody city, to the pot whose scum is therein, and whose scum is not gone out of it! bring it out piece by piece; let no [e] lot fall upon it.

7 For her blood is in the midst of her; she set it upon the top of a rock; [f] she poured it not upon the ground, to cover it with dust;

8 That it might cause fury to come up to take vengeance; [g] I have set her blood upon the top of a rock, that it should not be covered.

9 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; [h] Woe to the bloody city! I will even make the pile for fire great.

10 Heap on wood, kindle the fire, consume the flesh, and spice it well, and let the bones be burned.

11 Then set it empty upon the coals thereof, that the brass of it may be hot, and may burn, and that [i] the filthiness of it may be molten in it, that the scum of it may be consumed.

12 She hath wearied herself with lies, and her great scum went not forth out of her: her scum shall be in the fire.

13 In thy filthiness is lewdness: because I have purged thee, and thou wast not purged, thou shalt not be purged from thy filthiness any more, [k] till I have caused my fury to rest upon thee.

14 [l] I the LORD have spoken it: it shall come to pass, and I will do it; I will not go back, [m] neither will I spare, neither will I repent; according to thy ways, and according to thy doings, shall they judge thee, saith the Lord GOD.

15 ¶ Also the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

16 Son of man, behold, I take away from thee the desire of thine eyes with a stroke: yet neither shalt thou mourn nor weep, neither shall thy tears † run down.

17 ‡ Forbear to cry, [n] make no mourning for the dead, [o] bind the tire of thine head upon thee, and [p] put on thy shoes upon thy feet, and [q] cover not thy § lips, and eat not the bread of men.

morning: and at even my wife died; and I did in the morning as I was commanded.

19 ¶ And the people said unto me, [r] Wilt thou not tell us what these things are to us, that thou doest so?

20 Then I answered them, The word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

21 Speak unto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, [s] I will profane my sanctuary, the excellency of your strength, [t] the desire of your eyes, and ‖ that which your soul pitieth; [u] and your sons and your daughters whom ye have left shall fall by the sword.

22 And ye shall do as I have done: [x] ye shall not cover your lips, nor eat the bread of men.

23 And your tires shall be upon your heads, and your shoes upon your feet: [y] ye shall not mourn nor weep; but [z] ye shall pine away for your iniquities, and mourn one toward another.

24 Thus [a] Ezekiel is unto you a sign: according to all that he hath done shall ye do: [b] and when this cometh, [c] ye shall know that I am the Lord GOD.

25 Also, thou son of man, shall it not be in the day when I take from them [d] their strength, the joy of their glory, the desire of their eyes, and [e] that whereupon they set their minds, their sons and their daughters,

26 That [f] he that escapeth in that day shall come unto thee, to cause thee to hear it with thine ears?

27 [g] In that day shall thy mouth be opened to him which is escaped, and thou shalt speak, and be no more dumb: and [h] thou shalt be a sign unto them; and they shall know that I am the LORD.

1 God's vengeance, for their insolency against the Jews, upon the Ammonites; 8 upon Moab and Seir; 12 upon Edom, 15 and upon the Philistines.

B. C. 590.

THE word of the LORD came again unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, [a] set thy face [b] against the Ammonites, and prophesy against them;

3 And say unto the Ammonites, Hear the word of the Lord GOD; Thus saith the Lord GOD; [c] Because thou saidst, Aha, against my sanctuary, when it was profaned; and against the land of Israel, when it was desolate; and against the house of Judah, when they went into captivity;

4 Behold, therefore I will deliver thee to the [*] men of the east for a possession, and they shall set their palaces in thee, and make their dwellings in thee: they shall eat thy fruit, and they shall drink thy milk.

5 And I will make [d] Rabbah [e] a stable for camels, and the Ammonites a couchingplace for flocks: [f] and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

6 For thus saith the Lord GOD; Because thou [g] hast clapped thine † hands, and stamped with the ‡ feet, and [h] rejoiced in § heart with all thy despite against the land of Israel;

7 Behold, therefore I will [i] stretch out mine hand upon thee, and will deliver thee for ‖ a spoil to the heathen; and I will cut thee off from the people, and I will cause thee to perish out of the countries: I will destroy thee; and thou shalt know that I am the LORD.

8 ¶ Thus saith the Lord GOD; Because that [k] Moab and [l] Seir do say, Behold, the house of Judah is like unto all the heathen;

9 Therefore, behold, I will open the [*] side of Moab from the cities, from his cities which are on his frontiers, the glory of the country, Beth-jeshimoth, Baal-meon, and Kiriathaim,

10 [m] Unto the men of the east † with the Ammonites, and will give them in possession, that the Ammonites [n] may not be remembered among the nations.

11 And I will execute judgments upon Moab; and they shall know that I am the LORD.

12 ¶ Thus saith the Lord GOD; [o] Because that Edom hath dealt against the house of Judah ‡ by taking vengeance, and hath greatly offended, and revenged himself upon them;

13 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; I will also stretch out mine hand upon Edom, and will cut off man and beast from it; and I will make it desolate from Teman; and § they of Dedan shall fall by the sword.

14 And [p] I will lay my vengeance upon Edom by the hand of my people Israel: and they shall do in Edom according to mine anger and according to my fury; and they shall know my vengeance, saith the Lord GOD.

15 ¶ Thus saith the Lord GOD; [q] Because [r] the Philistines have dealt by revenge, and have taken vengeance with a despiteful heart, to destroy it ‖ for the old hatred;

16 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, [s] I will stretch out mine hand upon the Philistines, and I will cut off the [t] Cherethims, [u] and destroy the remnant of the [*] sea coasts.

17 And I will [x] execute great † vengeance upon them with furious rebukes; [y] and they shall know that I am the LORD, when I shall lay my vengeance upon them.

B. C. 588.

AND it came to pass in the eleventh year, in the first day of the month, that the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, [a] because that Tyrus hath said against Jerusalem, [b] Aha, she is broken that was the gates of the people: she is turned unto me: I shall be replenished, now she is laid waste:

3 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, I am against thee, O Tyrus, and will cause many nations to come up against thee, as the sea causeth his waves to come up.

4 And they shall destroy the wall of Tyrus, and break down her towers: I will also scrape her dust from her, and [c] make her like the top of a rock.

5 It shall be a place for the spreading of nets [d] in the midst of the sea: for I have spoken it, saith the Lord GOD: and it shall become a spoil to the nations.

6 And her daughters which are in the field shall be slain by the sword; [e] and they shall know that I am the LORD.

7 ¶ For thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, I will bring upon Tyrus, Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, [f] a king of kings, from the north, with horses, and with chariots, and with horsemen, and companies, and much people.

8 He shall slay with the sword thy daughters in the field: and he shall [g] make a fort against thee, and [*] cast a mount against thee, and lift up the buckler against thee.

9 And he shall set engines of war against thy walls, and with his axes he shall break down thy towers.

10 By reason of the abundance of his horses their dust shall cover thee: thy walls shall shake at the noise of the horsemen, and of the wheels, and of the chariots, when he shall enter into thy gates, [†] as men enter into a city wherein is made a breach.

11 With the hoofs of his horses shall he tread down all thy streets: he shall slay thy people by the sword, and thy strong garrisons shall go down to the ground.

12 And they shall make a spoil of thy riches, and make a prey of thy merchandise: and they shall break down thy walls, and destroy [‡] thy pleasant houses: and they shall lay thy stones and thy timber and thy dust in the midst of the water.

13 [h] And I will cause the noise of [i] thy songs to cease; and the sound of thy harps shall be no more heard.

14 And [k] I will make thee like the top of a rock: thou shalt be a place to spread nets upon; thou shalt be built no more: for I the LORD have spoken it, saith the Lord GOD.

15 ¶ Thus saith the Lord GOD to Tyrus; Shall not the isles [l] shake at the sound of thy fall, when the wounded cry, when the slaughter is made in the midst of thee?

16 Then all the [m] princes of the sea shall [n] come down from their thrones, and lay away their robes, and put off their broidered garments: they shall clothe themselves with [§] trembling; [o] they shall sit upon the ground, and [p] shall tremble at every moment, and [q] be astonished at thee.

17 And they shall take up a [r] lamentation for thee, and say to thee, How art thou destroyed, that wast inhabited ‖ of seafaring men, the renowned city, which wast [s] strong in the sea, she and her inhabitants, which cause their terror to be on all that haunt it!

18 Now shall [t] the isles tremble in the day of thy fall; yea, the isles that are in the sea shall be troubled at thy departure.

19 For thus saith the Lord GOD; When I shall make thee a desolate city, like the cities that are not inhabited; when I shall bring up the deep upon thee, and great waters shall cover thee;

20 When I shall bring thee down [u] with them that descend into the pit, with the people of old time, and shall set thee in the low parts of the earth, in places desolate of old, with them that go down to the pit, that thou be not inhabited; and I shall set glory [x] in the land of the living;

3 And say unto Tyrus, [b] O thou that art situate at the entry of the sea, which art [*] a merchant of the people for many isles, Thus saith the Lord GOD; O Tyrus, thou hast said, [d] I am [*] of perfect beauty.

4 Thy borders are in the [†] midst of the seas, thy builders have perfected thy beauty.

5 They have [‡] made all thy ship boards of fir trees of [e] Senir: they have taken cedars from Lebanon to make masts for thee.

6 Of the oaks of Bashan have they made thine oars; [§] ‖ the company of the Ashurites have made thy benches of ivory, brought out of [f] the isles of Chittim.

8 The inhabitants of Zidon and Arvad were thy mariners: thy wise men, O Tyrus, that were in thee, were thy pilots.

9 The ancients of [g] Gebal and the wise men thereof were in thee thy [†‡] calkers: all the ships of the sea with their mariners were in thee to occupy thy merchandise.

10 They of Persia and of Lud and of [h] Phut were in thine army, thy men of war: they hanged the shield and helmet in thee; they set forth thy comeliness.

11 The men of Arvad with thine army were upon thy walls round about, and the Gammadims were in thy towers: they hanged their shields upon thy walls round about; they have made [i] thy beauty perfect.

12 [k] Tarshish was thy merchant by reason of the multitude of all kind of riches; with silver, iron, tin, and lead, they traded in thy fairs.

29 And [e] all that handle the oar, the mariners, and all the pilots of the sea, shall come down from their ships, they shall stand upon the land;

30 And shall cause their voice to be heard against thee, and shall cry bitterly, and shall [f] cast up dust upon their heads, they [g] shall wallow themselves in the ashes:

31 And they shall [h] make themselves utterly bald for thee, and gird them with sackcloth, and they shall weep for thee with bitterness of heart and bitter wailing.

32 And in their wailing they shall [i] take up a lamentation for thee, and lament over thee, saying, [k] What city is like Tyrus, like the destroyed in the midst of the sea?

33 [l] When thy wares went forth out of the seas, thou filledst many people; thou didst enrich the kings of the earth with the multitude of thy riches and of thy merchandise.

34 In the time when [m] thou shalt be broken by the seas in the depths of the waters [n] thy merchandise and all thy company in the midst of thee shall fall.

2 Son of man, [a] set thy face against Pharaoh king of Egypt, and prophesy against him, and [b] against all Egypt:

[b] Isa. 19. 1. Jer. 25. 19. & 46. 2, 25.

3 Speak, and say, thus saith the Lord GOD; [c] Behold, I am against thee, Pharaoh king of Egypt, the great [d] dragon that lieth in the midst of his rivers, [e] which hath said, My river is mine own, and I have made it for myself.

[c] ch. 26. 3. & 28. 22. & 35. 3. ver. 10. & 30. 22. & 32. 2. & 38. 3. & 39. 1.

4 But I will put hooks in thy jaws, and I will cause the fish of thy rivers to stick unto thy scales, and I will bring thee up out of the midst of thy rivers, and all the fish of thy rivers shall stick unto thy scales.

[f] Isa. 37. 29. ch. 38. 4.

B. C. 588

5 And I will leave thee thrown into the wilderness, thee and all the fish of thy rivers: thou shalt fall upon the [g] open fields; [h] thou shalt not be brought together, nor gathered: [h] I have given thee for meat to the beasts of the field and to the fowls of the heaven.

[g] Heb. face of the field.
[h] Jer. 7. 33 & 34. 20

6 And all the inhabitants of Egypt shall know that I am the LORD, because they have been a [i] staff of reed to the house of Israel.

[i] 2 Kin. 18. 21. Isa. 36. 6.

8 ¶ Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, I will bring [l] a sword upon thee, and cut off man and beast out of thee.

[l] ch. 14. 17. & 32. 11, 12, 13.

9 And the land of Egypt shall be desolate and waste; and they shall know that I am the LORD: because he hath said, The river is mine, and I have made it.

10 Behold, therefore I am against thee, and against thy rivers, [m] and I will make the land of Egypt † utterly waste and desolate, ‡ [n] from the tower of § Syene even unto the border of Ethiopia.

17 ¶ And it came to pass in the seven and twentieth year, in the first month, in the first day of the month, the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

18 Son of man, [t] Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon caused his army to serve a great service against Tyrus: every head was made bald, and every shoulder was peeled: yet had he no wages, nor his army, for Tyrus, for the service that he had served against it:

all the trees of the field, and his boughs were multiplied, and his branches became long because of the multitude of waters, ‖ when he shot forth.

6 All the [c] fowls of heaven made their nests in his boughs, and under his branches did all the beasts of the field bring forth their young, and under his shadow dwelt all great nations.

7 Thus was he fair in his greatness, in the length of his branches: for his root was by great waters.

8 The cedars in the [f] garden of God could not hide him: the fir trees were not like his boughs, and the chesnut trees were not like his branches; nor any tree in the garden of God was like unto him in his beauty.

9 I have made him fair by the multitude of his branches: so that all the trees of Eden, that were in the garden of God, envied him.

10 ¶ Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; Because thou hast lifted up thyself in height, and he hath shot up his top among the thick boughs, and [g] his heart is lifted up in his height;

11 I have therefore delivered him into the hand of the mighty one of the heathen; * he shall surely deal with him: I have driven him out for his wickedness.

12 And strangers, [h] the terrible of the nations, have cut him off, and have left him: [i] upon the mountains and in all the valleys his branches are fallen, and his boughs are broken by all the rivers of the land; and all the people of the earth are gone down from his shadow, and have left him.

13 [k] Upon his ruin shall all the fowls of the heaven remain, and all the beasts of the field shall be upon his branches:

14 To the end that none of all the trees by the waters exalt themselves for their height, neither shoot up their top among the thick boughs, neither their trees † stand up in their height, all that drink water: for [l] they are all delivered unto death, [m] to the nether parts of the earth, in the midst of the children of men, with them that go down to the pit.

15 Thus saith the Lord GOD; In the day when he went down to the grave I caused a mourning: I covered the deep for him, and I restrained the floods thereof, and the great waters were stayed: and I caused Lebanon ‡ to mourn for him, and all the trees of the field fainted for him.

16 I made the nations to [n] shake at the sound of his fall, when I [o] cast him down to hell with them that descend into the pit: and [p] all the trees of Eden, the choice and best of Lebanon, all that drink water, [q] shall be comforted in the nether parts of the earth.

17 They also went down into hell with him unto them that be slain with the sword; and they that were his arm, that [r] dwelt under his shadow in the midst of the heathen.

18 ¶ [s] To whom art thou thus like in glory and in greatness among the trees of Eden? yet shalt thou be brought down with the trees of Eden unto the nether parts of the earth: [t] thou shalt lie in the midst of the uncircumcised with them that be slain by the sword. This is Pharaoh and all his multitude, saith the Lord GOD

CHAP. XXXII.

1 A lamentation for the fearful fall of Egypt. 11 The sword of Babylon shall destroy it. 17 It shall be brought down to hell, among all the uncircumcised nations.

AND it came to pass in the twelfth year, in the twelfth month, in the first day of the month, that the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, [a] take up a lamentation for Pharaoh king of Egypt, and say unto him, [b] Thou art like a young lion of the nations, [c] and thou art as a * whale in the seas: and thou camest forth with thy rivers, and troubledst the waters with thy feet, and [d] fouledst their rivers.

3 Thus saith the Lord GOD; I will therefore [e] spread out my net over thee with a company of many people; and they shall bring thee up in my net.

4 Then [f] will I leave thee upon the land, I will cast thee forth upon the open field, and [g] will cause all the fowls of the heaven to remain upon thee, and I will fill the beasts of the whole earth with thee.

5 And I will lay thy flesh [h] upon the mountains, and fill the valleys with thy height.

6 I will also water with thy blood † the land wherein thou swimmest, even to the mountains; and the rivers shall be full of thee.

7 And when I shall ‡ put thee out, [i] I will cover the heaven, and make the stars thereof dark; I will cover the sun with a cloud, and the moon shall not give her light.

8 All the § bright lights of heaven will I make ‖ dark over thee, and set darkness upon thy land, saith the Lord GOD.

9 I will also * vex the hearts of many people, when I shall bring thy destruction among the nations, into the countries which thou hast not known.

10 Yea, I will make many people [k] amazed at thee, and their kings shall be horribly afraid for thee, when I shall brandish my sword before them; and [l] they shall tremble at every moment, every man for his own life, in the day of thy fall.

11 ¶ [m] For thus saith the Lord GOD; The sword of the king of Babylon shall come upon thee.

12 By the swords of the mighty will I cause thy multitude to fall, [n] the terrible of the nations, all of them: and * they shall spoil the pomp of Egypt, and all the multitude thereof shall be destroyed.

13 I will destroy also all the beasts thereof from beside the great waters; [p] neither shall the foot of man trouble them any more, nor the hoofs of beasts trouble them.

14 Then will I make their waters deep, and cause their rivers to run like oil, saith the Lord GOD.

15 When I shall make the land of Egypt desolate, and the country shall be † destitute of that whereof it was full, when I shall smite all them that dwell therein, [q] then shall they know that I am the LORD.

16 This is the [r] lamentation wherewith they shall lament her: the daughters of the nations shall lament her: they shall lament for her, even for Egypt, and for all her multitude, saith the Lord GOD.

17 ¶ It came to pass also in the twelfth year, in the fifteenth day of the month, that the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

18 Son of man, wail for the multitude of Egypt, and [a] cast them down, even her, and the daughters of the famous nations, unto the nether parts of the earth, with them that go down into the pit.

19 [t] Whom dost thou pass in beauty? [u] go down, and be thou laid with the uncircumcised.

20 They shall fall in the midst of them that are slain by the sword: ‡ she is delivered to the sword: draw her and all her multitudes.

21 [x] The strong among the mighty shall speak to him out of the midst of hell with them that help him: they are [y] gone down, they lie uncircumcised, slain by the sword.

23 [a] Whose graves are set in the sides of the pit, and her company is round about her grave: all of them slain, fallen by the sword, which [b] caused § terror in the land of the living.

24 There is [c] Elam and all her multitude round about her grave, all of them slain, fallen by the sword, which are [d] gone down uncircumcised into the nether parts of the earth, [e] which caused their terror in the land of the living; yet have they borne their shame with them that go down to the pit.

25 They have set her a bed in the midst of the slain with all her multitude: her graves are round about him: all of them uncircumcised, slain by the sword: though their terror was caused in the land of the living, yet have they borne their shame with them that go down to the pit: he is put in the midst of them that be slain.

26 There is [f] Meshech, Tubal, and all her multitude: her graves are round about him: all of them [g] uncircumcised, slain by the sword, though they caused their terror in the land of the living.

27 [h] And they shall not lie with the mighty that are fallen of the uncircumcised, which are gone down to hell ‖ with their weapons of war: and they have laid their swords under their heads, but their iniquities shall be upon their bones, though they were the terror of the mighty in the land of the living.

28 Yea, thou shalt be broken in the midst of the uncircumcised, and shalt lie with them that are slain with the sword.

29 There is [i] Edom, her kings, and all her princes, which with their might are [*] laid by them that were slain by the sword: they shall lie with the uncircumcised, and with them that go down to the pit.

30 [k] There be the princes of the north, all of them, and all the [l] Zidonians, which are gone down with the slain; with their terror they are ashamed of their might; and they lie uncircumcised with them that be slain by the sword, and bear their shame with them that go down to the pit.

31 Pharaoh shall see them, and shall be [m] comforted over all his multitude, even Pharaoh and all his army slain by the sword, saith the Lord GOD. B. C. cir. 587

32 For I have caused my terror in the land of the living: and he shall be laid in the midst of the uncircumcised with them that are slain with the sword, even Pharaoh and all his multitude, saith the Lord GOD.

CHAP. XXXIII.

1 According to the duty of a watchman, in warning the people, 7 Ezekiel is admonished of his duty. 10 God sheweth the justice of his ways towards the penitent, and towards revolters. 17 He maintaineth his justice. 21 Upon the news of the taking of Jerusalem he propheseth the desolation of the land. 30 God's judgment upon the mockers of the prophets.

AGAIN the word of the LORD came unto me, saying, 587

2 Son of man, speak to [a] the children of thy people, and say unto them, [b] * When I bring the sword upon a land, if the people of the land take a man of their coasts, and set him for their [c] watchman:

3 If when he seeth the sword come upon the land, he blow the trumpet, and warn the people;

4 Then † whosoever heareth the sound of the trumpet, and taketh not warning; if the sword come, and take him away, [d] his blood shall be upon his own head.

5 He heard the sound of the trumpet, and took not warning; his blood shall be upon him. But he that taketh warning shall deliver his soul.

6 But if the watchman see the sword come, and blow not the trumpet, and the people be not warned; if the sword come, and take any person from among them, [e] he is taken away in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at the watchman's hand.

7 ¶ [f] So thou, O son of man, I have set thee a watchman unto the house of Israel; therefore thou shalt hear the word at my mouth, and warn them from me.

8 When I say unto the wicked, O wicked man, thou shalt surely die; if thou dost not speak to warn the wicked from his way, that wicked man shall die in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at thine hand.

9 Nevertheless, if thou warn the wicked of his way to turn from it; if he do not turn from his way, he shall die in his iniquity; but thou hast delivered thy soul.

10 Therefore, O thou son of man, speak unto the house of Israel; Thus ye speak, saying, If our transgressions and our sins be upon us, and we [g] pine away in them, [h] how should we then live?

11 Say unto them, As I live, saith the Lord GOD, [i] I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked; but that the wicked turn from his way and live: turn ye, turn ye from your evil ways; for [k] why will ye die, O house of Israel?

12 Therefore, thou son of man, say unto the children of thy people, The [l] righteousness of the righteous shall not deliver him in the day of his transgression: as for the wickedness of the wicked, [m] he shall not fall thereby in the day that he turneth from his wickedness; neither shall the righteous be able to live

CHAP. XXXIII. Ver. 1. Again the word of the Lord came, &c.—The duty of a prophet in warning people of their sins is exemplified by that of a watchman. Then follows an exhortation to repentance as in the eighteenth chapter. Information having reached the prophet that Jerusalem had been destroyed by the Chaldeans, he foretells the miseries that would overwhelm the land of Judea, to check the vain confidence of those who had retreated to the mountains and strong holds, and pronounces a fearful denunciation against those hypocrites who had pretended to heed his precepts, but did not follow them.

13 When I shall say to the righteous, that he shall surely live; [n] if he trust to his own righteousness, and commit iniquity, all his righteousnesses shall not be remembered; but for his iniquity that he hath committed, he shall die for it.

14 Again, [o] when I say unto the wicked, Thou shalt surely die; if he turn from his sin, and do ‡ that which is lawful and right;

15 If the wicked [p] restore the pledge, [q] give again that he had robbed, walk in [r] the statutes of life, without committing iniquity; he shall surely live, he shall not die.

16 [s] None of his sins that he hath committed shall be mentioned unto him: he hath done that which is lawful and right; he shall surely live.

17 ¶ [t] Yet the children of thy people say, The way of the Lord is not equal: but as for them, their way is not equal.

18 [u] When the righteous turneth from his righteousness, and committeth iniquity, he shall even die thereby.

19 But if the wicked turn from his wickedness, and do that which is lawful and right, he shall live thereby.

20 ¶ Yet ye say, [x] The way of the Lord is not equal. O ye house of Israel, I will judge you every one after his ways.

21 ¶ And it came to pass in the twelfth year [y] of our captivity, in the tenth month, in the fifth day of the month, [z] that one that had escaped out of Jerusalem came unto me, saying, [a] The city is smitten.

22 Now [b] the hand of the Lord was upon me in the evening, afore he that was escaped came; and had opened my mouth, until he came to me in the morning; [c] and my mouth was opened, and I was no more dumb.

23 Then the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

24 Son of man, [d] they that inhabit those [e] wastes of the land of Israel speak, saying, [f] Abraham was one, and he inherited the land: [g] but we are many; the land is given us for inheritance.

25 Wherefore say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God; [h] Ye eat with the blood, and [i] lift up your eyes toward your idols, and [k] shed blood: and shall ye possess the land?

26 [l] Ye stand upon your sword, ye work abomination, and ye [m] defile every one his neighbour's wife: and shall ye possess the land?

27 Say thou thus unto them, Thus saith the Lord God; As I live, surely [n] they that are in the wastes shall fall by the sword, and him that is in the open field [o] will I give to the beasts § to be devoured, and they that be in the forts and [p] in the caves shall die of the pestilence.

28 [q] For I will lay the land ‖ most desolate, and the [r] pomp of her strength shall cease; and [s] the mountains of Israel shall be desolate, that none shall pass through.

29 Then shall they know that I am the Lord, when I have laid the land most desolate because of all their abominations which they have committed.

30 ¶ Also, thou son of man, the children of thy people still are talking [*] against thee by the walls and in the doors of the houses, and [t] speak one to another, every one to his brother, saying, Come, I pray you, and hear what is the word that cometh forth from the Lord.

31 And [u] they come unto thee † as the people cometh, and ‡ they [x] sit before thee as my people, and they hear thy words, but they will not do them: [y] for with their mouth § they shew much love, but [z] their heart goeth after their covetousness.

32 And, lo, thou art unto them as ‖ a very lovely song of one that hath a pleasant voice, and can play well on an instrument: for they hear thy words, but they do them not.

33 [a] And when this cometh to pass, (lo, it will come,) then [b] shall they know that a prophet hath been among them.

CHAP. XXXIV.

1 A reproof of the shepherds. 7 God's judgment against them. 11 His providence for his flock. 20 The kingdom of Christ.

AND the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, prophesy against the [a] shepherds of Israel, prophesy, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God unto the shepherds; [b] Woe be to the shepherds of Israel that do feed themselves! should not the shepherds feed the flocks?

3 [c] Ye eat the fat, and ye clothe you with the wool, [d] ye kill them that are fed: but ye feed not the flock.

4 [e] The diseased have ye not strengthened, neither have ye healed that which was sick, neither have ye bound up that which was broken, neither have ye brought again that which was driven away, neither have ye [f] sought that which was lost; but with [g] force and with cruelty have ye ruled them.

5 [h] And they were [i] scattered, [*] because there is no shepherd: [k] and they became meat to all the beasts of the field, when they were scattered.

6 My sheep wandered through all the mountains, and upon every high hill: yea, my flock was scattered upon all the face of the earth, and none did search or seek after them.

7 ¶ Therefore, ye shepherds, hear the word of the Lord;

8 As I live, saith the Lord God, surely because my flock became a prey, and my flock [l] became meat to every beast of the field, because there was no shepherd, neither did my shepherds search for my flock, [m] but the shepherds fed themselves, and fed not my flock;

9 Therefore, O ye shepherds, hear the word of the Lord;

10 Thus saith the Lord God; Behold, I am against the shepherds; and [n] I will require my flock at their hand, and cause them to cease from feeding the flock; neither shall the shepherds [o] feed themselves any more;

B. C. 587.

for I will deliver my flock from their mouth, that they may not be meat for them.

11 ¶ For thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, I, even I, will both search my sheep, and seek them out.

12 † As a shepherd seeketh out his flock in the day that he is among his sheep that are scattered; so will I seek out my sheep, and will deliver them out of all places where they have been scattered in [p] the cloudy and dark day.

13 And [q] I will bring them out from the people, and gather them from the countries, and will bring them to their own land, and feed them upon the mountains of Israel by the rivers, and in all the inhabited places of the country.

14 [r] I will feed them in a good pasture, and upon the high mountains of Israel shall their fold be: [s] there shall they lie in a good fold, and in a fat pasture shall they feed upon the mountains of Israel.

15 I will feed my flock, and I will cause them to lie down, saith the Lord GOD.

16 [t] I will seek that which was lost, and bring again that which was driven away, and will bind up that which was broken, and will strengthen that which was sick: but I will destroy [u] the fat and the strong; I will feed them [x] with judgment.

17 And as for you, O my flock, thus saith the Lord GOD; [y] Behold, I judge between ‡ cattle and cattle, between the rams and the § he goats.

18 Seemeth it a small thing unto you to have eaten up the good pasture, but ye must tread down with your feet the residue of your pastures? and to have drunk of the deep waters, but ye must foul the residue with your feet?

19 And as for my flock, they eat that which ye have trodden with your feet; and they drink that which ye have fouled with your feet.

20 ¶ Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD unto them; [z] Behold, I, even I, will judge between the fat cattle and between the lean cattle.

21 Because ye have thrust with side and with shoulder, and pushed all the diseased with your horns, till ye have scattered them abroad;

22 Therefore will I save my flock, and they shall no more be a prey; and [a] I will judge between cattle and cattle.

23 And I will set up one [b] shepherd over them, and he shall feed them, [c] even my servant David; he shall feed them, and he shall be their shepherd.

24 And [d] I the LORD will be their God, and my servant David [e] a prince among them; I the LORD have spoken it.

25 And [f] I will make with them a covenant of peace, and [g] will cause the evil beasts to cease out of the land: and they [h] shall dwell safely in the wilderness, and sleep in the woods.

26 And I will make them and the places round about [i] my hill [k] a blessing; and I [l] cause the shower to come down in his season; there shall be [m] showers of blessing.

27 And [n] the tree of the fields shall yield her fruit, and the earth shall yield her increase, and they shall be safe in their land, and shall know that I am the LORD, when I have [o] broken the bands of their yoke, and delivered them out of the hand of those that [p] served themselves of them.

28 And they shall no more [q] be a prey to the heathen, neither shall the beast of the land devour them; but [r] they shall dwell safely, and none shall make them afraid.

29 And I will raise up for them a [s] plant ‖ of renown, and they shall be no more [t] consumed with hunger in the land, [u] neither bear the shame of the heathen any more.

30 Thus shall they know that [v] I the LORD their God am with them, and that they, even the house of Israel, are my people, saith the Lord GOD.

31 And ye my [x] flock, the flock of my pasture, are men, and I am your God, saith the Lord GOD.

CHAP. XXXV.

The judgment of mount Seir for their hatred of Israel.

MOREOVER the word of the LORD came unto me, saying, 587.

2 Son of man, [a] set thy face against [b] mount Seir, and [c] prophesy against it,

3 And say unto it, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, O mount Seir, I am against thee, and [d] I will stretch out mine hand against thee, and I will make thee [*] most desolate.

4 [*] I will lay thy cities waste, and thou shalt be desolate, and thou shalt know that I am the LORD.

5 [f] Because thou hast had a † perpetual hatred, and hast ‡ shed the blood of the children of Israel by the § force of the sword in the time of their calamity, [g] in the time that their iniquity had an end:

6 Therefore, as I live, saith the Lord GOD, I will prepare thee unto blood, and blood shall pursue thee: [h] sith thou hast not hated blood, even blood shall pursue thee.

7 Thus will I make mount Seir ‖ most desolate, and cut off from it [i] him that passeth out and him that returneth.

8 [k] And I will fill his mountains with his slain men: in thy hills, and in thy valleys, and in all thy rivers, shall they fall that are slain with the sword.

9 [l] I will make thee perpetual desolations, and thy cities shall not return: [m] and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

10 Because thou hast said, These two nations and these two countries shall be mine, and we will [n] possess it; [*] whereas [o] the LORD was there:

11 Therefore, as I live, saith the Lord GOD, I will even do [p] according to thine anger, and according to thine envy which thou hast used out of thy hatred against them; and I will make myself known among them, when I have judged thee.

12 [q] And thou shalt know that I am the LORD, and that I have heard all thy blasphemies which thou hast spoken against the mountains of Israel, saying, They are laid desolate, they are given us † to consume.

13 Thus [r] with your mouth ye have ‡ boasted against me, and have multiplied your words against me: I have heard them.

14 Thus saith the Lord GOD; [s] When the whole earth rejoiceth, I will make thee desolate.

15 [t] As thou didst rejoice at the inheritance of the house of Israel, because it was desolate, so will I do unto thee: [u] thou shalt be desolate, O mount Seir, and all Idumea, even all of it: and they shall know that I am the LORD.

ALSO, thou son of man, prophesy unto [a] the mountains of Israel, and say, Ye mountains of Israel, hear the word of the LORD:

2 Thus saith the Lord GOD; Because [b] the enemy hath said against you, Aha, [c] even the ancient high places [d] are our's in possession:

3 Therefore prophesy and say, Thus saith the Lord GOD; * Because they have made you desolate, and swallowed you up on every side, that ye might be a possession unto the residue of the heathen, [e] and † ye are taken up in the lips of talkers, and are an infamy of the people:

4 Therefore, ye mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord GOD; Thus saith the Lord GOD to the mountains, and to the hills, to the ‡ rivers, and to the valleys, to the desolate wastes, and to the cities that are forsaken, which [f] became a prey and [g] derision to the residue of the heathen that are round about:

5 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; [h] Surely in the fire of my jealousy have I spoken against the residue of the heathen, and against all Idumea, [i] which have appointed my land into their possession with the joy of all their heart, with despiteful minds, to cast it out for a prey.

6 Prophesy therefore concerning the land of Israel, and say unto the mountains, and to the hills, to the rivers, and to the valleys, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold I have spoken in my jealousy and in my fury, because ye have [k] borne the shame of the heathen:

7 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; I have [l] lifted up mine hand, Surely the heathen that are about you, they shall bear their shame.

8 ¶ But ye, O mountains of Israel, ye shall shoot forth your branches, and yield your fruit to my people of Israel; for they are at hand to come.

9 For, behold, I am for you, and I will turn unto you, and ye shall be tilled and sown:

10 And I will multiply men upon you, all the house of Israel, even all of it: and the cities shall be inhabited, and [m] the wastes shall be builded:

11 And [n] I will multiply upon you man and beast; and they shall increase and bring fruit: and I will settle you after your old estates, and will do better unto you than at your beginnings: [o] and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

12 Yea, I will cause men to walk upon you, even my people Israel; [p] and they shall possess thee, and thou shalt be their inheritance, and thou shalt no more henceforth [q] bereave them of men.

13 Thus saith the Lord GOD; Because they say unto you, [r] Thou land devourest up men, and hast bereaved thy nations;

14 Therefore thou shalt devour men no more, neither § bereave thy nations any more, saith the Lord GOD.

15 [s] Neither will I cause men to hear in thee the shame of the heathen any more, neither shalt thou bear the reproach of the people any more, neither shalt thou cause thy nations to fall any more, saith the Lord GOD.

16 ¶ Moreover the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

17 Son of man, when the house of Israel dwelt in their own land, [t] they defiled it by their own way and by their doings: their way was before me as [u] the uncleanness of a removed woman.

18 Wherefore I poured my fury upon them [x] for the blood that they had shed upon the land, and for their idols wherewith they had polluted it:

19 And I [y] scattered them among the heathen, and they were dispersed through the countries: [z] according to their way and according to their doings I judged them.

20 And when they entered unto the heathen, whither they went, they [a] profaned my holy name, when they said to them, These are the people of the LORD, and are gone forth out of his land.

21 ¶ But I had pity [b] for mine holy name, which the house of Israel had profaned among the heathen, whither they went.

22 Therefore say unto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord GOD; I do not this for your sakes, O house of Israel, [c] but for mine holy name's sake, which ye have profaned among the heathen, whither ye went.

23 And I will sanctify my great name, which was profaned among the heathen, which ye have profaned in the midst of them; and the heathen shall know that I am the LORD, saith the Lord GOD, when I shall be [d] sanctified in you before ‖ their eyes.

24 For [e] I will take you from among the heathen, and gather you out of all countries, and will bring you into your own land.

25 ¶ [f] Then will I sprinkle clean water upon you, and ye shall be clean: [g] from all your filthiness, and from all your idols, will I cleanse you.

26 A [h] new heart also will I give you, and a new spirit will I put within you: and I will take away the stony heart out of your flesh, and I will give you an heart of flesh.

27 And I will put my [i] spirit within you, and cause you to walk in my statutes, and ye shall keep my judgments, and do them.

28 [k] And ye shall dwell in the land that I gave to your fathers; [l] and ye shall be my people, and I will be your God.

29 I will also [m] save you from all your uncleanness: and [n] I will call for the corn, and will increase it, and [o] lay no famine upon you.

30 [p] And I will multiply the fruit of the tree, and the increase of the field, that ye shall receive no more reproach of famine among the heathen,

31 Then [q] shall ye remember your own evil ways, and your doings that were not good, and [r] shall lothe yourselves in your own sight for your iniquities and for your abominations.

32 [s] Not for your sakes do I this, saith the Lord GOD, be it known unto you: be ashamed and confounded for your own ways, O house of Israel.

33 Thus saith the Lord GOD; In the day that I shall have cleansed you from all your iniquities I will also cause you to dwell in the cities, [t] and the wastes shall be builded.

34 And the desolate land shall be tilled, whereas it lay desolate in the sight of all that passed by.

35 And they shall say, This land that was desolate is become like the garden of [u] Eden; and the waste and desolate and ruined cities are become fenced, and are inhabited.

36 Then the heathen that are left round about you shall know that I the LORD build the ruined places, and plant that that was desolate: [x] I the LORD have spoken it, and I will do it.

37 Thus saith the Lord GOD; [y] I will yet for this be enquired of by the house of Israel, to do it for them; I will [z] increase them with men like a flock.

38 As the * holy flock, as the flock of Jerusalem in her solemn feasts; so shall the waste cities be filled with flocks of men: and they shall know that I am the LORD.

THE [a] hand of the LORD was upon me, and carried me out [b] in the spirit of the LORD, and set me down in the midst of the valley which was full of bones,

2 And caused me to pass by them round about: and, behold, there were very many in the open * valley; and, lo, they were very dry.

3 And he said unto me, Son of man, can these bones live? And I answered, O Lord GOD, [c] thou knowest.

4 Again he said unto me, Prophesy upon these bones, and say unto them, O ye dry [b] bones, hear the word of the LORD.

5 Thus saith the Lord GOD unto these bones; Behold, I will [d] cause breath to enter into you, and ye shall live:

6 And I will lay sinews upon you, and will bring up flesh upon you, and cover you with skin, and put breath in you, and ye shall live; * and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

7 So I prophesied as I was commanded: and as I prophesied, there was a noise, and behold a shaking, and the bones came together, bone to his bone.

8 And when I beheld, lo, the sinews and the flesh came up upon them, and the skin covered them above: but there was no breath in them.

9 Then said he unto me, Prophesy unto the † wind, prophesy, son of man, and say to the wind, Thus saith the Lord GOD; [f] Come from the four winds, O breath, and breathe upon these slain, that they may live.

10 So I prophesied as he commanded me, [g] and the breath came into them, and they lived, and stood up upon their feet, an exceeding great army.

11 ¶ Then he said unto me, Son of man, these bones are the whole house of Israel: behold, they say, [h] Our bones are dried, and our hope is lost: we are cut off for our parts.

12 Therefore prophesy and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, [i] O my people, I will open your graves, and cause you to come up out of your graves, and [k] bring you into the land of Israel.

13 And ye shall know that I am the LORD, when I have opened your graves, O my people, and brought you up out of your graves, 14 And [l] shall put my spirit in you, and ye shall live, and I shall place you in your own land: then shall ye know that I the LORD have spoken it, and performed it, saith the LORD.

15 ¶ The word of the LORD came again unto me, saying,

16 Moreover, thou son of man, [m] take thee one stick, and write upon it, For Judah, and for [n] the children of Israel his companions: then take another stick, and write upon it, For Joseph, the stick of Ephraim, and for all the house of Israel his companions:

17 And [o] join them one to another into one stick; and they shall become one in thine hand.

18 ¶ And when the children of thy people shall speak unto thee, saying, [p] Wilt thou not shew us what thou meanest by these?

19 [q] Say unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, I will take [r] the stick of Joseph, which is in the hand of Ephraim, and the tribes of Israel his fellows, and will put them with him, even with the stick of Judah, and make them one stick, and they shall be one in mine hand.

20 ¶ And the sticks whereon thou writest shall be in thine hand * before their eyes.

21 And say unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, [t] I will take the children of Israel from among the heathen, whither they be gone, and will gather them on every side, and bring them into their own land:

22 And [u] I will make them one nation in the land upon the mountains of Israel; and [x] one king shall be king to them all: and they shall be no more two nations, neither shall they be divided into two kingdoms any more at all:

23 [y] Neither shall they defile themselves any more with their idols, nor with their detestable things, nor with any of their transgressions: but [z] I will save them out of all their dwellingplaces, wherein they have

1 The army, 8 and malice of Gog. 14 God's judgment against him.

AND the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 [a] Son of man, [b] set thy face against [c] Gog, the land of Magog, [*] the chief prince of [d] Meshech and Tubal, and prophesy against him,

3 And say, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, I am against thee, O Gog, the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal:

4 And [e] I will turn thee back, and put hooks into thy jaws, and I will bring thee forth, and all thine army, horses and horsemen, [f] all of them clothed with all sorts of armour, even a great company with bucklers and shields, all of them handling swords:

5 Persia, Ethiopia, and † Libya with them; all of them with shield and helmet:

6 [g] Gomer, and all his bands; the house of [h] Togarmah of the north quarters, and all his bands: and many people with thee.

7 [i] Be thou prepared, and prepare for thyself, thou, and all thy company that are assembled unto thee, and be thou a guard unto them.

8 ¶ [k] After many days [l] thou shalt be visited: in the latter years thou shalt come into the land that is brought back from the sword, [m] and is gathered out of many people, against [n] the mountains of Israel, which have been always waste: but it is brought forth out of the nations, and they shall [o] dwell safely all of them.

9 Thou shalt ascend and come [p] like a storm, thou shalt be [q] like a cloud to cover the land, thou, and all thy bands, and many people with thee.

10 Thus saith the Lord GOD; It shall also come to pass, that at the same time shall things come into thy mind, and thou shalt ‡ think an evil thought:

11 And thou shalt say, I will go up to the land of unwalled villages; I will [r] go to them that are at rest, [s] that dwell § safely, all of them dwelling without walls, and having neither bars nor gates,

14 ¶ Therefore, son of man, prophesy and say unto Gog, Thus saith the Lord GOD; [b] In that day when my people of Israel [c] dwelleth safely, shalt thou not know it?

19 For [i] in my jealousy [k] and in the fire of my wrath have I spoken, [l] Surely in that day there shall be a great shaking in the land of Israel;

20 So that [m] the fishes of the sea, and the fowls of the heaven, and the beasts of the field, and all creeping things that creep upon the earth, and all the men that are upon the face of the earth, shall shake at my presence, [n] and the mountains shall be thrown down, and the ‡ steep places shall fall, and every wall shall fall to the ground.

21 And I will [o] call for [p] a sword against him throughout all my mountains, saith the Lord GOD: [q] every man's sword shall be against his brother.

22 And I will [r] plead against him with [s] pestilence and with blood; and [t] I will rain upon him, and upon his bands, and upon the many people that are with him, an overflowing rain, and [u] great hailstones, fire, and brimstone.

23 Thus will I magnify myself, and [x] sanctify myself; [y] and I will be known in the eyes of many nations, and they shall know that I am the LORD.

CHAP. XXXVIII. Ver. 1. And the word of the Lord, &c.—"The prophecy contained in this and the following chapter concerning Israel's victory over Gog and Magog, without question, relates to the latter ages of the world, when the whole house of Israel shall return into their own land (chap. xxxix. 25, 26). And the expressions we meet with in this chapter (ver. 8 and 16). 'That this should come to pass in the latter days, and after many days,' or a considerable number of years, and that God 'had of old prophecied' concerning this transaction: these and other circumstances of this prophecy are a proof that the event was to happen a great while after the several predictions of the prophets concerning it. So that this must be looked upon as one of those obscure prophecies of Scripture, the fulfilling whereof will best explain their meaning."—W. Lowth.

1 God's judgment upon Gog. 8 Israel's victory. 11 Gog's burial in Hamon-gog. 17 The feast of the fowls. 23 Israel, having been plagued for their sins, shall be gathered again with eternal favour.

THEREFORE, [a] thou son of man, prophesy against Gog, and say, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, I am against thee, O Gog, the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal:

2 And I will turn thee back, and * leave but the sixth part of thee, [b] and will cause thee to come up from † the north parts, and will bring thee upon the mountains of Israel:

3 And I will smite thy bow out of thy left hand, and will cause thine arrows to fall out of thy right hand.

4 [c] Thou shalt fall upon the mountains of Israel, thou, and all thy bands, and the people that is with thee: [d] I will give thee unto the ravenous birds of every ‡ sort, and to the beasts of the field § to be devoured.

5 Thou shalt fall upon ‖ the open field: for I have spoken it, saith the Lord GOD.

6 [e] And I will send a fire on Magog, and among them that dwell * carelessly in [f] the isles: and they shall know that I am the LORD.

7 [g] So will I make my holy name known in the midst of my people Israel; and I will not let them [h] pollute my holy name any more: [i] and the heathen shall know that I am the LORD, the Holy One in Israel.

8 ¶ [k] Behold, it is come, and it is done, saith the Lord GOD; this is the day [l] whereof I have spoken.

9 And they that dwell in the cities of Israel shall go forth, and shall set on fire and burn the weapons, both the shields and the bucklers, the bows and the arrows, and the † handstaves, and the spears, and they shall ‡ burn them with fire seven years:

10 So that they shall take no wood out of the field, neither cut down any out of the forests; for they shall burn the weapons with fire: [m] and they shall spoil those that spoiled them, and rob those that robbed them, saith the Lord GOD.

11 ¶ And it shall come to pass in that day, that I will give unto Gog a place there of graves in Israel, the valley of the passengers on the east of the sea: and it shall stop the § noses of the passengers: and there shall they bury Gog and all his multitude: and they shall call it The valley of ‖ Hamon-gog.

12 And seven months shall the house of Israel be burying of them, [n] that they may cleanse the land.

13 Yea, all the people of the land shall bury them; and it shall be to them a renown the day that [o] I shall be glorified, saith the Lord GOD.

14 And they shall sever out * men of continual employment, passing through the land to bury with the passengers those that remain upon the face of the earth, [p] to cleanse it: after the end of seven months shall they search.

15 And the passengers that pass through the land, when any seeth a man's bone, then shall he † set up a sign by it, till the buriers have buried it in the valley of Hamon-gog.

16 And also the name of the city shall be ‡ Hamonah. Thus shall they [q] cleanse the land.

17 ¶ And, thou son of man, thus saith the Lord GOD; [r] Speak § unto every feathered fowl, and to every beast of the field, [s] Assemble yourselves, and come; gather yourselves on every side to my ‖ sacrifice that I do sacrifice for you, even a great sacrifice [t] upon the mountains of Israel, that ye may eat flesh, and drink blood.

18 [u] Ye shall eat the flesh of the mighty, and drink the blood of the princes of the earth, of rams, of lambs, and of * goats, of bullocks, all of them [x] fatlings of Bashan.

19 And ye shall eat fat till ye be full, and drink blood till ye be drunken, of my sacrifice which I have sacrificed for you.

20 [y] Thus ye shall be filled at my table with horses and chariots, * with mighty men, and with all men of war, saith the Lord GOD.

21 [z] And I will set my glory among the heathen, and all the heathen shall see my judgment that I have executed, and [b] my hand that I have laid upon them.

22 [c] So the house of Israel shall know that I am the LORD their God from that day and forward.

23 ¶ [d] And the heathen shall know that the house of Israel went into captivity for their iniquity: because they trespassed against me, therefore [e] hid I my face from them, and [f] gave them into the hand of their enemies: so fell they all by the sword.

24 [g] According to their uncleanness and according to their transgressions have I done unto them, and hid my face from them.

25 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; [h] Now will I bring again the captivity of Jacob, and have mercy upon the [i] whole house of Israel, and will be jealous for my holy name;

26 [k] After that they have borne their shame, and all their trespasses whereby they have trespassed against me, when they [l] dwelt safely in their land, and none made them afraid.

27 [m] When I have brought them again from the people, and gathered them out of their enemies' lands, and [n] am sanctified in them in the sight of many nations;

28 [o] Then shall they know that I am the LORD their God, † which caused them to be led into captivity among the heathen: but I have gathered them unto their own land, and have left none of them any more there.

29 [p] Neither will I hide my face any more from them: for I have [q] poured out my spirit upon the house of Israel, saith the Lord GOD.

The temple of Jerusalem lying in ruins when Ezekiel had this vision (for its date is the fourteenth year after the destruction of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar) the Jews needed consolation. If they were not promised a restoration of the temple, they would not feel so great an interest in returning home. It is thought by some that no model of Solomon's Temple had remained. To direct them, therefore, in the dimensions, parts, order, and rules of their new temple might be one reason why Ezekiel is so particular in the description of the old; to which the new was conformable in figure and parts, though inferior in magnificence, on account of the poverty of the nation at in the tenth day of the month, in the fourteenth year after that [a] the city was smitten, in the selfsame day [b] the hand of the LORD was upon me, and brought me thither.

2 [c] In the visions of God brought he me into the land of Israel, [d] and set me upon a very high mountain, * by which was as the frame of a city on the south.

3 And he brought me thither, and, behold, there was a man, whose appearance was * like the appearance of brass, [f] with a line of flax in his hand, [g] and a measuring reed; and he stood in the gate.

4 And the man said unto me, [h] Son of man, behold with thine eyes, and hear with thine ears, and set thine heart upon all that I shall shew thee; for to the intent that I might shew them unto thee art thou brought hither: [i] declare all that thou seest to the house of Israel.

5 And behold [k] a wall on the outside of the house round about, and in the man's hand a measuring reed of six cubits long by the cubit and an hand breadth: so he measured the breadth of the building, one reed; and the height one reed.

† Heb. whose face was toward the east.

6 ¶ Then came he unto the gate † which looketh toward the east, and went up the stairs thereof, and measured the threshold of the gate, which was one reed broad; and the other threshold of the gate, which was one reed broad.

7 And every little chamber was one reed long, and one reed broad; and between the little chambers were five cubits; and the threshold of the gate by the porch of the gate within was one reed.

8 He measured also the porch of the gate within, one reed.

9 Then measured he the porch of the gate, eight cubits; and the posts thereof, two cubits; and the porch of the gate was inward.

10 And the little chambers of the gate eastward were three on this side, and three on that side; they three were of one measure: and the posts had one measure on this side and on that side.

11 And he measured the breadth of the entry of the gate, ten cubits; and the length of the gate, thirteen cubits.

12 The ‡ space also before the little chambers was one cubit on this side, and the space was one cubit on that side: and the little chambers were six cubits on this side, and six cubits on that side.

13 He measured then the gate from the roof of one little chamber to the roof of another: the breadth was five and twenty cubits, door against door.

14 He made also posts of threescore cubits, even unto the post of the court round about the gate.

15 And from the face of the gate of the entrance unto the face of the porch of the inner gate were fifty cubits.

New Testament, under the metaphor of a temple, in allusion to the symmetry, beauty, and firmness of that of Solomon; to its orderly worship; and to the manifestations it had of the Divine Presence. This chapter commences with the time, manner, and end of the vision. We have next a description of the east gate, the north gate, and the south gate; an account of the eight tables, of the chambers, and of the porch of the temple."—Dr. A. Clarke that time. Whatever was august or illustrious in the prophetic figures, and not literally fulfilled in or near their own times, the ancient Jews properly considered as belonging to the time of the Messiah. Accordingly, upon finding that the latter temple fell short of the model of the temple here described by Ezekiel, they supposed the prophecy to refer, at least in part, to the period now mentioned. And we, who live under the gospel dispensation, have apostolical authority for the assertion that the temple and temple worship were emblematic of Christ's church, frequently represented in the

B. C. 574.

33 And the little chambers thereof, and the posts thereof, and the arches thereof, were according to these measures: and there were windows therein and in the arches thereof round about: it was fifty cubits long, and five and twenty cubits broad.

34 And the arches thereof were toward the outward court; and palm trees were upon the posts thereof, on this side, and on that side: and the going up to it had eight steps.

35 ¶ And he brought me to the north gate, and measured it according to these measures;

36 The little chambers thereof, the posts thereof, and the arches thereof, and the windows to it round about; the length was fifty cubits, and the breadth five and twenty cubits.

37 And the posts thereof were toward the utter court; and palm trees were upon the posts thereof, on this side, and on that side: and the going up to it had eight steps.

38 And the chambers and the entries thereof were by the posts of the gates, where they washed the burnt offering.

39 ¶ And in the porch of the gate were two tables on this side, and two tables on that side, to slay thereon the burnt offering and [q] the sin offering and [r] the trespass offering.

40 And at the side without, * as one goeth up to the entry of the north gate, were two tables; and on the other side, which was at the porch of the gate, were two tables.

41 Four tables were on this side, and four tables on that side, by the side of the gate; eight tables, whereupon they slew their sacrifices.

42 And the four tables were of hewn stone for the burnt offering, of a cubit and an half long, and a cubit and an half broad, and one cubit high: whereupon also they laid the instruments wherewith they slew the burnt offering and the sacrifice.

43 And within were †hooks, an hand broad, fastened round about: and upon the tables was the flesh of the offering.

44 ¶ And without the inner gate were the chambers of [s] the singers in the inner court, which was at the side of the north gate; and their prospect was toward the south: one at the side of the east gate having the prospect toward the north.

45 And he said unto me, This chamber, whose prospect is toward the south, is for the priests, [t] the keepers of the ‡charge of the house.

46 And the chamber whose prospect is toward the north is for the priests, [u] the keepers of the charge of the altar: these are the sons of [x] Zadok among the sons of Levi, which come near to the LORD to minister unto him.

47 So he measured the court, an hundred cubits long, and an hundred cubits broad, foursquare; and the altar that was before the house.

48 ¶ And he brought me to the porch of the house, and measured each post of the porch, five cubits on this side, and five cubits on that side: and the breadth of the gate was three cubits on this side, and three cubits on that side.

49 [y] The length of the porch was twenty cubits, and the breadth eleven cubits; and he brought me by the steps whereby they went up to it: and there were [z] pillars by the posts, one on this side, and another on that side.

CHAP. XLI.

The measures, parts, chambers, and ornaments of the temple.

AFTERWARD he brought me to the temple, and measured the posts, six cubits broad on the one side, and six cubits broad on the other side, which was the breadth of the tabernacle.

2 And the breadth of the * door was ten cubits; and the sides of the door were five cubits on the one side, and five cubits on the other side: and he measured the length thereof, forty cubits: and the breadth, twenty cubits.

3 Then went he inward, and measured the post of the door, two cubits; and the door, six cubits; and the breadth of the door, seven cubits.

4 So * he measured the length thereof, twenty cubits; and the breadth, twenty cubits, before the temple: and he said unto me, This is the most holy place.

5 After he measured the wall of the house, six cubits; and the breadth of every side chamber, four cubits, round about the house on every side.

6 [b] And the side chambers were three, †one over another, and ‡thirty in order; and they entered into the wall which was of the house for the side chambers round about, that they might § have hold, but they had not hold in the wall of the house.

7 And ‖ [c] there was an enlarging, and a winding about still upward to the side chambers: for the winding about of the house went still upward round about the house: therefore the breadth of the house was still upward, and so increased from the lowest chamber to the highest by the midst.

8 I saw also the height of the house round about: the foundations of the side chambers were [d] a full reed of six great cubits.

9 The thickness of the wall, which was for the side chamber without, was five cubits: and that which was left was the place of the side chambers that were within.

10 And between the chambers was the wideness of twenty cubits round about the house on every side.

11 And the doors of the side chambers were toward the place that was left, one door toward the north, and another door toward the south: and the breadth of the place that was left was five cubits round about.

12 Now the building that was before the separate place at the end toward the west was seventy cubits broad; and the wall of the building was five cubits thick round about, and the length thereof ninety cubits.

13 So he measured the house, an hundred cubits long; and the separate place, and the building, with the walls thereof, an hundred cubits long;

14 Also the breadth of the face of the house, and of the separate place toward the east, an hundred cubits.

15 And he measured the length of the building over against the separate place which was behind it, and the * galleries thereof on the one side and on the other side, an hundred cubits, with the inner temple, and the porches of the court;

16 The door posts, and [c] the narrow windows, and the galleries round about on their three stories, over against the door, † cieled with wood round about, ‡ and from the ground up to the windows, and the windows were covered;

17 To that above the door, even unto the inner house, and without, and by all the wall round about within and without, by § measure.

18 And it was made [f] with cherubims and palm trees, so that a palm tree was between a cherub and a cherub; and every cherub had two faces;

19 [g] So that the face of a man was toward the palm tree on the one side, and the face of a young lion toward the palm tree on the other side: it was made through all the house round about.

20 From the ground unto above the door were cherubims and palm trees made, and on the wall of the temple.

21 The ‖ posts of the temple were squared, and the face of the sanctuary; the appearance of the one as the appearance of the other.

22 [h] The altar of wood was three cubits high, and the length thereof two cubits; and the corners thereof, and the length thereof, and the walls thereof, were of wood: and he said unto me, This is [i] the table that is [k] before the LORD.

23 [l] And the temple and the sanctuary had two doors.

24 And the doors had two leaves apiece, two turning leaves; two leaves for the one door, and two leaves for the other door.

25 And there were made on them, on the doors of the temple, cherubims and palm trees, like as were made upon the walls; and there were thick planks upon the face of the porch without.

26 And there were [m] narrow windows and palm trees on the one side and on the other side, on the sides of the porch, and upon the side chambers of the house, and thick planks.

CHAP. XLII.

1 The chambers for the priests. 13 The use thereof. 19 The measures of the outward court.

THEN he brought me forth into the utter court, the way toward the north: and he brought me into [a] the chamber that was over against the separate place, and which was before the building toward the north.

2 Before the length of an hundred cubits was the north door, and the breadth was fifty cubits.

3 Over against the twenty cubits which were for the inner court, and over against the pavement which was for the utter court, was [b] gallery against gallery in three stories.

4 And before the chambers was a walk of ten cubits breadth inward, a way of one cubit; and their doors toward the north.

5 Now the upper chambers were shorter: for the galleries * were higher than these, † than the lower, and than the middlemost of the building.

6 For they were in three stories, but had not pillars as the pillars of the courts: therefore the building was straitened more than the lowest and the middlemost from the ground.

7 And the wall that was without over against the chambers, toward the utter court on the forepart of the chambers, the length thereof was fifty cubits.

8 For the length of the chambers that were in the utter court was fifty cubits: and, lo, before the temple were an hundred cubits.

9 And ‡ from under these chambers was § the entry on the east side, ‖ as one goeth into them from the utter court.

10 The chambers were in the thickness of the wall of the court toward the east, over against the separate place, and over against the building.

11 And [c] the way before them was like the appearance of the chambers which were toward the north, as long as they, and as broad as they: and all their goings out were both according to their fashions, and according to their doors.

12 And according to the doors of the chambers that were toward the south was a door in the head of the way, even the way directly before the wall toward the east, as one entereth into them.

13 ¶ Then said he unto me, The north chambers and the south chambers, which are before the separate place, they be holy chambers, where the priests that approach unto the LORD [d] shall eat the most holy things: there shall they lay the most holy things, and [e] the meat offering, and the sin offering, and the trespass offering; for the place is holy.

14 [f] When the priests enter therein, then shall they not go out of the holy place into the utter court, but there they shall lay their garments wherein they minister; for they are holy; and shall put on other garments, and shall approach to those things which are for the people.

15 Now when he had made an end of measuring the inner house, he brought me forth toward the gate whose prospect is toward the east, and measured it round about.

16 He measured the east * side with the measuring reed, five hundred reeds, with the measuring reed round about.

17 He measured the north side, five hundred reeds, with the measuring reed round about.

18 He measured the south side, five hundred reeds, with the measuring reed.

19 ¶ He turned about to the west side, and measured five hundred reeds with the measuring reed.

20 He measured it by the four sides: [g] it had a wall round about, [h] five hundred reeds long, and five hundred broad, to make a separation between the sanctuary and the profane place.

CHAP. XLIII. Ver. 1. Afterwards he brought me, &c.—The Shechinah, or divine glory which had departed from the temple is represented by the prophet as returning to it. Here God promises again to fix his habitation on condition that the people repent, forsake their idolatrous practices, and return to him. The dimensions of the altar, and the various sacrifices to be made upon it, are then enumerated.

CHAP. XLIV. Ver. 1. Then he brought me back, &c.—The return of the Shechinah or divine glory to the Temple is here described, and a severe reproof given to the Jews generally, for having allowed idolatrous priests to pollute it with heathen abominations. The true priests are then introduced; it is declared who shall minister in God's sanctuary, various ceremonial observances of the temple are stated, and the maintenance which his ministers are to receive on account of their ministrations.

2 Then said the LORD unto me; This gate shall be shut, it shall not be opened, and no man shall enter in by it; [b] because the LORD, the God of Israel, hath entered in by it, therefore it shall be shut.

3 It is for the prince; the prince, he shall sit in it to [c] eat bread before the LORD; [d] he shall enter by the way of the porch of that gate, and shall go out by the way of the same.

4 ¶ Then brought he me the way of the north gate before the house: and I looked, and, [e] behold, the glory of the LORD filled the house of the LORD: [f] and I fell upon my face.

5 And the LORD said unto me, [g] Son of man, [*] mark well, and behold with thine eyes, and hear with thine ears all that I say unto thee concerning all the ordinances of the house of the LORD, and all the laws thereof; and mark well the entering in of the house, with every going forth of the sanctuary.

6 And thou shalt say to the [h] rebellious, even to the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord GOD; O ye house of Israel, [i] let it suffice you of all your abominations,

7 [k] In that ye have brought into my sanctuary † [l] strangers, [m] uncircumcised in heart, and uncircumcised in flesh, to be in my sanctuary, to pollute it, even my house, when ye offer [n] my bread, [o] the fat and the blood, and they have broken my covenant because of all your abominations.

8 And ye have not [p] kept the charge of mine holy things: but ye have set keepers of my ‡ charge in my sanctuary for yourselves.

9 ¶ Thus saith the Lord GOD; [q] No stranger, uncircumcised in heart, nor uncircumcised in flesh, shall enter into my sanctuary, of any stranger that is among the children of Israel.

10 [r] And the Levites that are gone away far from me, when Israel went astray, which went astray away from me after their idols; they shall even bear their iniquity.

11 Yet they shall be ministers in my sanctuary, [*] having charge at the gates of the house, and ministering to the house: [t] they shall slay the burnt offering and the sacrifice for the people, and [u] they shall stand before them to minister unto them.

12 Because they ministered unto them before their idols, and [x] § caused the house of Israel to fall into iniquity; therefore have I [y] lifted up mine hand against them, saith the Lord GOD, and they shall bear their iniquity.

13 [z] And they shall not come near unto me, to do the office of a priest unto me, nor to come near to any of my holy things, in the most holy place: but they shall [a] bear their shame, and their abominations which they have committed.

14 But I will make them [b] keepers of the charge of the house, for all the service thereof, and for all that shall be done therein.

15 ¶ [c] But the priests the Levites, [d] the sons of Zadok, that kept the charge of my sanctuary [e] when the children of Israel went astray from me, they shall come near to me to minister unto me, and they [f] shall stand before me to offer unto me [g] the fat and the blood, saith the Lord GOD:

16 They shall enter into my sanctuary, and they shall come near to [h] my table, to minister unto me, and they shall keep my charge.

B. C. 574.

17 ¶ And it shall come to pass, that when they enter in at the gates of the inner court, [i] they shall be clothed with linen garments; and no wool shall come upon them, whiles they minister in the gates of the inner court, and within.

18 [k] They shall have linen bonnets upon their heads, and shall have linen breeches upon their loins; they shall not gird themselves ‖ [*] with any thing that causeth sweat.

19 And when they go forth into the utter court, even into the utter court to the people, [l] they shall put off their garments wherein they ministered, and lay them in the holy chambers, and they shall put on other garments; and they shall [m] not sanctify the people with their garments.

20 [n] Neither shall they shave their heads, nor suffer their locks to grow long; they shall only poll their heads.

21 [o] Neither shall any priest drink wine, when they enter into the inner court.

22 Neither shall they take for their wives [a] P widow, nor her that is † put away: but they shall take maidens of the seed of the house of Israel, or a widow ‡ that had a priest before.

23 And [q] they shall teach my people the difference between the holy and profane, and cause them to discern between the unclean and the clean.

24 And [r] in controversy they shall stand in judgment; and they shall judge it according to my judgments: and they shall keep my laws and my statutes in all mine assemblies; [s] and they shall hallow my sabbaths.

25 And they shall come at no [t] dead person to defile themselves: but for father, or for mother, or for son, or for daughter, for brother, or for sister that hath no husband, they may defile themselves.

26 And [u] after he is cleansed, they shall reckon unto him seven days.

27 And in the day that he goeth into the sanctuary, [x] unto the inner court, to minister in the sanctuary, [y] he shall offer his sin offering, saith the Lord GOD.

28 And it shall be unto them for an inheritance: I [z] am their inheritance: and ye shall give them no possession in Israel: I am their possession.

3 And of this measure shalt thou measure the length of five and twenty thousand, and the breadth of ten thousand: [d] and in it shall be the sanctuary and the most holy place.

4 [e] The holy portion of the land shall be for the priests the ministers of the sanctuary, which shall come near to minister unto the LORD: and it shall be a place for their houses, and an holy place for the sanctuary.

5 [f] And the five and twenty thousand of length, and the ten thousand of breadth, shall also the Levites, the ministers of the house, have for themselves, for a possession for [g] twenty chambers.

6 ¶ [h] And ye shall appoint the possession of the city five thousand broad, and five and twenty thousand long, over against the oblation of the holy portion: it shall be for the whole house of Israel.

7 ¶ [i] And a portion shall be for the prince on the one side and on the other side of the oblation of the holy portion, and of the possession of the city, before the oblation of the holy portion, and before the possession of the city, from the west side westward, and from the east side eastward: and the length shall be over against one of the portions, from the west border unto the east border.

8 In the land shall be his possession in Israel: and [k] my princes shall no more oppress my people; and the rest of the land shall they give to the house of Israel according to their tribes.

9 ¶ Thus saith the Lord GOD; [l] Let it suffice you, O princes of Israel: [m] remove violence and spoil, and execute judgment and justice, take away your § exactions from my people, saith the Lord GOD.

10 Ye shall have just [n] balances, and a just ephah, and a just bath.

11 The ephah and the bath shall be of one measure, that the bath may contain the tenth part of an homer, and the ephah the tenth part of an homer: the measure thereof shall be after the homer.

12 And the [o] shekel shall be twenty gerahs: twenty shekels, five and twenty shekels, fifteen shekels, shall be your maneh.

13 This is the oblation that ye shall offer; the sixth part of an ephah of an homer of wheat, and ye shall give the sixth part of an ephah of an homer of barley:

14 Concerning the ordinance of oil, the bath of oil, ye shall offer the tenth part of a bath out of the cor, which is an homer of ten baths; for ten baths are an homer:

15 And one ‖ lamb out of the flock, out of two hundred, out of the fat pastures of Israel; for a meat offering, and for a burnt offering, and for * peace offerings, [p] to make reconciliation for them, saith the Lord GOD.

16 All the people of the land † shall give this oblation ‡ for the prince in Israel.

17 And it shall be the prince's part to give burnt offerings, and meat offerings, and drink offerings, in the feasts, and in the new moons, and in the sabbaths, in all solemnities of the house of Israel: he shall prepare the sin offering, and the meat offering, and the burnt offering, and the § peace offerings, to make reconciliation for the house of Israel.

18 Thus saith the Lord GOD; In the first month, in the first day of the month, thou shalt take a young bullock without blemish, and [q] cleanse the sanctuary:

19 [r] And the priest shall take of the blood of the sin offering, and put it upon the posts of the house, and upon the four corners of the settle of the altar, and upon the posts of the gate of the inner court.

20 And so thou shalt do the seventh day of the month [s] for every one that erreth, and for him that is simple: so shall ye reconcile the house.

21 [t] In the first month, in the fourteenth day of the month, ye shall have the passover, a feast of seven days; unleavened bread shall be eaten.

22 And upon that day shall the prince prepare for himself and for all the people of the land [u] a bullock for a sin offering.

23 And [x] seven days of the feast he shall prepare a burnt offering to the LORD, seven bullocks and seven rams without blemish daily the seven days; [y] and a kid of the goats daily for a sin offering.

24 [z] And he shall prepare a meat offering of an ephah for a bullock, and an ephah for a ram, and an hin of oil for an ephah.

25 In the seventh month, in the fifteenth day of the month, shall he do the like in the [a] feast of the seven days, according to the sin offering, according to the burnt offering, and according to the meat offering, and according to the oil.

THE BOOK OF DANIEL.—"Daniel, called Belteshazzar by the Chaldeans, was descended from the royal family of David, and carried captive to Babylon when very young, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, A. M. 3398, before Christ 606. He was chosen with his three companions, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, to reside in Nebuchadnezzar's court, and he received a suitable education, making great progress in all the sciences of the Chaldeans, but declining to pollute himself by eating provisions from the king's table.

"The first twelve chapters of Daniel are written partly in Hebrew and partly in Chaldee. He writes Hebrew where he delivers a simple narrative; but relates in Chaldee his conversations with the Magi, also Nebuchadnezzar's edict, published after Daniel had interpreted his dream of the golden image. This shows the extreme accuracy of this prophet, who relates the very words of those persons whom he introduces as speaking. The Greek which we have of Daniel is Theodotion's; that of the Seventy has been long lost.

"Porphyry pretended that the prophecies which we receive as Daniel's were falsely ascribed to him. That celebrated enemy of our religion observed so much clearness in these prophecies that he insisted in considering them as histories of past events. But, that Daniel lived at Babylon long before Antiochus Epiphanes, and there wrote the prophecies which go under his name, cannot reasonably be contested."—Calmet.

10 And the prince of the eunuchs said unto Daniel, I fear my lord the king, who hath appointed your meat and your drink: for why should he see your faces ‡ worse liking than the children which are of your § sort? then shall ye make me endanger my head to the king.

11 Then said Daniel to ‖ Melzar, whom the prince of the eunuchs had set over Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, 12 Prove thy servants, I beseech thee, ten days; and let them give us * pulse † to eat, and water to drink.

13 Then let our countenances be looked upon before thee, and the countenance of the children that eat of the portion of the king's meat: and as thou seest, deal with thy servants.

14 So he consented to them in this matter, and proved them ten days.

15 And at the end of ten days their countenances appeared fairer and fatter in flesh than all the children which did eat the portion of the king's meat.

16 Thus Melzar took away the portion of their meat, and the wine that they should drink; and gave them pulse.

17 ¶ As for these four children, [m] God gave them [n] knowledge and skill in all learning and wisdom: and ‡ Daniel had [o] understanding in all visions and dreams.

18 Now at the end of the days that the king had said he should bring them in, then the prince of the eunuchs brought them in before Nebuchadnezzar.

19 And the king communed with them; and among them all was found none like Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah: therefore [p] stood they before the king.

20 [q] And in all matters of § wisdom and understanding, that the king enquired of them, he found them ten times better than all the magicians and astrologers that were in all his realm.

21 [r] And Daniel continued even unto the first year of king Cyrus.

AND in the second year of the reign of Nebuchadnezzar Nebuchadnezzar dreamed dreams, [a] wherewith his spirit was troubled, and [b] his sleep brake from him.

2 [c] Then the king commanded to call the magicians, and the astrologers, and the sorcerers, and the Chaldeans, for to show the king his dreams. So they came and stood before the king.

3 And the king said unto them, I have dreamed a dream, and my spirit was troubled to know the dream. B. C. 603

4 Then spake the Chaldeans to the king in Syriack, [d] O king, live for ever: tell thy servants the dream, and we will shew the interpretation.

5 The king answered and said to the Chaldeans, The thing is gone from me: if ye will not make known unto me the dream, with the interpretation thereof, ye shall be * * cut in pieces, and your houses shall be made a dunghill.

6 [f] But if ye shew the dream, and the interpretation thereof, ye shall receive of me gifts and † rewards and great honour: therefore shew me the dream, and the interpretation thereof.

7 They answered again and said, Let the king tell his servants the dream, and we will shew the interpretation of it.

8 The king answered and said, I know of certainty that ye would ‡ gain the time, because ye see the thing is gone from me.

9 But if ye will not make known unto me the dream, [g] there is but one decree for you: for ye have prepared lying and corrupt words to speak before me, till the time be changed: therefore tell me the dream, and I shall know that ye can shew me the interpretation thereof.

10 ¶ The Chaldeans answered before the king, and said, There is not a man upon the earth that can shew the king's matter: therefore there is no king, lord, nor ruler, that asked such things at any magician, or astrologer, or Chaldean.

11 And it is a rare thing that the king requireth, and there is none other that can shew it before the king, [h] except the gods, whose dwelling is not with flesh.

12 For this cause the king was angry and very furious, and commanded to destroy all the wise men of Babylon.

13 And the decree went forth that the wise men should be slain; and they sought Daniel and his fellows to be slain.

14 ¶ Then Daniel § answered with counsel and wisdom to Arioch the ‖ * captain of the king's guard, which was gone forth to slay the wise men of Babylon:

15 He answered and said to Arioch the king's captain, Why is the decree so hasty from the king? Then Arioch made the thing known to Daniel.

16 Then Daniel went in, and desired of the king that he would give him time, and that he would shew the king the interpretation.

17 Then Daniel went to his house, and made the thing known to Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, his companions:

18 [i] That they would desire mercies † of the God of heaven concerning this secret; ‡ that Daniel and his fellows should not perish with the rest of the wise men of Babylon.

19 ¶ Then was the secret revealed unto Daniel [k] in a night vision. Then Daniel blessed the God of heaven.

20 Daniel answered and said, [l] Blessed be the name of God for ever and ever: [m] for wisdom and might are his:

seasons: [o] he removeth kings, and setteth up kings: [p] he giveth wisdom unto the wise, and knowledge to them that know understanding:

22 [q] He revealeth the deep and secret things: [r] he knoweth what is in the darkness, and [s] the light dwelleth with him.

23 I thank thee, and praise thee, O thou God of my fathers, who hast given me wisdom and might, and hast made known unto me now what we [t] desired of thee: for thou hast now made known unto us the king's matter.

24 ¶ Therefore Daniel went in unto Arioch, whom the king had ordained to destroy the wise men of Babylon: he went and said thus unto him; Destroy not the wise men of Babylon: bring me in before the king, and I will shew unto the king the interpretation.

25 Then Arioch brought in Daniel before the king in haste, and said thus unto him, § I have found a man of the ‖ captives of Judah, that will make known unto the king the interpretation.

26 The king answered and said to Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar, Art thou able to make known unto me the dream which I have seen, and the interpretation thereof?

27 Daniel answered in the presence of the king, and said, The secret which the king hath demanded cannot the wise men, the astrologers, the magicians, the soothsayers, shew unto the king;

28 [u] But there is a God in heaven that revealeth secrets, and [x] maketh known to the king Nebuchadnezzar [y] what shall be in the latter days. Thy dream, and the visions of thy head upon thy bed, are these;

29 As for thee, O king, thy thoughts † came into thy mind upon thy bed, what should come to pass hereafter: [z] and he that revealeth secrets maketh known to thee what shall come to pass.

30 [z] But as for me, this secret is not revealed to me for any wisdom that I have more than any living, ‡ but for their sakes that shall make known the interpretation to the king, [a] and that thou mightest know the thoughts of thy heart.

31 ¶ Thou, O king, § sawest, and behold a great image. This great image, whose brightness was excellent, stood before thee; and the form thereof was terrible.

32 [b] This image's head was of fine gold, his breast and his arms of silver, his belly and his ‖ thighs of brass,

33 His legs of iron, his feet part of iron and part of clay.

34 Thou sawest till that a stone was cut out * [c] without hands, which smote the image upon his feet that were of iron and clay, and brake them to pieces.

35 Then was the iron, the clay, the brass, the silver, and the gold, broken to pieces together, and became [d] like the chaff of the summer threshingfloors; and the wind carried them away, that [e] no place was found for them: and the stone that smote the image [f] became a great mountain, [g] and filled the whole earth.

36 ¶ This is the dream; and we will tell the interpretation thereof before the king.

37 [h] Thou, O king, art a king of kings: [i] for the God of heaven hath given thee a kingdom, power, and strength, and glory.

38 [k] And wheresoever the children of men dwell, the beasts of the field and the fowls of the heaven hath he given into thine hand, and hath made thee ruler over them all. [l] Thou art this head of gold.

39 And after thee shall arise [m] another kingdom [n] inferior to thee, and another third kingdom of brass, [o] which shall bear rule over all the earth.

40 And [p] the fourth kingdom shall be strong as iron: forasmuch as iron breaketh in pieces and subdueth all things: and as iron that breaketh all these, shall it break in pieces and bruise.

41 And whereas thou sawest [q] the feet and toes, part of potters' clay, and part of iron, the kingdom shall be divided; but there shall be in it of the strength of the iron, forasmuch as thou sawest the iron mixed with miry clay.

42 And as the toes of the feet were part of iron, and part of clay, so the kingdom shall be partly strong, and partly † broken.

43 And whereas thou sawest iron mixed with miry clay, they shall mingle themselves with the seed of men: but they shall not cleave ‡ one to another, even as iron is not mixed with clay.

44 And in § the days of these kings [r] shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom, [s] which shall never be destroyed: and the ‖ kingdom shall not be left to other people, [t] but it shall break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms, and it shall stand for ever.

45 [u] Forasmuch as thou sawest that the stone was cut out of the mountain * without hands, and that it brake in pieces the iron, the brass, the clay, the silver, and the gold; the great God hath made known to the king what shall come to pass † hereafter: and the dream is certain, and the interpretation thereof sure.

46 [x] ¶ Then the king Nebuchadnezzar fell upon his face, and worshipped Daniel, and commanded that they should offer an oblation [y] and sweet odours unto him.

47 The king answered unto Daniel, and said, Of a truth it is, that your God is a God of gods, and a Lord of kings, [z] and a revealer of secrets, seeing thou couldst reveal this secret.

48 Then the king made Daniel a great man, [a] and gave him many great gifts, and made him ruler over the whole province of Babylon, and [b] chief of the governors over all the wise men of Babylon.

49 Then Daniel requested of the king, [c] and he set Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, over the affairs of the province of Babylon: but Daniel [d] sat in the gate of the king.

CHAP. IV. Ver. 1. Nebuchadnezzar the king, &c.—Daniel interprets another dream of the king's, which, as explained by the prophet, portended the loss of his kingdom and of his reason. This was subsequently fulfilled.

Nebuchadnezzar's restoration to reason, his repentance and acknowledgment of the supremacy of Jehovah, concludes the chapter.

read the writing unto the king, and make known to him the interpretation.

18 O thou king, [t] the most high God gave Nebuchadnezzar thy father a kingdom, and majesty, and glory, and honour:

19 And for the majesty that he gave him, [u] all people, nations, and languages, trembled and feared before him: whom he would he slew; and whom he would he kept alive; and whom he would he set up; and whom he would he put down.

20 [x] But when his heart was lifted up, and his mind hardened ‡ in pride, he was § deposed from his kingly throne, and they took his glory from him:

21 And he was [y] driven from the sons of men; and ‖ his heart was made like the beasts, and his dwelling was with the wild asses: they fed him with grass like oxen, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven; [z] till he knew that the most high God ruled in the kingdom of men, and that he appointeth over it whomsoever he will.

22 And thou his son, O Belshazzar, [a] hast not humbled thine heart, though thou knewest all this;

23 [b] But hast lifted up thyself against the Lord of heaven; and they have brought the vessels of his house before thee, and thou, and thy lords, thy wives, and thy concubines, have drunk wine in them; and thou hast praised the gods of silver, and gold, of brass, iron, wood, and stone, [c] which see not, nor hear, nor know: and the God in whose hand thy breath is, [d] and whose are all thy ways, hast thou not glorified:

2 And over these three presidents; of whom Daniel was first: that the princes might give accounts unto them, and the king should have no damage.

3 Then this Daniel was preferred above the presidents, and princes, [b] because an excellent spirit was in him; and the king thought to set him over the whole realm.

4 ¶ [c] Then the presidents and princes sought to find occasion against Daniel concerning the kingdom; but they could find none occasion nor fault; forasmuch as he was faithful, neither was there any error or fault found in him.

5 Then said these men, We shall not find any occasion against this Daniel, except we find it against him concerning the law of his God.

6 Then these presidents and princes * assembled together to the king, and said thus unto him, [d] King Darius, live for ever.

7 All the presidents of the kingdom, the governors, and the princes, the counsellors, and the captains, have consulted together to establish a royal statute, and to make a firm † decree, that whosoever shall ask a petition of any God or man for thirty days, save of thee, O king, he shall be cast into the den of lions.

8 Now, O king, establish the decree, and sign the writing, that it be not changed, according to the [e] law of the Medes and Persians, which ‡ altereth not.

10 ¶ Now when Daniel knew that the writing was signed, he went into his house; and his windows being open in his chamber [f] toward Jerusalem, he kneeled upon his knees [g] three times a day, and prayed, and gave thanks before his God, as he did aforetime.

14 Then the king, when he heard these words, [m] was sore displeased with himself, and set his heart on Daniel to deliver him: and he laboured till the going down of the sun to deliver him.

15 Then these men assembled unto the king, and said unto the king, Know, O king, that [n] the law of the Medes and Persians is, That no decree nor statute which the king establisheth may be changed.

16 Then the king commanded, and they brought Daniel, and cast him into the den of lions. Now the king spake and said unto Daniel, Thy God whom thou servest continually, he will deliver thee.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Daniel's vision of the ram and he goat. 13 The two thousand three hundred days of sacrifice. 15 Gabriel comforteth Daniel, and interpreteth the vision.

cir 553

IN the third year of the reign of king Belshazzar a vision appeared unto me, even unto me Daniel, after that which appeared unto me [a]at the first.

2 And I saw in a vision; and it came to pass, when I saw, that I was at [b]Shushan in the palace, which is in the province of Elam; and I saw in a vision, and I was by the river of Ulai.

3 Then I lifted up mine eyes, and saw, and, behold, there stood before the river a ram which had two horns: and the two horns were high; but one was higher than * the other, and the higher came up last.

4 I saw the ram pushing westward, and northward, and southward; so that no beasts might stand before him, neither was there any that could deliver out of his hand; [c]but he did according to his will, and became great.

5 And as I was considering, behold, an he goat came from the west on the face of the whole earth, and ‡touched not the ground: and the goat had ‡[d]a notable horn between his eyes.

6 And he came to the ram that had two horns, which I had seen standing before the river, and ran unto him in the fury of his power.

7 And I saw him come close unto the ram, and he was moved with choler against him, and smote the ram, and brake his two horns: and there was no power in the ram to stand before him, but he cast him down to the ground, and stamped upon him: and there was none that could deliver the ram out of his hand.

8 Therefore the he goat waxed very great: and when he was strong, the great horn was broken; and for it came up [e]four notable ones toward the four winds of heaven.

9 [f]And out of one of them came forth a little horn, which waxed exceeding great, [g]toward the south, and toward the east, and toward the [h]pleasant land.

10 [i]And it waxed great, even § to [k]the host of heaven; and [l]it cast down some of the host and of the stars to the ground, and stamped upon them.

11 Yea, [m]he magnified himself even ‖ to [n]the prince of the host, [o]and * by him [p]the daily sacrifice was taken away, and the place of his sanctuary was cast down.

12 And [q]† an host was given him against the daily sacrifice [r]by reason of transgression, and it cast down [s]the truth to the ground; and it [t]practised, and prospered.

13 ¶ Then I heard [u]one saint speaking, and another saint said unto ‡ § that certain saint which spake, How long shall be the vision concerning the daily sacrifice, and the transgression ‖ of desolation, to give both the sanctuary and the host to be trodden under foot?

14 And he said unto me, Unto two thousand and three hundred [x]days; [y]then shall the sanctuary be †cleansed.

15 ¶ And it came to pass, when I, even I Daniel, had seen the vision, and [z]sought for the meaning, then, behold, there stood before me [a]as the appearance of a man.

16 And I heard a man's voice [a]between the banks of Ulai, which called, and said, [b]Gabriel, make this man to understand the vision.

17 So he came near where I stood: and when he came, I was afraid, and [c]fell upon my face: but he said unto me, Understand, O son of man: for at the time of the end shall be the vision.

18 [d]Now as he was speaking with me, I was in a deep sleep on my face toward the ground: * but he touched me, and ‡set me upright.

19 And he said, Behold, I will make thee know what shall be in the last end of the indignation: [f]for at the time appointed the end shall be.

20 [g]The ram which thou sawest having two horns are the kings of Media and Persia.

21 [h]And the rough goat is the king of Grecia: and the great horn that is between his eyes [i]is the first king.

22 [k]Now that being broken, whereas four stood up for it, four kingdoms shall stand up out of the nation, but not in his power.

Chap. viii. Ver. 1. In the third year, &c.—The vision in this chapter is interpreted by the angel as foretelling the succession of the Persian and Grecian monarchies. The little horn mentioned in the ninth verse is supposed by some interpreters to denote Antiochus Epiphanes, who is likewise the "king of fierce countenance" named in the twenty-third, who grievously persecuted the Jews, profaned their temple, and removed the daily sacrifices. The persecutions of the Jews by this tyrannical monarch may be considered as types of the desolation which Anti-christ should cause in the Christian Church.

23 And in the latter time of their kingdom, [l] when the transgressors § are come to the full, a king [m] of fierce countenance, and understanding dark sentences, [n] shall stand up.

24 And his power shall be mighty, [o] but not by his own power: and he shall destroy wonderfully, [p] and shall prosper, and practise, [q] and shall destroy the mighty and the ‖ holy people.

25 And [r] through his policy also he shall cause craft to prosper in his hand; [s] and he shall magnify himself in his heart, [t] and by [o] peace shall destroy many: [u] he shall also stand up against the Prince of princes; but he shall be [x] broken without hand.

26 [y] And the vision of the evening and the morning which was told is true: [z] wherefore shut thou up the vision; for it shall be for many days.

27 [a] And I Daniel fainted, and was sick certain days; afterward I rose up, [b] and did the king's business; and I was astonished at the vision, [c] but none understood it.

CHAP. IX.

1 Daniel, considering the time of the captivity, 3 maketh confession of sins, 16 and prayeth for the restoration of Jerusalem. 20 Gabriel informeth him of the seventy weeks.

IN the first year [a] of Darius the son of Ahasuerus, of the seed of the Medes, [*] which was made king over the realm of the Chaldeans;

2 In the first year of his reign I Daniel understood by books the number of the years, whereof the word of the LORD came to [b] Jeremiah the prophet, that he would accomplish seventy years in the desolations of Jerusalem.

3 ¶ [c] And I set my face unto the Lord GOD, to seek by prayer and supplications, with fasting, and sackcloth, and ashes:

4 And I prayed unto the LORD my God, and made my confession, and said, O [d] Lord, the great and dreadful God, keeping the covenant and mercy to them that love him, and to them that keep his commandments;

5 [e] We have sinned, and have committed iniquity, and have done wickedly, and have rebelled, even by departing from thy precepts and from thy judgments:

6 [f] Neither have we hearkened unto thy servants the prophets, which spake in thy name to our kings, our princes, and our fathers, and to all the people of the land.

7 O Lord, [g] righteousness †belongeth unto thee, but unto us confusion of faces, as at this day; to the men of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and unto all Israel, that are near, and that are far off, through all the countries whither thou hast driven them, because of their trespass that they have trespassed against thee.

8 O Lord, to us belongeth [h] confusion of face, to our kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, because we have sinned against thee.

9 [i] To the Lord our God belong mercies and forgivenesses, though we have rebelled against him;

10 [k] Neither have we obeyed the voice of the LORD our God, to walk in his laws, which he set before us by his servants the prophets.

11 Yea, [l] all Israel have transgressed thy law, even by departing, that they might not obey thy voice; therefore the curse is poured upon us, and the oath that is written in the [m] law of Moses the servant of God, because we have sinned against him.

12 And he hath [n] confirmed his words, which he spake against us, and against our judges that judged us, by bringing upon us a great evil: [o] for under the whole heaven hath not been done as hath been done upon Jerusalem.

13 [p] As it is written in the law of Moses, all this evil is come upon us: [q] yet ‡ made we not our prayer before the LORD our God, that we might turn from our iniquities, and understand thy truth.

14 Therefore hath the LORD [r] watched upon the evil, and brought it upon us: for [s] the LORD our God is righteous in all his works which he doeth: [t] for we obeyed not his voice.

15 And now, O Lord our God, [u] that hast brought thy people forth out of the land of Egypt with a mighty hand, and hast § gotten thee [x] renown, as at this day; [y] we have sinned, we have done wickedly.

16 ¶ O Lord, [z] according to all thy righteousness, I beseech thee, let thine anger and thy fury be turned away from thy city Jerusalem, [a] thy holy mountain: because for our sins, [b] and for the iniquities of our fathers, [c] Jerusalem and thy people [d] are become a reproach to all that are about us.

17 Now therefore, O our God, hear the prayer of thy servant, and his supplications, [e] and cause thy face to shine upon thy sanctuary [f] that is desolate, [g] for the Lord's sake.

18 [h] O my God, incline thine ear, and hear; open thine eyes, [i] and behold our desolations, and the city [k] ‖ which is called by thy name: for we do not [*] present our supplications before thee for our righteousnesses, but for thy great mercies.

19 O Lord, hear; O Lord, forgive; O Lord, hearken and do; defer not, [l] for thine own sake, O my God: for thy city and thy people are called by thy name.

20 ¶ [m] And whiles I was speaking, and praying, and confessing my sin and the sin of my people Israel, and presenting my supplication before the LORD my God for the holy mountain of my God;

21 Yea, whiles I was speaking in prayer, even the man [n] Gabriel, whom I had seen in the vision at the beginning, being caused to fly †swiftly, [o] touched me [p] about the time of the evening oblation.

22 And he informed me, and talked with me, and said, O Daniel, I am now come forth ‡ to give thee skill and understanding.

23 At the beginning of thy supplications the § commandment came forth, and I am come to shew thee; [r] for thou art

CHAP. IX. Ver. 1. In the first year, &c.—The prophet proceeds to show in this chapter that, having considered the prophecies of Jeremiah concerning the seventy years' captivity, he was satisfied that they were on the eve of their termination; he consequently offers up his prayer for the people, and for the restoration of the holy city. The angel Gabriel appears to him, and assures him that seventy weeks (each day of which represented a natural year, consequently that four hundred and ninety years) should elapse to see the date of the edict to rebuild Jerusalem and the temple to the enactment of the Messiah. This prophecy was most literally fulfilled in the event, according to the computations of the best chronologers.

‖ greatly beloved: therefore [t]understand the matter, and consider the vision.

24 [s]Seventy weeks are determined upon thy people and upon thy holy city, † to finish the transgression, and ‡ to make an end of sins, [t]and to make reconciliation for iniquity, [u]and to bring in everlasting righteousness, and to seal up the vision and § prophecy, [x]and to anoint the most Holy.

25 [y]Know therefore and understand, that [z]from the going forth of the commandment ‖ to restore and to build Jerusalem unto [a]the Messiah [b]the Prince shall be seven weeks, and threescore and two weeks: the street [*]shall be built again, and the † wall, [c]even ‡ in troublous times.

26 And after threescore and two weeks [d]shall Messiah be cut off, [e]§ but not for himself: ‖ and [f]the people of the prince that shall come [g]shall destroy the city [h]and the sanctuary; [i]and the end thereof shall be [k]with a flood, and unto the end of the war [*]desolations are determined.

27 And he shall confirm † [l]the covenant with [m]many for one week: and in the midst of the week he shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease, ‡ and for the overspreading of [n]abominations he shall make it desolate, [o]even until the consummation, and that determined shall be poured § upon the desolate.

8 Therefore I was left alone, and saw this great vision, [r]and there remained no strength in me: for my ‖ [*]comeliness was turned in me into corruption, and I retained no strength.

15 And when he had spoken such words unto me, [e]I set my face toward the ground, and I became dumb.

16 And, behold, [f]one like the similitude of the sons of men [g]touched my lips: then I opened my mouth, and spake, and said unto him that stood before me, O my lord, by the vision [h]my sorrows [i]are turned upon me, and I have retained no strength.

17 For how can ‖ the servant of this my lord talk with this my lord? for as for me, straightway there remained no strength in me, neither is there breath left in me.

18 Then there came again and touched me one like the appearance of a man, and he strengthened me.

19 [l]And said, O man greatly beloved, [k]fear not: peace be unto thee, be strong, yea, be strong. And when he had spoken unto me, I was strengthened, and said, Let my lord speak; for thou hast strengthened me.

20 Then said he, Knowest thou wherefore I come unto thee? and now will I return to fight [l]with the prince of Persia: and when I am gone forth, lo, the prince of Grecia shall come.

21 But I will shew thee that which is noted in the scripture of truth: and there is none that [*]holdeth with me in these things, [m]but Michael your prince.

CHAP. X. Ver. 1. In the third year, &c.—"The three following chapters contain the last vision of Daniel's prophecy, wherein the several successions, both of the Persian and Grecian monarchies, are represented, together with the wars that should be raised between the kings of Syria and Egypt under the latter monarchy, as far as the times of Antiochus Epiphanes; who, being the type and forerunner of Anti-christ (as has been observed upon chap. viii.), the latter part of the vision, from chap. xi. 36, seems chiefly to relate to the persecutions of the church in the times of Anti christ, till its being finally cleansed from all those profanations, as the Temple of Jerusalem was purified from the pollutions of Antiochus; after which will follow that kingdom of the saints mentioned chap. vii. 18, 27, &c. this prophecy."—*H. B. C. cir. 534.

2 And now will I shew thee the truth. Behold, there shall stand up yet three kings in Persia; and the fourth shall be far richer than they all: and by his strength through his riches he shall stir up all against the realm of Grecia.

3 And [c] a mighty king shall stand up, that shall rule with great dominion, and [d] do according to his will.

4 And when he shall stand up, [e] his kingdom shall be broken, and shall be divided toward the four winds of heaven; and not to his posterity, [f] nor according to his dominion which he ruled: for his kingdom shall be plucked up, even for others beside those.

5 ¶ And the king of the south shall be strong, and one of his princes; and he shall be strong above him, and have dominion; his dominion shall be a great dominion.

6 And in the end of years they * shall join themselves together; for the king's daughter of the south shall come to the king of the north to make † an agreement: but she shall not retain the power of the arm; neither shall he stand, nor his arm: but she shall be given up, and they that brought her, and ‡ he that begat her, and he that strengthened her in these times.

7 But out of a branch of her roots shall one stand up § in his estate, which shall come with an army, and shall enter into the fortress of the king of the north, and shall deal against them, and shall prevail:

8 And shall also carry captives into Egypt their gods, with their princes, and with ‖ their precious vessels of silver and of gold; and he shall continue more years than the king of the north.

9 So the king of the south shall come into his kingdom, and shall return into his own land.

10 But his sons * shall be stirred up, and shall assemble a multitude of great forces: and one shall certainly come, [g] and overflow, and pass through: † then shall he return, and be stirred up, [h] even to his fortress.

11 And the king of the south shall be moved with choler, and shall come forth and fight with him, even with the king of the north: and he shall set forth a great multitude; but the multitude shall be given into his hand.

12 And when he hath taken away the multitude, his heart shall be lifted up; and he shall cast down many ten thousands: but he shall not be strengthened by it.

13 For the king of the north shall return, and shall set forth a multitude greater than the former, and shall certainly come ‡ after certain years with a great army and with much riches.

14 And in those times there shall many stand up against the king of the south: also § the robbers of thy people shall exalt themselves to establish the vision; but they shall fall.

15 So the king of the north shall come, and cast up a mount, and take ‖ the most fenced cities: and the arms of the south shall not withstand, neither * his chosen people, neither shall there be any strength to withstand.

16 But he that cometh against him [i] shall do according to his own will, and [k] none shall stand before him: and he shall stand in the † ‡ glorious land, which by his hand shall be consumed.

17 He shall also [l] set his face to enter with the strength of his whole kingdom, and § upright ones with him; thus shall he do: and he shall give him the daughter of women, ‖ corrupting her: but she shall not stand on his side, [m] neither be for him.

18 After this shall he turn his face unto the isles, and shall take many: but a prince * for his own behalf shall cause † the reproach offered by him to cease; without his own reproach he shall cause it to turn upon him.

19 Then he shall turn his face toward the fort of his own land: but he shall stumble and fall, [n] and not be found.

20 Then shall stand up ‡ in his estate § a raiser of taxes in the glory of the kingdom: but within few days he shall be destroyed, neither in ‖ anger, nor in battle.

21 And * in his estate [o] shall stand up a vile person, to whom they shall not give the honour of the kingdom: but he shall come in peacably, and obtain the kingdom by flatteries.

22 [p] And with the arms of a flood shall they be overflown from before him, and shall be broken; [q] yea, also the prince of the covenant.

23 And after the league made with him [r] he shall work deceitfully: for he shall come up, and shall become strong with a small people.

24 He shall enter † peaceably even upon the fattest places of the province; and he shall do that which his fathers have not done, nor his fathers' fathers; [s] he shall scatter among them the prey, and spoil, and riches: yea, and he shall ‡ forecast his devices against the strong holds, even for a time.

25 And he shall stir up his power and his courage against the king of the south with a great army; and the king of the south shall be stirred up to battle with a very great and mighty army; but he shall not stand: for they shall forecast devices against him.

26 Yea, they that feed of the portion of his meat shall destroy him, and his army shall [t] overflow: and many shall fall down slain.

27 And both these kings' § hearts shall be to do mischief, and they shall speak lies at one table; but it shall not prosper: for [u] yet the end shall be at the time appointed.

28 Then shall he return into his land [x] with great riches; and [y] his heart shall be against the holy covenant; and he shall do exploits, and return to his own land.

29 At the time appointed he shall return, and come toward the south; [z] but it shall not be as the former, [a] or as the latter.

30 ¶ [b] For the ships of Chittim shall come against him: therefore he shall be grieved, and return, and have indignation [c] against the holy covenant: so shall he do; he shall even return, [d] and have intelligence with them that forsake the holy covenant.

31 And arms shall stand on his part, [e] and they shall pollute the sanctuary of strength,

32 [s] And such as do wickedly against the covenant shall he * corrupt by flatteries: [h] but the people that do know their God shall be strong, and do exploits.

33 [i] And they that understand among the people shall instruct many: [k] yet they shall fall by the sword, and by flame, by captivity, and by spoil, many days.

34 Now when they shall fall, [l] they shall be holpen with a little help: [m] but many shall cleave to them with flatteries.

35 And some of them of understanding shall fall, [n] to try † them, and to purge, and to make them white, [o] even to the time of the end: [p] because it is yet for a time appointed.

36 And the king [q] shall do according to his will; and he shall [r] exalt himself, and magnify himself above every god, and shall speak marvellous things [s] against the God of gods, and shall prosper [t] till the indignation be accomplished: for that that is determined shall be done.

37 Neither shall he regard the God of his fathers, [u] nor the desire of women, [x] nor regard any god: for he shall magnify himself above all.

38 ‡ But § in his estate shall he honour the God of ‖ * forces: and a god whom his fathers knew not shall he honour with gold, and silver, and with precious stones, and † pleasant things.

41 He shall enter also into the ‖ * glorious land, and many countries shall be overthrown: but these shall escape out of his hand, [c] even Edom, and Moab, and the chief of the children of Ammon.

42 He shall † stretch forth his hand also upon the countries: and the land of Egypt shall not escape.

43 But he shall have power over the treasures of gold and of silver, and over all the precious things of Egypt: and the Libyans and the Ethiopians shall be [d] at his steps.

44 But tidings out of the east and out of the north shall trouble him: therefore he shall go forth with great fury to destroy, and utterly to make away many.

45 And he shall plant the tabernacles of his palaces between the seas in [e] the ‡ § glorious holy mountain; [f] yet he shall come to his end, and none shall help him.

CHAP. XII.

1 Michael shall deliver Israel from their troubles. 5 Daniel is informed of the times.

AND at that time shall [a] Michael stand up, the great prince which standeth for the children of thy people: [b] and there shall be a time of trouble, such as never was since there was a nation even to that same time: and at that time thy people [c] shall be delivered, every one that shall be found [d] written in the book.

2 And many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, * some to everlasting life, and some to shame [f] and everlasting contempt.

3 And [g] they that be * wise shall [h] shine as the brightness of the firmament; [i] and they that turn many to righteousness [k] as the stars for ever and ever.

4 [l] But thou, O Daniel, [m] shut up the words, and seal the book, even to [n] the time of the end: many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased.

5 ¶ Then I Daniel looked, and, behold, there stood other two, the one on this side of the † bank of the river, and the other on that side of the bank [o] of the river.

6 And one said to [p] the man clothed in linen, which was ‡ upon the waters of the river, [q] How long shall it be to the end of these wonders?

7 And I heard the man clothed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, when he [r] held up his right hand and his left hand unto heaven, and sware by him * that liveth for ever [t] that it shall be for a time, times, and § an half; [u] and when he shall have accomplished to scatter the power of [x] the holy people, all these things shall be finished.

8 And I heard, but I understood not: then said I, O my Lord, what shall be the end of these things?

9 And he said, Go thy way, Daniel: for the words are closed up and sealed [y] till the time of the end.

10 [z] Many shall be purified, and made white, and tried; [a] but the wicked shall do wickedly: and none of the wicked shall understand; but [b] the wise shall understand.

11 And from the time [c] that the daily sacrifice shall be taken away, and ‖ the abomination that * maketh desolate set up, there shall be a thousand two hundred and ninety days.

12 Blessed is he that waiteth, and cometh to the thousand three hundred and five and thirty days.

B. C. cir. 785

CHAP. I.

Hosea, to shew God's judgment for spiritual whoredom, taketh Gomer, 4 and hath by her Jezreel, 6 Lo-ruhamah, 8 and Lo-ammi. 10 The restoration of Judah and Israel.

THE word of the LORD that came unto Hosea, the son of Beeri, in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam the son of Joash, king of Israel.

2 The beginning of the word of the LORD by Hosea. And the LORD said to Hosea, [a] Go, take unto thee a wife of whoredoms and children of whoredoms: for [b] the land hath committed great whoredom, departing from the LORD.

3 So he went and took Gomer the daughter of Diblaim; which conceived, and bare him a son.

4 And the LORD said unto him, Call his name Jezreel; for yet a little while, [c] and I will [*] avenge the blood of Jezreel upon the house of Jehu, [d] and will cause to cease the kingdom of the house of Israel.

5 [e] And it shall come to pass at that day, that I will break the bow of Israel in the valley of Jezreel.

6 ¶ And she conceived again, and bare a daughter. And God said unto him, Call her name † Lo-ruhamah: [f] for ‡ I will no more have mercy upon the house of Israel; § but I will utterly take them away.

7 [g] But I will have mercy upon the house of Judah, and will save them by the LORD their God, and [h] will not save them by bow, nor by sword, nor by battle, by horses, nor by horsemen.

8 ¶ Now when she had weaned Lo-ruhamah, she conceived, and bare a son.

9 Then said God, Call his name ‖ Lo-ammi: for ye are not my people, and I will not be your God.

10 ¶ Yet [i] the number of the children of Israel shall be as the sand of the sea, which cannot be measured nor numbered; [k] and it shall come to pass, that [*] in the place where it was said unto them, [l] Ye are not my people, there it shall be said unto them, Ye are [m] the sons of the living God.

11 [n] Then shall the children of Judah and the children of Israel be gathered together, and appoint themselves one head, and they shall come up out of the land: for great shall be the day of Jezreel.

CHAP. II.

The idolatry of the people. 6 God's judgment against them. 14 His promises of reconciliation with them.

SAY ye unto your brethren, [*] Ammi; and to your sisters, † Ruhamah.

2 Plead with your mother, plead: for [a] she is not my wife, neither am I her husband: let her therefore put away her [b] whoredoms out of her sight, and her adulteries from between her breasts;

3 Lest [*] I strip her naked, and set her as in the day that she was [d] born, and make her [e] as a wilderness, and set her like a dry land, and slay her with [f] thirst.

4 And I will not have mercy upon her children; for they be the [g] children of whoredoms.

5 [h] For their mother hath played the harlot: she that conceived them hath done shamefully: for she said, I will go after my lovers, [i] that give me my bread and my water, my wool and my flax, mine oil and my ‡ drink.

6 ¶ Therefore, behold, [k] I will hedge up thy way with thorns, and § make a wall, that she shall not find her paths.

7 And she shall follow after her lovers, but she shall not overtake them; and she shall seek them, but shall not find them: then shall she say, [l] I will go and return to my [m] first husband; for then was it better with me than now.

8 For she did not [n] know that [o] I gave her corn, and ‖ wine, and oil, and multiplied her silver and gold, [*] which they prepared for Baal.

9 Therefore will I return, and [p] take away my corn in the time thereof, and my wine in GENERAL PREFACE TO THE MINOR PROPHETS.—"The twelve minor prophets were always comprised in one book, called the "Book of the Prophets" by St. Stephen, Acts vii. 42., and the "Book of the Twelve Prophets," by St. Cyprian, Epist. lix. The son of Syrach speaks of them under one and the same character, Ecclus. xlix. 12. "Let the bones of the twelve prophets flourish out of their place." And both Jewish and Christian writers, particularly Josephus, lib. 1. contra. Appion, and St. Jerome, Prolog. Galeat, when they mention the the canonical books of the Old Testament to be in number twenty-two (a number equal to the letters of the Jewish alphabet), comprehended the twelve minor prophets under one book.

"These twelve prophets are not placed exactly in the order of time when they lived either in the Hebrew or Greek copies; for Jonah, who was the eldest of them, is placed the sixth in order, both in the Hebrew and Greek bibles; there being in other respects some little difference between them; the series of them standing thus in the Greek, Hosea, Amos, Micah, Joel, Obadiah, Jonas; but no variation as to the rest.

"Hosea, who is placed the first in order, is as ancient as any of them, except Jonah; having prophesied before the captivity of the Ten Tribes, to whom he chiefly directs his prophecy, and threatens them with a sudden destruction for their great and crying sins, which he, in all probability, lived to see brought upon them."—W. Lowth.

HOSEA.—"Hosea's principal subject is that which is the principal subject, indeed, of all the prophets; the guilt of the Jewish nation in general, their disobedient, refractory spirit, the heavy judgments that awaited them, their final conversion to God, their re-establishment in the land of Promise, and their restoration to God's favour, under the immediate protection of the Messiah, in the latter ages of the world. He confines himself more closely to this single subject than any other prophet. Comparatively he seems to care little about other people. He wanders not, like Isaiah, Jeremiah, and Ezekiel, into the collateral history of surrounding heathen nations. He meddles not, like Daniel, with the revolutions of the great empires of the world. His own country seems to engross his whole attention; her privileges, her crimes, her punishment, her pardon. He predicts, indeed, in the strongest and clearest terms, the engrafting of the Gentiles into the Church of God; but he mentions it only generally; he enters not, like Isaiah, into a minute detail of the progress of the business. He alludes to the calling of our Lord from EGYPT, and to the resurrection on the third day; and he celebrates, in the loftiest terms of triumph and exultation, the Saviour's final victory over death and hell. But yet, of all the prophets, he certainly enters the least into the detail of the mysteries of Redemption. We have nothing in him descriptive of the events of the interval between the two advents of our Lord; nothing diffuse and circumstantial, upon the great and interesting mysteries of the incarnation and the atonement. His country and his kindred is the subject next his heart. Their crimes excite his indignation; their sufferings interest his pity; their future exaltation is the object on which his imagination fixes with delight. It is a remarkable dispensation of Providence, that clear notices, though in general terms, of the universal redemption, should be found in a writer so strongly possessed with national partialities. This Judaism, if I may so call it, seems to make the particular character of Hosea as a prophet; not that the ten tribes are exclusively his subject. His country is indeed his peculiar and constant subject; but his country generally, in both its branches, not in either taken by itself."—Bp. Horsley.

CHAP. I. Ver. 1. The word of the Lord, &c.—Under the image of an adultress bearing illegitimate children, who would be likely to follow the bad example of their mother, is figured the idolatries of the ten tribes, which had been the cause of their being abandoned by God. The names of these children have a signification, referring to the state of the Jews. The name of the first refers to their obduracy of heart, and the cruelties committed at Jezreel by the house of Jehu. The names of the other two denote that the Jews were to be cast off by God on account of their guilt. The divine promise, however, is given that the curse of alienation shall be finally revoked by the vocation of the Gentiles into the church, and by the union of Israel and Judah, in the latter days, under one head—the Messiah.

CHAP. II. Ver. 1. Say ye unto your brethren, &c.—The prophet reproves the ten tribes for their ingratitude to God in giving glory to idols for the benefits they had received, instead of to him, their benign and all merciful Giver. He enumerates a series of calamities which were to befal them as a punishment for their falsely ascribing those benefits to idols, promising, however, that after these chastenings God would restore the ten tribes to their native country, dealing with them rather as a tender husband, which the word Ishi imports, than as a tyrannical master, as were the dumb divinities which the heathen served. In the remainder of the chapter to the true Israel of God is promised security from evil, together with the possession of higher blessings under a new covenant and a more glorious dispensation.

the season thereof, and will † recover my wool and my flax given to cover her nakedness.

10 And now [q] will I discover her ‡ lewdness in the sight of her lovers, and none shall deliver her out of mine hand.

11 [r] I will also cause all her mirth to cease, her [s] feast days, her new moons, and her sabbaths, and all her solemn feasts.

12 And I will § destroy her vines and her fig trees, [t] whereof she hath said, These are my rewards that my lovers have given me: and [u] I will make them a forest, and the beasts of the field shall eat them.

13 And I will visit upon her the days of Baalim, wherein she burned incense to them, and she [x] decked herself with her earrings and her jewels, and she went after her lovers, and forgat me, saith the LORD.

14 ¶ Therefore, behold, I will allure her, and [y] bring her into the wilderness, and speak ‖ [z] comfortably unto her.

15 And I will give her her vineyards from thence, and [a] the valley of Achor for a door of hope: and she shall sing there, as in [a] the days of her youth, and [b] as in the day when she came up out of the land of Egypt.

16 And it shall be at that day, saith the LORD, that thou shalt call me † Ishi; and shalt call me no more ‡ Baali.

17 For [c] I will take away the names of Baalim out of her mouth, and they shall no more be remembered by their name.

18 And in that day will I make a [d] covenant for them with the beasts of the field, and with the fowls of heaven, and with the creeping things of the ground: and [e] I will break the bow and the sword and the battle out of the earth, and will make them to [f] lie down safely.

19 And I will betroth thee unto me for ever; yea, I will betroth thee unto me in righteousness, and in judgment, and in lovingkindness, and in mercies.

20 I will even betroth thee unto me in faithfulness: and [g] thou shalt know the LORD.

21 And it shall come to pass in that day, [h] I will hear, saith the LORD, I will hear the heavens, and they shall hear the earth;

22 And the earth shall hear the corn, and the wine, and the oil; [i] and they shall hear Jezreel.

23 And [k] I will sow her unto me in the earth; [l] and I will have mercy upon her that had not obtained mercy; and I [m] will say to them which were not my people, Thou art my people; and they shall say, Thou art my God.

CHAP. III.

1 By the expiation of an adulteress, 4 is shewed the desolation of Israel before their restoration.

THEN said the LORD unto me, [a] Go yet, love a woman beloved of her [b] friend, yet an adulteress, according to the love of the LORD toward the children of Israel, who look to other gods, and love flagons * of wine.

2 So I bought her to me for fifteen pieces of silver, and for an homer of barley, and an † half homer of barley:

3 And I said unto her, Thou shalt [c] abide for me many days; thou shalt not play the harlot, and thou shalt not be for another man: so will I also be for thee.

4 For the children of Israel shall abide many days [d] without a king, and without a prince, and without a sacrifice, and without ‡ an image, and without an [e] ephod, and without [f] teraphim:

5 Afterward shall the children of Israel return, and [g] seek the LORD their God, and [h] David their king; and shall fear the LORD and his goodness in the [i] latter days.

CHAP. IV.

1 God's judgments against the sins of the people, 6 and of the priests, 12 and against their idolatry. 15 Judah is exhorted to take warning by Israel's calamity.

HEAR the word of the LORD, ye children of Israel: for the LORD hath a [a] controversy with the inhabitants of the land, because there is no truth, nor mercy, nor [b] knowledge of God in the land.

2 By swearing, and lying, and killing, and stealing, and committing adultery, they break out, and * blood toucheth blood.

3 Therefore [c] shall the land mourn, and [d] every one that dwelleth therein shall languish, with the beasts of the field, and with the fowls of heaven; yea, the fishes of the sea also shall be taken away.

4 Yet let no man strive, nor reprove another: for thy people are as they [e] that strive with the priest.

5 Therefore shalt thou fall [f] in the day, and the prophet also shall fall with thee in the night, and I will † destroy thy mother.

6 ¶ [g] My people are ‡ destroyed for lack of knowledge: because thou hast rejected knowledge, I will also reject thee, that thou shalt be no priest to me: seeing thou hast forgotten the law of thy God, I will also forget thy children.

7 [h] As they were increased, so they sinned against me: [i] therefore will I change their glory into shame.

8 They eat up the sin of my people, and they § set their heart on their iniquity.

9 And there shall be, [k] like people, like priest: and I will ‖ punish them for their ways, and * reward them their doings.

10 For [l] they shall eat, and not have enough: they shall commit whoredom, and shall not increase: because they have left off to take heed to the LORD.

11 Whoredom and wine and new wine [m] take away the heart.

12 ¶ My people ask counsel at their [n] stocks, and their staff declareth unto them: for [o] the spirit of whoredoms hath caused them to err, and they have gone a whoring from under their God.

13 [p] They sacrifice upon the tops of the mountains, and burn incense upon the hills, under oaks and poplars and elms, because the shadow thereof is good: [q] therefore your daughters shall commit whoredom, and your spouses shall commit adultery.

CHAP. III. Ver. 1. Then said the Lord, &c.—Under the figure of the prophet taking back his unfaithful wife, is signified the gracious manner in which God will receive the idolatrous Jews from captivity upon their earnest repentance. Though they shall be for a considerable period without any external form of civil government or of public worship, yet is it intimated in strong terms that they shall be finally restored to their ancient dignity and privileges, and the entire house of Israel be ultimately added to the church of Christ.

CHAP. IV. Ver. 1. Hear the word of the Lord, &c.—In this chapter the divine judgments are denounced against both priests and people of the ten tribes. The abominations of idolatry are especially reproved, and Judah is admonished to take warning by the calamities which shall bring her sister Israel to destruction.

14 † I will not punish your daughters when they commit whoredom, nor your spouses when they commit adultery: for themselves are separated with whores, and they sacrifice with harlots: therefore the people that [r] doth not understand shall ‡ fall.

15 ¶ Though thou, Israel, play the harlot, yet let not Judah offend; [s] and come not ye unto Gilgal, neither go ye up to [t] Beth-aven, [u] nor swear, The LORD liveth.

16 For Israel [x] slideth back as a backsliding heifer: now the LORD will feed them as a lamb in a large place.

17 Ephraim is joined to idols: [y] let him alone.

1 God's judgments against the priests, the people, and the princes of Israel, for their manifold sins, 15 until they repent.

HEAR ye this, O priests; and hearken, ye house of Israel; and give ye ear, O house of the king; for judgment is toward you, because [a] ye have been a snare on Mizpah, and a net spread upon Tabor.

2 And the revolters are [b] profound to make slaughter, [c] though I have been † a rebuker of them all.

3 [d] I know Ephraim, and Israel is not hid from me: for now, O Ephraim, [d] thou committest whoredom, and Israel is defiled.

4 ‡ § They will not frame their doings to turn unto their God: for [e] the spirit of whoredoms is in the midst of them, and they have not known the LORD.

5 And [f] the pride of Israel doth testify to his face: therefore shall Israel and Ephraim fall in their iniquity; Judah also shall fall with them.

6 [g] They shall go with their flocks and with their herds to seek the LORD; but they shall not find him; he hath withdrawn himself from them.

7 They have [h] dealt treacherously against the LORD: for they have begotten strange children: now shall [i] a month devour them with their portions.

8 [k] Blow ye the cornet in Gibeah, and the trumpet in Ramah: [l] cry aloud at [m] Beth-aven, [n] after thee, O Benjamin.

9 Ephraim shall be desolate in the day of rebuke: among the tribes of Israel have I made known that which shall surely be.

10 The princes of Judah were like them that [o] remove the bound: therefore I will pour out my wrath upon them like water.

11 Ephraim is [p] oppressed and broken in judgment, because he willingly walked after [q] the commandment.

12 Therefore will I be unto Ephraim as a moth, and to the house of Judah [r] as ‖ rottenness.

13 When Ephraim saw his sickness, and Judah saw his [s] wound, then went Ephraim [t] to the Assyrian, [u] and sent [x] to king Jareb: yet could he not heal you, nor cure you of your wound.

14 For [x] I will be unto Ephraim as a lion, and as a young lion to the house of Judah: [y] I, even I, will tear and go away; I will take away, and none shall rescue him.

15 ¶ I will go and return to my place, † till [z] they acknowledge their offence, and seek my face: [a] in their affliction they will seek me early.

7 For [i] they have sown the wind, and they shall reap the whirlwind: it hath no † stalk: the bud shall yield no meal: if so be it yield, [k] the strangers shall swallow it up.

8 [l] Israel is swallowed up: now shall they be among the Gentiles [m] as a vessel wherein is no pleasure.

9 For [n] they are gone up to Assyria, [o] a wild ass alone by himself: Ephraim [p] hath hired ‡ lovers.

10 Yea, though they have hired among the nations, now [q] will I gather them, and they shall § sorrow ‖ a little for the burden of [r] the king of princes.

11 Because Ephraim hath made [s] many altars to sin, altars shall be unto him to sin.

12 I have written to him [t] the great things of my law, but they were counted as a strange thing.

13 [u] * They sacrifice flesh for the sacrifices of mine offerings, and eat it; [x] but the LORD accepteth them not; [y] now will he remember their iniquity, and visit their sins: [z] they shall return to Egypt.

14 [a] For Israel hath forgotten [b] his Maker, and [c] buildeth temples; and Judah hath multiplied fenced cities: but [d] I will send a fire upon his cities, and it shall devour the palaces thereof.

CHAP. IX.

The distress and captivity of Israel for their sins and idolatry.

REJOICE not, O Israel, for joy, as other people: for thou [a] hast gone a whoring from thy God, thou hast loved a [b] reward * upon every cornfloor.

2 [c] The floor and the † winepress shall not feed them, and the new wine shall fail in her.

3 They shall not dwell in [d] the LORD's land; [e] but Ephraim shall return to Egypt, and [f] they shall eat unclean things [g] in Assyria.

4 [h] They shall not offer wine offerings to the LORD, [i] neither shall they be pleasing unto him: [k] their sacrifices shall be unto them as the bread of mourners; all that eat thereof shall be polluted: for their bread [l] for their soul shall not come into the house of the LORD.

5 What will ye do in [m] the solemn day, and in the day of the feast of the LORD?

6 For, lo, they are gone because of ‡ destruction: [n] Egypt shall gather them up, Memphis shall bury them: § ‖ the pleasant places for their silver, [o] nettles shall possess them: thorns shall be in their tabernacles.

7 The days of visitation are come, the days of recompence are come; Israel shall know it: the prophet is a fool, * the [p] spiritual man is mad, for the multitude of thine iniquity, and the great hatred.

8 The [q] watchman of Ephraim was with my God: but the prophet is a snare of a fowler in all his ways, and hatred † in the house of his God.

9 [r] They have deeply corrupted themselves, as in the days of [s] Gibeah: [t] therefore he will remember their iniquity, he will visit their sins.

10 I found Israel like grapes in the wilderness; I saw your fathers as [u] the firstripe in the fig tree [x] at her first time: but they went

B. C. cir 760. to [y] Baal-peor, and [z] separated themselves [a] unto that shame; [b] and their abominations were according as they loved.

11 As for Ephraim, their glory shall fly away like a bird, from the birth, and from the womb, and from the conception.

12 [c] Though they bring up their children, yet [d] will I bereave them, that there shall not be a man left: yea, [e] woe also to them when I [f] depart from them!

13 Ephraim, [g] as I saw Tyrus, is planted in a pleasant place: [h] but Ephraim shall bring forth his children to the murderer.

14 Give them, O LORD: what wilt thou give? give them [i] a ‡ miscarrying womb and dry breasts.

15 All their wickedness [k] is in Gilgal: for there I hated them: [l] for the wickedness of their doings I will drive them out of mine house, I will love them no more: [m] all their princes are revolters.

16 Ephraim is smitten, their root is dried up, they shall bear no fruit: yea, [n] though they bring forth, yet will I slay even § the beloved fruit of their womb.

17 My God will cast them away, because they did not hearken unto him: and they shall be [o] wanderers among the nations.

CHAP. X.

Israel is reproved and threatened for their impiety and idolatry.

cir. 740. ISRAEL is [a] [*] an empty vine, he bringeth forth fruit unto himself: according to the multitude of his fruit [b] he hath increased the altars; according to the goodness of his land [c] they have made goodly † images.

2 ‡ Their heart is [d] divided; now shall they be found faulty: he shall § break down their altars, he shall spoil their images.

3 [e] For now they shall say, We have no king, because we feared not the LORD; what then should a king do to us?

4 They have spoken words, swearing falsely in making a covenant: thus judgment springeth up [f] as hemlock in the furrows of the field.

5 The inhabitants of Samaria shall fear because of [g] the calves of [h] Beth-aven: for the people thereof shall mourn over it, and ‖ the priests thereof that rejoiced on it, [i] for the glory thereof, because it is departed from it.

6 It shall be also carried unto Assyria for a present to [k] king Jareb: Ephraim shall receive shame, and Israel shall be ashamed [l] of his own counsel.

7 [m] As for Samaria, her king is cut off as the foam upon [*] the water.

8 [n] The high places also of Aven, [o] the sin of Israel, shall be destroyed: [p] the thorn and the thistle shall come up on their altars; [q] and they shall say to the mountains, Cover us; and to the hills, Fall on us.

9 [r] O Israel, thou hast sinned from the days of Gibeah: there they stood: [s] the battle in Gibeah against the children of iniquity did not overtake them.

10 [t] It is in my desire that I should chastise them; and [u] the people shall be gathered against them, † when they shall bind themselves in their two furrows.

11 And Ephraim is as [x] an heifer that is taught, and loveth to tread out the corn; but I passed over upon ‡ her fair neck: I will make Ephraim to ride; Judah shall plow, and Jacob shall break his clods.

12 [y] Sow to yourselves in righteousness, reap in mercy; [z] break up your fallow ground: for it is time to seek the LORD, till he come and rain righteousness upon you.

13 [a] Ye have plowed wickedness, ye have reaped iniquity; ye have eaten the fruit of lies: because thou didst trust in thy way, in the multitude of thy mighty men.

14 [b] Therefore shall a tumult arise among thy people, and all thy fortresses shall be spoiled, as Shalman spoiled [c] Beth-arbel in the day of battle: [d] the mother was dashed in pieces upon her children.

15 So shall Beth-el do unto you because of § your great wickedness: in a morning [e] shall the king of Israel utterly be cut off.

CHAP. XI.

1 The ingratitude of Israel unto God for his benefits. 5 His judgment. 8 God's mercy towards them.

WHEN [a] Israel was a child, then I loved him, and [b] called my [c] son out of Egypt.

2 As they called them, so they went from them: [d] they sacrificed unto Baalim, and burned incense to graven images.

3 [e] I taught Ephraim also to go, taking them by their arms; but they knew not that [f] I healed them.

4 I drew them with cords of a man, with bands of love: and [g] I was to them as they that [*] take off the yoke on their jaws, and [h] I laid meat unto them.

5 ¶ [i] He shall not return into the land of Egypt, but the Assyrian shall be his king, [k] because they refused to return.

6 And the sword shall abide on his cities, and shall consume his branches, and devour them, [l] because of their own counsels.

7 And my people are bent to [m] backsliding from me: [n] though they called them to the most High, † none at all would exalt him.

8 [o] How shall I give thee up, Ephraim? how shall I deliver thee, Israel? how shall I make thee as [p] Admah? how shall I set thee as Zeboim? [q] mine heart is turned within me, my repentings are kindled together.

9 I will not execute the fierceness of mine anger, I will not return to destroy Ephraim: [r] for I am God, and not man; the Holy One in the midst of thee: and I will not enter into the city.

10 They shall walk after the LORD: [s] he shall roar like a lion: when he shall roar, then the children shall tremble [t] from the west.

11 They shall tremble as a bird out of Egypt, [u] and as a dove out of the land of Assyria: [x] and I will place them in their houses, saith the LORD.

12 [y] Ephraim compasseth me about with lies, and the house of Israel with deceit: but Judah yet ruleth with God, and is faithful ‡ with the saints.

CHAP. XII.

1 A reproof of Ephraim, Judah, and Jacob. 3 By former favours he exhorteth to repentance. 7 Ephraim's sins provoke God.

EPHRAIM [a] feedeth on wind, and followeth after the east wind: he daily increaseth lies and desolation; [b] and they do make a covenant with the Assyrians, and [c] oil is carried into Egypt.

2 [d] The LORD hath also a controversy with Judah, and will * punish Jacob according to his ways; according to his doings will he recompense him.

3 ¶ He took his brother [e] by the heel in the womb, and by his strength he † [f] had power with God:

4 Yea, he had power over the angel, and prevailed: he wept, and made supplication unto him: he found him in [g] Beth-el, and there he spake with us;

5 Even the LORD God of hosts; the LORD is his [h] memorial.

6 [i] Therefore turn thou to thy God: keep mercy and judgment, and [k] wait on thy God continually.

7 ¶ He is ‡ a merchant, [l] the balances of deceit are in his hand: he loveth to § oppress.

8 And Ephraim said, [m] Yet I am become rich, I have found me out substance: ‖ in all my labours they shall find none iniquity in me [n] that were sin.

9 And [o] I that am the LORD thy God from the land of Egypt [p] will yet make thee to dwell in tabernacles, as in the days of the solemn feasts.

10 [p] I have also spoken by the prophets, and I have multiplied visions, and used similitudes, † by the ministry of the prophets.

11 [q] Is there iniquity in Gilead? surely they are vanity: they sacrifice bullocks in [r] Gilgal; yea, [s] their altars are as heaps in the furrows of the fields.

12 And Jacob [t] fled into the country of Syria, and Israel [u] served for a wife, and for a wife he kept sheep.

13 [x] And by a prophet the LORD brought Israel out of Egypt, and by a prophet was he preserved.

14 [y] Ephraim provoked him to anger ‡ most bitterly: therefore shall he leave his § blood upon him, [z] and his [a] reproach shall his Lord return unto him.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Ephraim's glory, by reason of idolatry, vanisheth. 5 God's anger for their unkindness. 9 A promise of God's mercy. 15 A judgment for rebellion.

WHEN Ephraim spake trembling, he exalted himself in Israel; but [a] when he offended in Baal, he died.

2 And now * they sin more and more, and [b] have made them molten images of their silver, and idols according to their own understanding, all of it the work of the craftsmen: they say of them, Let † the men that sacrifice [c] kiss the calves.

3 Therefore they shall be [d] as the morning cloud, and as the early dew that passeth away, [e] as the chaff that is driven with the whirlwind out of the floor, and as the smoke out of the chimney.

4 Yet [f] I am the LORD thy God from the land of Egypt, and thou shalt know no god but me: for [g] there is no saviour beside me.

5 ¶ [h] I did know thee in the wilderness, [i] in the land of ‡ great drought.

6 [k] According to their pasture, so were they filled: they were filled, and their heart was exalted; therefore [l] have they forgotten me.

7 Therefore [m] I will be unto them as a lion: as [n] a leopard by the way will I observe them:

8 I will meet them [o] as a bear that is bereaved of her whelps, and will rend the caul of their heart, and there will I devour them like a lion: § the wild beast shall tear them.

9 ¶ O Israel, [p] thou hast destroyed thyself; [q] but in me ‖ is thine help.

10 * I will be thy king: [r] where is any other that may save thee in all thy cities? and thy judges of whom [s] thou saidst, Give me a king and princes?

11 [t] I gave thee a king in mine anger, and took him away in my wrath.

12 [u] The iniquity of Ephraim is bound up; his sin is hid.

13 [x] The sorrows of a travailing woman shall come upon him: he is [y] an unwise son; for he should not [z] stay † long in the place of the breaking forth of children.

14 [a] I will ransom them from ‡ the power of the grave; I will redeem them from death: [b] O death, I will be thy plagues; O grave, I will be thy destruction: [c] repentance shall be hid from mine eyes.

15 ¶ Though [d] he be fruitful among his brethren, [e] an east wind shall come, the wind of the LORD shall come up from the wilderness, and his spring shall become dry, and his fountain shall be dried up: he shall spoil the treasure of all § pleasant vessels.

16 ‖ Samaria shall become desolate; [f] for she hath rebelled against her God: [g] they shall fall by the sword: their infants shall be dashed in pieces, and their women with child shall be ripped up.

CHAP. XIV.

1 An exhortation to repentance. 4 A promise of God's blessing.

O ISRAEL, [a] return unto the LORD thy God; [b] for thou hast fallen by thine iniquity.

2 Take with you words, and turn to the LORD: say unto him, Take away all iniquity, and receive * us graciously: so will we render the [c] calves of our lips.

3 [d] Asshur shall not save us; [e] we will not ride upon horses: [f] neither will we say any more to the work of our hands, Ye are our gods: [g] for in thee the fatherless findeth mercy.

4 ¶ I will heal [h] their backsliding, I will love them [i] freely: for mine anger is turned away from him.

5 I will be as [k] the dew unto Israel: he shall † grow as the lily, and ‡ cast forth his roots as Lebanon.

CHAP. XII. Ver. 1. Ephraim feedeth on wind, &c.—Here again the Jews are collectively reproved for their offences by the prophet, who reminds them of God's favour to their ancestor Jacob, and their ungrateful return.

CHAP. XIII. Ver. 1. When Ephraim spake, &c.—The divine threatenings are continued, but assurances are given of eventual deliverance under the christian dispensation, which may be very justly compared to a resurrection from the dead.

CHAP. XIV. Ver. 1. O Israel, return unto the Lord, &c.—After having pronounced the most awful denunciations of divine vengeance in the preceding chapter, the prophet concludes by exhorting the Jews to repentance, suggesting a beautiful form of prayer, and declaring God's gracious promises of pardon, with blessings upon those who bring forth the fruits of righteousness, in which the wicked, however, can have no share.

JOEL.—"If it were certain that the minor prophets were placed in the order of time in which they lived, we might conclude that Joel prophesied before Amos, who was cotemporary with Uzziah, king of Judah. Archbishop Usher, in his annals ad A.M. 3197, makes the same inference, because Joel foretels that drought, chap. i., which Amos mentions as actually come to pass, chap. iv., 7, 8, 9. But to that argument it may be answered that the drought there spoken of might probably be peculiar to the kingdom of Israel. And, as to the precedence which the present Hebrew copies give to Joel, the Septuagint place him the fourth in order, and put Amos and Micah before him.

"If we consider the main design of this prophecy we shall be apt to conclude that it was uttered after the captivity of the ten tribes; for he directs his discourse only to Judah, and speaks distinctly of the sacrifices and oblations that were daily made in the temple. Israel is indeed mentioned, chap. iii. 2, but it is in relation to future times, not to their present condition at the time when Joel prophesied."—W. Lowth. Joel was the son of Pethuel, of whom nothing particular appears to be known, and of the tribe of Reuben. He was born in Bethoran, a city belonging to that tribe.

CHAP. I. Ver. 1. The word of the Lord, &c.—The book of Joel opens with a prophetic description of a terrible famine about to overtake the land, occasioned by a long drought producing locusts and other noxious insects. This has evidently a secondary reference to the Chaldean invasion, as some of the expressions can be interpreted as applying solely to the desolations of war, whilst others can be understood only as referring to the devastations caused by locusts and caterpillers. The very beasts of the field are, by a bold figure, most elegantly represented as supplicating God, and reproaching the obduracy and stupidity of man.

CHAP. II. Ver. 1. Blow ye the trumpet, &c.—The subject of the last chapter, respecting the desolation caused by locusts and other noxious insects, is here continued. They are represented as a mighty army sent by God to devour the fruits of the land. The people are exhorted to repentance, and vengeance is threatened to the enemies of pure religion. The prophet next refers, in language of exceeding sublimity, to the destruction of Jerusalem, under Titus, and gives assurances of the divine protection to those who shall be converted from the error of their ways.

B. C. cir 800.

4 [k] The appearance of them is as the appearance of horses; and as horsemen, so shall they run.

5 [l] Like the noise of chariots on the tops of mountains shall they leap, like the noise of a flame of fire that devoureth the stubble, [m] as a strong people set in battle array.

6 Before their face the people shall be much pained: [n] all faces shall gather ‡ blackness.

7 They shall run like mighty men; they shall climb the wall like men of war; and they shall march every one on his ways, and they shall not break their ranks:

8 Neither shall one thrust another; they shall walk every one in his path: and when they fall upon the § sword, they shall not be wounded.

9 They shall run to and fro in the city; they shall run upon the wall, they shall climb up upon the houses; they shall [o] enter in at the windows [p] like a thief.

10 [q] The earth shall quake before them; the heavens shall tremble: [r] the sun and the moon shall be dark, and the stars shall withdraw their shining:

11 [s] And the LORD shall utter his voice before [t] his army: for his camp is very great: [u] for he is strong that executeth his word: for the [x] day of the LORD is great and very terrible; and [y] who can abide it?

12 ¶ Therefore also now, saith the LORD, [z] turn ye even to me with all your heart, and with fasting, and with weeping, and with mourning:

13 And [a] rend your heart, and not [b] your garments, and turn unto the LORD your God: for he is [c] gracious and merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness, and repenteth him of the evil.

14 [d] Who knoweth if he will return and repent, and leave [e] a blessing behind him; even [f] a meat offering and a drink offering unto the LORD your God?

15 ¶ [g] Blow the trumpet in Zion, [h] sanctify a fast, call a solemn assembly:

16 Gather the people, [i] sanctify the congregation, [k] assemble the elders, [l] gather the children, and those that suck the breasts: [m] let the bridegroom go forth of his chamber, and the bride out of her closet.

17 Let the priests, the ministers of the LORD, weep [n] between the porch and the altar, and let them say, [o] Spare thy people, O LORD, and give not thine heritage to reproach, that the heathen should ‖ rule over them: [p] wherefore should they say among the people, Where is their God?

18 ¶ Then will the LORD [q] be jealous for his land, [r] and pity his people.

19 Yea, the LORD will answer and say unto his people, Behold, I will send you [s] corn, and wine, and oil, and ye shall be satisfied therewith: and I will no more make you a reproach among the heathen:

20 But [t] I will remove far off from you [u] the northern army, and will drive him into a land barren and desolate, with his face [x] toward the east sea, and his hinder part toward the utmost sea, and his stink shall come up, and his ill savour shall come up, because [*] he hath done great things.

21 ¶ Fear not, O land; be glad and rejoice: for the LORD will do great things.

22 Be not afraid, [z] ye beasts of the field: for [a] the pastures of the wilderness do spring, for the tree beareth her fruit, the fig tree and the vine do yield their strength.

23 Be glad then, ye children of Zion, and [b] rejoice in the LORD your God: for he hath given you † the former rain ‡ moderately, and he [c] will cause to come down for you [d] the rain, the former rain, and the latter rain in the first month.

24 And the floors shall be full of wheat, and the fats shall overflow with wine and oil.

25 And I will restore to you the years [e] that the locust hath eaten, the cankerworm, and the caterpiller, and the palmerworm, [f] my great army which I sent among you.

26 And ye shall [g] eat in plenty, and be satisfied, and praise the name of the LORD your God, that hath dealt wondrously with you: and my people shall never be ashamed.

27 [h] And ye shall know that I am [i] in the midst of Israel, and that [k] I am the LORD your God, and none else: and my people shall never be ashamed.

28 ¶ [l] And it shall come to pass afterward, that I [m] will pour out my spirit upon all flesh; [n] and your sons and [o] your daughters shall prophesy, your old men shall dream dreams, your young men shall see visions:

29 And also upon [p] the servants and upon the handmaids in those days will I pour out my spirit.

30 And [q] I will shew wonders in the heavens and in the earth, blood, and fire, and pillars of smoke.

31 [r] The sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, [s] before the great and terrible day of the LORD come.

32 And it shall come to pass, that [t] whosoever shall call on the name of the LORD shall be delivered: for [u] in mount Zion and in Jerusalem shall be deliverance, as the LORD hath said, and in [x] the remnant whom the LORD shall call.

CHAP. III.

1 God's judgments against the enemies of his people. 9 God will be known in his judgment. 18 His blessing upon the church.

FOR, behold, [a] in those days, and in that time, when I shall bring again the captivity of Judah and Jerusalem,

2 [b] I will also gather all nations, and will bring them down into [c] the valley of Jehoshaphat, and [d] will plead with them there for my people and for my heritage Israel, whom they have scattered among the nations, and parted my land.

3 And they have [e] cast lots for my people; and have given a boy for an harlot, and sold a girl for wine, that they might drink.

4 Yea, and what have ye to do with me, [f] O Tyre, and Zidon, and all the coasts of Palestine? [g] will ye render me a recompence? and if ye recompense me, swiftly and speedily will I return your recompence upon your own head;

CHAP. III. Ver. 1. For, behold, in those days, &c.—This prophecy is supposed to refer to those latter times, when, upon their repentance and conversion to God, the Jews shall be delivered from their numerous enemies. The prophet likewise foretells the destruction of their oppressors and other unbelievers, in some decisive battle, such as that mentioned, Rev. xvi. 14, and the glorious state of the Church that should follow.

14 Multitudes, multitudes in [x] the valley of * decision: for [y] the day of the LORD is near in the valley of decision.

15 The [z] sun and the moon shall be darkened, and the stars shall withdraw their shining.

16 The LORD also shall [a] roar out of Zion, and utter his voice from Jerusalem; and [b] the heavens and the earth shall shake: [c] but the LORD will be the † hope of his people, and the strength of the children of Israel.

17 So [d] shall ye know that I am the LORD your God dwelling in Zion, [e] my holy mountain: then shall Jerusalem be ‡ holy, and there shall no [f] strangers pass through her any more.

18 ¶ And it shall come to pass in that day, that the mountains shall [g] drop down new wine, and the hills shall flow with milk, [h] and all the rivers of Judah shall § flow with water, and [i] a fountain shall come forth of the house of the LORD, and shall water [k] the valley of Shittim.

19 [l] Egypt shall be a desolation, and [m] Edom shall be a desolate wilderness, for the violence against the children of Judah, because they have shed innocent blood in their land.

20 But Judah shall ‖ dwell [n] for ever, and Jerusalem from generation to generation.

21 For I will [o] cleanse their blood that I have not cleansed: [p] * for the LORD dwelleth in Zion.

AMOS.

CHAP. I.

Amos threateth God's judgment upon Syria, 6 upon the Philistines, 9 upon Tyrus, 11 upon Edom, 13 upon Ammon.

THE words of Amos, [a] who was among the herdmen of [b] Tekoa, which he saw concerning Israel [c] in the days of Uzziah king of Judah, and in the days of [d] Jeroboam the son of Joash king of Israel, two years before the * earthquake.

2 And he said, The LORD will [e] roar from Zion, and utter his voice from Jerusalem; and the habitations of the shepherds shall mourn, and the top of [f] Carmel shall wither.

3 Thus saith the LORD; For three transgressions of [h] Damascus, * and for four, I will not † turn away the punishment thereof; [i] because they have threshed Gilead with threshing instruments of iron:

4 [k] But I will send a fire into the house of Hazael, which shall devour the palaces of Ben-hadad.

5 I will break also the [l] bar of Damascus, and cut off the inhabitant from ‡ the plain of Aven, and him that holdeth the sceptre from § the house of Eden: and [m] the people of Syria shall go into captivity [n] unto Kir, saith the LORD.

6 ¶ Thus saith the LORD; For three transgressions of [o] Gaza, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because they ‖ carried away captive the whole captivity, [p] to deliver them up to Edom:

7 [q] But I will send a fire on the wall of Gaza, which shall devour the palaces thereof:

8 And I will cut off the inhabitant [r] from Ashdod, and him that holdeth the sceptre from Ashkelon, and I will [s] turn mine hand against Ekron: and [t] the remnant of the Philistines shall perish, saith the Lord GOD.

9 ¶ Thus saith the LORD; for three transgressions of [u] Tyrus, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; [x] because they delivered up the whole captivity to Edom, and remembered not * the brotherly covenant:

10 [y] But I will send a fire on the wall of Tyrus, which shall devour the palaces thereof.

11 ¶ Thus saith the LORD; For three transgressions of [z] Edom, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because he did pursue [a] his brother [b] with the sword, and † did cast off all pity, [c] and his anger did tear perpetually, and he kept his wrath for ever:

AMOS.—"The prophet Amos was a native of Tekoa, a small town in the territory of Judah, about five leagues southward from Jerusalem and six southward from Bethlehem, Amos 1. 1; 2 Chron. xi. 5, 6; adjacent to a vast wilderness, where probably he exercised his profession.

"Amos was a herdsman. He was no prophet, as he informed Amaziah, chap. vii. 14, neither was he a prophet's son: that is, he had no regular education in the Schools of the Prophets, but was called by an express, irresistible commission from God, chap. iii. 8, vii. 15, to prophesy unto his people Israel.

"The work of Amos consists of several distinct discourses; the particular period of their delivery cannot now be ascertained. Their chief respect the kingdom of Israel, though he sometimes inveighs against Judah, and threatens the nations that bordered on Palestine, as the Syrians, Philistines, Tyrians, Edomites, Ammonites, and Moabites. He predicts, in clear terms, the captivity and destruction of Israel, to be preceded by fearful signs on earth and in the heavens, chap. vii. 8—13, concluding with assurances that God would not utterly destroy the house of Jacob, but after sifting, as it were, and cleansing the house of Israel among the nations, God should gain raise up the tabernacle, that is, the kingdom of David, to be enlarged to more than its first splendour, by the accession of Gentile subjects; and to be succeeded by the establishment of that government, which the prophet describes, under poetical images, as a blessed dispensation of security, abundance and peace, chap. ix. 11—15."—Dr. Gray.

CHAP. I. Ver. 1. The words of Amos.—In this chapter, the prophet denounces the divine judgments upon the inhabitants of the countries bordering on Judea, the Syrians, Philistines, Tyrians Edomites, and Ammonites.

12 But [d] I will send a fire upon Teman, which shall devour the palaces of Bozrah.

13 ¶ Thus saith the LORD; For three transgressions of [e] the children of Ammon, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because they have ‡ [f] ripped up the women with child of Gilead, [g] that they might enlarge their border:

14 But I will kindle a fire in the wall of [h] Rabbah, and it shall devour the palaces thereof, [i] with shouting in the day of battle, with a tempest in the day of the whirlwind:

15 And [k] their king shall go into captivity, he and his princes together, saith the LORD.

CHAP. II.

1 God's wrath against Moab, 4 upon Judah, 6 and upon Israel. 9 God complaineth of their unthankfulness.

THUS saith the LORD; For three transgressions of [a] Moab, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because he [b] burned the bones of the king of Edom into lime:

2 But I will send a fire upon Moab, and it shall devour the palaces of [c] Kirioth: and Moab shall die with tumult, [d] with shouting, and with the sound of the trumpet:

3 And I will cut off [e] the judge from the midst thereof, and will slay all the princes thereof with him, saith the LORD.

4 ¶ Thus saith the LORD; For three transgressions of Judah, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; [f] because they have despised the law of the LORD, and have not kept his commandments, and [g] their lies caused them to err, [h] after the which their fathers have walked:

5 [i] But I will send a fire upon Judah, and it shall devour the palaces of Jerusalem.

6 ¶ Thus saith the LORD; For three transgressions of Israel, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because [k] they sold the righteous for silver, and the poor for a pair of shoes;

7 That pant after the dust of the earth on the head of the poor, and [l] turn aside the way of the meek: [m] and a man and his father will go in unto the same * maid, [n] to profane my holy name:

8 And they lay themselves down upon clothes [o] laid to pledge [p] by every altar, and they drink the wine of † the condemned in the house of their god.

9 ¶ Yet destroyed I the [q] Amorite before them, [r] whose height was like the height of the cedars, and he was strong as the oaks; yet I [s] destroyed his fruit from above, and his roots from beneath.

10 Also [t] I brought you up from the land of Egypt, and [u] led you forty years through the wilderness, to possess the land of the Amorite.

11 And I raised up of your sons for prophets, and of your young men for [x] Nazarites. Is it not even thus, O ye children of Israel? saith the LORD.

12 But ye gave the Nazarites wine to drink; and commanded the prophets, [y] saying, Prophesy not.

13 [z] Behold, ‡ I am pressed under you, as a cart is pressed that is full of sheaves.

14 [a] Therefore the flight shall perish from the swift, and the strong shall not strengthen his force, [b] neither shall the mighty deliver § himself:

15 Neither shall he stand that handleth the bow; and he that is swift of foot shall not deliver himself: [c] neither shall he that rideth the horse deliver himself.

16 And he that is ‖ courageous among the mighty shall flee away naked in that day, saith the LORD.

CHAP. III.

1 The necessity of God's judgment against Israel. 9 The publication of it, with the causes thereof.

HEAR this word that the LORD hath spoken against you, O children of Israel, against the whole family which I brought up from the land of Egypt, saying,

2 [a] You only have I known of all the families of the earth: [b] therefore I will * punish you for all your iniquities.

3 Can two walk together, except they be agreed?

4 Will a lion roar in the forest, when he hath no prey? will a young lion † cry out of his den, if he have taken nothing?

5 Can a bird fall in a snare upon the earth, where no gin is for him? shall one take up a snare from the earth, and have taken nothing at all?

6 Shall a trumpet be blown in the city, and the people ‡ not be afraid? [c] shall there be evil in a city, § and the LORD hath not done it?

7 Surely the Lord GOD will do nothing, but [d] he revealeth his secret unto his servants the prophets.

8 [e] The lion hath roared, who will not fear? the Lord GOD hath spoken, [f] who can but prophesy?

9 ¶ Publish in the palaces at Ashdod, and in the palaces in the land of Egypt, and say, Assemble yourselves upon the mountains of Samaria, and behold the great tumults in the midst thereof, and the ‖ oppressed in the midst thereof.

10 For they [g] know not to do right, saith the LORD, who store up violence and * robbery in their palaces.

11 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; [h] An adversary there shall be even round about the land; and he shall bring down thy strength from thee, and thy palaces shall be spoiled.

12 Thus saith the LORD; As the shepherd † taketh out of the mouth of the lion two legs, or a piece of an ear; so shall the children of Israel be taken out that dwell in Samaria in the corner of a bed, and ‡ in Damascus in a couch.

13 Hear ye, and testify in the house of Jacob, saith the Lord GOD, the God of hosts, 14 That in the day that I shall § visit the transgressions of Israel upon him I will also visit the altars of Bethel: and the horns of the altar shall be cut off, and fall to the ground.

15 And I will smite [i] the winter house with [k] the summer house; and [l] the houses of ivory shall perish, and the great houses shall have an end, saith the LORD.

CHAP. IV.

1 He reproveth Israel for oppression, 4 for idolatry, 6 and for their incorrigibleness.

HEAR this word, ye [a] kine of Bashan, that are in the mountain of Samaria, which oppress the poor, which crush the needy, which say to their masters, Bring, and let us drink.

2 [b] The Lord GOD hath sworn by his holiness, that, lo, the days shall come upon you, that he will take you away [c] with hooks, and your posterity with fishhooks.

3 And [d] ye shall go out at the breaches, every cow at that which is before her; and [*] ye shall cast them into the palace, saith the LORD.

4 ¶ [e] Come to Beth-el, and transgress; at [f] Gilgal multiply transgression; and [g] bring your sacrifices every morning, [h] and your tithes after † three years:

5 [i] And ‡ offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving with leaven, and proclaim and publish [k] the free offerings: [l] for § this liketh you, O ye children of Israel, saith the Lord GOD.

6 ¶ And I also have given you cleanness of teeth in all your cities, and want of bread in all your places: [m] yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the LORD.

7 And also I have withholden the rain from you, when there were yet three months to the harvest: and I caused it to rain upon one city, and caused it not to rain upon another city: one piece was rained upon, and the piece whereupon it rained not withered.

8 So two or three cities wandered unto one city, to drink water; but they were not satisfied: [n] yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the LORD.

9 [o] I have smitten you with blasting and mildew: § when your gardens and your vineyards and your fig trees and your olive trees increased, [p] the palmerworm devoured them, yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the LORD.

10 I have sent among you the pestilence [*] [q] after the manner of Egypt: your young men have I slain with the sword, † and have taken away your horses; and I have made the stink of your camps to come up unto your nostrils: [r] yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the LORD.

11 I have overthrown some of you, as God overthrew [s] Sodom and Gomorrah, [t] and ye were as a firebrand plucked out of the burning: [u] yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the LORD.

12 Therefore thus will I do unto thee, O Israel: and because I will do this unto thee, [x] prepare to meet thy God, O Israel.

13 For, lo, he that formeth the mountains, and createth the ‡ wind, [y] and declareth unto man what is his thought, [z] that maketh the morning darkness, [a] and treadeth upon the high places of the earth, [b] The LORD, The God of hosts, is his name.

CHAP. V.

1 A lamentation for Israel. 4 An exhortation to repentance. 21 God rejecteth their hypocritical service.

HEAR ye this word which I [a] take up against you, even a lamentation, O house of Israel.

2 The virgin of Israel is fallen; she shall no more rise: she is forsaken upon her land; there is none to raise her up.

3 For thus saith the Lord GOD; The city that went out by a thousand shall leave an hundred, and that which went forth by an hundred shall leave ten, to the house of Israel.

4 ¶ For thus saith the LORD unto the house of Israel, [b] Seek ye me, [c] and ye shall live:

5 But seek not [d] Beth-el, nor enter into Gilgal, and pass not to [e] Beer-sheba: for Gilgal shall surely go into captivity, and [f] Beth-el shall come to nought.

6 [g] Seek the LORD, and ye shall live; lest he break out like fire in the house of Joseph, and devour it, and there be none to quench it in Beth-el.

7 Ye who [h] turn judgment to wormwood, and leave off righteousness in the earth,

8 Seek him that maketh the [i] seven stars and Orion, and turneth the shadow of death into the morning, [k] and maketh the day dark with night: that [l] calleth for the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the face of the earth: [m] The LORD is his name:

9 That strengtheneth the [*] spoiled against the strong, so that the spoiled shall come against the fortress.

10 [n] They hate him that rebuketh in the gate, and they [o] abhor him that speaketh uprightly.

11 Forasmuch therefore as your treading is upon the poor, and ye take from him burdens of wheat: [p] ye have built houses of hewn stone, but ye shall not dwell in them; ye have planted † pleasant vineyards, but ye shall not drink wine of them.

12 For I know your manifold transgressions and your mighty sins: [q] they afflict the just, they take ‡ a bribe, and they [r] turn aside the poor in the gate from their right.

13 Therefore [s] the prudent shall keep silence in that time; for it is an evil time.

14 Seek good, and not evil, that ye may live: and so the LORD, the God of hosts, shall be with you, [t] as ye have spoken.

15 [u] Hate the evil, and love the good, and establish judgment in the gate: [x] it may be that the LORD God of hosts will be gracious unto the remnant of Joseph.

16 Therefore the LORD, the God of hosts, the Lord, saith thus; Wailing shall be in all streets; and they shall say in all the highways, Alas! alas! and they shall call the husbandman to mourning, and such as are [y] skilful of lamentation to wailing.

17 And in all vineyards shall be wailing: for [z] I will pass through thee, saith the LORD.

18 [a] Woe unto you that desire the day of the LORD! to what end is it for you? [b] the day of the LORD is darkness, and not light.

CHAP. IV. Ver. 1.—Hear this word, &c.—The ten tribes are reproved by the prophet for their oppression, idolatry, and impenitence; notwithstanding the severe visitations which had fallen upon them. God's illimitable wisdom and omnipotence declared.

CHAP. V. Ver. 1. Hear ye this, &c.—This chapter commences with a pathetic lamentation over the kingdom of Israel for their obduracy, which the prophet foretels will terminate in their destruction. He earnestly exhorts them to renounce their idols and seek the Lord; without which, all their oblations and external exercises of religion will prove of no avail.

19 [c] As if a man did flee from a lion, and a bear met him; or went into the house, and leaned his hand on the wall, and a serpent bit him.

20 Shall not the day of the LORD be darkness, and not light? even very dark, and no brightness in it?

21 ¶ [d] I hate, I despise your feast days, and [e] I will not § smell in your solemn assemblies.

22 [f] Though ye offer me burnt offerings and your meat offerings, I will not accept them: neither will I regard the ‖ peace offerings of your fat beasts.

23 Take thou away from me the noise of thy songs; for I will not hear the melody of thy viols.

24 [g] But let judgment * run down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream.

25 [h] Have ye offered unto me sacrifices and offerings in the wilderness forty years, O house of Israel?

26 But ye have borne † the tabernacle [i] of your Moloch and Chiun your images, the star of your god, which ye made to yourselves.

27 Therefore will I cause you to go into captivity [k] beyond Damascus, saith the LORD, [l] whose name is The God of hosts.

CHAP. VI.

1 The wantonness of Israel, 7 shall be plagued with desolation, 12 and their incorrigibleness.

WOE [a] to them that * are at ease in Zion, and trust in the mountain of Samaria, which are named [b] † chief of the nations, to whom the house of Israel came!

2 [c] Pass ye unto [d] Calneh, and see; and from thence go ye to [e] Hamath the great: then go down to [f] Gath of the Philistines: [g] be they better than these kingdoms? or their border greater than your border?

3 Ye that [h] put far away the [i] evil day, [k] and cause [l] the ‡ seat of violence to come near;

4 That lie upon beds of ivory, and § stretch themselves upon their couches, and eat the lambs out of the flock, and the calves out of the midst of the stall;

5 [m] That ‖ chant to the sound of the viol, and invent to themselves instruments of musick, [n] like David;

5 That drink * wine in bowls, and anoint themselves with the chief ointments: [o] but they are not grieved for the † affliction of Joseph.

7 ¶ Therefore now shall they go captive with the first that go captive, and the banquet of them that stretched themselves shall be removed.

8 [p] The Lord GOD hath sworn by himself, saith the LORD the God of hosts, I abhor [p] the excellency of Jacob, and hate his palaces; therefore will I deliver up the city with all ‡ that is therein.

9 And it shall come to pass, if there remain ten men in one house, that they shall die.

10 And a man's uncle shall take him up, and he that burneth him, to bring out the bones out of the house, and shall say unto him that is by the sides of the house, Is there yet any with thee? and he shall say, No. Then shall he say, [r] Hold thy tongue: [s] for § we may not make mention of the name of the LORD.

11 For, behold, [t] the LORD commandeth, [u] and he will smite the great house with ‖ breaches, and the little house with clefts.

12 ¶ Shall horses run upon the rock? will one plow there with oxen? for [x] ye have turned judgment into gall, and the fruit of righteousness into hemlock:

13 Ye which rejoice in a thing of nought, which say, Have we not taken to us horns by our own strength?

14 But, behold, [y] I will raise up against you a nation, O house of Israel, saith the LORD the God of hosts; and they shall afflict you from the [z] entering in of Hemath unto the * river of the wilderness.

CHAP. VII.

1 The judgments of the grasshoppers, 4 and of the fire, are diverted by the prayer of Amos. 7 By the wall of a plumbline is signified the rejection of Israel. 10 Amaziah complaineth of Amos. 14 Amos sheweth his calling, 16 and Amaziah's judgment.

THUS hath the Lord GOD shewed unto me; and, behold, he formed * grasshoppers in the beginning of the shooting up of the latter growth; and, lo, it was the latter growth after the king's mowings.

2 And it came to pass, that when they had made an end of eating the grass of the land, then I said, O Lord GOD, forgive, I beseech thee: [a] † by whom shall Jacob arise? for he is small.

3 [b] The LORD repented for this: It shall not be, saith the LORD.

4 ¶ Thus hath the Lord GOD shewed unto me: and, behold, the Lord GOD called to contend by fire, and it devoured the great deep, and did eat up a part.

5 Then said I, O Lord GOD, cease, I beseech thee: [c] by whom shall Jacob arise? for he is small.

6 The LORD repented for this: This also shall not be, saith the Lord GOD.

7 ¶ Thus he shewed me: and, behold, the Lord stood upon a wall made by a plumbline, with a plumbline in his hand.

8 And the LORD said unto me, Amos, what seest thou? And I said, A plumbline. Then said the Lord, Behold, [d] I will set a plumbline in the midst of my people Israel: [e] I will not again pass by them any more:

9 [f] And the high places of Isaac shall be desolate, and the sanctuaries of Israel shall be laid waste; and [g] I will rise against the house of Jeroboam with the sword.

10 ¶ Then Amaziah [h] the priest of Bethel sent to [i] Jeroboam king of Israel, saying, Amos hath conspired against thee in the midst of the house of Israel: the land is not able to bear all his words.

11 For thus Amos saith, Jeroboam shall die by the sword, and Israel shall surely be led away captive out of their own land.

12 Also Amaziah said unto Amos, O thou

CHAP. VI. Ver. 1. Woe to them, &c.—The prophet here reproves his people for their luxuries, and for entering into alliance with their idolatrous neighbours, without having a due sense of God's chastisements, who, for their wickedness, threatens desolation to the whole land by pestilence, famine and drought, which would so dry up the soil that it should not be tilled.

CHAP. VII. Ver. 1. Thus hath the Lord, &c.—In this chapter, Amos has three several visions, in which are represented the judgments which God is about to bring upon Israel. The first is a visitation of locusts, the second of fire, and the third a complete desolation of the land. The chapter concludes with a denunciation against Amaziah, the priest of Bethel, who had accused Amos of sedition to Jeroboam, king of Israel.

seer, go, flee thee away into the land of Judah, and there eat bread, and prophesy there:

13 But [k] prophesy not again any more at Beth-el: [l] for it is the king's ‡ chapel, and it is the § king's court.

14 ¶ Then answered Amos, and said to Amaziah, I was no prophet, neither was I [m] a prophet's son; [n] but I was an herdman, and a gatherer of ‖ sycomore fruit:

15 And the LORD took me * as I followed the flock, and the LORD said unto me, Go, prophesy unto my people Israel.

16 ¶ Now therefore hear thou the word of the LORD: Thou sayest, Prophesy not against Israel, and [o] drop not thy word against the house of Isaac.

17 [p] Therefore thus saith the LORD; [q] Thy wife shall be an harlot in the city, and thy sons and thy daughters shall fall by the sword, and thy land shall be divided by line; and thou shalt die in a polluted land: and Israel shall surely go into captivity forth of his land.

CHAP. VIII.

1 By a basket of summer fruit is shewed the propinquity of Israel's end. 4 Oppression is reproved. 11 A famine of the word threatened.

THUS hath the Lord GOD shewed unto me: and behold a basket of summer fruit.

2 And he said, Amos, what seest thou? And I said, A basket of summer fruit. Then said the LORD unto me, [a] The end is come upon my people of Israel; [b] I will not again pass by them any more.

3 And [c] the songs of the temple * shall be howlings in that day, saith the Lord GOD: there shall be many dead bodies in every place; [d] they shall cast them forth † with silence.

4 ¶ Hear this, O ye that [e] swallow up the needy, even to make the poor of the land to fail,

5 Saying, When will the ‡ new moon be gone, that we may sell corn? and [f] the sabbath, that we may § set forth wheat, [g] making the ephah small, and the shekel great, and ‖ falsifying the balances by deceit?

6 That we may buy the poor for [h] silver, and the needy for a pair of shoes; yea, and sell the refuse of the wheat?

7 The LORD hath sworn by [i] the excellency of Jacob, Surely [k] I will never forget any of their works.

8 [l] Shall not the land tremble for this, and every one mourn that dwelleth therein? and it shall rise up wholly as a flood; and it shall be cast out and drowned, [m] as by the flood of Egypt.

9 And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the Lord GOD, [n] that I will cause the sun to go down at noon, and I will darken the earth in the clear day:

10 [o] And I will turn your feasts into mourning, and all your songs into lamentation; [p] and I will bring up sackcloth upon all loins, and baldness upon every head; [q] and I will make it as the mourning of an only son, and the end thereof as a bitter day.

11 ¶ Behold, the days come, saith the Lord GOD, that I will send a famine in the land, not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but [r] of hearing the words of the LORD:

12 And they shall wander from sea to sea, and from the north even to the east, they shall run to and fro to seek the word of the LORD, and shall not find it.

13 In that day shall the fair virgins and young men faint for thirst.

14 They that [s] swear by [t] the sin of Samaria, and say, Thy god, O Dan, liveth; and, The * manner [u] of Beer-sheba liveth; even they shall fall, and never rise up again.

I SAW the Lord standing upon the altar: and he said, Smite the * lintel of the door, that the posts may shake: and † [a] cut them in the head, all of them; and I will slay the last of them with the sword: [b] he that fleeth of them shall not flee away, and he that escapeth of them shall not be delivered.

2 [c] Though they dig into hell, thence shall mine hand take them; [d] though they climb up to heaven, thence will I bring them down:

3 And though they hide themselves in the top of Carmel, I will search and take them out thence; and though they be hid from my sight in the bottom of the sea, thence will I command the serpent, and he shall bite them:

4 And though they go into captivity before their enemies, [e] thence will I command the sword, and it shall slay them: and [f] I will set mine eyes upon them for evil, and not for good.

5 And the Lord GOD of hosts is he that toucheth the land, and it shall [g] melt, [h] and all that dwell therein shall mourn: and it shall rise up wholly like a flood; and shall be drowned, as by the flood of Egypt.

6 It is he that buildeth his ‡ § [i] stories in the heaven, and hath founded his ‖ troop in the earth; he that [k] calleth for the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the face of the earth: [l] The LORD is his name.

7 Are ye not as children of the Ethiopians unto me, O children of Israel? saith the LORD. Have not I brought up Israel out of the land of Egypt? and the [m] Philistines from [n] Caphtor, and the Syrians from [o] Kir?

8 Behold, [p] the eyes of the Lord GOD are upon the sinful kingdom, and I [q] will destroy it from off the face of the earth; saving that I will not utterly destroy the house of Jacob, saith the LORD.

9 For, lo, I will command, and I will * sift the house of Israel among all nations, like as corn is sifted in a sieve, yet shall not the least † grain fall upon the earth.

10 All the sinners of my people shall die by the sword, [r] which say, The evil shall not overtake nor prevent us.

CHAP. VIII. Ver. 1. Thus hath the Lord, &c.—Amos here shows, in a fourth vision, the reasons of the destruction of the ten tribes. He then proceeds to "reprove them for oppression, and foretells that the sun shall be darkened by an eclipse upon their solemn festivals, which shall turn their present joy into mourning, and shall be esteemed a prognostication of more dismal calamities to come, amongst which a famine of God's word, here be esteemed the greatest threatened, may." W. Lowth.

CHAP. IX. Ver. 1. I saw the Lord standing, &c.—In this last chapter, the prophet declares another vision, in which God is represented as denouncing judgment upon Israel, declaring its final ruin and the general dispersion of the Jews. The prophecy concludes with promises of restoring the kingdom of David under the Gospel dispensation, when the Church shall be enlarged by the accession of the Gentile nations.

1 The destruction of Edom, 3 for their pride, 10 and for their wrong unto Jacob. 17 The salvation and victory of Jacob.

THE vision of Obadiah. Thus saith the Lord GOD [a] concerning Edom; [b] We have heard a rumour from the LORD, and an ambassador is sent among the heathen, Arise ye, and let us rise up against her in battle.

2 Behold, I have made thee small among the heathen: thou art greatly despised.

3 ¶ The pride of thine heart hath deceived thee, thou that dwellest in the clefts [c] of the rock, whose habitation is high; [d] that saith in his heart, Who shall bring me down to the ground?

4 [e] Though thou exalt thyself as the eagle, and though thou [f] set thy nest among the stars, thence will I bring thee down, saith the LORD.

5 If [g] thieves came to thee, if robbers by night, (how art thou cut off!) would they not have stolen till they had enough? if the grapegatherers came to thee, [h] would they not leave *some grapes?

6 How are the things of Esau searched out! how are his hidden things sought up!

7 All the men of thy confederacy have brought thee even to the border: †the men that were at peace with thee have deceived thee, and prevailed against thee; ‡they that eat thy bread have laid a wound under thee: [k] there is none understanding § in him.

8 [l] Shall I not in that day, saith the LORD, even destroy the wise men out of Edom, and understanding out of the mount of Esau?

9 And thy [m] mighty men, O [n] Teman, shall be dismayed, to the end that every one of the mount of Esau may be cut off by slaughter.

10 ¶ For thy [o] violence against thy brother Jacob shame shall cover thee, and [p] thou shalt be cut off for ever.

11 In the day that thou stoodest on the other side, in the day that the strangers ‖ carried away captive his forces, and foreigners entered into his gates, and [q] cast lots upon Jerusalem, even thou wast as one of them.

12 But *thou shouldest not have [r] looked on [s] the day of thy brother in the day that he became a stranger; neither shouldest thou have [t] rejoiced over the children of Judah in the day of their destruction; neither shouldest thou have † spoken proudly in the day of distress.

13 Thou shouldest not have entered into the gate of my people in the day of their calamity; yea, thou shouldest not have looked on their affliction in the day of their calamity, nor have laid hands on their ‡ substance in the day of their calamity.

14 Neither shouldest thou have stood in the crossway, to cut off those of his that did escape; neither shouldest thou have § delivered up those of his that did remain in the day of distress.

15 [u] For the day of the LORD is near upon all the heathen: [x] as thou hast done, it shall be done unto thee: thy reward shall return upon thine own head.

16 [y] For as ye have drunk upon my holy mountain, so shall all the heathen drink continually, yea, they shall drink, and they shall ‖ swallow down, and they shall be as though they had not been.

17 ¶ [z] But upon mount Zion [a] shall be * deliverance, and † there shall be holiness; and the house of Jacob shall possess their possessions.

18 And the house of Jacob [b] shall be a fire, and the house of Joseph a flame, and the house of Esau for stubble, and they shall kindle in them, and devour them; and there shall not be any remaining of the house of Esau; for the LORD hath spoken it.

19 And they of the south [c] shall possess the mount of Esau; [d] and they of the plain the Philistines: and they shall possess the fields of Ephraim, and the fields of Samaria: and Benjamin shall possess Gilead.

20 And the captivity of this host of the children of Israel shall possess that of the Canaanites, even [e] unto Zarephath; and the captivity of Jerusalem, ‡ which is in Sepharad, [f] shall possess the cities of the south.

21 And [g] saviours shall come up on mount Zion to judge the mount of Esau; and the [h] kingdom shall be the LORD's.

OBADIAH.—"It is probable that Obadiah flourished about the same time with Ezekiel and Jeremiah; and the best opinions concur in supposing him to have prophecied a little after the destruction of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar, which happened about the year of the world 3416. He predicted, therefore, the same circumstances which those prophets had foretold against the Edomites who had, on many occasions, favoured the enemies of Judah; and who, when "strangers carried their forces away captive, and foreigners cast lots upon Jerusalem," had rejoiced at the destruction, and insulted the children of Judah in their affliction, ver. 11, 14; Psalm cxxxvii. 7."—Dr. Gray.

CHAP. 1. The vision of Obadiah, &c.—This prophecy is limited to a single chapter in which the prophet, after having declared the judgments of God upon Edom, denouncing its destruction for its hostility towards the Jews, predicts the restoration of the latter from the dreadful bondage imposed upon them by the Chaldean kings, and their final triumph over their adversaries. He foretells the subjugation of the Edomites, first by the Chaldeans, and finally by the Jews, whom they had most inhumanly treated under their calamities.

JONAH.

B. C. cir. 862

CHAP. I.

1 Jonah, sent to Nineveh, flieth to Tarshish. 14 He is bewrayed by a tempest, 17 thrown into the sea, and swallowed by a fish.

NOW the word of the LORD came unto [a] Jonah the son of Amittai, saying,

2 Arise, go to Nineveh, that [b] great city, and cry against it; for [c] their wickedness is come up before me.

3 But Jonah [d] rose up to flee unto Tarshish from the presence of the LORD, and went down to [e] Joppa; and he found a ship going to Tarshish: so he paid the fare thereof, and went down into it, to go with them unto Tarshish [f] from the presence of the LORD.

4 ¶ But [g] the LORD †sent out a great wind into the sea, and there was a mighty tempest in the sea, so that the ship ‡was like to be broken.

5 Then the mariners were afraid, and cried every man unto his god, and [h] cast forth the wares that were in the ship into the sea, to lighten it of them. But Jonah was gone down [i] into the sides of the ship; and he lay, and was fast asleep.

6 So the shipmaster came to him, and said unto him, What meanest thou, O sleeper? arise, [k] call upon thy God, [l] if so be that God will think upon us, that we perish not.

7 And they said every one to his fellow, Come, and let us [m] cast lots, that we may know for whose cause this evil is upon us. So they cast lots, and the lot fell upon Jonah.

8 Then they said unto him, [n] Tell us, we pray thee, for whose cause this evil is upon us; What is thine occupation? and whence comest thou? what is thy country? and of what people art thou?

9 And he said unto them, I am an Hebrew; and I fear § the LORD, the God of heaven, [o] which hath made the sea and the dry land.

10 Then were the men ‖ exceedingly afraid, and said unto him, Why hast thou done this? For the men knew that he fled from the presence of the LORD, because he had told them.

11 ¶ Then said they unto him, What shall we do unto thee, that the sea *may be calm unto us? for the sea †‡wrought, and was tempestuous.

12 And he said unto them, [p] Take me up, and cast me forth into the sea; so shall the sea be calm unto you: for I know that for my sake this great tempest is upon you.

13 Nevertheless the men § rowed hard to bring it to the land; [q] but they could not: for the sea wrought, and was tempestuous against them.

14 Wherefore they cried unto the LORD, and said, We beseech thee, O LORD, we beseech thee, let us not perish for this man's life, and [r] lay not upon us innocent blood: for thou, O LORD, [s] hast done as it pleased thee.

15 So they took up Jonah, and cast him forth into the sea: [t] and the sea ‖ ceased from her raging.

16 Then the men [u] feared the LORD exceedingly, and *offered a sacrifice unto the LORD, and made vows.

17 ¶ Now the LORD had prepared a great fish to swallow up Jonah. And [x] Jonah was in the †belly of the fish three days and three nights.

CHAP. II.

1 The prayer of Jonah. 10 He is delivered from the fish.

THEN Jonah prayed unto the LORD his God out of the fish's belly,

2 And said, I [a] cried [*] by reason of mine affliction unto the LORD, [b] and he heard me; out of the belly of † hell cried I, and thou heardest my voice.

3 [c] For thou hadst cast me into the deep, in the ‡midst of the seas; and the floods compassed me about: [d] all thy billows and thy waves passed over me.

4 [e] Then I said, I am cast out of my sight; yet I will look again [f] toward thy holy temple.

5 The [g] waters compassed me about, even to the soul: the depth closed me round about, the weeds were wrapped about my head.

6 I went down to the § bottoms of the mountains; the earth with her bars was about me for ever: yet hast thou brought up my life [h] from ‖ corruption, O LORD my God.

7 When my soul fainted within me I remembered the LORD: [i] and my prayer came in unto thee, into thine holy temple.

8 They that observe [k] lying vanities forsake their own mercy.

9 But I will [l] sacrifice unto thee with the voice of thanksgiving; I will pay that that I have vowed. [m] Salvation is of the LORD.

10 ¶ And the LORD spake unto the fish, and it vomited out Jonah upon the dry land.

CHAP. III.

1 Jonah, sent again, preacheth to the Ninevites. 5 Upon their repentance, 10 God repenteth.

AND the word of the LORD came unto Jonah the second time, saying,

2 Arise, go unto Nineveh, that great city, and preach unto it the preaching that I bid thee.

3 So Jonah arose, and went unto Nineveh, according to the word of the LORD. Now Nineveh was an *exceeding great city of three days' journey.

4 And Jonah began to enter into the city

JONAH.—"Jonah was the ancientest of the prophets whose writings are preserved in Scripture canon. Bishop Lloyd, in his chronological tables, supposes him to have prophecied in the latter end of Joash's, or the beginning of Jehoahaz's reign; at which time the kingdom of Israel was brought very low by the oppressions of Hazael, king of Syria, 2 Kings xiii. 22. This might be a proper reason for Jonah to foretel the success which Jehoahaz's grandson, Jeroboam, should have in restoring the coasts of Israel, Ibid. chap. xiv. 25. He was of Gath-hopher, a town in the tribe of Zebulun, Joshua xix. 13, not far from Zepphorim or Diocæsarea, as St. Jerom informs us in his commentary upon Jonah; who adds, that "Jonah's sepulchre was shewed there in his time." This town was situated in Galilee, and so confutes the observation of the Pharisees, "that out of Galilee there did arise no prophet," John vii. 52. He was sent to Nineveh to denunce destruction to that city within forty days' time if they repented not. But, they complying with the summons of the prophet, God decreed the executing his judgments till the increase of their iniquities made them ripe for destruction, about one hundred and fifty years afterwards."—W. Lowth.

CHAP. I. Ver. 1. Now the word of the Lord, &c.—The prophet begins with an account of his being commissioned by God to preach to Nineveh, but he flies to Tarshish. In consequence of this disobedience of the divine commands, the ship in which he sails is overtaken by a terrible storm; he is cast by the mariners into the sea, swallowed by a huge fish, and remains three days and nights in its belly.

CHAP. II. Ver. 1. Then Jonah prayed, &c.—This chapter contains Jonah's prayer and the account of his deliverance.

CHAP. III. Ver. 1. And the word of the Lord, &c.—The prophet is again commanded to proceed to Nineveh. He obeys, preaches to the Ninevites, they repent, and God revokes his denunciations against them.

a day's journey, and [a]he cried, and said, Yet forty days, and Nineveh shall be overthrown.

5 ¶ So the people of Nineveh [b]believed God, and proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloth, from the greatest of them even to the least of them.

6 For word came unto the king of Nineveh, and he arose from his throne, and he laid his robe from him, and covered him with sackcloth, [c] and sat in ashes.

7 [d] And he caused it to be proclaimed and † published through Nineveh by the decree of the king and his ‡ nobles, saying, Let neither man nor beast, herd nor flock, taste any thing: let them not feed, nor drink water:

8 But let man and beast be covered with sackcloth, and cry mightily unto God: yea, [e] let them turn every one from his evil way, and from [f] the violence that is in their hands.

9 [g] Who can tell if God will turn and repent, and turn away from his fierce anger, that we perish not?

10 ¶ [h] And God saw their works, that they turned from their evil way; and God repented of the evil, that he had said that he would do unto them; and he did it not.

CHAP. IV.

1 Jonah, repining at God's mercy, 4 is reproved by the type of a gourd.

BUT it displeased Jonah exceedingly, and he was very angry.

2 And he prayed unto the LORD, and said, I pray thee, O LORD, was not this my saying, when I was yet in my country? Therefore I [a]fled before unto Tarshish: for I knew that thou art a [b]gracious God, and merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness, and repentest thee of the evil.

3 [c] Therefore now, O LORD, take, I beseech thee, my life from me; for [d] it is better for me to die than to live.

4 ¶ Then said the LORD, * Doest thou well to be angry?

5 So Jonah went out of the city, and sat on the east side of the city, and there made him a booth, and sat under it in the shadow, till he might see what would become of the city.

6 And the LORD God prepared a †‡ gourd, and made it to come up over Jonah, that it might be a shadow over his head, to deliver him from his grief. So Jonah § was exceeding glad of the gourd.

7 But God prepared a worm when the morning rose the next day, and it smote the gourd that it withered.

8 And it came to pass, when the sun did arise, that God prepared a ‖ vehement east wind; and the sun beat upon the head of Jonah, that he fainted, and wished in himself to die, and said, [e] It is better for me to die than to live.

9 And God said to Jonah, * Doest thou well to be angry for the gourd? And he said, † I do well to be angry, even unto death.

10 Then said the LORD, Thou hast ‡ had pity on the gourd, for the which thou hast not laboured, neither madest it grow; which § came up in a night, and perished in a night:

11 And should not I spare Nineveh, [f] that great city, wherein are more than sixscore thousand persons [g] that cannot discern between their right hand and their left hand; and also much [h] cattle?

1 Micah sheweth the wrath of God against Jacob for idolatry. 10 He exhorteth to mourning.

THE word of the LORD that came to [a] Micah the Morasthite in the days of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, [b] which he saw concerning Samaria and Jerusalem.

2 * Hear, all ye people; [c] hearken, O earth, and † all that therein is: and let the Lord GOD [d] be witness against you, the Lord from [e] his holy temple.

MICAH.—Micah is supposed to have been a native of Moresha, a village situated near the city of Eleutheropolis, in the southern part of Judah.

"The prophecy of Micah contains but seven chapters. He first foretells the calamities of Samaria, afterwards he prophecies against Judah; then he exclaims against the iniquities of Samaria; he foretells the captivity of the ten tribes and their return. The third chapter contains a pathetic invective against the princes of the house of Jacob and the judges of the house of Israel. We are informed by Jeremiah, xxiv. 18, 19, that this prophecy was pronounced in the time of Hezekiah, and that, in the days of Jehoiakim, it protected Jeremiah from death, who prophecied much the same things against Jerusalem as Micah had done.

"After these terrible denunciations, Micah speaks of the reign of the Messiah. And as the peaceable times which succeeded the return from the Babylonish captivity, and which prefigured the reign of the Messiah, were disturbed by a tempest of short continuance: Micah foretold it in a manner which agrees very well with what Ezekiel says of the war of Gog against the saints, and which we think had relation to the reigns of Cambyses or the war of Holofernes. Micah speaks particularly of the birth of the Messiah, chap. v. 2, 3, &c., at Bethlehem, whose dominion was to extend over the earth.

"The two last chapters of Micah contain a long invective against the iniquities of Samaria; then he foretels the fall of Babylon, the re-establishment of Israel, their happiness, &c., and this in such lofty terms as chiefly agree with the state of the Christian church."—Calmet.

CHAP. I. Ver. 1. The word of the Lord, &c.—The prophet commences with calling the attention of all people to the awful judgments with which God was about to visit Samaria and Jerusalem; the latter of which is threatened with invasion from the Assyrian army. Other cities are likewise menaced with punishment, from which no human aid shall avail to save them. The Israelites are doomed to captivity.

1 Against oppression. 4 A lamentation. 7 A reproof of injustice and idolatry. 12 A promise of restoring Jacob.

WOE to them [a] that devise iniquity, and [b] work evil upon their beds! when the morning is light, they practise it, because [c] it is in the power of their hand.

2 And they covet [d] fields, and take them by violence; and houses, and take them away: so they * oppress a man and his house, even a man and his heritage.

3 Therefore thus saith the LORD; Behold, against [e] this family do I devise an evil, from which ye shall not remove your necks; neither shall ye go haughtily: [f] for this time is evil.

4 ¶ In that day shall one [g] take up a parable against you, and [h] lament † with a doleful lamentation, and say, We be utterly spoiled: [i] he hath changed the portion of my people: how hath he removed it from me! ‡ turning away he hath divided our fields.

5 Therefore thou shalt have none that shall [k] cast a cord by lot in the congregation of the LORD.

6 § ‖ [l] Prophesy ye not, say they to them that prophesy: they shall not prophesy to them, that they should not take shame.

7 ¶ O thou that art named the house of Jacob, is the spirit of the LORD * straitened? are these his doings? do not my words do good to him that walketh † uprightly?

8 Even ‡ of late my people is risen up as an enemy: ye pull off the robe § with the garment from them that pass by securely as men averse from war.

9 The ‖ women of my people have ye cast out from their pleasant houses; from their children have ye taken away my glory for ever.

10 Arise ye, and depart; for this is not your [m] rest: because it is [n] polluted, it shall destroy you, even with a sore destruction.

11 If a man * ° walking in the spirit and falsehood do lie, saying, I will prophesy unto thee of wine and of strong drink; he shall even be the prophet of this people.

12 ¶ [p] I will surely assemble, O Jacob, all of thee; I will surely gather the remnant of Israel; I will put them together [q] as the sheep of Bozrah, as the flock in the midst of their fold: [r] they shall make great noise by reason of the multitude of men.

13 The breaker is come up before them: they have broken up, and have passed through the gate, and are gone out by it: and * their king shall pass before them, [t] and the LORD on the head of them.

CHAP. III.

1 The cruelty of the princes. 5 The falsehood of the prophets. 8 The security of them both.

AND I said, Hear, I pray you, O heads of Jacob, and ye princes of the house of Israel; [a] Is it not for you to know judgment?

2 Who hate the good, and love the evil; who pluck off their skin from off them, and their flesh from off their bones;

3 Who also [b] eat the flesh of my people, and flay their skin from off them; and they break their bones, and chop them in pieces, as for the pot, and [c] as flesh within the caldron.

4 Then [d] shall they cry unto the LORD, but he will not hear them: he will even hide his face from them at that time, as they have behaved themselves ill in their doings.

5 ¶ Thus saith the LORD * concerning the prophets that make my people err, that [f] bite with their teeth, and cry, Peace; and [g] he that putteth not into their mouths, they even prepare war against him:

6 [h] Therefore night shall be unto you, * that ye shall not have a vision; and it shall be dark unto you, † that ye shall not divine: [i] and the sun shall go down over the prophets, and the day shall be dark over them.

7 Then shall the seers be ashamed, and the diviners confounded: yea, they shall all cover their ‡ lips; [k] for there is no answer of God.

8 ¶ But truly I am full of power by the spirit of the LORD, and of judgment, and of might, [l] to declare unto Jacob his transgression, and to Israel his sin.

9 Hear this, I pray you, ye heads of the house of Jacob, and princes of the house of Israel, that abhor judgment, and pervert all equity.

10 [m] They build up Zion with [n] § blood, and Jerusalem with iniquity.

11 ° The heads thereof judge for reward, and [p] the priests thereof teach for hire, and the prophets thereof divine for money: [q] yet will they lean upon the LORD, ‖ and say, Is not the LORD among us? none evil can come upon us.

12 Therefore shall Zion for your sake be [r] plowed as a field, * and Jerusalem shall become heaps, and [t] the mountain of the house as the high places of the forest.

BUT [a] in the last days it shall come to pass, that the mountain of the house of the LORD shall be established in the top of the mountains, and it shall be exalted above the hills; and people shall flow unto it.

2 And many nations shall come, and say, Come, and let us go up to the mountain of the LORD, and to the house of the God of Jacob; and he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths: for the law shall go forth of Zion, and the word of the LORD from Jerusalem.

3 ¶ And he shall judge among many people, and rebuke strong nations afar off; and they shall beat their swords into [b] plowshares, and their spears into [c] pruninghooks: nation shall not lift up a sword against nation, [c] neither shall they learn war any more.

CHAP. IV. Ver. 1. But in the last days, &c.—Micah commences this chapter with a solemn prediction of the establishment and increase of Christ's kingdom. He predicts the restoration of the Jews from their ingorious bondage, and their spiritual freedom under the Gospel dispensation, exhorting them not to be discouraged by the apprehension of oppressing captivity, for that they should eventually triumph over all earthly foes, and obtain better and more lasting privileges in the blessings of a covenant sealed with the blood of God incarnate.

[p] ver. 3. [q] Deut. 32. 2. Ps. 72. 6. & 110. 3.

8 ¶ And the remnant of Jacob shall be among the Gentiles in the midst of many people as a lion among the beasts of the forest, as a young lion among the flocks of [r] sheep; who, if he go through, both treadeth down, and teareth in pieces, and none can deliver.

9 Thine hand shall be lifted up upon thine adversaries, and all thine enemies shall be cut off.

10 ¶ And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the LORD, that I will cut off thy horses out of the midst of thee, and I will destroy thy chariots:

[q] Zech. 9. 10.

11 And I will cut off the cities of thy land, and throw down all thy strong holds:

12 And I will cut off witchcrafts out of thine hand; and thou shalt have no more [s] soothsayers:

[s] Isa. 2. 6.

13 [t] Thy graven images also will I cut off, and thy † standing images out of the midst of thee; and thou shalt [u] no more worship the work of thine hands.

15 And I will [x] execute vengeance in anger and fury upon the heathen, such as they have not heard.

[x] Isa. 149. 7. ver. 9. 2 Thess. 1. 8.

CHAP. V. Ver. 1. Now gather thyself in troops, &c.—The subject of this chapter is very important. It contains a prophecy concerning the birth of Christ, whose kingdom is to be an everlasting kingdom, and shall therefore triumph over all the hostile nations of the earth. The chapter concludes with a prediction of the final purification of the church from the corruptions of Antichrist.

CHAP. VI.

1 God's controversy for unkindness, 6 for ignorance, 10 for injustice, 16 and for idolatry.

HEAR ye now what the LORD saith; Arise, contend thou * before the mountains, and let the hills hear thy voice.

2 [a] Hear ye, O mountains, [b] the LORD's controversy, and ye strong foundations of the earth: for [c] the LORD hath a controversy with his people, and he will plead with Israel.

3 O my people, [d] what have I done unto thee? and wherein have I wearied thee? testify against me.

4 [e] For I brought thee up out of the land of Egypt, and redeemed thee out of the house of servants; and I sent before thee Moses, Aaron, and Miriam.

5 O my people, remember now what [f] Balak king of Moab consulted, and what Balaam the son of Beor answered him from [g] Shittim unto Gilgal; that ye may know [h] the righteousness of the LORD.

6 ¶ Wherewith shall I come before the LORD, and bow myself before the high God? shall I come before him with burnt offerings, with calves † of a year old?

7 [i] Will the LORD be pleased with thousands of rams, or with ten thousands of [k] rivers of oil? [l] shall I give my firstborn for my transgression, the fruit of my ‡ body for the sin of my soul?

8 He hath [m] shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the LORD require of thee, but [n] to do justly, and to love mercy, and to § walk humbly with thy God?

9 The LORD's voice crieth unto the city, and ‖ the man of wisdom shall see thy name: hear ye the rod, and who hath appointed it.

10 ¶ * Are there yet the treasures of wickedness in the house of the wicked, and the † scant measure [o] that is abominable?

11 ‡ Shall I count them pure with [p] the wicked balances, and with the bag of deceitful weights?

12 For the rich men thereof are full of violence, and the inhabitants thereof have spoken lies, and [q] their tongue is deceitful in their mouth.

13 Therefore also will I [r] make thee sick in smiting thee, in making thee desolate because of thy sins.

14 [s] Thou shalt eat, but not be satisfied; and thy casting down shall be in the midst of thee; and thou shalt take hold, but shalt not deliver; and that which thou deliverest will I give up to the sword.

15 Thou shalt [t] sow, but thou shalt not reap; thou shalt tread the olives, but thou shalt not anoint thee with oil; and sweet wine, but shalt not drink wine.

16 ¶ For § the statutes of [u] Omri are [x] kept, and all the works of the house of [y] Ahab, and ye walk in their counsels; that I should make thee [z] a ‖ desolation, and the inhabitants thereof an hissing: therefore ye shall bear the [a] reproach of my people.

2 The [c] † good man is perished out of the earth: and there is none upright among men: they all lie in wait for blood; [d] they hunt every man his brother with a net.

3 ¶ That they may do evil with both hands earnestly, [e] the prince asketh, [f] and the judge asketh for a reward; and the great man, he uttereth ‡ his mischievous desire: so they wrap it up.

4 The best of them [g] is as a brier: the most upright is sharper than a thorn hedge: the day of thy watchmen and thy visitation cometh; now shall be their perplexity.

5 ¶ [h] Trust ye not in a friend, put ye not confidence in a guide: keep the doors of thy mouth from her that lieth in thy bosom.

6 For [i] the son dishonoureth the father, the daughter riseth up against her mother, the daughter in law against her mother in law; a man's enemies are the men of his own house.

7 Therefore [k] I will look unto the LORD; I will wait for the God of my salvation: my God will hear me.

8 ¶ [l] Rejoice not against me, O mine enemy: [m] when I fall, I shall arise; when I sit in darkness, [n] the LORD shall be a light unto me.

9 [o] I will bear the indignation of the LORD, because I have sinned against him, until he plead my cause, and execute judgment for me: [p] he will bring me forth to the light, and I shall behold his righteousness.

10 § Then she that is mine enemy shall see it, and [q] shame shall cover her which said unto me, [r] Where is the LORD thy God? [s] mine eyes shall behold her: now ‖ shall she be trodden down [t] as the mire of the streets.

NAHUM.—Nahum, the seventh of the twelve minor prophets, was a native of Elkoshai, a little village of Galilee, whose ruins were still in being in the time of Jerome. However, there are some who think that Elkoshai is rather the name of his father, and that the place of his birth was Bethabar or Bethabara beyond Jordan. "The particular circumstances of the life of Nahum are altogether unknown. His prophecy consists of three chapters, which make up but one discourse, wherein he foretels the destruction of Nineveh. He describes it in so lively and pathetic a manner that he seems to have been upon the spot."—Calmet.

CHAP. 1. Ver. 1. The burthen of Nineveh, &c.—This chapter is a sort of preface to the prophecy following it, and is called the burden of Nineveh, because the prophetic denunciation against that city is the subject which it introduces. The prophet opens with a noble description of the omnipotence, tender compassion, and loving-kindness of the Lord. Destruction is threatened to the Ninevites and their idols; and deliverance is pronounced to the seed of Jacob.

CHAP. II. Ver. 1. He that dasheth in pieces, &c.—The prophet here calls upon Nineveh to prepare for its approaching destruction by the instruments of divine vengeance. A description of the siege follows, with the terror and captivity of the citizens.

CHAP. III. Ver. 1. Woe to the bloody city, &c.—The subject of the last chapter is continued in this. The most grievous calamities are to follow the capture of Nineveh, because of her licentiousness, gross superstition, and filthy abominations, in which she had been a vile example to other nations. Her destruction shall be final and complete. This entire prophecy is exceedingly sublime.

HABAKKUK.—The prophet Habakkuk was probably contemporary with Jeremiah, and prophesied in the reign of Josiah: for the subject of his prophecy is the same with that of Jeremiah and upon the same occasion, namely the destruction of Judah and Jerusalem by the Chaldeans, for their heinous sins and provocations. We may observe, as Nahum, the preceding prophet, foretold the destruction of the Assyrians who carried the ten tribes captive; so Habakkuk foretells the judgments that should come upon the Chaldeans, who completed the captivity of the two remaining tribes." —W. Lowth.

CHAP. I. Ver. 1. The burden which Habakkuk, &c.—The prophet enters at once into his subject, expressing his indignation at the general prevalence of vice among the Jews. He then introduces the Deity as solemnly denouncing his judgments to be visited upon Judea through the instrumentality of the Chaldeans, but devoutly expostulates with Him for allowing an idolatrous people, far more wicked than the Jews, to oppress and destroy them.

Meanwhile, the righteous will support themselves by faith and trust in Him. The overthrow of the Babylonian empire, by the Medes and Persians, is next foretold, and the calamities which will befal the Chaldeans for their idolatry.

CHAP. III. Ver. 1. A prayer of Habakkuk, &c.—This prayer is in the highest strain of poetry. Habakkuk here celebrates the divine power and goodness in delivering his people from Egyptian bondage, and conducting them to their promised inheritance, the land of Canaan. From such miraculous proofs of God's omnipotence and loving-kindness towards his people, the prophet encourages all good men to hope for the final ratification of the divine promises.

CHAP. I.

God's severe judgment against Judah for divers sins.

B. C. cir. 630

THE word of the LORD which came unto Zephaniah the son of Cushi, the son of Gedaliah, the son of Amariah, the son of Hizkiah, in the days of Josiah the son of Ammon, king of Judah.

2 [a] I will utterly consume all things from off † the land, saith the LORD.

3 [b] I will consume man and beast; I will consume the fowls of the heaven, and the fishes of the sea, and [c] the ‡ stumblingblocks with the wicked; and I will cut off man from off the land, saith the LORD.

4 I will also stretch out mine hand upon Judah, and upon all the inhabitants of Jerusalem; and [d] I will cut off the remnant of Baal from this place, and the name of [e] the Chemarims with the priests;

5 And them [f] that worship the host of heaven upon the housetops; [g] and them that worship and [h] that swear § by the LORD, and that swear [i] by Malcham;

6 And [k] them that are turned back from the LORD; and those that [l] have not sought the LORD, nor enquired for him.

7 [m] Hold thy peace at the presence of the Lord GOD: [n] for the day of the LORD is at hand: for [o] the LORD hath prepared a sacrifice, he hath ‖ bid his guests.

8 And it shall come to pass in the day of the LORD'S sacrifice, that I will [p] punish [q] the princes, and the king's children, and all such as are clothed with strange apparel.

9 In the same day also will I punish all those that leap on the threshold, which fill their masters' houses with violence and deceit.

10 And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the LORD, that there shall be the noise of a cry from [r] the fish gate, and an howling from the second, and a great crashing from the hills.

11 [s] Howl, ye inhabitants of Maktesh, for all the merchant people are cut down; all they that bear silver are cut off.

12 And it shall come to pass at that time, that I will search Jerusalem with candles, and punish the men that are † [t] settled on their lees: [u] that say in their heart, The LORD will not do good, neither will he do evil.

13 Therefore their goods shall become a booty, and their houses a desolation: they shall also build houses, but [v] not inhabit them; and they shall plant vineyards, but [w] not drink the wine thereof.

14 [x] The great day of the LORD is near, it is near, and hasteth greatly, even the voice of the day of the LORD: the mighty man shall cry there bitterly.

15 [y] That day is a day of wrath, a day of trouble and distress, a day of wasteness and desolation, a day of darkness and gloominess, a day of clouds and thick darkness,

16 A day of [z] the trumpet and alarm against the fenced cities, and against the high towers.

17 And I will bring distress upon men, that they shall [a] walk like blind men, because they have sinned against the LORD: and [b] their blood shall be poured out as dust, and their flesh [c] as the dung.

18 [d] Neither their silver nor their gold shall be able to deliver them in the day of the LORD's wrath; but the whole land shall be [e] devoured by the fire of his jealousy: for [f] he shall make even a speedy riddance of all them that dwell in the land.

CHAP. II.

1 An exhortation to repentance. 4 The judgment of the Philistines, 8 of Moab and Ammon, 12 of Ethiopia and Assyria.

[a] GATHER yourselves together, yea, gather together, O nation [*] not desired;

2 Before the decree bring forth, before the day pass [b] as the chaff, before [c] the fierce anger of the LORD come upon you, before the day of the LORD's anger come upon you.

3 [d] Seek ye the LORD, [e] all ye meek of the earth, which have wrought his judgment; seek righteousness, seek meekness: [f] it may be ye shall be hid in the day of the LORD's anger.

4 ¶ For [g] Gaza shall be forsaken, and Ashkelon a desolation: they shall drive out Ashdod [h] at the noon day, and Ekron shall be rooted up.

5 Woe unto the inhabitants of [i] the sea coasts, the nation of the Cherethites! the word of the LORD is against you; O [k] Canaan, the land of the Philistines, I will even destroy thee, that there shall be no inhabitant.

6 And the sea coast shall be dwellings and cottages for shepherds, [l] and folds for flocks.

7 And the coast shall be for [m] the remnant of the house of Judah; they shall feed thereupon: in the houses of Ashkelon shall they lie down in the evening: † for the LORD their God shall [n] visit them, and [o] turn away their captivity.

8 ¶ [p] I have heard the reproach of Moab, and [q] the revilings of the children of Ammon, whereby they have reproached my people, and [r] magnified themselves against their border.

9 Therefore as I live, saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, Surely [s] Moab shall be as Sodom, and [t] the children of Ammon as Gomorrah, [u] even the breeding of nettles, and saltpits, and a perpetual desolation: [z] the residue of my people shall spoil them, and the remnant of my people shall possess them.

10 This shall they have [y] for their pride, because they have reproached and magnified themselves against the people of the LORD of hosts.

11 The LORD will be terrible unto them: for he will ‡ famish all the gods of the earth; [z] and men shall worship him, every one from his place, even all [a] the isles of the heathen.

12 ¶ [b] Ye Ethiopians also, ye shall be slain by [c] my sword.

13 And he will stretch out his hand against the north, and [d] destroy Assyria; and will make Nineveh a desolation, and dry like a wilderness.

14 And [e] flocks shall lie down in the midst of her, all [f] the beasts of the nations: both the § [g] cormorant and the bittern shall lodge in the ‖ upper lintels of it; their voice shall sing in the windows; desolation shall be in the thresholds: [*] for he shall uncover the [h] cedar work.

15 This is the rejoicing city [i] that dwelt carelessly, [k] that said in her heart, I am, and there is none beside me: how is she become a desolation, a place for beasts to lie down in! every one that passeth by her [l] shall hiss, and [m] wag his hand.

CHAP. III.

1 A sharp reproof of Jerusalem for divers sins. 8 An exhortation to wait for the restoration of Israel, 14 and to rejoice for their salvation by God.

WOE to [*] [†] her that is filthy and polluted, to the oppressing city!

2 She [a] obeyed not the voice; she [b] received not ‡ correction; she trusted not in the LORD; she drew not near to her God.

3 [c] Her princes within her are roaring lions; her judges are [d] evening wolves; they gnaw not the bones till the morrow.

4 Her [e] prophets are light and treacherous persons: her priests have polluted the sanctuary, they have done [f] violence to the law.

5 [g] The just LORD [h] is in the midst thereof; he will not do iniquity: § every morning doth he bring his judgment to light, he faileth not; but [i] the unjust knoweth no shame.

6 I have cut off the nations: their ‖ towers are desolate; I made their streets waste, that none passeth by: their cities are destroyed, so that there is no man, that there is none inhabitant.

7 [k] I said, Surely thou wilt fear me, thou wilt receive instruction; so their dwelling should not be cut off, howsoever I punished them: but they rose early, and [l] corrupted all their doings.

8 ¶ Therefore [m] wait ye upon me, saith the LORD, until the day that I rise up to the prey: for my determination is to [n] gather the nations, that I may assemble the kingdoms, to pour upon them mine indignation, even all my fierce anger: for all the earth [o] shall be devoured with the fire of my jealousy.

9 For then will I turn to the people [p] a pure [*] language, that they may all call upon the name of the LORD, to serve him with one † consent.

10 [q] From beyond the rivers of Ethiopia my suppliants, even the daughter of my dispersed, shall bring mine offering.

11 In that day shalt thou not be ashamed for all thy doings, wherein thou hast transgressed against me: for then I will take away out of the midst of thee them that [r] rejoice in thy pride, and thou shalt no more be haughty ‡ because of my holy mountain.

12 I will also leave in the midst of thee

HAGGAI.

B. C. cir. 520.

CHAP. I.

1 Haggai reproveth the people for neglecting the building of the house. 7 He inciteth them to the building. 12 He promiseth God's assistance to them being forward.

IN [a] the second year of Darius the king, in the sixth month, in the first day of the month, came the word of the LORD [*] by Haggai the prophet unto [b] Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, † governor of Judah, and to [c] Joshua the son of [d] Josedech, the high priest, saying,

2 Thus speaketh the LORD of hosts, saying, This people say, The time is not come, the time that the LORD's house should be built.

3 Then came the word of the LORD [e] by Haggai the prophet, saying,

4 [f] Is it time for you, O ye, to dwell in your cieled houses, and this house lie waste?

5 Now therefore thus saith the LORD of hosts; ‡ [g] Consider your ways.

6 Ye have [h] sown much, and bring in little; ye eat, but ye have not enough; ye drink, but ye are not filled with drink; ye clothe you, but there is none warm; [i] and he that earneth wages earneth wages to put it into a bag § with holes.

7 ¶ Thus saith the LORD of hosts; Consider your ways.

8 Go up to the mountain, and bring wood, and build the house; and I will take pleasure in it, and I will be glorified, saith the LORD.

9 [k] Ye looked for much, and, lo, it came to little; and when ye brought it home, [l] I did ‖ blow upon it. Why? saith the LORD of hosts. Because of mine house that is waste, and ye run every man unto his own house.

10 Therefore [m] the heaven over you is stayed from dew, and the earth is stayed from her fruit.

11 And I [n] called for a drought upon the land, and upon the mountains, and upon the corn, and upon the new wine, and upon the oil, and upon that which the ground bringeth forth, and upon men, and upon cattle, and upon all the labour of the hands.

B. C. cir. 520.

12 ¶ [p] Then Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, and Joshua the son of Josedech, the high priest, with all the remnant of the people, obeyed the voice of the LORD their God, and the words of Haggai the prophet, as the LORD their God had sent him, and the people did fear before the LORD.

13 Then spake Haggai the LORD's messenger in the LORD's message unto the people, saying, [q] I am with you, saith the LORD.

14 And [r] the LORD stirred up the spirit of Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, [s] governor of Judah, and the spirit of Joshua the son of Josedech, the high priest, and the spirit of all the remnant of the people; [t] and they came and did work in the house of the LORD of hosts, their God, 15 In the four and twentieth day of the sixth month, in the second year of Darius the king.

CHAP. II.

1 He encourageth the people to the work, by promise of greater glory to the second temple than was in the first. 10 In the type of holy things and unclean he sheweth their sins hindered the work. 20 God's promise to Zerubbabel.

IN the seventh month, in the one and twentieth day of the month, came the word of the LORD [*] by the prophet Haggai, saying,

2 Speak now to Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, and to Joshua the son of Josedech, the high priest, and to the residue of the people, saying,

3 [a] Who is left among you that saw this house in her first glory? and how do ye see it now? [b] is it not in your eyes in comparison of it as nothing?

4 Yet now [c] be strong, O Zerubbabel, saith the LORD; and be strong, O Joshua, son of Josedech, the high priest; and be strong, all ye people of the land, saith the LORD, and work: for I am with you, saith the LORD of hosts:

HAGGAI.—[a] Haggai, the tenth of the minor prophets, was, in all probability, born at Babylon, whence he accompanied Zerubbabel. The captives immediately after their return to Judea began with ardor to complete the Temple, but this work was suspended fourteen years, till after the death of Cambyses. Darius, son of Hystaspes, coming to the empire, Haggai was excited by God to exhort Zerubbabel, prince of Judah, and the high priest, Joshua, son of Josedech, to resume the work of the Temple, which had been so long interrupted, A.M. 3483, before Christ 521. The remonstrances of Haggai had their effect; and, in the second year of Darius, A. M. 3484, the sixteenth year after the return of the Jews from Babylon, they resumed this work, Hag. i. 14; ii. 1."—Calmet.

CHAP. I. Ver. 1. In the second year, &c.—The prophet reproves the people, especially the governor and the high-priest, for delaying to complete the Temple; ascribing to such delay their having been visited with unfruitful seasons and other marks of the divine displeasure. He encourages them to proceed, and assures them of God's aid if they are assiduous in their labours.

CHAP. II. Ver. 1. In the seventh month, &c.—The people being apprehensive that the temple they were building would prove inferior to that erected by Solomon, they are encouraged by the prophet with the assurance that the second should exceed the first temple in glory, and promises are made to them of future abundant harvests and fruitful seasons. Then follows a prophetic announcement of the establishment of the Messiah's kingdom, under the type of Zerubbabel.

1 Zechariah exhorteth to repentance. 7 The vision of the horses. 12 At the prayer of the angel comfortable promises are made to Jerusalem. 18 The vision of the four horns and the four carpenters.

IN the eighth month, [a] in the second year of Darius, came the word of the LORD [b] unto Zechariah, the son of Berechiah, the son of Iddo the prophet, saying,

[b] Ezra 5. 1. Matt. 23. 35.

2 The LORD hath been * sore displeased with your fathers.

B. C. cir. 520

7 ¶ Upon the four and twentieth day of the eleventh month, which is the month Sebat, in the second year of Darius, came the word of the LORD unto Zechariah, the son of Berechiah, the son of Iddo the prophet, saying,

cir. 519.

8 I saw by night, and behold [h] a man riding upon a red horse, and he stood among the myrtle trees that were in the bottom; and behind him were there [i] red horses, ‡ speckled, and white.

[h] Josh. 5. 13. Rev. 6. 4. [i] ch. 6. 2, 3, 7. ‡ Or, bay.

9 Then said I, O my lord, what are these? And the angel that talked with me said unto me, I will shew thee what these be.

10 And the man that stood among the myrtle trees answered and said, [k] These are they whom the LORD hath sent to walk to and fro through the earth.

[k] Heb. 1. 14.

11 [l] And they answered the angel of the LORD that stood among the myrtle trees, and said, We have walked to and fro through the earth, and, behold, all the earth sitteth still, and is at rest.

12 ¶ Then the angel of the LORD answered

ZECHARIAH.—"Zechariah, the eleventh of the minor prophets, was son of Berechiah and grandson of Iddo. He returned from Babylon with Zerubbabel; and began to prophesy in the second year of the reign of Darius, son of Hystaspes, A. M., 3484. Before Christ 516.

"The time and place of the birth of Zechariah are unknown. Some will have him to have been born at Babylon during the Captivity; others think he was born at Jerusalem before the tribes of Judah and Benjamin were carried away." Dr. A. Clarke.

CHAP. I. Ver. 1. In the eighth month, &c.—The prophet commences with a general exhortation to repentance. He then relates two visions and their signification, showing them to imply the restoration of the Jews, and their security from their foes during the building of the second temple.

and said, [m] O LORD of hosts, how long wilt thou not have mercy on Jerusalem and on the cities of Judah, against which thou hast had indignation [n] these threescore and ten years?

13 And the LORD answered the angel that talked with me with [o] good words and comfortable words.

14 So the angel that communed with me said unto me, Cry thou, saying, Thus saith the LORD of hosts; I am [p] jealous for Jerusalem and for Zion with a great jealousy.

15 And I am very sore displeased with the heathen that are at ease: for [q] I was but a little displeased, and they helped forward the affliction.

16 Therefore thus saith the LORD; [r] I am returned to Jerusalem with mercies: my house shall be built in it, saith the LORD of hosts, and [s] a line shall be stretched forth upon Jerusalem.

17 Cry yet, saying, Thus saith the LORD of hosts; My cities through § prosperity shall yet be spread abroad; [t] and the LORD shall yet comfort Zion, and [u] shall yet choose Jerusalem.

18 ¶ Then lifted I up mine eyes, and saw, and behold four horns.

19 And I said unto the angel that talked with me, What be these? And he answered me, [x] These are the horns which have scattered Judah, Israel, and Jerusalem.

20 And the LORD shewed me four carpenters.

21 Then said I, What come these to do? And he spake, saying, These are the horns which have scattered Judah, so that no man did lift up his head: but these are come to fray them, to cast out the horns of the Gentiles, which [y] lifted up their horn over the land of Judah to scatter it.

CHAP. II.

1 God, in the care of Jerusalem, sendeth to measure it. 6 The redemption of Zion. 10 The promise of God's presence.

I LIFTED up mine eyes again, and looked, and behold [a] a man with a measuring line in his hand.

2 Then said I, Whither goest thou? And he said unto me, [b] To measure Jerusalem, to see what is the breadth thereof, and what is the length thereof.

3 And, behold, the angel that talked with me went forth, and another angel went out to meet him,

4 And said unto him, Run, speak to this young man, saying, [c] Jerusalem shall be inhabited as towns without walls for the multitude of men and cattle therein:

5 For I, saith the LORD, will be unto her [d] a wall of fire round about, [e] and will be the glory in the midst of her.

6 ¶ Ho, ho, come forth, and flee [f] from the land of the north, saith the LORD: for I have [g] spread you abroad as the four winds of the heaven, saith the LORD.

7 [h] Deliver thyself, O Zion, that dwellest with the daughter of Babylon.

8 For thus saith the LORD of hosts; After the glory hath he sent me unto the nations which spoiled you: for he that [i] toucheth you toucheth the apple of his eye.

9 For, behold, I will [k] shake mine hand upon them, and they shall be a spoil to their servants: and [l] ye shall know that the LORD of hosts hath sent me.

10 ¶ [m] Sing and rejoice, O daughter of Zion: for, lo, I come, and I [n] will dwell in the midst of thee, saith the LORD.

11 [o] And many nations shall be joined to the LORD [p] in that day, and shall be [q] my people: and I will dwell in the midst of thee, and [r] thou shalt know that the LORD of hosts hath sent me unto thee.

12 And the LORD shall [s] inherit Judah his portion in the holy land, and [t] shall choose Jerusalem again.

13 [u] Be silent, O all flesh, before the LORD: for he is raised up [x] out of [*] his holy habitation.

CHAP. III.

1 Under the type of Joshua, the restoration of the church, 8 Christ the Branch is promised.

AND he shewed me [a] Joshua the high priest standing before the angel of the LORD, and [b] [*] Satan standing at his right hand † to resist him.

2 And the LORD said unto Satan, [c] The LORD rebuke thee, O Satan; even the LORD that [d] hath chosen Jerusalem rebuke thee: [e] is not this a brand plucked out of the fire?

3 Now Joshua was clothed with [f] filthy garments, and stood before the angel.

4 And he answered and spake unto those that stood before him, saying, Take away the filthy garments from him. And unto him he said, Behold, I have caused thine iniquity to pass from thee, [g] and I will clothe thee with change of raiment.

5 And I said, Let them set a fair [h] mitre upon his head. So they set a fair mitre upon his head, and clothed him with garments. And the angel of the LORD stood by.

6 And the angel of the LORD protested unto Joshua, saying,

7 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; If thou wilt walk in my ways, and if thou wilt [i] keep my ‡ charge, then thou shalt also [k] judge my house, and shalt also keep my courts, and I will give thee § places to walk among these that [l] stand by.

8 Hear now, O Joshua the high priest, thou, and thy fellows that sit before thee: for they are [m] ‖ men wondered at; for, behold I will bring forth [n] my servant the [o] BRANCH.

9 For behold the stone that I have laid before Joshua; [p] upon one stone shall be [q] seven eyes: behold, I will engrave the graving thereof, saith the LORD of hosts, and [r] I will remove the iniquity of that land in one day.

10 [s] In that day, saith the LORD of hosts, shall ye call every man his neighbour [t] under the vine and under the fig tree.

CHAP. IV.

1 By the golden candlestick is forshewed the good success of Zerubbabel's foundation. 11 By the two olive trees the two anointed ones.

AND [a] the angel that talked with me came again, and waked me, [b] as a man that is wakened out of his sleep,

2 And said unto me, What seest thou? And I said, I have looked, and behold [c] a candlestick all of gold, [*] with a bowl upon the top of it, [d] and his seven lamps thereon, and [†] seven pipes to the seven lamps, which are upon the top thereof:

3 [e] And two olive trees by it, one upon the right side of the bowl, and the other upon the left side thereof.

4 So I answered and spake to the angel that talked with me, saying, What are these, my lord?

5 Then the angel that talked with me answered and said unto me, Knowest thou not what these be? And I said, No, my lord.

6 Then he answered and spake unto me, saying, This is the word of the LORD unto Zerubbabel, saying, [f] Not by [‡] might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the LORD of hosts.

7 Who art thou, [g] O great mountain? before Zerubbabel thou shalt become a plain: and he shall bring forth [h] the headstone thereof [i] with shoutings, crying, Grace, grace unto it.

8 Moreover the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

9 The hands of Zerubbabel [k] have laid the foundation of this house; his hands [l] shall also finish it; and [m] thou shalt know that the [n] LORD of hosts hath sent me unto you.

10 For who hath despised the day of [o] small things? § for they shall rejoice, and shall see the ‖ plummet in the hand of Zerubbabel with those seven; [p] they are the eyes of the LORD, which run to and fro through the whole earth.

11 ¶ Then answered I, and said unto him, What are these [q] two olive trees upon the right side of the candlestick and upon the left side thereof?

12 And I answered again, and said unto him, What be these two olive branches which [*] through the two golden pipes † empty ‡ the golden oil out of themselves?

13 And he answered me and said, Knowest thou not what these be? And I said, No, my lord.

1 By the flying roll is shewed the curse of thieves and swearers. 5 By a woman pressed in an ephah, the final damnation of Babylon.

THEN I turned, and lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and behold a flying [a] roll.

2 And he said unto me, What seest thou? and I answered, I see a flying roll; the length thereof is twenty cubits, and the breadth thereof ten cubits.

3 Then said he unto me, This is the [b] curse that goeth forth over the face of the whole earth: for [*] every one that stealeth shall be cut off as on this side according to it; and every one that sweareth shall be cut off as on that side according to it.

4 I will bring it forth, saith the LORD of hosts, and it shall enter into the house of the thief, and into the house of [*] him that sweareth falsely by my name: and it shall remain in the midst of his house, and [d] shall consume it with the timber thereof and the stones thereof.

5 ¶ Then the angel that talked with me went forth, and said unto me, Lift up now thine eyes, and see what is this that goeth forth.

6 And I said, What is it? And he said, This is an ephah that goeth forth. He said moreover, This is their resemblance through all the earth.

7 And, behold, there was lifted up a † talent of lead: and this is a woman that sitteth in the midst of the ephah.

8 And he said, This is wickedness. And he cast it into the midst of the ephah; and he cast the weight of lead upon the mouth thereof.

9 Then lifted I up mine eyes, and looked, and, behold, there came out two women, and the wind was in their wings; for they had wings like the wings of the stork: and they lifted up the ephah between the earth and the heaven.

10 Then said I to the angel that talked with me, Whither do these bear the ephah?

11 And he said unto me, To [*] build it an house in [f] the land of Shinar: and it shall be established, and set there upon her own base.

4 Then I answered [d] and said unto the angel that talked with me, What are these, my lord?

8 Then cried he upon me, and spake unto me, saying, Behold, these that go toward the north country have quieted my [i] spirit in the north country.

CHAP. V. Ver. 1. Then I turned, &c.—Here are two other visions with their explanation. CHAP. VI. Ver. 1. And I turned, &c.—The first vision in this chapter, of the four chariots, drawn by horses of different colors, denotes the succession of the four empires. 15 And [r] they that are far off shall come and build in the temple of the LORD, and [s] ye shall know that the LORD of hosts hath sent me unto you. And this shall come to pass, if ye will diligently obey the voice of the LORD your God.

CHAP. VII.

1 The captives enquire of fasting. 4 Zechariah reproveth their fasting. 8 Sin the cause of their captivity.

518. AND it came to pass in the fourth year of king Darius, that the word of the LORD came unto Zechariah in the fourth day of the ninth month, even in Chisleu;

2 When they had sent unto the house of God Sherezer and Regem-melech, and their men, [t] to pray before the LORD,

3 And to [a] speak unto the priests which were in the house of the LORD of hosts, and to the prophets, saying, Should I weep in [b] the fifth month, separating myself, as I have done these so many years?

4 ¶ Then came the word of the LORD of hosts unto me, saying,

5 Speak unto all the people of the land, and to the priests, saying, When ye [c] fasted and mourned in the fifth [d] and seventh month, [e] even those seventy years, did ye at all fast [f] unto me, even to me?

6 And when ye did eat, and when ye did drink, † did not ye eat for yourselves, and drink for yourselves?

7 ‡ Should ye not hear the words which the LORD hath cried § by the former prophets, when Jerusalem was inhabited and in prosperity, and the cities thereof round about her when men inhabited [g] the south and the plain?

8 ¶ And the word of the LORD came unto Zechariah, saying,

9 Thus speaketh the LORD of hosts, saying, [h] ‖ Execute true judgment, and shew mercy and compassions every man to his brother:

10 And [i] oppress not the widow, nor the fatherless, the stranger, nor the poor; [k] and let none of you imagine evil against his brother in your heart.

11 But they refused to hearken, and [l] [*] pulled away the shoulder, and † [m] stopped their ears, that they should not hear.

12 Yea, they made their [n] hearts as an adamant stone, [o] lest they should hear the law, and the words which the LORD of hosts hath sent in his spirit ‡ by the former prophets: [p] therefore came a great wrath from the LORD of hosts.

13 Therefore it is come to pass, that as he cried, and they would not hear; so [q] they cried, and I would not hear, saith the LORD of hosts:

14 But [r] I scattered them with a whirlwind among all the nations [s] whom they knew not. Thus [t] the land was desolate after them, that no man passed through nor returned: for they laid [u] the § pleasant land desolate.

CHAP. VIII.

1 The restoration of Jerusalem. 9 They are encouraged to the building by God's favour to them. 16 Good works are required of them. 18 Joy and enlargement are promised.

AGAIN the word of the LORD of hosts came to me, saying,

2 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; [a] I was jealous for Zion with great jealousy, and I was jealous for her with great fury.

3 Thus saith the LORD; [b] I am returned unto Zion, and [c] will dwell in the midst of Jerusalem: and Jerusalem [d] shall be called a city of truth; and [e] the mountain of the LORD of hosts [f] the holy mountain.

4 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; [g] There shall yet old men and old women dwell in the streets of Jerusalem, and every man with his staff in his hand [*] for very age.

5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

6 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; If it be † marvellous in the eyes of the remnant of this people in these days, [h] should it also be marvellous in mine eyes? saith the LORD of hosts.

7 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; Behold, [i] I will save my people from the east country, and from ‡ the west country;

8 And I will bring them, and they shall dwell in the midst of Jerusalem: [k] and they shall be my people, and I will be their God, [l] in truth and in righteousness.

9 ¶ Thus saith the LORD of hosts; [m] Let your hands be strong, ye that hear in these days these words by the mouth of [n] the prophets, which were in [o] the day that the foundation of the house of the LORD of hosts was laid, that the temple might be built.

10 For before these days § there was no [p] hire for man, nor any hire for beast; [q] neither was there any peace to him that went out or came in because of the affliction: for I set all men every one against his neighbour.

11 But now I will not be unto the residue of this people as in the former days, saith the LORD of hosts.

12 [r] For the seed shall be ‖ prosperous; the vine shall give her fruit, and [s] the ground shall give her increase, and [t] the heavens shall

CHAP. VII. Ver. 1. And it came to pass, &c.—A deputation from the Jews at Babylon being sent to Jerusalem to ascertain if they were still obliged to observe the fasts which had been appointed upon the destruction of their capital by the Chaldeans, the prophet takes the opportunity, under the divine sanction, of enforcing upon them the necessity of observing the "weightier matters of the law, judgment and mercy," in order that they may escape those dreadful judgments which had fallen upon their immediate predecessors who had violated those obligations. The superiority of moral duties over mere external rites is strikingly exemplified in this chapter.

CHAP. VIII. Ver. 1. Again the word of the Lord, &c.—Those who had returned from captivity are here assured of God's favour, so that the fasts enjoined them, during their bondage, were no longer required to be observed. It is intimated, towards the close of this chapter, that the Jews shall be finally instrumental in introducing the heathen to the true worship.

13 And it shall come to pass, that as ye were [u] a curse among the heathen, O house of Judah, and house of Israel; so will I save you, and [x] ye shall be a blessing: fear not, but [y] let your hands be strong.

14 For thus saith the LORD of hosts; [z] As I thought to punish you, when your fathers provoked me to wrath, saith the LORD of hosts, [a] and I repented not:

15 So again have I thought in these days to do well unto Jerusalem and to the house of Judah: fear ye not.

16 ¶ These are the things that ye shall do; [b] Speak ye every man the truth to his neighbour; [c] execute the judgment of truth and peace in your gates:

17 [c] And let none of you imagine evil in your hearts against his neighbour; and [d] love no false oath: for all these are things that I hate, saith the LORD.

18 ¶ And the word of the LORD of hosts came unto me, saying,

19 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; [e] The fast of the fourth month, [f] and the fast of the fifth, [g] and the fast of the seventh, [h] and the fast of the tenth, shall be to the house of Judah [i] joy and gladness, and chearful † feasts; [k] therefore love the truth and peace.

20 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; It shall yet come to pass, that there shall come people, and the inhabitants of many cities:

21 And the inhabitants of one city shall go to another, saying, [l] Let us go ‡§ speedily ‖ to pray before the LORD, and to seek the LORD of hosts: I will go also.

22 Yea, [m] many people and strong nations shall come to seek the LORD of hosts in Jerusalem, and to pray before the LORD.

23 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; In those days it shall come to pass, that ten men shall [n] take hold out of all languages of the nations, even shall take hold of the skirt of him that is a Jew, saying, We will go with you: for we have heard [o] that God is with you.

CHAP. IX. Ver. 1. The burden of the word, &c.—"This chapter begins a new prophecy, foretelling the conquests of Alexander the Great over Syria, Phœnicia and Palestine; and God's providence over his temple during this turbulent state of affairs. From hence the prophet takes occasion to describe, as in a parenthesis, the humble and peaceable coming of the Messiah; and then, returning to his former subject, declares the conquests of the Jews, particularly the Maccabees, over the princes of the Grecian monarchy."—W. Lowth.

CHAP. X. Ver. 1. Ask ye of the Lord, &c.—The prophet, in this chapter, by reminding his countrymen of the miseries which accrued to their ancestors from their adopting the abominations of the heathen, uses it as an argument to deter his contemporaries from practising idolatry, and to induce them to serve God. The chapter concludes with a prophecy concerning the general restoration of the twelve tribes to the land of their fathers in prosperity and peace.

5 Whose possessors slay them, and [d] hold themselves not guilty: and they that sell them [e] say, Blessed be the LORD; for I am rich: and their own shepherds pity them not.

6 For I will no more pity the inhabitants of the land, saith the LORD: but, lo, I will ‡ deliver the men every one into his neighbour's hand, and into the hand of his king: and they shall smite the land, and out of their hand I will not deliver them.

7 And I will [f] feed the flock of slaughter, § even you, [g] O poor of the flock. And I took unto me two staves; the one I called Beauty, and the other I called ‖ Bands; and I fed the flock.

8 Three shepherds also I cut off [h] in one month; and my soul * lothed them, and their soul also abhorred me.

10 ¶ And I took my staff, even Beauty, and cut it asunder, that I might break my covenant which I had made with all the people.

11 And it was broken in that day: and ‡ so [k] the poor of the flock that waited upon me knew that it was the word of the LORD.

12 And I said unto them, § If ye think good, give me my price; and if not, forbear. So they [l] weighed for my price thirty pieces of silver.

13 And the LORD said unto me, Cast it unto the [m] potter: a goodly price that I was prised at of them. And I took the thirty pieces of silver, and cast them to the potter in the house of the LORD.

14 Then I cut asunder mine other staff, even ‖ Bands, that I might break the brotherhood between Judah and Israel.

15 ¶ And the LORD said unto me, [n] Take unto thee yet the instruments of a foolish shepherd.

16 For, lo, I will raise up a shepherd in the land, which shall not visit those that be * cut off, neither shall seek the young one, nor heal that that is broken, nor † feed that that standeth still: but he shall eat the flesh of the fat, and tear their claws in pieces.

17 [o] Woe to the idol shepherd that leaveth the flock! the sword shall be upon his arm, and upon his right eye: his arm shall be clean dried up, and his right eye shall be utterly darkened.

Ver. 1. Open thy doors, &c.—"The prophet, representing the person of the Messiah, declares the ungrateful requitals the Jews had made him, when he undertook the office of a shepherd in guiding and governing them; how they rejected him, and valued him and his labours at the mean price of thirty pieces of silver! Hereupon he threatens to destroy their city and Temple, and to give them up into the hands of such governors as should have no regard either for their spiritual or temporal welfare."—W. Lowth.

Chap. xii. Ver. 1. The burden, &c.—The first part of this chapter, with several passages in chapter fourteen, relates to an invasion that shall be made on the inhabitants of Judea and Jerusalem, in the latter ages of the world, sometime after the restoration and settlement of the Jews in their own land. It also describes, in very magnificent terms, the signal interposition of God in their favour. From this the prophet proceeds, in the latter part of the chapter, to describe the spiritual mercies of God in converting his people; and gives a very pathetic and affecting account of the deep sorrow of that people when brought to a sense of their great sin in crucifying the Messiah, comparing it to the sorrow of a parent for his first-born and only son, or to the lamentations made for Josiah in the valley of Megiddon." IN [a] that day there shall be [b] a fountain opened to the house of David and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem for sin and for [*] uncleanness.

2 ¶ And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the LORD of hosts, that I will [c] cut off the names of the idols out of the land, and they shall no more be remembered: and also I will cause [d] the prophets and the unclean spirit to pass out of the land.

3 And it shall come to pass, that when any shall yet prophesy, then his father and his mother that begat him shall say unto him, Thou shalt not live; for thou speakest lies in the name of the LORD: and his father and his mother that begat him [e] shall thrust him through when he prophesieth.

4 And it shall come to pass in that day, that [f] the prophets shall be ashamed every one of his vision, when he hath prophesied; neither shall they wear [g] † a rough garment ‡ to deceive:

5 [h] But he shall say, I am no prophet, I am an husbandman; for man taught me to keep cattle from my youth.

6 And one shall say unto him, What are these wounds in thine hands? Then he shall answer, Those with which I was wounded in the house of my friends.

7 ¶ Awake, O sword, against [i] my shepherd, and against the man [k] that is my fellow, saith the LORD of hosts: [l] smite the shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered: and I will turn mine hand upon [m] the little ones.

8 And it shall come to pass, that in all the land, saith the LORD, two parts therein shall be cut off and die; [n] but the third shall be left therein.

9 And I will bring the third part [o] through the fire, and will [p] refine them as silver is refined, and will try them as gold is tried: [q] they shall call on my name, and I will hear them: [r] I will say, It is my people: and they shall say, The LORD is my God.

CHAP. XIV.

1 The destroyers of Jerusalem destroyed. 4 The coming of Christ, and the graces of his kingdom. 12 The plague of Jerusalem's enemies. 16 The remnant shall turn to the Lord, 20 and their spoils shall be holy.

BEHOLD, [a] the day of the LORD cometh, and thy spoil shall be divided in the midst of thee.

2 For [b] I will gather all nations against Jerusalem to battle; and the city shall be taken, and [c] the houses rifled, and the women ravished; and half of the city shall go forth into captivity, and the residue of the people shall not be cut off from the city.

3 Then shall the LORD go forth, and fight against those nations, as when he fought in the day of battle.

4 ¶ And his feet shall stand in that day [d] upon the mount of Olives, which is before Jerusalem on the east, and the mount of Olives shall cleave in the midst thereof toward the east and toward the west, [*] and there shall be a very great valley; and half of the mountain shall remove toward the north, and half of it toward the south.

5 And ye shall flee to the valley of [*] the mountains; † for the valley of the mountains shall reach unto Azal: yea, ye shall flee, like as ye fled from before the [f] earthquake in the days of Uzziah king of Judah: [g] and the LORD my God shall come, and [h] all the saints with thee.

6 And it shall come to pass in that day, ‡ that the light shall not be § clear, nor ‖ dark:

7 But [*] it shall be [i] one day [k] which shall be known to the LORD, not day, nor night:

CHAP. XIII. Ver. 1. In that day, &c.—The Jews are here promised pardon upon their conversion, and especially upon their abandonment of idolatry and of their pretences to prophecy. Then follows a prophetic reference to the death of Christ and the persecution of his disciples; the chapter closing with an animating declaration concerning those who may survive the severe trials to which the first converts to Christianity shall be exposed, especially under the Roman yoke and at the siege of Jerusalem.

CHAP. XIV. Ver. 1. Behold the day of the Lord, &c.—The prophet commences this last chapter with referring to the taking of Jerusalem by the Roman army, and then passes to the destruction of the enemies of Christianity in the latter times; concluding with a description of the prosperous state of the Christian church which should succeed that glorious triumph.

8 And it shall be in that day, that living [m] waters shall go out from Jerusalem; half of them toward the † former sea, and half of them toward the hinder sea: in summer and in winter shall it be.

9 And the LORD shall be [n] king over all the earth: in that day shall there be [o] one LORD, and his name one.

11 And men shall dwell in it, and there shall be [s] no more utter destruction; [t] but Jerusalem ‖ shall be safely inhabited.

12 ¶ And this shall be the plague wherewith the LORD will smite all the people that have fought against Jerusalem; Their flesh shall consume away while they stand upon their feet, and their eyes shall consume away in their holes, and their tongue shall consume away in their mouth.

13 And it shall come to pass in that day, that [u] a great tumult from the LORD shall be among them; and they shall lay hold every one on the hand of his neighbour, and [x] his hand shall rise up against the hand of his neighbour.

14 And [*] Judah also shall fight † at Jerusalem; [y] and the wealth of all the heathen round about shall be gathered together, gold, and silver, and apparel, in great abundance.

16 ¶ And it shall come to pass, that every one that is left of all the nations which came against Jerusalem shall even [a] go up from year to year to worship the King, the LORD of hosts, and to keep [b] the feasts of tabernacles.

17 [c] And it shall be, that whoso will not come up of all the families of the earth unto Jerusalem to worship the King, the LORD of hosts, even upon them shall be no rain.

18 And if the family of Egypt go not up, and come not, ‡ [d] that have no rain; there shall be the plague, wherewith the LORD will smite the heathen that come not up to keep the feast of tabernacles.

3 And I hated Esau, and [c] laid his mountains and his heritage waste for the dragons of the wilderness.

4 Whereas Edom saith, We are impoverished, but we will return and build the desolate places; thus saith the LORD of hosts, They shall build, but I will throw down; and they shall call them, The border of wickedness, and, The people against whom the LORD hath indignation for ever.

MALACHI.—"Malachi is so much unknown that it is doubted whether the name be a proper name, or only a generical name signifying the angel of the Lord, a messenger, or prophet; for it appears by Haggai, chap. i. 13, and by this prophet, whom we cite by the name Malachi, chap. iii. 1, that in these times the name of MALACHI JAHOVAH, or, The Messenger of the Lord, was given to the prophets." Dr. Dodd.

"The prophet Malachi was, in all likelihood, contemporary with Nehemiah. His prophecy supposes the Temple to be built and the worship of God settled there; but blames the priests and Levites for not attending upon the public worship, chap. i. 10, and the people for offering the lame and the blind, ibid. ver. 7, 8, and robbing God of his tithes and offerings, chap. iii. 10, which agrees very well with the abuses we read of, Nehemiah x. 33, 39; xiii. 10, 11, 12, as his reproving them for marrying strange wives, chap. ii. 11, exactly answers Nehemiah x. 30, xiii. 23." —W. Lowth.

CHAP. i. Ver. 1. The burden of the word, &c.—The Jews are reproved for their ingratitude by God, who reproaches the priests no less than the people; the latter for their general prodigacy, the former for their indecent irreverence in performing the office of their sacred ministry.—See chap. ii.

B. C. cir 397. shall be great among the heathen, saith the LORD of hosts.

12 ¶ But ye have profaned it, in that ye say, [n] The table of the LORD is polluted; and the fruit thereof, even his meat, is contemptible.

13 Ye said also, Behold, what a weariness is it! ‡ and ye have snuffed at it, saith the LORD of hosts; and ye brought that which was torn, and the lame, and the sick; thus ye brought an offering: [z] should I accept this of your hand? saith the LORD.

14 But cursed be [y] the deceiver, § which hath in his flock a male, and voweth, and sacrificeth unto the LORD a corrupt thing: for [z] I am a great King, saith the LORD of hosts, and my name is dreadful among the heathen.

CHAP. II.

1 He sharply reproveth the priests for neglecting their covenant, 11 and the people for idolatry, 14 for adultery, 17 and for infidelity.

AND now, O ye priests, this commandment is for you.

2 [a] If ye will not hear, and if ye will not lay it to heart, to give glory unto my name, saith the LORD of hosts, I will even send a curse upon you, and I will curse your blessings: yea, I have cursed them already, because ye do not lay it to heart.

3 Behold, I will * corrupt your seed, and † spread dung upon your faces, even the dung of your solemn feasts; and ‡ one shall [b] take you away with it.

4 And ye shall know that I have sent this commandment unto you, that my covenant might be with Levi, saith the LORD of hosts.

5 [c] My covenant was with him of life and peace; and I gave them to him [d] for the fear wherewith he feared me, and was afraid before my name.

6 [e] The law of truth was in his mouth, and iniquity was not found in his lips: he walked with me in peace and equity, and did [f] turn many away from iniquity.

7 [g] For the priest's lips should keep knowledge, and they should seek the law at his mouth: [h] for he is the messenger of the LORD of hosts.

8 But ye are departed out of the way; ye [i] have caused many to § stumble at the law; [k] ye have corrupted the covenant of Levi, saith the LORD of hosts.

9 Therefore [l] have I also made you contemptible and base before all the people, according as ye have not kept my ways, but ‖ * have been partial in the law.

10 [m] Have we not all one father? [n] hath not one God created us? why do we deal treacherously every man against his brother, by profaning the covenant of our fathers?

11 ¶ Judah hath dealt treacherously, and an abomination is committed in Israel and in Jerusalem; for Judah hath profaned the holiness of the LORD which he † loved, ° and hath married the daughter of a strange god.

12 The LORD will cut off the man that doeth this, ‡ the master and the scholar, out of the tabernacles of Jacob, [p] and him that offereth an offering unto the LORD of hosts.

13 And this have ye done again, covering the altar of the LORD with tears, with weeping, and with crying out, insomuch that he regardeth not the offering any more, or receiveth it with good will at your hand.

14 ¶ Yet ye say, Wherefore? Because the LORD hath been witness between thee and [q] the wife of thy youth, against whom thou hast dealt treacherously: [r] yet is she thy companion, and the wife of thy covenant.

15 And [s] did not he make one? Yet had he the § residue of the spirit. And wherefore one? That he might seek ‖ [t] a godly seed. Therefore take heed to your spirit, and let none deal * treacherously against the wife of his youth.

16 For [u] the LORD, the God of Israel, saith † that he hateth ‡ putting away: for one covereth violence with his garment, saith the LORD of hosts: therefore take heed to your spirit, that ye deal not treacherously.

17 ¶ [z] Ye have wearied the LORD with your words. Yet ye say, Wherein have we wearied him? When ye say, Every one that doeth evil is good in the sight of the LORD, and he delighteth in them; or, Where is the God of judgment?

CHAP. III.

1 Of the messenger, majesty, and grace of Christ. 7 Of the rebellion, 8 sacrilege, 13 and infidelity, of the people. 16 The promise of blessing to them that fear God.

BEHOLD, [a] I will send my messenger, and he shall [b] prepare the way before me: and the LORD, whom ye seek, shall suddenly come to his temple, [c] even the messenger of the covenant, whom ye delight in: behold, [d] he shall come, saith the LORD of hosts.

2 But who may abide * the day of his coming? and [f] who shall stand when he appeareth? for [g] he is like a refiner's fire, and like fuller's sope:

3 And [h] he shall sit as a refiner and purifier of silver: and he shall purify the sons of Levi, and purge them as gold and silver, that they may [i] offer unto the LORD an offering in righteousness.

4 Then [k] shall the offering of Judah and Jerusalem be pleasant unto the LORD, as in the days of old, and as in * former years.

5 And I will come near to you to judgment; and I will be a swift witness against the sorcerers, and against the adulterers, [l] and against false swearers, and against those that † oppress the hireling in his wages, the widow, and the fatherless, and that turn aside the stranger from his right, and fear not me, saith the LORD of hosts.

6 For I am the LORD, [m] I change not; [n] therefore ye sons of Jacob are not consumed.

7 ¶ Even from the days of * your fathers ye are gone away from mine ordinances, and have not kept them. [p] Return unto me, and I will return unto you, saith the LORD of hosts. [q] But ye said, Wherein shall we return?

8 ¶ Will a man rob God? Yet ye have robbed me. But ye say, Wherein have we robbed thee? [r] In tithes and offerings.

CHAP. IV.

1 God's judgment on the wicked, 2 and his blessing on the good. 4 He exhorteth to the study of the law, and telleth of Elijah's coming and office.

FOR, behold, [a] the day cometh, that shall burn as an oven; and all [b] the proud, yea, and all that do wickedly, shall be [c] stubble: and the day that cometh shall burn them up, saith the LORD of hosts, tha it shall [d] leave them neither root nor branch.

2 ¶ But unto you that [e] fear my name shall the [f] Sun of righteousness arise with healing in his wings; and ye shall go forth, and grow up as calves of the stall.

3 [g] And ye shall tread down the wicked; for they shall be ashes under the soles of your feet in the day that I shall do this, saith the LORD of hosts.

4 ¶ Remember ye the [h] law of Moses my servant, which I commanded unto him [i] in Horeb for all Israel, with [k] the statutes and judgments.

5 ¶ Behold, I will send you [l] Elijah the prophet [m] before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the LORD:

6 And [n] he shall turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers, lest I come and * smite the earth with [p] a curse.

CHAP. IV. Ver. 1. For, behold the day, &c.—The prophet proclaims God's Judgments on the wicked and his blessings on the righteous. He then concludes with exhorting the people to prepare for the coming of the Messiah, enjoining a strict observance of the law of Moses, until John the Baptist should appear in the power and spirit of Elias, to usher in the promised seed of the woman, who should bruise the serpent's head and exhibit the blessing of a new and better covenant.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO ST. MATTHEW.—"Matthew, called also Levi, was the son of Alpheus, but probably not of the Alpheus who was the father of the apostle James the Less. He was a native of Galilee, but it is not known in what part of that country he was born, or to what tribe of the people of Israel he belonged. Although a Jew, he was a publican, or tax gatherer, under the Romans, and his office seems to have consisted in collecting the customs due upon commodities which were carried, and from persons who passed, over the lake of Gennesereth. Our Saviour commanded him, as he was sitting at a place where he received these customs, to follow him, Matt. ix. 9. He immediately obeyed, and from that time became a constant attendant on our Saviour; and was appointed one of the twelve apostles. Matthew, probably, soon after his call, made an entertainment at his house, at which were present Christ and some of his disciples, and also several publicans, Matt. ix. 10; Luke v. 29. After the ascension of our Lord he continued with the other apostles to preach the Gospel for some time in Judea: but as there is no further account of him in any writer of the first four centuries, we must consider it as uncertain into what country he afterwards went, and likewise in what manner, and at what time, he died.

"It is generally agreed, on the most satisfactory evidence, that St. Matthew's Gospel was the first written; but respecting its precise date we have no certain information, and a great variety of opinions has prevailed. Of the several dates assigned to it which deserve our attention, the earliest is the year thirty-eight of the Christian æra, and the latest the year sixty-four. On considering the respective arguments in favour of these, it appears very improbable that the Christians should be left any considerable number of years without a written history of our Saviour's ministry. It is certain that the apostles, immediately after the descent of the Holy Ghost, which took place only ten days after the ascension of our Lord into heaven, preached the Gospel to the Jews with great success; and surely it is reasonable to suppose that an authentic account of his doctrines and miracles would very soon be committed to writing, for the confirmation of those who believe in his divine mission, and for the conversion of others; and more particularly to enable the Jews to examine the circumstances of the birth, death, and resurrection of Jesus with their ancient prophecies relative to the Messiah; and we may conceive that the apostles would be desirous of losing no time in writing an account of the miracles which Jesus performed, and of the discourses which he delivered, because the sooner such an account was published, the easier it would be to enquire into its truth and accuracy; and, consequently, when these points were satisfactorily ascertained, the greater would be its weight and authority.

"There has also been, of late years, great difference of opinion respecting the language in which this Gospel was originally written. However, many ancient Fathers positively assert that it was written by St. Matthew in Hebrew, that is, in the language then spoken in Palestine; and in a question of this sort, which is a question of fact, the concurrent voice of antiquity perhaps ought to be decisive with us. It may be observed, too, that the opinion that the first published Gospel was written in the language of the Jews, and for their peculiar use, is perfectly conformable to the distinction, with which we know they were favoured, of having the Gospel preached to them expressly by our Saviour, and before all other nations by his apostles.

"Though the Fathers are unanimous in declaring that St. Matthew wrote his Gospel in Hebrew, yet they have not informed us by whom it was translated into Greek. It is, however, universally allowed that the Greek translation was made very early, and that it was more in use than the original. This last circumstance is easily accounted for. After the destruction of Jerusalem, the language of the Jews, and every thing which belonged to them, fell into great contempt; and the early fathers, writing in Greek, would naturally quote and refer to the Greek copy of St. Matthew's Gospel, in the same manner as they consulted the Septuagint version of the Old Testament. There being no longer any country in which the language of St. Matthew's original Gospel was commonly spoken, that original would soon be forgotten; and the translation into Greek, the language then generally understood, would be substituted in its room. This early and exclusive use of the Greek translation is a strong proof of its correctness, and leaves us but little reason to lament the loss of the original.

"St. Matthew, being from the time of his call a constant attendant upon our Saviour, was well qualified to write the history of his life. He relates what he saw and heard in a natural and unaffected style; and he is more circumstantial in his accounts than any other of the Evangelists. That he published his Gospel in Palestine, for the immediate use of the Jews, was the opinion of all ancient ecclesiastical writers, and it is confirmed by the contents of the book itself. There are more references in this than in any other Gospel to Jewish customs; and cities and places in Palestine are always mentioned in it as being well known by those to whom it is addressed. St. Matthew seems studiously to have selected such circumstances as were calculated to conciliate or strengthen the faith of the Jews: for example, no sentiment relative to the Messiah was more prevalent among them than that he should be of the race of Abraham and family of David; and accordingly St. Matthew begins his narrative by showing the descent of Jesus from those two illustrious persons. He then relates the birth of Jesus in Bethlehem, the city in which the Messiah was expected to be born, and throughout his Gospel he omits no opportunity of explaining the Scriptures, and pointing out the fulfilment of prophecy, which was known to have great weight with the Jews than any other species of evidence; moreover, he records many of our Saviour's reproofs to the Jews for their errors and superstitions, and thus endeavours to eradicate from their minds those prejudices which impeded the progress, or sullied the purity, of the Christian faith."—Bishop Tomline.

CHAP. I. Ver. 1. The book of the generation, &c.—That is, the book detailing the birth, actions, death, and resurrection of Christ; in short, the history of his life. JESUS signifies "Saviour," and CHRIST has the same sense as Messiah, which is anointed.

Ver. 18. Espoused to Joseph.—Contracted or betrothed.

Ver. 19. Being a just man.—A humane and pious man.

Ver. 20. Fear not to take unto thee, &c.—Fear not to marry the woman who is betrothed to thee.

22 Now all this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet, saying,

23 [a] Behold, a virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son, and § they shall call his name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us.

1 The wise men out of the east are directed to Christ by a star. 11 They worship him, and offer their presents. 14 Joseph flieth into Egypt, with Jesus and his mother. 16 Herod slayeth the children: 20 hims elf dieth. 23 Christ is brought back again into Galilee to Nazareth.

The Fourth Year before the Common Account called Anno Domini.

NOW when [a] Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judæa in the days of Herod the king, behold, there came wise men [b] from the east to Jerusalem,

2 Saying, [c] Where is he that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen [d] his star in the east, and are come to worship him.

3 When Herod the king had heard these things, he was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him.

4 And when he had gathered all [e] the chief priests and [f] scribes of the people together, [g] he demanded of them where Christ should be born.

5 And they said unto him, In Bethlehem of Judæa: for thus it is written by the prophet,

6 [h] And thou Bethlehem, in the land of Juda, art not the least among the princes of Juda: for out of thee shall come a Governor, [i] that shall [*] rule my people Israel.

7 Then Herod, when he had privily called the wise men, enquired of them diligently what time the star appeared.

8 And he sent them to Bethlehem, and said, Go and search diligently for the young child; and when ye have found him, bring me word again, that I may come and worship him also.

9 When they had heard the king, they departed; and, lo, the star, which they saw in the east, went before them, till it came and stood over where the young child was.

10 When they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy.

11 ¶ And when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary his mother, and fell down, and worshipped him: and when they had opened their treasures, [k] they † presented unto him gifts; gold, and frankincense, and myrrh.

12 And being warned of God [l] in a dream that they should not return to Herod, they departed into their own country another way.

13 And when they were departed, behold, the angel of the Lord appeared to Joseph in a dream, saying, Arise, and take the young child and his mother, and flee into Egypt, and be thou there until I bring thee word: for Herod will seek the young child to destroy him.

The Fourth Year before the Common Account called Anno Domini.

14 When he arose, he took the young child and his mother by night, and departed into Egypt:

15 And was there until the death of Herod: that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet, saying, [m] Out of Egypt have I called my son.

16 ¶ Then Herod, when he saw that he was mocked of the wise men, was exceeding wroth, and sent forth, and slew all the children that were in Bethlehem, and in all the coasts thereof, from two years old and under, according to the time which he had diligently enquired of the wise men.

17 Then was fulfilled that which was spoken by [n] Jeremy the prophet, saying,

18 In Rama was there a voice heard, lamentation, and weeping, and great mourning, Rachel weeping for her children, and would not be comforted, because they are not.

The Third Year before the Account called Anno Domini.

20 Saying, Arise, and take the young child and his mother, and go into the land of Israel: for they are dead which sought the young child's life.

21 And he arose, and took the young child and his mother, and came into the land of Israel.

22 But when he heard that Archelaus did reign in Judæa in the room of his father Herod, he was afraid to go thither: notwithstanding, being warned of God in a dream, he turned aside [o] into the parts of Galilee:

Ver. 2. We have seen his star in the east.—That is, when we were in the east we saw his star. What this star, or luminous appearance was, commentators have not been able to determine.

Ver. 3. Herod the king.—Herod the Great, the first Jewish king of that name: he married ten wives by whom he had a numerous issue.

Ver. 4. All the chief priests and scribes, &c.—These formed the Sanhedrim, or great national council. Scribes were expounders of the law.

Ver. 6. Art not the least among the princes of Judah.—Dr. Campbell reads, art not the least illustrious among the cities of Judah.

Ver. 11. Gold, and frankincense and myrrh.—Some will have these to be emblematical of the divinity, regal office, and manhood of Christ. They offered him incense as their God; gold as their king; and myrrh as united to a human body subject to suffering and death.

Ver. 13. Flee into Egypt.—Where many Jews had settled.

and all Judea, and all the region round about Jordan,

6 [l] And were baptized of him in Jordan, confessing their sins.

7 ¶ But when he saw many of the Pharisees and Sadducees come to his baptism he said unto them, [m] O generation of vipers, who hath warned you to flee from [n] the wrath to come?

8 Bring forth therefore fruits [o] meet for repentance:

9 And think not to say within yourselves, [o] We have Abraham to our father: for I say unto you, that God is able of these stones to raise up children unto Abraham.

10 And now also the ax is laid unto the root of the trees: [p] therefore every tree which bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire.

11 [q] I indeed baptize you with water unto repentance: but he that cometh after me is mightier than I, whose shoes I am not worthy to bear: [r] he shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost, and with fire:

12 [s] Whose fan is in his hand, and he will throughly purge his floor, and gather his wheat into the garner; but he will [t] burn up the chaff with unquenchable fire.

13 ¶ [u] Then cometh Jesus [x] from Galilee to Jordan unto John, to be baptized of him.

14 But John forbad him, saying, I have need to be baptized of thee, and comest thou to me?

15 And Jesus answering said unto him, Suffer it to be so now: for thus it becometh us to fulfil all righteousness. Then he suffered him.

16 [y] And Jesus, when he was baptized, went up straightway out of the water: and, lo, the heavens were opened unto him, and he saw [z] the Spirit of God descending like a dove, and lighting upon him:

17 [a] And lo a voice from heaven, saying, [b] This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.

CHAP. IV.

1 Christ fasteth, and is tempted. 11 The angels minister unto him. 13 He dwelleth in Capernaum, 17 beginneth to preach, 18 calleth Peter, and Andrew, 21 James, and John, 23 and healeth all the diseased.

THEN was [a] Jesus led up of [b] the spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil.

2 And when he had fasted forty days and forty nights, he was afterward an hungred.

3 And when the tempter came to him, he said, If thou be the Son of God, command that these stones be made bread.

4 But he answered and said, It is written, [c] Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God.

5 Then the devil taketh him up [d] into the holy city, setteth him on a pinnacle of the temple,

6 And saith unto him, If thou be the Son of God, cast thyself down: for it is written, [e] He shall give his angels charge concerning thee: and in their hands they shall bear thee up, lest at any time thou dash thy foot against a stone.

7 Jesus said unto him, It is written again, [f] Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God.

8 Again, the devil taketh him up into an exceeding high mountain, and sheweth him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them;

9 And saith unto him, All these things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me.

10 Then saith Jesus unto him, Get thee hence, Satan: for it is written, [g] Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve.

11 Then the devil leaveth him, and, behold, [h] angels came and ministered unto him.

12 ¶ [i] Now when Jesus had heard that John was [*] cast into prison, he departed into Galilee;

13 And leaving Nazareth, he came and dwelt in Capernaum, which is upon the sea coast, in the borders of Zabulon and Nephthalim:

14 That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Esaias the prophet, saying,

15 [k] The land of Zabulon, and the land of Nephthalim, by the way of the sea, beyond Jordan, Galilee of the Gentiles;

16 [l] The people which sat in darkness saw great light; and to them which sat in the region and shadow of death light is sprung up.

17 ¶ [m] From that time Jesus began to preach, and to say, [n] Repent: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand.

18 ¶ [o] And Jesus, walking by the sea of Galilee, saw two brethren, Simon [p] called Peter, and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the sea: for they were fishers.

19 And he saith unto them, Follow me, and [q] I will make you fishers of men.

20 [r] And they straightway left their nets, and followed him.

21 [s] And going on from thence, he saw other two brethren, James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother, in a ship with Zebedee their father, mending their nets; and he called them.

22 And they immediately left the ship and their father, and followed him.

23 ¶ And Jesus went about all Galilee, [t] teaching in their synagogues, and preaching [u] the gospel of the kingdom, [x] and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people.

24 And his fame went throughout all Syria: and they brought unto him all sick people that were taken with divers diseases and torments, and those which were possessed with devils, and those which were lunatick, and those that had the palsy; and he healed them.

CHAP. V.

1 Christ beginneth his sermon in the mount: 3 declaring who are blessed, 13 who are the salt of the earth, 14 the light of the world, the city on an hill, 15 the candle: 17 that he came to fulfil the law. 21 What it is to kill, 27 to commit adultery, 33 to swear: 38 exhorteth to suffer wrong, 44 to love even our enemies, 48 and to labour after perfectness.

Ver. 8. Shall see God.—Shall enjoy his presence in the life everlasting.

Ver. 13. Ye are the salt of the earth. As salt preserves animal substances from putrefaction, ye, my disciples, shall preserve men from moral corruption

Ver. 21. The judgment.—An inferior court which awarded capital punishment, subject to an appeal to the Sanhedrim, or superior court. Raca—A term of great contempt—a worthless fellow. The council—This was the Sanhedrim, from whose decisions there was no appeal, and which alone could award the punishment of stoning. Thou fool.—The word translated fool was, among the Jews, the most opprobrious term which the vocabularies of language could supply, and is supposed to have signified a rebel against God—an apostate of the worst kind.

38 ¶ Ye have heard that it hath been said, [x] An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth:

39 But I say unto you, [y] That ye resist not evil: [z] but whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also.

40 And if any man will sue thee at the law, and take away thy coat, let him have thy cloke also.

41 And whosoever [a] shall compel thee to go a mile, go with him twain.

42 Give to him that asketh thee, and [b] from him that would borrow of thee turn not thou away.

43 ¶ Ye have heard that it hath been said, [c] Thou shalt love thy neighbour, [d] and hate thine enemy.

44 But I say unto you, [e] Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray [f] for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you;

45 That ye may be the children of your Father which is in heaven: for [g] he maketh his sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and on the unjust.

46 [h] For if ye love them which love you, what reward have ye? do not even the publicans the same?

47 And if ye salute your brethren only, what do ye more than others? do not even the publicans so?

48 [i] Be ye therefore perfect, even [k] as your Father which is in heaven is perfect.

CHAPTER VI.

1 Christ continueth his sermon on the mount, speaking of alms, 5 prayer, 14 forgiving our brethren, 16 fasting, 19 where our treasure is to be laid up, 24 of serving God, and mammon: 25 exhorteth not to be careful for worldly things: 33 but to seek God's kingdom.

TAKE heed that ye do not your * alms before men, to be seen of them: otherwise ye have no reward † of your Father which is in heaven.

2 Therefore [a] when thou doest thine alms, ‡ do not sound a trumpet before thee, as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and in the streets, that they may have glory of men. Verily I say unto you, They have their reward.

3 But when thou doest alms, let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth:

4 That thine alms may be in secret: and thy Father which seeth in secret himself [b] shall reward thee openly.

5 ¶ And when thou prayest, thou shalt not be as the hypocrites are: for they love to pray standing in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets, that they may be seen of men. Verily I say unto you, They have their reward.

6 But thou, when thou prayest, [c] enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly.

7 But when ye pray, [d] use not vain repetitions, as the heathen do: [e] for they think that they shall be heard for their much speaking.

8 Be not ye therefore like unto them: for your Father knoweth what things ye have need of, before ye ask him.

9 After this manner therefore pray ye: [f] Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name.

10 Thy kingdom come. [g] Thy will be done in earth, [h] as it is in heaven.

11 Give us this day our [i] daily bread.

12 And [k] forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors.

13 [l] And lead us not into temptation, but [m] deliver us from evil: [n] For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, for ever. Amen.

14 [o] For if ye forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you:

15 But [p] if ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses.

16 ¶ Moreover [q] when ye fast, be not, as the hypocrites, of a sad countenance: for they disfigure their faces, that they may appear unto men to fast. Verily I say unto you, They have their reward.

17 But thou, when thou fastest, [r] anoint thine head, and wash thy face;

18 That thou appear not unto men to fast, but unto thy Father which is in secret: and thy Father, which seeth in secret, shall reward thee openly.

19 ¶ [s] Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal:

20 [t] But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal:

21 For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also.

22 [u] The light of the body is the eye: if therefore thine eye be single, thy whole body shall be full of light.

23 But if thine eye be evil, thy whole body shall be full of darkness. If therefore the light that is in thee be darkness, how great is that darkness!

24 ¶ [x] No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. [y] Ye cannot serve God and mammon.

25 Therefore I say unto you, [z] Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink; nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on. Is not the life more than meat, and the body than raiment?

26 [a] Behold the fowls of the air: for they sow not, neither do they reap, nor gather into barns; yet your heavenly Father feedeth them. Are ye not much better than they?

27 Which of you by taking thought can add one cubit unto his stature?

28 And why take ye thought for raiment? Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin:

29 And yet I say unto you, That even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.

30 Wherefore, if God so clothe the grass of the field, which to day is, and to morrow is cast into the oven, shall he not much more clothe you, O ye of little faith?

31 Therefore take no thought, saying, What shall we eat? or, What shall we drink? or, Wherewithal shall we be clothed?

32 (For after all these things do the Gentiles seek:) for your heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need of all these things.

33 But [b] seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.

34 Take therefore no thought for the morrow: for the morrow shall take thought for the things of itself. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof.

CHAP. VII.

1 Christ ending his sermon in the mount, reproveth rash judgment. 6 forbiddeth to cast holy things to dogs. 7 exhorteth to prayer. 13 to enter in at the strait gate. 15 to beware of false prophets. 21 not to be hearers, but doers of the word: 24 like houses builded on a rock, 26 and not on the sand.

JUDGE [a] not, that ye be not judged.

2 For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged: [b] and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.

3 [c] And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye?

4 Or how wilt thou say to thy brother, Let me pull out the mote out of thine eye; and, behold, a beam is in thine own eye?

5 Thou hypocrite, first cast out the beam out of thine own eye; and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye.

6 ¶ [d] Give not that which is holy unto the dogs, neither cast ye your pearls before swine, lest they trample them under their feet, and turn again and rend you.

7 ¶ [e] Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you:

8 For [f] every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened.

9 [g] Or what man is there of you, whom if his son ask bread, will he give him a stone?

10 Or if he ask a fish, will he give him a serpent?

11 If ye then, [h] being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall your Father which is in heaven give good things to them that ask him?

12 Therefore all things [i] whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them: for [k] this is the law and the prophets.

13 ¶ [l] Enter ye in at the strait gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat:

14 [*] Because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it.

15 ¶ [m] Beware of false prophets, [n] which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are [o] ravening wolves.

16 [p] Ye shall know them by their fruits. [q] Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles?

17 Even so [r] every good tree bringeth forth good fruit; but a corrupt tree bringeth forth evil fruit.

18 A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit.

19 [s] Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire.

20 Wherefore by their fruits ye shall know them.

21 ¶ Not every one that saith unto me, [t] Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven.

22 Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we [u] not prophesied in thy name? and in thy name have cast out devils? and in thy name have done many wonderful works?

23 And [x] then will I profess unto them, I never knew you: [y] depart from me, ye that work iniquity.

24 ¶ Therefore [z] whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock:

25 And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell not: for it was founded upon a rock.

26 And every one that heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them not, shall be likened unto a foolish man, which built his house upon the sand:

27 And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell: and great was the fall of it.

28 And it came to pass, when Jesus had ended these sayings, [a] the people were astonished at his doctrine:

29 [b] For he taught them as one having authority, and not as the scribes.

to the priest, and offer the gift that [c] Moses commanded, for a testimony unto them.

5 ¶ [d] And when Jesus was entered into Capernaum, there came unto him a centurion, beseeching him,

6 And saying, Lord, my servant lieth at home sick of the palsy, grievously tormented.

7 And Jesus saith unto him, I will come and heal him.

8 The centurion answered and said, Lord, [e] I am not worthy that thou shouldest come under my roof: but [f] speak the word only, and my servant shall be healed.

9 For I am a man under authority, having soldiers under me: and I say to this man, Go, and he goeth; and to another, Come, and he cometh; and to my servant, Do this, and he doeth it.

10 When Jesus heard it, he marvelled, and said to them that followed, Verily I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel.

11 And I say unto you, That [g] many shall come from the east and west, and shall sit down with Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, in the kingdom of heaven.

12 But [h] the children of the kingdom [i] shall be cast out into outer darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

13 And Jesus said unto the centurion, Go thy way; and as thou hast believed, so be it done unto thee. And his servant was healed in the selfsame hour.

14 ¶ [k] And when Jesus was come into Peter's house, he saw [l] his wife's mother laid, and sick of a fever.

15 And he touched her hand, and the fever left her: and she arose, and ministered unto them.

16 ¶ [m] When the even was come, they brought unto him many that were possessed with devils: and he cast out the spirits with his word, and healed all that were sick:

17 That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Esaias the prophet, saying, [n] Himself took our infirmities, and bare our sicknesses.

18 ¶ Now when Jesus saw great multitudes about him, he gave commandment to depart unto the other side.

19 [o] And a certain scribe came, and said unto him, Master, I will follow thee whithersoever thou goest.

20 And Jesus saith unto him, The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have nests; but the Son of man hath not where to lay his head.

21 [p] And another of his disciples said unto him, Lord, [q] suffer me first to go and bury my father.

22 But Jesus said unto him, Follow me; and let the dead bury their dead.

23 ¶ And when he was entered into a ship, his disciples followed him.

24 [r] And, behold, there arose a great tempest in the sea, insomuch that the ship was covered with the waves: but he was asleep.

25 And his disciples came to him, and awoke him, saying, Lord, save us: we perish.

26 And he saith unto them, Why are ye fearful, O ye of little faith? Then [s] he arose, and rebuked the winds and the sea; and there was a great calm.

27 But the men marvelled, saying, What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey him!

28 ¶ [t] And when he was come to the other side into the country of the Gergesenes, there met him two possessed with devils, coming out of the tombs, exceeding fierce, so that no man might pass by that way.

29 And, behold, they cried out, saying, What have we to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of God? art thou come hither to torment us before the time?

30 And there was a good way off from them an herd of many swine feeding.

31 So the devils besought him, saying, If thou cast us out, suffer us to go away into the herd of swine.

32 And he said unto them, Go. And when they were come out, they went into the herd of swine: and, behold, the whole herd of swine ran violently down a steep place into the sea, and perished in the waters.

33 And they that kept them fled, and went their ways into the city, and told every thing, and what was befallen to the possessed of the devils.

34 And, behold, the whole city came out to meet Jesus: and when they saw him, [u] they besought him that he would depart out of their coasts.

2 Christ curing one sick of the palsy, 9 calleth Matthew from the receipt of custom, 10 eateth with publicans and sinners, 14 defendeth his disciples for not fasting, 20 cureth the bloody issue, 23 raiseth from death Jairus' daughter, 27 giveth sight to two blind men, 32 healeth a dumb man possessed of a devil, 36 and hath compassion of the multitude.

AND he entered into a ship, and passed over, [a] and came into his own city.

2 [b] And, behold, they brought to him a man sick of the palsy, lying on a bed: [c] and Jesus seeing their faith said unto the sick of the palsy; Son, be of good cheer; thy sins be forgiven thee.

3 And, behold, certain of the scribes said within themselves, This man blasphemeth.

4 And Jesus [d] knowing their thoughts said, Wherefore think ye evil in your hearts?

5 For whether is easier to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Arise, and walk?

6 But that ye may know that the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins, (then saith he to the sick of the palsy,) Arise, take up thy bed, and go unto thine house.

7 And he arose, and departed to his house.

8 But when the multitudes saw it, they marvelled, and glorified God, which had given such power unto men.

9 ¶ [e] And as Jesus passed forth from thence, he saw a man, named Matthew, sitting at the receipt of custom: and he saith unto him, Follow me. And he arose, and followed him.

10 ¶ [f] And it came to pass, as Jesus sat at meat in the house, behold, many publicans and sinners came and sat down with him his disciples.

11 And when the Pharisees saw it, they said unto his disciples, Why eateth your Master with [g] publicans and [h] sinners?

12 But when Jesus heard that, he said unto them, They that be whole need not a physician, but they that are sick.

13 But go ye and learn what that meaneth, [i] I will have mercy, and not sacrifice: for I am not come to call the righteous, [k] but sinners to repentance.

14 ¶ Then came to him the disciples of John, saying, [l] Why do we and the Pharisees fast oft, but thy disciples fast not?

15 And Jesus said unto them, Can [m] the children of the bridechamber mourn, as long as the bridegroom is with them? but the days will come, when the bridegroom shall be taken from them, and [n] then shall they fast.

16 No man putteth a piece of * new cloth unto an old garment, for that which is put in to fill it up taketh from the garment, and the rent is made worse.

17 Neither do men put new wine into old bottles: else the bottles break, and the wine runneth out, and the bottles perish: but they put new wine into new bottles, and both are preserved.

18 ¶ [o] While he spake these things unto them, behold, there came a certain ruler, and worshipped him, saying, My daughter is even now dead: but come and lay thy hand upon her, and she shall live.

19 And Jesus arose, and followed him, and so did his disciples.

20 ¶ [p] And, behold, a woman, which was diseased with an issue of blood twelve years, came behind him, and touched the hem of his garment:

21 For she said within herself, If I may but touch his garment, I shall be whole.

22 But Jesus turned him about, and when he saw her, he said, Daughter, be of good comfort; [q] thy faith hath made thee whole. And the woman was made whole from that hour.

23 [r] And when Jesus came into the ruler's house, and saw [s] the minstrels and the people making a noise,

24 He said unto them, [t] Give place: for the maid is not dead, but sleepeth. And they laughed him to scorn.

25 But when the people were put forth, he went in, and took her by the hand, and the maid arose.

26 And † the fame hereof went abroad into all that land.

27 ¶ And when Jesus departed thence, two blind men followed him, crying, and saying, [u] Thou Son of David, have mercy on us.

28 And when he was come into the house, the blind men came to him: and Jesus saith unto them, Believe ye that I am able to do this? They said unto him, Yea, Lord.

29 Then touched he their eyes, saying, According to your faith be it unto you.

30 And their eyes were opened; and Jesus straitly charged them, saying, [x] See that no man know it.

31 [y] But they, when they were departed, spread abroad his fame in all that country.

32 ¶ [z] As they went out, behold, they brought to him a dumb man possessed with a devil.

33 And when the devil was cast out, the dumb spake: and the multitudes marvelled, saying, It was never so seen in Israel.

34 But the Pharisees said, [a] He casteth out devils through the prince of the devils.

35 [b] And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, [c] teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people.

36 ¶ [d] But when he saw the multitudes, he was moved with compassion on them, because they ‡ fainted, and were scattered abroad, [e] as sheep having no shepherd.

37 Then saith he unto his disciples, [f] The harvest truly is plenteous, but the labourers are few;

38 [g] Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth labourers into his harvest.

1 Christ sendeth out his twelve apostles, enabling them with power to do miracles, 5 giveth them their charge, teacheth them, 16 comforteth them against persecutions: 40 and promiseth a blessing to those that receive them.

AND [a] when he had called unto him his twelve disciples, he gave them power * against unclean spirits, to cast them out, and to heal all manner of sickness and all manner of disease.

2 Now the names of the twelve apostles are these; The first, Simon, [b] who is called Peter, and Andrew his brother; James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother;

3 Philip, and Bartholomew; Thomas, and Matthew the Publican; James the son of Alphæus, and Lebbæus, whose surname was Thaddæus;

4 [c] Simon the Canaanite, and Judas [d] Iscariot, who also betrayed him.

5 These twelve Jesus sent forth, and commanded them, saying, [e] Go not into the way of the Gentiles, and into any city of [f] the Samaritans enter ye not:

6 [g] But go rather to the [h] lost sheep of the house of Israel.

7 [i] And as ye go, preach, saying, [k] The kingdom of heaven is at hand.

39 [b] He that findeth his life shall lose it: and he that loseth his life for my sake shall find it.

40 ¶ [c] He that receiveth you receiveth me, and he that receiveth me receiveth him that sent me.

41 [d] He that receiveth a prophet in the name of a prophet shall receive a prophet's reward; and he that receiveth a righteous man in the name of a righteous man shall receive a righteous man's reward.

42 [e] And whosoever shall give to drink unto one of these little ones a cup of cold water only in the name of a disciple, verily I say unto you, he shall in no wise lose his reward.

CHAP. XI.

2 John sendeth his disciples to Christ. 7 Christ's testimony concerning John. 18 The opinion of the people, both concerning John and Christ. 20 Christ upbraideth the unthankfulness and unrepentance of Chorazin, Bethsaida, and Capernaum: 25 and praising his Father's wisdom in revealing the gospel to the simple, 28 he calleth to him all such as feel the burden of their sins.

AND it came to pass when Jesus had made an end of commanding his twelve disciples, he departed thence to teach and to preach in their cities.

2 [a] Now when John had heard [b] in the prison the works of Christ, he sent two of his disciples,

3 And said unto him, Art thou [c] he that should come, or do we look for another?

4 Jesus answered and said unto them, Go and shew John again those things which ye do hear and see:

5 [d] The blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up, and [e] the poor have the Gospel preached to them.

6 And blessed is he, whomsoever shall not [f] be offended in me.

7 ¶ [g] And as they departed, Jesus began to say unto the multitudes concerning John, What went ye out into the wilderness to see? [h] A reed shaken with the wind?

8 But what went ye out for to see? A man clothed in soft raiment? behold, they that wear soft clothing are in kings' houses.

9 But what went ye out for to see? A prophet? yea, I say unto you, [i] and more than a prophet.

10 For this is he, of whom it is written, [k] Behold, I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee.

11 Verily I say unto you, Among them that are born of women there hath not risen a greater than John the Baptist: notwithstanding he that is least in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he.

12 [l] And from the days of John the Baptist until now the kingdom of heaven [*] suffereth violence, and the violent take it by force.

13 [m] For all the prophets and the law prophesied until John.

14 And if ye will receive it, this is [n] Elias, which was for to come.

15 [o] He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

16 ¶ [p] But whereunto shall I liken this generation? It is like unto children sitting in the markets, and calling unto their fellows, 17 And saying, We have piped unto you, and ye have not danced; we have mourned unto you, and ye have not lamented.

18 For John came neither eating nor drinking, and they say, He hath a devil.

19 The Son of man came eating and drinking, and they say, Behold a man gluttonous, and a winebibber, [q] a friend of Publicans and sinners. [r] But wisdom is justified of her children.

20 ¶ [s] Then began he to upbraid the cities wherein most of his mighty works were done, because they repented not:

21 Woe unto thee, Chorazin! woe unto thee, Bethsaida! for if the mighty works, which were done in you, had been done in Tyre and Sidon, they would have repented long ago [t] in sackcloth and ashes.

22 But I say unto you, [u] It shall be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon at the day of judgment, than for you.

23 And thou, Capernaum, [x] which art exalted unto heaven, shalt be brought down to hell: for if the mighty works, which have been done in thee, had been done in Sodom, it would have remained until this day.

24 But I say unto you, [y] That it shall be more tolerable for the land of Sodom in the day of judgment, than for thee.

25 ¶ [z] At that time Jesus answered and said, I thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because [a] thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, [b] and hast revealed them unto babes.

26 Even so, Father: for so it seemed good in thy sight.

27 [c] All things are delivered unto me of my Father; and no man knoweth the Son, but the Father; [d] neither knoweth any man the Father, save the Son, and he to whomsoever the Son will reveal him.

28 ¶ Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.

29 Take my yoke upon you, [e] and learn of me; for I am meek and [f] lowly in heart: [g] and ye shall find rest unto your souls.

30 [h] For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light.

CHAP. XII.

1 Christ reproveth the blindness of the Pharisees concerning the breach of the sabbath, 3 by scriptures, 9 by reason, 13 and by a miracle. 22 He healeth the man possessed that was blind and dumb. 31 Blasphemy against the Holy Ghost shall never be forgiven. 36 Account shall be made of idle words. 38 He rebuketh the unfaithful, who seek after a sign: 49 and sheweth who is his brother, sister, and mother.

AT that time [a] Jesus went on the sabbath day through the corn; and his disciples were an hungred, and began to pluck the ears of corn, and to eat.

2 But when the Pharisees saw it, they said unto him, Behold, thy disciples do that which is not lawful to do upon the sabbath day.

3 But he said unto them, Have ye not read [b] what David did, when he was an hungred, and they that were with him;

4 How he entered into the house of God, and did eat [c] the shewbread which was not lawful for him to eat, neither for them which were with him, [d] but only for the Priests?

5 Or have ye not read in the [e] law, how that on the sabbath days the Priests in the temple profane the sabbath, and are blameless?

6 But I say unto you, That in this place is [f] one greater than the temple.

7 But if ye had known what this meaneth, [g] I will have mercy, and not sacrifice, ye would not have condemned the guiltless.

8 For the Son of man is Lord even of the sabbath day.

9 [h] And when he was departed thence, he went into their synagogue:

10 ¶ And, behold, there was a man which had his hand withered. And they asked him, saying, [i] Is it lawful to heal on the sabbath days? that they might accuse him.

11 And he said unto them, What man shall there be among you, that shall have one sheep, and [a] if it fall into a pit on the sabbath day, will he not lay hold on it, and lift it out?

12 How much then is a man better than a sheep? Wherefore it is lawful to do well on the sabbath days.

13 Then saith he to the man, Stretch forth thine hand. And he stretched it forth; and it was restored whole, like as the other.

14 ¶ Then [l] the Pharisees went out, and [k] held a council against him, how they might destroy him.

15 But when Jesus knew it, [m] he withdrew himself from thence: [n] and great multitudes followed him, and he healed them all;

16 And [n] charged them that they should not make him known:

17 That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Esaias the prophet, saying,

18 [p] Behold my servant, whom I have chosen; my beloved, [q] in whom my soul is well pleased: I will put my spirit upon him, and he shall shew judgment to the Gentiles.

19 He shall not strive, nor cry; neither shall any man hear his voice in the streets.

20 A bruised reed shall he not break, and smoking flax shall he not quench, till he send forth judgment unto victory.

21 And in his name shall the Gentiles trust.

22 ¶ [r] Then was brought unto him one possessed with a devil, blind, and dumb: and he healed him, insomuch that the blind and dumb both spake and saw.

23 And all the people were amazed, and said, Is not this the son of David?

24 [s] But when the Pharisees heard it, they said, This fellow doth not cast out devils, but by † Beelzebub the prince of the devils.

25 And Jesus [t] knew their thoughts, and said unto them, Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and every city or house divided against itself shall not stand:

26 And if Satan cast out Satan, he is divided against himself; how shall then his kingdom stand?

27 And if I by Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your children cast them out? therefore they shall be your judges.

28 But if I cast out devils by the Spirit of God, then [u] the kingdom of God is come unto you.

29 [x] Or else how can one enter into a strong man's house, and spoil his goods, except he first bind the strong man? and then he will spoil his house.

30 He that is not with me is against me: and he that gathereth not with me scattereth abroad.

31 ¶ Wherefore I say unto you, [y] All manner of sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men: [z] but the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost shall not be forgiven unto men.

32 And whosoever [a] speaketh a word against the Son of man, [b] it shall be forgiven him: but whosoever speaketh against the Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, neither in the world to come.

33 Either make the tree good, and [c] his fruit good; or else make the tree corrupt, and his fruit corrupt: for the tree is known by his fruit.

34 O [d] generation of vipers, how can ye, being evil, speak good things? [e] for out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh.

35 A good man out of the good treasure of the heart bringeth forth good things: and an evil man out of the evil treasure bringeth forth evil things.

36 But I say unto you, That every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account thereof in the day of judgment.

37 For by thy words thou shalt be justified, and by thy words thou shalt be condemned.

38 ¶ [f] Then certain of the Scribes and of the Pharisees answered, saying, Master, we would see a sign from thee.

39 But he answered and said unto them, An evil and [g] adulterous generation seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given to it, but the sign of the prophet Jonas:

40 [h] For as Jonas was three days and three nights in the whale's belly; so shall the Son of man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth.

41 [i] The men of Nineveh shall rise in judgment with this generation, and [k] shall condemn it: [l] because they repented at the preaching of Jonas; and, behold, a greater than Jonas is here.

42 [m] The queen of the south shall rise up in the judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: for she came from the uttermost parts of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon; and, behold, a greater than Solomon is here.

43 [n] When the unclean spirit is gone out of a man, [o] he walketh through dry places, seeking rest, and findeth none.

44 Then he saith, I will return into my house from whence I came out; and when he is come, he findeth it empty, swept, and garnished.

45 Then goeth he, and taketh with himself seven other spirits more wicked than himself, and they enter in and dwell there: [p] and the last state of that man is worse than the first. Even so shall it be also unto this wicked generation.

46 ¶ While he yet talked to the people, [q] behold, his mother and [r] his brethren stood without, desiring to speak with him.

5 Some fell upon stony places, where they had not much earth: and forthwith they sprung up, because they had no deepness of earth:

6 And when the sun was up, they were scorched; and because they had no root, they withered away.

7 And some fell among thorns; and the thorns sprung up, and choked them:

12 [h] For whosoever hath, to him shall be given, and he shall have more abundance: but whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken away even that he hath.

13 Therefore speak I to them in parables: because they seeing see not; and hearing they hear not, neither do they understand.

14 And in them is fulfilled the prophecy of Esaias, which saith, [i] By hearing ye shall hear, and shall not understand; and seeing ye shall see, and shall not perceive:

24 ¶ Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is likened unto a man which sowed good seed in his field:

25 But while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way.

26 But when the blade was sprung up, and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also.

27 So the servants of the householder came and said unto him, Sir, didst not thou sow good seed in thy field? from whence then hath it tares?

28 He said unto them, An enemy hath done this. The servants said unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up?

29 But he said, Nay; lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them.

30 Let both grow together until the harvest: and in the time of harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather ye together first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them: but [t] gather the wheat into my barn.

* The word in the Greek is a measure containing a cab and a half, nearly a gallon and three pints.

them; The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman took, and hid in three *measures of meal, till the whole was leavened.

34 [y] All these things spake Jesus unto the multitude in parables; and without a parable spake he not unto them:

35 That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying, [z] I will open my mouth in parables; [a] I will utter things which have been kept secret from the foundation of the world.

36 Then Jesus sent the multitude away, and went into the house: and his disciples came unto him, saying, Declare unto us the parable of the tares of the field.

37 He answered and said unto them, He that soweth the good seed is the Son of man;

38 [b] The field is the world; the good seed are the children of the kingdom; but the tares are [c] the children of the wicked one;

39 The enemy that sowed them is the devil; [d] the harvest is the end of the world; and the reapers are the angels.

40 As therefore the tares are gathered and burned in the fire; so shall it be in the end of this world.

41 The Son of man shall send forth his angels, [e] and they shall gather out of his kingdom all † things that offend, and them which do iniquity;

42 [f] And shall cast them into a furnace of fire: [g] there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth.

43 [h] Then shall the righteous shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father. [i] Who hath ears to hear, let him hear.

44 ¶ Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto treasure hid in a field; the which when a man hath found, he hideth, and for joy thereof goeth and [k] selleth all that he hath, and [l] buyeth that field.

45 ¶ Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a merchant man, seeking goodly pearls:

46 Who, when he had found [m] one pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had, and bought it.

47 ¶ Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a net, that was cast into the sea, and [n] gathered of every kind:

48 Which, when it was full, they drew to shore, and sat down, and gathered the good into vessels, but cast the bad away.

49 So shall it be at the end of the world: the angels shall come forth, and [o] sever the wicked from among the just,

50 [p] And shall cast them into the furnace of fire: there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth.

51 Jesus saith unto them, Have ye understood all these things? They say unto him, Yea, Lord.

52 Then said he unto them, Therefore every scribe which is instructed unto the kingdom of heaven is like unto a man that is an householder, which bringeth forth out of his treasure [q] things new and old.

53 ¶ And it came to pass, that when Jesus had finished these parables, he departed thence.

54 [r] And when he was come into his own country, he taught them in their synagogue, insomuch that they were astonished, and said, Whence hath this man this wisdom, and these mighty works?

55 [s] Is not this the carpenter's son? is not his mother called Mary? and [t] his brethren, [u] James, and Joses, and Simon, and Judas?

56 And his sisters, are they not all with us? Whence then hath this man all these things?

57 And they [x] were offended in him. But Jesus said unto them, [y] A prophet is not without honour, save in his own country, and in his own house.

58 And [z] he did not many mighty works there because of their unbelief.

AT that time [a] Herod the tetrarch heard of the fame of Jesus,

2 And said unto his servants, This is John the Baptist; he is risen from the dead; and therefore mighty works * do shew forth themselves in him.

3 ¶ [b] For Herod had laid hold on John, and bound him, and put him in prison for Herodias' sake, his brother Philip's wife.

4 For John said unto him, [c] It is not lawful for thee to have her.

5 And when he would have put him to death, he feared the multitude, [d] because they counted him as a prophet.

6 But when Herod's birthday was kept, the daughter of Herodias danced † before them, and pleased Herod.

7 Whereupon he promised with an oath to give her whatsoever she would ask.

8 And she, being before instructed of her mother, said, Give me here John Baptist's head in a charger.

9 And the king was sorry: nevertheless for the oath's sake, and them which sat with him at meat, he commanded it to be given her.

10 And he sent, and beheaded John in the prison.

11 And his head was brought in a charger, and given to the damsel: and she brought it to her mother.

12 And his disciples came, and took up the body, and buried it, and went and told Jesus.

13 ¶ [e] When Jesus heard of it, he departed thence by ship into a desert place apart: and when the people had heard thereof, they followed him on foot out of the cities.

14 And Jesus went forth, and saw a great multitude, and [f] was moved with compassion toward them, and he healed their sick.

15 ¶ [g] And when it was evening, his disciples came to him, saying, This is a desert place, and the time is now past; send the multitude away, that they may go into the villages, and buy themselves victuals.

16 But Jesus said unto them, They need not depart; give ye them to eat.

18 He said, Bring them hither to me.

19 And he commanded the multitude to sit down on the grass, and took the five loaves, and the two fishes, and looking up to heaven, [h] he blessed, and brake, and gave the loaves to his disciples, and the disciples to the multitude.

20 And they did all eat, and were filled: and they took up of the fragments that remained twelve baskets full.

21 And they that had eaten were about five thousand men, besides women and children.

22 ¶ And straightway Jesus constrained his disciples to get into a ship, and to go before him unto the other side, while he sent the multitudes away.

23 [i] And when he had sent the multitudes away, he went up into a mountain apart to pray: [k] and when the evening was come, he was there alone.

24 But the ship was now in the midst of the sea, tossed with waves: for the wind was contrary.

25 And in the fourth watch of the night Jesus went unto them, walking on the sea.

26 And when the disciples saw him [l] walking on the sea, they were troubled, saying, It is a spirit; and they cried out for fear.

27 But straightway Jesus spake unto them, saying, Be of good cheer; it is I; be not afraid.

28 And Peter answered him and said, Lord, if it be thou, bid me come unto thee on the water.

29 And he said, Come. And when Peter was come down out of the ship, he walked on the water, to go to Jesus.

30 But when he saw the wind ‡ boisterous, he was afraid; and beginning to sink, he cried, saying, Lord, save me.

31 And immediately Jesus stretched forth his hand, and caught him, and said unto him, O thou of little faith, wherefore didst thou doubt?

32 And when they were come into the ship, the wind ceased.

33 Then they that were in the ship came and worshipped him, saying, Of a truth [m] thou art the Son of God.

34 ¶ [n] And when they were gone over, they came into the land of Gennesaret.

35 And when the men of that place had knowledge of him, they sent out into all that country round about, and brought unto him all that were diseased;

36 And besought him that they might only touch the hem of his garment: and [o] as many as touched were made perfectly whole.

CHAP. XV.

3 Christ reproveth the scribes and Pharisees for transgressing God's commandments through their own traditions: 11 teacheth how that which goeth into the mouth doth not defile a man. 21 He healeth the daughter of the woman of Canaan, 30 and other great multitudes: 32 and with seven loaves and a few little fishes feedeth four thousand men, beside women and children.

[p] THEN [q] came to Jesus Scribes and Pharisees, which were of Jerusalem, saying,

2 [b] Why do thy disciples transgress [c] the tradition of the elders? for they wash not their hands when they eat bread.

3 But he answered and said unto them Why do ye also transgress the commandment of God by your tradition?

4 For God commanded, saying, [d] Honour thy father and mother: and, [e] He that curseth father or mother, let him die the death.

5 But ye say, Whosoever shall say to his father or his mother, [f] It is a gift, by whatsoever thou mightest be profited by me;

6 And honour not his father or his mother, he shall be free. Thus have ye made the commandment of God of none effect by your tradition.

7 [g] Ye hypocrites, well did Esaias prophesy of you, saying,

8 [h] This people draweth nigh unto me with their mouth, and honoureth me with their lips; but their heart is far from me.

9 But in vain they do worship me, [i] teaching for doctrines the commandments of men.

10 ¶ [k] And he called the multitude, and said unto them, Hear, and understand:

11 [l] Not that which goeth into the mouth defileth a man; but that which cometh out of the mouth, this defileth a man.

12 Then came his disciples, and said unto him, Knowest thou that the Pharisees were offended, after they heard this saying?

13 But he answered and said, [m] Every plant, which my heavenly Father hath not planted, shall be rooted up.

14 Let them alone: [n] they be blind leaders of the blind. And if the blind lead the blind, both shall fall into the ditch.

15 [o] Then answered Peter and said unto him, Declare unto us this parable.

16 And Jesus said, [p] Are ye also yet without understanding?

17 Do not ye yet understand, that [q] whatsoever entereth in at the mouth goeth into the belly, and is cast out into the draught?

18 But [r] those things which proceed out of the mouth come forth from the heart; and they defile the man.

19 [s] For out of the heart proceed evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false witness, blasphemies:

20 These are the things which defile a man: but to eat with unwashen hands defileth not a man.

21 ¶ [t] Then Jesus went thence, and departed into the coasts of Tyre and Sidon.

22 And, behold, a woman of Canaan came out of the same coasts, and cried unto him, saying, Have mercy on me, O Lord, thou Son of David; my daughter is grievously vexed with a devil.

23 But he answered her not a word. And his disciples came and besought him, saying, Send her away; for she crieth after us.

24 But he answered and said, [u] I am not sent but unto the lost sheep of the house of Israel.

27 And she said, Truth, Lord: yet the dogs eat of the crumbs which fall from their master's table.

28 Then Jesus answered and said unto her, O woman, great is thy faith: be it unto thee even as thou wilt. And her daughter was made whole from that very hour.

29 [y] And Jesus departed from thence, and came nigh [z] unto the sea of Galilee; and went up into a mountain, and sat down there.

30 [a] And great multitudes came unto him, having with them those that were lame, blind, dumb, maimed, and many others, and cast them down at Jesus' feet; and he healed them:

32 ¶ [b] Then Jesus called his disciples unto him, and said, I have compassion on the multitude, because they continue with me now three days, and have nothing to eat: and I will not send them away fasting, lest they faint in the way.

33 [c] And his disciples say unto him, Whence should we have so much bread in the wilderness, as to fill so great a multitude?

34 And Jesus saith unto them, How many loaves have ye? And they said, Seven, and a few little fishes.

35 And he commanded the multitude to sit down on the ground.

37 And they did all eat, and were filled: and they took up of the broken meat that was left seven baskets full.

38 And they that did eat were four thousand men, beside women and children.

39 [f] And he sent away the multitude, and took ship, and came into the coasts of Magdala.

1 The Pharisees require a sign. 6 Jesus warneth his disciples of the leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees. 13 The people's opinion of Christ. 16 and Peter's confession of him. 21 Jesus foreshoweth his death, 23 reproving Peter for dissuading him from it: 24 and admonisheth those that will follow him, to bear the cross.

THE [a] Pharisees also with the Sadducees came, and tempting desired him that he would shew them a sign from heaven.

2 He answered and said unto them, When it is evening, ye say, It will be fair weather: for the sky is red.

3 And in the morning, It will be foul weather to day: for the sky is red and lowring. O ye hypocrites, ye can discern the face of the sky; but can ye not discern the signs of the times?

4 [b] A wicked and adulterous generation seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given unto it, but the sign of the prophet Jonas. And he left them, and departed.

5 And [c] when his disciples were come to the other side, they had forgotten to take bread.

6 ¶ Then Jesus said unto them, [d] Take heed and beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees.

7 And they reasoned among themselves, saying, It is because we have taken no bread.

8 Which when Jesus perceived, he said unto them, O ye of little faith, why reason ye among yourselves, because ye have brought no bread?

9 [e] Do ye not yet understand, neither remember the five loaves of the five thousand and how many baskets ye took up?

10 [f] Neither the seven loaves of the four thousand, and how many baskets ye took up?

11 How is it that ye do not understand that I spake it not to you concerning bread, that ye should beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees?

12 Then understood they how that he bade them not beware of the leaven of bread, but of the doctrine of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees.

13 ¶ When Jesus came into the coasts of Cæsarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying, [g] Whom do men say that I the Son of man am?

14 And they said, [h] Some say that thou art John the Baptist: some, Elias; and others, Jeremias, or one of the prophets.

15 He saith unto them, But whom say ye that I am?

16 And Simon Peter answered and said, [i] Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.

17 And Jesus answered and said unto him, Blessed art thou, Simon Bar-jona: [k] for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but [l] my Father which is in heaven.

18 And I say also unto thee, That [m] thou art Peter, and [n] upon this rock I will build my church; and [o] the gates of hell shall not prevail against it.

19 [p] And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.

20 [q] Then charged he his disciples that they should tell no man that he was Jesus the Christ.

21 ¶ From that time forth began Jesus [r] to shew unto his disciples, how that he must go unto Jerusalem, and suffer many things of the elders and Chief Priests and Scribes, and be killed, and be raised again the third day.

1 The transfiguration of Christ. 14 He healeth the lunatick, 22 foretelleth his own passion, 24 and payeth tribute.

AND [a] after six days Jesus taketh Peter, James, and John his brother, and bringeth them up into an high mountain apart,

2 And was transfigured before them: and his face did shine as the sun, and his raiment was white as the light.

3 And, behold, there appeared unto them Moses and Elias talking with him.

4 Then answered Peter, and said unto Jesus, Lord, it is good for us to be here: if thou wilt, let us make here three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias.

5 [b] While he yet spake, behold, a bright cloud overshadowed them: and behold a voice out of the cloud, which said, [c] This is my beloved Son, [d] in whom I am well pleased; [e] hear ye him.

6 [f] And when the disciples heard it, they fell on their face, and were sore afraid.

7 And Jesus came and [g] touched them, and said, Arise, and be not afraid.

8 And when they had lifted up their eyes, they saw no man, save Jesus only.

9 And as they came down from the mountain, [h] Jesus charged them, saying, Tell the vision to no man, until the Son of man be risen again from the dead.

10 And his disciples asked him, saying, [i] Why then say the Scribes that Elias must first come?

11 And Jesus answered and said unto them, Elias truly shall first come, and [k] restore all things.

12 [l] But I say unto you, That Elias is come already, and they knew him not, but [m] have done unto him whatsoever they listed. Likewise [n] shall also the Son of man suffer of them.

15 Lord, have mercy on my son: for he is lunatick, and sore vexed: for ofttimes he falleth into the fire, and oft into the water.

16 And I brought him to thy disciples, and they could not cure him.

17 Then Jesus answered and said, O faithless and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you? how long shall I suffer you? bring him hither to me.

18 And Jesus rebuked the devil; and he departed out of him: and the child was cured from that very hour.

19 Then came the disciples to Jesus apart, and said, Why could not we cast him out?

20 And Jesus said unto them, Because of your unbelief: for verily I say unto you, [q] If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you.

26 Peter saith unto him, Of strangers. Jesus saith unto him, Then are the children free.

27 Notwithstanding, lest we should offend them, go thou to the sea, and cast an hook, and take up the fish that first cometh up; and when thou hast opened his mouth, thou shalt find †a piece of money: that take, and give unto them for me and thee.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 Christ warneth his disciples to be humble and harmless: 7 to avoid offences, and not to despise the little ones: 15 teacheth how we are to deal with our brethren, when they offend us: 21 and how oft to forgive them: 23 which he setteth forth by a parable of the king, that took account of his servants, 32 and punished him who shewed no mercy to his fellow.

[a] Mark 9. 33 Luke 9. 46. & 22. 24.

Ver. 23. Get thee behind me, Satan — Satan here means adversary. Thou art an offence unto me. Thou art throwing an obstacle in my way.

Ver. 28. Till they see the Son of Man coming, &c. That is, until they see an earnest of that eternal punishment which the Messiah will finally bring upon all hardened sinners in the temporal punishment with which he will visit the unbelieving Jews for their obduracy of heart, by permitting the destruction of their capital, and the subversion of their government by the Roman armies.

Chap. xvii. Ver. 2. And was transfigured — He appeared before his three disciples in that glorified body in which he ascended into heaven after his resurrection from the grave.

Ver. 10 & 13. And Jesus answered and said unto them,

Elias truly shall come first, and restore all things; that is, (he indeed is to come first for this end, according to the words of the prophet Malachi, chap. iv. 6.) Ver. 12. But then) I (also) say unto you, that (the) Elias of whom he spake, is come already; and they knew (that is, acknowledge him not, but have done unto him whatsoever they listed; the Pharisees rejecting his baptism, and blaspheming him as one that had a devil, Luke vii. 30, 33.); likewise, shall also the son of man suffer of them."

Ver. 21. Howbeit this kind, &c. — None but the most eminent in faith and piety are permitted to perform such miracles as this.

Chap. xviii. Ver. 1. Who is the greatest, &c. — The apostles, no less than the disciples generally, looked upon the Messiah's kingdom as one of this world merely, and expected, no doubt, to be advanced to temporal distinctions.

2 And Jesus called a little child unto him, and set him in the midst of them,

3 And said, Verily I say unto you, [b] Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven.

4 [c] Whosoever therefore shall humble himself as this little child, the same is greatest in the kingdom of heaven.

5 And [d] whoso shall receive one such little child in my name receiveth me.

6 [e] But whoso shall offend one of these little ones which believe in me, it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea.

7 ¶ Woe unto the world because of offences! for [f] it must needs be that offences come; but [g] woe to that man by whom the offence cometh!

8 [h] Wherefore if thy hand or thy foot offend thee, cut them off, and cast them from thee: it is better for thee to enter into life halt or maimed, rather than having two hands or two feet to be cast into everlasting fire.

9 And if thine eye offend thee, pluck it out, and cast it from thee: it is better for thee to enter into life with one eye, rather than having two eyes to be cast into hell fire.

10 Take heed that ye despise not one of these little ones; for I say unto you, That in heaven [i] their angels do always [k] behold the face of my Father which is in heaven.

11 [l] For the Son of man is come to save that which was lost.

12 [m] How think ye? if a man have an hundred sheep, and one of them be gone astray, doth he not leave the ninety and nine, and goeth into the mountains, and seeketh that which is gone astray?

13 And if so be that he find it, verily I say unto you, he rejoiceth more of that sheep, than of the ninety and nine which went not astray.

14 Even so it is not the will of your Father which is in heaven, that one of these little ones should perish.

15 ¶ Moreover [n] if thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, [o] thou hast gained thy brother.

16 But if he will not hear thee, then take with thee one or two more, that in [p] the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be established.

17 And if he shall neglect to hear them, tell it unto the Church: but if he neglect to hear the Church, let him be unto thee as an [q] heathen man and a Publican.

18 Verily I say unto you, [r] Whatsoever ye shall bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever ye shall loose on earth shall be loosened in heaven.

19 [s] Again I say unto you, That if two of you shall agree on earth as touching any thing that they shall ask, [t] it shall be done for them of my Father which is in heaven.

20 For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them.

21 ¶ Then came Peter to him, and said, Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? [u] till seven times?

22 Jesus saith unto him, I say not unto thee, Until seven times: [x] but, Until seventy times seven.

23 ¶ Therefore is the kingdom of heaven likened unto a certain king, which would take account of his servants.

24 And when he had begun to reckon, one was brought unto him, which owed him ten thousand * talents.

25 But forasmuch as he had not to pay, his lord commanded him [y] to be sold, and his wife, and children, and all that he had, and payment to be made.

26 The servant therefore fell down, and † worshipped him, saying, Lord, have patience with me, and I will pay thee all.

27 Then the lord of that servant was moved with compassion, and loosed him, and forgave him the debt.

28 But the same servant went out, and found one of his fellowservants, which owed him an hundred ‡ pence: and he laid hands on him, and took him by the throat, saying, Pay me that thou owest.

29 And his fellowservant fell down at his feet, and besought him, saying, Have patience with me, and I will pay thee all.

30 And he would not: but went and cast him into prison, till he should pay the debt.

31 So when his fellowservants saw what was done, they were very sorry, and came and told unto their lord all that was done.

32 Then his lord, after that he had called him, said unto him, O thou wicked servant, I forgave thee all that debt, because thou desiredst me:

33 Shouldest not thou also have had compassion on thy fellowservant, even as I had pity on thee?

34 And his lord was wroth, and delivered him to the tormentors, till he should pay all that was due unto him.

35 [z] So likewise shall my heavenly Father do also unto you, if ye from your hearts forgive not every one his brother their trespasses.

CHAP. XIX.

Christ healeth the sick: 3 answereth the Pharisees concerning divorcement: 10 sheweth when marriage is necessary: 13 receiveth little children: 16 instructeth the young man how to attain eternal life, 20 and how to be perfect: 23 telleth his disciples how hard it is for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God, 27 and promiseth reward to those that forsake any thing to follow him.

A. D. 33 tempting him, and saying unto him, Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for every cause?

4 And he answered and said unto them, Have ye not read, [c] that he which made them at the beginning made them male and female,

5 And said, [d] For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife: and [e] they twain shall be one flesh?

6 Wherefore they are no more twain, but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder.

7 They say unto him, [f] Why did Moses then command to give a writing of divorcement, and to put her away?

8 He saith unto them, Moses because of the hardness of your hearts suffered you to put away your wives: but from the beginning it was not so.

9 [g] And I say unto you, Whosoever shall put away his wife, except it be for fornication, and shall marry another, committeth adultery: and whoso marrieth her which is put away doth commit adultery.

10 ¶ His disciples say unto him, [h] If the case of the man be so with his wife, it is not good to marry.

11 But he said unto them, [i] All men cannot receive this saying, save they to whom it is given.

12 For there are some eunuchs, which were so born from their mother's womb: and there are some eunuchs, which were made eunuchs of men: and [k] there be eunuchs, which have made themselves eunuchs for the kingdom of heaven's sake. He that is able to receive it, let him receive it.

13 ¶ [l] Then were there brought unto him little children, that he should put his hands on them, and pray: and the disciples rebuked them.

14 But Jesus said, Suffer little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me: for [m] of such is the kingdom of heaven.

15 And he laid his hands on them, and departed thence.

16 ¶ [n] And, behold, one came and said unto him, [o] Good Master, what good thing shall I do, that I may have eternal life?

17 And he said unto him, Why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, that is, God: but if thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments.

18 He saith unto him, Which? Jesus said, [p] Thou shalt do no murder, Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shall not bear false witness, 19 [q] Honour thy father and thy mother: and, [r] Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.

20 The young man saith unto him, All these things have I kept from my youth up: what lack I yet?

21 Jesus said unto him, If thou wilt be perfect, [s] go and sell that thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come and follow me.

22 But when the young man heard that saying, he went away sorrowful: for he had great possessions.

23 ¶ Then said Jesus unto his disciples Verily I say unto you, That [t] a rich man shall hardly enter into the kingdom of heaven.

24 And again I say unto you, It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.

25 When his disciples heard it, they were exceedingly amazed, saying, Who then can be saved?

26 But Jesus beheld them, and said unto them, With men this is impossible; but [u] with God all things are possible.

27 ¶ [x] Then answered Peter and said unto him, Behold, [y] we have forsaken all, and followed thee; what shall we have therefore?

28 And Jesus said unto them, Verily I say unto you, That ye which have followed me, in the regeneration, when the Son of man shall sit in the throne of his glory, [z] ye also shall sit upon twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

29 [a] And every one that hath forsaken houses, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my name's sake, shall receive an hundredfold, and shall inherit everlasting life.

30 [b] But many that are first shall be last; and the last shall be first.

CHAP. XX.

1 Christ, by the similitude of the labourers in the vineyard, sheweth that God is debtor unto no man: 17 foretelleth his passion: 20 by answering the mother of Zebedee's children teacheth his disciples to be lowly: 30 and giveth two blind men their sight.

FOR the kingdom of heaven is like unto a man that is an householder, which went out early in the morning to hire labourers into his vineyard.

2 And when he had agreed with the labourers for a * penny a day, he sent them into his vineyard.

3 And he went out about the third hour, and saw others standing idle in the marketplace,

4 And said unto them; Go ye also into the vineyard, and whatsoever is right I will give you. And they went their way.

5 Again he went out about the sixth and ninth hour, and did likewise.

6 And about the eleventh hour he went out, and found others standing idle, and saith unto them, Why stand ye here all the day idle?

7 They say unto him, Because no man hath hired us. He saith unto them, Go ye also into the vineyard; and whatsoever is right, that shall ye receive.

8 So when even was come, the lord of the vineyard saith unto his steward, Call the labourers, and give them their hire, beginning from the last unto the first.

Ver. 8. Because of the hardness of your hearts.—Because of the incorrigible licentiousness of the Jews, and to release from conjugal tyranny the unhappy women who had become their wives, Moses, in many instances, permitted divorcements.

Ver. 12. Eunuchs.—"This word," observes Dr. Hammond, "seems here used to denote the chastity of a single life." It implies generally, in the sense here employed extreme purity of conduct.

Ver. 13. That he would put his hands upon them.—That is, bless them.

Ver. 17. Enter into life.—Into life eternal.

Ver. 24. It is easier for a camel, &c.—This is tantamount to saying, it is impossible.

Ver. 28. In the regeneration.—At the day of judgment, the day of final restoration of the righteous to that original purity forfeited in the earthly paradise. Ye also shall sit upon twelve thrones.—"When I," says our Saviour, "shall be exalted to everlasting dominion, and shall sit upon the throne of eternal glory, then shall ye be exalted, and shall sit by me in the next degree of glory and power."—De S. Clarke.

CHAP. XX. Ver. 16. For many be called, but few chosen.—Notwithstanding that many Jews are invited to hear the gospel, yet only a few shall render themselves fit to receive its blessings. As they do not obey the call of the Messiah, he will not select or choose them to inherit the privileges of his kingdom.

Ver. 21. Grant that these my two sons, &c.—Grant that they may be exalted to the highest temporal dignities.

Ver. 22. Are ye able to drink, &c.—Are ye able to pursue the same toils, and to undergo the same severe afflictions allotted to me?

Ver. 26. Your minister.—Literally your deacon, one whose duty it was to take care of the poor and infirm as well as to preach. It was the lowest ecclesiastical office.

Ver. 44. Whosoever shall fall on this stone, &c.—Allusion is here made to the punishment of stoning among the Jews.

A. D. 33.

2 The kingdom of heaven is like unto a certain king, which made a marriage for his son,

3 And sent forth his servants to call them that were bidden to the wedding: and they would not come.

4 Again, he sent forth other servants, saying, Tell them which are bidden, Behold, I have prepared my dinner: [b] my oxen and my fatlings are killed, and all things are ready: come unto the marriage.

5 But they made light of it, and went their ways, one to his farm, another to his merchandise:

6 And the remnant took his servants, and entreated them spitefully, and slew them.

7 But when the king heard thereof, he was wroth: and he sent forth [c] his armies, and destroyed those murderers, and burned up their city.

8 Then saith he to his servants, The wedding is ready, but they which were bidden were not [d] worthy.

9 Go ye therefore into the highways, and as many as ye shall find, bid to the marriage.

10 So those servants went out into the highways, and [e] gathered together all as many as they found, both bad and good: and the wedding was furnished with guests.

11 ¶ And when the king came in to see the guests, he saw there a man [f] which had not on a wedding garment:

12 And he saith unto him, Friend, how camest thou in hither not having a wedding garment? And he was speechless.

13 Then said the king to the servants, Bind him hand and foot, and take him away, and cast him [g] into outer darkness; there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

14 [h] For many are called, but few are chosen.

15 ¶ [i] Then went the Pharisees, and took counsel how they might entangle him in his talk.

16 And they sent out unto him their disciples with the Herodians, saying, Master, we know that thou art true, and teachest the way of God in truth, neither carest thou for any man: for thou regardest not the person of men.

17 Tell us therefore, What thinkest thou? Is it lawful to give tribute unto Cæsar, or not?

18 But Jesus perceived their wickedness, and said, Why tempt ye me, ye hypocrites?

19 Shew me the tribute money. And they brought unto him a * penny.

20 And he saith unto them, Whose is this image and † superscription?

21 They say unto him, Cæsar's. Then saith he unto them, [k] Render therefore unto Cæsar the things which are Cæsar's; and unto God the things that are God's.

22 When they had heard these words, they marvelled, and left him, and went their way.

23 ¶ [l] The same day came to him the Sadducees, [m] which say that there is no resurrection, and asked him,

24 Saying, Master, [n] Moses said, If a man die, having no children, his brother shall marry his wife, and raise up seed unto his brother.

25 [o] Now there were with us seven brethren: and the first, when he had married a wife, deceased, and, having no issue, left his wife unto his brother:

26 Likewise the second also, and the third, unto the ‡ seventh.

27 And last of all the woman died also.

28 Therefore in the resurrection whose wife shall she be of the seven? for they all had her.

29 Jesus answered and said unto them, Ye do err, [p] not knowing the Scriptures, nor the power of God.

30 For in the resurrection they neither marry, nor are given in marriage, but [q] are as the angels of God in heaven.

31 But as touching the resurrection of the dead, have ye not read that which was spoken unto you by God, saying,

32 [r] I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob? God is not the God of the dead, but of the living.

33 And when the multitude heard this, [s] they were astonished at his doctrine.

34 ¶ [t] But when the Pharisees had heard that he had put the Sadducees to silence, they were gathered together.

35 Then one of them, which was [u] a lawyer, asked him a question, tempting him, and saying,

36 Master, which is the great commandment in the law?

37 Jesus said unto him, [x] Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind.

38 This is the first and great commandment.

39 And the second is like unto it, [y] Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.

40 [z] On these two commandments hang all the Law and the Prophets.

41 ¶ [a] While the Pharisees were gathered together, Jesus asked them,

42 Saying, What think ye of Christ? whose son is he? They say unto him, The Son of David.

43 He saith unto them, How then doth David in spirit [b] call him Lord, saying,

44 [c] The LORD said unto my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, till I make thine enemies thy footstool?

45 If David then call him Lord, how is he his son?

46 [d] And no man was able to answer him a word, [e] neither durst any man from that day forth ask him any more questions.

CHAP. XXII. Ver. 2. The kingdom of heaven, &c.—The object of this parable is to represent the calling of the Gentiles. Upon the Jews rejecting the invitation given to them to embrace the Gospel, the heathens are admitted to those privileges which the haughty seed of Abraham neglected to embrace.

Ver. 12. A Wedding garment.—It was the custom in the East for the master of the house, at wedding-feasts, to provide nuptial robes for the guests. —He was speechless.—He remained silent, having nothing to urge in his defence.

Ver. 13. Outer darkness.—The darkness without: the chamber, being brilliantly illuminated, the darkness without the house, by comparison with the light within, was extreme.

Ver. 16. The Herodians.—These appear to have been either a religious sect, or a political party, but of whom nothing is particularly known.

Ver. 19. A penny.—The Roman denarius, equivalent to seven-pence halfpenny of our money.

Ver. 32. I am the God of Abraham, &c.—"When these words were spoken to Moses, Abraham had been dead more than three hundred years, still the Deity calls himself the God of Abraham, of Isaac, and of Jacob. Now, Christ properly observes that God is not God of the dead (that word being equal, in the sense of the Sadducees, to eternal annihilation) but of the living; it therefore follows that, if he be the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, these are not dead but alive—alive with God, though they had ceased for some hundreds of years, to exist among mortals."—Dr. A Clarke.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 Christ admonisheth the people to follow the good doctrine, not the evil examples, of the scribes and Pharisees. 5 His disciples must beware of their ambition. 13 He denounceth eight woes against their hypocrisy and blindness: 34 and prophesieth of the destruction of Jerusalem.

THEN spake Jesus to the multitude, and to his disciples,

2 Saying, [a] The Scribes and the Pharisees sit in Moses' seat:

3 All therefore whatsoever they bid you observe, that observe and do; but do not ye after their works: for [b] they say, and do not.

4 [c] For they bind heavy burdens and grievous to be borne, and lay them on men's shoulders; but they themselves will not move them with one of their fingers.

5 But [d] all their works they do for to be seen of men: [e] they make broad their phylacteries, and enlarge the borders of their garments,

6 [f] And love the uppermost rooms at feasts, and the chief seats in the synagogues,

7 And greetings in the markets, and to be called of men, Rabbi, Rabbi.

8 [g] But be not ye called Rabbi: for one is your Master, even Christ; and all ye are brethren.

9 And call no man your father upon the earth: [h] for one is your Father, which is in heaven.

10 Neither be ye called masters: for one is your Master, even Christ.

11 But [i] he that is greatest among you shall be your servant.

12 [k] And whosoever shall exalt himself shall be abased; and he that shall humble himself shall be exalted.

13 ¶ But [l] woe unto you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye shut up the kingdom of heaven against men: for ye neither go in yourselves, neither suffer ye them that are entering to go in.

14 Woe unto you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! [m] for ye devour widows' houses, and for a pretence make long prayer: therefore ye shall receive the greater damnation.

15 Woe unto you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye compass sea and land to make one proselyte, and when he is made, ye make him twofold more the child of hell than yourselves.

16 Woe unto you, [n] ye blind guides, which say, [o] Whosoever shall swear by the temple, it is nothing; but whosoever shall swear by the gold of the temple, he is a debtor!

17 Ye fools and blind: for whether is greater, the gold, [p] or the temple that sanctifieth the gold?

18 And, Whosoever shall swear by the altar, it is nothing; but whosoever sweareth by the gift that is upon it, he is * guilty.

19 Ye fools and blind: for whether is greater, the gift, or [q] the altar that sanctifieth the gift?

20 Whoso therefore shall swear by the altar, sweareth by it, and by all things thereon.

21 And whoso shall swear by the temple, sweareth by it, and by [r] him that dwelleth therein.

22 And he that shall swear by heaven, sweareth by [s] the throne of God, and by him that sitteth thereon.

23 Woe unto you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! [t] for ye pay tithe, of mint and † anise and cummin, and [u] have omitted the weightier matters of the law, judgment, mercy, and faith: these ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone.

24 Ye blind guides, which strain at a gnat and swallow a camel.

25 Woe unto you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! [x] for ye make clean the outside of the cup and of the platter, but within they are full of extortion and excess.

26 Thou blind Pharisee, cleanse first that which is within the cup and platter, that the outside of them may be clean also.

27 Woe unto you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! [y] for ye are like unto whited sepulchres, which indeed appear beautiful outward, but are within full of dead men's bones, and of all uncleanness.

28 Even so ye also outwardly appear righteous unto men, but within ye are full of hypocrisy and iniquity.

29 [z] Woe unto you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! because ye build the tombs of the prophets, and garnish the sepulchres of the righteous,

30 And say, If we had been in the days of our fathers, we would not have been partakers with them in the blood of the prophets.

31 Wherefore ye be witnesses unto yourselves, that [a] ye are the children of them which killed the prophets.

32 [b] Fill ye up then the measure of your fathers.

33 Ye serpents, ye [c] generation of vipers, how can ye escape the damnation of hell?

34 ¶ [d] Wherefore, behold, I send unto you prophets, and wise men, and scribes: and [e] some of them ye shall kill and crucify; and [f] some of them shall ye scourge in your synagogues, and persecute them from city to city:

35 [g] That upon you may come all the righteous blood shed upon the earth, [h] from the blood of righteous Abel unto [i] the blood of Zacharias son of Barachias, whom ye slew between the temple and the altar.

36 Verily I say unto you, All these things shall come upon this generation.

37 [k] O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, thou that

CHAP. XXIII. Ver 2. Sit in Moses' seat.—Have the same authority to teach and expound the law.

Ver. 4. For they bind heavy burdens.—"They impose many severe ordinances on others, beyond what the law prescribes; but will not themselves be persuaded to perform those things which, by the clear law of God, are most necessary."—Dr. Hammond.

Ver. 5. Phylacteries.—These were strips of vellum upon which some portion of the law was transcribed, fastened round their arms and foreheads. And enlarge the borders of their garments—For the purpose of vain distinction.

Ver. 7. Rabbi.—Master or teacher.

Ver. 14. Ye devour widow's houses.—A hyperbolical phrase, signifying extreme oppression; as if he had said, "ye grievously oppress the widow." And for a pretence make long prayers.—To conceal or palliate your wickedness.

Ver. 16. It is nothing.—That is, his oath is not binding. He is a debtor.—He is bound to perform his oath.

Ver. 18. He is guilty.—That is, if he do not perform his oath, he is guilty of perjury, and liable to the penalty decreed to that offence.

Ver. 23. These ought ye to have done.—Ye are bound to do the former because they are commanded by the law. And not to leave the other undone.—But ye are equally bound to do the latter, because without, ye cannot be holy.

Ver. 26. Cleanse first that which is within, &c.—Purify the heart, and then the whole man will be clean.

Ver. 29. Ye build the tombs of the prophets, &c.—Show great outward respect to the memory of the dead by erecting splendid monuments over their remains.

Ver. 32. Fill ye up then, &c.—Exhibit, then, towards the prophets, whom God now sends to you, the same malice and cruelty which your fathers exercised towards the prophets of old.

killest the prophets, [l] and stonest them which are sent unto thee, how often would [m] I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens [n] under her wings, and ye would not!

38 Behold, your house is left unto you desolate.

39 For I say unto you, Ye shall not see me henceforth, till ye shall say, [o] Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord.

CHAP. XXIV.

Christ foretelleth the destruction of the temple: 3 what and how great calamities shall be before it: 29 the signs of his coming to judgment. 36 And because that day and hour is unknown, 42 we ought to watch like good servants, expecting every moment our master's coming.

AND [a] Jesus went out, and departed from the temple: and his disciples came to him for to shew him the buildings of the temple.

2 And Jesus said unto them, See ye not all these things? verily I say unto you, [b] There shall not be left here one stone upon another, that shall not be thrown down.

3 ¶ And as he sat upon the mount of Olives, [c] the disciples came unto him privately, saying, [d] Tell us, when shall these things be? and what shall be the sign of thy coming, and of the end of the world?

4 And Jesus answered and said unto them, [e] Take heed that no man deceive you.

5 For [f] many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ; [g] and shall deceive many.

6 And ye shall hear of wars and rumours of wars: see that ye be not troubled: for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet.

7 For [h] nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom: and there shall be famines, and pestilences, and earthquakes, in divers places.

8 All these are the beginning of sorrows.

9 [i] Then shall they deliver you up to be afflicted, and shall kill you: and ye shall be hated of all nations for my name's sake.

10 And then shall many [k] be offended, and shall betray one another, and shall hate one another.

11 And [l] many false prophets shall rise, and [m] shall deceive many.

12 And because iniquity shall abound, the love of many shall wax cold.

13 [n] But he that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved.

14 And this [o] Gospel of the kingdom [p] shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come.

15 [q] When ye therefore shall see the abomination of desolation, spoken of by [r] Daniel the prophet, stand in the holy place, ([s] whoso readeth, let him understand:)

16 Then let them which be in Judæa flee into the mountains:

17 Let him which is on the housetop not come down to take any thing out of his house:

18 Neither let him which is in the field return back to take his clothes.

19 And [t] woe unto them that are with child, and to them that give suck in those days!

20 But pray ye that your flight be not in the winter, neither on the sabbath day:

21 For [u] then shall be great tribulation, such as was not since the beginning of the world to this time, no, nor ever shall be.

22 And except those days should be shortened, there should no flesh be saved: [x] but for the elect's sake those days shall be shortened.

23 [y] Then if any man shall say unto you, Lo, here is Christ, or there; believe it not.

24 For [z] there shall arise false Christs, and false prophets, and shall shew great signs and wonders; insomuch that, [a] if it were possible, they shall deceive the very elect.

25 Behold, I have told you before.

26 Wherefore if they shall say unto you, Behold, he is in the desert; go not forth: behold, he is in the secret chambers; believe it not.

27 [b] For as the lightning cometh out of the east, and shineth even unto the west; so shall also the coming of the Son of man be.

28 [c] For wheresoever the carcase is, there will the eagles be gathered together.

29 ¶ [d] Immediately after the tribulation of those days [e] shall the sun be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light, and the stars shall fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens shall be shaken:

30 [f] And then shall appear the sign of the Son of man in heaven: [g] and then shall all the tribes of the earth mourn, [h] and they shall see the Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven with power and great glory.

31 [i] And he shall send his angels [*] with a great sound of a trumpet, and they shall gather together his elect from the four winds, from one end of heaven to the other.

32 Now learn [k] a parable of the fig tree; When his branch is yet tender, and putteth forth leaves, ye know that summer is nigh:

33 So likewise ye, when ye shall see all these things, know [l] that †it is near, even at the doors.

CHAP. XXIV. Ver. 1. To show him the buildings of the Temple.—That is, to direct his attention to them.

Ver. 2. One stone upon another.—According to Josephus, there were masses of white marble employed in the building of the Temple sixty-seven feet long, seven high, and nine broad.

Ver. 3. And what shall be the sign of thy coming.—To execute the vengeance previously spoken of—to destroy the Jewish state. And of the end of the world.—The subversion of the Jewish polity—the time when it shall cease.

Ver. 6. The end is not yet.—The utter destruction of the Jewish nation will not immediately follow.

Ver. 14. In all the world.—Throughout the Roman empire, then called the world in consequence of its vast extent.

Ver. 15. The abomination of desolation, &c.—This evidently denotes the Roman army, as appears from chap. xi. 31, of the prophet Daniel. It is called an abomination, by Christ, and the prophet beforenamed, because upon its ensigns were pictures of the tutelary deities worshipped by the Romans.

Ver. 20. In the winter.—When severe weather, short days, and bad roads would offer great impediments to a secure retreat. Neither on the sabbath day.—When travelling was interdicted by the Jewish government; and so suffer that death without the city which you may have escaped from within.

Ver. 22. For the elect's sake.—For the sake of those who have embraced Christianity with a determination to brave all the perils by which it will be threatened, and continue steadfast unto the end.

Ver. 24. And shall show great signs and wonders.—Shall pretend to work miracles, and to utter prophecies.

Ver. 26. In the secret chambers.— Of the Temple.

Ver. 27. For as the lightning.—So shall also the coming of the Son of Man be.—Sudden and destructive as lightning.

Ver. 29, 30. In these two verses very strong figurative expressions are employed to represent the terrible events which shall take place during the destruction of the holy city, and the subversion of the Jewish polity.

Ver. 30. And then shall appear the sign, &c. The Messiah, who will then be on the throne of his glory in heaven, will be acknowledged by the stubborn and refractory Jews.

Ver. 31. Send his angels.—His apostles and ministers. With the sound of a trumpet.—With the powerful persuasion of gospel truth.

34 Verily I say unto you, [m] This generation shall not pass, till all these things be fulfilled.

35 [n] Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away.

36 ¶ [o] But of that day and hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels of heaven, [p] but my Father only.

37 But as the days of Noe were, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be.

38 [q] For as in the days that were before the flood they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noe entered into the ark,

39 And knew not until the flood came, and took them all away; so shall also the coming of the Son of man be.

40 [r] Then shall two be in the field; the one shall be taken, and the other left.

41 Two women shall be grinding at the mill; the one shall be taken, and the other left.

42 ¶ [s] Watch therefore: for ye know not what hour your Lord doth come.

43 [t] But know this, that if the goodman of the house had known in what watch the thief would come, he would have watched, and would not have suffered his house to be broken up.

44 [u] Therefore be ye also ready: for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh.

45 [x] Who then is a faithful and wise servant, whom his lord hath made ruler over his houshold, to give them meat in due season?

46 [y] Blessed is that servant, whom his lord when he cometh shall find so doing.

47 Verily I say unto you, That [z] he shall make him ruler over all his goods.

48 But and if that evil servant shall say in his heart, My lord delayeth his coming;

49 And shall begin to smite his fellowservants, and to eat and drink with the drunken;

50 The lord of that servant shall come in a day when he looketh not for him, and in an hour that he is not aware of,

51 And shall ‡ cut him asunder, and appoint him his portion with the hypocrites: [a] there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

CHAP. XXV.

1 The parable of the ten virgins, 14 and of the talents. 31 Also the description of the last judgment.

THEN shall the kingdom of heaven be likened unto ten virgins, which took their lamps, and went forth to meet [a] the bridegroom.

2 [b] And five of them were wise, and five were foolish.

3 They that were foolish took their lamps, and took no oil with them:

4 But the wise took oil in their vessels with their lamps.

5 While the bridegroom tarried, [c] they all slumbered and slept.

6 And at midnight [d] there was a cry made, Behold, the bridegroom cometh; go ye out to meet him.

7 Then all those virgins arose, and [e] trimmed their lamps.

8 And the foolish said unto the wise, Give us of your oil; for our lamps are [e] gone out.

9 But the wise answered, saying, Not so; lest there be not enough for us and you: but go ye rather to them that sell, and buy for yourselves.

10 And while they went to buy, the bridegroom came; and they that were ready went in with him to the marriage: and [f] the door was shut.

11 Afterward came also the other virgins, saying, [g] Lord, Lord, open to us.

12 But he answered and said, Verily I say unto you, [h] I know you not.

13 [i] Watch therefore, for ye know neither the day nor the hour wherein the Son of man cometh.

14 ¶ [k] For the kingdom of heaven is [l] as a man travelling into a far country, who called his own servants, and delivered unto them his goods.

15 And unto one he gave five † talents, to another two, and to another one; [m] to every man according to his several ability; and straightway took his journey.

16 Then he that had received the five talents went and traded with the same, and made them five other talents.

17 And likewise he that had received two, he also gained other two.

18 But he that had received one went and digged in the earth, and hid his lord's money.

19 After a long time the lord of those servants cometh, and reckoneth with them.

20 And so he that had received five talents came and brought other five talents, saying, Lord, thou deliveredst unto me five talents: behold, I have gained beside them five talents more.

21 His lord said unto him, Well done, thou good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things, [n] I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into [o] the joy of thy lord.

22 He also that had received two talents came and said, Lord, thou deliveredst unto me two talents: behold, I have gained two other talents beside them.

23 His lord said unto him, [p] Well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy lord.

24 Then he which had received the one talent came and said, Lord, I knew thee that thou art an hard man, reaping where thou hast not sown, and gathering where thou hast not strawed:

25 And I was afraid, and went and hid thy talent in the earth: lo, there thou hast that is thine.

26 His lord answered and said unto him, Thou wicked and slothful servant, thou knewest that I reap where I sowed not, and gather where I have not strawed:

27 Thou oughtest therefore to have put my money to the exchangers, and then at my

CHAP. XXV. Ver. 1. The kingdom of heaven.—The Gospel dispensation, and God's dealings with men under it.

Ver. 14. As a man travelling, &c.—"By a man travelling into a far country is here represented our Lord's leaving this world and ascending into heaven, after he had finished the great work of our redemption; and by his delivering to his servants his goods is signified his strengthening his disciples with sufficient grace for the performance of their duty and service towards him. By the Lord's returning after a long time, and reckoning with the servants, is represented the coming of Christ to judgment at the end of the world, then to enquire into every man's works, and to reward or punish as there is just occasion."—Bragge.

coming I should have received mine own with usury.

28 Take therefore the talent from him, and give it unto him which hath ten talents.

29 [q] For unto every one that hath shall be given, and he shall have abundance: but from him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath.

30 And cast ye the unprofitable servant [r] into outer darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

31 ¶ [s] When the Son of man shall come in his glory, and all the holy angels with him, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory:

32 And [t] before him shall be gathered all nations: and [u] he shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats:

33 And he shall set the sheep on his right hand, but the goats on the left.

34 Then shall the King say unto them on his right hand, Come, ye blessed of my Father, [x] inherit the kingdom [y] prepared for you from the foundation of the world:

35 [z] For I was an hungred, and ye gave me meat: I was thirsty, and ye gave me drink: [a] I was a stranger, and ye took me in:

36 [b] Naked, and ye clothed me: I was sick, and ye visited me: [c] I was in prison, and ye came unto me.

37 Then shall the righteous answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungred, and fed thee? or thirsty, and gave thee drink?

38 When saw we thee a stranger, and took thee in? or naked, and clothed thee?

39 Or when saw we thee sick, or in prison, and came unto thee?

40 And the King shall answer and say unto them, Verily I say unto you, [d] Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me.

41 Then shall he say also unto them on the left hand, [e] Depart from me, ye cursed, [f] into everlasting fire, prepared for [g] the devil and his angels:

42 For I was an hungred, and ye gave me no meat: I was thirsty, and ye gave me no drink:

43 I was a stranger, and ye took me not in: naked, and ye clothed me not: sick, and in prison, and ye visited me not.

44 Then shall they also answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungred, or athirst, or a stranger, or naked, or sick, or in prison, and did not minister unto thee?

45 Then shall he answer them, saying, Verily I say unto you, [h] Inasmuch as ye did it not to one of the least of these, ye did it not to me.

46 And [i] these shall go away into everlasting punishment: but the righteous into life eternal.

A. D. 33.

1 The rulers conspire against Christ. 6 The woman anointeth his feet. 14 Judas selleth him. 17 Christ eateth the passover: 26 instituteth his holy supper: 36 prayeth in the garden: 47 and being betrayed with a kiss, 57 is carried to Caiaphas, 69 and denied of Peter.

AND it came to pass, when Jesus had finished all these sayings, he said unto his disciples,

2 [a] Ye know that after two days is the feast of the Passover, and the Son of man is betrayed to be crucified.

3 [b] Then assembled together the Chief Priests, and the Scribes, and the elders of the people, unto the palace of the High Priest, who was called Caiaphas,

4 And consulted that they might take Jesus by subtilty, and kill him.

5 But they said, Not on the feast day, lest there be an uproar among the people.

6 ¶ [c] Now when Jesus was in [d] Bethany, in the house of Simon the leper,

7 There came unto him a woman having an alabaster box of very precious ointment, and poured it on his head, as he sat at meat.

8 [e] But when his disciples saw it, they had indignation, saying, To what purpose is this waste?

9 For this ointment might have been sold for much, and given to the poor.

10 When Jesus understood it, he said unto them, Why trouble ye the woman? for she hath wrought a good work upon me.

11 [f] For ye have the poor always with you; but [g] me ye have not always.

12 For in that she hath poured this ointment on my body, she did it for my burial.

13 Verily I say unto you, Wheresoever this Gospel shall be preached in the whole world, there shall also this, that this woman hath done, be told for a memorial of her.

14 ¶ [h] Then one of the twelve, called [i] Judas Iscariot, went unto the Chief Priests,

15 And said unto them, [k] What will ye give me, and I will deliver him unto you? And they covenanted with him for thirty pieces of silver.

16 And from that time he sought opportunity to betray him.

17 ¶ [l] Now the first day of the feast of unleavened bread the disciples came to Jesus, saying unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare for thee to eat the Passover?

18 And he said, Go into the city to such a man, and say unto him, The Master saith, My time is at hand; I will keep the Passover at thy house with my disciples.

19 And the disciples did as Jesus had appointed them; and they made ready the Passover.

20 [m] Now when the even was come, he sat down with the twelve.

21 And as they did eat, he said, Verily I say unto you, that one of you shall betray me.

22 And they were exceedingly sorrowful, and began every one of them to say unto him, Lord, is it I?

23 And he answered and said, [n] He that dippeth his hand with me in the dish, the same shall betray me.

24 The Son of man goeth [o] as it is written of him: but [p] woe unto that man by whom the Son of man is betrayed! it had been good for that man if he had not been born.

25 Then Judas, which betrayed him, answered and said, Master, is it I? He said unto him, Thou hast said.

26 ¶ [q] And as they were eating, [r] Jesus took bread, and [s] blessed it, and brake it, and gave it to the disciples, and said, Take, eat; [t] this is my body.

27 And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and gave it to them, saying, [u] Drink ye all of it;

28 For [v] this is my blood [x] of the new testament, which is shed [y] for many for the remission of sins.

29 But [z] I say unto you, I will not drink henceforth of this fruit of the vine, [a] until that day when I drink it new with you in my Father's kingdom.

30 [b] And when they had sung an †hymn, they went out into the mount of Olives.

31 Then saith Jesus unto them, [c] All ye shall [d] be offended because of me this night: for it is written, [e] I will smite the shepherd, and the sheep of the flock shall be scattered abroad.

32 But after I am risen again, [f] I will go before you into Galilee.

33 Peter answered and said unto him, Though all men shall be offended because of thee, yet will I never be offended.

34 Jesus said unto him, [g] Verily I say unto thee, That this night, before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice.

35 Peter said unto him, Though I should die with thee, yet will I not deny thee. Likewise also said all the disciples.

36 ¶ [h] Then cometh Jesus with them unto a place called Gethsemane, and saith unto the disciples, Sit ye here, while I go and pray yonder.

37 And he took with him Peter and [i] the two sons of Zebedee, and began to be sorrowful and very heavy.

38 Then saith he unto them, [k] My soul is exceeding sorrowful, even unto death: tarry ye here, and watch with me.

39 And he went a little farther, and fell on his face, and [l] prayed, saying, [m] O my Father, if it be possible, [n] let this cup pass from me: nevertheless [o] not as I will, but as thou wilt.

40 And he cometh unto the disciples, and findeth them asleep, and saith unto Peter, What, could ye not watch with me one hour?

41 [p] Watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation: the spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak.

42 He went away again the second time, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if this cup may not pass away from me, except I drink it, thy will be done.

43 And he came and found them asleep again: for their eyes were heavy.

44 And he left them, and went away again, and prayed the third time, saying the same words.

45 Then cometh he to his disciples, and saith unto them, Sleep on now, and take your rest: behold, the hour is at hand, and the Son of man is betrayed into the hands of sinners.

46 Rise, let us be going: behold, he is at hand that doth betray me.

47 ¶ And [q] while he yet spake, lo, Judas, one of the twelve, came, and with him a great multitude with swords and staves, from the Chief Priests and elders of the people.

48 Now he that betrayed him gave them a sign, saying, Whomsoever I shall kiss, that same is he: hold him fast.

49 And forthwith he came to Jesus, and said, Hail, master; [r] and kissed him.

50 And Jesus said unto him, [s] Friend, wherefore art thou come? Then came they, and laid hands on Jesus, and took him.

51 And, behold, [t] one of them which were with Jesus stretched out his hand, and drew his sword, and struck a servant of the High Priest's, and smote off his ear.

52 Then said Jesus unto him, Put up again thy sword into his place: [u] for all they that take the sword shall perish with the sword.

53 Thinkest thou that I cannot now pray to my Father, and he shall presently give me [x] more than twelve legions of angels?

54 But how then shall the Scriptures be fulfilled, [y] that thus it must be?

55 In that same hour said Jesus to the multitudes, Are ye come out as against a thief with swords and staves for to take me? I sat daily with you teaching in the temple, and ye laid no hold on me.

56 But all this was done, that the [z] Scriptures of the prophets might be fulfilled. Then [a] all the disciples forsook him, and fled.

57 ¶ [b] And they that had laid hold on Jesus led him away to Caiaphas the High Priest, where the scribes and the elders were assembled.

58 But Peter followed him afar off unto the High Priest's palace, and went in, and sat with the servants, to see the end.

59 Now the Chief Priests, and elders, and all the council, sought false witness against Jesus, to put him to death;

60 But found none: yea, though [c] many false witnesses came, yet found they none. At the last came [d] two false witnesses,

61 And said, This fellow said, [e] I am able to destroy the temple of God, and to build it in three days.

62 [f] And the High Priest arose, and said unto him, Answerest thou nothing? what is it which these witness against thee?

63 But [g] Jesus held his peace. And the High Priest answered and said unto him, [h] I adjure thee by the living God, that thou tell us whether thou be the Christ, the Son of God.

64 Jesus saith unto him, Thou hast said: nevertheless I say unto you, [i] Hereafter shall ye see the Son of man [k] sitting on the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of heaven.

65 [l] Then the High Priest rent his clothes, saying, He hath spoken blasphemy; what further need have we of witnesses? behold, now ye have heard his blasphemy.

66 What think ye? They answered and said, [m] He is guilty of death.

67 [n] Then did they spit in his face, and buffeted him; and [o] others smote him with ‡ the palms of their hands,

68 Saying, [p] Prophesy unto us, thou Christ, Who is he that smote thee?

69 ¶ [q] Now Peter sat without in the palace: and a damsel came unto him, saying, Thou also wast with Jesus of Galilee.

70 But he denied before them all, saying, I know not what thou sayest.

71 And when he was gone out into the porch, another maid saw him, and said unto them that were there, This fellow was also with Jesus of Nazareth.

72 And again he denied with an oath, I do not know the man.

73 And after a while came unto him they that stood by, and said to Peter, Surely thou also art one of them; for thy [r] speech bewrayeth thee.

74 Then [s] began he to curse and to swear, saying, I know not the man. And immediately the cock crew.

75 And Peter remembered the word of Jesus, which said unto him, [t] Before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice. And he went out, and wept bitterly.

CHAP. XXVII.

1 Christ is delivered bound to Pilate. 3 Judas hangeth himself. 19 Pilate, admonished of his wife, 24 washeth his hands: 26 and looseth Barabbas. 29 Christ is crowned with thorns, 34 crucified, 40 reviled, 50 dieth, and is buried: 66 his sepulchre is sealed, and watched.

[a] WHEN the morning was come, [a] all the Chief Priests and elders of the people took counsel against Jesus to put him to death:

2 And when they had bound him, they led him away, and [b] delivered him to Pontius Pilate the governor.

3 ¶ [c] Then Judas, which had betrayed him, when he saw that he was condemned, repented himself, and brought again the thirty pieces of silver to the Chief Priests and elders,

4 Saying, I have sinned in that I have betrayed the innocent blood. And they said, What is that to us? see thou to that.

5 And he cast down the pieces of silver in the temple, [d] and departed, and went and hanged himself.

6 And the chief Priests took the silver pieces, and said, It is not lawful for to put them into the treasury, because it is the price of blood.

7 And they took counsel, and bought with them the potter's field, to bury strangers in.

8 Wherefore that field was called, [e] The field of blood, unto this day.

9 Then was fulfilled that which was spoken by Jeremy the prophet, saying, [f] And they took the thirty pieces of silver, the price of him that was valued, [g] whom they of the children of Israel did value;

10 And gave them for the potter's field, as the Lord appointed me.

11 And Jesus stood before the governor: [h] and the governor asked him, saying, Art thou the King of the Jews? And Jesus said unto him, [i] Thou sayest.

12 And when he was accused of the Chief Priests and elders, [k] he answered nothing.

13 Then said Pilate unto him, [l] Hearest thou not how many things they witness against thee?

14 And he answered him to never a word; insomuch that the governor marvelled greatly.

15 [m] Now at that feast the governor was wont to release unto the people a prisoner, whom they would.

16 And they had then a notable prisoner, called Barabbas.

17 Therefore when they were gathered together, Pilate said unto them, Whom will ye that I release unto you? Barabbas, or Jesus which is called Christ?

18 For he knew that for envy they had delivered him.

19 ¶ When he was set down on the judgment seat, his wife sent unto him, saying, Have thou nothing to do with that just man: for I have suffered many things this day in a dream because of him.

20 [n] But the Chief Priests and elders persuaded the multitude that they should ask Barabbas, and destroy Jesus.

21 The governor answered and said unto them, Whether of the twain will ye that I release unto you? They said, Barabbas.

22 Pilate saith unto them, What shall I do then with Jesus which is called Christ? They all say unto him, Let him be crucified.

23 And the governor said, Why, what evil hath he done? But they cried out the more, saying, Let him be crucified.

24 ¶ When Pilate saw that he could prevail nothing, but that rather a tumult was made, he [o] took water, and washed his hands before the multitude, saying, I am innocent of the blood of this just person: see ye to it.

25 Then answered all the people, and said, [p] His blood be on us, and on our children.

26 ¶ Then released he Barabbas unto them: and when [q] he had scourged Jesus, he delivered him to be crucified.

27 [q] Then the soldiers of the governor took Jesus into the † common hall, and gathered unto him the whole band of soldiers.

28 And they stripped him, and [r] put on him a scarlet robe.

29 ¶ [s] And when they had platted a crown of thorns, they put it upon his head, and a reed in his right hand: and they bowed the knee before him, and mocked him, saying, Hail, king of the Jews!

30 And [t] they spit upon him, and took the reed, and smote him on the head.

31 And after that they had mocked him, they took the robe off from him, and put his own raiment on him, [u] and led him away to crucify him.

32 [x] And as they came out, [y] they found a man of Cyrene, Simon by name: him they compelled to bear his cross.

33 [z] And when they were come unto a place called Golgotha, that is to say, a place of a skull,

34 ¶ [a] They gave him vinegar to drink mingled with gall: and when he had tasted thereof, he would not drink.

35 [b] And they crucified him, and parted his garments, casting lots: that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, [c] They parted my garments among them, and upon my vesture did they cast lots.

36 [d] And sitting down they watched him there;

37 And [e] set up over his head his accusation written, THIS IS JESUS THE KING OF THE JEWS.

38 [f] Then were there two thieves crucified with him, one on the right hand, and another on the left.

39 ¶ And [g] they that passed by reviled him, wagging their heads,

40 And saying, [h] Thou that destroyest the temple, and buildest it in three days, save thyself. [i] If thou be the Son of God, come down from the cross.

41 Likewise also the Chief Priests mocking him, with the Scribes and elders, said, 42 He saved others; himself he cannot save. If he be the King of Israel, let him now come down from the cross, and we will believe him.

43 [k] He trusted in God; let him deliver him now, if he will have him: for he said, I am the Son of God.

44 [l] The thieves also, which were crucified with him, cast the same in his teeth.

45 [m] Now from the sixth hour there was darkness over all the land unto the ninth hour.

46 And about the ninth hour [n] Jesus cried with a loud voice, saying, Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani? that is to say, [o] My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?

47 Some of them that stood there, when they heard that, said, This man calleth for Elias.

48 And straightway one of them ran, and took a spunge, [p] and filled it with vinegar, and put it on a reed, and gave him to drink.

49 The rest said, Let be, let us see whether Elias will come to save him.

50 ¶ [q] Jesus, when he had cried again with a loud voice, yielded up the ghost.

51 And, behold, [r] the veil of the temple was rent in twain from the top to the bottom; and the earth did quake, and the rocks rent;

52 And the graves were opened; and many bodies of the saints which slept arose,

53 And came out of the graves after his resurrection, and went into the holy city, and appeared unto many.

54 [s] Now when the centurion, and they that were with him, watching Jesus, saw the earthquake, and those things that were done, they feared greatly, saying, Truly this was the Son of God.

55 And many women were there beholding afar off, [t] which followed Jesus from Galilee, ministering unto him:

56 [u] Among which was Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James and Joses, and the mother of Zebedee's children.

57 [x] When the even was come, there came a rich man of Arimathæa, named Joseph, who also himself was Jesus' disciple:

58 He went to Pilate, and begged the body of Jesus. Then Pilate commanded the body to be delivered.

59 And when Joseph had taken the body, he wrapped it in a clean linen cloth,

60 And [y] laid it in his own new tomb, which he had hewn out in the rock: and he rolled a great stone to the door of the sepulchre, and departed.

61 And there was Mary Magdalene, and the other Mary, sitting over against the sepulchre.

62 ¶ Now the next day, that followed the day of the preparation, the Chief Priests and Pharisees came together unto Pilate, 63 Saying, Sir, we remember that that deceiver said, while he was yet alive, [z] After three days I will rise again.

64 Command therefore that the sepulchre be made sure until the third day, lest his disciples come by night, and steal him away, and say unto the people, He is risen from the dead: so the last error shall be worse than the first.

65 Pilate said unto them, Ye have a watch: go your way, make it as sure as ye can.

66 So they went, and made the sepulchre sure, [a] sealing the stone, and setting a watch.

quake: for [c] the angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled back the stone from the door, and sat upon it.

3 [d] His countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snow:

4 And for fear of him the keepers did shake, and became as dead men.

5 And the angel answered and said unto the women, Fear not ye: for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified.

6 He is not here: for he is risen, [e] as he said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay.

7 And go quickly, and tell his disciples that he is risen from the dead; and, behold, [f] he goeth before you into Galilee; there shall ye see him: lo, I have told you.

8 And they departed quickly from the sepulchre with fear and great joy; and did run to bring his disciples word.

9 ¶ And as they went to tell his disciples, behold, [g] Jesus met them, saying, All hail. And they came and held him by the feet, and worshipped him.

10 Then said Jesus unto them, Be not afraid: go tell [h] my brethren that they go into Galilee, and there shall they see me.

11 ¶ Now when they were going, behold, some of the watch came into the city, and shewed unto the Chief Priests all the things that were done.

12 And when they were assembled with the elders, and had taken counsel, they gave large money unto the soldiers,

13 Saying, Say ye, His disciples came by night, and stole him away while we slept.

THE beginning of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, [a] the Son of God;

2 As it is written in the prophets, [b] Behold, I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee.

3 [c] The voice of one crying in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his paths straight.

4 [d] John did baptize in the wilderness, and preach the baptism of repentance [e] for the remission of sins.

5 [e] And there went out unto him all the land of Judæa, and they of Jerusalem, and were all baptized of him in the river of Jordan, confessing their sins

6 And John was [f] clothed with camel's hair, and with a girdle of a skin about his loins; and he did eat [g] locusts and wild honey;

7 And preached, saying, [h] There cometh one mightier than I after me, the latchet of whose shoes I am not worthy to stoop down and unloose.

8 [i] I indeed have baptized you with water: but he shall baptize you [k] with the Holy Ghost.

9 [l] And it came to pass in those days, that Jesus came from Nazareth of Galilee, and was baptized of John in Jordan.

10 [m] And straightway coming up out of the water, he saw the heavens † opened, and the Spirit like a dove descending upon him:

11 And there came a voice from heaven, saying, [n] Thou art my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.

12 [o] And immediately the spirit driveth him into the wilderness.

13 And he was there in the wilderness forty days, tempted of Satan; and was with the wild beasts; [p] and the angels ministered unto him.

14 [q] Now after that John was put in prison, Jesus came into Galilee, [r] preaching the Gospel of the kingdom of God,

15 And saying, [s] The time is fulfilled, and [t] the kingdom of God is at hand: repent ye, and believe the Gospel.

16 [u] Now as he walked by the sea of Galilee, he saw Simon and Andrew his brother casting a net into the sea: for they were fishers.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO ST. MARK.—"This person, the second in the commonly received order of the four Evangelists, was named John Mark, and was the son of a pious woman, called Mary, who dwelt at Jerusalem; she was an early believer, and the disciples used to meet at her house. Peter, having been delivered out of prison by an angel, came to the house of Mary, mother of John, whose surname was Mark, where many were gathered together praying (Acts xii. 12). This very first mention of John Mark assures us of Peter's intimacy in that family; it is almost universally allowed that Mark mentioned by Peter (1 Epist. chap. v. 13) is this Evangelist, and that he is the same with him who is called sister's son to Barnabas, Col. iv. 10. Dr. Lardner has fully proved that Mark, the Evangelist, and John Mark, nephew to Barnabas, were one and the same person. See his Works, vol. vi. p. 77, &c.

"How Mark composed his Gospel is a question not yet decided among learned men. Many of the primitive Fathers suppose that he was only an amanuensis of St. Peter; that this apostle, through modesty, would not put his name to the work, but dictated the whole account, and Mark wrote it down from his mouth. St. Augustine seems to have been the first who maintained that Mark abridged St. Matthew's Gospel; and that it is not to be considered as an original work. Others suppose that Mark compiled it partly out of Matthew's Gospel and partly out of Luke's. But most of these are conjectures which appear to have very little foundation."—Dr A. Clarke.

[a] Matt. 8. 28. Luke 8. 26.

AND [a] they came over unto the other side of the sea, into the country of the Gadarenes.

2 And when he was come out of the ship, immediately there met him out of the tombs a man with an unclean spirit,

3 Who had his dwelling among the tombs; and no man could bind him, no, not with chains:

4 Because that he had been often bound with fetters and chains, and the chains had been plucked asunder by him, and the fetters broken in pieces: neither could any man tame him.

5 And always, night and day, he was in the mountains, and in the tombs, crying, and cutting himself with stones.

6 But when he saw Jesus afar off, he ran and worshipped him,

7 And cried with a loud voice, and said, What have I to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of the most high God? I adjure thee by God, that thou torment me not.

8 For he said unto him, Come out of the man, thou unclean spirit.

9 And he asked him, What is thy name? and he answered, saying, My name is Legion: for we are many.

10 And he besought him much that he would not send them away out of the country.

11 Now there was there nigh unto the mountains a great herd of swine feeding.

12 And all the devils besought him, saying, Send us into the swine, that we may enter into them. A. D. 31.

13 And forthwith Jesus gave them leave. And the unclean spirits went out, and entered into the swine: and the herd ran violently down a steep place into the sea, (they were about two thousand;) and were choked in the sea.

14 And they that fed the swine fled, and told it in the city, and in the country. And they went out to see what it was that was done.

S. Matt. 15. 34. ch. 8. 5.

40 And they sat down in ranks, by hundreds, and by fifties.

41 And when he had taken the five loaves and the two fishes, he looked up to heaven, k 1 Sam. 9. 13. Matt. 26. 26. [k] and blessed, and brake the loaves, and gave them to his disciples to set before them; and the two fishes divided he among them all.

42 And they did all eat, and were filled.

43 And they took up twelve baskets full of the fragments, and of the fishes.

44 And they that did eat of the loaves were about five thousand men.

l Matt. 14. 22. John 6. 17. 45 [l] And straightway he constrained his disciples to get into the ship, and to go to the other side before † unto Bethsaida, while he sent away the people.

† Or, over against Bethsaida.

46 And when he had sent them away, he departed into a mountain to pray.

m Matt. 14. 23. John 6. 16, 17. 47 [m] And when even was come, the ship was in the midst of the sea, and he alone on the land.

48 And he saw them toiling in rowing; for the wind was contrary unto them: and about the fourth watch of the night he cometh unto them, walking upon the sea, and [n] would have passed by them.

n S. e Luke 24. 28.

49 But when they saw him walking upon the sea, they supposed it had been a spirit, and cried out:

50 For they all saw him, and were troubled. And immediately he talked with them, and saith unto them, Be of good cheer: it is I; be not afraid.

51 And he went up unto them into the ship; and the wind ceased: and they were sore amazed in themselves beyond measure, and wondered.

52 For [o] they considered not the miracle of the loaves: for their [p] heart was hardened.

53 [q] And when they had passed over, they came into the land of Gennesaret, and drew to the shore.

q Matt. 14. 34.

54 And when they were come out of the ship, straightway they knew him,

55 And ran through that whole region round about, and began to carry about in beds those that were sick, where they heard he was.

56 And whithersoever he entered into villages, or cities, or country, they laid the sick in the streets, and besought him that [r] they might touch if it were but the border of his garment: and as many as touched ‡ him were made whole.

CHAP. VII.

1 The Pharisees find fault at the disciples for eating with unwashen hands. 8 They break the commandment of God by the traditions of men. 14 Meat defileth not the man. 24 He healeth the Syrophenician woman's daughter of an unclean spirit, 31 and one that was deaf, and stammered in his speech.

7 Howbeit in vain do they worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men.

8 For laying aside the commandment of God, ye hold the tradition of men, as the washing of pots and cups: and many other such like things ye do.

9 And he said unto them, Full well ye ‖ reject the commandment of God, that ye may keep your own tradition.

‖ Or, frustrate.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Christ feedeth the people miraculously: 10 refuseth to give a sign to the Pharisees: 14 admonisheth his disciples to beware of the leaven of the Pharisees, and of the leaven of Herod: 22 giveth a blind man his sight: 27 acknowledgeth that he is the Christ, who should suffer and rise again: 34 and exhorteth to patience in persecution for the profession of the gospel.

IN those days a the multitude being very great, and having nothing to eat, Jesus called his disciples unto him, and saith unto them, a Matt. 15. 32.

2 I have compassion on the multitude, because they have now been with me three days, and have nothing to eat:

3 And if I send them away fasting to their own houses, they will faint by the way: for divers of them came from far.

4 And his disciples answered him, From whence can a man satisfy these men with bread here in the wilderness?

5 b And he asked them, How many loaves have ye? And they said, Seven.

b Matt. 15. 34. See ch. 6. 38.

6 And he commanded the people to sit down on the ground: and he took the seven loaves, and gave thanks, and brake, and gave to his disciples to set before them; and they did set them before the people.

7 And they had a few small fishes: and c he blessed and commanded to set them also before them.

c Matt. 14. 19. ch. 6. 41.

8 So they did eat, and were filled: and they took up of the broken meat that was left seven baskets.

9 And they that had eaten were about four thousand: and he sent them away.

13 And he left them, and entering into the ship again departed to the other side.

14 ¶ f Now the disciples had forgotten to take bread, neither had they in the ship with them more than one loaf.

16 And they reasoned among themselves, saying, It is [b] because we have no bread.

17 And when Jesus knew it, he saith unto them, Why reason ye, because ye have no bread? [i] perceive ye not yet, neither understand? have ye your heart yet hardened?

18 Having eyes, see ye not? and having ears, hear ye not? and do ye not remember?

19 [k] When I brake the five loaves among five thousand, how many baskets full of fragments took ye up? They say unto him, Twelve.

20 And [l] when the seven among four thousand, how many baskets full of fragments took ye up? And they said, Seven.

21 And he said unto them, How is it that [m] ye do not understand?

22 ¶ And he cometh to Bethsaida; and they bring a blind man unto him, and besought him to touch him.

23 And he took the blind man by the hand, and led him out of the town; and when [n] he had spit on his eyes, and put his hands upon him, he asked him if he saw ought.

24 And he looked up, and said, I see men as trees, walking.

25 After that he put his hands again upon his eyes, and made him look up: and he was restored, and saw every man clearly.

26 And he sent him away to his house, saying, Neither go into the town, [o] nor tell it to any in the town.

27 ¶ [p] And Jesus went out, and his disciples, into the towns of Cæsarea Philippi: and by the way he asked his disciples, saying unto them, Whom do men say that I am?

28 And they answered, [q] John the Baptist: but some say, Elias; and others, One of the prophets.

29 And he saith unto them, But whom say ye that I am? And Peter answereth and saith unto him, [r] Thou art the Christ.

30 [s] And he charged them that they should tell no man of him.

31 And [t] he began to teach them, that the Son of man must suffer many things, and be rejected of the elders, and of the Chief Priests, and Scribes, and be killed, and after three days rise again.

32 And he spake that saying openly. And Peter took him, and began to rebuke him.

33 But when he had turned about and looked on his disciples, he rebuked Peter, saying, Get thee behind me, Satan: for thou savourest not the things that be of God, but the things that be of men.

34 ¶ And when he had called the people unto him with his disciples also, he said unto them, [u] Whosoever will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me.

35 For [x] whosoever will save his life shall lose it; but whosoever shall lose his life for my sake and the Gospel's, the same shall save it.

36 For what shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?

37 Or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?

38 [y] Whosoever therefore [z] shall be ashamed of me and of my words in this adulterous and sinful generation; of him also shall the Son of man be ashamed, when he cometh in the glory of his Father with the holy angels.

CHAP. IX.

2 Jesus is transfigured. 11 He instructeth his disciples concerning the coming of Elias: 14 casteth forth a dumb and deaf spirit: 30 foretelleth his death and resurrection: 33 exhorteth his disciples to humility: 38 bidding them not to prohibit such as be not against them, nor to give offence to any of the faithful.

AND he said unto them, [a] Verily I say unto you, That there be some of them that stand here, which shall not taste of death, till they have seen [b] the kingdom of God come with power.

2 ¶ [c] And after six days Jesus taketh with him Peter, and James, and John, and leadeth them up into an high mountain apart by themselves: and he was transfigured before them.

3 And his raiment became shining, exceeding [d] white as snow; so as no fuller on earth can white them.

4 And there appeared unto them Elias with Moses: and they were talking with Jesus.

5 And Peter answered and said to Jesus, Master, it is good for us to be here: and let us make three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias.

6 For he wist not what to say; for they were sore afraid.

7 And there was a cloud that overshadowed them: and a voice came out of the cloud, saying, This is my beloved Son: hear him.

8 And suddenly, when they had looked round about, they saw no man any more, save Jesus only with themselves.

9 [e] And as they came down from the mountain, he charged them that they should tell no man what things they had seen, till the Son of man were risen from the dead.

10 And they kept that saying with themselves, questioning one with another what the rising from the dead should mean.

11 ¶ And they asked him, saying, Why say the Scribes [f] that Elias must first come?

12 And he answered and told them, Elias verily cometh first, and restoreth all things; and [g] how it is written of the Son of man, that he must suffer many things, and [h] be set at nought.

13 But I say unto you, That [i] Elias is indeed come, and they have done unto him whatsoever they listed, as it is written of him.

14 ¶ [k] And when he came to his disciples, he saw a great multitude about them, and the Scribes questioning with them.

15 And straightway all the people, when they beheld him, were greatly amazed, and running to him saluted him.

16 And he asked the Scribes, What question ye * with them?

17 And [l] one of the multitude answered and said, Master, I have brought unto thee my son, which hath a dumb spirit;

† teareth him: and he foameth, and gnasheth with his teeth, and pineth away: and I spake to thy disciples that they should cast him out; and they could not.

19 He answereth him, and saith, O faithless generation, how long shall I be with you? how long shall I suffer you? bring him unto me.

20 And they brought him unto him: and [m] when he saw him, straightway the spirit tare him; and he fell on the ground, and wallowed foaming.

21 And he asked his father, How long is it ago since this came unto him? And he said, Of a child.

22 And ofttimes it hath cast him into the fire, and into the waters, to destroy him: but if thou canst do any thing, have compassion on us, and help us.

23 Jesus said unto him, [n] If thou canst believe, all things are possible to him that believeth.

24 And straightway the father of the child cried out, and said with tears, Lord, I believe; help thou mine unbelief.

25 When Jesus saw that the people came running together, he rebuked the foul spirit, saying unto him, Thou dumb and deaf spirit, I charge thee, come out of him, and enter no more into him.

26 And the spirit cried, and rent him sore, and came out of him: and he was as one dead; insomuch that many said, He is dead.

27 But Jesus took him by the hand, and lifted him up; and he arose.

28 [o] And when he was come into the house, his disciples asked him privately, Why could not we cast him out?

29 And he said unto them, This kind can come forth by nothing, but by prayer and fasting.

30 ¶ And they departed thence, and passed through Galilee; and he would not that any man should know it.

31 [p] For he taught his disciples, and said unto them, The Son of man is delivered into the hands of men, and they shall kill him; and after that he is killed, he shall rise the third day.

32 But they understood not that saying, and were afraid to ask him.

33 ¶ [q] And he came to Capernaum: and being in the house he asked them, What was it that ye disputed among yourselves by who the way?

34 But they held their peace: for by the way they had disputed among themselves, shou'd be the greatest.

35 And he sat down, and called the twelve, and saith unto them, [r] If any man desire to be first, the same shall be last of all, and servant of all.

36 And [s] he took a child, and set him in the midst of them: and when he had taken him in his arms, he said unto them,

37 Whosoever shall receive one of such children in my name, receiveth me: and [t] whosoever shall receive me, receiveth not me, but him that sent me.

38 ¶ [u] And John answered him, saying, Master, we saw one casting out devils in thy name, and he followeth not us: and we forbad him, because he followeth not us.

39 But Jesus said, Forbid him not: [x] for there is no man which shall do a miracle in my name, that can lightly speak evil of me.

40 For [y] he that is not against us is on our part.

41 [z] For whosoever shall give you a cup of water to drink in my name, because ye belong to Christ, verily I say unto you, he shall not lose his reward.

42 [a] And whosoever shall offend one of these little ones that believe in me, it is better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and he were cast into the sea.

43 [b] And if thy hand ‡ offend thee, cut it off: it is better for thee to enter into life maimed, than having two hands to go into hell, into the fire that never shall be quenched:

44 [c] Where their worm dieth not, and the fire is not quenched.

45 And if thy foot offend thee, cut it off: it is better for thee to enter halt into life, than having two feet to be cast into hell, into the fire that never shall be quenched:

46 Where their worm dieth not, and the fire is not quenched.

47 And if thine eye § offend thee, pluck it out: it is better for thee to enter into the kingdom of God with one eye, than having two eyes to be cast into hell fire:

48 Where their worm dieth not, and the fire is not quenched.

49 For every one shall be salted with fire, [d] and every sacrifice shall be salted with salt.

50 [e] Salt is good: but if the salt have lost his saltness, wherewith will ye season it? [f] Have salt in yourselves, and [g] have peace one with another.

CHAP. X.

2 Christ disputeth with the Pharisees touching divorcement: 13 herein the children that are brought unto him: 17 resolveth a rich man how he may inherit life everlasting: 23 telleth his disciples of the danger of riches: 28 promiseth rewards to them that forsake any thing for the gospel: 32 foretelleth his death and resurrection: 35 hindereth the two ambitious suitors to think rather of suffering with him: 46 and restoreth to blindness his sight.

AND [a] he arose from thence, and cometh into the coasts of Judæa by the farther side of Jordan: and the people resort unto him again; and, as he was wont, he taught them again.

2 ¶ [b] And the Pharisees came to him, and asked him, Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife? tempting him.

3 And he answered and said unto them, What did Moses command you?

4 And they said, [c] Moses suffered to write a bill of divorcement, and to put her away.

5 And Jesus answered and said unto them, For the hardness of your heart he wrote you this precept.

6 But from the beginning of the creation [d] God made them male and female.

7 [e] For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and cleave to his wife;

1 Christ rideth with triumph into Jerusalem: 12 curseth the fruitless leafy tree: 15 purgeth the temple: 20 exhorteth his disciples to stedfastness of faith, and to forgive their enemies: 27 and defendeth the lawfulness of his actions, by the witness of John, who was a man sent of God.

3 And if any man say unto you, Why do ye this? say ye that the Lord hath need of him; and straightway he will send him hither.

4 And they went their way, and found the colt tied by the door without in a place where two ways met; and they loose him.

5 And certain of them that stood there said unto them, What do ye, loosing the colt?

Ver. 11. Whatsoever shall be given to you.—Whatever shall be suggested to you.

Ver. 32. Neither the Son.—Not even the Son, apart from the Father, in his humanity, but only the perfect coequal, coessential, coeternal Trinity, the supreme and universal God-head.

CHAP. XIV.

1 A conspiracy against Christ. 3 Precious ointment is poured on his head by a woman. 10 Judas selleth his Master for money. 12 Christ himself foretelleth how he shall be betrayed of one of his disciples: 22 after the passover prepared, and eaten, instituteth his supper: 26 declareth aforehand the flight of all his disciples, and Peter's denial. 43 Judas betrayeth him with a kiss. 46 He is apprehended in the garden, 53 falsely accused, and impiously condemned of the Jews' council: 65 shamefully abused by them: 66 and thrice denied of Peter.

[a] Matt. 26. 2. Luke 22. 1. John 11. 55. [a] AFTER two days was the feast of the Passover, and of unleavened bread: and the Chief Priests and the Scribes sought how they might take him by craft, and put him to death.

2 But they said, Not on the feast day, lest there be an uproar of the people.

[b] Matt. 26. 6. John 12. 1, 3. See Luke 7. 37. 3 ¶ [b] And being in Bethany in the house of Simon the leper, as he sat at meat, there came a woman having an alabaster box of ointment of * spikenard very precious; and she brake the box, and poured it on his head.

* Or, pure nard, or, liquid nard

4 And there were some that had indignation within themselves, and said, Why was this waste of the ointment made?

5 For it might have been sold for more than † See Matt. 18. 28. three hundred † pence, and have been given to the poor. And they murmured against her.

6 And Jesus said, Let her alone; why trouble ye her? she hath wrought a good work on me.

[c] Deut. 15. 11. 7 For [c] ye have the poor with you always, and whensoever ye will ye may do them good: but me ye have not always.

8 She hath done what she could: she is come aforehand to anoint my body to the burying.

9 Verily I say unto you, Wheresoever this gospel shall be preached throughout the whole world, this also that she hath done shall be spoken of for a memorial of her.

[d] Matt. 26. 14. Luke 22. 3, 4. 10 ¶ [d] And Judas Iscariot, one of the twelve, went unto the Chief Priests, to betray him unto them.

11 And when they heard it, they were glad, and promised to give him money. And he sought how he might conveniently betray him.

[e] Matt. 26. 17. Luke 22. 7. ‡ Or, sacrificed 12 ¶ [e] And the first day of unleavened bread, when they ‡ killed the Passover, his disciples said unto him, Where wilt thou that we go and prepare that thou mayest eat the Passover?

13 And he sendeth forth two of his disciples, and saith unto them, Go ye into the city, and there shall meet you a man bearing a pitcher of water: follow him.

14 And wheresoever he shall go in, say ye to the goodman of the house, The Master saith, Where is the guestchamber, where I shall eat the Passover with my disciples?

15 And he will shew you a large upper room furnished and prepared: there make ready for us.

16 And his disciples went forth, and came into the city, and found as he had said unto them: and they made ready the Passover.

[f] Matt. 26. 20. &c. 17 [f] And in the evening he cometh with the twelve.

18 And as they sat and did eat, Jesus said, Verily I say unto you, One of you which eateth with me shall betray me. A. D. 33.

19 And they began to be sorrowful, and to say unto him one by one, Is it I? and another said, Is it I?

20 And he answered and said unto them, It is one of the twelve, that dippeth with me in the dish.

[g] Matt. 25. 24. Luke 22. 22. 21 [g] The Son of man indeed goeth, as it is written of him: but woe to that man by whom the Son of man is betrayed! good were it for that man if he had never been born.

[h] Matt. 26. 26. Luke 22. 19. 1 Cor. 11. 23. 22 ¶ [h] And as they did eat, Jesus took bread, and blessed, and brake it, and gave to them, and said, Take, eat: this is my body.

23 And he took the cup, and when he had given thanks, he gave it to them: and they all drank of it.

24 And he said unto them, This is my blood of the new testament, which is shed for many.

25 Verily I say unto you, I will drink no more of the fruit of the vine, until that day that I drink it new in the kingdom of God.

[i] Matt. 26. 30. § Or, psalm 26 ¶ [i] And when they had sung an § hymn, they went out into the mount of Olives.

[k] Matt. 26. 31. 27 [k] And Jesus saith unto them, All ye shall be offended because of me this night for it is written, [l] I will smite the shepherd, [l] Zech. 13. 7. and the sheep shall be scattered.

[m] ch. 16. 7. 28 But [m] after that I am risen, I will go before you into Galilee.

[n] Matt. 26. 33, 34. Luke 22. 33, 34. John 13. 37, 38. 29 [n] But Peter said unto him, Although all shall be offended, yet will not I.

30 And Jesus saith unto him, Verily I say unto thee, That this day, even in this night, before the cock crow twice, thou shalt deny me thrice.

31 But he spake the more vehemently, If I should die with thee, I will not deny thee in any wise. Likewise also said they all.

[o] Matt. 26. 36. Luke 22. 39. John 18. 1. 32 [o] And they came to a place which was named Gethsemane: and he saith to his disciples, Sit ye here, while I shall pray.

33 And he taketh with him Peter and James and John, and began to be sore amazed, and to be very heavy;

[p] John 12. 27. 34 And saith unto them, [p] My soul is exceeding sorrowful unto death: tarry ye here, and watch.

35 And he went forward a little, and fell on the ground, and prayed that, if it were possible, the hour might pass from him.

37 And he cometh, and findeth them sleeping, and saith unto Peter, Simon, sleepest thou? couldest not thou watch one hour?

39 And again he went away, and prayed, and spake the same words.

CHAP. XIV. Ver. 3. Ointment of Spikenard.—Spikenard, or nard, according to Calmet, is a plant which grows in the East, whose root is very small and slender; it puts forth a long small stalk, and has several ears or spikes even with the ground; whence it has the name of spikenard. She brake the box.—She broke open the box, or removed the wax with which it was covered for security.

Ver. 5. Three hundred pence.—Nearly ten pounds sterling.

Ver. 33. To be sore amazed.—To be very greatly disturbed.

Ver. 36. Abba, Father.—Father is merely the translation of the Chaldee word Abba.

40 And when he returned, he found them asleep again, (for their eyes were heavy,) neither wist they what to answer him.

41 And he cometh the third time, and saith unto them, Sleep on now, and take your rest: it is enough, [u] the hour is come; behold, the Son of man is betrayed into the hands of sinners.

42 [x] Rise up, let us go; lo, he that betrayeth me is at hand.

43 ¶ [y] And immediately, while he yet spake, cometh Judas, one of the twelve, and with him a great multitude with swords and staves, from the Chief Priests and the Scribes and the elders.

44 And he that betrayed him had given them a token, saying, Whomsoever I shall kiss, that same is he; take him, and lead him away safely.

45 And as soon as he was come, he goeth straightway to him, and saith, Master, master; and kissed him.

46 ¶ And they laid their hands on him, and took him.

47 And one of them that stood by drew a sword, and smote a servant of the High Priest, and cut off his ear.

48 [z] And Jesus answered and said unto them, Are ye come out, as against a thief, with swords and with staves to take me?

49 I was daily with you in the temple teaching, and ye took me not: but [a] the Scriptures must be fulfilled.

50 [b] And they all forsook him, and fled.

51 And there followed him a certain young man, having a linen cloth cast about his naked body; and the young men laid hold on him:

52 And he left the linen cloth, and fled from them naked.

53 ¶ [c] And they led Jesus away to the High Priest: and with him were assembled all the Chief Priests and the elders and the Scribes.

54 And Peter followed him afar off, even into the palace of the High Priest: and he sat with the servants, and warmed himself at the fire.

55 [d] And the Chief Priests and all the council sought for witness against Jesus to put him to death; and found none.

56 For many bare false witness against him, but their witness agreed not together.

57 And there arose certain, and bare false witness against him, saying,

58 We heard him say, [e] I will destroy this temple that is made with hands, and within three days I will build another made without hands.

59 But neither so did their witness agree together.

60 [f] And the High Priest stood up in the midst, and asked Jesus, saying, Answerest thou nothing? what is it which these witness against thee?

61 But [g] he held his peace, and answered nothing. [h] Again the High Priest asked him, and said unto him, Art thou the Christ, the Son of the Blessed?

62 And Jesus said, I am: [i] and ye shall see the Son of man sitting on the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of heaven.

63 Then the High Priest rent his clothes, and saith, What need we any further witnesses?

64 Ye have heard the blasphemy: what think ye? And they all condemned him to be guilty of death.

65 And some began to spit on him, and to cover his face, and to buffet him, and to say unto him, Prophesy: and the servants did strike him with the palms of their hands.

66 ¶ [k] And as Peter was beneath in the palace, there cometh one of the maids of the High Priest:

67 And when she saw Peter warming himself, she looked upon him, and said, And thou also wast with Jesus of Nazareth.

68 But he denied, saying, I know not, neither understand I what thou sayest. And he went out into the porch; and the cock crew.

69 [l] And a maid saw him again, and began to say to them that stood by, This is one of them.

70 And he denied it again. [m] And a little after, they that stood by said again to Peter, Surely thou art one of them: [n] for thou art a Galilean, and thy speech agreeth thereto.

71 But he began to curse and to swear, saying, I know not this man of whom ye speak.

72 [o] And the second time the cock crew. And Peter called to mind the word that Jesus said unto him, Before the cock crow twice, thou shalt deny me thrice. And ‖ when he thought thereon, he wept.

‖ Or, he wept abundantly, or, he began to weep

CHAP. XV.

1 Jesus brought bound, and accused before Pilate. 15 Upon the clamour of the common people, the murderer Barabbas is loosed, and Jesus delivered up to be crucified. 17 He is crowned with thorns, 19 spit on, and mocked: 21 fainteth in bearing his cross: 27 hangeth between two thieves: 29 suffereth the triumphing reproaches of the Jews: 39 but confessed by the centurion to be the Son of God: 43 and is honourably buried by Joseph.

AND [a] straightway in the morning the Chief Priests held a consultation with the elders and Scribes and the whole council, and bound Jesus, and carried him away, and delivered him to Pilate.

2 [b] And Pilate asked him, Art thou the King of the Jews? And he answering said unto him, Thou sayest it.

3 And the Chief Priests accused him of many things: but he answered nothing.

4 [c] And Pilate asked him again, saying, Answerest thou nothing? behold how many things they witness against thee.

5 [d] But Jesus yet answered nothing; so that Pilate marvelled.

6 Now [e] at that feast he released unto them one prisoner, whomsoever they desired.

7 And there was one named Barabbas, which lay bound with them that had made insurrection with him, who had committed murder in the insurrection.

8 And the multitude crying aloud began to desire him to do as he had ever done unto them.

FORASMUCH as many have taken in hand to set forth in order a declaration of those things which are most surely believed among us,

2 [a] Even as they delivered them unto us, which [b] from the beginning were eyewitnesses, and ministers of the word;

3 [c] It seemed good to me also, having had perfect understanding of all things from the very first, to write unto thee [d] in order, [e] most excellent Theophilus,

4 [f] That thou mightest know the certainty of those things, wherein thou hast been instructed.

Before the Common Account called Anno Domini the sixth Year [g] Matt. 2. 1. [h] 1 Chron. 24. 10. Neh. 12. 4, 17.

5 ¶ [g] THERE was [g] in the days of Herod, the king of Judæa, a certain Priest named Zacharias, [h] of the course of Abia: and his wife was of the daughters of Aaron, and her name was Elisabeth.

6 And they were both [i] righteous before God, walking in all the commandments and ordinances of the Lord blameless.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO ST. LUKE.—Luke the Evangelist is by some ancient authors called Lucas, Lucius, or Lucanus. He was a Syrian, a native of Antioch, and by profession a physician. They who believe him to be Lucius (Rom. xvi. 21) must acknowledge, likewise, that he was St. Paul's kinsman—Lucius and Jason my kinsmen. It is not agreed whether he were, by birth, a Jew or a heathen. They who maintain that he was one of the Seventy must believe he was a Jew both by religion and descent. Epiphanius thinks he was one who left Christ on hearing these words (John vi. 51)—"He who eateth not my flesh, and drinketh not my blood, is not worthy of me;" but that he returned to the faith on hearing some others in Theophylact, believe St. Luke was Cleophas's companion, and went with him to Emmaus, when Jesus Christ joined them. In an addition, found at the end of St. Jerome's Treatise of Eminent Men, we read that St. Luke lived always a single life, having neither wife nor children. "Luke was St. Paul's companion in several journeys undertaken for preaching the Gospel, 2 Tim. iv. 11, Phil. xxiii. 24, Col. iv. 14; but where or when they first joined company we cannot tell. They who maintain that he was converted by St. Paul at Antioch believe that, after that time, he never forsook him; others think they met at Troas, and St. Luke himself favours this opinion (Acts xvi. 8, 9, 10)—"Immediately we endeavoured to go into Macedonia from Troas."

"Besides the Gospel of Luke and the Acts of the Apostles, some other works are ascribed to him, on the translation or even the composition, as to style, at least, of the Epistle to the Hebrews. Clemens of Alexandria and Jerome believe him to be the author of a disputation between Jason and Papiscus, which is now lost. Others insist that the Gospel of Luke was properly St. Paul's gospel, who dictated it to St. Luke; and that when St. Paul speaks of his Gospel Rom. ii. 16, xvi. 25; 2 Thess. xi. 13, he means the Gospel of St. Luke.—(Euseb. lib. iii. cap. 4, vi. 25. Hist. Eccl. ex Origine.) But Irenæus says no more than that St. Luke digested into writing what St. Paul preached to the Gentiles: and Gregory Nazianzen says that the Evangelist wrote with the help of St. Paul. It is certain, that St. Paul generally quotes the Gospel according to St. Luke: compare 1 Cor. xi. 23, 24. 25 with Luke xxii. 18, 12, 20, and 1 Cor. xv. 5. with Luke xxiv. 24; but Luke now here says that he was assisted by St. Paul. He addresses the Gospel and the Acts to Theophilus, of whom we have no knowledge; and many of the ancients took his name in an appellative sense, for one who loves God."—Calmet.

CHAP. I. Ver. 3. Theophilus.—Who this person was is not known. He was probably some eminent Greek converted by St. Luke.

Ver 5. Herod.—Herod the Great. The course of Abia.—David, as appears from 1 Chron. xxiv. 1, &c., divided the Sacerdotal families into twenty-four orders, or courses, that they might minister alternately in the Tabernacle, each family serving an entire week, 2 Chron. xxiii. 8. Abia was the eighth course according to the original classification, 1 Chron. xxiv. 10.

The daughter of Aaron.—She belonged to one of the sacerdotal families. John the Baptist therefore was the offspring of a daughter of a priest.

Ver. 9. His lot was to burn incense.—The priests, in each course, had their respective parts of the Temple-service assigned to them by lot.

13 But the angel said unto him, Fear not, Zacharias: for thy prayer is heard; and thy wife Elisabeth shall bear thee a son, and p thou shalt call his name John.

14 And thou shalt have joy and gladness; and q many shall rejoice at his birth.

15 For he shall be great in the sight of the Lord, and r shall drink neither wine nor strong drink; and he shall be filled with the Holy Ghost, s even from his mother's womb.

16 t And many of the children of Israel shall he turn to the Lord their God.

17 u And he shall go before him in the spirit and power of Elias, x to turn the hearts of the fathers to the children, and the disobedient * to the wisdom of the just; to make ready a people prepared for the Lord.

18 And Zacharias said unto the angel, y Whereby shall I know this? for I am an old man, and my wife well stricken in years.

19 And the angel answering said unto him, I am z Gabriel, that stand in the presence of God; and am sent to speak unto thee, and to shew thee these glad tidings.

20 And, behold, a thou shalt be dumb, and not able to speak, until the day that these things shall be performed, because thou believest not my words, which shall be fulfilled in their season.

21 And the people waited for Zacharias, and marvelled that he tarried so long in the temple.

22 And when he came out, he could not speak unto them: and they perceived that he had seen a vision in the temple: for he beckoned unto them, and remained speechless.

23 And it came to pass, that, as soon as b the days of his ministration were accomplished, he departed to his own house.

24 And after those days his wife Elisabeth conceived, and hid herself five months, saying,

25 Thus hath the Lord dealt with me in the days wherein he looked on me, to c take away my reproach among men.

26 And in the sixth month the angel Gabriel was sent from God unto a city of Galilee, named Nazareth,

27 To a virgin d espoused to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David; and the virgin's name was Mary.

28 And the angel came in unto her, and said, e Hail, thou that art † highly favoured, f the Lord is with thee: blessed art thou among women.

29 And when she saw him, g she was troubled at his saying, and cast in her mind what manner of salutation this should be.

30 And the angel said unto her, Fear not, Mary: for thou hast found favour with God.

31 h And, behold, thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bring forth a son, and i shalt call his name JESUS.

32 He shall be great, k and shall be called the Son of the Highest: and l the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David:

33 m And he shall reign over the house of Jacob for ever; and of his kingdom there shall be no end.

34 Then said Mary unto the angel, How shall this be, seeing I know not a man?

35 And the angel answered and said unto her, n The Holy Ghost shall come upon thee, and the power of the Highest shall overshadow thee: therefore also that holy thing which shall be born of thee shall be called o the Son of God.

36 And, behold, thy cousin Elisabeth, she hath also conceived a son in her old age: and this is the sixth month with her, who was called barren.

37 For p with God nothing shall be impossible.

38 And Mary said, Behold the handmaid of the Lord; be it unto me according to thy word. And the angel departed from her.

39 And Mary arose in those days, and went into the hill country with haste, q into a city of Juda;

40 And entered into the house of Zacharias, and saluted Elisabeth.

41 And it came to pass, that, when Elisabeth heard the salutation of Mary, the babe leaped in her womb; and Elisabeth was filled with the Holy Ghost:

42 And she spake out with a loud voice, and said, r Blessed art thou among women, and blessed is the fruit of thy womb.

43 And whence is this to me, that the mother of my Lord should come to me?

44 For, lo, as soon as the voice of thy salutation sounded in mine ears, the babe leaped in my womb for joy.

45 And blessed is she ‡ that believed: for there shall be a performance of those things which were told her from the Lord.

46 And Mary said, s My soul doth magnify the Lord,

47 And my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Saviour.

48 For t he hath regarded the low estate of his handmaiden: for, behold, from henceforth u all generations shall call me blessed.

49 For he that is mighty x hath done to me great things; and y holy is his name.

50 And z his mercy is on them that fear him from generation to generation.

51 a He hath shewed strength with his arm; b he hath scattered the proud in the imagination of their hearts.

52 c He hath put down the mighty from their seats, and exalted them of low degree.

53 d He hath filled the hungry with good things; and the rich he hath sent empty away

54 He hath holpen his servant Israel, e in remembrance of his mercy;

55 f As he spake to our fathers, to Abraham, and to his seed for ever.

56 And Mary abode with her about three months, and returned to her own house.

57 Now Elisabeth's full time came that she should be delivered; and she brought forth a son.

58 And her neighbours and her cousins heard how the Lord had shewed great mercy upon her; and [g] they rejoiced with her.

59 And it came to pass, that on [h] the eighth day they came to circumcise the child; and they called him Zacharias, after the name of his father.

60 And his mother answered and said, [i] Not so; but he shall be called John.

61 And they said unto her, There is none of thy kindred that is called by this name.

62 And they made signs to his father, how he would have him called.

63 And he asked for a writing table, and wrote, saying, [k] His name is John. And they marvelled all.

64 [l] And his mouth was opened immediately, and his tongue loosed, and he spake, and praised God.

65 And fear came on all that dwelt round about them: and all these § sayings were noised abroad throughout all [m] the hill country of Judæa.

66 And all they that heard them [n] laid them up in their hearts, saying, What manner of child shall this be! And [o] the hand of the Lord was with him.

67 And his father Zacharias [p] was filled with the Holy Ghost, and prophesied, saying,

68 [q] Blessed be the Lord God of Israel; for [r] he hath visited and redeemed his people,

69 [s] And hath raised up an horn of salvation for us in the house of his servant David;

70 [t] As he spake by the mouth of his holy prophets, which have been since the world began:

AND it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Cæsar Augustus, that all the world should be * taxed.

2 ([a] And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.)

3 And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city.

4 And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judæa, unto [b] the city of David, which is called Bethlehem; ([c] because he was of the house and lineage of David:)

5 To be taxed with Mary [d] his espoused wife, being great with child.

6 And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered.

11 [h] For unto you is born this day in the city of David [i] a Saviour, [k] which is Christ the Lord.

12 And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

13 [l] And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying,

15 And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, ‡ the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us.

16 And they came with haste, and found Mary, and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger.

18 And all they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherds.

19 [p] But Mary kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart.

20 And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them.

21 [q] And when eight days were accomplished for the circumcising of the child, his name was called [r] JESUS, which was so named of the angel before he was conceived in the womb.

32 [c] A light to lighten the Gentiles, and the glory of thy people Israel.

39 And when they had performed all things according to the law of the Lord, they returned into Galilee, to their own city Nazareth.

40 [i] And the child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom: and the grace of God was upon him.

41 Now his parents went to Jerusalem [k] every year at the feast of the Passover.

42 And when he was twelve years old, they went up to Jerusalem after the custom of the feast.

43 And when they had fulfilled the days, as they returned, the child Jesus tarried behind in Jerusalem; and Joseph and his mother knew not of it.

44 But they, supposing him to have been in the company, went a day's journey; and they sought him among their kinsfolk and acquaintance. A D 8.

45 And when they found him not, they turned back again to Jerusalem, seeking him.

46 And it came to pass, that after three days they found him in the temple, sitting in the midst of the doctors, both hearing them, and asking them questions.

47 And [l] all that heard him were astonished at his understanding and answers.

48 And when they saw him, they were amazed: and his mother said unto him, Son, why hast thou thus dealt with us? behold, thy father and I have sought thee sorrowing.

49 And he said unto them, How is it that ye sought me? wist ye not that I must be about [m] my Father's business?

50 And [n] they understood not the saying which he spake unto them.

51 And he went down with them, and came to Nazareth, and was subject unto them: but his mother [o] kept all these sayings in her heart.

52 And Jesus [p] increased in wisdom and || stature, and in favour with God and man.

1 The preaching and baptism of John: 15 his testimony of Christ. 20 Herod imprisoneth John. 21 Christ baptized, receiveth testimony from heaven. 23 The age, and genealogy of Christ from Joseph upwards.

NOW in the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius Cæsar, Pontius Pilate being governor of Judæa, and Herod being tetrarch of Galilee, and his brother Philip tetrarch of Ituræa and of the region of Trachonitis, and Lysanias the tetrarch of Abilene, A. D 26

2 [a] Annas and Caiaphas being the High Priests, the word of God came unto John the son of Zacharias in the wilderness.

3 [b] And he came into all the country about Jordan, preaching the baptism of repentance [c] for the remission of sins;

4 As it is written in the book of the words of Esaias the prophet, saying, [d] The voice of one crying in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his paths straight.

5 Every valley shall be filled, and every mountain and hill shall be brought low; and the crooked shall be made straight, and the rough ways shall be made smooth;

6 And [e] all flesh shall see the salvation of God.

7 Then said he to the multitude that came forth to be baptized of him, [f] O generation of vipers, who hath warned you to flee from the wrath to come?

8 Bring forth therefore fruits * worthy of repentance, and begin not to say within yourselves, We have Abraham to our father: for I say unto you, That God is able of these stones to raise up children unto Abraham.

9 And now also the axe is laid unto the root of the trees: [g] every tree therefore which bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire.

10 And the people asked him, saying, [h] What shall we do then?

12 Then [k] came also Publicans to be baptized, and said unto him, Master, what shall we do?

13 And he said unto them, [l] Exact no more than that which is appointed you.

14 And the soldiers likewise demanded of him, saying, And what shall we do? And he said unto them, † Do violence to no man, [m] neither accuse any falsely; and be content with your ‡ wages.

15 And as the people were § in expectation, and all men ‖ mused in their hearts of John, whether he were the Christ, or not;

16 John answered, saying unto them all, [n] I indeed baptize you with water; but one mightier than I cometh, the latchet of whose shoes I am not worthy to unloose: he shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost and with fire:

17 Whose fan is in his hand, and he will throughly purge his floor, and [o] will gather the wheat into his garner; but the chaff he will burn with fire unquenchable.

18 And many other things in his exhortation preached he unto the people.

19 [p] But Herod the tetrarch, being reproved by him for Herodias his brother Philip's wife, and for all the evils which Herod had done, 20 Added yet this above all, that he shut up John in prison.

A. D. 27.

21 Now when all the people were baptized, [q] it came to pass, that Jesus also being baptized, and praying, the heaven was opened,

22 And the Holy Ghost descended in a bodily shape like a dove upon him, and a voice came from heaven, which said, Thou art my beloved Son; in thee I am well pleased.

AND [a] Jesus being full of the Holy Ghost returned from Jordan, and [b] was led by the Spirit into the wilderness,

2 Being forty days tempted of the devil. And [c] in those days he did eat nothing: and when they were ended, he afterward hungered.

3 And the devil said unto him, If thou be the Son of God, command this stone that it be made bread.

4 And Jesus answered him, saying, [d] It is written, That man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word of God.

5 And the devil, taking him up into an high mountain, shewed unto him all the kingdoms of the world in a moment of time.

6 And the devil said unto him, All this power will I give thee, and the glory of them: for [e] that is delivered unto me; and to whomsoever I will I give it.

7 If thou therefore wilt [*] worship me, all shall be thine.

8 And Jesus answered and said unto him, Get thee behind me, Satan: for [f] it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve.

9 [g] And he brought him to Jerusalem, and set him on a pinnacle of the temple, and said unto him, If thou be the Son of God, cast thyself down from hence:

34 And he said unto them, Can ye make the children of the bridechamber fast, while the bridegroom is with them?

35 But the days will come, when the bridegroom shall be taken away from them, and then shall they fast in those days.

36 ¶ [t] And he spake also a parable unto them; No man putteth a piece of a new garment upon an old; if otherwise, then both the new maketh a rent, and the piece that was taken out of the new agreeth not with the old.

t Matt. 9. 16, 17. Mark 2. 21, 22.

37 And no man putteth new wine into old bottles; else the new wine will burst the bottles, and be spilled, and the bottles shall perish.

38 But new wine must be put into new bottles; and both are preserved.

39 No man also having drunk old wine straightway desireth new: for he saith, The old is better.

CHAP. VI.

1 Christ reproveth the Pharisees' blindness about the observation of the sabbath, by scripture, reason, and miracle: 13 chooseth twelve apostles: 17 healeth the diseased: 20 preacheth to his disciples before the people of blessings and curses: 27 how we must love our enemies: 46 and join the obedience of good works to the hearing of the word: lest in the evil day of temptation we fall like an house built upon the face of the earth, without foundation.

AND [a] it came to pass on the second sabbath after the first, that he went through the corn fields; and his disciples plucked the ears of corn, and did eat, rubbing them in their hands.

49 But he that heareth and doeth not, is like a man that without a foundation built an house upon the earth; against which the stream did beat vehemently, and immediately it fell; and the ruin of that house was great.

CHAP. VII.

1 Christ findeth a greater faith in the centurion a Gentile, than in any of the Jews: 10 healeth his servant being absent: 11 raiseth from death the widow's son at Nain: 19 answereth John's messengers with the declaration of his miracles: 24 testifieth to the people what opinion he held of John: 30 inveigheth against the Jews, who with neither the manners of John nor of Jesus could be won: 36 and sheweth by occasion of Mary Magdalene, how he is a friend to sinners, not to maintain them in sins, but to forgive them their sins, upon their faith and repentance.

NOW when he had ended all his sayings in the audience of the people, [a] he entered into Capernaum.

2 And a certain centurion's servant, who was dear unto him, was sick, and ready to die.

3 And when he heard of Jesus, he sent nto him the elders of the Jews, beseeching him that he would come and heal his servant.

4 And when they came to Jesus, they besought him instantly, saying, That he was worthy for whom he should do this:

5 For he loveth our nation, and he hath built us a synagogue.

6 Then Jesus went with them. And when he was now not far from the house, the centurion sent friends to him, saying unto him, Lord, trouble not thyself: for I am not worthy that thou shouldest enter under my roof:

7 Wherefore neither thought I myself worthy to come unto thee: but say in a word, and my servant shall be healed.

8 For I also am a man set under authority, having under me soldiers, and I say unto * one, Go, and he goeth; and to another, Come, and he cometh; and to my servant, Do this, and he doeth it.

9 When Jesus heard these things, he marvelled at him, and turned him about, and said unto the people that followed him, I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel.

10 And they that were sent, returning to the house, found the servant whole that had been sick.

11 ¶ And it came to pass the day after, that he went into a city called Nain; and many of his disciples went with him, and much people.

12 Now when he came nigh to the gate of the city, behold, there was a dead man carried out, the only son of his mother, and she was a widow: and much people of the city was with her.

13 And when the Lord saw her, he had compassion on her, and said unto her, Weep not.

14 And he came and touched the † bier: and they that bare him stood still. And he said, Young man, I say unto thee, [b] Arise.

15 And he that was dead sat up, and began to speak. And he delivered him to his mother.

16 [c] And there came a fear on all: and they glorified God, saying, [d] that a great prophet is risen up among us; and, [e] That God hath visited his people.

17 And this rumour of him went forth throughout all Judæa, and throughout all the region round about.

18 [f] And the disciples of John shewed him of all these things.

19 ¶ And John calling unto him two of his disciples sent them to Jesus, saying, Art thou he that should come? or look we for another?

20 When the men were come unto him, they said, John Baptist hath sent us unto thee, saying, Art thou he that should come? or look we for another?

21 And in the same hour he cured many of their infirmities and plagues, and of evil spirits; and unto many that were blind he gave sight.

22 [g] Then Jesus answering said unto them, Go your way, and tell John what things ye have seen and heard; [h] how that the blind see, the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, [i] to the poor the Gospel is preached.

23 And blessed is he, whosoever shall not be offended in me.

24 ¶ [k] And when the messengers of John were departed, he began to speak unto the people concerning John, What went ye out into the wilderness for to see? A reed shaken with the wind?

25 But what went ye out for to see? A man clothed in soft raiment? Behold, they which are gorgeously apparelled, and live delicately, are in kings' courts.

26 But what went ye out for to see? A prophet? Yea, I say unto you, and much more than a prophet.

27 This is he, of whom it is written, [l] Behold, I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee.

28 For I say unto you, Among those that are born of women there is not a greater prophet than John the Baptist: but he that is least in the kingdom of God is greater than he.

29 And all the people that heard him, and the Publicans, justified God, [m] being baptized with the baptism of John.

jected [n] the counsel of God § against themselves, being not baptized of him.

31 ¶ And the Lord said, [o] Whereunto then shall I liken the men of this generation? and to what are they like?

32 They are like unto children sitting in the marketplace, and calling one to another, and saying, We have piped unto you, and ye have not danced; we have mourned to you, and ye have not wept.

33 For [p] John the Baptist came neither eating bread nor drinking wine; and ye say, He hath a devil.

34 The Son of man is come eating and drinking; and ye say, Behold a gluttonous man, and a winebibber, a friend of Publicans and sinners!

35 [q] But wisdom is justified of all her children.

36 ¶ [r] And one of the Pharisees desired him that he would eat with him. And he went into the Pharisee's house, and sat down to meat.

37 And, behold, a woman in the city, which was a sinner, when she knew that Jesus sat at meat in the Pharisee's house, brought an alabaster box of ointment,

38 And stood at his feet behind him weeping, and began to wash his feet with tears, and did wipe them with the hairs of her head, and kissed his feet, and anointed them with the ointment.

39 Now when the Pharisee which had bidden him saw it, he spake within himself, saying, [s] This man, if he were a prophet, would have known who and what manner of woman this is that toucheth him: for she is a sinner.

40 And Jesus answering said unto him, Simon, I have somewhat to say unto thee. And he saith, Master, say on.

41 There was a certain creditor which had two debtors: the one owed five hundred ‖ pence, and the other fifty.

42 And when they had nothing to pay, he frankly forgave them both. Tell me therefore, which of them will love him most?

43 Simon answered and said, I suppose that he, to whom he forgave most. And he said unto him, Thou hast rightly judged.

44 And he turned to the woman, and said unto Simon, Seest thou this woman? I entered into thine house, thou gavest me no water for my feet: but she hath washed my feet with tears, and wiped them with the hairs of her head.

45 Thou gavest me no kiss: but this woman since the time I came in hath not ceased to kiss my feet.

46 [t] My head with oil thou didst not anoint: but this woman hath anointed my feet with ointment.

47 [u] Wherefore I say unto thee, Her sins, which are many, are forgiven; for she loved much: but to whom little is forgiven, the same loveth little.

48 And he said unto her, [x] Thy sins are forgiven.

49 And they that sat at meat with him began to say within themselves, [y] Who is this that forgiveth sins also?

50 And he said to the woman, [z] Thy faith hath saved thee; go in peace.

CHAP. VIII.

3 Women minister unto Christ of their substance. 4 Christ, after he had preached from place to place, attended with his apostles, propoundeth the parable of the sower, 16 and of the candle: 21 declareth who are his mother, and brethren: 22 rebuketh the winds: 26 casteth the legion of devils out of the man into the herd of swine: 37 is rejected of the Gadarenes: 43 healeth the woman of her bloody issue, 49 and raiseth from death Jairus' daughter.

AND it came to pass afterward, that he went throughout every city and village, preaching and shewing the glad tidings of the kingdom of God: and the twelve were with him,

2 And [a] certain women, which had been healed of evil spirits and infirmities, Mary called Magdalene, [b] out of whom went seven devils,

3 And Joanna the wife of Chuza Herod's steward, and Susanna, and many others, which ministered unto him of their substance.

4 ¶ [c] And when much people were gathered together, and were come to him out of every city, he spake by a parable:

5 A sower went out to sow his seed: and as he sowed, some fell by the way side; and it was trodden down, and the fowls of the air devoured it.

6 And some fell upon a rock; and as soon as it was sprung up, it withered away because it lacked moisture.

7 And some fell among thorns; and the thorns sprang up with it, and choked it.

8 And other fell on good ground, and sprang up, and bare fruit an hundredfold. And when he had said these things, he cried, He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

9 [d] And his disciples asked him, saying, What might this parable be?

10 And he said, Unto you it is given to know the mysteries of the kingdom of God: but to others in parables; [e] that seeing they might not see, and hearing they might not understand.

11 [f] Now the parable is this: The seed is the word of God.

12 Those by the way side are they that hear; then cometh the devil, and taketh away the word out of their hearts, lest they should believe and be saved.

13 They on the rock are they, which, when they hear, receive the word with joy; and these have no root, which for a while believe, and in time of temptation fall away.

14 And that which fell among thorns are they, which, when they have heard, go forth, and are choked with cares and riches and pleasures of this life, and bring no fruit to perfection.

15 But that on the good ground are they, which in an honest and good heart, having heard the word, keep it, and bring forth fruit with patience.

16 ¶ [g] No man, when he hath lighted a candle, covereth it with a vessel, or putteth it under a bed; but setteth it on a candlestick, that they which enter in may see the light.

17 [h] For nothing is secret, that shall not be made manifest; neither any thing hid, that shall not be known and come abroad.

18 Take heed therefore how ye hear: [t] for whosoever hath, to him shall be given; and whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken even that which he [u] seemeth to have.

19 ¶ [x] Then came to him his mother and his brethren, and could not come at him for the press.

20 And it was told him by certain which said, Thy mother and thy brethren stand without, desiring to see thee.

21 And he answered and said unto them, My mother and my brethren are these which hear the word of God, and do it.

22 ¶ [z] Now it came to pass on a certain day, that he went into a ship with his disciples: and he said unto them, Let us go over unto the other side of the lake. And they launched forth.

23 But as they sailed he fell asleep: and there came down a storm of wind on the lake; and they were filled with water, and were in jeopardy.

24 And they came to him, and awoke him, saying, Master, master, we perish. Then he arose, and rebuked the wind and the raging of the water: and they ceased, and there was a calm.

25 And he said unto them, Where is your faith? And they being afraid wondered, saying one to another, What manner of man is this! for he commandeth even the winds and water, and they obey him.

26 ¶ [m] And they arrived at the country of the Gadarenes, which is over against Galilee.

27 And when he went forth to land, there met him out of the city a certain man, which had devils long time, and ware no clothes, neither abode in any house, but in the tombs.

28 When he saw Jesus, he cried out, and fell down before him, and with a loud voice said, What have I to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of God most high? I beseech thee, torment me not.

29 (For he had commanded the unclean spirit to come out of the man. For oftentimes it had caught him: and he was kept bound with chains and in fetters; and he brake the bands, and was driven of the devil into the wilderness.)

30 And Jesus asked him, saying, What is thy name? And he said, Legion: because many devils were entered into him.

31 And they besought him that he would not command them to go out [n] into the deep.

32 And there was there an herd of many swine feeding on the mountain: and they besought him that he would suffer them to enter into them. And he suffered them.

33 Then went the devils out of the man, and entered into the swine: and the herd ran violently down a steep place into the lake, and were choked.

34 When they that fed them saw what was done, they fled, and went and told it in the city and in the country.

35 Then they went out to see what was done; and came to Jesus, and found the man, out of whom the devils were departed, sitting at the feet of Jesus, clothed, and in his right mind: and they were afraid. A. D. 31

36 They also which saw it told them by what means he that was possessed of the devils was healed.

37 ¶ [o] Then the whole multitude of the country of the Gadarenes round about [p] besought him to depart from them; for they were taken with great fear: and he went up into the ship, and returned back again.

38 Now [q] the man out of whom the devils were departed besought him that he might be with him: but Jesus sent him away, saying,

39 Return to thine own house, and shew how great things God hath done unto thee. And he went his way, and published throughout the whole city how great things Jesus had done unto him.

40 And it came to pass, that, when Jesus was returned, the people gladly received him: for they were all waiting for him.

41 ¶ [r] And, behold, there came a man named Jairus, and he was a ruler of the synagogue: and he fell down at Jesus' feet, and besought him that he would come into his house:

42 For he had one only daughter, about twelve years of age, and she lay a dying. But as he went the people thronged him.

43 ¶ [s] And a woman having an issue of blood twelve years, which had spent all her living upon physicians, neither could be healed of any,

44 Came behind him, and touched the border of his garment: and immediately her issue of blood stanched.

45 And Jesus said, Who touched me? When all denied, Peter and they that were with him said, Master, the multitude throng thee and press thee, and sayest thou, Who touched me?

46 And Jesus said, Somebody hath touched me: for I perceive that [t] virtue is gone out of me.

47 And when the woman saw that she was not hid, she came trembling, and falling down before him, she declared unto him before all the people for what cause she had touched him, and how she was healed immediately.

48 And he said unto her, Daughter, be of good comfort: thy faith hath made thee whole; go in peace.

49 ¶ [u] While he yet spake, there cometh one from the ruler of the synagogue's house, saying to him, Thy daughter is dead; trouble not the Master.

50 But when Jesus heard it, he answered him, saying, Fear not: believe only, and she shall be made whole.

51 And when he came into the house, he suffered no man to go in, save Peter, and James, and John, and the father and the mother of the maiden.

52 And all wept, and bewailed her: but he said, Weep not; she is not dead, [z] but sleepeth.

53 And they laughed him to scorn, knowing that she was dead.

54 And he put them all out, and took her by the hand, and called, saying, Maid, [y] arise.

CHAP. X.

1 Christ sendeth out at once seventy disciples to work miracles, and to preach: 17 admonisheth them to be humble, and wherein to rejoice: 21 thanketh his Father for his grace: 23 magnifieth the happy estate of his church: 25 teacheth the lawyer how to attain eternal life, and to take every one for his neighbour that needeth his mercy: 41 reprehendeth Martha, and commendeth Mary her sister.

a Matt. 10. 1. Mark 6. 7. AFTER these things the Lord appointed other seventy also, and [a] sent them two and two before his face into every city and place, whither he himself would come.

b Matt. 9. 37. 38. John 4. 35. 2 Therefore said he unto them, [b] The harvest truly is great, but the labourers are few: [c] pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he would send forth labourers into his harvest.

e Matt. 10. 9. See Mark 6. 8. ch. 9. 3. 1 Cor. 9. 4. 29. 4 [e] Carry neither purse, nor scrip, nor shoes: and [f] salute no man by the way.

f 2 Kings 4. 29.

g Matt. 10. 12. 5 [g] And into whatsoever house ye enter, first say, Peace be to this house.

6 And if the son of peace be there, your peace shall rest upon it: if not, it shall turn to you again.

h Matt. 10. 11. i 1 Cor. 10. 27. 7 [h] And in the same house remain, [i] eating and drinking such things as they give: for [k] the labourer is worthy of his hire. Go not from house to house.

10 But into whatsoever city ye enter, and they receive you not, go your ways out into the streets of the same, and say, n Matt. 10. 14. ch. 9. 5. Acts 13. 51. & 18. 6. 11 [n] Even the very dust of your city, which cleaveth on us, we do wipe off against you: notwithstanding be ye sure of this, that the kingdom of God is come nigh unto you.

14 But it shall be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon at the judgment, than for you.

CHAP. IX. Ver. 55. But they understood not this saying.—They could not reconcile this declaration with their traditions, that the Messiah should live for ever.

Ver. 53. His face was as though, &c.—Thereby showing that he was a Jew, and between the Jews and Samaritans there existed the most irreconcileable enmity.

Ver. 55. Ye know not what manner of spirit, &c.—It is evident that ye know not yet by what spiritual influence my disciples ought to be guided.

Ver. 60. Go thou and preach the kingdom of God.—That is, the Gospel which I have declared unto you.

CHAP. X. Ver. 1. Other seventy also.—That is besides the twelve apostles, to whom they were inferior in authority.

Ver. 4. Salute no man by the way.—Let not the mere courtesies of life withdraw your attention from the more important objects of your sacred mission.

Ver. 6. And if the son of peace be there, &c.—If the master of the house be a peaceful and well-disposed person.

15 [r] And thou, Capernaum, which art [s] exalted to heaven, [t] shalt be thrust down to hell.

16 [u] He that heareth you heareth me; and [x] he that despiseth you despiseth me; [y] and he that despiseth me despiseth him that sent me.

17 ¶ And [z] the seventy returned again with joy, saying, Lord, even the devils are subject unto us through thy name.

18 And he said unto them, [a] I beheld Satan as lightning fall from heaven.

19 Behold, [b] I give unto you power to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy: and nothing shall by any means hurt you.

20 Notwithstanding in this rejoice not, that the spirits are subject unto you; but rather rejoice, because [c] your names are written in heaven.

21 ¶ [d] In that hour Jesus rejoiced in spirit, and said, I thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, and hast revealed them unto babes: even so, Father; for so it seemed good in thy sight.

22 [e *] All things are delivered to me of my Father: and [f] no man knoweth who the Son is, but the Father; and who the Father is, but the Son, and he to whom the Son will reveal him.

23 ¶ And he turned him unto his disciples, and said privately, [g] Blessed are the eyes which see the things that ye see:

24 For I tell you, [h] that many prophets and kings have desired to see those things which ye see, and have not seen them; and to hear those things which ye hear, and have not heard them.

25 ¶ And, behold, a certain Lawyer stood up, and tempted him, saying, [i] Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?

26 He said unto him, What is written in the law? how readest thou?

27 And he answering said, [k] Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and [l] thy neighbour as thyself.

28 And he said unto him, Thou hast answered right: this do, and [m] thou shalt live.

29 But he, willing to [n] justify himself, said unto Jesus, And who is my neighbour?

30 And Jesus answering said, A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among thieves, which stripped him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him half dead.

31 And by chance there came down a certain Priest that way: and when he saw him, [o] he passed by on the other side.

32 And likewise a Levite, when he was at the place, came and looked on him, and passed by on the other side.

33 But a certain [p] Samaritan, as he journeyed, came where he was: and when he saw him, he had compassion on him,

34 And went to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine, and set him on his own beast, and brought him to an inn, and took care of him.

35 And on the morrow when he departed, he took out two † pence, and gave them to the host, and said unto him, Take care of him; and whatsoever thou spendest more, when I come again, I will repay thee.

36 Which now of these three, thinkest thou, was neighbour unto him that fell among the thieves?

37 And he said, He that showed mercy on him. Then said Jesus unto him, Go, and do thou likewise.

38 ¶ Now it came to pass, as they went, that he entered into a certain village: and a certain woman named [q] Martha received him into her house.

39 And she had a sister called Mary, [r] which also [s] sat at Jesus' feet, and heard his word.

40 But Martha was cumbered about much serving, and came to him, and said, Lord, dost thou not care that my sister hath left me to serve alone? bid her therefore that she help me.

41 And Jesus answered and said unto her, Martha, Martha, thou art careful and troubled about many things:

42 But [t] one thing is needful: and Mary hath chosen that good part, which shall not be taken away from her.

CHAP. XI.

1 Christ teacheth to pray, and that instantly: 11 assuring that God so will give us good things. 14 He casteth out a dumb devil, rebuketh the blasphemous Pharisees: 28 and showeth who are blessed: 29 preacheth to the people, 37 and reprehendeth the outward show of holiness in the Pharisees, scribes, and lawyers.

AND it came to pass, that, as he was praying in a certain place, when he ceased, one of his disciples said unto him, Lord, teach us to pray, as John also taught his disciples.

2 And he said unto them, When ye pray, say, [a] Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come.

3 Give us * day by day our daily bread.

4 And forgive us our sins; for we also forgive every one that is indebted to us. And lead us not into temptation; but deliver us from evil.

5 And he said unto them, Which of you shall have a friend, and shall go unto him at midnight, and say unto him, Friend, lend me three loaves;

6 For a friend of mine † in his journey is come to me, and I have nothing to set before him?

7 And he from within shall answer and say, Trouble me not: the door is now shut, and my children are with me in bed; I cannot rise and give thee.

8 I say unto you, [b] Though he will not rise and give him, because he is his friend, yet because of his importunity he will rise and give him as many as he needeth.

9 [c] And I say unto you, Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you.

2 Christ healeth the dropsy on the sabbath: 7 teacheth humility: 12 to feast the poor: 15 under the parable of the great supper, sheweth how worldly minded men, who contemn the word of God, shall be shut out of heaven. 25 Those who will be his disciples, to bear their cross must make their accounts aforehand, lest with shame they revolt from him afterward, 34 and become altogether unprofitable, like salt that has lost his savour.

AND it came to pass, as he went into the house of one of the chief Pharisees to eat bread on the sabbath day, that they watched him.

2 And, behold, there was a certain man before him which had the dropsy.

3 And Jesus answering spake unto the Lawyers and Pharisees, saying, [a] Is it lawful to heal on the sabbath day?

4 And they held their peace. And he took him, and healed him, and let him go;

9 And he that bade thee and him come and say to thee, Give this man place; and thou begin with shame to take the lowest room.

18 And they all with one consent began to make excuse. The first said unto him, I have bought a piece of ground, and I must needs go and see it: I pray thee have me excused.

19 And another said, I have bought five yoke of oxen, and I go to prove them: I pray thee have me excused.

20 And another said, I have married a wife, and therefore I cannot come.

21 So that servant came, and shewed his lord these things. Then the master of the house being angry said to his servant, Go out quickly into the streets and lanes of the city, and bring in hither the poor, and the maimed, and the halt, and the blind.

22 And the servant said, Lord, it is done as thou has commanded, and yet there is room.

[a] Matt. 9. 10

THEN [a] drew near unto him all the Publicans and sinners for to hear him.

[b] Acts 11. 3. Gal. 2. 12.

2 And the Pharisees and Scribes murmured, saying, This man receiveth sinners, [b] and eateth with them.

3 ¶ And he spake this parable unto them, saying,

[c] Matt. 18. 12.

4 [c] What man of you, having an hundred sheep, if he lose one of them, doth not leave the ninety and nine in the wilderness, and go after that which is lost, until he find it?

5 And when he hath found it, he layeth it on his shoulders, rejoicing.

6 And when he cometh home, he calleth together his friends and neighbours, saying unto them, Rejoice with me; for I have found my sheep [d] which was lost.

[d] 1 Peter 2. 10, 25.

7 I say unto you, that likewise joy shall be in heaven over one sinner that repenteth, [e] more than over ninety and nine just persons, which need no repentance.

[e] ch. 5. 32.

8 ¶ Either what woman having ten [*] pieces of silver, if she lose one piece, doth not light a candle, and sweep the house, and seek diligently till she find it?

[*] Drachma, here translated "a piece of silver," is the eighth part of an ounce which cometh to seven pence halfpenny, and is equal to the Roman penny, Matt. 18. 28.

9 And when she hath found it, she calleth her friends and her neighbours together, saying, Rejoice with me; for I have found the piece which I had lost.

10 Likewise, I say unto you, there is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth.

11 ¶ And he said, A certain man had two sons:

13 And not many days after the younger son gathered all together, and took his journey into a far country, and there wasted his substance with riotous living.

14 And when he had spent all, there arose a mighty famine in that land; and he began to be in want.

15 And he went and joined himself to a citizen of that country; and he sent him into his fields to feed swine.

16 And he would fain have filled his belly with the husks that the swine did eat: and no man gave unto him.

17 And when he came to himself, he said, How many hired servants of my father's have bread enough and to spare, and I perish with hunger!

will say unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven, and before thee,

19 And am no more worthy to be called thy son: make me as one of thy hired servants.

20 And he arose, and came to his father. But [e] when he was yet a great way off, his father saw him, and had compassion, and ran, and fell on his neck, and kissed him.

21 And the son said unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven, [h] and in thy sight, and am no more worthy to be called thy son.

22 But the father said to his servants, Bring forth the best robe, and put it on him; and put a ring on his hand, and shoes on his feet:

23 And bring hither the fatted calf, and kill it; and let us eat, and be merry:

24 [i] For this my son was dead, and is alive again; he was lost, and is found. And they began to be merry.

25 Now his elder son was in the field: and as he came and drew nigh to the house, he heard musick and dancing.

26 And he called one of the servants, and asked what these things meant.

27 And he said unto him, Thy brother is come; and thy father hath killed the fatted calf, because he hath received him safe and sound.

28 And he was angry, and would not go in: therefore came his father out, and intreated him.

29 And he answering said to his father, Lo, these many years do I serve thee, neither transgressed I at any time thy commandment: and yet thou never gavest me a kid, that I might make merry with my friends:

30 But as soon as this thy son was come, which hath devoured thy living with harlots, thou hast killed for him the fatted calf.

31 And he said unto him, Son, thou art ever with me, and all that I have is thine.

32 It was meet that we should make merry, and be glad: [k] for this thy brother was dead, and is alive again; and was lost, and is found.

CHAP. XVI.

1 The parable of the unjust steward. 14 Christ reproveth the hypocrisy of the covetous Pharisees. 19 The rich glutton, and Lazarus the beggar.

AND he said also unto his disciples, There was a certain rich man, which had a steward; and the same was accused unto him that he had wasted his goods.

2 And he called him, and said unto him, How is it that I hear this of thee? give an account of thy stewardship; for thou mayest be no longer steward.

3 Then the steward said within himself, What shall I do? for my lord taketh away from me the stewardship: I cannot dig; to beg I am ashamed.

4 I am resolved what to do, that, when I am put out of the stewardship, they may receive me into their houses.

5 So he called every one of his lord's debtors unto him, and said unto the first, How much owest thou unto my lord?

6 And he said, An hundred * measures of oil. And he said unto him, Take thy bill, and sit down quickly, and write fifty.

7 Then said he to another, And how much owest thou? And he said, An hundred † measures of wheat. And he said unto him, Take thy bill, and write fourscore.

8 And the lord commended the unjust steward, because he had done wisely: for the children of this world are in their generation wiser than [a] the children of light.

9 And I say unto you, [b] Make to yourselves friends of the ‡ mammon of unrighteousness; that, when ye fail, they may receive you into everlasting habitations.

10 [c] He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much: and he that is unjust in the least is unjust also in much.

11 If therefore ye have not been faithful in the unrighteous § mammon, who will commit to your trust the true riches?

12 And if ye have not been faithful in that which is another man's, who shall give you that which is your own?

13 ¶ [d] No servant can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon.

14 And the Pharisees also, [e] who were covetous, heard all these things: and they derided him.

15 And he said unto them, Ye are they which [f] justify yourselves before men; but [g] God knoweth your hearts: for [h] that which is highly esteemed among men is abomination in the sight of God.

16 [i] The Law and the Prophets were until John: since that time the kingdom of God is preached, and every man presseth into it.

17 [k] And it is easier for heaven and earth to pass, than one tittle of the law to fail.

18 [l] Whosoever putteth away his wife, and marrieth another, committeth adultery: and whosoever marrieth her that is put away from her husband committeth adultery.

19 ¶ There was a certain rich man, which was clothed in purple, and fine linen, and fared sumptuously every day:

20 And there was a certain beggar named Lazarus, which was laid at his gate, full of sores,

21 And desiring to be fed with the crumbs which fell from the rich man's table: moreover the dogs came and licked his sores.

22 And it came to pass, that the beggar died, and was carried by the angels into Abraham's bosom: the rich man also died, and was buried;

A. D. 33.

23 And in hell he lift up his eyes, being in torments, and seeth Abraham afar off, and Lazarus in his bosom.

24 And he cried and said, Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and send Lazarus, that he may dip the tip of his finger in water, and [m] cool my tongue; for I [n] am tormented in this flame.

25 But Abraham said, Son, [o] remember that thou in thy lifetime receivedst thy good things, and likewise Lazarus evil things: but now he is comforted, and thou art tormented.

26 And beside all this, between us and you there is a great gulf fixed: so that they which would pass from hence to you cannot; neither can they pass to us, that would come from thence.

27 Then he said, I pray thee therefore, father, that thou wouldest send him to my father's house:

28 For I have five brethren; that he may testify unto them, lest they also come into this place of torment.

29 Abraham saith unto him, [p] They have Moses and the prophets; let them hear them.

30 And he said, Nay, father Abraham: but if one went unto them from the dead, they will repent.

31 And he said unto him, If they hear not Moses and the prophets, [q] neither will they be persuaded, though one rose from the dead.

CHAP. XVII.

1 Christ teacheth to avoid occasions of offence. 3 One to forgive another. 6 the power of faith. 7 How we are bound to God, and not he to us. 11 He healeth ten lepers. 22 Of the kingdom of God, and the coming of the Son of man.

[a] THEN said he unto the disciples, It is impossible but that offences will come: but woe unto him, through whom they come!

2 It were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and he cast into the sea, than that he should offend one of these little ones.

3 ¶ Take heed to yourselves: [b] If thy brother trespass against thee, [c] rebuke him; and if he repent, forgive him.

4 And if he trespass against thee seven times in a day, and seven times in a day turn again to thee, saying, I repent; thou shalt forgive him.

5 And the apostles said unto the Lord, Increase our faith.

6 [d] And the Lord said, If ye had faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye might say unto this sycamine tree, Be thou plucked up by the root, and be thou planted in the sea; and it should obey you.

7 But which of you, having a servant plowing or feeding cattle, will say unto him by and by, when he is come from the field, Go and sit down to meat?

8 And will not rather say unto him, Make ready wherewith I may sup, and gird thyself, [e] and serve me, till I have eaten and drunken; and afterward thou shalt eat and drink?

9 Doth he thank that servant because he did the things that were commanded him? I trow not.

10 So likewise ye, when ye shall have done all those things which are commanded you, say, We are [f] unprofitable servants: we have done that which was our duty to do.

11 ¶ And it came to pass, [g] as he went to Jerusalem, that he passed through the midst of Samaria and Galilee.

12 And as he entered into a certain village, there met him ten men that were lepers, [h] which stood afar off:

13 And they lifted up their voices, and said, Jesus, Master, have mercy on us.

14 And when he saw them, he said unto them, [i] Go shew yourselves unto the Priests. And it came to pass, that, as they went, they were cleansed.

15 And one of them, when he saw that he was healed, turned back, and with a loud voice glorified God,

16 And fell down on his face at his feet, giving him thanks: and he was a Samaritan.

17 And Jesus answering said, Were there not ten cleansed? but where are the nine?

18 There are not found that returned to give glory to God, save this stranger.

19 [k] And he said unto him, Arise, go thy way: thy faith hath made thee whole.

20 ¶ And when he was demanded of the Pharisees, when the kingdom of God should come, he answered them and said, The kingdom of God cometh not [o] with observation:

21 [l] Neither shall they say, Lo here! or, lo there! for, behold, [m] the kingdom of God is † within you.

22 And he said unto the disciples, [n] The days will come, when ye shall desire to see one of the days of the Son of man, and ye shall not see it.

23 [o] And they shall say to you, See here; or, see there: go not after them, nor follow them.

24 [p] For as the lightning, that lighteneth out of the one part under heaven, shineth unto the other part under heaven; so shall also the Son of man be in his day.

25 [q] But first must he suffer many things, and be rejected of this generation.

26 [r] And as it was in the days of Noe, so shall it be also in the days of the Son of man.

27 They did eat, they drank, they married wives, they were given in marriage, until the day that Noe entered into the ark, and the flood came, and destroyed them all.

28 [s] Likewise also as it was in the days of Lot; they did eat, they drank, they bought, they sold, they planted, they builded;

29 But [t] the same day that Lot went out of Sodom it rained fire and brimstone from heaven, and destroyed them all.

30 Even thus shall it be in the day when the Son of man [u] is revealed.

31 In that day, he [x] which shall be upon the housetop, and his stuff in the house, let him not come down to take it away: and a Matt. 21. 23. AND [a] it came to pass, that on one of those days, as he taught the people in the temple, and preached the Gospel, the Chief Priests and the Scribes came upon him with the elders, b Acts 4. 7. & 7. 27. 2 And spake unto him, saying, Tell us, [b] by what authority doest thou these things? or who is he that gave thee this authority?

3 And he answered and said unto them, I will also ask you one thing; and answer me:

4 The baptism of John, was it from heaven, or of men?

5 And they reasoned with themselves, saying, If we shall say, From heaven; he will say, Why then believed ye him not?

c Matt. 14. 5. & 21. 26. ch. 7. 29. 6 But and if we say, Of men; all the people will stone us: [c] for they be persuaded that John was a prophet.

8 And Jesus said unto them, Neither tell I you by what authority I do these things.

d Matt. 21. 33. Mark 12. 1. 9 Then began he to speak to the people this parable; [d] A certain man planted a vineyard, and let it forth to husbandmen, and went into a far country for a long time.

10 And at the season he sent a servant to the husbandmen, that they should give him of the fruit of the vineyard: but the husbandmen beat him, and sent him away empty.

11 And again he sent another servant: A. D. 33. and they beat him also, and entreated him shamefully, and sent him away empty.

12 And again he sent a third: and they wounded him also, and cast him out.

13 Then said the lord of the vineyard, What shall I do? I will send my beloved son: it may be they will reverence him when they see him.

14 But when the husbandmen saw him, they reasoned among themselves, saying, This is the heir: come, let us kill him, that the inheritance may be our's.

15 So they cast him out of the vineyard, and killed him. What therefore shall the lord of the vineyard do unto them?

16 He shall come and destroy these husbandmen, and shall give the vineyard to others. And when they heard it, they said, God forbid.

17 And he beheld them, and said, What is this then that is written, [e] The stone which the builders rejected, the same is become the head of the corner?

5 ¶ [c] And as some spake of the temple, how it was adorned with goodly stones and gifts, he said,

9 But when ye shall hear of wars and commotions, be not terrified: for these things must first come to pass; but the end is not by and by.

A.D. 33.

32 But [e] I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not: [f] and when thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren.

33 And he said unto him, Lord, I am ready to go with thee, both into prison, and to death.

34 [g] And he said, I tell thee, Peter, the cock shall not crow this day, before that thou shalt thrice deny that thou knowest me.

35 [h] And he said unto them, When I sent you without purse, and scrip, and shoes, lacked ye any thing? And they said, Nothing.

36 Then said he unto them, But now, he that hath a purse, let him take it, and likewise his scrip: and he that hath no sword, let him sell his garment, and buy one.

37 For I say unto you, that this that is written must yet be accomplished in me, [i] And he was reckoned among the transgressors: for the things concerning me have an end.

38 And they said, Lord, behold, here are two swords. And he said unto them, It is enough.

39 ¶ [k] And he came out, and [l] went, as he was wont, to the mount of Olives; and his disciples also followed him.

40 [m] And when he was at the place, he said unto them, Pray that ye enter not into temptation.

41 [n] And he was withdrawn from them about a stone's cast, and kneeled down, and prayed,

42 Saying, Father, if thou be ‡ willing, remove this cup from me: nevertheless [o] not my will, but thine, be done.

43 And there appeared [p] an angel unto him from heaven, strengthening him.

44 [q] And being in an agony he prayed more earnestly: and his sweat was as it were great drops of blood falling down to the ground.

45 And when he rose up from prayer, and was come to his disciples, he found them sleeping for sorrow,

46 And said unto them, Why sleep ye? rise and [r] pray, lest ye enter into temptation.

47 ¶ And while he yet spake, [s] behold a multitude, and he that was called Judas, one of the twelve, went before them, and drew near unto Jesus to kiss him.

48 But Jesus said unto him, Judas, betrayest thou the Son of man with a kiss?

49 When they which were about him saw what would follow, they said unto him, Lord, shall we smite with the sword?

50 ¶ And [t] one of them smote the servant of the High Priest, and cut off his right ear.

51 And Jesus answered and said, Suffer ye thus far. And he touched his ear, and healed him.

52 [u] Then Jesus said unto the Chief Priests, and captains of the temple, and the elders, which were come to him, Be ye come out, as against a thief, with swords and staves?

53 When I was daily with you in the temple, ye stretched forth no hands against me: [x] but this is your hour, and the power of darkness.

54 ¶ [y] Then took they him, and led him, and brought him into the High Priest's house. [z] And Peter followed afar off.

55 [a] And when they had kindled a fire in the midst of the hall, and were set down together, Peter sat down among them.

56 But a certain maid beheld him as he sat by the fire, and earnestly looked upon him, and said, This man was also with him.

57 And he denied him, saying, Woman, I know him not.

58 [b] And after a little while another saw him, and said, Thou art also of them. And Peter said, Man, I am not.

59 [c] And about the space of one hour after another confidently affirmed, saying, Of a truth this fellow also was with him: for he is a Galilæan.

60 And Peter said, Man, I know not what thou sayest. And immediately, while he yet spake, the cock crew.

61 And the Lord turned, and looked upon Peter. [d] And Peter remembered the word of the Lord, how he had said unto him, [e] Before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice.

62 And Peter went out, and wept bitterly.

63 ¶ [f] And the men that held Jesus mocked him, and smote him.

64 And when they had blindfolded him, they struck him on the face, and asked him, saying, Prophesy, who is it that smote thee?

65 And many other things blasphemously spake they against him.

66 ¶ [g] And as soon as it was day, [h] the elders of the people and the Chief Priests and the Scribes came together, and led him into their council, saying,

67 [i] Art thou the Christ? tell us. And he said unto them, If I tell you, ye will not believe:

68 And if I also ask you, ye will not answer me, nor let me go.

69 [k] Hereafter shall the Son of man sit on the right hand of the power of God.

70 Then said they all, Art thou then the Son of God? And he said unto them, [l] Ye say that I am.

71 [m] And they said, What need we any further witness? for we ourselves have heard of his own mouth.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 Jesus is accused before Pilate, and sent to Herod. 8 Herod mocketh him. 12 Herod and Pilate are made friends. 13 Barabbas is desired of the people, and is loosed by Pilate, and Jesus is given to be crucified. 27 He telleth the women, that lament him, the destruction of Jerusalem: 34 prayeth for his enemies. 39 Two evildoers are crucified with him. 46 His death. 50 His burial.

AND [a] the whole multitude of them arose, and led him unto Pilate.

2 And they began to accuse him, saying, We found this fellow [b] perverting the nation, and [c] forbidding to give tribute to Cæsar, saying [d] that he himself is Christ a king.

3 [e] And Pilate asked him, saying, Art thou the King of the Jews? And he answered him and said, Thou sayest it.

4 Then said Pilate to the Chief Priests and to the people, [f] I find no fault in this man.

5 And they were the more fierce, saying, He stirreth up the people, teaching throughout all Jewry, beginning from Galilee to this place.

A. D. 33.

6 When Pilate heard of Galilee, he asked whether the man were a Galilæan.

7 And as soon as he knew that he belonged unto [g] Herod's jurisdiction, he sent him to Herod, who himself also was at Jerusalem at that time.

8 ¶ And when Herod saw Jesus, he was exceeding glad: for [h] he was desirous to see him of a long season, because [i] he had heard many things of him; and he hoped to have seen some miracle done by him.

9 Then he questioned with him in many words; but he answered him nothing.

10 And the Chief Priests and Scribes stood and vehemently accused him.

11 [k] And Herod with his men of war set him at nought, and mocked him, and arrayed him in a gorgeous robe, and sent him again to Pilate.

12 ¶ And the same day [l] Pilate and Herod were made friends together: for before they were at enmity between themselves.

13 ¶ [m] And Pilate, when he had called together the Chief Priests and the rulers and the people,

14 Said unto them, [n] Ye have brought this man unto me, as one that perverteth the people: and, behold, [o] I, having examined him before you, have found no fault in this man touching those things whereof ye accuse him:

15 No, nor yet Herod: for I sent you to him; and, lo, nothing worthy of death is done unto him.

16 [p] I will therefore chastise him, and release him.

17 [q] (For of necessity he must release one unto them at the feast.)

18 And [r] they cried out all at once, saying, Away with this man, and release unto us Barabbas:

19 (Who for a certain sedition made in the city, and for murder, was cast into prison.)

20 Pilate therefore, willing to release Jesus, spake again to them.

21 But they cried, saying, Crucify him, crucify him.

22 And he said unto them the third time, Why, what evil hath he done? I have found no cause of death in him: I will therefore chastise him, and let him go.

23 And they were instant with loud voices, requiring that he might be crucified. And the voices of them and of the Chief Priests prevailed.

24 And [s] Pilate * gave sentence that it should be as they required.

25 And he released unto them him that for sedition and murder was cast into prison, whom they had desired; but he delivered Jesus to their will.

26 [t] And as they led him away, they laid hold upon one Simon, a Cyrenian, coming out of the country, and on him they laid the cross, that he might bear it after Jesus.

27 ¶ And there followed him a great company of people, and of women, which also bewailed and lamented him.

28 But Jesus turning unto them said, Daughters of Jerusalem, weep not for me, but weep for yourselves, and for your children.

29 [u] For, behold, the days are coming, in the which they shall say, Blessed are the barren, and the wombs that never bare, and the paps which never gave suck.

30 [x] Then shall they begin to say to the mountains, Fall on us; and to the hills, Cover us.

31 [y] For if they do these things in a green tree, what shall be done in the dry?

32 [z] And there were also two other, malefactors, led with him to be put to death.

33 And [a] when they were come to the place, which is called † Calvary, there they crucified him, and the malefactors, one on the right hand, and the other on the left.

34 ¶ Then said Jesus, Father, [b] forgive them; for [c] they know not what they do. And [d] they parted his raiment, and cast lots.

35 And [e] the people stood beholding. And the [f] rulers also with them derided him, saying, He saved others; let him save himself, if he be Christ, the chosen of God.

36 And the soldiers also mocked him, coming to him, and offering him vinegar, 37 And saying, If thou be the king of the Jews, save thyself.

38 [g] And a superscription also was written over him in letters of Greek, and Latin, and Hebrew, THIS IS THE KING OF THE JEWS.

39 ¶ [h] And one of the malefactors which were hanged railed on him, saying, If thou be Christ, save thyself and us.

40 But the other answering rebuked him, saying, Dost not thou fear God, seeing thou art in the same condemnation?

41 And we indeed justly; for we receive the due reward of our deeds: but this man hath done nothing amiss.

42 And he said unto Jesus, Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom.

43 And Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, To day shalt thou be with me in paradise.

44 [i] And it was about the sixth hour, and there was a darkness over all the ‡ earth until the ninth hour.

45 And the sun was darkened, and [k] the veil of the temple was rent in the midst.

46 ¶ And when Jesus had cried with a loud voice, he said, [l] Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit: [m] and having said thus, he gave up the ghost.

47 [n] Now when the centurion saw what was done, he glorified God, saying, Certainly this was a righteous man.

48 And all the people that came together to that sight, beholding the things which were done, smote their breasts, and returned.

49 [o] And all his acquaintance, and the women that followed him from Galilee, stood afar off, beholding these things.

50 ¶ [p] And, behold, there was a man named Joseph, a counsellor; and he was a good man, and a just:

51 (The same had not consented to the counsel and deed of them;) he was of Ari-mathæa, a city of the Jews: [q] who also himself waited for the kingdom of God.

52 This man went unto Pilate, and begged the body of Jesus.

53 [r] And he took it down, and wrapped it in linen, and laid it in a sepulchre that was hewn in stone, wherein never man before was laid.

54 And that day was [s] the preparation, and the sabbath drew on.

55 And the women also, [t] which came with him from Galilee, followed after, and [u] beheld the sepulchre, and how his body was laid.

56 And they returned, and [x] prepared spices and ointments; and rested the sabbath day [y] according to the commandment.

CHAP. XXIV.

Christ's resurrection is declared by two angels to the women that came to the sepulchre. 9 Their report is to others. 13 Christ himself appeareth to the two disciples that went to Emmaus; 36 afterwards he appeareth to the apostles, and reproveth their unbelief; 47 giveth them a charge; 49 promiseth the Holy Ghost; 51 and so ascendeth into heaven.

NOW [a] upon the first day of the week, very early in the morning, they came unto the sepulchre, [b] bringing the spices which they had prepared, and certain others with them.

2 [c] And they found the stone rolled away from the sepulchre.

3 [d] And they entered in, and found not the body of the Lord Jesus.

4 And it came to pass, as they were much perplexed thereabout, [e] behold, two men stood by them in shining garments:

5 And as they were afraid, and bowed down their faces to the earth, they said unto them, Why seek ye [*] the living among the dead?

6 He is not here, but is risen: [f] remember how he spake unto you when he was yet in Galilee,

7 Saying, The Son of man must be delivered into the hands of sinful men, and be crucified, and the third day rise again.

8 And [g] they remembered his words,

9 [h] And returned from the sepulchre, and told all these things unto the eleven, and to all the rest.

10 It was Mary Magdalene, and [i] Joanna, and Mary the mother of James, and other women that were with them, which told these things unto the apostles.

11 [k] And their words seemed to them as idle tales, and they believed them not.

12 [l] Then arose Peter, and ran unto the sepulchre; and stooping down, he beheld the linen clothes laid by themselves, and departed, wondering in himself at that which was come to pass.

13 ¶ [m] And, behold, two of them went that same day to a village called Emmaus, which was from Jerusalem about threescore furlongs.

14 And they talked together of all these things which had happened.

15 And it came to pass, that, while they communed together and reasoned, [n] Jesus himself drew near, and went with them.

16 But [o] their eyes were holden that they should not know him.

17 And he said unto them, What manner of communications are these that ye have one to another, as ye walk, and are sad?

18 And the one of them, [p] whose name was Cleopas, answering said unto him, Art thou only a stranger in Jerusalem, and hast not known the things which are come to pass there in these days?

19 And he said unto them, What things? And they said unto him, Concerning Jesus of Nazareth, [q] which was a prophet [r] mighty in deed and word before God and all the people:

20 [s] And how the Chief Priests and our rulers delivered him to be condemned to death, and have crucified him.

21 But we trusted [t] that it had been he which should have redeemed Israel: and beside all this, to day is the third day since these things were done.

22 Yea, and [u] certain women also of our company made us astonished, which were early at the sepulchre;

23 And when they found not his body they came, saying, that they had also seen a vision of angels, which said that he was alive.

24 And [x] certain of them which were with us went to the sepulchre, and found it even so as the women had said: but him they saw not.

25 Then he said unto them, O fools, and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken:

26 [y] Ought not Christ to have suffered these things, and to enter into his glory?

27 [z] And beginning at [a] Moses and [b] all the prophets, he expounded unto them in all the Scriptures the things concerning himself.

28 And they drew nigh unto the village, whither they went: and [c] he made as though he would have gone further.

29 But [d] they constrained him, saying, Abide with us: for it is toward evening, and the day is far spent. And he went in to tarry with them.

30 And it came to pass, as he sat at meat with them, [e] he took bread, and blessed it, and brake, and gave to them.

31 And their eyes were opened, and they knew him; and he † vanished out of their sight.

32 And they said one to another, Did not our heart burn within us, while he talked with us by the way, and while he opened to us the Scriptures?

33 And they rose up the same hour, and returned to Jerusalem, and found the eleven gathered together, and them that were with them, 34 Saying, The Lord is risen indeed, and [f] hath appeared to Simon.

35 And they told what things were done in the way, and how he was known of them in breaking of bread.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO ST. JOHN.—The writer of this Gospel was the son of Zebedee, a fisherman of Galilee. The name of his mother was Salome. His parents are supposed to have been natives of Bethsaida, being on the sea of Galilee, where Zebedee, with his two sons, James and John, followed their occupation as fishermen. The latter is supposed to have been about twenty-five years old when he first followed our Lord.

"The precise time when this Gospel was written has not been ascertained. The most probable opinion seems to be that it was after John's return from exile in the isle of Patmos, whither, as we learn from himself, he had been banished, 'for the word of God and the testimony of Jesus.' This probably happened in the persecution under the Emperor Domitian. It was on that island where God made those revelations to him, which were collected by him into a book, thence called the APOCALYPSE or Revelation. The last of his works is thought to have been his Gospel, which the entreaties of the christian people and pastors of Ephesus and of other parts of Asia Minor, where he had his residence, in the latter part of his life, prevailed on him to undertake. If so, it must have been towards the close of the first century when this Gospel first appeared in the Church; and it was in the beginning of the second when the above-named Ignatius wrote his Epistles. There are also in Justin Martyr both references to this Gospel, and quotations from it, though without naming the author. Tatian took notice of this evangelist by name, and used his gospel along with the rest in composing his Diatessaron. I need scarcely mention the notice that is taken of it in the epistle of the Church of Vienne and Lyons, or by Irenæus, who names all the evangelists, specifying something peculiar to every one of them whereby he may be distinguished from the rest.

"The account which Irenæus gives of the occasion of writing the Gospel is as follows: 'John, desirous to extirpate the errors sown in the minds of men by Cerinthus, and sometime before by those called Nicolaitans, published his gospel, wherein he acquaints us that there is one God who made all things by his word; and not, as they say, one who is the Creator of the world, and another who is the father of our Lord; one the son of the Creator, and another the Christ from the super-celestial abodes, who descended upon Jesus, the son of the Creator, but remained impassable, and afterwards flew back into his own pleroma or fulness.' Again; 'This disciple, therefore, willing at once to cut off those errors, and establish a rule of truth in the Church, declares that there is one God Almighty who, by his word, made all things visible and invisible; and that by the same word, by which God finished the work of creation, he bestowed salvation upon men who inhabit the creation. With this doctrine he ushers in his gospel: In the beginning was the Word,' &c. This testimony is of great antiquity, having been given in less than a century after the publication of the Gospel. As Irenæus, however, names no authority, and quotes no preceding writer in support of what he had advanced in relation to the design of the Evangelist, it can only be considered by us as on the footing of ancient tradition.

"Clement of Alexandria, who wrote not long after Irenæus, has, as we learn from Eusebius, added some particulars, as what, in his opinion, together with the entreaties of the Asiatic Churches, contributed not a little to induce John to compose his Gospel. The first he mentions is, that the Evangelists who had preceded him had taken little notice of our Lord's teaching and actions soon after the commencement of his ministry, and before the imprisonment of John the Baptist. One consideration, therefore, which induced him, though late, to publish a Gospel, was to supply what seemed to have been omitted by those who had gone before him. For this reason he avoided, as much as possible, recurring to those passages of our Lord's history of which the preceding Evangelists had given an account. There was no occasion therefore for him to give the genealogy of our Saviour's flesh, as the historian expresses it, which had been done by Matthew and Luke before him. The same Eusebius says in another place, quoting Clement, 'John, who is the last of the Evangelists, having seen that in three former Gospels corporeal things had been explained, and being urged by his acquaintance, and inspired by God, composed a spiritual Gospel.' Thus it appears to have been a very early tradition in the Church that this Gospel was composed, not only to supply what had not been fully communicated in the former Gospels, but also to serve for refuting the errors of Cerinthus and the Gnostics.

"The apostle John, by the concurrent testimony of all Christian antiquity, after suffering persecution for the cause of Christ, lived to a very great age, and, having survived all the other apostles, died a natural death at Ephesus in Asia Minor, in the reign of the Emperor Trajan."—Dr. Campbell.

CHAP. I. Ver. 1. In the beginning.—Before anything was created. Was the Word.—The second person in the sacred Trinity, which was from all eternity. And the Word was God.—Coequal, coessential, coeternal with the Father; therefore God.

Ver. 4. In him was life.—"In him was eternal life, as he first brought it to light through the Gospel." Dr Whithy. And the life was the light of men.—That eternal life which was in him he revealed to the world, and thus was the light of men by being the cause in them of that spiritual knowledge which maketh "wise unto salvation."

Ver. 7. That all men through him might believe.—That through his testimony all men might be satisfied that the true light, or the Messiah, was come into the world.

Ver. 9. Which lighteth.—Which enlighteneth every man with the saving knowledge of evangelical truth.

Ver. 10. The world knew him not.—Did not acknowledge him.

11 [n] He came unto his own, and his own received him not.

12 But [o] as many as received him, to them gave he [*] power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name:

13 [p] Which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God.

14 [q] And the Word [r] was made [s] flesh, and dwelt among us, (and [t] we beheld his glory, as of the only begotten of the Father,) [u] full of grace and truth.

15 ¶ [x] John bare witness of him, and cried, saying, This was he of whom I spake, [y] He that cometh after me is preferred before me: [z] for he was before me.

16 And of his [a] fulness have all we received, and grace for grace.

17 For [b] the law was given by Moses, but [c] grace and [d] truth came by Jesus Christ.

18 [e] No man hath seen God at any time; [f] the only begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared him.

19 ¶ And this is [g] the record of John, when the Jews sent Priests and Levites from Jerusalem to ask him, Who art thou?

20 And [h] he confessed, and denied not; but confessed, I am not the Christ.

21 And they asked him, What then? Art thou [i] Elias? And he saith, I am not. Art thou [k] † that prophet? And he answered, No.

22 Then said they unto him, Who art thou? that we may give an answer to them that sent us. What sayest thou of thyself?

23 [l] He said, I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness, Make straight the way of the Lord, as [m] said the prophet Esaias.

24 And they which were sent were of the Pharisees.

25 And they asked him, and said unto him, Why baptizest thou then, if thou be not that Christ, nor Elias, neither that prophet?

26 John answered them, saying, [n] I baptize with water: [o] but there standeth one among you, whom ye know not;

27 [p] He it is, who coming after me is preferred before me, whose shoe's latchet I am not worthy to unloose.

28 These things were done [q] in Bethabara beyond Jordan, where John was baptizing.

29 ¶ The next day John seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith, Behold [r] the Lamb of God, [s] which ‡ taketh away the sin of the world.

30 [t] This is he of whom I said, After me cometh a man which is preferred before me: for he was before me.

31 And I knew him not: but that he should be made manifest to Israel, [u] therefore am I come baptizing with water.

32 [x] And John bare record, saying, I saw the Spirit descending from heaven like a dove, and it abode upon him.

33 And I knew him not: but he that sent me to baptize with water, the same said unto me, Upon whom thou shalt see the Spirit descending, and remaining on him, [y] the same is he which baptizeth with the Holy Ghost.

34 And I saw, and bare record that this is the Son of God.

35 ¶ Again the next day after John stood, and two of his disciples;

36 And looking upon Jesus as he walked, he saith, [z] Behold the Lamb of God!

37 And the two disciples heard him speak, and they followed Jesus.

38 Then Jesus turned, and saw them following, and saith unto them, What seek ye? They said unto him, Rabbi, (which is to say, being interpreted, Master,) where § dwellest thou?

39 He saith unto them, Come and see. They came and saw where he dwelt, and abode with him that day: for it was ‖ about the tenth hour.

40 One of the two which heard John speak, and followed him, was [a] Andrew, Simon Peter's brother.

41 He first findeth his own brother Simon, and saith unto him, We have found the Messias, which is, being interpreted, [b] the Christ.

42 And he brought him to Jesus. And when Jesus beheld him, he said, Thou art Simon the son of Jona: [c] thou shalt be called Cephas, which is by interpretation, † A stone.

43 ¶ The day following Jesus would go forth into Galilee, and findeth Philip, and saith unto him, Follow me.

44 Now [d] Philip was of Bethsaida, the city of Andrew and Peter.

45 Philip findeth [e] Nathanael, and saith unto him, We have found him, of whom [f] Moses in the Law, and the [g] Prophets, did write, Jesus [h] of Nazareth, the son of Joseph.

46 And Nathanael said unto him, [i] Can there any good thing come out of Nazareth? Philip saith unto him, Come and see.

47 Jesus saw Nathanael coming to him, and saith of him, Behold, [k] an Israelite indeed, in whom is no guile!

48 Nathanael saith unto him, Whence knowest thou me? Jesus answered and said unto him, Before that Philip called thee, when thou wast under the fig tree, I saw thee.

49 Nathanael answered and saith unto him, Rabbi, [l] thou art the Son of God; thou art [m] the King of Israel.

50 Jesus answered and said unto him, Because I said unto thee, I saw thee under the fig tree, believest thou? thou shalt see greater things than these.

51 And he saith unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto you, [n] Hereafter ye shall see heaven open, and the angels of God ascending and descending upon the Son of man.

13 Jesus answered and said unto her, Whosoever drinketh of this water shall thirst again:

3 In these lay a great multitude of impotent folk, of blind, halt, withered, waiting for the moving of the water.

4 For an angel went down at a certain season into the pool, and troubled the water: whosoever then first after the troubling of the water stepped in was made whole of whatsoever disease he had.

5 And a certain man was there, which had an infirmity thirty and eight years.

6 When Jesus saw him lie, and knew that he had been now a long time in that case, he saith unto him, Wilt thou be made whole?

7 The impotent man answered him, Sir, I have no man, when the water is troubled, to put me into the pool: but while I am coming, another steppeth down before me.

that was cured, It is the sabbath day: [c] it is not lawful for thee to carry thy bed.

11 He answered them, He that made me whole, the same said unto me, Take up thy bed, and walk.

12 Then asked they him, What man is that which said unto thee, Take up thy bed, and walk?

13 And he that was healed wist not who it was: for Jesus had conveyed himself away, †a multitude being in that place.

14 Afterward Jesus findeth him in the temple, and said unto him, Behold, thou art made whole: [f] sin no more, lest a worse thing come unto thee

15 The man departed, and told the Jews that it was Jesus, which had made him whole.

16 And therefore did the Jews persecute Jesus, and sought to slay him, because he had done these things on the sabbath day.

17 ¶ But Jesus answered them, [g] My Father worketh hitherto, and I work.

18 Therefore the Jews [h] sought the more to kill him, because he not only had broken the sabbath, but said also that God was his Father, [i] making himself equal with God.

19 Then answered Jesus and said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, [k] The Son can do nothing of himself, but what he seeth the Father do: for what things soever he doeth, these also doeth the Son likewise.

20 For [l] the Father loveth the Son, and sheweth him all things that himself doeth: and he will shew him greater works than these, that ye may marvel.

21 For as the Father raiseth up the dead, and quickeneth them; [m] even so the Son quickeneth whom he will.

22 For the Father judgeth no man, but [n] hath committed all judgment unto the Son:

23 That all men should honour the Son, even as they honour the Father. [o] He that honoureth not the Son honoureth not the Father which hath sent him.

24 Verily, verily, I say unto you, [p] He that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; [q] but is passed from death unto life.

25 Verily, verily, I say unto you, The hour is coming, and now is, when [r] the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God: and they that hear shall live.

26 For as the Father hath life in himself; so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself;

27 And [s] hath given him authority to execute judgment also, [t] because he is the Son of man.

28 Marvel not at this: for the hour is coming, in the which all that are in the graves shall hear his voice,

29 [u] And shall come forth; [x] they that have done good, unto the resurrection of life; and they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of damnation.

30 [y] I can of mine own self do nothing: as I hear, I judge: and my judgment is just; because [z] I seek not mine own will, but the will of the Father which hath sent me.

31 [a] If I bear witness of myself, my witness is not true.

32 ¶ [b] There is another that beareth witness of me; and I know that the witness which he witnesseth of me is true.

33 Ye sent unto John, [c] and he bare witness unto the truth.

34 But I receive not testimony from man: but these things I say, that ye might be saved.

35 He was a burning and [d] a shining light: and [e] ye were willing for a season to rejoice in his light.

36 ¶ But [f] I have greater witness than that of John: for [g] the works which the Father hath given me to finish, the same works that I do, bear witness of me, that the Father hath sent me.

37 And the Father himself, which hath sent me, [h] hath borne witness of me. Ye have neither heard his voice at any time, [i] nor seen his shape.

38 And ye have not his word abiding in you: for whom he hath sent, him ye believe not.

39 ¶ [k] Search the Scriptures; for in them ye think ye have eternal life: and [l] they are they which testify of me.

40 [m] And ye will not come to me, that ye might have life.

41 [n] I receive not honour from men.

42 But I know you, that ye have not the love of God in you.

43 I am come in my Father's name, and ye receive me not: if another shall come in his own name, him ye will receive.

44 [o] How can ye believe, which receive honour one of another, and seek not [p] the honour that cometh from God only?

45 Do not think that I will accuse you to the Father: [q] there is one that accuseth you, even Moses, in whom ye trust.

46 For had ye believed Moses, ye would have believed me: [r] for he wrote of me.

47 But if ye believe not his writings, how shall ye believe my words?

8 One of his disciples, Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, saith unto him,

9 There is a lad here, which hath five [e] 2 Kin. 4. 43. barley loaves, and two small fishes: [e] but what are they among so many?

10 And Jesus said, Make the men sit down. Now there was much grass in the place. So the men sat down, in number about five thousand.

11 And Jesus took the loaves; and when he had given thanks, he distributed to the disciples, and the disciples to them that were set down; and likewise of the fishes as much as they would.

12 When they were filled, he said unto his disciples, Gather up the fragments that remain, that nothing be lost.

13 Therefore they gathered them together, and filled twelve baskets with the fragments of the five barley loaves, which remained over and above unto them that had eaten.

18 And the sea arose by reason of a great wind that blew.

19 So when they had rowed about five and twenty or thirty furlongs, they see Jesus walking on the sea, and drawing nigh unto the ship: and they were afraid.

20 But he saith unto them, It is I; be not afraid.

21 Then they willingly received him into the ship: and immediately the ship was at the land whither they went.

22 ¶ The day following, when the people which stood on the other side of the sea saw that there was none other boat there, save that one whereinto his disciples were entered, and that Jesus went not with his disciples into the boat, but that his disciples were gone away alone;

23 (Howbeit there came other boats from Tiberias nigh unto the place where they did eat bread, after that the Lord had given thanks:)

24 When the people therefore saw that Jesus was not there, neither his disciples, they also took shipping, and came to Capernaum, seeking for Jesus.

A. D. 31. 25 And when they had found him on the other side of the sea, they said unto him, Rabbi, when camest thou hither?

man therefore that hath heard, and hath learned of the Father, cometh unto me.

46 [e]Not that any man hath seen the Father, [f]save he which is of God, he hath seen the Father.

47 Verily, verily, I say unto you, [g]He that believeth on me hath everlasting life.

48 [h]I am that bread of life.

49 [i]Your fathers did eat manna in the wilderness, and are dead.

50 [k]This is the bread which cometh down from heaven, that a man may eat thereof, and not die.

51 I am the living bread [l]which came down from heaven: if any man eat of this bread, he shall live for ever: and [m]the bread that I will give is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world.

52 The Jews therefore [n]strove among themselves, saying, [o]How can this man give us his flesh to eat?

53 Then Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Except [p]ye eat the flesh of the Son of man, and drink his blood, ye have no life in you.

54 [q]Whoso eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, hath eternal life; and I will raise him up at the last day.

55 For my flesh is meat indeed, and my blood is drink indeed.

56 He that eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, [r]dwelleth in me, and I in him.

57 As the living Father hath sent me, and I live by the Father: so he that eateth me, even he shall live by me.

58 [s]This is that bread which came down from heaven: not as your fathers did eat manna, and are dead: he that eateth of this bread shall live for ever.

59 These things said he in the synagogue, as he taught in Capernaum.

60 [t]Many therefore of his disciples, when they had heard this, said, This is an hard saying; who can hear it?

61 When Jesus knew in himself that his disciples murmured at it, he said unto them, Doth this offend you?

62 [u]What and if ye shall see the Son of man ascend up where he was before?

63 [x]It is the Spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing: the words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life.

64 But [y]there are some of you that believe not. For [z]Jesus knew from the beginning who they were that believed not, and who should betray him.

65 And he said, Therefore [a]said I unto you, that no man can come unto me, except it were given unto him of my Father.

66 ¶ [b]From that time many of his disciples went back, and walked no more with him.

67 Then said Jesus unto the twelve, Will ye also go away?

68 Then Simon Peter answered him, Lord, to whom shall we go? thou hast [c]the words of eternal life.

69 [d]And we believe and are sure that thou art that Christ, the Son of the living God.

70 Jesus answered them, [e]Have not I chosen you twelve, [f]and one of you is a devil?

71 He spake of Judas Iscariot the son of Simon: for he it was that should betray him, being one of the twelve.

CHAP. VII.

1 Jesus reproveth the ambition and boldness of his kinsmen; 10 goeth up from Galilee to the feast of tabernacles: 14 teacheth in the temple. 40 Divers opinions of him among the people. 45 The Pharisees are angry that their officers took him not, and chide with Nicodemus for taking his part.

AFTER these things Jesus walked in Galilee: for he would not walk in Jewry, [a]because the Jews sought to kill him.

2 [b]Now the Jews' feast of tabernacles was at hand.

3 [c]His brethren therefore said unto him, Depart hence, and go into Judæa, that thy disciples also may see the works that thou doest.

4 For there is no man that doeth any thing in secret, and he himself seeketh to be known openly. If thou do these things, shew thyself to the world.

5 For [d]neither did his brethren believe in him.

6 Then Jesus said unto them, [e]My time is not yet come: but your time is alway ready.

7 [f]The world cannot hate you; but me it hateth, [g]because I testify of it, that the works thereof are evil.

8 Go ye up unto this feast: I go not up yet unto this feast; [h]for my time is not yet full come.

9 When he had said these words unto them, he abode still in Galilee.

10 ¶ But when his brethren were gone up, then went he also up unto the feast, not openly, but as it were in secret.

11 Then [i]the Jews sought him at the feast, and said, Where is he?

12 And [k]there was much murmuring among the people concerning him: for [l]some said, He is a good man: others said, Nay; but he deceiveth the people.

13 Howbeit no man spake openly of him [m]for fear of the Jews.

14 ¶ Now about the midst of the feast Jesus went up into the temple, and taught.

15 [n]And the Jews marvelled, saying, How knoweth this man [o]letters, having never learned?

16 Jesus answered them, and said, [p]My doctrine is not mine, but his that sent me.

17 [p]If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of myself.

18 [q]He that speaketh of himself seeketh his own glory: but he that seeketh his glory that sent him, the same is true, and no unrighteousness is in him.

19 [r]Did not Moses give you the law, and yet none of you keepeth the law? [s]Why go ye about to kill me?

20 The people answered and said, [t]Thou hast a devil: who goeth about to kill thee?

21 Jesus answered and said unto them, I have done one work, and ye all marvel.

22 [u] Moses therefore gave unto you circumcision; (not because it is of Moses, [x] but of the fathers;) and ye on the sabbath day circumcise a man.

23 If a man on the sabbath day receive circumcision, † that the law of Moses should not be broken; are ye angry at me, because [y] I have made a man every whit whole on the sabbath day?

24 [z] Judge not according to the appearance, but judge righteous judgment.

25 Then said some of them of Jerusalem, Is not this he, whom they seek to kill?

26 But, lo, he speaketh boldly, and they say nothing unto him. [a] Do the rulers know indeed that this is the very Christ?

27 [b] Howbeit we know this man whence he is: but when Christ cometh, no man knoweth whence he is.

28 Then cried Jesus in the temple as he taught, saying, [c] Ye both know me, and ye know whence I am: and [d] I am not come of myself, but he that sent me [e] is true, [f] whom ye know not.

29 But [g] I know him: for I am from him, and he hath sent me.

30 Then [h] they sought to take him: but [i] no man laid hands on him, because his hour was not yet come.

31 And [k] many of the people believed on him, and said, When Christ cometh, will he do more miracles than these which this man hath done?

32 ¶ The Pharisees heard that the people murmured such things concerning him; and the Pharisees and the Chief Priests sent officers to take him.

33 Then said Jesus unto them, [l] Yet a little while am I with you, and then I go unto him that sent me.

34 Ye [m] shall seek me, and shall not find me: and where I am, thither ye cannot come.

35 Then said the Jews among themselves, Whither will he go, that we shall not find him? will he go unto [n] the dispersed among the ‡ Gentiles, and teach the Gentiles?

36 What manner of saying is this, that he said, Ye shall seek me, and shall not find me: and where I am, thither ye cannot come?

37 [o] In the last day, that great day of the feast, Jesus stood and cried, saying, [p] If any man thirst, let him come unto me, and drink.

38 [q] He that believeth on me, as the Scripture hath said, [r] out of his belly shall flow rivers of living water.

39 (‖ But this spake he of the Spirit, which they that believe on him should receive: for the Holy Ghost was not yet given; because that Jesus was not yet [t] glorified.)

40 ¶ Many of the people therefore, when they heard this saying, said, Of a truth this is [u] the Prophet.

41 Others said, [x] This is the Christ. But some said, Shall Christ come [y] out of Galilee?

42 [z] Hath not the Scripture said, That Christ cometh of the seed of David, and out of the town of Bethlehem, [a] where David was?

43 So [b] there was a division among the people because of him.

44 And [c] some of them would have taken him; but no man laid hands on him.

45 ¶ Then came the officers to the Chief Priests and Pharisees; and they said unto them, Why have ye not brought him?

46 The officers answered, [d] Never man spake like this man.

47 Then answered them the Pharisees, Are ye also deceived.

48 [e] Have any of the rulers or of the Pharisees believed on him?

49 But this people who knoweth not the law are cursed.

50 Nicodemus saith unto them, ([f] he that came § to Jesus by night, being one of them,)

51 [g] Doth our law judge any man, before it hear him, and know what he doeth?

52 They answered and said unto him, Art thou also of Galilee? Search, and look: for [h] out of Galilee ariseth no prophet.

53 And every man went unto his own house.

1 Christ delivereth the woman taken in adultery. 12 He preacheth himself the light of the world, and justifieth his doctrine: 33 answereth the Jews that boasted of Abraham, 59 and conveyeth himself from their cruelty.

JESUS went unto the mount of Olives.

2 And early in the morning he came again into the temple, and all the people came unto him; and he sat down, and taught them.

3 And the Scribes and Pharisees brought unto him a woman taken in adultery; and when they had set her in the midst,

4 They say unto him, Master, this woman was taken in adultery, in the very act.

5 [a] Now Moses in the law commanded us, that such should be stoned: but what sayest thou?

6 This they said, tempting him, that they might have to accuse him. But Jesus stooped down, and with his finger wrote on the ground, as though he heard them not.

7 So when they continued asking him, he lifted up himself, and said unto them, [b] He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her.

8 And again he stooped down, and wrote on the ground.

9 And they which heard it, [c] being convicted by their own conscience, went out one by one, beginning at the eldest, even unto the last: and Jesus was left alone, and the woman standing in the midst.

10 When Jesus had lifted up himself, and saw none but the woman, he said unto her, Woman, where are those thine accusers? hath no man condemned thee?

11 She said, No man, Lord. And Jesus said unto her, [d] Neither do I condemn thee: go, and [e] sin no more.

12 ¶ Then spake Jesus again unto them, saying, [f] I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life.

13 The Pharisees therefore said unto him, [g] Thou bearest record of thyself; thy record is not true.

14 Jesus answered and said unto them, Though I bear record of myself, yet my record is true: for I know whence I came, and whither I go; but [h] ye cannot tell whence I come, and whither I go.

15 [i] Ye judge after the flesh; [k] I judge no man.

16 And yet if I judge, my judgment is true: for [l] I am not alone, but I and the Father that sent me.

17 [m] It is also written in your law, that the testimony of two men is true.

18 I am one that bear witness of myself, and [n] the Father that sent me beareth witness of me.

19 Then said they unto him, Where is thy Father? Jesus answered, [o] Ye neither know me, nor my Father: [p] if ye had known me, ye should have known my Father also.

20 These words spake Jesus in [q] the treasury, as he taught in the temple: and [r] no man laid hands on him; for [s] his hour was not yet come.

21 Then said Jesus again unto them, I go my way, and [t] ye shall seek me, and [u] shall die in your sins: whither I go, ye cannot come.

22 Then said the Jews, Will he kill himself? because he saith, Whither I go, ye cannot come.

23 And he said unto them, [x] Ye are from beneath; I am from above: [y] ye are of this world; I am not of this world.

24 [z] I said therefore unto you, that ye shall die in your sins: [a] for if ye believe not that I am he, ye shall die in your sins.

25 Then said they unto him, Who art thou? And Jesus saith unto them, Even the same that I said unto you from the beginning.

26 I have many things to say and to judge of you: but [b] he that sent me is true; and [c] I speak to the world those things which I have heard of him.

27 They understood not that he spake to them of the Father.

28 Then said Jesus unto them, When ye have [d] lifted up the Son of man, [e] then shall ye know that I am he, and [f] that I do nothing of myself; but [g] as my Father hath taught me, I speak these things.

29 And [h] he that sent me is with me: [i] the Father hath not left me alone; [k] for I do always those things that please him.

30 As he spake these words, [l] many believed on him.

31 Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed;

32 And ye shall know the truth, and [m] the truth shall make you free.

33 ¶ They answered him, [n] We be Abraham's seed, and were never in bondage to any man: how sayest thou, Ye shall be made free?

34 Jesus answered them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, [o] Whosoever committeth sin is the servant of sin.

35 And [p] the servant abideth not in the house for ever: but the Son abideth ever.

36 [q] If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed.

37 I know that ye are Abraham's seed; but [r] ye seek to kill me, because my word hath no place in you.

38 [s] I speak that which I have seen with my Father: and ye do that which ye have seen with your father.

39 They answered and said unto him, [t] Abraham is our father. Jesus saith unto them, [u] If ye were Abraham's children, ye would do the works of Abraham.

40 [x] But now ye seek to kill me, a man that hath told you the truth, [y] which I have heard of God: this did not Abraham.

41 Ye do the deeds of your father. Then said they to him, We be not born of fornication; [z] we have one Father, even God.

42 Jesus said unto them, [a] If God were your Father, ye would love me: [b] for I proceeded forth and came from God; [c] neither came I of myself, but he sent me.

43 [d] Why do ye not understand my speech? even because ye cannot hear my word.

44 [e] Ye are of your father the devil, and the lusts of your father ye will do. He was a murderer from the beginning, and [f] abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lie, he speaketh of his own: for he is a liar, and the father of it.

45 And because I tell you the truth, ye believe me not.

46 Which of you convinceth me of sin? And if I say the truth, why do ye not believe me?

47 [g] He that is of God heareth God's words: ye therefore hear them not, because ye are not of God.

48 Then answered the Jews, and said unto him, Say we not well that thou art a Samaritan, and [h] hast a devil?

49 Jesus answered, I have not a devil; but I honour my Father, and ye do dishonour me.

50 And [i] I seek not mine own glory: there is one that seeketh and judgeth.

51 Verily, verily, I say unto you, [k] If a man keep my saying, he shall never see death.

52 Then said the Jews unto him, Now we know that thou hast a devil. [l] Abraham is

AND as Jesus passed by, he saw a man which was blind from his birth.

2 And his disciples asked him, saying, Master, [a] who did sin, this man, or his parents, that he was born blind?

3 Jesus answered, Neither hath this man sinned, nor his parents: [b] but that the works of God should be made manifest in him.

4 [c] I must work the works of him that sent me, while it is day: the night cometh, when no man can work.

5 As long as I am in the world, [d] I am the light of the world.

8 ¶ The neighbours therefore, and they which before had seen him that he was blind, said, Is not this he that sat and begged?

9 Some said, This is he: others said, He is like him: but he said, I am he.

10 Therefore said they unto him, How were thine eyes opened?

11 He answered and said, [h] A man that is called Jesus made clay, and anointed mine eyes, and said unto me, Go to the pool of Siloam, and wash: and I went and washed, and I received sight.

12 Then said they unto him, Where is he? He said, I know not.

13 ¶ They brought to the Pharisees him that aforetime was blind.

14 And it was the sabbath day when Jesus made the clay, and opened his eyes.

15 Then again the Pharisees also asked him how he had received his sight. He said unto them, He put clay upon mine eyes, and I washed, and do see.

16 Therefore said some of the Pharisees, This man is not of God, because he keepeth not the sabbath day. Others said, [i] How can a man that is a sinner do such miracles? And [k] there was a division among them.

17 They say unto the blind man again, What sayest thou of him, that he hath opened thine eyes? He said, [l] He is a prophet.

18 But the Jews did not believe concerning him, that he had been blind, and received his sight, until they called the parents of him that had received his sight.

19 And they asked them, saying, Is this your son, who ye say was born blind? how then doth he now see?

20 His parents answered them and said, We know that this is our son, and that he was born blind:

21 But by what means he now seeth, we know not; or who hath opened his eyes, we know not: he is of age; ask him: he shall speak for himself.

22 These words spake his parents, because [m] they feared the Jews: for the Jews had agreed already, that if any man did confess that he was Christ, he [n] should be put out of the synagogue.

23 Therefore said his parents, He is of age; ask him.

24 Then again called they the man that was blind, and said unto him, [o] Give God the praise: [p] we know that this man is a sinner.

25 He answered and said, Whether he be a sinner or no, I know not: one thing I know, that, whereas I was blind, now I see.

26 Then said they to him again, What did he to thee? how opened he thine eyes?

27 He answered them, I have told you already, and ye did not hear: wherefore would ye hear it again? will ye also be his disciples?

28 Then they reviled him, and said, Thou art his disciple; but we are Moses' disciples.

29 We know that God spake unto Moses: as for this fellow, [q] we know not from whence he is.

30 The man answered and said unto them, [r] Why herein is a marvellous thing, that ye know not from whence he is, and yet he hath opened mine eyes.

31 Now we know that [s] God heareth not sinners: but if any man be a worshipper of God, and doeth his will, him he heareth.

32 Since the world began was it not heard that any man opened the eyes one of that was born blind.

33 [t] If this man were not of God, he could do nothing.

34 They answered and said unto him, [u] Thou wast altogether born in sins, and dost thou teach us? And they † cast him out.

35 Jesus heard that they had cast him out; and when he had found him, he said unto him, Dost thou believe on [x] the Son of God?

Christ is the Door,

A. D. 32.

36 He answered and said, Who is he, Lord, that I might believe on him?

37 And Jesus said unto him, Thou hast [b] ch. 4. 26 both seen him, and [y] it is he that talketh with thee.

38 And he said, Lord, I believe. And he worshipped him.

[a] ch. 5. 22, 27. See ch. 3. 17. & 12. 47. [c] Matt. 13. 13. 39 ¶ And Jesus said, [a] For judgment I am come into this world, [c] that they which see not might see; and that they which see might be made blind.

40 And some of the Pharisees which were with him heard these words, [b] and said unto him, Are we blind also?

[c] ch. 15. 22, 24. 41 Jesus said unto them, [c] If ye were blind, ye should have no sin: but now ye say, We see; therefore your sin remaineth.

CHAP. X.

1 Christ is the door, and the good shepherd. 19 Divers opinions of him. 24 He proveth by his works that he is Christ the Son of God: 39 escapeth the Jews, 40 and went again beyond Jordan, where many believed on him.

VERILY, verily, I say unto you, He that entereth not by the door into the sheepfold, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber.

2 But he that entereth in by the door is the shepherd of the sheep.

3 To him the porter openeth; and the sheep hear his voice: and he calleth his own sheep by name, and leadeth them out.

4 And when he putteth forth his own sheep, he goeth before them, and the sheep follow him: for they know his voice.

5 And a stranger will they not follow, but will flee from him: for they know not the voice of strangers.

6 This parable spake Jesus unto them: but they understood not what things they were which he spake unto them.

7 Then said Jesus unto them again, Verily, verily, I say unto you, I am the door of the sheep.

8 All that ever came before me are thieves and robbers: but the sheep did not hear them.

[a] ch. 14. 6. Ephes. 2. 18. 9 [a] I am the door: by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture.

10 The thief cometh not, but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy: I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly.

[d] Isa. 40. 11. Ezek. 34. 12, 23. & 37. 24. Heb. 13. 20. 1 Peter 2. 25. & 5. 4. 11 [b] I am the good shepherd: the good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep.

[e] Zech. 11. 16, 17. 12 But he that is an hireling, and not the shepherd, whose own the sheep are not, seeth the wolf coming, and [c] leaveth the sheep, and fleeth: and the wolf catcheth them, and scattereth the sheep.

13 The hireling fleeth, because he is an hireling, and careth not for the sheep.

[d] 2 Tim. 2. 19. 14 I am the good shepherd, and [d] know my sheep, and am known of mine.

[e] Matt. 11. 27. [f] ch. 15. 13. 15 [e] As the Father knoweth me, even so know I the Father: [f] and I lay down my life for the sheep.

16 And [g] other sheep I have, which are not of this fold: them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice; [h] and there shall be one fold, and one shepherd.

17 Therefore doth my Father love me, [i] because I lay down my life, that I might take it again.

18 No man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of myself. I have power to lay it down, and I [k] have power to take it again. [l] This commandment have I received of my Father.

19 ¶ [m] There was a division therefore again among the Jews for these sayings.

20 And many of them said, [n] He hath a devil, and is mad; why hear ye him?

21 Others said, These are not the words of him that hath a devil. [o] Can a devil [p] open the eyes of the blind?

22 ¶ And it was at Jerusalem the [q] feast of the dedication, and it was winter.

23 And Jesus walked in the temple [r] in Solomon's porch.

24 Then came the Jews round about him, and said unto him, How long dost thou [s] make us to doubt? If thou be the Christ, tell us plainly.

25 Jesus answered them, I told you, and ye believed not: [t] the works that I do in my Father's name, they bear witness of me.

26 But [u] ye believe not, because ye are not of my sheep, as I said unto you.

27 [v] My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me:

28 And I give unto them eternal life; and [x] they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand.

29 [y] My Father, [z] which gave them me, is greater than all; and no man is able to pluck them out of my Father's hand.

30 [a] I and my Father are one.

31 Then [b] the Jews took up stones again to stone him.

32 Jesus answered them, Many good works have I shewed you from my Father; for which of those works do ye stone me?

33 The Jews answered him, saying, For a good work we stone thee not; but for blasphemy; and because that thou, being a man, [c] makest thyself God.

34 Jesus answered them, [d] Is it not written in your law, I said, Ye are gods?

35 If he called them gods, [e] unto whom the word of God came, and the Scripture cannot be broken;

36 Say ye of him, [f] whom the Father hath sanctified, and [g] sent into the world, Thou blasphemest; [h] because I said, I am [i] the Son of God?

37 [k] If I do not the works of my Father, believe me not.

38 But if I do, though ye believe not me, [l] believe the works: that ye may know, and believe, [m] that the Father is in me, and I in him.

1 Christ raiseth Lazarus, four days buried. 45 Many Jews believe. 47 The high Priests and Pharisees gather a council against Christ. 54 Jesus hid himself. 55 At the passover they enquire after him, and lay wait for him.

NOW a certain man was sick, named Lazarus, of Bethany, the town of [r] Luke 10. 38, 39. [s] Mary and her sister Martha.
[t] Matt. 26. 7. Mark 14. 3. ch. 12. 3. 2 (It was that Mary which anointed the Lord with ointment, and wiped his feet with her hair, whose brother Lazarus was sick.)
3 Therefore his sisters sent unto him, saying, Lord, behold, he whom thou lovest is sick.
4 When Jesus heard that, he said, This
[c] ch. 9. 3. ver. 40. sickness is not unto death, [c] but for the glory of God, that the Son of God might be glorified thereby.
5 Now Jesus loved Martha, and her sister, and Lazarus.
6 When he had heard therefore that he
[d] ch. 10. 40. was sick, [d] he abode two days still in the same place where he was.
7 Then after that saith he to his disciples, Let us go into Judæa again.
[e] ch. 10. 31. 8 His disciples say unto him, Master, [e] the Jews of late sought to stone thee; and goest thou thither again?
9 Jesus answered, Are there not twelve
[f] ch. 9. 4. hours in the day? [f] If any man walk in the day, he stumbleth not, because he seeth the light of this world.
[g] ch. 12. 35. 10 But [g] if a man walk in the night, he stumbleth, because there is no light in him.
11 These things said he: and after that he saith unto them, Our friend Lazarus
[h] So Deut. 31. 16. Dan. 12. 2. Matt. 9. 24. Acts 7. 60. 1 Cor. 15. 18. 51. [h] sleepeth; but I go, that I may awake him out of sleep.
12 Then said his disciples, Lord, if he sleep, he shall do well.
13 Howbeit Jesus spake of his death: but they thought that he had spoken of taking of rest in sleep.
14 Then said Jesus unto them plainly, Lazarus is dead.
15 And I am glad for your sakes that I was not there, to the intent ye may believe; nevertheless let us go unto him.
16 Then said Thomas, which is called Didymus, unto his fellow disciples, Let us also go, that we may die with him.
17 Then when Jesus came, he found that he had lain in the grave four days already.
[*] That is, about two miles. 18 Now Bethany was nigh unto Jerusalem, [*] about fifteen furlongs off:
19 And many of the Jews came to Martha and Mary, to comfort them concerning their brother.
20 Then Martha, as soon as she heard that Jesus was coming, went and met him: but Mary sat still in the house.
21 Then said Martha unto Jesus, Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died.
22 But I know, that even now, [i] whatsoever thou wilt ask of God, God will give it thee.
23 Jesus saith unto her, Thy brother shall rise again.
24 Martha saith unto him, [k] I know that he shall rise again in the resurrection at the last day.
25 Jesus said unto her, I am [l] the resurrection, and the [m] life: [n] he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live:
26 And whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die. Believest thou this?
27 She saith unto him, Yea, Lord: [o] I believe that thou art the Christ, the Son of God, which should come into the world.
28 And when she had so said, she went her way, and called Mary her sister secretly, saying, The Master is come, and calleth for thee.
29 As soon as she heard that, she arose quickly, and came unto him.
30 Now Jesus was not yet come into the town, but was in that place where Martha met him.
31 [p] The Jews then which were with her in the house, and comforted her, when they saw Mary, that she rose up hastily and went out, followed her, saying, She goeth unto the grave to weep there.
32 Then when Mary was come where Jesus was, and saw him, she fell down at his feet, saying unto him, [q] Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died.
33 When Jesus therefore saw her weeping, and the Jews also weeping which came with her, he groaned in the spirit, and † was troubled,
34 And said, Where have ye laid him? They said unto him, Lord, come and see.
35 [r] Jesus wept.
36 Then said the Jews, Behold how he loved him!
37 And some of them said, Could not this man, [s] which opened the eyes of the blind, have caused that even this man should not have died?
38 Jesus therefore again groaning in himself cometh to the grave. It was a cave, and a stone lay upon it.
39 Jesus said, Take ye away the stone. Martha, the sister of him that was dead, saith unto him, Lord, by this time he stinketh: for he hath been dead four days.
40 Jesus saith unto her, Said I not unto thee, that, if thou wouldest believe, thou shouldest [t] see the glory of God?
41 Then they took away the stone from the place where the dead was laid. And Jesus lifted up his eyes, and said, Father, I thank thee that thou hast heard me.
42 And I knew that thou hearest me always: but [u] because of the people which

A. D. 33. stand by I said it, that they may believe that thou hast sent me.

43 And when he thus had spoken, he cried with a loud voice, Lazarus, come forth.

44 And he that was dead came forth, bound hand and foot with graveclothes: and [a] ch. 20. 7. [x] his face was bound about with a napkin. Jesus saith unto them, Loose him, and let him go.

45 Then many of the Jews which came [y] ch. 2. 23. & 10. 42. & 12. 11, 18. to Mary, [y] and had seen the things which Jesus did, believed on him.

46 But some of them went their ways to the Pharisees, and told them what things Jesus had done.

47 ¶ [z] Then gathered the Chief Priests [z] Ps. 2. 2. Matt. 26. 3. Mark 14. 1. Luke 22. 2. and the Pharisees a council, and said, [a] What [a] ch. 12. 19. Acts 4. 16. do we? for this man doeth many miracles.

48 If we let him thus alone, all men will believe on him: and the Romans shall come and take away both our place and nation.

49 And one of them, named [b] Caiaphas, [b] Luke 3. 2. ch. 18. 14. Acts 4. 6. being the High Priest that same year, said unto them, Ye know nothing at all,

50 [c] Nor consider that it is expedient for [c] ch. 18. 14 us, that one man should die for the people, and that the whole nation perish not.

51 And this spake he not of himself: but being High Priest that year, he prophesied that Jesus should die for that nation;

52 And [d] not for that nation only, [e] but [d] Isa. 49. 6. 1 John 2. 2. & ch. 10. 16. Ephes. 2. 14, 15, 16, 17. that also he should gather together in one the children of God that were scattered abroad.

53 Then from that day forth they took counsel together for to put him to death.

54 Jesus [f] therefore walked no more openly [f] ch. 4. 1, 3. & 7. 1 among the Jews; but went thence unto a country near to the wilderness, into a city called [g] Ephraim, and there continued with his disciples.

[g] 2 Sam. 2 Chron. 13. 19.

55 ¶ [h] And the Jews' Passover was nigh [h] ch. 2. 13. & 5. 1. & 6. 4. at hand: and many went out of the country up to Jerusalem before the Passover, to purify themselves.

56 [i] Then sought they for Jesus, and spake [i] ch. 11. 7. among themselves, as they stood in the temple, What think ye, that he will not come to the feast?

57 Now both the Chief Priests and the Pharisees had given a commandment, that, if any man knew where he were, he should shew it, that they might take him.

CHAP. XII.

1 Jesus anointeth Mary anointing his feet. 9 The people flock to see Lazarus. 10 The high priests consult to kill him. 12 Christ rideth into Jerusalem. 20 Greeks desire to see Jesus. 23 He foretelleth his death. 37 The Jews are generally blinded: 42 yet many chief rulers believe, but do not confess him: 44 therefore Jesus calleth earnestly for confession of faith.

THEN Jesus six days before the Passover came to Bethany, [a] where Lazarus was [a] ch. 11. 1, 43. which had been dead, whom he raised from the dead.

2 [b] There they made him a supper; and [b] Matt. 26. 6. Mark 14. 3. Martha served: but Lazarus was one of them that sat at the table with him.

3 Then took [c] Mary a pound of ointment [c] Luke 10. 39. ch. 11. 2. of spikenard, very costly, and anointed the feet of Jesus, and wiped his feet with her hair: and the house was filled with the odour of the ointment. A. D. 33.

4 Then saith one of his disciples, Judas Iscariot, Simon's son, which should betray him,

5 Why was not this ointment sold for three hundred pence, and given to the poor?

6 This he said, not that he cared for the poor; but because he was a thief, and [d] had the bag, and bare what was put therein. [d] ch. 13. 29.

7 Then said Jesus, Let her alone: against the day of my burying hath she kept this.

8 For [e] the poor always ye have with you; [e] Matt. 26. 11 Mark 14. 7 but me ye have not always.

9 Much people of the Jews therefore knew that he was there: and they came not for Jesus' sake only, but that they might see Lazarus also, [f] whom he had raised from [f] ch. 11. 43, 44 the dead.

10 ¶ [g] But the Chief Priests consulted [g] Luke 16. 31 that they might put Lazarus also to death;

11 [h] Because that by reason of him many [h] ch. 11. 45. ver. 18. of the Jews went away, and believed on Jesus.

12 ¶ [i] On the next day much people that [i] Matt. 21. 8. Mark 11. 8. Luke 19. 35, &c. were come to the feast, when they heard that Jesus was coming to Jerusalem, 13 Took branches of palm trees, and went forth to meet him, and cried, [k] Hosanna: [k] Ps. 118. 25, 26 Blessed is the King of Israel that cometh in the name of the Lord.

14 [l] And Jesus, when he had found a young [l] Matt. 21. 7. ass, sat thereon; as it is written,

15 [m] Fear not, daughter of Sion: behold, [m] Zech. 9. 9 thy King cometh, sitting on an ass's colt.

16 These things [n] understood not his dis- [n] Luke 18. 34 ciples at the first: [o] but when Jesus was [o] ch. 7. 39 glorified, [p] then remembered they that these [p] ch. 14. 26. things were written of him, and that they had done these things unto him.

17 The people therefore that was with him when he called Lazarus out of his grave, and raised him from the dead, bare record.

18 [q] For this cause the people also met [q] ver. 17. him, for that they had heard that he had done this miracle.

19 The Pharisees therefore said among themselves, [r] Perceive ye how ye prevail no- [r] ch. 11. 47, 48. thing? behold, the world is gone after him.

20 ¶ And there [s] were certain Greeks [s] Acts 8. 27. among them [t] that came up to worship at [t] 1 Kings 8. 41, 42. Acts 8. 27. the feast:

21 The same came therefore to Philip, [u] which was of Bethsaida of Galilee, and de- [u] ch. 1. 44 sired him, saying, Sir, we would see Jesus.

22 Philip cometh and telleth Andrew: and again Andrew and Philip tell Jesus.

23 ¶ And Jesus answered them, saying, [x] The hour is come, that the Son of man [x] ch. 13. 32 & 17. 1. should be glorified.

24 Verily, verily, I say unto you, [y] Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and [y] 1 Cor. 15. 36 die, it abideth alone: but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit.

25 [z] He that loveth his life shall lose it; [z] Matt. 10. 39 & 16. 25. Mark 8. 35. Luke 9. 24. & 17. 33.

and he that hateth his life in this world shall keep it unto life eternal.

26 If any man serve me, let him follow me; and [a] where I am, there shall also my servant be: if any man serve me, him will my Father honour.

27 [b] Now is my soul troubled; and what shall I say? Father, save me from this hour: [c] but for this cause came I unto this hour.

28 Father, glorify thy name. [d] Then came there a voice from heaven, saying, I have both glorified it, and will glorify it again.

29 The people therefore, that stood by, and heard it, said that it thundered: others said, An angel spake to him.

30 Jesus answered and said, [e] This voice came not because of me, but for your sakes.

31 Now is the judgment of this world: now shall [f] the prince of this world be cast out.

32 And I, [g] if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw [h] all men unto me.

33 [i] This he said, signifying what death he should die.

34 The people answered him, [k] We have heard out of the law that Christ abideth for ever: and how sayest thou, The Son of man must be lifted up? who is this Son of man?

35 Then Jesus said unto them, Yet [a] a little while [l] is the light with you. [m] Walk while ye have the light, lest darkness come upon you: for [n] he that walketh in darkness knoweth not whither he goeth.

36 While ye have light, believe in the light, that ye may be [o] the children of light. These things spake Jesus, and departed, and [p] did hide himself from them.

37 ¶ But though he had done so many miracles before them, yet they believed not on him:

38 That the saying of Esaias the prophet might be fulfilled, which he spake, [q] Lord, who hath believed our report? and to whom hath the arm of the Lord been revealed?

39 Therefore they could not believe, because that Esaias said again,

40 [r] He hath blinded their eyes, and hardened their heart; that they should not see with their eyes, nor understand with their heart, and be converted, and I should heal them.

41 [s] These things said Esaias, when he saw his glory, and spake of him.

42 ¶ Nevertheless among the chief rulers also many believed on him; but [t] because of the Pharisees they did not confess him, lest they should be put out of the synagogue:

43 [u] For they loved the praise of men more than the praise of God.

44 ¶ Jesus cried and said, [x] He that believeth on me, believeth not on me, but on him that sent me.

45 And [y] he that seeth me seeth him that sent me.

46 [z] I am come a light into the world, that whosoever believeth on me should not abide in darkness.

47 And if any man hear my words, and believe not, [a] I judge him not: for [b] I came not to judge the world, but to save the world.

48 [c] He that rejecteth me, and receiveth not my words, hath one that judgeth him: [d] the word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day.

49 For [e] I have not spoken of myself; but the Father which sent me, he gave me a commandment, [f] what I should say, and what I should speak.

50 And I know that his commandment is life everlasting: whatsoever I speak therefore, even as the Father said unto me, so I speak.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Jesus washeth the disciples' feet: exhorteth them to humility and charity. 18 He foreteileth, and discovereth to John by a token, that Judas should betray him: 31 commandeth them to love one another, 36 and forewarneth Peter of his denial.

NOW [a] before the feast of the Passover, when Jesus knew that [b] his hour was come that he should depart out of this world unto the Father, having loved his own which were in the world, he loved them unto the end.

2 And supper being ended, [c] the devil having now put it into the heart of Judas Iscariot, Simon's son, to betray him;

3 Jesus knowing [d] that the Father had given all things into his hands, and [e] that he was come from God, and went to God;

4 [f] He riseth from supper, and laid aside his garments; and took a towel, and girded himself.

5 After that he poureth water into a bason, and began to wash the disciples' feet, and to wipe them with the towel wherewith he was girded.

6 Then cometh he to Simon Peter: and [e] Peter said unto him, Lord, [g] dost thou wash my feet?

7 Jesus answered and said unto him, What I do thou knowest not now; [h] but thou shalt know hereafter.

8 Peter saith unto him, Thou shalt never wash my feet. Jesus answered him, [i] If I wash thee not, thou hast no part with me.

9 Simon Peter saith unto him, Lord, not my feet only, but also my hands and my head.

10 Jesus saith to him, He that is washed needeth not save to wash his feet, but is clean every whit: and [k] ye are clean, but not all.

11 For [l] he knew who should betray him; therefore said he, Ye are not all clean.

12 So after he had washed their feet, and had taken his garments, and was set down again, he said unto them, Know ye what I have done to you?

13 [m] Ye call me Master and Lord: and ye say well; for so I am.

14 [n] If I then, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet: [o] ye also ought to wash one another's feet.

Ver. 25. Hateth his life.—Sets less value upon it than upon the blessings of the Gospel.

Ver. 28. I have both glorified it.—"I have glorified thee by the miracles which have accompanied thy mission, and I will continue to glorify thee at the death by unexampled prodigies, and thy resurrection shall be the completion of thy glory and of thy elevation."—Calmet.

Ver. 32. Lifted up.—Upon the cross. Will draw all men unto me.—"Will cause men of all nations to believe in me."—Dr. Whitby.

A. D. 33.

15 For [p] I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you.

16 [q] Verily, verily, I say unto you, The servant is not greater than his lord; neither he that is sent greater than he that sent him.

17 [r] If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them.

18 ¶ I speak not of you all: I know whom I have chosen: but that the Scripture may be fulfilled, [s] He that eateth bread with me hath lifted up his heel against me.

19 [t] †Now I tell you before it come, that, when it is come to pass, ye may believe that I am he.

20 [u] Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that receiveth whomsoever I send receiveth me; and he that receiveth me receiveth him that sent me.

21 [x] When Jesus had thus said, [y] he was troubled in spirit, and testified, and said, Verily, verily, I say unto you, that [z] one of you shall betray me.

22 Then the disciples looked one on another, doubting of whom he spake.

23 Now [a] there was leaning on Jesus' bosom one of his disciples, whom Jesus loved.

24 Simon Peter therefore beckoned to him, that he should ask who it should be of whom he spake.

25 He then lying on Jesus' breast saith unto him, Lord, who is it?

26 Jesus answered, He it is, to whom I shall give a ‡sop, when I have dipped it. And when he had dipped the sop, he gave it to Judas Iscariot, the son of Simon.

27 [b] And after the sop Satan entered into him. Then said Jesus unto him, That thou doest, do quickly.

28 Now no man at the table knew for what intent he spake this unto him.

29 For some of them thought, because [c] Judas had the bag, that Jesus had said unto him, Buy those things that we have need of against the feast; or, that he should give something to the poor.

30 He then having received the sop went immediately out: and it was night.

31 ¶ Therefore, when he was gone out, Jesus said, [d] Now is the Son of man glorified, and [e] God is glorified in him.

32 [f] If God be glorified in him, God shall also glorify him in himself, and [g] shall straightway glorify him.

33 Little children, yet a little while I am with you. Ye shall seek me: [h] and as I said unto the Jews, Whither I go, ye cannot come; so now I say to you.

34 [i] A new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye also love one another.

35 [k] By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another.

36 ¶ Simon Peter said unto him, Lord, whither goest thou? Jesus answered him, Whither I go, thou canst not follow me now; but [l] thou shalt follow me afterwards.

37 Peter said unto him, Lord, why cannot I follow thee now? I will [m] lay down my life for thy sake.

38 Jesus answered him, Wilt thou lay down thy life for my sake? Verily, verily, I say unto thee, The cock shall not crow, till thou hast denied me thrice.

CHAP. XIV.

1 Christ comforteth his disciples with the hope of heaven: 6 professeth himself the way, the truth, and the life, and one with the Father: 13 answereth their prayers in his name to be effectual: 15 requireth love and obedience, 16 promiseth the Holy Ghost the Comforter, 27 and leaveth his peace with them.

LET [a] not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me.

2 In my Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you. [b] I go to prepare a place for you.

3 And if I go and prepare a place for you, [c] I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that [d] where I am, there ye may be also.

4 And whither I go ye know, and the way ye know.

5 Thomas saith unto him, Lord, we know not whither thou goest; and how can we know the way?

6 Jesus saith unto him, I am [e] the way, [f] the truth, and [g] the life: [h] no man cometh unto the Father, but by me.

7 [i] If ye had known me, ye should have known my Father also: and from henceforth ye know him, and have seen him.

8 Philip saith unto him, Lord, shew us the Father, and it sufficeth us.

9 Jesus saith unto him, Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known me, Philip? [k] he that hath seen me hath seen the Father; and how sayest thou then, Shew us the Father?

10 Believest thou not that [l] I am in the Father, and the Father in me? the words that I speak unto you [m] I speak not of myself: but the Father that dwelleth in me, he doeth the works.

11 Believe me that I am in the Father, and the Father in me: [n] or else believe me for the very works' sake.

12 [o] Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto my Father.

13 [p] And whatsoever ye shall ask in my name, that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son.

14 If ye shall ask any thing in my name, I will do it.

15 ¶ [q] If ye love me, keep my commandments.

16 And I will pray the Father, and [r] he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you for ever;

17 Even [s] the Spirit of truth; [t] whom the world cannot receive, because it seeth him not, neither knoweth him: but ye know him; for he dwelleth with you, [u] and shall be in you.

18 [x] I will not leave you [*] comfortless: [y] I will come to you.

Ver. 26. When I have dipped it.—In the dish.
Ver. 31. Now is the Son of Man glorified.—That is, about to be glorified.
Ver. 32. God shall also glorify him in himself.—"God will exalt me to inconceivable glory, and give mighty attestations of his having invested me with great power in heaven and in earth." Dr. S. Clarke.
CHAP. XIV. Ver. 2. Many mansions.—Many abodes.

Ver. 3. I will come again.—At my second advent.
Ver. 9. Hast thou not known me, Philip?—"He implies," observes Dean Stanhope, "that to discern nothing more than human in the Son, is not to know the Son; and to descry the divine perfections, under that veil of humanity, was to see the Father in the Son."
Ver. 16. Another comforter.—The Holy Ghost.

19 Yet a little while, and the world seeth me no more; but [z] ye see me: [a] because I live, ye shall live also.

20 At that day ye shall know that [b] I am in my Father, and ye in me, and I in you.

21 [c] He that hath my commandments, and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me: and he that loveth me shall be loved of my Father, and I will love him, and will manifest myself to him.

22 [d] Judas saith unto him, not Iscariot, Lord, how is it that thou wilt manifest thyself unto us, and not unto the world?

23 Jesus answered and said unto him, [e] If a man love me, he will keep my words: and my Father will love him, [f] and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him.

24 He that loveth me not keepeth not my sayings: and [g] the word which ye hear is not mine, but the Father's which sent me.

25 These things have I spoken unto you, being yet present with you.

26 But [h] the Comforter which is the Holy Ghost, whom the Father will send in my name, [i] he shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, whatsoever I have said unto you.

27 [k] Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. [l] Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid.

28 Ye have heard how [m] I said unto you, I go away, and come again unto you. If ye loved me, ye would rejoice, because I said, [n] I go unto the Father: for [o] my Father is greater than I.

29 And [p] now I have told you before it come to pass, that, when it is come to pass, ye might believe.

30 Hereafter I will not talk much with you: [q] for the prince of this world cometh, and hath nothing in me.

31 But that the world may know that I love the Father; and [r] as the Father gave me commandment, even so I do. Arise, let us go hence.

CHAP. XV.

1 The consolation and mutual love between Christ and his members, under the parable of the vine. 18 A comfort in the hatred and persecution of the world. 26 The office of the Holy Ghost, and of the apostles.

I AM the true vine, and my Father is the husbandman.

2 [a] Every branch in me that beareth not fruit he taketh away: and every branch that beareth fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit.

3 [b] Now ye are clean through the word which I have spoken unto you.

4 [c] Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; no more can ye, except ye abide in me.

5 I am the vine, ye are the branches: He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much [d] fruit: for [e] without me ye can do nothing.

6 If a man abide not in me, [e] he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered; and men gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they are burned.

7 If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, [f] ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you.

8 [g] Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; [h] so shall ye be my disciples.

9 As the Father hath loved me, so have I loved you: continue ye in my love.

10 [i] If ye keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love; even as I have kept my Father's commandments, and abide in his love.

11 These things have I spoken unto you, that my joy might remain in you, and [k] that your joy might be full.

12 [l] This is my commandment, That ye love one another, as I have loved you.

13 [m] Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends.

14 [n] Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you.

15 Henceforth I call you not servants; for the servant knoweth not what his lord doeth: but I have called you friends; [o] for all things that I have heard of my Father I have made known unto you.

16 [p] Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and [q] ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain: that [r] whatsoever ye shall ask of the Father in my name, he may give it you.

17 [s] These things I command you, that ye love one another.

18 [t] If the world hate you, ye know that it hated me before it hated you.

19 [u] If ye were of the world, the world would love his own: but [x] because ye are not of the world, but I have chosen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you.

20 Remember the word that I said unto you, [y] The servant is not greater than his lord. If they have persecuted me, they will also persecute you; [z] if they have kept my saying, they will keep your's also.

21 But [a] all these things will they do unto you for my name's sake, because they know not him that sent me.

22 [b] If I had not come and spoken unto them, they had not had sin: [c] but now they have no † cloke for their sin.

23 [d] He that hateth me hateth my Father also.

24 If I had not done among them [e] the works which none other man did, they had not had sin: but now have they both seen and hated both me and my Father.

25 But this cometh to pass, that the word might be fulfilled that is written in their law, [f] They hated me without a cause.

26 ¶ [g] But when the Comforter is come, whom I will send unto you, from the Father,

CHAP. XVI.

1 Christ comforteth his disciples against tribulation by the promise of the Holy Ghost, and by his resurrection and ascension. 23 assureth their prayers made in his name to be acceptable to his Father. 33 Peace in Christ, and in the world affliction.

THESE things have I spoken unto you, that ye [a] should not be offended.

2 [b] They shall put you out of the synagogues: yea, the time cometh, [c] that whosoever killeth you will think that he doeth God service.

3 And [d] these things will they do unto you, because they have not known the Father, nor me.

4 But [e] these things have I told you, that when the time shall come, ye may remember that I told you of them. And [f] these things I said not unto you at the beginning, because I was with you.

5 But now [g] I go my way to him that sent me; and none of you asketh me, Whither goest thou?

6 But because I have said these things unto you, [h] sorrow hath filled your heart.

7 Nevertheless I tell you the truth; It is expedient for you that I go away: for if I go not away, [i] the Comforter will not come unto you; but [k] if I depart, I will send him unto you.

8 And when he is come, he will [*] reprove the world of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment:

9 [l] Of sin, because they believe not on me;

10 [m] Of righteousness, [n] because I go to my Father, and ye see me no more;

11 [o] Of judgment, because [p] the prince of this world is judged.

12 I have yet many things to say unto you, [q] but ye cannot bear them now.

13 Howbeit when he, [r] the Spirit of truth, is come, [s] he will guide you into all truth: for he shall not speak of himself; but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak: and he will shew you things to come.

14 He shall glorify me: for he shall receive of mine, and shall shew it unto you.

15 [t] All things that the Father hath are mine: therefore said I, that he shall take of mine, and shew it unto you.

16 [u] A little while, and ye shall not see me: and again, a little while, and ye shall see me, [x] because I go to the Father.

17 Then said some of his disciples among themselves, What is this that he saith unto us, A little while, and ye shall not see me: and again, a little while, and ye shall see me: and, Because I go to the Father?

18 They said therefore, What is this that he saith, A little while? we cannot tell what he saith.

19 Now Jesus knew that they were desirous to ask him, and said unto them, Do ye enquire among yourselves of that I said, A little while, and ye shall not see me: and again, a little while, and ye shall see me?

20 Verily, verily, I say unto you, That ye shall weep and lament, but the world shall rejoice: and ye shall be sorrowful, but your sorrow shall be turned into joy.

21 [y] A woman when she is in travail hath sorrow, because her hour is come: but as soon as she is delivered of the child, she remembereth no more the anguish, for joy that a man is born into the world.

22 [z] And ye now therefore have sorrow: but I will see you again, and [a] your heart shall rejoice, and your joy no man taketh from you.

23 And in that day ye shall ask me nothing. [b] Verily, verily, I say unto you, Whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in my name, he will give it you.

24 Hitherto have ye asked nothing in my name: ask, and ye shall receive, [c] that your joy may be full.

25 These things have I spoken unto you in † proverbs: but the time cometh, when I shall no more speak unto you in ‡ proverbs, but I shall shew you plainly of the Father.

26 [d] At that day ye shall ask in my name: and I say not unto you, that I will pray the Father for you:

27 [*] For the Father himself loveth you, because ye have loved me, and [f] have believed that I came out from God.

28 [g] I came forth from the Father, and am come into the world: again, I leave the world, and go to the Father.

29 His disciples said unto him, Lo, now speakest thou plainly, and speakest no § proverb.

30 Now are we sure that [h] thou knowest all things, and needest not that any man should ask thee: by this [i] we believe that thou camest forth from God.

31 Jesus answered them, Do ye now believe?

32 [k] Behold, the hour cometh, yea, is now come, that ye shall be scattered, [l] every man to ‖ his own, and shall leave me alone: and [m] yet I am not alone, because the Father is with me.

33 These things I have spoken unto you, that [n] in me ye might have peace. [*] In the world ye shall have tribulation: [p] but be of good cheer; [q] I have overcome the world.

A. D. 33.

[a] the hour is come; glorify thy Son, that thy Son also may glorify thee:

2 [b] As thou hast given him power over all flesh, that he should give eternal life to as many [c] as thou hast given him.

3 And [d] this is life eternal, that they might know thee [e] the only true God, and Jesus Christ, [f] whom thou hast sent.

4 [g] I have glorified thee on the earth: [h] I have finished the work [i] which thou gavest me to do.

5 And now, O Father, glorify thou me with thine own self with the glory [k] which I had with thee before the world was.

6 [l] I have manifested thy name unto the men [m] which thou gavest me out of the world: thine they were, and thou gavest them me; and they have kept thy word.

7 Now they have known that all things whatsoever thou hast given me are of thee.

8 For I have given unto them the words [n] which thou gavest me; and they have received them, [o] and have known surely that I came out from thee, and they have believed that thou didst send me.

9 I pray for them: [p] I pray not for the world, but for them which thou hast given me; for they are thine.

10 And all mine are thine, and [q] thine are mine; and I am glorified in them.

11 [r] And now I am no more in the world, but these are in the world, and I come to thee. Holy Father, [s] keep through thine own name those whom thou hast given me, [t] that they may be one, [u] as we are.

12 While I was with them in the world, [x] I kept them in thy name: those that thou gavest me I have kept, and [y] none of them is lost, [z] but the son of perdition; [a] that the Scripture might be fulfilled.

13 And now come I to thee; and these things I speak in the world, that they might have my joy fulfilled in themselves.

14 [b] I have given them thy word; [c] and the world hath hated them, because they are not of the world, [d] even as I am not of the world.

15 I pray not that thou shouldest take them out of the world, but [e] that thou shouldest keep them from the evil.

16 [f] They are not of the world, even as I am not of the world.

17 [g] Sanctify them through thy truth: [h] thy word is truth.

18 [i] As thou hast sent me into the world, even so have I also sent them into the world.

19 And [k] for their sakes I sanctify myself, that they also might be [*] sanctified through the truth.

20 Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word;

21 [l] That they all may be one; as [m] thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be one in us: that the world may believe that thou hast sent me.

22 And the glory which thou gavest me I have given them; [n] that they may be one, even as we are one:

23 I in them, and thou in me, [o] that they may be made perfect in one; and that the world may know that thou hast sent me, and hast loved them, as thou hast loved me.

24 [p] Father, I will that they also, whom thou hast given me, be with me where I am; that they may behold my glory, which thou hast given me: [q] for thou lovedst me before the foundation of the world.

25 O righteous Father, [r] the world hath not known thee: but [s] I have known thee, and [t] these have known that thou hast sent me.

26 [u] And I have declared unto them thy name, and will declare it: that the love [x] wherewith thou hast loved me may be in them, and I in them.

1 Judas betrayeth Jesus. 6 The officers fall to the ground. 10 Peter smiteth off Malchus' ear. 12 Jesus is taken, and led unto Annas and Caiaphas. 15 Peter's denial. 19 Jesus examined before Caiaphas. 28 His arraignment before Pilate. 36 His kingdom. 40 The Jews ask Barabbas to be let loose.

WHEN Jesus had spoken these words, [a] he went forth with his disciples over [b] the brook Cedron, where was a garden, into the which he entered, and his disciples.

2 And Judas also, which betrayed him, knew the place: [c] for Jesus ofttimes resorted thither with his disciples.

3 [d] Judas then, having received a band of men and officers from the Chief Priests and Pharisees, cometh thither with lanterns and torches and weapons.

4 Jesus therefore, knowing all things that should come upon him, went forth, and said unto them, Whom seek ye?

5 They answered him, Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus saith unto them, I am he. And Judas also, which betrayed him, stood with them.

6 As soon then as he had said unto them, I am he, they went backward, and fell to the ground.

7 Then asked he them again, Whom seek ye? And they said, Jesus of Nazareth.

8 Jesus answered, I have told you that I am he: if therefore ye seek me, let these go their way:

9 That the saying might be fulfilled, which he spake, [e] Of them which thou gavest me have I lost none.

10 [f] Then Simon Peter having a sword drew it, and smote the High Priest's servant, and cut off his right ear. The servant's name was Malchus.

11 Then said Jesus unto Peter, Put up thy sword into the sheath: [g] the cup which my Father hath given me, shall I not drink it?

12 Then the band and the captain and officers of the Jews took Jesus, and bound him,

13 And [h] led him away to [i] Annas first; for he was father in law to Caiaphas, which was the High Priest that same year. [*] friend: [i] whosoever maketh himself a king speaketh against Cæsar.

13 ¶ When Pilate therefore heard that saying, he brought Jesus forth, and sat down in the judgment seat in a place that is called the Pavement, but in the Hebrew, Gabbatha.

19 ¶ [p] And Pilate wrote a title, and put it on the cross. And the writing was, JESUS OF NAZARETH THE KING OF THE JEWS.

20 This title then read many of the Jews: for the place where Jesus was crucified was nigh to the city: and it was written in Hebrew, and Greek, and Latin.

21 Then said the Chief Priests of the Jews to Pilate, Write not, The King of the Jews; but that he said, I am King of the Jews.

22 Pilate answered, What I have written I have written.

23 ¶ [q] Then the soldiers, when they had crucified Jesus, took his garments, and made four parts, to every soldier a part; and also his coat: now the coat was without seam, [o] woven from the top throughout.

24 They said therefore among themselves, Let us not rend it, but cast lots for it, whose it shall be: that the Scripture might be fulfilled, which saith, [r] They parted my raiment among them, and for my vesture they did cast lots. These things therefore the soldiers did.

25 ¶ [s] Now there stood by the cross of Jesus his mother, and his mother's sister, Mary the wife of †[t] Cleophas, and Mary Magdalene.

26 When Jesus therefore saw his mother, and [u] the disciple standing by, whom he loved, he saith unto his mother, [x] Woman, behold thy son!

27 Then saith he to the disciple, Behold thy mother! And from that hour that disciple took her [y] unto his own home.

28 ¶ After this, Jesus knowing that all things were now accomplished, [z] that the Scripture might be fulfilled, saith, I thirst.

29 Now there was set a vessel full of vinegar: and [a] they filled a spunge with vinegar, and put it upon hyssop, and put it to his mouth.

30 When Jesus therefore had received the vinegar, he said, [b] It is finished: and he bowed his head, and gave up the ghost.

31 The Jews therefore, [c] because it was the preparation, [d] that the bodies should not remain upon the cross on the sabbath day, (for that sabbath day was an high day,) besought Pilate that their legs might be broken, and that they might be taken away.

32 Then came the soldiers, and brake the legs of the first, and of the other which was crucified with him.

33 But when they came to Jesus, and saw that he was dead already, they brake not his legs:

34 But one of the soldiers with a spear pierced his side, and forthwith [e] came there-out blood and water.

35 And he that saw it bare record, and his record is true: and he knoweth that he saith true, that ye might believe.

36 For these things were done, [f] that the Scripture should be fulfilled, A bone of him shall not be broken.

37 And again another Scripture saith, [g] They shall look on him whom they pierced.

38 ¶ [h] And after this Joseph of Arimathæa, being a disciple of Jesus, but secretly [i] for fear of the Jews, besought Pilate that he might take away the body of Jesus: and Pilate gave him leave. He came therefore, and took the body of Jesus.

39 And there came also [k] Nicodemus, which at the first came to Jesus by night, and brought a mixture of myrrh and aloes, about an hundred pound weight.

40 Then took they the body of Jesus, and [l] wound it in linen clothes, with the spices, as the manner of the Jews is to bury.

41 Now in the place where he was crucified there was a garden; and in the garden a new sepulchre, wherein was never man yet laid.

42 [m] There laid they Jesus therefore [n] because of the Jews' preparation day; for the sepulchre was nigh at hand.

1 Mary cometh to the sepulchre: 3 so do Peter and John, ignorant of the resurrection. 11 Jesus appeareth to Mary Magdalene, 19 and to his disciples. 24 The incredulity, and confession of Thomas. 30 The scripture is sufficient to salvation.

THE [a] first day of the week cometh Mary Magdalene early, when it was yet dark, unto the sepulchre, and seeth the stone taken away from the sepulchre.

2 Then she runneth, and cometh to Simon Peter, and to the [b] other disciple, whom Jesus loved, and saith unto them, They have taken away the Lord out of the sepulchre, and we know not where they have laid him.

3 [c] Peter therefore went forth, and that other disciple, and came to the sepulchre.

4 So they ran both together: and the other disciple did outrun Peter, and came first to the sepulchre.

5 And he stooping down, and looking in, saw [d] the linen clothes lying: yet went he not in.

6 Then cometh Simon Peter following him, and went into the sepulchre, and seeth the linen clothes lie,

7 And [e] the napkin, that was about his head, not lying with the linen clothes, but wrapped together in a place by itself.

8 Then went in also that other disciple, which came first to the sepulchre, and he saw, and believed.

9 For as yet they knew not the [f] Scripture, that he must rise again from the dead.

10 Then the disciples went away again unto their own home.

11 ¶ [g] But Mary stood without at the sepulchre weeping: and as she wept, she stooped down, and looked into the sepulchre,

12 And seeth two angels in white sitting, the one at the head, and the other at the feet, where the body of Jesus had lain.

13 And they say unto her, Woman, why weepest thou? She saith unto them, Because they have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid him.

14 [h] And when she had thus said, she turned herself back, and saw Jesus standing, and [i] knew not that it was Jesus.

15 Jesus saith unto her, Woman, why weepest thou? whom seekest thou? She, supposing him to be the gardener, saith unto him, Sir, if thou have borne him hence, tell me where thou hast laid him, and I will take him away.

16 Jesus saith unto her, Mary. She turned herself, and saith unto him, Rabboni; which is to say, Master.

17 Jesus saith unto her, Touch me not; for I am not yet ascended to my Father: but go to [k] my brethren, and say unto them, [l] I ascend unto my Father, and your Father; and to [m] my God, and your God.

18 [n] Mary Magdalene came and told the disciples that she had seen the Lord, and that he had spoken these things unto her.

19 ¶ [o] Then the same day at evening, being the first day of the week, when the doors were shut where the disciples were assembled for fear of the Jews, came Jesus and stood in the midst, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you.

20 And when he had so said, he shewed unto them his hands and his side. [p] Then were the disciples glad, when they saw the Lord.

21 Then said Jesus to them again, Peace be unto you: [q] as my Father hath sent me, even so send I you.

22 And when he had said this, he breathed on them, and saith unto them, Receive ye the Holy Ghost:

23 [r] Whose soever sins ye remit, they are remitted unto them; and whose soever sins ye retain, they are retained.

24 ¶ But Thomas, one of the twelve, [s] called Didymus, was not with them when Jesus came.

25 The other disciples therefore said unto him, We have seen the Lord. But he said unto them, Except I shall see in his hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into his side, I will not believe.

26 ¶ And after eight days again his disciples were within, and Thomas with them: then came Jesus, the doors being shut, and stood in the midst, and said, Peace be unto you.

27 Then saith he to Thomas, Reach hither thy finger, and behold my hands; and [t] reach hither thy hand, and thrust it into my side: and be not faithless, but believing.

28 And Thomas answered and said unto him, My Lord and my God.

29 Jesus saith unto him, Thomas, because thou hast seen me, thou hast believed: [u] blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed.

30 ¶ [x] And many other signs truly did Jesus in the presence of his disciples, which are not written in this book:

31 [y] But these are written, that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; [z] and that believing ye might have life through his name.

CHAP. XXI.

1 Christ appearing again to his disciples was known of them by the great draught of fishes. 12 He dineth with them: 15 earnestly commandeth Peter to feed his lambs and sheep: 18 foretelleth him of his death: 22 rebuketh his curiosity touching John. 25 The conclusion.

AFTER these things Jesus shewed himself again to the disciples at the sea of Tiberias; and on this wise shewed he himself.

2 There were together Simon Peter, and Thomas called Didymus, and [a] Nathanael of Cana in Galilee, and [b] the sons of Zebedee, and two other of his disciples.

3 Simon Peter saith unto them, I go a fishing. They say unto him, We also go with thee. They went forth, and entered into a ship immediately; and that night they caught nothing.

4 But when the morning was now come, Jesus stood on the shore: but the disciples [c] knew not that it was Jesus.

5 Then [d] Jesus saith unto them, [*] Children, have ye any meat? They answered him, No.

6 And he said unto them, [e] Cast the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find. They cast therefore, and now they were not able to draw it for the multitud of fishes.

7 Therefore [f] that disciple whom Jesus loved saith unto Peter, It is the Lord. Now when Simon Peter heard that it was the Lord, he girt his fisher's coat unto him, (for he was naked,) and did cast himself into the sea.

8 And the other disciples came in a little ship; (for they were not far from land, but as it were two hundred cubits,) dragging the net with fishes.

9 As soon then as they were come to land, they saw a fire of coals there, and fish laid thereon, and bread.

10 Jesus saith unto them, Bring of the fish which ye have now caught.

11 Simon Peter went up, and drew the net to land full of great fishes, an hundred

The ACTS of the APOSTLES.

A. D. 33.

CHAP. I.

Christ preparing his apostles to the beholding of his ascension, gathereth them together into the mount Olivet, commandeth them to expect in Jerusalem the sending down of the Holy Ghost, promiseth after few days to send it: by virtue whereof they should be witnesses unto him, even to the utmost parts of the earth. 9 After his ascension they are warned by two angels to depart, and to set their minds upon his second coming. 12 They accordingly return, and, giving themselves to prayer, choose Matthias apostle in the place of Judas.

THE ACTS OF THE APOSTLES.—"All antiquity is unanimous in ascribing this book to St. Luke as the author; and, from the commencement of it, we see plainly that it can be attributed to no other; and it seems plain that St. Luke intended it as a continuation of his Gospel, being dedicated to Theophilus, to whom he had dedicated the former, and to which in the introduction to this, he expressly refers: indeed, he has taken up the narrative, in this book, precisely in the place where he had dropped it in the other. "The former treatise have I made, O Theophilus, of all that Jesus began both to do and teach, until the day on which he was taken up, &c." and from this we may form a safe conjecture that the two books were written at no greater distance from each other than the time of the last occurrence recorded in this book. Some have supposed that this book was written from Alexandria; but this does not appear to be probable. The conjecture of Michaelis is much more likely, namely, that it was written from Rome, at which place St. Luke mentions his arrival, in company with St. Paul, shortly before the close of the book. See Acts xxviii. 16."—Dr. A. Clarke.

It appears that St. Luke's object, in writing the book called the Acts of the Apostles, was not either to deliver a general history of the propagation of Christianity, or a complete history of St. Paul in particular. He seems to have had a twofold object in view; namely, first, to state in what manner the gifts of the Holy Ghost were communicated on the day of Pentecost, and the subsequent miracles performed by the apostles, by which the truth of Christianity was confirmed. An authentic account of this matter was absolutely necessary, because Christ had so often assured his disciples that they should receive the Holy Spirit. Unbelievers, therefore, whether Jews or heathens, might have made objections to our religion, if it had not been shown that Christ's declaration was really fulfilled. Second, to deliver such accounts as proved the claim of the Gentiles to admission into the Church of Christ, a claim disputed by the Jews, especially at the time when Luke wrote the Acts of the Apostles. And it was this very circumstance which excited the hatred of the Jews against St. Paul, and occasioned his imprisonment at Rome, with which St. Luke closes his history. Hence we see the reason why he relates (chap. viii.) the conversion of the Samaritans, and (chap. x. xi.) the story of Cornelius, whom Peter baptized, though he was not of the circumcision. Hence, also, St. Luke relates the determination of the first council in Jerusalem relative to the Levitical law; and, for the same reason, he is more diffuse in his account of St. Paul's conversion and preaching the Gospel to the Gentiles, than on any other subject. It is true that the whole relation which St. Luke has given at chap. xii. has no connexion with the conversion of the Gentiles; but during the period to which that chapter relates, St. Paul himself was present at Jerusalem (see chap. xi. 30; xii. 25;) and it is probably for the same reason that St. Luke has introduced it.

"Although the author of this book has omitted many material parts of ecclesiastical history, in the first thirty years after the ascension, yet he is very circumstantial and perspicuous in those parts which he has related. In general, the style of the Acts of the Apostles is much purer than that of the other books of the New Testament, especially in the speeches delivered by St. Paul at Athens, and before the Roman governors. Still, this book is by no means free from Hebraisms; and, even in the purest parts, the speeches of St. Paul, we still find the language of a national Jew."—Michaelis.

7 And he said unto them, [l] It is not for you to know the times or the seasons, which the Father hath put in his own power.

8 [m] But ye shall receive † power, [n] after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and [o] ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judæa, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth.

9 [p] And when he had spoken these things, while they beheld, [q] he was taken up; and a cloud received him out of their sight.

10 And while they looked stedfastly toward heaven as he went up, behold, two men stood by them [r] in white apparel;

11 Which also said, [s] Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? this same Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven, [t] shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven.

12 ¶ [u] Then returned they unto Jerusalem from the mount called Olivet, which is from Jerusalem a sabbath day's journey.

13 And when they were come in, they went up [x] into an upper room, where abode both [y] Peter, and James, and John, and Andrew, Philip, and Thomas, Bartholomew, and Matthew, James the son of Alphæus, and [z] Simon Zelotes, and [a] Judas the brother of James.

14 [b] These all continued with one accord in prayer and supplication, with [c] the women, and Mary the mother of Jesus, and with [d] his brethren.

15 ¶ And in those days Peter stood up in the midst of the disciples, and said, (the number [e] of the names together were about an hundred and twenty,)

16 Men and brethren, this Scripture must needs have been fulfilled, [f] which the Holy Ghost by the mouth of David spake before concerning Judas, [g] which was guide to them that took Jesus.

17 For [h] he was numbered with us, and had obtained part of [i] this ministry.

18 [k] Now this man purchased a field with [l] the reward of iniquity; and falling headlong, he burst asunder in the midst, and all his bowels gushed out.

19 And it was known unto all the dwellers at Jerusalem; insomuch as that field is called in their proper tongue, Aceldama, that is to say, The field of blood.

20 For it is written in the book of Psalms, [m] Let his habitation be desolate, and let no man dwell therein: and [n] his ‡ bishoprick let another take.

21 Wherefore of these men which have companied with us all the time that the Lord Jesus went in and out among us,

22 [o] Beginning from the baptism of John, unto that same day that [p] he was taken up from us, must one be ordained [q] to be a witness with us of his resurrection.

23 And they appointed two, Joseph called [r] Barsabas, who was surnamed Justus, and Matthias.

24 And they prayed, and said, Thou Lord, [s] which knowest the hearts of all men, shew whether of these two thou hast chosen,

25 [t] That he may take part of this ministry and apostleship, from which Judas by transgression fell, that he might go to his own place.

26 And they gave forth their lots; and the lot fell upon Matthias; and he was numbered with the eleven apostles.

CHAP. II.

1 The apostles, filled with the Holy Ghost, and speaking divers languages, are admired by some, and derided by others. 14 Whom Peter disproving, and shewing that the apostles spake by the power of the Holy Ghost, that Jesus was risen from the dead, ascended into heaven, had poured down the same Holy Ghost, and was the Messias, a man known to them to be approved of God by his Miracles, wonders, and signs, and not crucified without his determinate counsel and foreknowledge: 37 he baptiseth a great number that are converted. 43 Who afterwards devoutly and charitably continue together: the apostles working many miracles, and God daily increasing his church.

AND when [a] the day of Pentecost was fully come, [b] they were all with one accord in one place.

2 And suddenly there came a sound from heaven as of a rushing mighty wind, and [c] it filled all the house where they were sitting.

3 And there appeared unto them cloven tongues like as of fire, and it sat upon each of them.

4 And [d] they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began [e] to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance.

5 And there were dwelling at Jerusalem Jews, devout men, out of every nation under heaven.

6 Now [*] when this was noised abroad, the multitude came together, and were † confounded, because that every man heard them speak in his own language.

7 And they were all amazed and marvelled, saying one to another, Behold, are not all these which speak [f] Galilæans?

8 And how hear we every man in our own tongue, wherein we were born?

9 Parthians, and Medes, and Elamites, and the dwellers in Mesopotamia, and in Judæa, and Cappadocia, in Pontus, and Asia,

10 Phrygia, and Pamphylia, in Egypt, and in the parts of Libya about Cyrene, and strangers of Rome, Jews and proselytes,

11 Cretes and Arabians, we do hear them

severing it from the Roman yoke. The idea of the Messiah's kingdom being a temporal one, but of great power and glory, has prevailed among the Jews throughout all periods of their history, and even the apostles entertained this notion up to the time of the effusion of the Holy Spirit on the day of Pentecost.

Ver. 7. The times and seasons.—Of God's purposed dispensations; in short, when the many remarkable prophecies concerning his kingdom shall be fulfilled.

Ver. 10. Two men.—Two angels in the human form.

Ver. 12. A Sabbath day's journey.—About four furlongs.

Ver. 25. That he might go to his own place.—To that place appointed for those who, having forfeited the divine favour, are doomed to suffer there everlastingly the penalty of their crimes.

CHAP. II. Ver. 1. Of Pentecost.—The fiftieth day after the Passover. All in one place.—The twelve apostles with the rest of the hundred and twenty disciples, (see chap. i. 15) were all assembled together. The place where they met is uncertain. Bishop Pearce supposes the Temple, but the idea of Doddridge appears to me the most probable. He considers it to have been in the upper room before mentioned where they were accustomed to meet.

Ver. 3. Cloven tongues as of fire.—Tongues divided like flames of fire, and emitting brilliant corruscations of light. Their being divided symbolized the diversity of languages about to be imparted to the apostles. And it sat upon each of them.—A tongue rested upon each of the holy persons present.

Ver. 5. Out of every nation under heaven.—Jerusalem was always much thronged with devout persons at the Jewish festivals, which drew multitudes from the provinces.

Ver. 9. Elamites.—Persians. Judea.—Where the dialect was quite different from that spoken in Galilee. Cappadocia, Pontus.—Provinces of Asia Minor.

Ver. 10. Phrygia.—A country of Asia Minor, to the south of Pontus. Pamphylia. The modern Caramania, bounded on the north and west by Natolia, and on the south by the Mediterranean sea. Parts of Lybia about Cyrene. Parts of Africa in the vicinity of Cyrene, a country on the coast of the Mediterranean sea. Strangers of Rome, Jews and proselytes.—That is, Jews and proselytes, who were by birth or habitation Romans, but now sojourned at Jerusalem.

Ver. 11. Cretes.—Natives of Crete, an island in the Levant, now known by the name of Candia.

speak in our tongues the wonderful works of God.

12 And they were all amazed, and were in doubt, saying one to another, What meaneth this?

13 Others mocking said, These men are full of new wine.

14 ¶ But Peter, standing up with the eleven, lifted up his voice, and said unto them, [o] Ye men of Judæa, and all ye that dwell at Jerusalem, be this known unto you, and hearken to my words:

15 For these are not drunken, as ye suppose, [g] seeing it is but the third hour of the day.

16 But this is that which was spoken by the prophet Joel;

17 [h] And it shall come to pass in the last days, saith God, [i] I will pour out of my Spirit upon all flesh: and your sons and [k] your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams:

18 And on my servants and on my handmaidens I will pour out in those days of my Spirit; [l] and they shall prophesy:

19 [m] And I will shew wonders in heaven above, and signs in the earth beneath; blood, and fire, and vapour of smoke:

20 [n] The sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before that great and notable day of the Lord come:

21 And it shall come to pass, that [o] whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord shall be saved.

22 Ye men of Israel, hear these words; Jesus of Nazareth, a man approved of God among you [p] by miracles and wonders and signs, which God did by him in the midst of you, as ye yourselves also know:

23 Him, [q] being delivered by the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God, [r] ye have taken, and by wicked hands have crucified and slain:

24 [s] Whom God hath raised up, having loosed the pains of death: because it was not possible that he should be holden of it.

25 For David speaketh concerning him, [t] I foresaw the Lord always before my face, for he is on my right hand, that I should not be moved:

26 Therefore did my heart rejoice, and my tongue was glad; moreover also my flesh shall rest in hope:

27 Because thou wilt not leave my soul in hell, neither wilt thou suffer thine Holy One to see corruption.

28 Thou hast made known to me the ways of life; thou shalt make me full of joy with thy countenance.

29 Men and brethren, ‡ let me freely speak unto you [u] of the patriarch David, that he is both dead and buried, and his sepulchre is with us unto this day.

30 Therefore being a prophet, [x] and knowing that God had sworn with an oath to him, that of the fruit of his loins, according to the flesh, he would raise up Christ to sit on his throne;

31 He seeing this before spake of the resurrection of Christ, [y] that his soul was not left in hell, neither his flesh did see corruption.

32 [z] This Jesus hath God raised up, [a] whereof we all are witnesses.

33 Therefore [b] being by the right hand of God exalted, and [c] having received of the Father the promise of the Holy Ghost, he [d] hath shed forth this, which ye now see and hear.

34 For David is not ascended into the heavens: but he saith himself, [e] The LORD said unto my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, 35 Until I make thy foes thy footstool.

36 Therefore let all the house of Israel know assuredly, that God [f] hath made that same Jesus, whom ye have crucified, both Lord and Christ.

37 ¶ Now when they heard this, [g] they were pricked in their heart, and said unto Peter and to the rest of the apostles, Men and brethren, what shall we do?

38 Then Peter said unto them, [h] Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost.

39 For the promise is unto you, and [i] to your children, and [k] to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call.

40 And with many other words did he testify and exhort, saying, Save yourselves from this untoward generation.

41 ¶ Then they that gladly received his word were baptized: and the same day there were added unto them about three thousand souls.

42 [l] And they continued stedfastly in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayers.

43 And fear came upon every soul: and [m] many wonders and signs were done by the apostles.

44 And all that believed were together, and [n] had all things common;

45 And sold their possessions and goods, and [o] parted them to all men, as every man had need.

46 [p] And they, continuing daily with one accord [q] in the temple, and [r] breaking bread § from house to house, did eat their meat with gladness and singleness of heart, 47 Praising God, and [s] having favour with all the people. And [t] the Lord added to the Church daily such as should be saved.

A. D. 33.

NOW Peter and John went up together [a] into the temple at the hour of prayer, [b] being the ninth hour.

2 And [c] a certain man lame from his mother's womb was carried, whom they laid daily at the gate of the temple which is called Beautiful, [d] to ask alms of them that entered into the temple;

3 Who seeing Peter and John about to go into the temple asked an alms.

4 And Peter, fastening his eyes upon him with John, said, Look on us.

5 And he gave heed unto them, expecting to receive something of them.

6 Then Peter said, Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee: [e] In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk.

7 And he took him by the right hand, and lifted him up: and immediately his feet and ancle bones received strength.

8 And he [f] leaping up stood, and walked, and entered with them into the temple, walking, and leaping, and praising God.

9 [g] And all the people saw him walking and praising God:

10 And they knew that it was he which [h] sat for alms at the Beautiful gate of the temple: and they were filled with wonder and amazement at that which had happened unto him.

11 And as the lame man which was healed held Peter and John, all the people ran together unto them in the porch [i] that is called Solomon's, greatly wondering.

12 ¶ And when Peter saw it, he answered unto the people, Ye men of Israel, why marvel ye at this? or why look ye so earnestly on us, as though by our own power or holiness we had made this man to walk?

13 [k] The God of Abraham, and of Isaac, and of Jacob, the God of our fathers, [l] hath glorified his Son Jesus; whom ye [m] delivered up, and [n] denied him in the presence of Pilate, when he was determined to let him go.

14 But ye denied [o] the Holy One [p] and the Just, and desired a murderer to be granted unto you;

15 And killed the [*] Prince of life, [q] whom God hath raised from the dead; [r] whereof we are witnesses.

16 [s] And his name through faith in his name hath made this man strong, whom ye see and know: yea, the faith which is by him hath given him this perfect soundness in the presence of you all.

17 And now, brethren, I wot that [t] through ignorance ye did it, as did also your rulers.

18 But [u] those things, which God before had shewed [x] by the mouth of all his prophets, that Christ should suffer, he hath so fulfilled.

A. D. 33.

19 ¶ [y] Repent ye therefore, and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out, when the times of refreshing shall come from the presence of the Lord;

20 And he shall send Jesus Christ, which before was preached unto you:

21 [z] Whom the heaven must receive until the times of [a] restitution of all things, [b] which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began.

22 For Moses truly said unto the fathers, [c] A prophet shall the Lord your God raise up unto you of your brethren, like unto me; him shall ye hear in all things whatsoever he shall say unto you.

23 And it shall come to pass, that every soul, which will not hear that prophet, shall be destroyed from among the people.

24 Yea, and all the prophets from Samuel and those that follow after, as many as have spoken, have likewise foretold of these days.

25 [d] Ye are the children of the prophets, and of the covenant which God made with our fathers, saying unto Abraham, [e] And in thy seed shall all the kindreds of the earth be blessed.

26 [f] Unto you first God, having raised up his Son Jesus, [g] sent him to bless you, [h] in turning away every one of you from his iniquities.

CHAP. IV.

1 The rulers of the Jews offended with Peter's sermon, 4 (though thousands of the people were converted that heard the word) imprison him and John. 5 After, upon examination, Peter boldly preaching the lame man to be healed by the name of Jesus, and that by the same Jesus only we must be eternally saved, 13 they command him and John to preach no more in that name, adding also threatening, 23 whereupon the church fleeth to prayer. 31 And God, by moving the place where they were assembled, testified that he heard their prayer: confirming the church with the gift of the Holy Ghost, and with mutual love and charity.

AND as they spake unto the people, the priest, and the [*] captain of the temple, and the Sadducees, came upon them,

2 [a] Being grieved that they taught the people, and preached through Jesus the resurrection from the dead.

3 And they laid hands on them, and put them in hold unto the next day: for it was now eventide.

4 Howbeit many of them which heard the word believed; and the number of the men was about five thousand.

5 ¶ And it came to pass on the morrow, that their rulers, and elders, and Scribes,

6 And [b] Annas the High Priest, and Caiaphas, and John, and Alexander, and as many as were of the kindred of the High Priest, were gathered together at Jerusalem.

7 And when they had set them in the midst, they asked, [c] By what power, or by what name, have ye done this?

A. D. 33.

8 [d] Then Peter, filled with the Holy Ghost, said unto them, Ye rulers of the people, and elders of Israel,

9 If we this day be examined of the good deed done to the impotent man, by what means he is made whole;

10 Be it known unto you all, and to all the people of Israel, [e] that by the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whom ye crucified, [f] whom God raised from the dead, even by him doth this man stand here before you whole.

11 [g] This is the stone which was set at nought of you builders, which is become the head of the corner.

12 [h] Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved.

13 ¶ Now when they saw the boldness of Peter and John, [i] and perceived that they were unlearned and ignorant men, they marvelled; and they took knowledge of them, that they had been with Jesus.

14 And beholding the man which was healed [k] standing with them, they could say nothing against it.

15 But when they had commanded them to go aside out of the council, they conferred among themselves,

16 Saying, [l] What shall we do to these men? for that indeed a notable miracle hath been done by them is [m] manifest to all them that dwell in Jerusalem; and we cannot deny it.

17 But that it spread no further among the people, let us straitly threaten them, that they speak henceforth to no man in this name.

18 [n] And they called them, and commanded them not to speak at all nor teach in the name of Jesus.

19 But Peter and John answered and said unto them, [o] Whether it be right in the sight of God to hearken unto you more than unto God, judge ye.

20 [p] For we cannot but speak the things which [q] we have seen and heard.

21 So when they had further threatened them, they let them go, finding nothing how they might punish them, [r] because of the people: for all men glorified God for [s] that which was done.

22 For the man was above forty years old, on whom this miracle of healing was shewed.

23 ¶ And being let go, [t] they went to their own company, and reported all that the Chief Priests and elders had said unto them.

24 And when they heard that, they lifted up their voice to God with one accord, and said, Lord, [u] thou art God, which hast made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and all that in them is:

25 Who by the mouth of thy servant David hast said, [x] Why did the heathen rage, and the people imagine vain things?

26 The kings of the earth stood up, and the rulers were gathered together against the Lord, and against his Christ.

A. D. 33.

27 For [y] of a truth against [z] thy holy child Jesus, [a] whom thou hast anointed, both Herod, and Pontius Pilate, with the Gentiles, and the people of Israel, were gathered together,

28 [b] For to do whatsoever thy hand and thy counsel determined before to be done.

29 And now, Lord, behold their threatenings: and grant unto thy servants, [c] that with all boldness they may speak thy word,

30 By stretching forth thine hand to heal; [d] and that signs and wonders may be done [e] by the name of [f] thy holy child Jesus.

31 ¶ And when they had prayed, [g] the place was shaken where they were assembled together; and they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, [h] and they spake the word of God with boldness.

32 And the multitude of them that believed [i] were of one heart and of one soul: [k] neither said any of them that ought of the things which he possessed was his own; but they had all things common.

33 And with [l] great power gave the apostles [m] witness of the resurrection of the Lord Jesus: and [n] great grace was upon them all.

34 Neither was there any among them that lacked: [o] for as many as were possessors of lands or houses sold them, and brought the prices of the things that were sold,

35 [p] And laid them down at the apostles' feet: [q] and distribution was made unto every man according as he had need.

36 And Joses, who by the apostles was surnamed Barnabas, (which is, being interpreted, The son of consolation,) a Levite, and of the country of Cyprus, 37 [r] Having land, sold it, and brought the money, and laid it at the apostles' feet.

CHAP. V.

1 After that Ananias and Sapphira his wife for their hypocrisy at Peter's rebuke had fallen down dead, 12 and that the rest of the apostles had wrought many miracles, 14 to the increase of the faith: 17 the apostles are again imprisoned, 19 but delivered by an angel bidding them to preach openly to all: 21 when, after their teaching accordingly in the temple, 29 and before the council, 33 they are in danger to be killed, through the advice of Gamaliel, a great counsellor among the Jews, they be kept alive, 40 and are but beaten: for which they glorify God, and cease no day from preaching.

BUT a certain man named Ananias, with Sapphira, his wife, sold a possession,

2 And kept back part of the price, his wife also being privy to it, [a] and brought a certain part, and laid it at the apostles' feet.

3 [b] But Peter said, Ananias, why hath [c] Satan filled thine heart [*] to lie to the Holy Ghost, and to keep back part of the price of the land?

4 Whiles it remained, was it not thine own? and after it was sold, was it not in thine own power? why hast thou conceived this thing in thine heart? thou hast not lied unto men, but unto God.

5 And Ananias hearing these words [d] fell

40 And to him they agreed: and when they had [q] called the apostles, [r] and beaten them, they commanded that they should not speak in the name of Jesus, and let them go.

41 ¶ And they departed from the presence of the council, [s] rejoicing that they were counted worthy to suffer shame for his name.

42 And daily [t] in the temple, and in every house, [u] they ceased not to teach and preach Jesus Christ.

CHAP. VI.

1 The apostles, desirous to have the poor regarded for their bodily sustenance, as also careful themselves to dispense the word of God, the food of the soul, 3 appoint the office of deaconship to seven chosen men. 5 Of whom Stephen, a man full of faith, and of the Holy Ghost, is one. 12 Who is taken of those whom he confounded in disputing, 13 and after falsely accused of blasphemy against the law and the temple.

AND in those days, [a] when the number of the disciples was multiplied, there arose a murmuring of the [b] Grecians against the Hebrews, because their widows were neglected [c] in the daily ministration.

2 Then the twelve called the multitude of the disciples unto them, and said, [d] It is not reason that we should leave the word of God, and serve tables.

3 Wherefore, brethren, [e] look ye out among you seven men of honest report, full of the Holy Ghost and wisdom, whom we may appoint over this business.

4 But we [f] will give ourselves continually to prayer, and to the ministry of the word.

5 ¶ And the saying pleased the whole multitude: and they chose Stephen, [g] a man full of faith and of the Holy Ghost, and [h] Philip, and Prochorus, and Nicanor, and Timon, and Parmenas, and [i] Nicolas a proselyte of Antioch:

6 Whom they set before the apostles: and [k] when they had prayed, [l] they laid their hands on them.

7 And [m] the word of God increased; and the number of the disciples multiplied in Jerusalem greatly; and a great company [n] of the Priests were obedient to the faith.

8 And Stephen, full of faith and power, did great wonders and miracles among the people.

9 ¶ Then there arose certain of the synagogue, which is called the synagogue of the Libertines, and Cyrenians, and Alexandrians, and of them of Cilicia and of Asia, disputing with Stephen.

10 And [o] they were not able to resist the wisdom and the spirit by which he spake.

11 [p] Then they suborned men, which said, We have heard him speak blasphemous words against Moses, and against God.

12 And they stirred up the people, and the elders, and the Scribes, and came upon him, and caught him, and brought him to the council,

13 And set up false witnesses, which said, This man ceaseth not to speak blasphemous words against this holy place, and the law:

A. D. 33.

14 [q] For we have heard him say, that this Jesus of Nazareth shall [r] destroy this place, and shall change the [*] customs which Moses delivered us.

15 And all that sat in the council, looking stedfastly on him, saw his face as it had been the face of an angel.

CHAP. VII.

1 Stephen, permitted to answer to the accusation of blasphemy, 2 sheweth that Abraham worshipped God rightly, and how God chose the fathers 20 before Moses was born, and before the tabernacle and temple were built: 37 that Moses himself witnessed of Christ: 44 and that all outward ceremonies were ordained according to the heavenly pattern, to last but for a time: 51 reprehending their rebellion, and murdering of Christ, the Just One, whom the prophets foretold should come into the world. 54 Wherupon they stone him to death, who commendeth his soul to Jesus, and humbly prayeth for them.

THEN said the High Priest, Are these things so?

2 And he said, [a] Men, brethren, and fathers, hearken; The God of glory appeared unto our father Abraham, when he was in Mesopotamia, before he dwelt in Charran,

3 And said unto him, [b] Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and come into the land which I shall shew thee.

4 Then [c] came he out of the land of the Chaldeans, and dwelt in Charran: and from thence, when his father was dead, he removed him into this land, wherein ye now dwell.

5 And he gave him none inheritance in it, no, not so much as to set his foot on: [d] yet he promised that he would give it to him for a possession, and to his seed after him, when as yet he had no child.

6 And God spake on this wise, [e] That his seed should sojourn in a strange land; and that they should bring them into bondage, and entreat them evil [f] four hundred years.

7 And the nation to whom they shall be in bondage will I judge, said God: and after that shall they come forth, and [g] serve me in this place.

8 [h] And he gave him the covenant of circumcision: [i] and so Abraham begat Isaac, and circumcised him the eighth day; [k] and Isaac begat Jacob; and [l] Jacob begat the twelve patriarchs.

9 [m] And the patriarchs, moved with envy, sold Joseph into Egypt: [n] but God was with him,

10 And delivered him out of all his afflictions, [o] and gave him favour and wisdom in the sight of Pharaoh king of Egypt; and he made him governor over Egypt and all his house.

11 [p] Now there came a dearth over all the land of Egypt and Chanaan, and great affliction: and our fathers found no sustenance.

12 [q] But when Jacob heard that there was corn in Egypt, he sent out our fathers first.

24 And seeing one of them suffer wrong, he defended him, and avenged him that was oppressed, and smote the Egyptian:

25 † For he supposed his brethren would have understood how that God by his hand would deliver them: but they understood not.

26 [i] And the next day he shewed himself unto them as they strove, and would have set them at one again, saying, Sirs, ye are brethren; why do ye wrong one to another?

27 But he that did his neighbour wrong thrust him away, saying, [k] Who made thee a ruler and a judge over us?

28 Wilt thou kill me, as thou diddest the Egyptian yesterday?

29 [l] Then fled Moses at this saying, and was a stranger in the land of Madian, where he begat two sons.

30 [m] And when forty years were expired, there appeared to him in the wilderness of mount Sina an angel of the Lord in a flame of fire in a bush.

31 When Moses saw it, he wondered at the sight: and as he drew near to behold it, the voice of the Lord came unto him, 32 Saying, [n] I am the God of thy fathers, the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. Then Moses trembled, and durst not behold.

33 [o] Then said the Lord to him, Put off thy shoes from thy feet: for the place where thou standest is holy ground.

34 [p] I have seen, I have seen the affliction of my people which is in Egypt, and I have heard their groaning, and am come down to deliver them. And now come, I will send thee into Egypt.

35 This Moses whom they refused, saying, Who made thee a ruler and a judge? the same did God send to be a ruler and a deliverer [q] by the hand of the angel which appeared to him in the bush.

36 [r] He brought them out, after that he had [s] shewed wonders and signs in the land of Egypt, [t] and in the Red sea, [u] and in the wilderness forty years.

37 ¶ This is that Moses, which said unto the children of Israel, [x] A prophet shall the Lord your God raise up unto you of your brethren, ‡ like unto me; [y] him shall ye hear.

38 [z] This is he, that was in the Church in the wilderness with [a] the angel which spake to him in the mount Sina, and with our fathers: [b] who received the lively [c] oracles to give unto us:

39 To whom our fathers would not obey, but thrust him from them, and in their hearts turned back again into Egypt,

40 [d] Saying unto Aaron, Make us gods to go before us: for as for this Moses, which brought us out of the land of Egypt, we wot not what is become of him.

41 [e] And they made a calf in those days, and offered sacrifice unto the idol, and rejoiced in the works of their own hands.

42 Then [f] God turned, and gave them up to worship [g] the host of heaven; as it is written in the book of the prophets, [h] O ye house of Israel, have ye offered to me slain beasts and sacrifices by the space of forty years in the wilderness?

43 Yea, ye took up the tabernacle of Moloch, and the star of your god Remphan, figures which ye made to worship them: and I will carry you away beyond Babylon.

44 Our fathers had the tabernacle of witness in the wilderness, as he had appointed, § speaking unto Moses, [i] that he should make it according to the fashion that he had seen.

45 [k] Which also our fathers ‖ that came after brought in with Jesus into the possession of the Gentiles, [l] whom God drave out before the face of our fathers, unto the days of David;

46 [m] Who found favour before God, and [n] desired to find a tabernacle for the God of Jacob.

47 [o] But Solomon built him an house.

48 Howbeit [p] the most High dwelleth not in temples made with hands; as saith the prophet,

49 [q] Heaven is my throne, and earth is my footstool: what house will ye build me? saith the Lord: or what is the place of my rest?

A. D. 33.

50 Hath not my hand made all these things?

51 ¶ Ye [r] stiffnecked and [s] uncircumcised in heart and ears, ye do always resist the Holy Ghost: as your fathers did, so do ye.

52 [t] Which of the prophets have not your fathers persecuted? and they have slain them which shewed before of the coming of [u] the Just One; of whom ye have been now the betrayers and murderers:

53 [x] Who have received the law by the disposition of angels, and have not kept it.

54 ¶ [y] When they heard these things, they were cut to the heart, and they gnashed on him with their teeth.

55 But he, [z] being full of the Holy Ghost, looked up stedfastly into heaven, and saw the glory of God, and Jesus standing on the right hand of God, 56 And said, [a] Behold, I see the heavens opened, and the [b] Son of man standing on the right hand of God.

57 Then they cried out with a loud voice, and stopped their ears, and ran upon him with one accord,

58 And [c] cast him out of the city, [d] and stoned him: and [e] the witnesses laid down their clothes at a young man's feet, whose name was Saul.

59 And they stoned Stephen, [f] calling upon God, and saying, Lord Jesus, [g] receive my spirit.

60 And he [h] kneeled down, and cried with a loud voice, [i] Lord, lay not this sin to their charge. And when he had said this, he fell asleep.

CHAP. VIII.

1 By occasion of the persecution in Jerusalem, the church being planted in Samaria, 5 by Philip the deacon who preached, did miracles, and baptized many, among the rest Simon the sorcerer, a great seducer of the people: 14 Peter and John come to confirm and enlarge the church: where, by prayer and imposition of hands giving the Holy Ghost, 18 when Simon would have bought the like power of them, 20 Peter sharply reproving his hypocrisy, and covetousness, and exhorting him to repentance, together with John preaching the word of the Lord, return to Jerusalem. 26 But the angel sendeth Philip to teach and baptize the Ethiopian eunuch.

A. D. 34.

AND [a] Saul was consenting unto his death. And at that time there was a great persecution against the church which was at Jerusalem; and [b] they were all scattered abroad throughout the regions of Judæa and Samaria, except the apostles.

2 And devout men carried Stephen to his burial, and [c] made great lamentation over him.

3 As for Saul, [d] he made havock of the Church, entering into every house, and haling men and women committed them to prison.

4 Therefore [e] they that were scattered abroad went every where preaching the word.

5 Then [f] Philip went down to the city of Samaria, and preached Christ unto them.

6 And the people with one accord gave heed unto those things which Philip spake, hearing and seeing the miracles which he did.

7 For [g] unclean spirits, crying with loud voice, came out of many that were possessed with them: and many taken with palsies, and that were lame, were healed.

8 And there was great joy in that city.

9 But there was a certain man, called Simon, which beforetime in the same city [h] used sorcery, and bewitched the people of Samaria, [i] giving out that himself was some great one:

10 To whom they all gave heed, from the least to the greatest, saying, This man is the great power of God.

11 And to him they had regard, because that of long time he had bewitched them with sorceries.

12 But when they believed Philip preaching the things [k] concerning the kingdom of God, and the name of Jesus Christ, they were baptized, both men and women.

13 Then Simon himself believed also: and when he was baptized, he continued with Philip, and wondered, beholding the [*] miracles and signs which were done.

14 Now when the apostles which were at Jerusalem heard that Samaria had received the word of God, they sent unto them Peter and John:

15 Who, when they were come down, prayed for them, [l] that they might receive the Holy Ghost:

16 (For [m] as yet he was fallen upon none of them: only [n] they were baptized in [o] the name of the Lord Jesus.)

17 Then [p] laid they their hands on them, and they received the Holy Ghost.

18 And when Simon saw that through laying on of the apostles' hands the Holy Ghost was given, he offered them money,

19 Saying, Give me also this power, that on whomsoever I lay hands, he may receive the Holy Ghost.

20 But Peter said unto him, Thy money perish with thee, because [q] thou hast thought that [r] the gift of God may be purchased with money.

21 Thou hast neither part nor lot in this matter: for thy heart is not right in the sight of God.

22 Repent therefore of this thy wickedness, and pray God, [s] if perhaps the thought of thine heart may be forgiven thee.

23 For I perceive that thou art in [t] the gall of bitterness, and in the bond of iniquity.

24 Then answered Simon, and said, [u] Pray ye to the Lord for me, that none of these things which ye have spoken come upon me.

25 And they, when they had testified and preached the word of the Lord, returned to Jerusalem, and preached the Gospel in many villages of the Samaritans.

26 And the angel of the Lord spake unto

A. D 34. Philip, saying, Arise, and go toward the south unto the way that goeth down from Jerusalem unto Gaza, which is desert.

27 And he arose and went: and, behold, [a] a man of Ethiopia, an eunuch of great authority under Candace queen of the Ethiopians, who had the charge of all her treasure, and [b] had come to Jerusalem for to worship, 28 Was returning, and sitting in his chariot read Esaias the prophet.

29 Then the Spirit said unto Philip, Go near, and join thyself to this chariot.

30 And Philip ran thither to him, and heard him read the prophet Esaias, and said, Understandest thou what thou readest?

31 And he said, How can I, except some man should guide me? And he desired Philip that he would come up and sit with him.

32 The place of the Scripture which he read was this, [z] He was led as a sheep to the slaughter; and like a lamb dumb before his shearer, so opened he not his mouth:

33 In his humiliation his judgment was taken away: and who shall declare his generation? for his life is taken from the earth.

34 And the eunuch answered Philip, and said, I pray thee, of whom speaketh the prophet this? of himself, or of some other man?

35 Then Philip opened his mouth, [a] and began at the same Scripture, and preached unto him Jesus.

36 And as they went on their way, they came unto a certain water: and the eunuch said, See, here is water; [b] what doth hinder me to be baptized?

37 And Philip said, [c] If thou believest with all thine heart, thou mayest. And he answered and said, [d] I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God.

38 And he commanded the chariot to stand still: and they went down both into the water, both Philip and the eunuch; and he baptized him.

39 And when they were come up out of the water, [e] the Spirit of the Lord caught away Philip, that the eunuch saw him no more: and he went on his way rejoicing.

40 But Philip was found at Azotus: and passing through he preached in all the cities, till he came to Cæsarea.

CHAP. IX.

1 Saul, going towards Damascus, 4 is stricken down to the earth, 10 is called to the apostleship, 18 and is baptized by Ananias. 20 He preacheth Christ boldly. 23 The Jews lay wait to kill him: 29 so do the Grecians, but he escapeth both. 31 The church having rest, Peter healeth Æneas of the palsy, 36 and restoreth Tabitha to life.

A. D 35. AND [a] Saul, yet breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord, went unto the High Priest,

2 And desired of him letters to Damascus to the synagogues, that if he found any [*] of this way, whether they were men or women, he might bring them bound unto Jerusalem.

3 And [b] as he journeyed, he came near Damascus: and suddenly there shined round about him a light from heaven:

4 And he fell to the earth, and heard a voice saying unto him, Saul, Saul, [c] why persecutest thou me?

5 And he said, Who art thou, Lord? And the Lord said, I am Jesus whom thou persecutest: [d] it is hard for thee to kick against the pricks.

6 And he trembling and astonished said, Lord, [e] what wilt thou have me to do? And the Lord said unto him, Arise, and go into the city, and it shall be told thee what thou must do.

7 And [f] the men which journeyed with him stood speechless, hearing a voice, but seeing no man.

8 And Saul arose from the earth; and when his eyes were opened, he saw no man: but they led him by the hand, and brought him into Damascus.

9 And he was three days without sight, and neither did eat nor drink.

10 ¶ And there was a certain disciple at Damascus, [g] named Ananias; and to him said the Lord in a vision, Ananias. And he said, Behold, I am here, Lord.

11 And the Lord said unto him, Arise, and go into the street which is called Straight, and enquire in the house of Judas for one called Saul, [h] of Tarsus: for, behold, he prayeth, 12 And hath seen in a vision a man named Ananias coming in, and putting his hand on him, that he might receive his sight.

13 Then Ananias answered, Lord, I have heard by many of this man, [i] how much evil he hath done to thy saints at Jerusalem:

14 And here he hath authority from the Chief Priests to bind all [k] that call on thy name.

15 But the Lord said unto him, Go thy way: for [l] he is a chosen vessel unto me, to bear my name before [m] the Gentiles, and [n] kings, and the children of Israel:

16 For [o] I will shew him how great things he must suffer for my name's sake.

17 [p] And Ananias went his way, and entered into the house; and [q] putting his hands on him said, Brother Saul, the Lord, even Jesus, that appeared unto thee in the way as thou camest, hath sent me, that thou mightest receive thy sight, and [r] be filled with the Holy Ghost.

18 And immediately there fell from his eyes as it had been scales: and he received sight forthwith, and arose, and was baptized.

19 And when he had received meat, he was strengthened. [s] Then was Saul certain days with the disciples which were at Damascus.

22 But Saul increased the more in strength, [z] and confounded the Jews which dwelt at Damascus, proving that this is very Christ.

A. D. 37. 23 ¶ And after that many days were fulfilled, [y] the Jews took counsel to kill him:

24 [z] But their laying await was known of Saul. And they watched the gates day and night to kill him.

25 Then the disciples took him by night, and [a] let him down by the wall in a basket.

26 And [b] when Saul was come to Jerusalem, he assayed to join himself to the disciples: but they were all afraid of him, and believed not that he was a disciple.

27 [c] But Barnabas took him, and brought him to the apostles, and declared unto them how he had seen the Lord in the way, and that he had spoken to him, [d] and how he had preached boldly at Damascus in the name of Jesus.

28 And [e] he was with them coming in and going out at Jerusalem.

29 And he spake boldly in the name of the Lord Jesus, and disputed against the [f] Grecians: [g] but they went about to slay him.

30 Which when the brethren knew, they brought him down to Cæsarea, and sent him forth to Tarsus.

31 [h] Then had the churches rest throughout all Judæa and Galilee and Samaria, and were edified; and walking in the fear of the Lord, and in the comfort of the Holy Ghost, were multiplied.

A D 38. 32 ¶ And it came to pass, as Peter passed [i] throughout all quarters, he came down also to the saints which dwelt at Lydda.

33 And there he found a certain man named Æneas, which had kept his bed eight years, and was sick of the palsy.

34 And Peter said unto him, Æneas, [k] Jesus Christ maketh thee whole: arise, and make thy bed. And he arose immediately.

35 And all that dwelt in Lydda and [l] Saron saw him, and [m] turned to the Lord.

36 ¶ Now there was at Joppa a certain disciple named Tabitha, which by interpretation is called † Dorcas: this woman was full [n] of good works and almsdeeds which she did.

37 And it came to pass in those days, that she was sick, and died: whom when they had washed, they laid her in [o] an upper chamber.

38 And forasmuch as Lydda was nigh to Joppa, and the disciples had heard that Peter was there, they sent unto him two men, desiring him that he would not ‡ delay to come to them.

39 Then Peter arose and went with them. When he was come, they brought him into the upper chamber: and all the widows stood by him weeping, and shewing the coats and garments which Dorcas made, while she was with them. A. D. 39.

40 But Peter [p] put them all forth, and [q] kneeled down, and prayed; and turning him to the body [r] said, Tabitha, arise. And she opened her eyes: and when she saw Peter, she sat up.

41 And he gave her his hand, and lifted her up, and when he had called the saints and widows, he presented her alive.

42 And it was known throughout all Joppa; [s] and many believed in the Lord.

43 And it came to pass, that he tarried many days in Joppa with one [t] Simon a tanner.

CHAP. X.

1 Cornelius, a devout man, 5 being commanded by an angel, sendeth for Peter: 11 who by a vision 15, 20 is taught not to despise the Gentiles. 31 As he preacheth Christ to Cornelius and his company, 44 the Holy Ghost falleth on them, 48 and they are baptized.

A D. 41. THERE was a certain man in Cæsarea called Cornelius, a centurion of the band called the Italian band,

2 [a] A devout man, and one that [b] feared God with all his house, which gave much alms to the people, and prayed to God alway.

3 [c] He saw in a vision evidently about the ninth hour of the day an angel of God coming in to him, and saying unto him, Cornelius.

4 And when he looked on him, he was afraid, and said, What is it, Lord? And he said unto him, Thy prayers and thine alms are come up for a memorial before God.

5 And now send men to Joppa, and call for one Simon, whose surname is Peter:

6 He lodgeth with one [d] Simon a tanner, whose house is by the sea side: [e] he shall tell thee what thou oughtest to do.

7 And when the angel which spake unto Cornelius was departed, he called two of his household servants, and a devout soldier of them that waited on him continually;

8 And when he had declared all these things unto them, he sent them to Joppa.

9 ¶ On the morrow, as they went on their journey, and drew nigh unto the city, Peter [f] went up upon the housetop to pray, about the sixth hour:

10 And he became very hungry, and would have eaten: but while they made ready, he fell into a trance,

11 And [g] saw heaven opened, and a certain vessel descending unto him, as it had been a great sheet knit at the four corners, and let down to the earth:

12 Wherein were all manner of fourfooted beasts of the earth, and wild beasts, and creeping things, and fowls of the air.

13 And there came a voice to him, Rise, Peter: kill, and eat.

14 But Peter said, Not so, Lord; [h] for I have never eaten any thing that is common or unclean.

15 And the voice spake unto him again

16 This was done thrice: and the vessel was received up again into heaven.

17 Now while Peter doubted in himself what this vision which he had seen should mean, behold, the men which were sent from Cornelius had made enquiry for Simon's house, and stood before the gate,

19 ¶ While Peter thought on the vision, [k] the Spirit said unto him, Behold, three men seek thee.

20 [l] Arise therefore, and get thee down, and go with them, doubting nothing: for I have sent them.

21 Then Peter went down to the men which were sent unto him from Cornelius; and said, Behold, I am he whom ye seek: what is the cause wherefore ye are come?

22 And they said, [m] Cornelius the centurion, a just man, and one that feareth God, and [n] of good report among all the nation of the Jews, was warned from God by an holy angel to send for thee into his house, and to hear words of thee.

23 Then called he them in, and lodged them. And on the morrow Peter went away with them, [o] and certain brethren from Joppa accompanied him.

24 And the morrow after they entered into Cæsarea. And Cornelius waited for them, and had called together his kinsmen and near friends.

25 And as Peter was coming in Cornelius met him, and fell down at his feet, and worshipped him.

26 But Peter took him up, saying, [p] Stand up; I myself also am a man.

27 And as he talked with him, he went in and found many that were come together.

28 And he said unto them, Ye know how [q] that it is an unlawful thing for a man that is a Jew to keep company, or come unto one of another nation; but [r] God hath shewed me that I should not call any man common or unclean.

29 Therefore came I unto you without gainsaying, as soon as I was sent for: I ask therefore for what intent ye have sent for me?

30 And Cornelius said, Four days ago I was fasting until this hour; and at the ninth hour I prayed in my house, and, behold, [s] a man stood before me [t] in bright clothing,

31 And said, Cornelius, [u] thy prayer is heard, [x] and thine alms are had in remembrance in the sight of God.

32 Send therefore to Joppa, and call hither Simon, whose surname is Peter; he is lodged in the house of one Simon a tanner by the sea side: who, when he cometh, shall speak unto thee.

33 Immediately therefore I sent to thee; and thou hast well done that thou art come.

Now therefore are we all here present before God, to hear all things that are commanded thee of God.

34 ¶ Then Peter opened his mouth, and said, [y] Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons:

35 But [z] in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him.

36 The word which God sent unto the children of Israel, [a] preaching peace by Jesus Christ: (b he is Lord of all:)

37 That word, I say, ye know, which was published throughout all Judæa, and [c] began from Galilee, after the baptism which John preached;

38 How [d] God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Ghost and with power: who went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed of the devil; [e] for God was with him.

39 And [f] we are witnesses of all things which he did both in the land of the Jews, and in Jerusalem; [g] whom they slew and hanged on a tree:

40 Him [h] God raised up the third day, and shewed him openly;

41 [i] Not to all the people, but unto witnesses chosen before of God, even to us, [k] who did eat and drink with him after he rose from the dead.

42 And [l] he commanded us to preach unto the people, and to testify [m] that it is he which was ordained of God to be the Judge [n] of quick and dead.

43 [o] To him give all the prophets witness, that through his name [p] whosoever believeth in him shall receive remission of sins.

44 ¶ While Peter yet spake these words, [q] the Holy Ghost fell on all them which heard the word.

45 [r] And they of the circumcision which believed were astonished, as many as came with Peter, [s] because that on the Gentiles also was poured out the gift of the Holy Ghost.

46 For they heard them speak with tongues, and magnify God. Then answered Peter, 47 Can any man forbid water, that these should not be baptized, which have received the Holy Ghost [t] as well as we?

48 [u] And he commanded them to be baptized [x] in the name of the Lord. Then prayed they him to tarry certain days.

CHAP. XI.

1 Peter, being accused for going in to the Gentiles, 5 maketh his defence, 18 which is accepted. 19 The gospel being spread into Phœnice, and Cyprus, and Antioch, Barnabas is sent to confirm them. 26 The disciples there are first called Christians. 27 They send relief to the brethren in Judæa in time of famine.

AND the apostles and brethren that were in Judæa heard that the Gentiles had also received the word of God.

2 And when Peter was come up to Jerusalem, [a] they that were of the circumcision contended with him,

A. D. 41.

3 Saying, [b] Thou wentest in to men uncircumcised, [c] and didst eat with them.

4 But Peter rehearsed the matter from the beginning, and expounded it [d] by order unto them, saying,

5 [e] I was in the city of Joppa praying: and in a trance I saw a vision, A certain vessel descend, as it had been a great sheet, let down from heaven by four corners; and it came even to me:

6 Upon the which when I had fastened mine eyes, I considered, and saw fourfooted beasts of the earth, and wild beasts, and creeping things, and fowls of the air.

7 And I heard a voice saying unto me, Arise, Peter; slay and eat.

8 But I said, Not so, Lord: for nothing common or unclean hath at any time entered into my mouth.

9 But the voice answered me again from heaven, What God hath cleansed, that call not thou common.

10 And this was done three times: and all were drawn up again into heaven.

11 And, behold, immediately there were three men already come unto the house where I was, sent from Cæsarea unto me.

12 And [f] the spirit bade me go with them, nothing doubting. Moreover [g] these six brethren accompanied me, and we entered into the man's house:

13 [h] And he shewed us how he had seen an angel in his house, which stood and said unto him, Send men to Joppa, and call for Simon, whose surname is Peter;

14 Who shall tell thee words, whereby thou and all thy house shall be saved.

15 And as I began to speak, the Holy Ghost fell on them [i] as on us at the beginning.

16 Then remembered I the word of the Lord, how that he said, [k] John indeed baptized with water; but [l] ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost.

17 [m] Forasmuch then as God gave them the like gift as he did unto us, who believed on the Lord Jesus Christ; [n] what was I, that I could withstand God?

18 When they heard these things, they held their peace, and glorified God, saying, [o] Then hath God also to the Gentiles granted repentance unto life.

19 ¶ [p] Now they which were scattered abroad upon the persecution that arose about Stephen travelled as far as Phenice, and Cyprus, and Antioch, preaching the word to none but unto the Jews only.

20 And some of them were men of Cyprus and Cyrene, which, when they were come to Antioch, spake unto [q] the Grecians, preaching the Lord Jesus.

21 And [r] the hand of the Lord was with them: and a great number believed, and [s] turned unto the Lord.

A. D. 41.

22 ¶ Then tidings of these things came unto the ears of the church which was in Jerusalem: and they sent forth [t] Barnabas, that he should go as far as Antioch.

A. D. 42.

23 Who, when he came, and had seen the grace of God, was glad, and [u] exhorted them all, that with purpose of heart they would cleave unto the Lord.

24 For he was a good man, and [x] full of the Holy Ghost and of faith: [y] and much people was added unto the Lord.

25 Then departed Barnabas to [z] Tarsus, for to seek Saul:

A. D. 43.

26 And when he had found him, he brought him unto Antioch. And it came to pass, that a whole year they assembled themselves * with the church, and taught much people. And the disciples were called Christians first in Antioch.

* Or, in the church.

27 ¶ And in these days came [a] prophets from Jerusalem unto Antioch.

28 And there stood up one of them named [b] Agabus, and signified by the spirit that there should be great dearth throughout all the world: which came to pass in the days of Claudius Cæsar.

29 Then the disciples, every man according to his ability, determined to send [c] relief unto the brethren which dwelt in Judæa:

30 [d] Which also they did, and sent it to the elders by the hands of Barnabas and Saul.

4 And [c] when he had apprehended him, he put him in prison, and delivered him to four quaternions of soldiers to keep him; intending after Easter to bring him forth to the people.

5 Peter therefore was kept in prison: but † prayer was made without ceasing of the Church unto God for him.

† Or, instant and earnest prayer was made

6 And when Herod would have brought him forth, the same night Peter was sleeping between two soldiers, bound with two chains: and the keepers before the door kept the prison.

7 And, behold, [d] the angel of the Lord came upon him, and a light shined in the prison: and he smote Peter on the side, and

8 And the angel said unto him, Gird thyself, and bind on thy sandals. And so he did. And he saith unto him, Cast thy garment about thee, and follow me.

9 And he went out, and followed him; and [e] wist not that it was true which was done by the angel; but thought [f] he saw a vision.

10 When they were past the first and the second ward, they came unto the iron gate that leadeth unto the city; [g] which opened to them of his own accord: and they went out, and passed on through one street; and forthwith the angel departed from him.

11 And when Peter was come to himself, he said, Now I know of a surety, that [h] the Lord hath sent his angel, and [i] hath delivered me out of the hand of Herod, and from all the expectation of the people of the Jews.

12 And when he had considered the thing, [k] he came to the house of Mary the mother of [l] John, whose surname was Mark; where many were gathered together [m] praying.

13 And as Peter knocked at the door of the gate, a damsel came ‡ to hearken, named Rhoda.

14 And when she knew Peter's voice, she opened not the gate for gladness, but ran in, and told how Peter stood before the gate.

15 And they said unto her, Thou art mad. But she constantly affirmed that it was even so. Then said they, [n] It is his angel.

16 But Peter continued knocking: and when they had opened the door, and saw him, they were astonished.

17 But he, [o] beckoning unto them with the hand to hold their peace, declared unto them how the Lord had brought him out of the prison. And he said, Go shew these things unto James, and to the brethren. And he departed, and went into another place.

18 Now as soon as it was day, there was no small stir among the soldiers, what was become of Peter.

19 And when Herod had sought for him, and found him not, he examined the keepers, and commanded that they should be put to death. And he went down from Judæa to Cæsarea, and there abode.

20 ¶ And Herod § was highly displeased with them of Tyre and Sidon: but they came with one accord to him, and, having made Blastus ‖ the king's chamberlain their friend, desired peace; because [p] their country was nourished by the king's country.

21 And upon a set day Herod, arrayed in royal apparel, sat upon his throne, and made an oration unto them.

22 And the people gave a shout, saying, It is the voice of a god, and not of a man.

23 And immediately the angel of the Lord [q] smote him, because [r] he gave not God the glory: and he was eaten of worms, and gave up the ghost.

24 ¶ But [s] the word of God grew and multiplied.

25 And Barnabas and Saul returned from Jerusalem, when they had fulfilled their [t] ministry, and [t] took with them [u] John, whose surname was Mark.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Paul and Barnabas are chosen to go to the Gentiles. 7 Of Sergius Paulus, and Elymas the sorcerer. 14 Paul preacheth at Antioch, that Jesus is Christ. 42 The Gentiles believe: 45 but the Jews gainsay and blaspheme: 46 whereupon they turn to the Gentiles. 48 As many as were ordained to life believed.

NOW there were [a] in the church that was at Antioch certain prophets and teachers; as [b] Barnabas, and Simeon that was called Niger, and [c] Lucius of Cyrene, and Manaen, [*] which had been brought up with Herod the tetrarch, and Saul.

2 As they ministered to the Lord, and fasted, the Holy Ghost said, [d] Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work [e] whereunto I have called them.

3 And [f] when they had fasted and prayed, and laid their hands on them, they sent them away.

4 ¶ So they, being sent forth by the Holy Ghost, departed unto Seleucia; and from thence they sailed to [g] Cyprus.

5 And when they were at Salamis, [h] they preached the word of God in the synagogues of the Jews: and they had also [i] John to their minister.

6 And when they had gone through the isle unto Paphos, they found [k] a certain sorcerer, a false prophet, a Jew, whose name was Bar-jesus:

7 Which was with the deputy of the country, Sergius Paulus, a prudent man; who called for Barnabas and Saul, and desired to hear the word of God.

8 But [l] Elymas the sorcerer (for so is his name by interpretation) withstood them, seeking to turn away the deputy from the faith.

9 Then Saul, (who also is called Paul, [m] filled with the Holy Ghost, set his eyes on him,

10 And said, O full of all subtilty and all mischief, [n] thou child of the devil, thou enemy of all righteousness, wilt thou not cease to pervert the right ways of the Lord?

11 And now, behold, [o] the hand of the Lord is upon thee, and thou shalt be blind, not seeing the sun for a season. And immediately there fell on him a mist and a darkness; and he went about seeking some to lead him by the hand.

12 Then the deputy, when he saw what was done, believed, being astonished at the doctrine of the Lord.

13 Now when Paul and his company loosed from Paphos, they came to Perga in Pamphylia: and [p] John departing from them returned to Jerusalem.

14 ¶ But when they departed from Perga, they came to Antioch in Pisidia, and [q] went into the synagogue on the sabbath day, and sat down.

15 And [r] after the reading of the Law and the Prophets the rulers of the synagogue sent unto them, saying, Ye men and brethren, if ye have [s] any word of exhortation for the people, say on.

16 Then Paul stood up, and [t] beckoning with his hand said, Men of Israel, and [u] ye that fear God, give audience.

17 The God of this people of Israel [x] chose our fathers, and exalted the people [y] when they dwelt as strangers in the land of Egypt, [z] and with an high arm brought he them out of it.

18 And [a] about the time of forty years † suffered he their manners in the wilderness.

19 And when [b] he had destroyed seven nations in the land of Chanaan, [c] he divided their land to them by lot.

20 And after that [d] he gave unto them judges about the space of four hundred and fifty years, [e] until Samuel the prophet.

21 [f] And afterward they desired a king: and God gave unto them Saul the son of Cis, a man of the tribe of Benjamin, by the space of forty years.

22 And [g] when he had removed him, [h] he raised up unto them David to be their king; to whom also he gave testimony, and said, [i] I have found David the son of Jesse, [k] a man after mine own heart, which shall fulfil all my will.

23 [l] Of this man's seed hath God according [m] to his promise raised unto Israel [n] a Saviour, Jesus:

24 [o] When John had first preached before his coming the baptism of repentance to all the people of Israel.

25 And as John fulfilled his course, he said, [p] Whom think ye that I am? I am not he. But, behold, there cometh one after me, whose shoes of his feet I am not worthy to loose.

26 Men and brethren, children of the stock of Abraham, and whosoever among you feareth God, [q] to you is the word of this salvation sent.

27 For they that dwell at Jerusalem, and their rulers, [r] because they knew him not, nor yet the voices of the prophets [s] which are read every sabbath day, [t] they have fulfilled them in condemning him.

28 [u] And though they found no cause of death in him, [x] yet desired they Pilate that he should be slain.

29 [y] And when they had fulfilled all that was written of him, [z] they took him down from the tree, and laid him in a sepulchre.

30 [a] But God raised him from the dead:

31 And [b] he was seen many days of them which came up with him [c] from Galilee to Jerusalem, [d] who are his witnesses unto the people.

32 And we declare unto you glad tidings, how that [e] the promise which was made unto the fathers,

33 God hath fulfilled the same unto us their children, in that he [f] hath raised up Jesus again; as it is also written in the second psalm, [g] Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee.

34 And as concerning that he raised him up from the dead, now no more to return to corruption, he said on this wise, [h] I will give you the sure ‡ mercies of David.

35 Wherefore he saith also in another psalm, [k] Thou shalt not suffer thine Holy One to see corruption.

36 For David, § after he had served his own generation by the will of God, [l] fell on sleep, and was laid unto his fathers, and saw corruption:

37 But he, whom God raised again, saw no corruption.

38 ¶ Be it known unto you therefore, men and brethren, that [k] through this man is preached unto you the forgiveness of sins:

39 And [l] by him all that believe are justified from all things, from which ye could not be justified by the law of Moses.

40 Beware therefore, lest that come upon you, which is spoken of in [m] the prophets;

41 Behold, ye despisers, and wonder, and perish: for I work a work in your days, a work which ye shall in no wise believe, though a man declare it unto you.

42 And when the Jews were gone out of the synagogue, the Gentiles besought that these words might be preached to them ‖ the next sabbath.

43 Now when the congregation was broken up, many of the Jews and religious proselytes followed Paul and Barnabas: who, speaking to them, [n] persuaded them to continue in [o] the grace of God.

44 ¶ And the next sabbath day came almost the whole city together to hear the word of God.

45 But when the Jews saw the multitudes, they were filled with envy, and [p] spake against those things which were spoken by Paul, contradicting and blaspheming.

46 Then Paul and Barnabas waxed bold, and said, [q] It was necessary that the word of God should first have been spoken to you: but [r] seeing ye put it from you, and judge said, [b] Except ye be circumcised [c] after the manner of Moses, ye cannot be saved.

2 When therefore Paul and Barnabas had no small dissension and disputation with them, they determined that [d] Paul and Barnabas, and certain other of them, should go up to Jerusalem unto the apostles and elders about this question.

3 And [e] being brought on their way by the church, they passed through Phenice and Samaria, [f] declaring the conversion of the Gentiles: and they caused great joy unto all the brethren.

4 And when they were come to Jerusalem, they were received of the church, and of the apostles and elders, and [g] they declared all things that God had done with them.

A. D. 52.

5 But there [*] rose up certain of the sect of the Pharisees which believed, saying, [h] That it was needful to circumcise them, and to command them to keep the law of Moses.

6 ¶ And the apostles and elders came together for to consider of this matter.

7 And when there had been much disputing, Peter rose up, and said unto them, [i] Men and brethren, ye know how that a good while ago God made choice among us, that the Gentiles by my mouth should hear the word of the Gospel, and believe.

8 And God, [k] which knoweth the hearts, bare them witness, [l] giving them the Holy Ghost, even as he did unto us;

9 [m] And put no difference between us and them, [n] purifying their hearts by faith.

10 Now therefore why tempt ye God, [o] to put a yoke upon the neck of the disciples, which neither our fathers nor we were able to bear?

11 But [p] we believe that through the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ we shall be saved, even as they.

12 ¶ Then all the multitude kept silence, and gave audience to Barnabas and Paul, declaring what miracles and wonders God had [q] wrought among the Gentiles by them.

13 ¶ And after they had held their peace, [r] James answered, saying, Men and brethren, hearken unto me:

14 [s] Simeon hath declared how God at the first did visit the Gentiles, to take out of them a people for his name.

15 And to this agree the words of the prophets; as it is written,

16 [t] After this I will return, and will build again the tabernacle of David, which is fallen down; and I will build again the ruins thereof, and I will set it up:

17 That the residue of men might seek after the Lord, and all the Gentiles, upon whom my name is called, saith the Lord, who doeth all these things.

18 Known unto God are all his works from the beginning of the world.

19 Wherefore [u] my sentence is, that we trouble not them, which from among the Gentiles [x] are turned to God:

20 But that we write unto them, that they abstain [y] from pollutions of idols, and [z] from fornication, and from things strangled, [a] and from blood.

21 For Moses of old time hath in every city them that preach him, [b] being read in the synagogues every sabbath day.

22 Then pleased it the apostles and elders with the whole church, to send chosen men of their own company to Antioch with Paul and Barnabas; namely, Judas surnamed [*] Barsabas, and Silas, chief men among the brethren:

23 And they wrote letters by them after this manner; The apostles and elders and brethren send greeting unto the brethren which are of the Gentiles in Antioch and Syria and Cilicia:

24 Forasmuch as we have heard, that [d] certain which went out from us have troubled you with words, subverting your souls, saying, Ye must be circumcised, and keep the law: to whom we gave no such commandment:

25 It seemed good unto us, being assembled with one accord, to send chosen men unto you with our beloved Barnabas and Paul,

26 [e] Men that have hazarded their lives for the name of our Lord Jesus Christ.

27 We have sent therefore Judas and Silas, who shall also tell you the same things by † mouth.

28 For it seemed good to the Holy Ghost, and to us, to lay upon you no greater burden than these necessary things;

29 [f] That ye abstain from meats offered to idols, and [g] from blood, and from things strangled, and from fornication: from which if ye keep yourselves, ye shall do well. Fare ye well.

30 So when they were dismissed, they came to Antioch: and when they had gathered the multitude together, they delivered the epistle:

31 Which when they had read, they rejoiced for the ‡ consolation.

32 And Judas and Silas, being prophets also themselves, [h] exhorted the brethren with many words, and confirmed them.

33 And after they had tarried there a space, they were let [i] go in peace from the brethren unto the apostles.

34 Notwithstanding it pleased Silas to abide there still.

35 [k] Paul also and Barnabas continued in Antioch, teaching and preaching the word of the Lord, with many others also.

10 And after he had seen the vision, immediately we endeavoured to go [k] into Macedonia, assuredly gathering that the Lord had called us for to preach the Gospel unto them.

[k] 2 Cor. 2. 13.

11 Therefore loosing from Troas, we came with a straight course to Samothracia, and the next day to Neapolis;

12 And from thence to [l] Philippi, which is [*] the chief city of that part of Macedonia, and a colony: and we were in that city abiding certain days.

13 And on the [†] sabbath we went out of the city by a river side, where prayer was wont to be made; and we sat down, and spake unto the women which resorted thither.

14 ¶ And a certain woman named Lydia, a seller of purple, of the city of Thyatira, which worshipped God, heard us: whose [m] heart the Lord opened, that she attended unto the things which were spoken of Paul.

15 And when she was baptized, and her houshold, she besought us, saying, If ye have judged me to be faithful to the Lord, come into my house, and abide there. And [n] she constrained us.

16 ¶ And it came to pass, as we went to prayer, a certain damsel [o] possessed with a spirit [‡] of divination met us, which brought her masters [p] much gain by soothsaying:

17 The same followed Paul and us, and cried, saying, These men are the servants of the most high God, which shew unto us the way of salvation.

18 And this did she many days. But Paul, [q] being grieved, turned and said to the spirit, I command thee in the name of Jesus Christ to come out of her. [r] And he came out the same hour.

19 ¶ And [s] when her masters saw that the hope of their gains was gone, [t] they caught Paul and Silas, and [u] drew them into the [§] marketplace unto the rulers,

20 And brought them to the magistrates, saying, These men, being Jews, [x] do exceedingly trouble our city,

21 And teach customs, which are not lawful for us to receive, neither to observe, being Romans.

22 And the multitude rose up together against them: and the magistrates rent off their clothes, [y] and commanded to beat them.

23 And when they had laid many stripes upon them, they cast them into prison, charging the jailor to keep them safely:

24 Who, having received such a charge, thrust them into the inner prison, and made their feet fast in the stocks.

25 ¶ And at midnight Paul and Silas prayed, and sang praises unto God: and the prisoners heard them.

26 [z] And suddenly there was a great earthquake, so that the foundations of the prison were shaken: and immediately [a] all the doors were opened, and every one's bands were loosed.

27 And the keeper of the prison awaking out of his sleep, and seeing the prison doors open, he drew out his sword, and would have killed himself, supposing that the prisoners had been fled.

5 ¶ But the Jews which believed not, moved with envy, took unto them certain lewd fellows of the baser sort, and gathered a company, and set all the city on an uproar, and assaulted the house of [e] Jason, and sought to bring them out to the people.

perceive that in all things ye are too superstitious.

23 For as I passed by, and beheld your [a] devotions, I found an altar with this inscription, TO THE UNKNOWN GOD. Whom therefore ye ignorantly worship, him declare I unto you.

24 [n] God that made the world and all things therein, seeing that he is [o] Lord of heaven and earth, [p] dwelleth not in temples made with hands;

25 Neither is worshipped with men's hands, [q] as though he needed any thing, seeing [r] he giveth to all life, and breath, and all things;

26 And hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath determined the times before appointed, and [s] the bounds of their habitation;

27 [t] That they should seek the Lord, if haply they might feel after him, and find him, [u] though he be not far from every one of us:

28 For [x] in him we live, and move, and have our being; [y] as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also his offspring.

29 Forasmuch then as we are the offspring of God, [z] we ought not to think that the Godhead is like unto gold, or silver, or stone, graven by art and man's device.

30 And [a] the times of this ignorance God winked at; but [b] now commandeth all men every where to repent:

31 Because he hath appointed a day, in the which [c] he will judge the world in righteousness by that man whom he hath ordained; whereof he hath † given assurance unto all men, in that [d] he hath raised him from the dead.

32 ¶ And when they heard of the resurrection of the dead, some mocked: and others said, We will hear thee again of this matter.

33 So Paul departed from among them.

34 Howbeit certain men clave unto him, and believed: among the which was Dionysius the Areopagite, and a woman named Damaris, and others with them.

CHAP. XVIII.

3 Paul laboureth with his hands, and preacheth at Corinth to the Gentiles. 9 The Lord encourageth him in a vision. 12 He is accused before Gallio the deputy, but is dismissed. 18 Afterwards passing from city to city he strengtheneth the disciples. 24 Apollos, being imperfectly instructed by Aquila and Priscilla, 28 preacheth Christ with great efficacy.

AFTER these things Paul departed from Athens, and came to Corinth;

2 And found a certain Jew named [e] Aquila, born in Pontus, lately come from Italy, with his wife Priscilla; (because that Claudius had commanded all Jews to depart from Rome:) and came unto them.

3 And because he was of the same craft, he abode with them, [b] and wrought: for by their occupation they were tentmakers:

4 [c] And he reasoned in the synagogue every sabbath, and persuaded the Jews and the Greeks.

5 And [d] when Silas and Timotheus were come from Macedonia, Paul was [e] pressed in the spirit, and testified to the Jews that Jesus [e] was Christ.

6 And [f] when they opposed themselves, and blasphemed, [g] he shook his raiment, and said unto them, [h] Your blood be upon your own heads; [i] I am clean: [k] from henceforth I will go unto the Gentiles.

7 ¶ And he departed thence, and entered into a certain man's house, named Justus, one that worshipped God, whose house joined hard to the synagogue.

8 [l] And Crispus, the chief ruler of the synagogue, believed on the Lord with all his house; and many of the Corinthians hearing believed, and were baptized.

9 Then [m] spake the Lord to Paul in the night by a vision, Be not afraid, but speak, and hold not thy peace:

10 [n] For I am with thee, and no man shall set on thee to hurt thee: for I have much people in this city.

11 And he † continued there a year and six months, teaching the word of God among them.

12 ¶ And when Gallio was the deputy of Achaia, the Jews made insurrection with one accord against Paul, and brought him to the judgment seat, 13 Saying, This fellow persuadeth men to worship God contrary to the law.

14 And when Paul was now about to open his mouth, Gallio said unto the Jews, [o] If it were a matter of wrong or wicked lewdness, O ye Jews, reason would that I should bear with you:

15 But if it were a question of words and names, and of your law, look ye to it; for I will be no judge of such matters.

16 And he drave them from the judgment seat.

17 Then all the Greeks took [p] Sosthenes, the chief ruler of the synagogue, and beat him before the judgment seat. And Gallio cared for none of those things.

18 ¶ And Paul after this tarried there yet a good while, and then took his leave of the brethren, and sailed thence into Syria, and with him Priscilla and Aquila; having [q] shorn his head in [r] Cenchrea: for he had a vow.

19 And he came to Ephesus, and left them there: but he himself entered into the synagogue, and reasoned with the Jews.

20 When they desired him to tarry longer time with them, he consented not;

21 But bade them farewell, saying, [s] I must by all means keep this feast that cometh

Ver. 23. To the unknown God.—"Respecting this altar at Athens, inscribed to the 'Unknown God,' the discussions of the learned have been ample, and their conjectures extremely various. One opinion, supported and embraced by many, is that by the Unknown God the Athenians meant the God of the Jews. It is well known that this people always showed great facility in admitting the objects of worship of other nations into the catalogue of their deities; and since, subsequently to the time of Alexander the Great, considerable intercourse had taken place between the Greeks and the Jews, it is highly probable that the former should have obtained some knowledge, indistinct and imperfect at least, of the religion of the latter; nor is it difficult to explain why the Athenians should have given the name of Unknown to the God of the Jews. For the Jews invariably abstained from uttering the name of God, and always spoke of him as unutterable and incomprehensible. Thus, no foreigner could ever learn to distinguish him by any peculiar name, and hence the Athenians might naturally describe him by the title of the 'Unknown God.'"—Piscor.

AND after the uproar was ceased, Paul called unto him the disciples, and embraced them, and [a] departed for to go into Macedonia.

2 And when he had gone over those parts, and had given them much exhortation, he came into Greece,

3 And there abode three months. And [b] when the Jews laid wait for him, as he was about to sail into Syria, he purposed to return through Macedonia.

4 And there accompanied him into Asia Sopater of Berea; and of the Thessalonians, [c] Aristarchus and Secundus; and [d] Gaius of Derbe, and [e] Timotheus; and of Asia, [f] Tychicus and [g] Trophimus.

5 These going before tarried for us at Troas.

6 And we sailed away from Philippi after [h] the days of unleavened bread, and came unto them [i] to Troas in five days; where we abode seven days.

7 And upon [k] the first day of the week, when the disciples came together [l] to break bread, Paul preached unto them, ready to depart on the morrow; and continued his speech until midnight.

8 And there were many lights [m] in the upper chamber, where they were gathered together.

9 And there sat in a window a certain young man named Eutychus, being fallen into a deep sleep: and as Paul was long preaching, he sunk down with sleep, and fell down from the third loft, and was taken up dead.

10 And Paul went down, and [n] fell on him, and embracing him said, [o] Trouble not yourselves; for his life is in him.

11 When he therefore was come up again, and had broken bread, and eaten, and talked a long while, even till break of day, so he departed.

12 And they brought the young man alive, and were not a little comforted.

17 ¶ And from Miletus he sent to Ephesus, and called the elders of the church.

18 And when they were come to him, he said unto them, Ye know, [a] from the first day that I came into Asia, after what manner I have been with you at all seasons,

19 Serving the Lord with all humility of mind, and with many tears, and temptations, which befell me [t] by the lying in wait of the Jews:

20 And how [u] I kept back nothing that was profitable unto you, but have shewed you, and have taught you publickly, and from house to house,

21 [x] Testifying both to the Jews, and also to the Greeks, [y] repentance toward God, and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ.

22 And now, behold, [z] I go bound in the spirit unto Jerusalem, not knowing the things that shall befall me there:

23 Save that [a] the Holy Ghost witnesseth in every city, saying that bonds and afflictions [*] abide me.

24 But [b] none of these things move me, neither count I my life dear unto myself, [c] so that I might finish my course with joy, [d] and the ministry, [e] which I have received of the Lord Jesus, to testify the Gospel of the grace of God.

25 And now, behold, [f] I know that ye all, among whom I have gone preaching the kingdom of God, shall see my face no more.

26 Wherefore I take you to record this day, that I am [g] pure from the blood of all men.

27 For [h] I have not shunned to declare unto you all [i] the counsel of God.

28 ¶ [k] Take heed therefore unto yourselves, and to all the flock, over the which the Holy Ghost [l] hath made you overseers, to feed the Church of God, [m] which he hath purchased [n] with his own blood.

29 For I know this, that after my departing [o] shall grievous wolves enter in among you, not sparing the flock.

30 Also [p] of your own selves shall men arise, speaking perverse things, to draw away disciples after them.

31 Therefore watch, and remember, that [q] by the space of three years I ceased not to warn every one night and day with tears.

32 And now, brethren, I commend you to God, and [r] to the word of his grace, which is able [s] to build you up, and to give you [t] an inheritance among all them which are sanctified.

33 [u] I have coveted no man's silver, or gold, or apparel.

34 Yea, ye yourselves know, [x] that these hands have ministered unto my necessities, and to them that were with me.

35 I have shewed you all things, [y] how that so labouring ye ought to support the weak, and to remember the words of the Lord Jesus, how he said, It is more blessed to give than to receive.

36 ¶ And when he had thus spoken, he [z] kneeled down, and prayed with them all.

37 And they all wept sore, and [a] fell on Paul's neck, and kissed him,

38 Sorrowing most of all for the words [b] which he spake, that they should see his face no more. And they accompanied him unto the ship.

1 Paul will not by any means be dissuaded from going to Jerusalem. 9 Philip's daughters prophetesses. 17 Paul cometh to Jerusalem: 27 where he is apprehended, and in great danger, 31 but by the chief captain is rescued, and permitted to speak to the people.

AND it came to pass, that after we were gotten from them, and had launched, we came with a straight course unto Coos, and the day following unto Rhodes, and from thence unto Patara:

2 And finding a ship sailing over unto Phenicia, we went aboard, and set forth.

3 Now when we had discovered Cyprus, we left it on the left hand, and sailed into Syria, and landed at Tyre: for there the ship was to unlade her burden.

4 And finding disciples, we tarried there seven days: [a] who said to Paul through the Spirit, that he should not go up to Jerusalem.

5 And when we had accomplished those days, we departed and went our way; and they all brought us on our way, with wives and children, till we were out of the city: and [b] we kneeled down on the shore, and prayed.

6 And when we had taken our leave one of another, we took ship; and they returned [c] home again.

7 And when we had finished our course from Tyre, we came to Ptolemais, and saluted the brethren, and abode with them one day.

8 And the next day we that were of Paul's company departed, and came unto Cæsarea: and we entered into the house of Philip [d] the evangelist, [e] which was one of the seven; and abode with him.

9 And the same man had four daughters, virgins, [f] which did prophesy.

10 And as we tarried there many days, there came down from Judæa a certain prophet, named [g] Agabus.

11 And when he was come unto us, he took Paul's girdle, and bound his own hands and feet, and said, Thus saith the Holy Ghost, [h] So shall the Jews at Jerusalem bind the man that owneth this girdle, and shall deliver him into the hands of the Gentiles.

12 And when we heard these things, both we, and they of that place, besought him not to go up to Jerusalem.

13 Then Paul answered, [i] What mean ye to weep and to break mine heart? for I am ready not to be bound only, but also to die at Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Jesus.

14 And when he would not be persuaded, we ceased, saying, [k] The will of the Lord be done.

15 And after those days we took up our carriages, and went up to Jerusalem.

16 There went with us also certain of the disciples of Cæsarea, and brought with them one Mnason of Cyprus, an old disciple, with whom we should lodge.

17 [f] And when we were come to Jerusalem, the brethren received us gladly.

18 And the day following Paul went in with us unto [m] James; and all the elders were present.

19 And when he had saluted them, [n] he declared particularly what things God had wrought among the Gentiles [o] by his ministry.

20 And when they heard it, they glorified the Lord, and said unto him, Thou seest, brother, how many thousands of Jews there are which believe; and they are all [p] zealous of the law:

21 And they are informed of thee, that thou teachest all the Jews which are among the Gentiles to forsake Moses, saying that they ought not to circumcise their children, neither to walk after the customs.

22 What is it therefore? the multitude must needs come together: for they will hear that thou art come.

23 Do therefore this that we say to thee: We have four men which have a vow on them;

24 Them take, and purify thyself with them, and be at charges with them, that they may [q] shave their heads: and all may know that those things, whereof they were informed concerning thee, are nothing; but that thou thyself also walkest orderly, and keepest the law.

25 As touching the Gentiles which believe, [r] we have written and concluded that they observe no such thing, save only that they keep themselves from things offered to idols, and from blood, and from strangled, and from fornication.

26 Then Paul took the men, and the next day purifying himself with them [s] entered into the temple, [t] to signify the accomplishment of the days of purification, until that an offering should be offered for every one of them.

27 And when the seven days were almost ended, [u] the Jews which were of Asia, when they saw him in the temple, stirred up all the people, and [x] laid hands on him,

28 Crying out, Men of Israel, help: This is the man, [y] that teacheth all men every where against the people, and the law, and this place: and further brought Greeks also into the temple, and hath polluted this holy place.

29 (For they had seen before with him in the city [z] Trophimus an Ephesian, whom they supposed that Paul had brought into the temple.)

30 And [a] all the city was moved, and the people ran together: and they took Paul, and drew him out of the temple: and forthwith the doors were shut.

31 And as they went about to kill him, tidings came unto the chief captain of the band, that all Jerusalem was in an uproar.

32 [b] Who immediately took soldiers and centurions, and ran down unto them: and when they saw the chief captain and the soldiers, they left beating of Paul.

33 Then the chief captain came near, and took him, and [c] commanded him to be bound with two chains; and demanded who he was, and what he had done.

34 And some cried one thing, some another, among the multitude: and when he could not know the certainty for the tumult, he commanded him to be carried into the castle.

35 And when he came upon the stairs, so it was, that he was borne of the soldiers for the violence of the people.

36 For the multitude of the people followed after, crying, [d] Away with him.

37 And as Paul was to be led into the castle, he said unto the chief captain, May I speak unto thee? Who said, Canst thou speak Greek?

38 [e] Art not thou that Egyptian, which before these days madest an uproar, and leddest out into the wilderness four thousand men that were murderers?

39 But Paul said, [f] I am a man which am a Jew of Tarsus, a city in Cilicia, a citizen of no mean city: and, I beseech thee, suffer me to speak unto the people.

40 And when he had given him licence, Paul stood on the stairs, and [g] beckoned with the hand unto the people. And when there was made a great silence, he spake unto them in the Hebrew tongue, saying,

MEN, [a] brethren, and fathers, hear ye my defence which I make now unto you.

2 (And when they heard that he spake in the Hebrew tongue to them, they kept the more silence: and he saith,)

3 [b] I am verily a man which am a Jew, born in Tarsus, a city in Cilicia, yet brought up in this city [c] at the feet of [d] Gamaliel, and taught [e] according to the perfect manner of the law of the fathers, and [f] was zealous toward God, [g] as ye all are this day.

4 [h] And I persecuted this way unto the death, binding and delivering into prisons both men and women.

5 As also the High Priest doth bear me witness, and [i] all the estate of the elders: [k] from whom also I received letters unto the brethren, and went to Damascus, to bring them which were there bound unto Jerusalem, for to be punished.

6 And [l] it came to pass, that, as I made my journey, and was come nigh unto Damascus about noon, suddenly there shone from heaven a great light round about me.

7 And I fell unto the ground, and heard a voice saying unto me, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me?

26 When the centurion heard that, he went and told the chief captain, saying, Take heed what thou doest: for this man is a Roman.

27 Then the chief captain came, and said unto him, Tell me, art thou a Roman? He said, Yea. A. D. 60.

A. D. 60.

12 And when it was day, [n] certain of the Jews banded together, and bound themselves [o] under a curse, saying that they would neither eat nor drink till they had killed Paul.

13 And they were more than forty which had made this conspiracy.

14 And they came to the Chief Priests and elders, and said, We have bound ourselves under a great curse, that we will eat nothing until we have slain Paul.

15 Now therefore ye with the council signify to the chief captain that he bring him down unto you to morrow, as though ye would enquire something more perfectly concerning him: and we, or ever he come near, are ready to kill him.

16 And when Paul's sister's son heard of their lying in wait, he went and entered into the castle, and told Paul.

17 Then Paul called one of the centurions unto him, and said, Bring this young man unto the chief captain: for he hath a certain thing to tell him.

18 So he took him, and brought him to the chief captain, and said, Paul the prisoner called me unto him, and prayed me to bring this young man unto thee, who hath something to say unto thee.

19 Then the chief captain took him by the hand, and went with him aside privately, and asked him, What is that thou hast to tell me?

20 And he said, [p] The Jews have agreed to desire thee that thou wouldest bring down Paul to morrow into the council, as though they would enquire somewhat of him more perfectly.

21 But do not thou yield unto them: for there lie in wait for him of them more than forty men, which have bound themselves with an oath, that they will neither eat nor drink till they have killed him: and now are they ready, looking for a promise from thee.

22 So the chief captain then let the young man depart, and charged him, See thou tell no man that thou hast shewed these things to me.

23 And he called unto him two centurions, saying, Make ready two hundred soldiers to go to Cæsarea, and horsemen threescore and ten, and spearmen two hundred, at the third hour of the night;

24 And provide them beasts, that they may set Paul on, and bring him safe unto Felix the governor.

25 And he wrote a letter after this manner:

26 Claudius Lysias unto the most excellent governor Felix sendeth greeting.

27 [r] This man was taken of the Jews, and should have been killed of them: then came I with an army, and rescued him, having understood that he was a Roman.

28 [q] And when I would have known the cause wherefore they accused him, I brought him forth into their council:

29 Whom I perceived to be accused [r] of questions of their law, [s] but to have nothing laid to his charge worthy of death or of bonds.

30 And [t] when it was told me how that the Jews laid wait for the man, I sent straightway to thee, and [u] gave commandment to his accusers also to say before thee what they had against him. Farewell.

31 Then the soldiers, as it was commanded them, took Paul, and brought him by night to Antipatris.

32 On the morrow they left the horsemen to go with him, and returned to the castle:

33 Who, when they came to Cæsarea, and delivered the epistle to the governor, presented Paul also before him.

34 And when the governor had read the letter, he asked of what province he was. And when he understood that he was of [x] Cilicia;

35 [y] I will hear thee, said he, when thine accusers are also come. And he commanded him to be kept in [z] Herod's judgment hall.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 Paul being accused by Tertullus the orator, 10 answereth for his life and doctrine. 24 He preacheth Christ to the governor and his wife. 26 The governor hopeth for a bribe, but in vain. 27 At last, going out of his office, he leaveth Paul in prison.

AND after [a] five days [b] Ananias the High Priest descended with the elders, and with a certain orator named Tertullus, who informed the governor against Paul.

2 And when he was called forth, Tertullus began to accuse him, saying, Seeing that by thee we enjoy great quietness, and that very worthy deeds are done unto this nation by thy providence,

3 We accept it always, and in all places, most noble Felix, with all thankfulness.

4 Notwithstanding, that I be not further tedious unto thee, I pray thee that thou wouldest hear us of thy clemency a few words.

5 [c] For we have found this man a pestilent fellow, and a mover of sedition among all the Jews throughout the world, and a ringleader of the sect of the Nazarenes:

6 [d] Who also hath gone about to profane the temple: whom we took, and would [e] have judged according to our law.

7 [f] But the chief captain Lysias came upon us, and with great violence took him away out of our hands,

8 [g] Commanding his accusers to come unto thee: by examining of whom thyself mayest take knowledge of all these things, whereof we accuse him.

9 And the Jews also assented, saying that these things were so.

10 Then Paul, after that the governor had beckoned unto him to speak, answered, Forasmuch as I know that thou hast been of many years a judge unto this nation, I do the more cheerfully answer for myself:

11 Because that thou mayest understand, that there are yet but twelve days since I went up to Jerusalem [h] for to worship.

12 [1] And they neither found me in the temple disputing with any man, neither raising up the people, neither in the synagogues, nor in the city:

13 Neither can they prove the things whereof they now accuse me.

14 But this I confess unto thee, that after [k] the way which they call heresy, so worship I the [l] God of my fathers, believing all things which are written in [m] the Law and in the Prophets:

15 And [n] have hope toward God, which they themselves also allow, [o] that there shall be a resurrection of the dead, both of the just and unjust.

16 And [p] herein do I exercise myself, to have always a conscience void of offence toward God, and toward men.

17 Now after many years [q] I came to bring alms to my nation, and offerings.

18 [r] Whereupon certain Jews from Asia found me purified in the temple, neither with multitude, nor with tumult.

19 [s] Who ought to have been here before thee, and object, if they had ought against me.

20 Or else let these same here say, if they have found any evil doing in me, while I stood before the council,

21 Except it be for this one voice, that I cried standing among them, [t] Touching the resurrection of the dead I am called in question by you this day.

22 And when Felix heard these things, having more perfect knowledge of that way, he deferred them, and said, When [u] Lysias the chief captain shall come down, I will know the uttermost of your matter.

23 And he commanded a centurion to keep Paul, and to let him have liberty, and [x] that he should forbid none of his acquaintance to minister or come unto him.

24 And after certain days, when Felix came with his wife Drusilla, which was a Jewess, he sent for Paul, and heard him concerning the faith in Christ.

25 And as he reasoned of righteousness, temperance, and judgment to come, Felix trembled, and answered, Go thy way for this time; when I have a convenient season, I will call for thee.

26 He hoped also that [y] money should have been given him of Paul, that he might loose him: wherefore he sent for him the oftener, and communed with him.

A. D. 62.

27 But after two years Porcius Festus came into Felix' room: and Felix, [z] willing to shew the Jews a pleasure, left Paul bound.

CHAP. XXV.

2 The Jews accuse Paul before Festus. 8 He answereth for himself, 11 and appealeth unto Cæsar. 14 Afterwards Festus openeth his matter to king Agrippa, 23 and he is brought forth. 25 Festus cleareth him to have done nothing worthy of death.

NOW when Festus was come into the province, after three days he ascended from Cæsarea to Jerusalem.

2 [a] Then the High Priest and the chief of the Jews informed him against Paul, and besought him,

A. D. 62.

3 And desired favour against him, that he would send for him to Jerusalem, [b] laying wait in the way to kill him.

4 But Festus answered, that Paul should be kept at Cæsarea, and that he himself would depart shortly thither.

5 Let them therefore, said he, which among you are able, go down with me, and accuse this man, [c] if there be any wickedness in him.

6 And when he had tarried among them [*] more than ten days, he went down unto Cæsarea; and the next day sitting on the judgment seat commanded Paul to be brought.

7 And when he was come, the Jews which came down from Jerusalem stood round about, [d] and laid many and grievous complaints against Paul, which they could not prove,

8 While he answered for himself, [e] Neither against the law of the Jews, neither against the temple, nor yet against Cæsar, have I offended any thing at all.

9 But Festus, [f] willing to do the Jews a pleasure, answered Paul, and said, [g] Wilt thou go up to Jerusalem, and there be judged of these things before me?

10 Then said Paul, I stand at Cæsar's judgment seat, where I ought to be judged: to the Jews have I done no wrong, as thou very well knowest.

11 [h] For if I be an offender, or have committed any thing worthy of death, I refuse not to die: but if there be none of these things whereof these accuse me, no man may deliver me unto them. [i] I appeal unto Cæsar.

12 Then Festus, when he had conferred with the council, answered, Hast thou appealed unto Cæsar? unto Cæsar shalt thou go.

13 And after certain days king Agrippa and Bernice came unto Cæsarea to salute Festus.

14 And when they had been there many days, Festus declared Paul's cause unto the king, saying, [k] There is a certain man left in bonds by Felix:

15 [l] About whom, when I was at Jerusalem, the Chief Priests and the elders of the Jews informed me, desiring to have judgment against him.

16 [m] To whom I answered, It is not the manner of the Romans to deliver any man to die, before that he which is accused have the accusers face to face, and have licence to answer for himself concerning the crime laid against him.

17 Therefore, when they were come hither, [n] without any delay on the morrow I sat on the judgment seat, and commanded the man to be brought forth.

18 Against whom when the accusers stood up, they brought none accusation of such things as I supposed:

19 [o] But had certain questions against him of their own superstition, and of one Jesus, which was dead, whom Paul affirmed to be alive.

21 But when Paul had appealed to be reserved unto the ‡ hearing of Augustus, I commanded him to be kept till I might send him to Cæsar.

22 Then [p] Agrippa said unto Festus, I would also hear the man myself. To morrow, said he, thou shalt hear him.

23 And on the morrow, when Agrippa was come, and Bernice, with great pomp, and was entered into the place of hearing, with the chief captains, and principal men of the city, at Festus' commandment Paul was brought forth.

24 And Festus said, King Agrippa, and all men which are here present with us, ye see this man, about whom [q] all the multitude of the Jews have dealt with me, both at Jerusalem, and also here, crying that he ought [r] not to live any longer.

25 But when I found that [s] he had committed nothing worthy of death, [t] and that he himself had appealed to Augustus, I have determined to send him.

26 Of whom I have no certain thing to write unto my lord. Wherefore I have brought him forth before you, and specially before thee, O king Agrippa, that, after examination had, I might have somewhat to write.

27 For it seemeth to me unreasonable to send a prisoner, and not withal to signify the crimes laid against him.

CHAP. XXVI.

Paul in the presence of Agrippa, declareth his life from his childhood, 12 and how miraculously he was converted, and called to his apostleship. 24 Festus chargeth him to be mad, whereunto he answereth modestly. 28 Agrippa is almost persuaded to be a Christian. 31 The whole company pronounce him innocent.

THEN Agrippa said unto Paul, Thou art permitted to speak for thyself. Then Paul stretched forth the hand, and answered for himself:

2 I think myself happy, king Agrippa, because I shall answer for myself this day before thee touching all the things whereof I am accused of the Jews:

3 Especially because I know thee to be expert in all customs and questions which are among the Jews: wherefore I beseech thee to hear me patiently.

4 My manner of life from my youth, which was at first among mine own nation at Jerusalem, know all the Jews;

5 Which knew me from the beginning, if they would testify, that after [e] the most straitest sect of our religion I lived a Pharisee.

6 [b] And now I stand and am judged for the hope of [c] the promise made of God unto our fathers:

7 Unto which promise [d] our twelve tribes, instantly serving God * [e] day and night, [f] hope to come. For which hope's sake, king Agrippa, I am accused of the Jews.

8 Why should it be thought a thing incredible with you, that God should raise the dead?

9 [g] I verily thought with myself, that I ought to do many things contrary to the name of Jesus of Nazareth.

10 [h] Which thing I also did in Jerusalem: and many of the saints did I shut up in prison, having received authority [i] from the Chief Priests; and when they were put to death, I gave my voice against them.

11 [k] And I punished them oft in every synagogue, and compelled them to blaspheme; and being exceedingly mad against them, I persecuted them even unto strange cities.

12 [l] Whereupon as I went to Damascus with authority and commission from the Chief Priests,

13 At midday, O king, I saw in the way a light from heaven, above the brightness of the sun, shining round about me and them which journeyed with me.

14 And when we were all fallen to the earth, I heard a voice speaking unto me, and saying in the Hebrew tongue, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? it is hard for thee to kick against the pricks.

15 And I said, Who art thou, Lord? And he said, I am Jesus whom thou persecutest.

16 But rise, and stand upon thy feet: for I have appeared unto thee for this purpose, [m] to make thee a minister and a witness both of these things which thou hast seen, and of those things in the which I will appear unto thee;

17 Delivering thee from the people, and from the Gentiles, [n] unto whom now I send thee,

18 [o] To open their eyes, and [p] to turn them from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto God, [q] that they may receive forgiveness of sins, and [r] inheritance among them which are [s] sanctified by faith that is in me.

19 Whereupon, O king Agrippa, I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision:

20 But [t] shewed first unto them of Damascus, and at Jerusalem, and throughout all the coasts of Judæa, and then to the Gentiles, that they should repent and turn to God, and do [u] works meet for repentance.

21 For these causes [x] the Jews caught me in the temple, and went about to kill me.

22 Having therefore obtained help of God, I continue unto this day, witnessing both to small and great, saying none other things than those [y] which the prophets and [z] Moses did say should come:

23 [a] That Christ should suffer, and [b] that he should be the first that should rise from the dead, and [c] should shew light unto the people, and to the Gentiles.

25 But he said, I am not mad, most noble Festus; but speak forth the words of truth and soberness.

26 For the king knoweth of these things, before whom also I speak freely: for I am persuaded that none of these things are hidden from him; for this thing was not done in a corner.

27 King Agrippa, believest thou the prophets? I know that thou believest.

28 Then Agrippa said unto Paul, Almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian.

29 And Paul said, [e] I would to God, that not only thou, but also all that hear me this day, were both almost, and altogether such as I am, except these bonds.

30 And when he had thus spoken, the king rose up, and the governor, and Bernice, and they that sat with them:

31 And when they were gone aside, they talked between themselves, saying, [f] This man doeth nothing worthy of death or of bonds.

1 Paul shipping towards Rome, 10 foretelleth of the danger of the voyage, 11 but is not believed. 14 They are tossed to and fro with tempest, 41 and suffer shipwreck, 22, 34, 44 yet all come safe to land.

[a] ch. 25. 12, 25.

AND when [a] it was determined that we should sail into Italy, they delivered Paul and certain other prisoners unto one named Julius, a centurion of Augustus' band.

2 And entering into a ship of Adramyttium, we launched, meaning to sail by the coasts of Asia; one [b] Aristarchus, a Macedonian of Thessalonica, being with us.

[b] ch. 19. 29.

3 And the next day we touched at Sidon. And Julius [c] courteously entreated Paul, and gave him liberty to go unto his friends to refresh himself.

[c] ch. 24. 23. & 28. 16.

4 And when we had launched from thence, we sailed under Cyprus, because the winds were contrary.

5 And when we had sailed over the sea of Cilicia and Pamphylia, we came to Myra, a city of Lycia.

6 And there the centurion found a ship of Alexandria sailing into Italy; and he put us therein.

7 And when we had sailed slowly many days, and scarce were come over against Cnidus, the wind not suffering us, we sailed under * Crete, over against Salmone;

* Or, Candy

8 And, hardly passing it, came unto a place which is called The fair havens; nigh whereunto was the city of Lasea.

9 Now when much time was spent, and when sailing was now dangerous, [d] because the fast was now already past, Paul admonished them,

A. D. 62.

[d] The fast was on the tenth day of the seventh month. Lev. 23. 27, 29.

10 And said unto them, Sirs, I perceive that this voyage will be with † hurt and much damage, not only of the lading and ship, but also of our lives.

† Or, injury.

11 Nevertheless the centurion believed the master and the owner of the ship, more than those things which were spoken by Paul.

12 And because the haven was not commodious to winter in, the more part advised to depart thence also, if by any means they might attain to Phenice, and there to winter; which is an haven of Crete, and lieth toward the south west and north west.

13 And when the south wind blew softly, supposing that they had obtained their purpose, loosing thence, they sailed close by Crete.

14 But not long after there ‡ arose against it a tempestuous wind, called Euroclydon.

‡ Or, beat.

15 And when the ship was caught, and could not bear up into the wind, we let her drive.

16 And running under a certain island which is called Clauda, we had much work to come by the boat:

17 Which when they had taken up, they used helps, undergirding the ship; and, fearing lest they should fall into the quicksands, strake sail, and so were driven.

18 And we being exceedingly tossed with a tempest, the next day they lightened the ship;

19 And the third day [e] we cast out with our own hands the tackling of the ship.

[e] Jonah 1. 5

20 And when neither sun nor stars in many days appeared, and no small tempest lay on us, all hope that we should be saved was then taken away.

21 But after long abstinence Paul stood forth in the midst of them, and said, Sirs, ye should have hearkened unto me, and not have loosed from Crete, and to have gained this harm and loss.

22 And now I exhort you to be of good cheer: for there shall be no loss of any man's life among you, but of the ship.

28 And sounded, and found it twenty fathoms: and when they had gone a little further, they sounded again, and found it fifteen fathoms.

29 Then fearing lest they should have fallen upon rocks, they cast four anchors out of the stern, and wished for the day.

30 And as the shipmen were about to flee out of the ship, when they had let down the boat into the sea, under colour as though they would have cast anchors out of the foreship,

31 Paul said to the centurion and to the soldiers, Except these abide in the ship, ye cannot be saved.

32 Then the soldiers cut off the ropes of the boat, and let her fall off.

33 And while the day was coming on, Paul besought them all to take meat, saying, This day is the fourteenth day that ye have tarried and continued fasting, having taken nothing.

34 Wherefore I pray you to take some meat: for this is for your health: for [k] there shall not an hair fall from the head of any of you.

35 And when he had thus spoken, he took bread, and [l] gave thanks to God in presence of them all: and when he had broken it, he began to eat.

36 Then were they all of good cheer, and they also took some meat.

37 And we were in all in the ship two hundred threescore and sixteen [m] souls.

38 And when they had eaten enough, they lightened the ship, and cast out the wheat into the sea.

39 And when it was day, they knew not the land: but they discovered a certain creek with a shore, into the which they were minded, if it were possible, to thrust in the ship.

40 And when they had § taken up the anchors, they committed themselves unto the sea, and loosed the rudder bands, and hoised up the mainsail to the wind, and made toward shore.

41 And falling into a place where two seas met, [n] they ran the ship aground; and the forepart stuck fast, and remained unmoveable, but the hinder part was broken with the violence of the waves.

42 And the soldiers' counsel was to kill the prisoners, lest any of them should swim out, and escape.

43 But the centurion, willing to save Paul, kept them from their purpose; and commanded that they which could swim should cast themselves first into the sea, and get to land:

44 And the rest, some on boards, and some on broken pieces of the ship. And so it came to pass, [o] that they escaped all safe to land.

1 Paul after his shipwreck is kindly entertained of the barbarians. 5 The viper on his hand hurteth him not. 8 He healeth many diseases in the island. 11 They depart towards Rome. 17 He declareth to the Jews the cause of his coming. 24 After his preaching some were persuaded, and some believed not. 30 Yet he preacheth there two years.

A. D. 62.

AND when they were escaped, then they knew that [a] the island was called Melita.

2 And the [b] barbarous people shewed us no little kindness: for they kindled a fire, and received us every one, because of the present rain, and because of the cold.

3 And when Paul had gathered a bundle of sticks, and laid them on the fire, there came a viper out of the heat, and fastened on his hand.

4 And when the barbarians saw the venomous beast hang on his hand, they said among themselves, No doubt this man is a murderer, whom, though he hath escaped the sea, yet vengeance suffereth not to live.

5 And he shook off the beast into the fire, and [c] felt no harm.

6 Howbeit they looked when he should have swollen, or fallen down dead suddenly: but after they had looked a great while, and saw no harm come to him, they changed their minds, and [d] said that he was a god.

7 In the same quarters were possessions of the chief man of the island, whose name was Publius; who received us, and lodged us three days courteously.

8 And it came to pass, that the father of Publius lay sick of a fever and of a bloody flux: to whom Paul entered in, and [e] prayed, and [f] laid his hands on him, and healed him.

9 So when this was done, others also, which had diseases in the island, came, and were healed:

10 Who also honoured us with many [g] honours; and when we departed, they laded us with such things as were necessary.

11 And after three months we departed in a ship of Alexandria, which had wintered in the isle, whose sign was Castor and Pollux.

12 And landing at Syracuse, we tarried there three days.

13 And from thence we fetched a compass, and came to Rhegium: and after one day the south wind blew, and we came the next day to Puteoli:

14 Where we found brethren, and were desired to tarry with them seven days: and so we went toward Rome.

15 And from thence, when the brethren heard of us, they came to meet us as far as Appii forum, and The three taverns: whom when Paul saw, he thanked God, and took courage.

16 And when we came to Rome, the centurion delivered the prisoners to the captain of the guard: but [h] Paul was suffered to dwell by himself with a soldier that kept him.

17 And it came to pass, that after three days Paul called the chief of the Jews together: and when they were come together, he said unto them, Men and brethren, [i] though I have committed nothing against the people, or customs of our fathers, yet

[b] was I delivered prisoner from Jerusalem into the hands of the Romans.

18 Who, [l] when they had examined me, would have let me go, because there was no cause of death in me.

19 But when the Jews spake against it, [m] I was constrained to appeal unto Cæsar; not that I had ought to accuse my nation of.

20 For this cause therefore have I called for you, to see you, and to speak with you: because that [n] for the hope of Israel I am bound with [o] this chain.

21 And they said unto him, We neither received letters out of Judæa concerning thee, neither any of the brethren that came shewed or spake any harm of thee.

22 But we desire to hear of thee what thou thinkest: for as concerning this sect, we know that every where [p] it is spoken against.

23 And when they had appointed him a day, there came many to him into his lodging; [q] to whom he expounded and testified the kingdom of God, persuading them concerning Jesus, [r] both out of the Law of Moses, and out of the Prophets, from morning till evening.

24 And [s] some believed the things which were spoken, and some believed not.

25 And when they agreed not among themselves, they departed, after that Paul had spoken one word, Well spake the Holy Ghost by Esaias the prophet unto our fathers,

26 Saying [t] Go unto this people, and say, Hearing ye shall hear, and shall not understand; and seeing ye shall see, and not perceive:

27 For the heart of this people is waxed gross, and their ears are dull of hearing, and their eyes have they closed; lest they should see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and understand with their heart, and should be converted, and I should heal them.

28 Be it known therefore unto you, that the salvation of God is sent [u] unto the Gentiles, and that they will hear it.

29 And when he had said these words, the Jews departed, and had great reasoning among themselves.

30 And Paul dwelt two whole years in his own hired house, and received all that came in unto him,

31 [x] Preaching the kingdom of God, and teaching those things which concern the Lord Jesus Christ, with all confidence, no man forbidding him.

The Epistle of PAUL the Apostle to the ROMANS.

A. D. 60.

CHAP. I.

1 Paul commendeth his calling to the Romans, 9 and his desire to come to them. 16 What his gospel is, and the righteousness which it sheweth. 18 God is angry with all manner of sin. 21 What were the sins of the Gentiles.

PAUL, a servant of Jesus Christ, [a] called to be an apostle, [b] separated unto the Gospel of God,

2 ([c] Which he had promised afore [d] by his prophets in the holy Scriptures,)

3 Concerning his son Jesus Christ our Lord, [e] which was [f] made of the seed of David according to the flesh;

4 And [g] [6] declared to be the Son of God with power, according [h] to the spirit of holiness, by the resurrection from the dead:

A. D. 60.

ST. PAUL'S EPISTLE TO THE ROMANS.—[a] St. Paul, the principal particulars of whose life are recorded in the Acts of the Apostles, and are frequently alluded to by himself in his Epistles, was a person of great natural abilities, of quick apprehension, strong passions, firm resolution, and irreproachable life; he was conversant with Jewish and Grecian literature, and he gave early proofs of an active and zealous disposition. If we may be allowed to consider his character, independent of his supernatural endowments, we may pronounce that he was well qualified to have risen to distinction and eminence, and that he was, by nature, peculiarly adapted to the high office to which it pleased God to call him. As a minister of the Gospel he displayed the most unwearied perseverance, and the most undaunted courage. He was deterred by no difficulty or danger, and endured a great variety of persecutions with patience and cheerfulness. He gloried in being thought worthy of suffering for the name of Jesus, and continued with unabated zeal to maintain the truth of Christianity against its bitterest and most powerful enemies. He was the principal instrument, under Providence, of spreading the Gospel among the Gentiles; and it appears from the Acts of the Apostles that his labours lasted many years, and reached over a considerable extent of country. Though he is emphatically styled the Great Apostle of the Gentiles he began his ministry in almost every city by preaching in the synagogue of the Jews: and though he owed by far the greater part of his persecutions to the opposition and malice of that proud and obstinate people, whose resentment he particularly incurred by maintaining that the Gentiles were to be admitted to an indiscriminate participation of the benefits of the new dispensation; yet it rarely happened in any place that some of the Jews did not yield to his arguments and embrace the Gospel. He watched with paternal care over the Churches which he had founded, and was always ready to strengthen the faith, and regulate the conduct, of his converts by such directions and advice as their circumstances might require.

The exertions of St. Paul, in the cause of Christianity, were not confined to personal instruction; he also wrote fourteen Epistles to individuals or Churches, which are now extant, and form a part of our canon. In these letters of the Apostle, there are those obscurities and difficulties which belong to epistolary writing. Many circumstances are mentioned with brevity, and many opinions and facts are barely alluded to, as being well known to the persons whom he addresses, but which it is very difficult, at this distant period, to discover and ascertain. He does not formally announce the subjects which he means to discuss; he enters upon them abruptly, and makes frequent transitions without any intimations or notice; he answers objections without stating them, and abounds in parentheses, which are not always easily discerned. Perspicuity, indeed, and a strict adherence to the rules of composition, were scarcely compatible with the fervour of his imagination and the rapidity of his thoughts. "He is," says Mr. Lock, "full of the matter he treats, and writes with warmth which usually neglects method, and those partitions and pauses, which men educated in the schools of rhetoricians usually observe." There is, however, a real connexion and coherence in all his writings; and his reasoning, although it may sometimes seem to be desultory, will be always found to be correct and convincing. Instead of the beauties which arise from a nice arrangement of words, an harmonious cadence of periods, and an artificial structure of sentences, we have a style at once concise and highly figurative, and a striking peculiarity and uncommon energy of language. When he speaks of the doctrines and excellency of the Christian religion, enlarges upon the nature and attributes of the Deity, or terrifies with the dread of divine judgments, his style rises with the subject; and while our minds are impressed with the justice and dignity of the sentiments, we cannot but admire the force and sublimity of the expressions. Though he never departs from the authority of the Apostolic character, yet the sensibility of his own heart frequently leads him to appeal to the feelings and affections of those to whom he writes; and the zeal of his temper is so constantly apparent throughout his Epistles, that no one can read them with attention without catching some portion of that fire by which he was animated." Bishop Tomline.

"The reason why the Epistle to the Romans stands first is not because it was written first: for the Epistle to the Corinthians, Galatians, and Thessalonians were written before it. But, either because of the imperial dignity of the city, to wit, Rome, unto which it was directed; or else because of the sublimity of the matter and the excellency of the doctrine contained in it, with respect to which, some have called it the marrow of divinity - the key of the New Testament, &c.

"The scope and design of this Epistle is twofold; first, to show that neither the Gentiles, by the law of nature, nor the Jews, by the law of Moses, could ever attain to justification and salvation but only by faith in Jesus Christ; for the sake of whose merits alone we are accounted righteous in the sight of God. Secondly, to show that faith is not separated from good works, but productive of them, being the parent and principle of obedience, without which, whosoever liveth is counted dead before God.

"The subject matter of this epistle is twofold, partly doctrinal and partly practical. In the doctrinal part, which makes up the first eleven chapters, the Apostle treats of justification by faith alone without the works of the law; of original corruption by the fall of Adam; of sanctification by the Spirit of Christ; of the calling of the Gentiles; that is, of the present rejection of the Jews, and the future recalling of them when the fulness of the Gentiles was come in.

"In the applicatory or practical part of this Epistle, which begins at chapter xii, we have many useful and excellent exhortations both to general and particular duties respecting God, our neighbours, and ourselves; and several encouragements given us to the love and practice of universal holiness."—Burkitt.

5 By whom [i] we have received grace and apostleship, † for [k] obedience to the faith among all nations, for [l] his name:

6 Among whom are ye also the called of Jesus Christ:

7 To all that be in Rome, beloved of God, [m] called to be saints: [n] Grace to you and peace from God our Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ.

8 First, [o] I thank my God through Jesus Christ for you all, that [p] your faith is spoken of throughout the whole world.

9 For [q] God is my witness, [r] whom I serve ‡ with my spirit in the Gospel of his Son, that [s] without ceasing I make mention of you always in my prayers;

10 [t] Making request, if by any means now at length I might have a prosperous journey [u] by the will of God to come unto you.

11 For I long to see you, that [x] I may impart unto you some spiritual gift, to the end ye may be established;

12 That is, that I may be comforted together § with you by [y] the mutual faith both of you and me.

13 Now I would not have you ignorant, brethren, that [z] oftentimes I purposed to come unto you, (but [a] was let hitherto,) that I might have some [b] fruit ‖ among you also, even as among other Gentiles.

14 [c] I am debtor both to the Greeks, and to the Barbarians; both to the wise, and to the unwise.

15 So, as much as in me is, I am ready to preach the Gospel to you that are at Rome also.

16 For [d] I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ: for [e] it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; [f] to the Jew first, and also to the Greek.

17 For [g] therein is the righteousness of God revealed from faith to faith: as it is written, [h] The just shall live by faith.

18 [i] For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, who hold the truth in unrighteousness;

19 Because [k] that which may be known of God is manifest * in them; for [l] God hath shewed it unto them.

20 For [m] the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead; † so that they are without excuse:

21 Because that, when they knew God, they glorified him not as God, neither were thankful; but [n] became vain in their imaginations, and their foolish heart was darkened.

22 [o] Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools,

23 And changed the glory of the uncorruptible [p] God into an image made like to corruptible man, and to birds, and fourfooted beasts, and creeping things.

24 [q] Wherefore God also gave them up to uncleanness through the lusts of their own hearts, [r] to dishonour their own bodies [s] between themselves:

25 Who changed [t] the truth of God [u] into a lie, and worshipped and served the creature ‡ more than the Creator, who is blessed for ever. Amen.

26 For this cause God gave them up unto [x] vile affections: for even their women did change the natural use into that which is against nature:

27 And likewise also the men, leaving the natural use of the woman, burned in their lust one toward another; men with men working that which is unseemly, and receiving in themselves that recompence of their error which was meet.

28 [y] And even as they did not like § to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to ‖ a reprobate mind, to do those things [z] which are not convenient;

29 Being filled with all unrighteousness, fornication, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness; full of envy, murder, debate, deceit, malignity; whisperers,

30 Backbiters, haters of God, despiteful, proud, boasters, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents,

31 Without understanding, covenant breakers, * without natural affection, implacable, unmerciful:

32 Who [a] knowing the judgment of God, that they which commit such things [b] are worthy of death, not only do the same, but † [c] have pleasure in them that do them.

CHAP. II.

1 They that sin, though they condemn it in others, cannot excuse themselves, 6 and much less escape the judgment of God, 9 whether they be Jews or Gentiles. 14 The Gentiles cannot escape, 17 nor yet the Jews, 25 whom their circumcision shall not profit, if they keep not the law.

THEREFORE thou art [a] inexcusable, O man, whosoever thou art that judgest: [b] for wherein thou judgest another, thou condemnest thyself; for thou that judgest doest the same things.

2 But we are sure that the judgment

Ver. 5. For obedience to the faith.—In order that, by our preaching, that obedience, which results from true faith, may be given to him among all the Gentiles on account of his divinity, as being the Son of God.

Ver. 6. The called.—The called disciples.

Ver. 7. Called to be saints.—To the privileges of Christianity.

Ver. 8. For you all.—For all of you who have embraced the Gospel. The whole world.—The whole Roman empire.

Ver. 9. Whom I serve with my spirit.—Whom I serve with the utmost earnestness of spirit in proclaiming the Gospel tidings, and enforcing the precepts of his dear Son.

Ver. 10. If by any means.—That by some means.

Ver. 11. Ye may be established.—In order that your faith may be established, so as not to be moved by the plausible devices of Jews or heathens.

Ver. 13. (Was let hitherto.) Hindered. Some fruit.—Some salutary effects of my ministry. Among you also.—The idolatrous inhabitants of Rome, &c.

Ver. 14. I am debtor.—I am bound to deliver the doctrines of the Gospel not only to the polite and accomplished Greeks, but likewise to the most untutored barbarians; to the most learned as well as to the most illiterate.

Ver. 15. As much as in me is.—So far as I am able.

Ver. 16. It is the power of God unto salvation.—"It is the powerful means which God makes use of for the working out salvation."—Macknight.

Ver. 17. For therein, &c.—"Because the righteousness of God's appointment by faith is revealed in it, in order to produce faith in them to whom it is preached. And to this righteousness the Jews cannot object, since it is written, &c."—Macknight.

Ver. 18. For the wrath of God.—But in the law of nature, in contradistinction to the law of God, the divine wrath is revealed, &c.

Ver. 19. Is manifest in them.—They are not ignorant of it.

Ver. 20. The invisible things of him.—His invisible but august attributes, even his eternal power and Godhead.

Ver. 22. They became fools.—They acted as fools; for they changed the glory, &c.

Ver. 24. Gave them up.—Abandoned them by withdrawing his preventing grace.

Ver. 25. Who changed the truth of God into a lie.—Substituted idolatry for the worship of the true God. Who is blessed for ever.—"Who, however basely overlooked by men, is surrounded with the perpetual homage of the heavenly world."—Doddridge.

Ver. 26. The natural use.—Of their own bodies.

Ver. 28 To retain God in their knowledge.—As they were not desirous of entertaining a just apprehension of God.

Ver. 28. A reprobate mind.—A mind utterly alienated from virtue. Things which are not convenient.—"Things not agreeable to nature or to reason."—Dr. Whitby.

Ver. 29. Debate.—Contention, or controversy.

Chap. II. Ver. 1. That judgest.—That passest judgment upon others.

of God is according to truth against them which commit such things.

3 And thinkest thou this, O man, that judgest them which do such things, and doest the same, that thou shalt escape the judgment of God?

4 Or despisest thou [c] the riches of his goodness and [d] forbearance and [e] longsuffering; [f] not knowing that the goodness of God leadeth thee to repentance?

5 But after thy hardness and impenitent heart [g] treasurest up unto thyself wrath against the day of wrath and revelation of the righteous judgment of God;

6 [h] Who will render to every man according to his deeds:

7 To them who by patient continuance in well doing seek for glory and honour and immortality, eternal life:

8 But unto them that are contentious, and [i] do not obey the truth, but obey unrighteousness, indignation and wrath,

9 Tribulation and anguish, upon every soul of man that doeth evil, of the [k] first, and also of the * Gentile;

10 [l] But glory, honour, and peace, to every man that worketh good, to the Jew first, and also to the † Gentile:

11 For [m] there is no respect of persons with God.

12 For as many as have sinned without law shall also perish without law: and as many as have sinned in the law shall be judged by the law;

13 (For [n] not the hearers of the law are just before God, but the doers of the law shall be justified.

14 For when the Gentiles, which have not the law, do by nature the things contained in the law, these, having not the law, are a law unto themselves:

15 Which shew the work of the law written in their hearts, ‡ their conscience also bearing witness, and their thoughts § the mean while accusing or else excusing one another;)

16 [o] In the day when God shall judge the secrets of men [p] by Jesus Christ [q] according to my Gospel.

17 Behold, [r] thou art called a Jew, and [s] restest in the law, [t] and makest thy boast of God,

18 And [u] knowest his will, and ‖ [x] approvest the things that are more excellent, being instructed out of the law;

19 And [y] art confident that thou thyself art a guide of the blind, a light of them which are in darkness,

A. D. 60.

20 An instructor of the foolish, a teacher of babes, [z] which hast the form of knowledge and of the truth in the law.

21 [a] Thou therefore which teachest another, teachest thou not thyself? thou that preachest a man should not steal, dost thou steal?

22 Thou that sayest a man should not commit adultery, dost thou commit adultery? thou that abhorrest idols, [b] dost thou commit sacrilege?

23 Thou that [c] makest thy boast of the law, through breaking the law dishonourest thou God?

24 For the name of God is blasphemed among the Gentiles through you, as it is [d] written.

25 [e] For circumcision verily profiteth, if thou keep the law: but if thou be a breaker of the law, thy circumcision is made uncircumcision.

26 Therefore [f] if the uncircumcision keep the righteousness of the law, shall not his uncircumcision be counted for circumcision?

27 And shall not uncircumcision which is by nature, if it fulfil the law, [g] judge thee, who by the letter and circumcision dost transgress the law?

28 For [h] he is not a Jew, which is one outwardly; neither is that circumcision, which is outward in the flesh:

29 But he is a Jew, [i] which is one inwardly; and [k] circumcision is that of the heart, [l] in the spirit, and not in the letter; [m] whose praise is not of men, but of God.

CHAP. III.

1 The Jews' prerogative: 3 which they have not lost: 9 how beit the law convinceth them also of sin: 20 therefore no flesh is justified by the law, 28 but all, without difference, by faith only: 31 and yet the law is not abolished.

WHAT advantage then hath the Jew? or what profit is there of circumcision?

2 Much every way: chiefly, because that [a] unto them were committed the oracles of God.

3 For what if [b] some did not believe? [c] shall their unbelief make the faith of God without effect?

4 [d] God forbid: yea, let * God be true, but [f] every man a liar; as it is written, [g] That thou mightest be justified in thy sayings, and mightest overcome when thou art judged.

5 But if our unrighteousness commend the righteousness of God, what shall we say? Is God unrighteous who taketh vengeance? (‖ I speak as a man)

Ver. 8. Indignation and wrath.—Shall be dealt out.

Ver. 9. Tribulation and anguish, &c.—There shall be tribulation and anguish, &c.

Ver. 12, 13.—"As many therefore as have sinned without revelation shall also perish without being judged by revelation: their punishment will be less on account of their want of revelation. And as many as have sinned under revelation shall be judged by revelation; their guilt being aggravated by the advantages which they enjoyed, they shall be punished in proportion to their guilt. For not those who have enjoyed revelation are esteemed just in the sight of God, but those only who do the things enjoined in revelation shall be justified at the judgment."—Macknight.

Ver. 29. Whose praise, &c.—The praise of such a person will not be received from men, but from God.

CHAP. III. Ver. 1. What advantage then, &c. Ver. 4. God forbid, &c.—By no means, replies the Apostle; on the contrary, let God be acknowledged true to his word, though every Jew should prove a liar. That thou, &c.—"For thou, O God, wilt be justified in thy threatenings, and wilt appear just as often as thou punishest."—Macknight.

Ver. 5. But if our unrighteousness, &c.—"A third objection here follows, namely, that if the unrighteousness of men tends so visibly to commend, that is to illustrate and recommend, the righteousness of God, namely, his wisdom, grace and power, in appointing this way of justification by faith in Christ; how can it be right in God to punish them for this unrighteousness, which tends so highly to illustrate the glory of the Gospel of peace."—Burkitt. I speak as a man.—That is, in the character of an unconverted Jew.

A. D. 60.

6 God forbid: for then [i] how shall God judge the world?

7 For if the truth of God hath more abounded through my lie unto his glory; why yet am I also judged as a sinner?

8 And not rather, (as we be slanderously reported, and as some affirm that we say,) [k] Let us do evil, that good may come? whose damnation is just.

9 What then? are we better than they? No, in no wise: for we have before [o] proved both Jews and Gentiles, that [l] they are all under sin;

10 As it is written, [m] There is none righteous, no, not one:

11 There is none that understandeth, there is none that seeketh after God.

12 They are all gone out of the way, they are together become unprofitable; there is none that doeth good, no, not one.

13 [n] Their throat is an open sepulchre; with their tongues they have used deceit; [o] the poison of asps is under their lips:

14 [p] Whose mouth is full of cursing and bitterness:

15 [q] Their feet are swift to shed blood:

16 Destruction and misery are in their ways:

17 And the way of peace have they not known:

18 [r] There is no fear of God before their eyes.

19 Now we know that what things soever [s] the law saith, it saith to them who are under the law: that [t] every mouth may be stopped, and [u] all the world may become † guilty before God.

20 Therefore [x] by the deeds of the law there shall no flesh be justified in his sight: for [y] by the law is the knowledge of sin.

21 But now [z] the righteousness of God without the law is manifested, [a] being witnessed by the Law [b] and the Prophets;

22 Even the righteousness of God which is [c] by faith of Jesus Christ unto all and upon all them that believe: for [d] there is no difference:

23 For [e] all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God;

24 Being justified freely [f] by his grace [g] through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus:

25 Whom God hath ‡ set forth [h] to be a propitiation through faith [i] in his blood, to declare his righteousness [k] for the § remission of [l] sins that are past, through the forbearance of God;

26 To declare, I say, at this time his righteousness: that he might be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus.

27 [m] Where is boasting then? It is excluded. By what law? of works? Nay: but by the law of faith.

28 Therefore we conclude [n] that a man is justified by faith without the deeds of the law.

29 Is he the God of the Jews only? is he not also of the Gentiles? Yes, of the Gentiles also:

30 Seeing [o] it is one God, which shall justify the circumcision by faith, and uncircumcision through faith.

31 Do we then make void the law through faith? God forbid: yea, we establish the law.

CHAP. IV.

1 Abraham's faith was imputed to him for righteousness, 10 before he was circumcised. 13 By faith only he and his seed received the promise. 16 Abraham is the father of all that believe. 24 Our faith also shall be imputed to us for righteousness.

WHAT shall we then say that [a] Abraham, our father as pertaining to the flesh, hath found?

2 For if Abraham were [b] justified by works, he hath whereof to glory; but not before God.

3 For what saith the Scripture? [c] Abraham believed God, and it was counted unto him for righteousness.

4 Now [d] to him that worketh is the reward not reckoned of grace, but of debt.

5 But to him that worketh not, but believeth on him that justifieth [e] the ungodly, his faith is counted for righteousness.

6 Even as David also describeth the blessedness of the man, unto whom God imputeth righteousness without works,

7 Saying, [f] Blessed are they whose iniquities are forgiven, and whose sins are covered.

8 Blessed is the man to whom the Lord will not impute sin.

9 Cometh this blessedness then, upon the circumcision only, or upon the uncircumcision also? for we say that faith was reckoned to Abraham for righteousness.

10 How was it then reckoned? when he

Ver. 7. My lie.—My unbelief. The Jew here proceeds to ask why, if the divine truth has been made the more manifest by his infidelity, he should still be condemned as a sinner. To which the apostle replies, (ver. 8) Why not rather say as we Christ's apostles are slanderously reported to commend our practice, and as some declare that we actually recommend in our preaching) let us do evil, &c. Whose damnation is just.—The condemnation of such persons as really do assert and practise such a course of conduct, is no less just than certain.

Ver. 9. What then? Are we better than they?—Do you then, asks the Jew, admit that we Jews excel the Gentiles in piety? No, rejoins the Apostle, certainly not, for I have before proved, &c.

Ver. 19. Who are under the law.—To those who are bound by the obligations which it imposes. That every mouth may be stopped.—"If so then, both Jew and Gentile must confess themselves before God as obnoxious to his wrath, without being able to say any thing for themselves."—Burkitt.

CHAP. IV. Ver. 1. As pertaining to the flesh.—To the works of the flesh. Hath found.—Hath obtained.

Ver. 2. Were justified by works, &c.—That is by works good and meritorious, of his own doing exclusively, he has good ground for glorifying before men, but not before God, because good works are a debt due to God; justification therefore is not the necessary result of that debt, but the contingent, though especial, result of God's grace.

Ver. 5. But to him that worketh not.—But to him that performs not the whole requisitions of the law, who fulfils not the condition of perfect obedience, "Him," says Bishop Sull, "who worketh, not of himself, but by faith in the gracious revelation of God." The phrase 'worketh not,' must evidently be taken here in a qualified sense.

Ver 6. Without works.—"Without his having performed works of law perfectly."—Macknight.

Ver. 7. Whose sins are covered.—By the veil of Christ's mediatorial mercy.

Ver. 8. Will not impute sin.—Shall no longer impute sin, having extended his most gracious pardon to the delinquent.

Ver. 9. For we say, &c.—It is evident that this blessedness is not confined to circumcised persons, since Abraham obtained that justification by faith before spoken of, while he was yet uncircumcised.

was in circumcision, or in uncircumcision? Not in circumcision, but in uncircumcision.

11 And [g] he received the sign of circumcision, a seal of the righteousness of the faith which he had yet being uncircumcised: that [h] he might be the father of all them that believe, though they be not circumcised; that righteousness might be imputed unto them also:

12 And the father of circumcision to them who are not of the circumcision only, but who also walk in the steps of that faith of our father Abraham, which he had being yet uncircumcised.

13 For the promise, that he should be the [i] heir of the world, was not to Abraham, or to his seed, through the law, but through the righteousness of faith.

14 For [k] if they which are of the law be heirs, faith is made void, and the promise made of none effect:

15 Because [l] the law worketh wrath: for where no law is, there is no transgression.

16 Therefore it is of faith, that it might be [m] by grace; [n] to the end the promise might be sure to all the seed; not to that only which is of the law, but to that also which is of the faith of Abraham; [o] who is the father of us all,

17 (As it is written, [p] I have made thee a father of many nations,) * before him whom he believed, even God, [q] who quickeneth the dead, and calleth those [r] things which be not as though they were.

18 Who against hope believed in hope, that he might become the father of many nations, according to that which was spoken, [s] So shall thy seed be.

19 And being not weak in faith, [t] he considered not his own body now dead, when he was about an hundred years old, neither yet the deadness of Sarah's womb:

20 He staggered not at the promise of God through unbelief; but was strong in faith, giving glory to God;

21 And being fully persuaded that, what he had promised, [u] he was able also to perform.

22 And therefore it was imputed to him for righteousness.

23 Now [x] it was not written for his sake alone, that it was imputed to him;

24 But for us also, to whom it shall be imputed, if we believe [y] on him that raised up Jesus our Lord from the dead;

25 [z] Who was delivered for our offences, and [a] was raised again for our justification.

CHAP. V.

1 Being justified by faith, we have peace with God, 2 and joy in our hope. 5 That sith we were reconciled by his blood, when we were enemies, 10 we shall much more be saved being reconciled. 12 As sin and death came by Adam, 17 so much more righteousness and life by Jesus Christ. 20 Where sin abounded grace did superabound.

THEREFORE [a] being justified by faith, we have [b] peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ:

2 [c] By whom also we have access by faith into this grace [d] wherein we stand, and [e] rejoice in hope of the glory of God.

3 And not only so, but [f] we glory in tribulations also: [g] knowing that tribulation worketh patience;

4 [h] And patience, experience; and experience, hope:

5 [i] And hope maketh not ashamed; [k] because the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghost which is given unto us.

6 For when we were yet without strength, * in due time [l] Christ died for the ungodly.

7 For scarcely for a righteous man will one die: yet peradventure for a good man some would even dare to die.

8 But [m] God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us.

9 Much more then, being now justified [n] by his blood, we shall be saved [o] from wrath through him.

10 For [p] if, when we were enemies, [q] we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more, being reconciled, we shall be saved [r] by his life.

11 And not only so, but we also [s] joy in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom we have now received the † atonement.

12 Wherefore, as [t] by one man sin entered into the world, and [u] death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, ‡ for that all have sinned:

13 (For until the law sin was in the world: but [x] sin is not imputed when there is no law.

14 Nevertheless death reigned from Adam to Moses, even over them that had not sinned after the similitude of Adam's transgression, [y] who is the figure of him that was to come.

Ver. 13. Through the law.—That is, on condition of perfect obedience to the law, but in consequence of the righteousness of faith.

Ver. 14. They which are of the law, &c.—They who seek justification, either by the ceremonial observances of the Levitical law, or by performing the higher obligations of the moral law of nature as a meritorious claim to divine favour, their faith is rendered void of effect, and so likewise is that promise which assures salvation to sinners, as an act of divine Grace, not as the necessary consequence of meritorious service.

Ver. 15. The law worketh wrath.—All law demanding perfect obedience, punishes wherever it is infringed; it therefore does not justify. For where no law is, there is no transgression.—But if there were no law of any kind, there would be no transgression, as all transgression consists in a breach of law; consequently if there be no law, there could be no provocation of divine punishment.

Ver. 16. Therefore it is of faith, &c.—"For this reason the inheritance is bestowed on account of a righteousness of faith, and not of law, that it might be a free gift in order that the promise made to Abraham concerning it might be sure to all his seed; not to that only which is his seed by the law of circumcision, but to that also which is his seed by possessing the faith of Abraham, who is the federal head of us all who believe, whether we be Jews or Gentiles, that is, persons not in the visible church of God."—Macknight.

Ver. 17. And calleth those things, &c.—"And calleth into action and enjoyment those things that are not now in existence, with the same ease as those that are."—Doddridge.

15 But not as the offence, so also is the free gift. For if through the offence of one many be dead, much more the grace of God, and the gift by grace, which is by one man, Jesus Christ, hath abounded [z] unto many.

16 And not as it was by one that sinned, so is the gift: for the judgment was by one to condemnation, but the free gift is of many offences unto justification.

17 For if § by one man's offence death reigned by one; much more they which receive abundance of grace and of the gift of righteousness shall reign in life by one, Jesus Christ.)

18 Therefore as ‖ by the offence of one judgment came upon all men to condemnation; even so [a] by the righteousness of one the free gift came [b] upon all men unto justification of life.

19 For as by one man's disobedience many were made sinners, so by the obedience of one shall many be made righteous.

20 Moreover [c] the law entered, that the offence might abound. But where sin abounded, grace did much [d] more abound:

21 That as sin hath reigned unto death, even so might grace reign through righteousness unto eternal life by Jesus Christ our Lord.

CHAP. VI.

1 We may not live in sin, 2 for we are dead unto it, 3 as appeareth by our baptism. 12 Let not sin reign any more, 18 because we have yielded ourselves to the service of righteousness, 23 and for that death is the wages of sin.

WHAT shall we say then? [a] shall we continue in sin, that grace may abound?

2 God forbid. How shall we, that are [b] dead to sin, live any longer therein?

3 Know ye not, that [c] so many of us as [*] were baptized into Jesus Christ [d] were baptized into his death?

4 Therefore we are [e] buried with him by baptism into death: that [f] like as Christ was raised up from the dead by [g] the glory of the Father, [h] even so we also should walk in newness of life.

5 [i] For if we have been planted together in the likeness of his death, we shall be also in the likeness of his resurrection:

6 Knowing this, that [k] our old man is crucified with him, that [l] the body of sin might be destroyed, that henceforth we should not serve sin.

7 For [m] he that is dead is † freed from sin.

8 Now [n] if we be dead with Christ, we believe that we shall also live with him:

9 Knowing that [o] Christ being raised from the dead dieth no more; death hath no more dominion over him.

10 For in that he died, [p] he died unto sin once: but in that he liveth, [q] he liveth unto God.

11 Likewise reckon ye also yourselves to be [r] dead indeed unto sin, but [s] alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord.

12 [t] Let not sin therefore reign in your mortal body, that ye should obey it in the lusts thereof.

13 Neither yield ye your [u] members as ‡ instruments of unrighteousness unto sin: but [x] yield yourselves unto God, as those that are alive from the dead, and your members as instruments of righteousness unto God.

14 For [y] sin shall not have dominion over you: for ye are not under the law, but under grace.

15 What then? shall we sin, [z] because we are not under the law, but under grace? God forbid.

16 Know ye not, that [a] to whom ye yield yourselves servants to obey, his servants ye are to whom ye obey; whether of sin unto death, or of obedience unto righteousness?

17 But God be thanked, that ye were the servants of sin, but ye have obeyed from the heart [b] that form of doctrine § which was delivered you.

18 Being then [c] made free from sin, ye became the servants of righteousness.

19 I speak after the manner of men because of the infirmity of your flesh: for as ye have yielded your members servants to uncleanness and to iniquity unto iniquity; even so now yield your members servants to righteousness unto holiness.

20 For when ye were [d] the servants of sin, ye were free ‖ from righteousness.

21 [e] What fruit had ye then in those things whereof ye are now ashamed? for [f] the end of those things is death.

22 But now [g] being made free from sin, and become servants to God, ye have your fruit unto holiness, and the end everlasting life.

23 For [h] the wages of sin is death; but [i] the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.

1 No law hath power over a man longer than he liveth. 4 But we are dead to the law. 7 Yet is not the law sin. 12 but holy, just, good. 16 as I acknowledge, who am grieved because I cannot keep it.

KNOW ye not, brethren, (for I speak to them that know the law,) how that the law hath dominion over a man as long as he liveth?

a 1 Cor. 7. 39. 2 For [a] the woman which hath an husband is bound by the law to her husband so long as he liveth; but if the husband be dead, she is loosed from the law of her husband.

b Matt. 5. 32. 3 So then [b] if, while her husband liveth, she be married to another man, she shall be called an adulteress: but if her husband be dead, she is free from that law; so that she is no adulteress, though she be married to another man.

4 Wherefore, my brethren, ye also are c ch. 8. 2. Col. 2. 19. & 3. 18. Ephes. 2. 15. Col. 2. 14. become [c] dead to the law by the body of Christ; that ye should be married to another, even to him who is raised from the dead, that we should [d] bring forth fruit unto God.

7 What shall we say then? Is the law sin? God forbid. Nay, [h] I had not known sin, but by the law: for I had not known [‡] lust, except the law had said, [i] Thou shalt not covet.

8 But [k] sin, taking occasion by the commandment, wrought in me all manner of concupiscence. For [l] without the law sin was dead.

9 For I was alive without the law once: but when the commandment came, sin revived, and I died.

m Lev. 18. 5. Ezek. 20. 11, 13, 21. 2 Cor. 3. 7. 10 And the commandment, [m] which was ordained to life, I found to be unto death.

A. D. 60

13 Was then that which is good made death unto me? God forbid. But sin, that it might appear sin, working death in me by that which is good; that sin by the commandment might become exceeding sinful.

14 For we know that the law is spiritual: but I am carnal, [o] sold under sin.

CHAP. VII. Ver. 1. As long as he liveth.—As long as it liveth; that is, so long as such law is in force.

Ver. 2. She is loosed from the law of her husband.—From the law of matrimony which bound her to her husband.

Ver. 3. From that law.—Of matrimony.

Ver. 4. Dead to the law.—Absolved from the obligations of the ceremonial law; for that law to which you were once united as strictly as a woman is to her husband, has ceased to exist.

Ver. 5. When we were in the flesh.—Before we had received the spiritual graces of Christianity. The evil motions of sins.—Our propensity to sin. Which were by the law.—Which we exercised under the law, in our unregenerate state, ere the grace of God had invested us with a more sanctifying dispensation. In our members.—In the whole man, both the carnal and spiritual man.

Ver. 6. That being dead.—Being abrogated. In newness of spirit.—With spirits renewed by the Holy Ghost, and the sanctifying influence of the Gospel. Not in the oldness of the letter.—And not, as formerly, by a mere literal observance of the ceremonial law.

Ver. 7. Is the law sin?—Is the ceremonial law the cause of sin by only exacting outward obedience? I had not known sin, but by the law.—I should not have known what sin was unless by the prohibitions of the law, both ceremonial and moral. I had not known lust.—The sinfulness of lust.

Ver. 8. But sin, taking occasion, &c.—But sin taking advantage of the restraint imposed upon me by the commandment not to covet or desire, excited that resistance natural to my infirm nature. Without law sin was dead.—"Had no power to render me guilty of death."—Dr. Wells.

Ver. 9. I was alive without the law once, &c.—This is a very obscure passage, but, I think, Dr. Whitby has hit upon the right sense of it. He paraphrases it thus: "For I (the seed of Abraham) indeed lived before the law was given, I being not obnoxious to death for that to which the law had not threatened death; but when the commandment came, forbidding [1] under that penalty, sin revived and I died; that is, it got strength to draw me to sin, and so condemn me to death."

Ver. 10. Which was ordained to life.—Which was intended to produce the fruits of holiness in the heart, and thus lead to everlasting life. I found to be unto death.—In consequence of violating it, which has rendered the guilty party obnoxious to death eternal.

Ver. 11. For sin, &c.—For sin, seizing the opportunity when I was under the penal restrictions of the commandment, seduced me to violate it, and thus rendered me subject to the penalty denounced against a violation of it, which is death.

Ver. 12. Wherefore the law, &c.—No valid objection therefore against the law and the commandment can be sustained, for both are holy, and just, and good.

Ver. 13. Made death unto me.—Hence a Jew is supposed to object, That good law then, of which you speak, has become to me the cause of death. God forbid.—By no means, replies the Apostle; but this sad effect is attributable to sin, which, that it might appear as it really is, sin, a thing in the last degree odious and detestable, as working death to sinners through that good law; so that sin, through the commandment forbidding it, might appear in all its moral deformity, by causing continual violations of the law and of the commandment, both of which are holy, just, and good.

Ver. 14. Sold under sin. In bondage to the corrupt desires of the flesh, which exercised a tyrannical dominion over me.

Ver. 15. I allow not.—I neither approve nor allow, in many instances, to be proper.

Ver. 16. If then, &c.—The Apostle here means to say that, If he does what his conscience condemns, he virtually acknowledges that the law, which prohibits these actions condemned by his conscience, is good.

Ver. 21. I find then a law.—I find then a resisting power, having the actual force of a law, actuating me to do evil when I would do good.

Ver. 24. The body of this death.—The sinful lusts of the flesh, which terminate in spiritual and eternal death.

Ver. 25. I thank God who delivers me, through Jesus Christ our Lord.

CHAP. VIII. Ver. 1. There is therefore now, &c.—That is, under the Gospel dispensation.

Ver. 2. The law of the Spirit of Life, &c.—"The law of the Gospel which promises eternal life by Jesus Christ, has delivered us from the power of sin in our members, and from the power of death."—Macknight.

A. D. 60.

it was weak through the flesh, [f] God sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh, and [*] for sin, condemned sin in the flesh:

4 That the righteousness of the law might be fulfilled in us, [g] who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit.

5 For [h] they that are after the flesh do mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the Spirit [i] the things of the Spirit.

6 For [k] † to be carnally minded is death; but ‡ to be spiritually minded is life and peace.

7 Because § [l] the carnal mind is enmity against God: for it is not subject to the law of God, [m] neither indeed can be.

8 So then they that are in the flesh cannot please God.

9 But ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if so be that [n] the Spirit of God dwell in you. Now if any man have not [o] the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his.

10 And if Christ be in you, the body is dead because of sin; but the Spirit is life because of righteousness.

11 But if the Spirit of [p] him that raised up Jesus from the dead dwell in you, [q] he that raised up Christ from the dead shall also quicken your mortal bodies ‖ by his Spirit that dwelleth in you.

12 [r] Therefore, brethren, we are debtors, not to the flesh, to live after the flesh.

13 For [s] if ye live after the flesh, ye shall die: but if ye through the Spirit do [t] mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live.

14 For [u] as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God.

15 For [x] ye have not received the spirit of bondage again [y] to fear; but ye have received the [z] Spirit of adoption, whereby we cry, [a] Abba, Father.

16 [b] The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God:

17 And if children, then heirs; [c] heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ; [d] if so be that we suffer with him, that we may be also glorified together.

18 For I reckon that [e] the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed in us.

19 For [f] the earnest expectation of the creature waiteth for the [g] manifestation of the sons of God.

20 For [h] the creature was made subject to vanity, not willingly, but by reason of him who hath subjected the same in hope,

21 Because the creature itself also shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the children of God.

22 For we know that [*] the whole creation [i] groaneth and travaileth in pain together until now.

23 And not only they, but ourselves also, which have [k] the first fruits of the Spirit, [l] even we ourselves groan within ourselves, [m] waiting for the adoption, to wit, the [n] redemption of our body.

24 For we are saved by hope: but [o] hope that is seen is not hope: for what a man seeth, why doth he yet hope for?

25 But if we hope for that we see not, then do we with patience wait for it.

26 Likewise the Spirit also helpeth our infirmities: for [p] we know not what we should pray for as we ought: but [q] the Spirit itself maketh intercession for us with groanings which cannot be uttered.

27 And [r] he that searcheth the hearts knoweth what is the mind of the Spirit, † because he maketh intercession for the saints [s] according to the will of God.

28 And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them [t] who are the called according to his purpose.

29 For whom [u] he did foreknow, [x] he also did predestinate [y] to be conformed to the image of his Son, [z] that he might be the firstborn among many brethren.

30 Moreover whom he did predestinate, them he also [a] called: and whom he called, them he also [b] justified: and whom he justified, them he also [c] glorified.

31 What shall we then say to these things? [d] If God be for us, who can be against us?

32 [e] He that spared not his own Son, but [f] delivered him up for us all, how shall he not with him also freely give us all things?

33 Who shall lay any thing to the charge of God's elect? [g] It is God that justifieth.

34 [h] Who is he that condemneth? It is Christ that died, yea rather, that is risen again, [i] who is even at the right hand of God, [k] who also maketh intercession for us.

Ver. 3. In that it was weak through the flesh.—Being rendered inefficient by the lusts of the flesh, which caused men continually to violate the law. Condemned sin.—Destroyed the power of sin.

Ver. 4. That the righteousness of the law.—The righteousness enjoined by the law. In us.—By us.

Ver. 5. They that are after the flesh.—They who live according to the flesh.

Ver. 8. They that are in the flesh.—They who obey the impure solicitation of the flesh.

Ver. 10. And if Christ, &c.—If the spirit of Christ before mentioned be indeed in you, although your bodies are as it were dead, because under the sentence of condemnation for original sin, nevertheless will that selfsame spirit raise them up from the sleep of death, to a life glorious and immortal through the righteousness of Him who died to redeem them from the penalty denounced against Adam, through transgression.

Ver. 11. Shall also quicken your mortal bodies.—After they have been deposited in the grave.

Ver. 13. Die. Live.—Eternally in either case.

Ver. 15. Ye have not, &c.—For ye have not been placed in the condition of bondmen by being again made subject to a dispensation which, like the law of Moses, demands perfect obedience, which inspires fear of your inability to perform its requisitions, from a consciousness of moral infirmity, but ye have been received into the liberty of Christ's kingdom, where, in your praises to God, ye may freely call him Father without fear of offending him. Abba is the Syriac term for father.

Ver. 16. Beareth witness with our Spirit, &c.—Also the Spirit itself, bestowed upon us in his extraordinary operations, beareth witness, together with the filial dispositions of our own minds, that we are the children of God.

Ver. 17. If so be that we suffer with him.—If we are ready to suffer and do suffer for his sake.

Ver. 18. Revealed in us.—That is to us.

Ver. 19. For the earnest expectation of the creature, &c.—For all God's rational creatures, Gentiles as well as Jews, earnestly look for that glorious consummation which shall eminently and everlastingly distinguish the sons of God.

Ver. 20. To vanity.—To the consequences of transgression, suffering, and death. Not willingly, &c.—"Not by their own act, but by God, who, for the disobedience of the first man, hath subjected all his offspring to those evils."—Macknight. In hope. The hope nevertheless being left of a joyful resurrection to eternal life, through that expiatory sacrifice which has redeemed mankind from eternal death.

Ver. 21. The bondage of corruption.—That is, of death.

Ver. 23. Which have the first-fruits of the Spirit.—Who have received the first blessings—the gifts of the Holy Spirit under the Christian dispensation. For the adoption, &c.—That great event by which our sonship will be manifested and confirmed, namely the delivery of our body from corruption, by raising it glorious and immortal.

Ver. 26. With groanings.—With deep and intense aspirations.

Ver. 28. To them who are called according to his purpose. "That is, those who, according to God's counsels revealed in the Gospel, are the men to whom His favour and promises belong."—Dr. Hammond.

Ver. 29. 30. "For those whom God foreknew were to be called his sons, he also predestinated to be conformed to the image of his Son, by having their minds adorned with his virtues, and their bodies fashioned like to his glorious body, that he might be the first-born of many brethren, the children of God. Moreover, whom he predestinated to be conformed to the image of his Son, them he also called his sons (ver. 28): and whom he called his sons, them he also justified, by counting their faith for righteousness: and whom he justified, them he also glorified, by putting them in possession of the eternal inheritance."—Macknight.

Ver. 33. Of God's elect.—Of those approved and accepted of God.

35 Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword?

36 As it is written, [l] For thy sake we are killed all the day long; we are accounted as sheep for the slaughter.

37 [m] Nay, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him that loved us.

38 For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor [n] principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come,

39 Nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.

CHAP. IX.

1 Paul is sorry for the Jews. 7 All the seed of Abraham were not the children of the promise. 18 God hath mercy upon whom he will. 21 The potter may do with his clay what he list. 25 The calling of the Gentiles and rejecting of the Jews were foretold. 32 The cause why so few Jews embraced the righteousness of faith.

I [a] SAY the truth in Christ, I lie not, my conscience also bearing me witness in the Holy Ghost,

2 [b] That I have great heaviness and continual sorrow in my heart.

3 For [c] I could wish that myself were [*] accursed from Christ for my brethren, my kinsmen according to the flesh:

4 [d] Who are Israelites; [e] to whom pertaineth the adoption, and [f] the glory, and [g] the [†] covenants, and [h] the giving of the law, and [i] the service of God, and [k] the promises;

5 [l] Whose are the fathers, and [m] of whom as concerning the flesh Christ came, [n] who is over all, God blessed for ever. Amen.

6 [o] Not as though the word of God hath taken none effect. For [p] they are not all Israel, which are of Israel:

7 [q] Neither, because they are the seed of Abraham, are they all children: but, in [r] Isaac shall thy seed be called.

8 That is, They which are the children of the flesh, these are not the children of God: but [s] the children of the promise are counted for the seed.

9 For this is the word of promise, [t] At this time will I come, and Sarah shall have a son.

10 And not only this; but when [u] Rebecca also had conceived by one, even by our father Isaac;

11 (For the children being not yet born, neither having done any good or evil, that the purpose of God according to election might stand, not of works, but of [x] him that calleth;)

12 It was said unto her, [y] The ‡ elder shall serve the § younger.

13 As it is written, [z] Jacob have I loved, but Esau have I hated.

14 What shall we say then? [a] Is there unrighteousness with God? God forbid.

15 For he saith to Moses, [b] I will have mercy on whom I will have mercy, and I will have compassion on whom I will have compassion.

16 So then it is not of him that willeth, nor of him that runneth, but of God that sheweth mercy.

17 For [c] the Scripture saith unto Pharaoh, [d] Even for this same purpose have I raised thee up, that I might shew my power in thee, and that my name might be declared throughout all the earth.

18 Therefore hath he mercy on whom he will have mercy, and whom he will he hardeneth.

19 Thou wilt say then unto me, Why doth he yet find fault? For [e] who hath resisted his will?

20 Nay but, O man, who art thou that ‖ repliest against God? [f] Shall the thing formed say to him that formed it, Why hast thou made me thus?

21 Hath not the [g] potter power over the clay, of the same lump to make [h] one vessel unto honour, and another unto dishonour?

22 What if God, willing to shew his wrath, and to make his power known, endured with much longsuffering [i] the vessels of wrath [*] [k] fitted to destruction:

23 And that he might make known [l] the riches of his glory on the vessels of mercy, which he had [m] afore prepared unto glory,

24 Even us, whom he hath called, [n] not of the Jews only, but also of the Gentiles?

25 As he saith also in Osee, [o] I will call them my people, which were not my people; and her beloved, which was not beloved.

26 [p] And it shall come to pass, that in the place where it was said unto them, Ye are not my people; there shall they be called the children of the living God.

27 Esaias also crieth concerning Israel, [q] Though the number of the children of Israel be as the sand of the sea, [r] a remnant shall be saved:

28 For he will finish [†] the work, and cut

Ver. 6, 7. Not as though, &c.—Do not imagine, from what I have said, that I would for a moment infer that the word of God has been without effect, for they are not all Israelites, in a spiritual sense, who are descended from Israel by generation; neither are they spiritually the children of Abraham, and thus heirs of his righteousness and of the promise made to him, because they have proceeded in direct descent from him; for Ishmael was descended from him in the same manner, but it was the seed of Isaac to whom the inheritance of the promise was declared.

Ver. 8. That is, &c.—The Apostle here means to say that not they who are merely children by generation are that people of God designed to inherit the promises, but those alone who were especially given to Abraham by promise, as Isaac was, are counted for the seed with whom the covenant was to be established.

it short in righteousness: [s] because a short work will the Lord make upon the earth.

29 And as Esaias said before, [t] Except the Lord of Sabaoth hath left us a seed, [u] we had been as Sodoma, and been made like unto Gomorrha.

30 What shall we say then? [x] That the Gentiles, which followed not after righteousness, have attained to righteousness, [y] even the righteousness which is of faith.

31 But Israel, [z] which followed after the law of righteousness, [a] hath not attained to the law of righteousness.

32 Wherefore? Because they sought it not by faith, but as it were by the works of the law. For [b] they stumbled at that stumblingstone;

33 As it is written, [c] Behold, I lay in Sion a stumblingstone and rock of offence: and [d] whosoever believeth on him shall not be ‡ ashamed.

CHAP. X.

§ The scripture sheweth the difference betwixt the righteousness of the law, and this of faith, 11 and that all, both Jew and Gentile, that believe, shall not be confounded, 18 and that the Gentiles shall receive the word and believe. 19 Israel was not ignorant of these things.

BRETHREN, my heart's desire and prayer to God for Israel is, that they might be saved.

2 For I bear them record [e] that they have a zeal of God, but not according to knowledge.

3 For they being ignorant of [b] God's righteousness, and going about to establish their own [c] righteousness, have not submitted themselves unto the righteousness of God.

4 For [d] Christ is the end of the law for righteousness to every one that believeth.

5 For Moses describeth the righteousness which is of the law, [e] That the man which doeth those things shall live by them.

6 But the righteousness which is of faith speaketh on this wise, [f] Say not in thine heart, Who shall ascend into heaven? (that is, to bring Christ down from above:)

7 Or, Who shall descend into the deep? (that is, to bring up Christ again from the dead.)

8 But what saith it? [g] The word is nigh thee, even in thy mouth, and in thy heart: that is, the word of faith, which we preach;

9 That [h] if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved.

10 For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation.

11 For the Scripture saith, [i] Whosoever believeth on him shall not be ashamed.

12 For [k] there is no difference between the Jew and the Greek: for [l] the same Lord over all [m] is rich unto all that call upon him.

13 [n] For whosoever shall call [o] upon the name of the Lord shall be saved.

14 How then shall they call on him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear [p] without a preacher?

15 And how shall they preach, except they be sent? as it is written, [q] How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the Gospel of peace, and bring glad tidings of good things!

16 But [r] they have not all obeyed the Gospel. For Esaias saith, [s] Lord, who hath believed * our † report?

17 So then faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God.

18 But I say, Have they not heard? Yes verily, [t] their sound went into all the earth, [u] and their words unto the ends of the world.

19 But I say, Did not Israel know? First Moses saith, [x] I will provoke you to jealousy by them that are no people, and by a [y] foolish nation I will anger you.

20 But Esaias is very bold, and saith, [z] I was found of them that sought me not; I was made manifest unto them that asked not after me.

21 But to Israel he saith, [a] All day long I have stretched forth my hands unto a disobedient and gainsaying people.

CHAP. XI.

1 God hath not cast off all Israel. 7 Some were elected, though the rest were hardened. 16 There is hope of their conversion. 18 The Gentiles may not insult them: 26 for there is a promise of their salvation. 33 God's judgments are unsearchable.

I SAY then, [a] Hath God cast away his people? God forbid. For [b] I also am an Israelite, of the seed of Abraham, of the tribe of Benjamin.

2 God hath not cast away his people which [c] he foreknew. Wot ye not what the Scripture saith [c] of Elias? how he maketh intercession to God against Israel, saying,

3 [d] Lord, they have killed thy prophets, and digged down thine altars; and I am left alone, and they seek my life.

Ver. 29. Except the Lord of Sabaoth, &c.—Except the Lord of Hosts had left us a remnant, we, like Sodom and Gomorrah, had been utterly exterminated as a nation.

Ver. 30. Which followed not after righteousness, &c. "Who had formerly no notions of Christ, nor expected pardon and salvation by him, have now obtained it, and are made members of God's church, by embracing the gospel religion."—Pyle.

Ver. 31. The law of righteousness.—The righteousness accruing from obedience to the law of Moses. Hath not attained to the law of righteousness.—Hath not obtained that which is the only true righteousness; by which alone eternal life is secured.

Ver. 32. At that stumbling-stone.—The Messiah.

CHAP. x. Ver. 2. I bear them record.—I bear them witness. But not according to knowledge.—It does not proceed from a right apprehension of the truth as it is in Christ.

Ver. 3. 4. For they being ignorant, &c.—"Wherefore being ignorant of the righteousness which God appointed at the fall, as the righteousness of sinners, and seeking to establish their own righteousness, by observing the sacrifices and ceremonies, and other duties enjoined by the law of Moses, they have not submitted to the righteousness of God's appointment by faith. Although the believing on Christ as the Messiah is the end for which the law was given, that righteousness might be counted to every Jew who believeth."—Macknight.

Ver. 5. Which doeth those things.—Who performs the obligations of the Mosaic law. Shall live by them.—Shall have eternal life if he perform them perfectly.

Ver. 6. Say not in thine heart, who shall ascend into heaven, &c.—Who by the practice of the law can, so to speak, ascend into heaven to bring Christ down with him, or, when he has been brought down, and paid the penalty of human guilt upon the cross, who can descend into the grave and bring him up from the dead to complete that dispensation of mercy?

Ver. 8. The word is nigh thee.—The word or doctrine of salvation is within my reach.

Ver. 10. With the mouth confession is made.—"We confess our belief in in Christ, so as to have within ourselves strong assurance of salvation."—Macknight.

Ver. 14. How then, &c.—Here again the supposed Jew objects. How can the Gentiles call on the true God in whom they have not believed?

Ver. 16. But they have not, &c.—The apostle here replies to the objector.

Ver. 17. So then faith.—The Jew here resumes his argument. And hearing by the word of God.—By the preaching of God's word.

Ver. 18. But I say, &c.—But I ask, rejoins the Apostle, have not the Gentiles heard concerning the true God? What says the Psalmist? "Their sound," &c.

Ver. 19. But I say, &c.—But, replies the Jew, "to the salvation of the Gentiles I object, that Israel, God's ancient church, hath not known any thing of that matter. APOSTLE. If they are ignorant of it, it is their own fault. For, first, Moses saith, &c."—Macknight.

Ver. 20. Is very bold.—"Speaks yet more expressly."—Pyle.

CHAP. XI. Ver. 1. I say then, &c.—Here the supposed Jew asks if it is to be inferred from the prophecies quoted by the Apostle, that God has cast off his people for ever? By no means, replies the Apostle, for I am not cast off, though one of God's ancient people.

Ver. 2. Which he foreknew.—Which he chose as his peculiar people. Maketh intercession.—Maketh a complaint to God.

Ver. 3. Digged down.—Overthrown.

A. D. 60.

4 But what saith the answer of God unto him? [e] I have reserved to myself seven thousand men, who have not bowed the knee to the image of Baal.

5 [f] Even so then at this present time also there is a remnant according to the election of grace.

6 And [g] if by grace, then is it no more of works: otherwise grace is no more grace. But if it be of works, then it is no more grace: otherwise work is no more work.

7 What then? [h] Israel hath not obtained that which he seeketh for; but the election hath obtained it, and the rest were † blinded

8 (According as it is written, [i] God hath given them the spirit of ‡ slumber, [k] eyes that they should not see, and ears that they should not hear;) unto this day.

9 And David saith, [l] Let their table be made a snare, and a trap, and a stumbling-block, and a recompence unto them:

10 [m] Let their eyes be darkened, that they may not see, and bow down their back alway.

11 I say then, Have they stumbled that they should fall? God forbid: but rather [n] through their fall salvation is come unto the Gentiles, for to provoke them to jealousy.

12 Now if the fall of them be the riches of the world, and the § diminishing of them the riches of the Gentiles; how much more their fulness?

13 For I speak to you Gentiles, inasmuch as [o] I am the apostle of the Gentiles, I magnify mine office:

14 If by any means I may provoke to emulation them which are my flesh, and [p] might save some of them.

15 For if the casting away of them be the reconciling of the world, what shall the receiving of them be, but life from the dead?

16 For if [q] the firstfruit be holy, the lump is also holy: and if the root be holy, so are the branches.

17 And if [r] some of the branches be broken off, [s] and thou, being a wild olive tree, wert graffed in ‖ among them, and with them partakest of the root and fatness of the olive tree;

18 [t] Boast not against the branches. But if thou boast, thou bearest not the root, but the root thee.

19 Thou wilt say then, The branches were broken off, that I might be graffed in.

20 Well; because of unbelief they were broken off, and thou standest by faith. [u] Be not highminded, but [x] fear:

21 For if God spared not the natural branches, take heed lest he also spare not thee.

22 Behold therefore the goodness and severity of God: on them which fell, severity; but toward thee, goodness, [y] if thou continue in his goodness: otherwise [z] thou also shalt be cut off.

23 And they also, [a] if they abide not in unbelief, shall be graffed in: for God is able to graff them in again.

24 For if thou wert cut out of the olive tree which is wild by nature, and wert graffed contrary to nature into a good olive tree: how much more shall these, which be the natural branches, be graffed into their own olive tree?

25 For I would not, brethren, that ye should be ignorant of this mystery, lest ye should be [b] wise in your own conceits; that [c] * blindness in part is happened to Israel, [d] until the fulness of the Gentiles be come in.

26 And so all Israel shall be saved: as it is written, * There shall come out of Sion the Deliverer, and shall turn away ungodliness from Jacob:

27 [f] For this is my covenant unto them, when I shall take away their sins.

28 As concerning the Gospel, they are enemies for your sakes: but as touching the election, they are [g] beloved for the fathers' sakes.

29 For the gifts and calling of God are [h] without repentance.

30 For as ye [i] in times past have not † believed God, yet have now obtained mercy through their unbelief:

31 Even so have these also now not ‡ believed, that through your mercy they also may obtain mercy,

32 For [k] God hath § concluded them all in unbelief, that he might have mercy upon all.

33 O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! [l] how unsearchable are his judgments, and [m] his ways past finding out!

34 [n] For who hath known the mind of the Lord? or [o] who hath been his counsellor?

35 Or [p] who hath first given to him, and it shall be recompensed unto him again?

36 For [q] of him, and through him, and to him, are all things: [r] to ‖ whom be glory for ever. Amen.

Ver. 7. The election.—The remnant chosen to be God's people, together with the converted Gentiles.

CHAP. XII.

1 God's mercies must move us to please God. 3 No man must think too well of himself, 6 but attend every one on that calling wherein he is placed. 9 Love, and many other duties, are required of us. 19 Revenge is specially forbidden.

I [a] BESEECH you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, [b] that ye [c] present your bodies [d] a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service.

2 And [e] be not conformed to this world: but [f] be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may [g] prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God.

3 For I say, [h] through the grace given unto me, to every man that is among you, [i] not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think; but to think [k] soberly, according as God hath dealt [k] to every man the measure of faith.

4 For [l] as we have many members in one body, and all members have not the same office:

5 So [m] we, being many, are one body in Christ, and every one members one of another.

6 [n] Having then gifts differing [o] according to the grace that is given to us, whether [p] prophecy, let us prophesy according to the proportion of faith;

7 Or ministry, let us wait on our ministering: or [q] he that teacheth, on teaching;

8 Or [r] he that exhorteth, on exhortation: [s] he that †giveth, let him do it ‡ with simplicity; [t] he that ruleth, with diligence; he that sheweth mercy, [u] with cheerfulness.

9 [x] Let love be without dissimulation. [y] Abhor that which is evil; cleave to that which is good.

10 [z] Be kindly affectioned one to another §with brotherly love; [a] in honour preferring one another;

11 Not slothful in business; fervent in spirit; serving the Lord;

12 [b] Rejoicing in hope; [c] patient in tribulation; [d] continuing instant in prayer;

13 [e] Distributing to the necessity of saints; [f] given to hospitality.

14 [g] Bless them which persecute you: bless, and curse not.

15 [h] Rejoice with them that do rejoice, and weep with them that weep.

16 [i] Be of the same mind one toward another. [k] Mind not high things, but ‖ condescend to men of low estate. [l] Be not wise in your own conceits.

17 [m] Recompense to no man evil for evil. [n] Provide things honest in the sight of all men.

18 If it be possible, as much as lieth in you, [o] live peaceably with all men.

19 Dearly beloved, [p] avenge not yourselves, but rather give place unto wrath: for it is written, [q] Vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord.

20 [r] Therefore if thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink: for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire on his head.

21 Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Subjection, and many other duties we owe, to the magistrates. 8 Love is the fulfilling of the law. 11 Gluttony and drunkenness, and the works of darkness, are out of season in the time of the gospel.

LET every soul [a] be subject unto the higher powers. For [b] there is no power but of God: the powers that be are [c] ordained of God.

2 Whosoever therefore resisteth [c] the power, resisteth the ordinance of God: and they that resist shall receive to themselves damnation.

3 For rulers are not a terror to good works, but to the evil. Wilt thou then not be afraid of the power? [d] do that which is good, and thou shalt have praise of the same:

4 For he is the minister of God to thee for good. But if thou do that which is evil, be afraid; for he beareth not the sword in vain: for he is the minister of God, a revenger to execute wrath upon him that doeth evil.

5 Wherefore [e] ye must needs be subject, not only for wrath, [f] but also for conscience sake.

6 For for this cause pay ye tribute also: for they are God's ministers, attending continually upon this very thing.

7 [g] Render therefore to all their dues: tribute to whom tribute is due; custom to whom custom; fear to whom fear; honour to whom honour.

8 Owe no man any thing, but to love one another: for [h] he that loveth another hath fulfilled the law.

9 For this, [i] Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not kill, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not bear false witness, Thou shalt not covet; and if there be any other commandment, it is briefly comprehended in this saying, namely, [k] Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.

10 Love worketh no ill to his neighbour: therefore [l] love is the fulfilling of the law.

11 And that, knowing the time, that now it is high time [m] to awake out of sleep: for CHAP. XII. Ver. 1. That ye present your bodies a living sacrifice.—By sacrificing in them the lusts and desires of the flesh.

Ver. 2. And perfect will of God.—Revealed in the Gospel.

Ver. 3. According as God hath dealt, &c.—According to the proportion of those spiritual gifts and graces which God has distributed to every one among you.

Ver. 5. And every one members one of another.—And dependent upon each other for aid and edification.

Ver. 6. Differing according, &c.—"Differing according to the offices assigned us in the church; if our gift be prophecy, let us prophesy only according to the extent of our inspiration."—Macknight.

Ver. 7. Or ministry, &c.—If our office be that of preaching the Gospel, let us be active and diligent in our vocation; let us attend strictly to its duties.

Ver. 10. In honour preferring one another.—Be not envious at seeing another preferred before you.

Ver. 12. Rejoicing in hope—Of eternal life. Instant in prayer.—Earnest in prayer.

Ver. 17. Provide things honest, &c.—Provide for yourselves honestly, and defraud no one with whom you may have to deal.

Ver. 20. Thou shalt heap coals of fire upon his head.—That is, as coals heaped upon the mouth of a crucible, which soften and fuse the ore within, so shalt thou, by those kind offices of Christian charity, so mollify him and soften his asperity towards thee as to bring him to a kind and placable behaviour.

CHAP. XIII. Ver. 1. For there is no power.—There is no authority. The powers that be, &c.—"The governing powers in all countries are subordinate to, and useful for carrying on, God's benevolent government of the world."—Macknight.

Ver. 2. Damnation.—Condemnation; they shall be tried in the temporal courts of law and punished.

Ver. 3. To good works.—To those who perform good works. Wilt thou then not be afraid of the power?—That is of the civil magistrate who exercises the power which the law confides to his hands.

Ver 5. Not only for wrath, &c.—Not only to avoid punishment, but from a principle of duty, and to escape the reproofs of conscience.

Ver. 6. For this cause, &c.—That is, to support the authority of the magistrate, and enable him to exercise it for the common benefit, ye pay taxes. Upon this very thing.—The distribution of justice.

Ver. 7 Tribute.—A tax laid upon persons and estates. Custom.—A tax laid upon merchandise.

Ver. 8. Hath fulfilled the law.—Which enjoins that "thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself," and this duty embraces all the requisitions of the moral law, our love of God being comprised in it.

Ver. 11. And that knowing the time, &c.—And knowing, as ye do, the extreme shortness and uncertainty of life, you must be well aware that now is our salvation nearer than when we believed.

12 The night is far spent, the day is at hand: [a] let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and [b] let us put on the armour of light.

13 [c] Let us walk †honestly, as in the day; [d] not in rioting and drunkenness, [e] not in chambering and wantonness, [f] not in strife and envying.

14 But [g] put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ, and [h] make not provision for the flesh, to fulfil the lusts thereof.

CHAP. XIV.

3 Men may not condemn nor contemn one the other for things indifferent: 13 but take heed that they give no offence in them: 15 for that the apostle proveth unlawful by many reasons.

HIM that [a] is weak in the faith receive ye, but [b] not to doubtful disputations.

2 For one believeth that he [c] may eat all things: another, who is weak, eateth herbs.

3 Let not him that eateth despise him that eateth not; and [d] let not him which eateth not judge him that eateth: for God hath received him.

4 [e] Who art thou that judgest another man's servant? to his own master he standeth or falleth. Yea, he shall be holden up: for God is able to make him stand.

5 [f] One man esteemeth one day above another: another esteemeth every day alike. Let every man be †fully persuaded in his own mind.

6 He that [g] ‡regardeth the day, regardeth it unto the Lord; and he that regardeth not the day, to the Lord he doth not regard it. He that eateth, eateth to the Lord, for [h] he giveth God thanks; and he that eateth not, to the Lord he eateth not, and giveth God thanks.

7 For [i] none of us liveth to himself, and no man dieth to himself.

8 For whether we live, we live unto the Lord; and whether we die, we die unto the Lord: whether we live therefore, or die, we are the Lord's.

9 For [j] to this end Christ both died, and rose, and revived, that he might be [k] Lord both of the dead and living.

10 But why dost thou judge thy brother? or why dost thou set at nought thy brother? for [l] we shall all stand before the judgment seat of Christ.

11 For it is written, [m] As I live, saith the Lord, every knee shall bow to me, and every tongue shall confess to God.

12 So then [n] every one of us shall give account of himself to God.

13 Let us not therefore judge one another any more: but judge this rather, that [o] no man put a stumbling-block or an occasion to fall in his brother's way.

14 I know, and am persuaded by the Lord Jesus, [p] that there is nothing § unclean of itself: but [q] to him that esteemeth any thing to be ‖ unclean, to him it is unclean.

15 But if thy brother be grieved with thy meat, now walkest thou not [r] charitably. [s] Destroy not him with thy meat, for whom Christ died.

16 [t] Let not then your good be evil spoken of:

17 [u] For the kingdom of God is not meat and drink; but righteousness, and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost.

18 For he that in these things serveth Christ [v] is acceptable to God, and approved of men.

19 [w] Let us therefore follow after the things which make for peace, and things wherewith [x] one may edify another.

20 [y] For meat destroy not the work of God. [z] All things indeed are pure; [a] but it is evil for that man who eateth with offence.

21 It is good neither to eat [b] flesh, nor to drink wine, nor any thing whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is offended, or is made weak.

22 Hast thou faith? have it to thyself before God. [c] Happy is he that condemneth not himself in that thing which he alloweth.

23 And he that †doubteth is damned if he eat, because he eateth not of faith: for [d] whatsoever is not of faith is sin.

It is now high time to arouse ourselves from that spiritual apathy which heathenism necessarily begets; for now is that salvation, promised in the Gospel, nearer than when we first believed, because it is better understood by us, and the means of obtaining it, therefore, more avaringly employed.

Ver. 12. The night, &c.—The night of heathen darkness is nearly spent, and the day of Gospel illumination, to the whole Gentile world, is drawing rapidly near. The armour of light. That armour which shall enable us to repel all the assaults of sin and temptation

Ver. 13 As in the day.—As men do who have the eyes of the whole world, as it were, upon them.

Ver. 14. But put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ.—"That is, be conformable to his doctrine and holy life."—Dr. Whithy.

Chap. xiv. Ver. 1. Him that is weak in the faith, and considers the distinctions of meats and of days essential to salvation, receive ye nevertheless, into Christian communion, but do not perplex him with intricate questions or vexatious disputes about things indifferent, such as mere ceremonial observances.

Ver. 2. Eateth herbs.—That is, only herbs, because, especially in heathen countries, of the difficulty of procuring clean meats.

Ver. 3. Let not him that eateth meats of whatever kind—despise him that eateth not—meats prohibited by the Mosaic law. For God hath received him. For God hath accepted the Gentile as well as the Jew.

Ver. 4. To his own master, &c.—By his own master he will be either acquitted or condemned. And he shall be acquitted, if God so wills, for He is able, and He alone, to acquit him

Ver. 6 He that regardeth, &c.—"He who observeth the Jewish holy days, observeth them in obedience to Christ, who he thinks hath commanded them. He who doth not observe these days, in obedience to Christ he doth not observe them, knowing that Christ has abolished them. He who eateth all kinds of meat indiscriminately eateth them in obedience to Christ, who has permitted them to be eaten; for he giveth God thanks for them, in the persuasion that they are permitted: and he who eateth not every kind, is obedience to Christ he eateth them not, and sheweth his persuasion that they are not permitted, by giving God thanks for the food he is allowed to eat."—Macknight.

Ver. 7. Liveth to himself.—By his own will. Dieth to himself.—By his own will, unless by an act of guilt.

Ver. 9. And revived, that he might, &c.—And still continues alive in heaven, where he will reign everlastingly, that he may be the supreme Judge and Rewarder of all mankind.

Ver. 10 Why dost thou judge, &c.—Why dost thou, a Jew, condemn the Gentile brother? Or why dost thou, a Gentile, despise thy Jewish brother?

Ver. 11. Confess to God.—Shall vow all glance to God.

Ver. 13. But judge this rather.—But resolve rather, that no man, &c.

Ver. 14. By the Lord Jesus.—By the authority of the Lord Jesus.

Ver. 15. But if thy brother, &c.—But if the Gentile brother be grieved by being led into sin, on account of thy eating meat considered by him unclean—the sin perhaps of following thy example, and thus acting against the restrictions of his conscience—now walkest thou not charitably—Thou dost not act according to that love which thou owest thy Christian brother. Destroy not him with meat.—By eating in his presence meat considered by him unclean.

Ver. 16. Your good.—The liberty enjoyed by you under the Gospel.

Ver. 17. For the kingdom of God, &c.—For Christianity does not consist in the choice or rejection of meat and drink, but in the practice of a righteous life which will issue in spiritual joy.

Ver. 18. In these things.—In the practice of Christian graces.

Ver. 19. Which make for peace.—Which promote peace and mutual edification in our common faith.

Ver 20. For meat, &c.—For the mere sensual gratification of eating, do not cause a christian brother to sin, and thus subject him to the penalty of death. Though all meats are clean under the christian covenant, nevertheless it is sinful for any one to eat that which he considers unlawful.

Ver. 21. Whereby thy brother stumbleth.—By which thy Jewish brother is brought into danger of sinning. Or is offended.—"Or is made to sin, or is weakened in his attachment to the Gospel."—Macknight.

Ver. 22. Hast thou faith?—"Or a persuasion that all meats may be lawfully eaten."—Dr. Whithy. Have it to thyself before God. "Thou mayest use it betwixt God and thyself, but not always before men; as when there may be danger of hurting them."—Dr. Hammond.

Ver. 23 He that doubteth. (See margin.) Is damned.—Is condemned. Because he eateth not of faith, &c.—That is, with a full persuasion that he is doing what is permitted by God: for whatever is done, in opposition to our belief of its lawfulness, is sin.

CHAP. XV. Ver. 1. We then that are strong.—In the faith and hope of the Gospel. And not to please ourselves.—And not act to benefit or gratify ourselves only.

Ver. 2. To edification.—To the edification of the Christian Church.

Ver. 3. The reproaches, &c.—The punishment due to the wickedness of those who reproached and blasphemed thee, O God, fell upon me.

Ver. 4. That we through patience, &c.—That we, through those numerous examples of patience exhibited in the scriptures, and the comfort derived to those who exercise it, might have hope of enjoying the like comfort derived from the expectation of everlasting reward.

Ver. 5. Now the God of patience, &c.—The author of patience, &c. According to Christ Jesus.—After the example of Christ Jesus.

Ver. 7. Receive ye one another.—Have kindly fellowship one with another. As Christ also received us.—Into fellowship with him, by making us members of his mystical body the church, to the glory of God.

Ver. 8. For the truth of God.—In order that he might establish the truth of God, and confirm the promises made to Abraham thy father, that in their seed all the families of the earth should be blessed.

Ver. 15. In some sort, &c.—In some measure for the sake of calling to remembrance, God's favour towards the Gentiles, and I do this because of the grace given to me of God, as an Apostle of Jesus Christ to the Gentiles.

Ver. 16. That the offering up, &c.—That the presenting of the Gentiles as an offering to God might be acceptable to him, they being sanctified by the Holy Ghost.

Ver. 17. In those things which pertain to God.—In my success in bringing the Gentiles to God.

Ver. 19. By the power of the Spirit of God.—By the gifts of the Holy Ghost imparted to me, and communicated by me to the Gentiles.

Ver. 20. Where Christ was named.—Was acknowledged.

Ver. 22. For which cause.—That is in consequence of my employment in preaching the Gospel.

Ver. 23. Having no more place, &c.—Having nothing further to detain me in these parts.

Ver. 24. And to be brought on my way, &c.—To be accompanied on my journey after I shall have for a while enjoyed your company.

Ver. 25. To minister unto the saints.—To distribute the money with which I have been entrusted, to the Jewish converts.

Ver. 27. And their debtors they are.—For the christians of Macedonia and Achaia are greatly indebted to the Jewish converts at Jerusalem, since it was from them that they first received the glad tidings of the Gospel.

Ver. 28. And have sealed to them this fruit.—And have distributed among them this collection.—I will come by you into Spain.—I will pay you a visit on my way into Spain.

Ver. 29. I shall come in the fulness, &c.—That is with a full power of imparting to you those spiritual blessings which follow a devout reception of the Gospel.

Ver. 30. And for the love of the spirit.—By the love of God which the Holy Spirit has excited within you.

Ver. 31. And that my service, &c.—In making the collection which I now bear for the christians at Jerusalem, may be acceptable to them.

CHAP. XVI.

3 Paul willeth the brethren to greet many, 17 and adviseth them to take heed of those which cause dissension and offences, 21 and other sundry salutations endeth with praise and thanks to God.

I COMMEND unto you Phebe our sister, which is a servant of the church which is at [a] Cenchrea:

2 [b] That ye receive her in the Lord, as becometh saints, and that ye assist her in whatsoever business she hath need of you: for she hath been a succourer of many, and of myself also.

3 Greet [c] Priscilla and Aquila my helpers in Christ Jesus:

4 Who have for my life laid down their own necks: unto whom not only I give thanks, but also all the churches of the Gentiles.

5 Likewise greet [d] the church that is in their house. Salute my well-beloved Epenetus, who is [e] the first-fruits of Achaia unto Christ.

6 Greet Mary, who bestowed much labour on us.

7 Salute Andronicus and Junia, my kinsmen, and my fellowprisoners, who are of note among the apostles, who also [f] were in Christ before me.

8 Greet Amplias my beloved in the Lord.

9 Salute Urbane, our helper in Christ, and Stachys my beloved.

10 Salute Apelles approved in Christ. Salute them which are of Aristobulus' * household.

11 Salute Herodion my kinsman. Greet them that be of the † household of Narcissus, which are in the Lord.

12 Salute Tryphena and Tryphosa, who labour in the Lord. Salute the beloved Persis, which laboured much in the Lord.

13 Salute Rufus [g] chosen in the Lord, and his mother and mine.

14 Salute Asyncritus, Phlegon, Hermas, Patrobas, Hermes, and the brethren which are with them.

15 Salute Philologus, and Julia, Nereus, and his sister, and Olympas, and all the saints which are with them.

16 [h] Salute one another with an holy kiss. The churches of Christ salute you.

17 Now I beseech you, brethren, mark them [i] which cause divisions and offences contrary to the doctrine which ye have learned; and [k] avoid them.

18 For they that are such serve not our Lord Jesus Christ, but [l] their own belly; and [m] by good words and fair speeches deceive the hearts of the simple.

19 For [n] your obedience is come abroad unto all men. I am glad therefore on your behalf: but yet I would have you [o] wise unto that which is good, and ‡ simple concerning evil.

20 And [p] the God of peace [q] shall § bruise Satan under your feet shortly. [r] The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you. Amen.

21 [s] Timotheus my workfellow, and [t] Lucius, and [u] Jason, and [x] Sosipater, my kinsmen, salute you.

22 I Tertius, who wrote this epistle, salute you in the Lord.

23 [y] Gaius mine host, and of the whole church, saluteth you. [z] Erastus the chamberlain of the city saluteth you, and Quartus a brother.

24 [a] The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.

25 Now [b] to him that is of power to stablish you [c] according to my Gospel, and the preaching of Jesus Christ, [d] according to the revelation of the mystery, [e] which was kept secret since the world began,

26 But [f] now is made manifest, and by the Scriptures of the prophets, according to the commandment of the everlasting God, made known to all nations for [g] the obedience of faith:

27 To [h] God only wise, be glory through Jesus Christ for ever. Amen.

The First Epistle of PAUL the Apostle to the CORINTHIANS.

A. D. 59.

CHAP. I.

After his salutation and thanksgiving, 10 he exhorteth them to unity, and 12 reproveth their dissensions. 18 God destroyeth the wisdom of the wise, 21 by the foolishness of preaching, and 26 calleth not the wise, mighty, and noble, but 27, 28 the foolish, weak, and men of no account.

PAUL, [a] called to be an apostle of Jesus Christ [b] through the will of God, and Sosthenes [c] our brother,

2 Unto the church of God which is at Corinth, [d] to them that [e] are sanctified in Christ Jesus, [f] called to be saints, with all that in every place [g] call upon the name of Jesus Christ [h] our Lord, [i] both their's and our's:

3 [k] Grace be unto you, and peace, from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

4 [l] I thank my God always on your behalf, for the grace of God which is given you by Jesus Christ;

5 That in every thing ye are enriched by him, [m] in all utterance, and in all knowledge;

6 Even as [n] the testimony of Christ was confirmed in you:

7 So that ye come behind in no gift; [o] waiting for the * coming of our Lord Jesus Christ:

8 [p] Who shall also confirm you unto the end, [q] that ye may be blameless in the day of our Lord Jesus Christ.

9 [r] God is faithful, by whom ye were called unto [s] the fellowship of his Son Jesus Christ our Lord.

10 Now I beseech you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, [t] that ye all speak the same thing, and that there be no † divisions among you; but that ye be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment.

11 For it hath been declared unto me of you, my brethren, by them which are of the house of Chloe, that there are contentions among you.

12 Now this I say, [u] that every one of you saith, I am of Paul; and I of [x] Apollos; and I of [y] Cephas; and I of Christ.

13 [z] Is Christ divided? was Paul crucified for you? or were ye baptized in the name of Paul?

14 I thank God that I baptized none of you, but [a] Crispus and [b] Gaius;

15 Lest any should say that I had baptized in mine own name.

16 And I baptized also the houshold of [c] Stephanas: besides, I know not whether I baptized any other.

17 For Christ sent me not to baptize, but to preach the Gospel: [d] not with wisdom of ‡ words, lest the cross of Christ should be made of none effect.

18 For the preaching of the cross is to [e] them that perish [f] foolishness; but unto us [g] which are saved it is the [h] power of God.

19 For it is written, [i] I will destroy the wisdom of the wise, and will bring to nothing the understanding of the prudent.

20 [k] Where is the wise? where is the scribe? where is the disputer of this world? [l] hath not God made foolish the wisdom of this world?

21 [m] For after that in the wisdom of God the world by wisdom knew not God, it pleased God by the foolishness of preaching to save them that believe.

22 For the [n] Jews require a sign, and the Greeks seek after wisdom:

23 But we preach Christ crucified, [o] unto the Jews a stumblingblock, and unto the Greeks [p] foolishness;

24 But unto them which are called, both Jews and Greeks, Christ [q] the power of God, and [r] the wisdom of God.

25 Because the foolishness of God is wiser than men; and the weakness of God is stronger than men.

26 For ye see your calling, brethren, how that * not many wise men after the flesh, not many mighty, not many noble, are called:

27 But [t] God hath chosen the foolish things of the world to confound the wise;

THE FIRST EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE CORINTHIANS.—"That this Epistle was written by St. Paul, to the church of Corinth, was never doubted by the church of God. Corinth was the eye of Greece, a very opulent city, but infamous for pride and luxury, for wantonness and uncleanness; yet God had much people in this city, in order to whose conversion to christianity, this Apostle continued preaching amongst them a year and six months, and such a special blessing did accompany his endeavours that this new planted church became one of the most famous and eminent churches for all manner of spiritual gifts throughout the Christian world.

"The occasion of writing this epistle was an unhappy schism that arose in the Church of Corinth by the people preferring one preacher before another. Instead of being thankful to God for the endowments of all his ministers, and endeavouring to reap the benefits of all their mutual labours, they vainly gloried in men, some crying up Paul, others Apollos, &c. Hereupon St. Paul sent this Epistle as a bucket to quench this fire which had threatened the destruction of that flourishing church.

"And it is unexcusable with what freedom and impartiality the Apostle proceeds in the management of this Epistle. He sharply reproves both their erroneous opinions and vicious practices; he wisely rebukes them for their schisms and divisions, for their confusion and disorders in public assemblies, for their horrid profanation of the Lord's supper, for their toleration of incest, for going to law before heathen magistrates: he asserts the ministers' maintenance, the excellence of spiritual gifts, the nature and necessity of charity, and by multiplied arguments confirms the doctrine of the Resurrection." Burkitt.

CHAP. I. Ver. 1. Called to be an Apostle.—See on Romans i. 1.

Ver. 2. Unto the church of God, &c.—The congregation or entire community of Christians, who "are sanctified in Christ Jesus." Both their's and our's.—Both their Lord and ours.

Ver. 5. In all utterance, &c.—In having the gift of tongues, and in the knowledge of revelation.

Ver. 6. Was confirmed in you.—Among you, "by such various communications of the Spirit, in consequence of which you are becoming living witnesses of it to all who know you."—Doddridge.

Ver. 7. So that ye come behind in no gift.—So that you are inferior to no other community of Christians in the communications of the Holy Ghost. Waiting for the coming.—Being firmly persuaded of, and humbly expecting, the second advent of the Lord Jesus Christ to judge the world.

Ver. 8. Who shall confirm you.—Who will to the last confirm you in the faith. In the day.—The great day of Christ's advent to judgment.

Ver. 9. Unto the fellowship of his Son.—To a participation of the blessings vouchsafed in the Gospel of his Son.

Ver. 11. Which are of the house.—Or family.

Ver. 12. Now this I say, &c.—This then I have to charge you with, that some among you say, I am a follower of Paul, and I of Apollos, &c.

Ver. 13. Is Christ divided?—"Is Christ's church divided into parties under different leaders?"—Macknight.

Ver. 14. I thank God, &c.—Since ye reckon yourselves the disciples of the persons who baptized you, rather than of Christ, I thank God, &c.

Ver. 17. Not with wisdom of words.—Not with logical subtleties of argument and rhetorical refinements of expression, lest the cross of Christ, &c.—Lest the great doctrine of the atonement should be misunderstood, and be therefore rendered inefficacious by my preaching.

Ver. 18. Is to them that perish foolishness.—Is foolishness in the estimation of them who, having rejected the means of grace, will finally perish everlastingly in their impenitence and unbelief; but to us who have abandoned the errors of our former lives and belief, it is the powerful means by which God will effect our salvation.

Ver. 19. The wise.—The heathen philosopher. The prudent—The Jewish scribes. The terms wise and prudent evidently refer, the first term to the learned among the Greeks, the latter to the learned among the Jews.

Ver. 20. Made foolish.—Showed the utter inefficacy of mere human learning, which cannot bring mankind to the knowledge that purifies the heart and mind through Jesus Christ.

Ver. 21. For after that, &c.—"For when in the wise government of God, experience had shown that the world, through philosophy, did not attain the knowledge of God, it pleased God, through what the philosophers call the foolishness of public preaching, to save them who believe the things preached concerning the Lord Jesus."—Macknight.

Ver. 22. Require a sign.—A miracle. Seek after wisdom.—Such as they look for in the profound speculations of philosophy, and the adornments of eloquence.

Ver. 24.—Christ the power of God, &c.—Salvation through Christ crucified is the powerful and wise means by which God accomplisheth their conversion.

Ver. 25. Because the foolishness, &c.—For that which the philosophers consider the foolishness of God. And the weakness of God.—Those apparently weak instruments employed by him to promulgate his revelations.

Ver. 26. Are called.—Are chosen to proclaim the Gospel tidings of salvation.

A. D. 59.

and God hath chosen the weak things of the world to confound the things which are mighty;

28 And base things of the world, and things which are despised, hath God chosen, yea, and [u] things which are not, [x] to bring to nought things that are:

29 [y] That no flesh should glory in his presence.

30 But of him are ye in Christ Jesus, who of God is made unto us [z] wisdom, and [a] righteousness, and [b] sanctification, and [c] redemption:

31 That, according as it is written, [d] He that glorieth, let him glory in the Lord.

CHAP. II.

He declareth that his preaching, though it bring not excellency of speech, or of human wisdom: yet consisteth in the power of God: and so far excelleth in the wisdom of this world, and in human sense, as that the natural man cannot understand it.

AND I, brethren, when I came to you, [e] came not with excellency of speech or of wisdom, declaring unto you [b] the testimony of God.

2 For I determined not to know any thing among you, [c] save Jesus Christ, and him crucified.

3 And [d] I was with you [e] in weakness, and in fear, and in much trembling.

4 And my speech and my preaching [f] was not with [e] enticing words of man's wisdom, [g] but in demonstration of the Spirit and of power:

5 That your faith should not † stand in the wisdom of men, but [h] in the power of God.

6 Howbeit we speak wisdom among them [i] that are perfect: yet not [k] the wisdom of this world, nor of the princes of this world, [l] that come to nought:

7 But we speak the wisdom of God in a mystery, even the hidden wisdom, [m] which God ordained before the world unto our glory:

8 [n] Which none of the princes of this world knew: for [o] had they known it, they would not have crucified the Lord of glory.

9 But as it is written, [p] Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him.

10 But [q] God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit: for the Spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God.

11 For what man knoweth the things of a man, [r] save the spirit of man which is in him? [s] even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the Spirit of God.

12 Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but [t] the spirit which is of God; that we might know the things that are freely given to us of God.

13 [u] Which things also we speak, not in the words which man's wisdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghost teacheth; comparing spiritual things with spiritual.

14 [x] But the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God: [y] for they are foolishness unto him: [z] neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned.

15 [a] But he that is spiritual ‡ judgeth all things, yet he himself is § judged of no man.

16 [b] For who hath known the mind of the Lord, that he ‖ may instruct him? [c] But we have the mind of Christ.

CHAP. III.

Milk is fit for children. Strife and division, arguments of a fleshly mind. 7 He that planteth, and he that watereth, is anything. 9 The ministers are God's fellow-workmen. 11 Christ the only foundation. 16 Men the temples of God, which it must be kept holy. 19 The wisdom of this world is foolishness with God.

AND I, brethren, could not speak unto you as unto [a] spiritual, but as unto [b] carnal, even as unto [c] babes in Christ.

2 I have fed you with [d] milk, and not with meat: [e] for hitherto ye were not able to bear it, neither yet now are ye able.

3 For ye are yet carnal: for [f] whereas there is among you envying, and strife, and [g] divisions, are ye not carnal, and walk † as men?

4 For while one saith, [g] I am of Paul; and another, I am of Apollos; are ye not carnal?

5 Who then is Paul, and who is Apollos, but [h] ministers by whom ye believed, [i] even as the Lord gave to every man?

6 [k] I have planted, [l] Apollos watered; [m] but God gave the increase.

7 So then [n] neither is he that planteth

Ver. 30. But of him are ye in Christ, &c.—But through God ye are become disciples of Christ, who through the same Divine mercy is rendered the source of evangelical wisdom and truth to us as well of righteousness, &c.

Ver. 31. He that glorieth—in his conversion to Christianity, let him glory, not in himself as the means of conversion, but in the Lord.

Chap. ii. Ver. 1. With excellency of speech or of wisdom, &c.—Displaying the graces of oratory, and the dazzling though unsound maxims of philosophy, but preach the Gospel unto you in all plainness.

Ver. 2. Not to know any thing, &c.—Not to diffuse any other knowledge among you.

Ver. 3. In weakness.—Conscious of the disadvantages under which I laboured; and in fear and in much trembling, for the success of my ministry, in consequence of the mighty prejudices I had to encounter, and the numerous foes by whom I was beset.

Ver. 4. In demonstration of the Spirit and of power.—In attestation of the truth of the prophecies revealed by the Holy Ghost, and likewise of the miraculous power first displayed by Christ and communicated subsequently to his Apostles under the Gospel.

Ver. 7. We speak the wisdom, &c.—To those who have fully embraced the Gospel, and are perfectly acquainted with it, we preach that which they well know to be the only true wisdom—that mysterious wisdom of God exercised in man's salvation, which, though eternally existing, has only been lately revealed by Christ to his holy Apostles and faithful disciples.

Ver. 8. None of the princes.—"Namely, Herod, Pontius Pilate, the High Priests, and other governors of Judea."—Bp. Hall.

Ver. 10. For the Spirit searcheth all things.—To the Spirit all things are familiar.

Ver. 11. Knoweth the things of a man.—His secret thoughts and purposes they are only familiar to his own soul or spirit, not to that of any other man.

Ver. 12. Not the spirit of the world.—Not that evil spirit which corrupts our souls by suggesting only sensual things, or those which merely regard the interests of this world. That we might know the things.—The spiritual blessings.

Ver. 13. Which things we speak.—Which blessings we make known. Comparing spiritual things with spiritual.—"Comparing the things which were inspired by the Spirit in the Old Testament, with what is now revealed to us by the same Spirit, and confirming our doctrines from them."—Dr. Whitby.

Ver. 14. The natural man.—"The philosopher who will admit of nothing but what may be proved from natural principles." Because they are spiritually discerned.—"That is, because they are to be known, understood, and judged of, only by that evidence which the Spirit gives, namely 'the demonstration of the Spirit' spoken of ver. 4, which evidence such a person is already disposed not to admit of."—Dr. Stebbing.

Ver. 15. Is judged of no man.—Is apprehended by no natural man.

Ver. 16. For who.—What natural man.—That he may instruct him.—The spiritual man; but we, hearing the revelation of Christ, are able to instruct those who are prepared to receive our ministrations in proclaiming the Gospel.

Chap. iii. Ver. 1. And I—could not speak unto you, &c.—At the time of your conversion I was not able to speak to you as really spiritual persons, for you were still under the influence of those carnal affections encouraged by that heathen philosophy by which you had regulated your conduct, but I addressed you as mere babes in Christ—as those who were only beginning to have a just appreciation of him, as the author of Man's redemption, and from whose minds many deep-rooted prejudices remained to be removed.

Ver. 2. I have fed you with milk.—I have only made known to you the elementary principles of that religion which you now profess, the more perfect knowledge of which is still to be communicated to you.

Ver. 5. Even as the Lord gave to every man.—According to the measure of the Holy Spirit communicated to each.

Ver. 6. I—Apollos, &c.—We are mere instruments in the hands of God, who alone can raise up a harvest from the soil which we sow and cultivate.

12 Now if any man build upon this foundation gold, silver, precious stones, wood, hay, stubble;

13 [y] Every man's work shall be made manifest: for the day [z] shall declare it, because [a] it § shall be revealed by fire; and the fire shall try every man's work of what sort it is.

14 If any man's work abide which he hath built thereupon, [b] he shall receive a reward.

15 If any man's work shall be burned, he shall suffer loss: but he himself shall be saved; [c] yet so as by fire.

16 [d] Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you?

17 If any man ‖ defile the temple of God, him shall God destroy; for the temple of God is holy, which temple ye are.

18 [e] Let no man deceive himself. If any man among you seemeth to be wise in this world, let him become a fool, that he may be wise.

19 For [f] the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God. For it is written, [g] He taketh the wise in their own craftiness.

20 And again, [h] The Lord knoweth the thoughts of the wise, that they are vain.

21 Therefore [i] let no man glory in men. For [k] all things are your's;

22 Whether Paul, or Apollos, or Cephas, or the world, or life, or death, or things present, or things to come; all are your's;

23 And [l] ye are Christ's; and Christ is God's.

CHAP. IV.

A. D. 59.

1 In what account the ministers ought to be had. 7 We have nothing which we have not received. 9 The apostles spectacles to the world, angels, and men. 13 The filth and offscouring of the world: to yet our fathers in Christ, To whom we ought to follow.

LET a man so account of us, as of [a] the ministers of Christ, [b] and stewards of the mysteries of God.

2 Moreover it is required in stewards, that a man be found faithful.

3 But with me it is a very small thing that I should be judged of you, or of man's * judgment: yea, I judge not mine own self.

4 For I know nothing by myself; [c] yet am I not hereby justified: but he that judgeth me is the Lord.

5 [d] Therefore judge nothing before the time, until the Lord come, [e] who both will bring to light the hidden things of darkness, and will make manifest the counsels of the hearts: and [f] then shall every man have praise of God.

6 And these things, brethren, [g] I have in a figure transferred to myself and to Apollos for your sakes; [h] that ye might learn in us not to think of men above that which is written, that no one of you [i] be puffed up for one against another.

7 For who † maketh thee to differ from another? and [k] what hast thou that thou didst not receive? now if thou didst receive it, why dost thou glory, as if thou hadst not received it?

8 Now ye are full, [l] now ye are rich, ye have reigned as kings without us: and I would to God ye did reign, that we also might reign with you.

9 For I think that God hath set forth ‡ us the apostles last, [m] as it were appointed § to death: for [n] we are made a § spectacle unto the world, and to angels, and to men.

10 [o] We are [p] fools for Christ's sake, but ye are wise in Christ; [q] we are weak, but ye are strong; ye are honourable, but we are despised.

11 [r] Even unto this present hour we both hunger, and thirst, and [s] are naked, and [t] are buffeted, and have no certain dwellingplace;

12 [u] And labour, working with our hands:

Chap. iv. Ver. 1. Let a man so account of us, &c.—We would be considered only as ministers of Christ, as servants appointed by him to deliver the doctrines and explain the mysteries of the Christian dispensation.

Ver. 3, 4. But with me, &c.—"Therefore to me it is a very small matter that I be condemned as unfaithful by you or by any man's judgment, for not having taught you more fully; because I do not condemn myself as unfaithful in that respect; neither will Christ, my master, condemn me. For I am conscious to myself of no fault in the discharge of my stewardship. However, I am not by this justified, I know, in your eyes. But I add, he who alone hath a right to condemn me is the Lord, my master."—Macknight.

Ver. 6. I have in a figure, &c.—I have thus made myself and Apollos the representatives, as it were, of the Christian ministry for your edification, in order that you may learn, by our example, not to think too highly of yourselves, and those appointed to instruct you, above that, which is written in this Epistle (ver. 1); and that none of you speak highly in praise of one to the disparagement of another.

Ver. 7. For who maketh thee.—For I would ask the person who does bestow such improper praise, who made thee, &c.

Ver. 8. Now ye are full, &c.—Now, ye Corinthians, many among you are filled with that knowledge of which the heathen philosophers boast so much; you are very wealthy; you have lived in regal splendour, without caring for my absence; but I wish to God that, while ye were so living, ye had lived in a fit subjection to Christ, that we might share with you in that blessedness which such a subjection to Him cannot fail to ensure.

Ver. 9. For I think that God, &c.—"Hath exhibited us, the Apostles of his Son, like those gladiators which are brought out on the stage last of all, as appointed to certain death, and therefore not furnished with weapons of defence, nor allowed so much as a chance of escaping; for we are produced, as it were, on a public theatre, and made a spectacle to the whole world of rational creatures, both to angels and men, who are all held in solicitous attention to so strange and tragical a sight."—Doddridge.

Ver. 10. We are fools, &c.—We are considered by you, our opponents, at Corinth, as fools for preaching Christ in defiance of the dangers which attend it, but you consider yourselves as very wise in your understanding of the doctrine which he taught, and which ye pretend to preach.

Ver. 11. And are naked.—Are very barely and badly clothed.

A. D. 59

[x] being reviled, we bless; being persecuted, we suffer it:

13 Being defamed, we intreat: [y] we are made as the filth of the earth, and are the offscouring of all things unto this day.

14 I write not these things to shame you, but [z] as my beloved sons I warn you.

15 For though ye have ten thousand instructers in Christ, yet have ye not many fathers: for [a] in Christ Jesus I have begotten you through the Gospel.

16 Wherefore I beseech you, [b] be ye followers of me.

17 For this cause have I sent unto you [c] Timotheus, [d] who is my beloved son, and faithful in the Lord, who shall bring you [e] into remembrance of my ways which be in Christ, as I [f] teach every where [g] in every church.

18 [h] Now some are puffed up, as though I would not come to you.

19 [i] But I will come to you shortly, [k] if the Lord will, and will know, not the speech of them which are puffed up, but the power.

20 For [l] the kingdom of God is not in word, but in power.

21 What will ye? [m] shall I come unto you with a rod, or in love, and in the spirit of meekness?

CHAP. V.

1 The incestuous person 6 is cause rather of shame unto them, than of joying. 7 The old leaven is to be purged out. 10 Heinous offenders are to be shamed and avoided.

IT is reported commonly that there is fornication among you, and such fornication as is not so much as [a] named among the Gentiles, [b] that one should have his [c] father's wife.

2 [d] And ye are puffed up, and have not rather [e] mourned, that he that hath done this deed might be taken away from among you.

3 [f] For I verily, as absent in body, but present in spirit, have [*] judged already, as though I were present, concerning him that hath so done this deed,

4 In the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, when ye are gathered together, and my spirit, [g] with the power of our Lord Jesus Christ,

5 [h] To deliver such an one unto [i] Satan for the destruction of the flesh, that the spirit may be saved in the day of the Lord Jesus.

6 [k] Your glorying is not good. Know ye not that [l] a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump?

7 Purge out therefore the old leaven, that ye may be a new lump, as ye are unleavened. For even [m] Christ our [n] Passover † is sacrificed for us:

8 Therefore [o] let us keep ‡ the feast, [p] not with old leaven, neither [q] with the leaven of malice and wickedness; but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth.

9 I wrote unto you in an epistle [r] not to company with fornicators:

10 [s] Yet not altogether with the fornicators [t] of this world, or with the covetous, or extortioners, or with idolaters; for then must ye needs go [u] out of the world.

11 But now I have written unto you not to keep company, [x] if any man that is called a brother be a fornicator, or covetous, or an idolater, or a railer, or a drunkard, or an extortioner; with such an one [y] no not to eat.

12 For what have I to do to judge [z] them also that are without? do not ye judge [a] them that are within?

13 But them that are without God judgeth. Therefore [b] put away from among yourselves that wicked person.

CHAP. VI.

1 The Corinthians must not vex their brethren, in going to law with them: 6 especially under infidels. 9 The unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God. 15 Our bodies are the members of Christ, 19 and temples of the Holy Ghost. 16, 17 They must not therefore be defiled.

DARE any of you, having a matter against another, go to law before the unjust, and not before the saints?

2 Do ye not know that [a] the saints shall judge the world? and if the world shall be judged by you, are ye unworthy to judge the smallest matters?

3 Know ye not that we shall [b] judge angels? how much more things that pertain to this life?

4 [c] If then ye have judgments of things pertaining to this life, set them to judge who are least esteemed in the church.

5 I speak to your shame. Is it so, that there is not a wise man among you? no, not one that shall be able to judge between his brethren?

Ver. 13. We intreat—Forbearance from those who defame us. The filth of the earth, and are the offscouring of all things, &c.—An hyperbolical term, denoting the extreme detestation and contempt in which the Apostles were held by the unconverted Gentiles, who still adhered to their idols, rejecting the doctrines of Christianity.

Ver. 15. Ye have not many fathers.—Ye have not many teachers who feel towards you the tenderness of affection and of anxiety which I feel. For in Christ, &c.—For I have converted you to Christ through preaching unto you his Gospel.

Ver. 17. Who shall bring you into remembrance, &c.—Who will recall to your recollection my practice and preaching as a true disciple of Christ—what I preach everywhere, and in every church.

Ver. 18. Now some are puffed up, &c.—"Now, some are grown insolent, as fancying because I have sent Timothy I am not coming to Corinth myself, being afraid to come."—Macknight.

Ver. 19. And will know—And will examine not the plausible eloquence of those who are thus insolent in magnifying their authority, but the power by which they would establish their pretensions to that authority.

Ver. 21. What will ye—Ye arrogant teachers.

CHAP. V. Ver. 2. Puffed up.—Become arrogant.

Ver. 4. And my spirit.—I being present with you in spirit. With the power of our Lord Jesus Christ.—With the authority which our blessed Lord has conferred upon his church.

Ver. 5. To deliver such an one unto Satan.—To submit such a one to the severest mortification, by excommunicating him, and thus giving him over to the arm of Satan to torment him, for the correction of his unnatural apostacy; that thus being brought to sincere contrition, his soul may be saved from the sentence of everlasting exclusion at the day of judgment.

Ver. 6 A little leaven, &c.—As a small portion of leaven affects the whole mass with which it is combined, so will one wicked member, if allowed to remain among you, corrupt your whole community.

Ver. 7 Purge out therefore, &c.—Expel therefore from your society the incestuous person who would defile it, that ye may be an unleavened mass or uncorrupt community, being without the leaven of his polluting presence. For as in the sacrifice of the passover the Jews were commanded to retain no leaven in their houses, the same command will emblematically apply to us.

Ver. 8. Therefore let us keep the feast—of the Lord's supper, not with the old leaven of sensuality, neither, &c.

Ver. 10. Yet not altogether, &c.—"Not that ye should seclude yourselves wholly from the company of heathen fornicators, and covetous persons, and extortioners, and idolaters, since in that case ye must renounce all worldly business whatever."—Macknight.

Ver. 11. A brother—A member of the Christian church. No, not to eat.—Neither to partake of his hospitality nor to entertain him at your own table; and more particularly not to eat with him the Lord's supper.

Ver. 12. For what have I, &c.—"As if the Apostle had said, My jurisdiction extendeth not to heathens; I have nothing to do with judging and censuring them that are without: the church: but such as are within the pale of the church, your own members, who own your jurisdiction, these you have an undoubted right and power to judge, leaving the other to the judgment of God."—Burkitt.

CHAP. VI. Ver. 1. The unjust, &c.—Before a heathen magistrate, and not before one of your own faith.

Ver. 2. That the saints shall judge the world.—"That they shall be assessors with Christ in the solemn judgment, when he shall condemn the ungodly."—Doddridge.

Ver. 3. That we shall judge angels?—That we, by preaching the Gospel, declare the judgment of the fallen angels who rebelled against God.

Ver. 4. If then, &c.—Upon mere worldly matters, of no vital importance, ye may indeed, when you have any disputes, refer to the decision of those among your Christian brethren who are least distinguished for their spiritual endowments.

Ver. 5. A wise man among you?—One among you sufficiently intelligent to be able to decide the most trivial controversies or disputes upon secular matters between one Christian and another?

6 But brother goeth to law with brother, and that before the unbelievers.

7 Now therefore there is utterly a fault among you, because ye go to law one with another. [d] Why do ye not rather take wrong? why do ye not rather suffer yourselves to be defrauded?

8 Nay, ye do wrong, and defraud, [e] and that your brethren.

9 Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? Be not deceived: [f] neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate, nor abusers of themselves with mankind,

10 Nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners, shall inherit the kingdom of God.

11 And such were [g] some of you: [h] but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are justified in the name of the Lord Jesus, and by the spirit of our God.

12 [i] All things are lawful unto me, but all things are not [o] expedient: all things are lawful for me, but I will not be brought under the power of any.

13 [k] Meats for the belly, and the belly for meats: but God shall destroy both it and them. Now the body is not for fornication, but [l] for the Lord; [m] and the Lord for the body.

14 And [n] God hath both raised up the Lord, and will also raise up us [o] by his own power.

15 Know ye not that [p] your bodies are the members of Christ? shall I then take the members of Christ, and make them the members of an harlot? God forbid.

16 What? know ye not that he which is joined to an harlot is one body? for [q] two, saith he, shall be one flesh.

17 [r] But he that is joined unto the Lord is one spirit.

18 [s] Flee fornication. Every sin that a man doeth is without the body; but he that committeth fornication sinneth [t] against his own body.

19 What? [u] know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have of God, [x] and ye are not your own?

20 For [y] ye are bought with a price: therefore glorify God in your body, and in your spirit, which are God's.

CHAP. VII.

A. D. 58.

2 He treateth of marriage, 4 shewing it to be a remedy against fornication: 10 and that the bond thereof ought not lightly to be dissolved. 18, 20 Every man must be content with his vocation. 25 Virginity wherefore to be embraced. 36 And for what respects we may either marry, or abstain from marrying.

NOW concerning the things whereof ye wrote unto me: [a] It is good for a man not to touch a woman.

2 Nevertheless, to avoid fornication, let every man have his own wife, and let every woman have her own husband.

3 [b] Let the husband render unto the wife due benevolence: and likewise also the wife unto the husband.

4 The wife hath not power of her own body, but the husband: and likewise also the husband hath not power of his own body, but the wife.

5 [c] Defraud ye not one the other, except it be with consent for a time, that ye may give yourselves to fasting and prayer; and come together again, that [d] Satan tempt you not for your incontinency.

6 But I speak this by permission, [e] and not of commandment.

7 For [f] I would that all men were [g] even as I myself. But [h] every man hath his proper gift of God, one after this manner, and another after that.

8 I say therefore to them if they unmarried and widows, [i] It is good for them if they abide even as I.

9 But [k] if they cannot contain, let them marry: for it is better to marry than to burn.

10 And unto the married I command, [l] yet not I, but the Lord, [m] Let not the wife depart from her husband:

11 But and if she depart, let her remain unmarried, or be reconciled to her husband: and let not the husband put away his wife.

12 But to the rest speak I, [n] not the Lord: If any brother hath a wife that believeth not, and she be pleased to dwell with him, let him not put her away.

13 And the woman which hath an husband that believeth not, and if he be pleased to dwell with her, let her not leave him.

14 For the unbelieving husband is sanctified by the wife, and the unbelieving wife is sanctified by the husband: else [o] were your children unclean; but now are they holy.

15 But if the unbelieving depart, let him depart. A brother or a sister is not under

Ver. 16. Is one body?—Is alike spiritually polluted with her, so that ye are in one and the same condemnation?

Ver. 17. Is one spirit—With Christ, as having his spirit communicated to him.

Ver. 18. Every sin—is without the body, &c.—Every other sin is committed without producing an immediate effect upon the body; it only debases his soul; but he who commits fornication materially injures his body, as well as defiles his soul, by depraving the former, by enfeebling it, gradually destroying its functions, causing dreadful disease and premature old age.

Ver. 20. With a price.—With Christ's blood.

CHAP. VII. Ver. 1. It is good for a man not to touch a woman.—That is for a man to live unmarried and lead a perfectly chaste life.

Ver. 3. Let the husband, &c.—Let the husband and wife mutually consult each other's happiness.

Ver. 5. For your incontinency.—By means of your desires, excited by long separation.

Ver. 6. But I speak this, &c.—What now follows I give by way of advice, not with the more solemn authority of a command; much in a matter of this kind must be left to your own well-directed discretion.

Ver. 7. I would that all men, &c.—I would that all Christians who are able to controul their desires would live unmarried as I am; men however are differently constituted, some being easily able to govern their sensual appetites, and others not. I say then, &c. (ver. 8.)

Ver. 11. Let her remain unmarried.—Let her live in perfect chastity, or if she cannot so live, let her not go with any other man, but return to her husband.

Ver. 12. But to the rest, &c.—But to those who are united to infidel wives I charge, as an Apostle, without any express command from the Lord, beyond the authority which my Apostleship confers.

Ver. 14. Is sanctified by the wife.—That is, on the wife's account, their being one flesh. In all external matters, the sanctity of the one involves that of the other; so that their matrimonial intercourse is perfectly lawful. If such were not the case, the deflements of heatheuism would attach to their children; but now those children are eligible to the privileges and blessings of the Gospel, which else they would not.

Ver. 15. A brother or a sister, &c.—A Christian brother or sister is no longer bound by the obligations of matrimony in such cases of wilful desertion by an infidel wife or husband; they become released by such desertion. But God hath called us to peace.—"These words may be taken as a caution, intimating that, notwithstanding the foregoing indulgence, it is above all things to be remembered that the believing party is to do the utmost that is consistent with Christianity in order to live peaceably with the other."—Dr. Wells.

bondage in such cases: but God hath called us [p] * to peace.

16 For what knowest thou, O wife, whether thou shalt [q] save thy husband? or † how knowest thou, O man, whether thou shalt save thy wife?

17 But as God hath distributed to every man, as the Lord hath called every one, so let him walk. And [r] so ordain I in all churches.

18 Is any man called being circumcised? let him [s] not become uncircumcised. Is any called in uncircumcision? [t] let him not be circumcised.

19 [u] Circumcision is nothing, and uncircumcision is nothing, but [x] the keeping of the commandments of God.

20 Let every man abide in the same calling wherein he was called.

21 Art thou called being a servant? care not for it: but if thou mayest be made free, use it rather.

22 For he that is called in the Lord, being a servant, is [y] the Lord's ‡ freeman: likewise also he that is called, being free, is [z] Christ's servant.

23 [a] Ye are bought with a price; be not ye the servants of men.

24 Brethren, [b] let every man, wherein he is called, therein abide with God.

25 Now concerning virgins [c] I have no commandment of the Lord: yet I give my judgment, as one [d] that hath obtained mercy of the Lord [e] to be faithful.

26 I suppose therefore that this is good for the present § distress, I say, [f] that it is good for a man so to be.

27 Art thou bound unto a wife? seek not to be loosed. Art thou loosed from a wife? seek not a wife.

28 But and if thou marry, thou hast not sinned; and if a virgin marry, she hath not sinned. Nevertheless such shall have trouble in the flesh: but I spare you.

29 But [g] this I say, brethren, the time is short: it remaineth, that both they that have wives be as though they had none;

30 And they that weep, as though they wept not; and they that rejoice, as though they rejoiced not; and they that buy, as though they possessed not;

A. D. 59.

31 And they that use this world, as not [h] abusing it: for [i] the fashion of this world passeth away.

32 But I would have you without carefulness. [k] He that is unmarried careth for the things ‖ that belong to the Lord, how he may please the Lord:

33 But he that is married careth for the things that are of the world, how he may please his wife.

34 There is difference also between a wife and a virgin. The unmarried woman [l] careth for the things of the Lord, that she may be holy both in body and in spirit: but she that is married careth for the things of the world, how she may please her husband.

35 And this I speak for your own profit; not that I may cast a snare upon you, but for that which is comely, and that ye may attend upon the Lord without distraction.

36 But if any man think that he behaveth himself uncomely toward his virgin, if she pass the flower of her age, and need so require, let him do what he will, he sinneth not: let them marry.

37 Nevertheless he that standeth steadfast in his heart, having no necessity, but hath power over his own will, and hath so decreed in his heart that he will keep his virgin, doeth well.

38 [m] So then he that giveth her in marriage doeth well; but he that giveth her not in marriage doeth better.

39 [n] The wife is bound by the law as long as her husband liveth; but if her husband be dead, she is at liberty to be married to whom she will; [o] only in the Lord.

40 But she is happier if she so abide, [p] after my judgment: and [q] I think also that I have the Spirit of God.

Ver. 16. Save thy husband.—Be the blessed instrument in the hands of Providence of converting him.

Ver. 17. But as God, &c.—"Let every man fulfil the duties of his state to which God, in the course of his Providence, has called him."—Dr. A. Clarke.

Ver. 18. Is any man called.—Converted.—Let him not become uncircumcised.—"Let not the native Jew affect the state of him who was born a Gentile; nor the native Gentile that of him who was born a Jew."—Burkitt.

Ver. 19. Circumcision is nothing, &c.—All outward observances are as nothing in God's regard, who only requires in Christians obedience to the precepts of the Gospel; this alone can ensure our salvation.

Ver. 20. Let every man, &c.—Whatever may be a man's profession or occupation when converted, his conversion does not compel him to change it.

Ver. 21. A servant.—A bondservant or slave. Use it rather.—Avail thyself of the opportunity of obtaining thy pardon.

Ver. 22. Being a servant, &c.—Being a slave in man's service, is free in Christ's; likewise, he who has been converted, though free from the obligation of servitude to man, is, nevertheless, the servant of Christ.

Ver. 23. Be not ye the servants of men.—Devote not yourselves to the service of men, but to that of the Lord.

Ver. 24. Let every man, wherein he is called, &c.—That is, whether converted in a state of bondage, or of freedom, let him continue contentedly in that state, conducting himself in such a manner as becomes a Christian, and he shall be approved of God.

Ver. 25. Now concerning virgins.—Now with reference to the unmarried of either sex, who have led chaste lives.—As one that hath obtained mercy, &c.—As one who, through the divine mercy, hath obtained that grace and those gifts of the Holy Spirit, which enable him to be faithful in the discharge of his ministerial functions.

Ver. 26. For the present distress.—Caused by the persecution of those who embrace the Gospel. That it is good for a man so to be.—For an unmarried man to continue so, unless under the circumstance before mentioned (ver. 9.)

Ver. 27. Seek not a wife.—Do not engage in a second marriage. The proviso mentioned at ver. 9 must be understood as applied to all the instances of abstinence subsequently mentioned by the Apostle.

Ver. 28. But I spare you.—But I will not pain you by detailing the troubles which usually follow such unions.

Ver. 29, 30, 31. The time is short.—As life is naturally short, and being rendered still more precarious by the persecutions which are daily multiplying upon those who have embraced the Christian faith, it would be but prudent that all should be prepared to set only a secondary value on temporal things: they who have wives should so conquer their earthly attachments as to appear as if they had no objects on which to fix them; both they who mourn and they who rejoice in matters of worldly concernment should appear as if they did neither, whatever their cause of grief or of joy; they who obtained large possessions, by purchase, should appear to disregard them. In short, they should aim at entirely subduing their worldly affections, making a proper use of the reasonable pleasures of this world, but not abusing their natural liberty of enjoyment, by carrying it to an unlawful excess, for this state of things is extremely transitory.

Ver. 32. Without carefulness.—Free from over anxiety about wordly concerns.

Ver. 35. And this I speak, &c.—Concerning the married and single state, for your own spiritual, as well as temporal benefit, not to restrain you from marriage, if your inclination prompt you to it, and so lead you into sin, but for that which is honourable to you.

Ver. 36. But if any man think, &c.—But if any father considers he is acting unjustly towards his virgin daughter, if she be above the age of puberty, in keeping her unmarried; if he find it prudent from her inclination or natural temperament, let him use his discretion, and give her in marriage: in such a case he does not sin.

Ver. 37. He that standeth stedfast in his heart.—"He that is resolved thus to keep his daughter unmarried, finding no necessity, either in her disposition or in his own estate, but perceives, after careful deliberation and due enquiry, that he hath good ground and power to do so, he doth well in it."—Bishop Hall.

Ver. 39. Only in the Lord.—Only he must be a believer in the Lord Jesus.

Ver. 40. That I have the Spirit of God.—And I am certain that this opinion which I have delivered to you is suggested by the Spirit of God.

ledge. [a] Knowledge puffeth up, but charity edifieth.

2 And [b] if any man think that he knoweth any thing, he knoweth nothing yet as he ought to know.

3 But if any man love God, [c] the same is known of him.

4 As concerning therefore the eating of those things that are offered in sacrifice unto idols, we know that [d] an idol is nothing in the world, [e] and that there is none other God but one.

5 For though there be that are [h] called gods, whether in heaven or in earth, (as there be gods many, and lords many,)

6 But [i] to us there is but one God, the Father, [k] of whom are all things, and we [l] in him; and [i] one Lord Jesus Christ, [m] by whom are all things, and we by him.

7 Howbeit there is not in every man that knowledge: for some [n] with conscience of the idol unto this hour eat it as a thing offered unto an idol; and their conscience being weak is [o] defiled.

8 But [p] meat commendeth us not to God: for neither, if we eat, † are we the better; neither, if we eat not, ‡ are we the worse.

9 But [q] take heed lest by any means this § liberty of your's become [r] a stumbling-block to them that are weak.

10 For if any man see thee which hast knowledge sit at meat in [s] the idol's temple, shall not [t] the conscience of him which is weak be ‖ emboldened to eat those things which are offered to idols;

11 And [u] through thy knowledge shall the weak brother perish, for whom Christ died?

12 But [x] when ye sin so against the brethren, and wound their weak conscience, ye sin against Christ.

13 Wherefore, [y] if meat make my brother to offend, I will eat no flesh while the world standeth, lest I make my brother to offend.

CHAP. IX.

1 He sheweth his liberty, 7 and that the minister ought to live by the gospel: 15 yet that himself hath of his own accord abstained, 18 to be either chargeable unto them, 22 or offensive unto any, in matters indifferent. 24 Our life is like unto a race.

[a] AM I not an apostle? am I not free? [b] have I not seen Jesus Christ our Lord? [c] are not ye my work in the Lord?

A D 59

2 If I be not an apostle unto others, yet doubtless I am to you: for [d] the seal of mine apostleship are ye in the Lord.

3 Mine answer to them that do examine me is this,

4 [e] Have we not power to eat and to drink?

5 Have we not power to lead about a sister, a [e] wife, as well as other apostles, and as [f] the brethren of the Lord, and [g] Cephas?

6 Or I only and Barnabas, [h] have not we power to forbear working?

7 Who [i] goeth a warfare any time at his own charges? who [k] planteth a vineyard, and eateth not of the fruit thereof? or who [l] feedeth a flock, and eateth not of the milk of the flock?

8 Say I these things as a man? or saith not the law the same also?

9 For it is written in the law of Moses, [m] Thou shalt not muzzle the mouth of the ox that treadeth out the corn. Doth God take care for oxen?

10 Or saith he it altogether for our sakes? For our sakes, no doubt, this is written: that [n] he that ploweth should plow in hope; and that he that thresheth in hope should be partaker of his hope.

11 [o] If we have sown unto you spiritual things, is it a great thing if we shall reap your carnal things?

12 If others be partakers of this power over you, are not we rather? [p] Nevertheless we have not used this power; but suffer all things, [q] lest we should hinder the Gospel of Christ.

13 [r] Do ye not know that they which minister about holy things † live of the things of the temple? and they which wait at the altar are partakers with the altar?

14 Even so [s] hath the Lord ordained [t] that they which preach the Gospel should live of the Gospel.

15 But [u] I have used none of these things: neither have I written these things, that it should be so done unto me: for [x] it were better for me to die, than that any man should make my glorying void.

16 For though I preach the Gospel, I idols.—Knowledge puffeth up, but charity, &c.—Knowledge too often produces arrogance and conceit, but love or christian benevolence takes delight in working for the spiritual edification of others.

Ver. 2. Think that he knoweth anything.—So as to be puffed up with conceit of his knowledge, and consequently does not exercise it for the benefit of others.

Ver. 3. If any man love God, &c.—And evinces it by loving God's creatures, which is the best practical proof of love to God, the same shall be filled with a true knowledge of him, and thus be accepted of him.

Ver. 4. That an idol is nothing.—It has no spiritual existence, being a mere lump of senseless matter.

Ver. 5. Though there be that are called Gods That is, by the heathens. As there be Gods many.—As in all parts of the world there be divinities of various descriptions worshipped by the unconverted Gentiles, yet to us, &c

Ver. 6. And we in him. And we from him, he being the author of our existence. And we by him. That is by him, the Lord Jesus Christ, or through him, we receive all the blessings which do and shall accompany our existence.

Ver. 7. For some with conscience of the idol.—For some, still retaining a conscientious reverence for the idol, eat the meat offered unto it with the same feelings which those do who make the offerings, still conceiving the idol to possess some divine influence, and thus, their conscience being weak, they are drawn into the sin of idolatry

Ver. 8 For neither if we eat, &c.—For whether we eat all kinds of meat, or abstain from some kinds, it is the same thing, we are neither the better nor worse for it in a spiritual sense.

Ver. 9 This liberty of yours —To eat all things indifferently. Become a stumbling-block.—Become the occasion of causing your weak brother to eat against his conscience meats held by him to be prohibited.

Ver. 10. To eat those things which are offered unto idols.—As offerings made to a real divinity.

Ver. 11. And through thy knowledge, &c.—And in consequence of the injudicious use which thou makest of thy knowledge, shall thy weak brother, for whom Christ died as well as for thee, be led into sin and thus perish everlastingly.

Ver. 12. And wound their weak consciences.—And when ye cause them to irritate their consciences, by eating meat considered by them unclean, which in them is criminal, ye sin against Christ

CHAP. IX. Ver. 1. Am I not free? Am I not possessed of all the rights and privileges of an Apostle, and free to exercise them?

Ver. 2. For the seal of mine Apostleship are ye, &c.—You, as having been converted by me to the christian faith, are the visible fruits of my ministry, and the living proofs of my Apostleship.

Ver. 4. Have we not power to eat, &c.—Have I not, as an Apostle, a right to eat and to drink at the expense of those who have the benefit of my preaching?

Ver. 6. Or I only, &c.—Or is it to myself and Barnabas alone that the right of declining to work for our support is denied?

Ver. 8. As a man. Merely according to the dictates of human reason. Are not the same things declared in the inspired word of God?

Ver. 9. Doth God take care for oxen—only, and not of men as well?

Ver. 10. That he that ploweth, &c.—"God thereby shows in general what equity should be used in the just rewarding of all men that labour for us: and especially that the spiritual labourers, such as plow and sow and thresh in the spiritual husbandry, should labour in hope of a livelihood, and eat their bread when they have earned it."—Burkitt.

Ver. 12. If others.—Other Apostles. Of this power over you.—Of obliging you to maintain them. We have not used this power.—We have not availed ourselves of this right. Lest we should hinder, &c.—That we may not offer an impediment to the extension of the Gospel, by deterring any from embracing it, lest they should be encumbered with the burden of our maintenance.

Ver. 13. Live of the things, &c.—Did not the Priests eat of the sacrifices offered upon the altar, whilst the Levites and others were supported by the tithes, first fruits, and other offerings presented in the Temple?

Ver. 15. I have used none of these things. I have availed myself of none of those temporal privileges which belong to me by right of my Apostleship. —Should make my glorying void.—Make void my glory of preaching the Gospel without any consideration of temporal advantage.

Ver. 16. For though I preach the Gospel, &c.—If I do so for the sake of my maintenance merely, I have no cause to glory, since an obligation is laid have nothing to glory of: for [y] necessity is laid upon me; yea, woe is unto me, if I preach not the Gospel!

17 For if I do this thing willingly, [z] I have a reward: but if against my will, [a] a dispensation of the Gospel is committed unto me.

18 What is my reward then? Verily that, [b] when I preach the Gospel, I may make the Gospel of Christ without charge, that I [c] abuse not my power in the Gospel.

19 For though I be [d] free from all men, yet have [e] I made myself servant unto all, [f] that I might gain the more.

20 And [g] unto the Jews I became as a Jew, that I might gain the Jews; to them that are under the law, as under the law, that I might gain them that are under the law;

21 [h] To [i] them that are without law, as without law, ([k] being not without law to God, but under the law to Christ,) that I might gain them that are without law.

22 [l] To the weak became I as weak, that I might gain the weak: [m] I am made all things to all men, [n] that I might by all means save some.

23 And this I do for the Gospel's sake, that I might be partaker thereof with you.

24 Know ye not that they which run in a race run all, but one receiveth the prize? [o] So run, that ye may obtain.

25 And every man that [p] striveth for the mastery is temperate in all things. Now they do it to obtain a corruptible crown; but we [q] an incorruptible.

26 I therefore so run, [r] not as uncertainly; so fight I, not as one that beateth the air:

27 [s] But I keep under my body, and [t] bring it into subjection: lest that by any means, when I have preached to others, I myself should be [u] a castaway.

CHAP. X.

1 The sacraments of the Jews, 6 are types of our's, 7 and their punishments. 11 Examples of us. 14 We must fly from idolatry. 23 We must not make the Lord's table the table of devil's: 24 and in things indifferent we must have regard of our brethren.

MOREOVER, brethren, I would not that ye should be ignorant, how that all our fathers were under [a] the cloud, and all passed through [b] the sea;

2 And were all baptized unto Moses in the cloud and in the sea;

3 And did all eat the same [c] spiritual meat;

4 And did all drink the same [d] spiritual drink: for they drank of that spiritual Rock that [e] followed them: and that Rock was Christ.

5 But with many of them God was not well pleased: for they [e] were overthrown in the wilderness.

6 Now these things were † our examples, to the intent we should not lust after evil things, as [f] they also lusted.

7 [g] Neither be ye idolaters, as were some of them; as it is written, [h] The people sat down to eat and drink, and rose up to play.

8 [i] Neither let us commit fornication, as some of them committed, and [k] fell in one day three and twenty thousand.

9 Neither let us tempt Christ, as [l] some of them also tempted, and [m] were destroyed of serpents.

10 Neither murmur ye, as [n] some of them also murmured, and [o] were destroyed of [p] the destroyer.

11 Now all these things happened unto them for ‡ ensamples: and [q] they are written for our admonition, [r] upon whom the ends of the world are come.

12 Wherefore [s] let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall.

13 There hath no temptation taken you but § such as is common to man: but [t] God is faithful, [u] who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation also [x] make a way to escape, that ye may be able to bear it.

14 Wherefore, my dearly beloved, [y] flee from idolatry.

15 I speak as to [z] wise men; judge ye what I say.

16 [a] The cup of blessing which we bless, is it not the communion of the blood of Christ? [b] The bread which we break, is it not the communion of the body of Christ?

17 For [c] we being many are one bread, upon me to preach it, whether I desire to do so or not, whether I am maintained or not; my only ground, therefore, for glorying is preaching it without the inducement of a reward, and apart from all personal benefit.

Ver. 17. If I do this thing willingly, &c. If I voluntarily forego my right of maintenance as an Apostle, &c. But if against my will, a dispensation of the Gospel, &c.—"But if I preach the Gospel against my will, yet am I under a necessity of doing this; and therefore cannot glory in it, or expect any spiritual reward above others for it, since a dispensation of the Gospel is committed to me, and so in that I only can discharge my trust."—Dr. Whitby.

Ver. 18. I may make the Gospel, &c.—I may communicate the Gospel without taking any expense upon those to whom I preach it. My power in the Gospel.—My power as a preacher of the Gospel to demand my maintenance.

Ver. 19. Though I be free from all men.—Under no obligation to any persons to give them my service without recompense, and therefore not bound to act as a servant or slave to them; I have nevertheless made myself, &c.

Ver. 20. Unto the Jews.—The Hellenist Jews, living in heathen countries—I became as a Jew. Yielding so far as I could consistently with my sacred office, to their prejudices in matters indifferent. To them that are under the law.—That is, to the Jews of Palestine, who are governed by the law of Moses, which is part of the law of the land.

Ver. 21. To them that are without law. To the Gentiles who acknowledge no divine revelation, I addressed myself according to their own principles, endeavouring to convince them by arguments, not drawn from revelation, but from reason being not without law, &c.), I being, however, still obedient to the law of Christ, and taking care to do nothing contrary to the moral law of God, and to the rules of Christianity.

Ver. 22. I am made all things to all men, &c.—I humoured the prejudices of all men, so far as I could do so without compromising my integrity as an Apostle, in order by all allowable means to save some.

Ver. 24. So run, that ye may obtain.—That ye may obtain a prize like the victorious runner in the Grecian games.

Ver. 25. Is temperate in all things.—The runner is obliged to conform to a strictly temperate discipline, in order to prepare himself for the severe exertions of the race.

Ver. 26. Not as uncertainly.—But with more certainty of success than the runner in the Grecian games. Not as one that beateth the air.—Merely flourishing about his hands, having no antagonist before him, but I run as one who has an obstinate foe to overcome.

Ver. 27. I keep my body under.—A proper discipline of restraint, and bring all my passions and appetites into strict subjection to the laws of the Gospel which I preach, lest whilst I am proclaiming those laws to others, I should be myself rejected as unworthy to receive the spiritual prize for which I have exhorted you all to contend.

CHAP. x. Ver. 1. That all our fathers were under the cloud.—That all our ancestors who left Egypt were under God's protection, visibly shown in that bright cloud which followed them in their journey, and in their miraculous passage through the Red Sea.

Ver. 2. Were baptized unto Moses.—Were initiated in the doctrines taught by Moses, which were confirmed by the divine protection and guidance of the cloud, and by the miracle of dividing the Red sea.

Ver. 4. And that Rock was Christ.—And the water of that rock was a type of Christ.

Ver. 6. Now these things, &c.—The sins and punishment of the Israelites in the wilderness.

Ver. 7. The people sat down to eat and drink—the offerings presented to the golden calf, and then rose up to dance and indulge themselves in unbecoming sport round that dumb symbol of Deity.

Ver. 9. Neither let us tempt Christ.—By our unbelief of his Gospel, and distrust of his providence.

Ver. 10. Of the destroyer.—Of the destroying angel.

Ver. 11. Upon whom the ends of the world are come.—Who have witnessed the termination of the Mosaic dispensation, and the establishment of that which was to succeed it in the latter days, namely the Christian, and which will be the last that God will vouchsafe to man.

Ver. 12. That thinketh he standeth.—That has a presumptuous confidence in his security.

Ver. 13. That ye may be able to bear it.—That ye may be able to endure your trial, or escape from it.

Ver. 15. Judge ye what I say.—Consider what I say, that ye may form a correct judgment of its truth.

Ver. 16. The cup of blessing, &c.—The cup, a most sacred pledge to us of the Divine blessing, which we consecrate in the Lord's supper, is it not the sacramental symbol of Christ's blood?

Ver. 17. Are one bread, &c.—One loaf. That is we, though many, form and one body: for we are all partakers of that one bread.

18 Behold [d] Israel [e] after the flesh: [f] are not they which eat of the sacrifices partakers of the altar?

19 What say I then? [g] that the idol is any thing, or that which is offered in sacrifice to idols is any thing?

20 But I say, that the things which the Gentiles [h] sacrifice they sacrifice to devils, and not to God: and I would not that ye should have fellowship with devils.

21 [i] Ye cannot drink the cup of the Lord, and [k] the cup of devils: ye cannot be partakers of the Lord's table, and of the table of devils.

22 Do we [l] provoke the Lord to jealousy? [m] are we stronger than he?

23 [n] All things are lawful for me, but all things are not expedient: all things are lawful for me, but all things edify not.

24 [o] Let no man seek his own, but every man another's wealth.

25 [p] Whatsoever is sold in the shambles, that eat, asking no question for conscience sake:

26 For [q] the earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof.

27 If any of them that believe not bid you to a feast, and ye be disposed to go; [r] whatsoever is set before you, eat, asking no question for conscience sake.

28 But if any man say unto you, This is offered in sacrifice unto idols, eat not [s] for his sake that shewed it, and for conscience sake: for [t] the earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof:

29 Conscience, I say, not thine own, but of the other: for [u] why is my liberty judged of another man's conscience?

30 For if I by ‖ grace be a partaker, why am I evil spoken of for that [x] for which I give thanks?

31 [y] Whether therefore ye eat, or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory God.

32 [z] Give none offence, neither to the Jews, nor to the * Gentiles, nor to [a] the Church of God:

33 Even as [b] I please all men in all things, [c] not seeking mine own profit, but the profit of many, that they may be saved.

CHAP. XI.

A. D. 59.

1 He reproveth them, because in holy assemblies, 4 their men prayed with their heads covered, and 6 women with their heads uncovered, 17 and because generally their meetings were not for the better but for the worse, as 21 namely in profaning with their own feasts the Lord's supper. 25 Lastly, he calleth them to the first institution therefore.

BE [a] ye followers of me, even as I also am of Christ.

2 Now I praise you, brethren, [b] that ye remember me in all things, and [c] keep the * ordinances, as I delivered them to you.

3 But I would have you know, that [d] the head of every man is Christ; and [e] the head of the woman is the man; and [f] the head of Christ is God.

4 Every man praying or [g] prophesying, having his head covered, dishonoureth his head.

5 But [h] every woman that prayeth or prophesieth with her head uncovered dishonoureth her head: for that is even all one as if she were [i] shaven.

6 For if the woman be not covered, let her also be shorn: but if it be [k] a shame for a woman to be shorn or shaven, let her be covered.

7 For a man indeed ought not to cover his head, forasmuch as [l] he is the image and glory of God: but the woman is the glory of the man.

8 For [m] the man is not of the woman; but the woman of the man.

9 [n] Neither was the man created for the woman; but the woman for the man.

10 For this cause ought the woman * to have † power on her head [p] because of the angels.

11 Nevertheless [q] neither is the man without the woman, neither the woman without the man, in the Lord.

12 For as the woman is of the man, even so is the man also by the woman; [r] but all things of God.

13 Judge in yourselves: is it comely that a woman pray unto God uncovered?

14 Doth not even nature itself teach you, that, if a man have long hair, it is a shame unto him?

15 But if a woman have long hair, it is a glory to her: for her hair is given her for a ‡ covering.

but one community of Christians, as a loaf, though composed of many grains, forms but one mass; we constitute one spiritual society, since we are all partakers of that bread which symbolizes the death of Christ, and all have alike the opportunity of becoming sharers in those blessings, which that death was designed to convey.

Ver. 18. Are not they, &c.—Do not they which eat of the sacrifice by this very act acknowledge themselves to be worshippers of that Divinity, to whom the altar is reared?

Ver. 19. That the idol is anything, &c.—That the idol is really a divinity, or that what is offered in sacrifice to it has any spiritual efficacy, as it would have if offered to such.

Ver. 20. To devils.—To demons.

Ver. 21. Ye cannot drink, &c.—"Your communicating with Christ in the Lord's supper is utterly inconsistent with communicating with devils in the idol-feasts."—Burkitt.

Ver. 22. Do we provoke the Lord to jealousy?—By communicating with demons? Are we stronger than he? that we thus defy his power? Are we able to resist it?

Ver. 23. All things are lawful, &c.—Though all meats may be lawfully eaten, nevertheless it is not expedient to eat all meats, for notwithstanding that they are lawful, the eating of them may not always edify, since it may prove the occasion of sin as before shown (see chap. 8).

Ver. 24. Another's wealth.—Welfare.

Ver. 25. For conscience sake.—To satisfy any weak scruple of conscience, respecting its being part of an idol-offering.

Ver. 26. And the fulness thereof.—And all that it contains.

Ver. 28. Eat not, &c.—"Lest you betray that man into the sin of idolatry, or confirm him in it, by your example not rightly understood by him; and so offend against a conscience."—Dr. Hammond.

Ver. 29. For why is my liberty, &c.—"For why should I use my liberty with scandal, so that I should be condemned by another man's conscience, while I do that which he thinks damnable, though I think it lawful?"—Bp. Hall.

Ver. 30. Be a partaker—Of all kinds of meat, whether offered to idols or not, why am I censured for eating that for which I offer up my thanksgivings to God?

Ver. 33. Even as I please all men.—To the best of my power, in all things lawful.

CHAP. XI. Ver. 2. Now I praise you, &c.—Now I commend such among you, my Christian brethren, as have held me in remembrance.

Ver. 4. Dishonoureth his head.—Dishonoureth Christ his head.

Ver. 5. Dishonoureth her head, &c.—Her husband, by appearing in a large assembly uncovered. For the modesty natural to woman, requiring that she should appear veiled in public (this has always been an eastern usage), to have her head uncovered is as disgraceful as if she were shorn, the greatest degradation to which, in the Apostolic times, a woman could be exposed, since it was a punishment for certain offences, especially adultery.

Ver. 6. Let her also be shorn.—She may as well likewise be shorn.

Ver. 7. The image of God.—In his communicated right of dominion over all creatures. And the glory of God.—By exercising this delegated dominion in subjection to God. But the woman is the glory of the man.—By making her subjection to him the means of promoting his dignity and happiness.

Ver. 10. For this cause, &c.—For this reason a woman ought to have a veil upon her head as an appropriate emblem of her subjection to the superior power of man, to whom she was made subject on account of her seduction by the chief of the fallen angels, and of Adam's by her.

Ver. 11. Nevertheless neither is the man, &c.—The Apostle means here to say that notwithstanding the temporal disparity between them, both man and woman are included in the covenant of mercy.

Ver. 12. For as the woman, &c.—For although the first woman was formed from the man, all men since born have been produced from the woman; nevertheless God created both the one and the other.

Ver. 14. It is a shame unto him.—"Because it renders him in appearance like a woman."—Macknight

A. D. 59.

16 But [a] if any man seem to be contentious, we have no such custom, [b] neither the churches of God.

17 Now in this that I declare unto you I praise you not, that ye come together not for the better, but for the worse.

18 For first of all, when ye come together in the church, [c] I hear that there be § divisions among you; and I partly believe it.

19 For [x] there must be also ‖ heresies among you, [y] that they which are approved may be made manifest among you.

20 When ye come together therefore into one place, [*] this is not to eat the Lord's supper.

21 For in eating every one taketh before other his own supper: and one is hungry, and [z] another is drunken.

22 What? have ye not houses to eat and to drink in? or despise ye [a] the Church of God, and [b] shame † them that have not? What shall I say to you? shall I praise you in this? I praise you not.

23 For [c] I have received of the Lord that which also I delivered unto you, [d] That the Lord Jesus the same night in which he was betrayed took bread:

24 And when he had given thanks, he brake it, and said, Take, eat: this is my body, which is broken for you: this do ‡ in remembrance of me.

25 After the same manner also he took the cup, when he had supped, saying, This cup is the new testament in my blood: this do ye, as oft as ye drink it, in remembrance of me.

26 For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, § ye do shew the Lord's death [e] till he come.

27 [f] Wherefore whosoever shall eat this bread, and drink this cup of the Lord, unworthily, shall be guilty of the body and blood of the Lord.

28 But [g] let a man examine himself, and so let him eat of that bread, and drink of that cup.

29 For he that eateth and drinketh unworthily, eateth and drinketh ‖ damnation to himself, not discerning the Lord's body.

30 For this cause many are weak and sickly among you, and many sleep.

31 For [h] if we would judge ourselves we should not be judged.

32 But when we are judged, [i] we are chastened of the Lord, that we should not be condemned with the world.

33 Wherefore, my brethren, when ye come together to eat, tarry one for another.

34 And if any man [k] hunger, let him eat at [l] home; that ye come not together unto [*] condemnation. And the rest [m] will I set in order when [n] I come.

CHAP. XII.

1 Spiritual gifts 4 are divers, 7 yet all to profit withal. 8 And to that end are diversely bestowed: 12 that by the like proportion, as the members of a natural body tend all to the 16 mutual decency, 22 service, and 26 succour of the same body: 27 so we should do one for another, to make up the mystical body of Christ.

NOW [a] concerning spiritual gifts, brethren, I would not have you ignorant.

2 Ye know [b] that ye were Gentiles, carried away unto these [c] dumb idols, even as ye were led.

3 Wherefore I give you to understand, [d] that no man speaking by the Spirit of God calleth Jesus [*] accursed: and [e] that no man can say that Jesus is the Lord, but by the Holy Ghost.

4 Now [f] there are diversities of gifts, but [g] the same Spirit.

5 [h] And there are differences of † administrations, but the same Lord.

6 And there are diversities of operations, but it is the same God [i] which worketh all in all.

7 [k] But the manifestation of the Spirit is given to every man to profit withal.

8 For to one is given by the Spirit [l] the word of wisdom; to another [m] the word of knowledge by the same Spirit;

9 [n] To another faith by the same Spirit: to another [o] the gifts of healing by the same Spirit;

10 [p] To another the working of miracles; to another [q] prophecy; [r] to another discerning of spirits; to another [s] divers kinds of tongues; to another the interpretation of tongues:

11 But all these worketh that one and the selfsame Spirit, [t] dividing to every man severally [u] as he will.

12 For [x] as the body is one, and hath many members, and all the members of that one body, being many, are one body: [y] so also is Christ.

Ver. 16. But if any man, &c.—But if any one be inclined to contend for the right of women to pray in public unveiled, I say that we have no such custom.

Ver. 17. Now in this that I am about to declare unto you, I praise you not; namely, that ye assemble together, &c.

Ver. 19. That they which are approved—of God.

Ver. 21. And one is hungry, &c.—So that one portion of the assembly, the poor, whom you have excluded from your feast, are hungry, and ye, having eaten and drunk to excess, are altogether unfit to participate in the holy communion. (It may be as well to state here that it was an early custom of the church to have a feast before receiving the sacrament, to which the poor were invited at the charge of the rich, but the Corinthian converts had abused this benevolent custom by excluding the former altogether, and by turning this introductory banquet into a scene of most revolting sensuality.)

Ver. 23. For I have received of the Lord.—For the Lord revealed unto me.

Ver. 26. Ye do shew the Lord's death, &c.—Ye proclaim openly to the world the Lord's death until he shall come to judge the world.

Ver. 27. Shall be guilty of the body and blood of the Lord.—Shall be guilty of desecrating the symbols of Christ's most precious body and blood.

Ver. 28. But let a man examine himself—whether he is spiritually fit to participate in that holy ordinance, and if so, let him, &c.

Ver. 29. Eateth and drinketh damnation. &c.—By thus eating and drinking, he subjects himself to punishment, making no distinction between the consecrated elements and ordinary bread and wine; thus not discriminating the spiritual intent of the Lord's Supper.

Ver. 30. For this cause.—On this account. Many sleep.—Many have died

Ver. 31. For if we would judge, &c.—"If we would look carefully into our own hearts we should prevent these punishments from God."—D'Oyly's and Mant's Bible.

Ver. 33. Tarry one for another.—Do not begin to eat until the whole assembly is present.

Ver. 34. When I come.—To Corinth.

CHAP. XII. Ver. 3. Calleth Jesus accursed.—Blaspheneth the name of Christ. No man can say, &c.—No man can become a sincere and righteous professor, and especially a preacher, of Christianity but by the operation of the Holy Ghost within him.

Ver. 4. But the same Spirit—Bestows all the gifts.

Ver. 5. Differences of administrations.—There are various offices in the Christian church, but those who minister in them are all appointed by the same Lord Jesus Christ.

Ver. 6. Diversities of operations.—Variety of spiritual effects produced by the ministration of the Lord's appointed servants; nevertheless it is the same God who worketh all those effects in all his ministers collectively.

Ver. 7. But the manifestation of the Spirit—made in those supernatural endowments which he bestows, is given to every man to profit withal; that he may use them to the advantage of the whole Christian community.

Ver. 8. The word of wisdom.—"A comprehensive view of that grand scheme in which the wisdom of God is so wonderfully displayed."—Doddridge. The word of knowledge.—"The complete knowledge of former revelations recorded in the writings of Moses and the prophets."—Macknight.

Ver. 9. The gifts of healing.—Of healing all kinds of diseases.

Ver. 10. To another discerning of spirits.—The gift or power of discerning them.

Ver. 11. But all these worketh, &c.—But all these gifts are bestowed by the only Spirit of God, everywhere and everlastingly the same, who alone can confer them, distributing to each person his most appropriate endowments, as he, in his unerring wisdom, knows will best tend to the advantage of the Church.

Ver. 12. So also is Christ.—The Church of Christ; "all the members of which, though they be many, and adorned with different gifts, make but one mystical body, united to their head, Jesus Christ."—Dr. Whitby

A. D. 59

13 For [a]by one Spirit are we all baptized into one body, [b]whether we be Jews or ‡Gentiles, whether we be bond or free; and [b]have been all made to drink into one Spirit.

14 For the body is not one member, but many.

15 If the foot shall say, Because I am not the hand, I am not of the body; is it therefore not of the body?

16 And if the ear shall say, Because I am not the eye, I am not of the body; is it therefore not of the body?

17 If the whole body were an eye, where were the hearing? If the whole were hearing, where were the smelling?

18 But now hath [c]God set the members every one of them in the body, [d]as it hath pleased him.

19 And if they were all one member, where were the body?

20 But now are they many members, yet but one body.

21 And the eye cannot say unto the hand, I have no need of thee: nor again the head to the feet, I have no need of you.

22 Nay, much more those members of the body, which seem to be more feeble, are necessary:

23 And those members of the body, which we think to be less honourable, upon these we § bestow more abundant honour; and our uncomely parts have more abundant comeliness.

24 For our comely parts have no need: but God hath tempered the body together, having given more abundant honour to that part which lacked:

25 That there should be no ‖schism in the body; but that the members should have the same care one for another.

26 And whether one member suffer, all the members suffer with it; or one member be honoured, all the members rejoice with it.

27 Now [e]ye are the body of Christ, and [f]members in particular.

28 And [g]God hath set some in the Church, first [h]apostles, secondarily [i]prophets, thirdly teachers, after that [k]miracles, then [l]gifts of healings, [m]helps, [n]governments, [o]diversities of tongues.

29 Are all apostles? are all prophets? are all teachers? are all † workers of miracles?

30 Have all the gifts of healing? do all speak with tongues? do all interpret?

31 But [p]covet earnestly the best gifts: and yet shew I unto you a more excellent way. A. D. 58

[p] ch. 14. 1, 39

CHAP. XIII.

1 All gifts, 2, 3 how excellent soever, are nothing worth without charity. 4 The praises thereof, and 13 prelation before hope and faith.

THOUGH I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, and have not charity, I am become as sounding brass, or a tinkling cymbal.

2 And though I have the gift of [a]prophecy, and understand all mysteries, and all knowledge; and though I have all faith, [b]so that I could remove mountains, and have not charity, I am nothing.

3 And [c]though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and though I give my body to be burned, and have not charity, it profiteth me nothing.

4 [d]Charity suffereth long, and is kind; charity envieth not; charity * vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up,

5 Doth not behave itself unseemly, [e]seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil;

6 [f]Rejoiceth not in iniquity, but [g]rejoiceth † in the truth;

7 [h]Beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things.

8 Charity never faileth: but whether there be prophecies, they shall fail; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall vanish away.

9 [i]For we know in part, and we prophesy in part.

10 But when that which is perfect is come, then that which is in part shall be done away.

11 When I was a child, I spake as a child, I understood as a child, I ‡thought as a child: but when I became a man, I put away childish things.

12 For [k]now we see through a glass, § darkly; but then [l]face to face: now I know in part; but then shall I know even as also I am known.

13 And now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity.

CHAP. XIV.

1 Prophecy is commended, 2, 3, 4 and preferred before speaking with tongues, 6 by a comparison drawn from musical instruments. 12 Such must be referred to edification, 22 as to their true and proper end. 26 The true use of each is taught, 27 and the abuse taxed. 34 Women are forbidden to speak in the church.

Ver. 8. Charity never faileth.—Love always continues. Whether there be knowledge, &c.—All human knowledge of whatever kind shall have an end.

Ver. 9. We know in part, &c.—Our knowledge here is limited and even those who are inspired with the gift of prophecy have only partial revelations made to them. This is altogether an imperfect state.

Ver. 12. Then face to face.—In the life immortal we shall behold every thing with the greatest clearness, aided by the fullest capacity of comprehension—shall I know, &c.—I shall know as much of celestial intelligences as they know of me, and my knowledge will be of the same kind as theirs.

FOLLOW after charity, and [a] desire spiritual gifts, [b] but rather that ye may prophesy.

2 For he that [c] speaketh in an unknown tongue speaketh not unto men, but unto God: for no man [*] understandeth him; howbeit in the spirit he speaketh mysteries.

3 But he that prophesieth speaketh unto men to edification, and exhortation, and comfort.

4 He that speaketh in an unknown tongue edifieth himself; but he that prophesieth edifieth the church.

5 I would that ye all spake with tongues, but rather that ye prophesied: for greater is he that prophesieth than he that speaketh with tongues, except he interpret, that the church may receive edifying.

6 Now, brethren, if I come unto you speaking with tongues, what shall I profit you, except I shall speak to you either by [d] revelation, or by knowledge, or by prophesying, or by doctrine?

7 And even things without life giving sound, whether pipe or harp, except they give a distinction in the † sounds, how shall it be known what is piped or harped?

8 For if the trumpet give an uncertain sound, who shall prepare himself to the battle?

9 So likewise ye, except ye utter by the tongue words ‡ easy to be understood, how shall it be known what is spoken? for ye shall speak into the air.

10 There are, it may be, so many kinds of voices in the world, and none of them is without signification.

11 Therefore if I know not the meaning of the voice, I shall be unto him that speaketh a barbarian, and he that speaketh shall be a barbarian unto me.

12 Even so ye, forasmuch as ye are zealous § of spiritual gifts, seek that ye may excel to the edifying of the church.

13 Wherefore let him that speaketh in an unknown tongue pray that he may interpret.

14 For if I pray in an unknown tongue, my spirit prayeth, but my understanding is unfruitful.

15 What is it then? I will pray with the spirit, and I will pray with the understanding also: [e] I will sing with the spirit, and I will sing [f] with the understanding also.

16 Else when thou shalt bless with the spirit, how shall he that occupieth the room of the unlearned say Amen [g] at thy giving of thanks, seeing he understandeth not what thou sayest?

17 For thou verily givest thanks well, but the other is not edified.

18 I thank my God, I speak with tongues more than ye all:

19 Yet in the church I had rather speak five words with my understanding, that by my voice I might teach others also, than ten thousand words in an unknown tongue.

20 Brethren, [h] be not children in understanding: howbeit in malice [i] be ye children, but in understanding be ‖ men.

21 [k] In the law it is [l] written, With men of other tongues and other lips will I speak unto this people; and yet for all that will they not hear me, saith the Lord.

22 Wherefore tongues are for a sign, not to them that believe, but to them that believe not: but prophesying serveth not for them that believe not, but for them which believe.

23 If therefore the whole church be come together into one place, and all speak with tongues, and there come in those that are unlearned, or unbelievers, [m] will they not say that ye are mad?

24 But if all prophesy, and there come in one that believeth not, or one unlearned, he is convinced of all, he is judged of all:

25 And thus are the secrets of his heart made manifest: and so falling down on his face he will worship God, and report [n] that God is in you of a truth.

26 How is it then, brethren? when ye come together, every one of you hath a psalm, [o] hath a doctrine, hath a tongue, hath a revelation, hath an interpretation. [p] Let all things be done unto edifying.

27 If any man speak in an unknown tongue, let it be by two, or at the most by three, and that by course; and let one interpret.

28 But if there be no interpreter, let him keep silence in the church; and let him speak to himself, and to God.

29 Let the prophets speak two or three, and [q] let the other judge.

30 If any thing be revealed to another that sitteth by, [r] let the first hold his peace.

31 For ye may all prophesy one by one, that all may learn, and all may be comforted.

Ver. 11 Of the voice.—Of the language. A barbarian.—A foreigner.

Ver. 12. As ye are zealous, &c.—Since ye are earnestly desirous of spiritual gifts, seek to acquire those that will enable you to excel in edifying the church of Christ.

Ver 14. For if I pray, &c.—"For if I pray publicly in a foreign language not interpreted, my spirit, which understandeth that language, prayeth, but my meaning in such a prayer is without fruit to the persons for whom I pray." Macknight.

Ver. 15. What is it then, &c.—What then is to be done? I will exercise my spiritual gifts when I pray, but will likewise so pray that my prayer shall be understood.

Ver. 16 When thou shalt bless God for his abundant mercies. That occupieth the room of the unlearned.—How shall he in the congregation who is altogether unlearned in foreign language say, &c.

Ver. 21. In the law.—In the Old Testament. With men of other tongues.—With men who speak in foreign languages, and with foreign lips.

Ver. 22 Tongues are for a sign.—"Of the effusion of the Holy Ghost on you."—Macknight.

Ver. 24. He is convinced of all, &c. He is convicted by all, he is judged by all.

Ver. 25. And report that God, &c.—And declare that God is really among you.

Ver. 26. How is it then, &c.—What then is to be done, brethren? Let all things be done, &c.—Do not confuse the congregation by each endeavouring to make himself heard for distinction's sake, but let all things be done so as to edify the church generally and not merely to gratify the ostentation of individuals.

Ver. 27. Let it be by two, &c.—Let only two or at most three so speak, and that in turn, not at the same time.

Ver. 28 Let him speak to himself, and to God.—Let him offer up his prayers silently to God.

Ver. 29. Two or three.—Two only or not more than three, and let the rest who are similarly endowed judge of the propriety of what is thus delivered.

Ver. 30. Let the first hold his peace.—Let the person then speaking cease, that the other may deliver his revelation.

Ver. 31. One by one—But not two or more at a time.

A. D. 59.

32 And [s] the spirits of the prophets are subject to the prophets.

33 For God is not the author of †confusion, but of peace, [t] as in all churches of the saints.

34 [u] Let your women keep silence in the churches: for it is not permitted unto them to speak; but [x] they are commanded to be under obedience, as also saith the [y] law.

35 And if they will learn any thing, let them ask their husbands at home: for it is a shame for women to speak in the church.

36 What? came the word of God out from you? or came it unto you only?

37 [z] If any man think himself to be a prophet, or spiritual, let him acknowledge that the things that I write unto you are the commandments of the Lord.

38 But if any man be ignorant, let him be ignorant.

39 Wherefore, brethren, [a] covet to prophesy, and forbid not to speak with tongues.

40 [b] Let all things be done decently and in order.

CHAP. XV.

1 By Christ's resurrection, 12 he proveth the necessity of our ressurrection, against all such as deny the resurrection of the body. 21 The fruit, 35 and manner thereof, 51 and of the changing of them that shall be found alive at the last day.

MOREOVER, brethren, I declare unto you the Gospel [a] which I preached unto you, which also ye have received, and [b] wherein ye stand;

2 [c] By which also ye are saved, if ye [*] keep in memory † what I preached unto you, unless [d] ye have believed in vain.

3 For [e] I delivered unto you first of all that [f] which I also received, how that Christ died for our sins [g] according to the Scriptures;

4 And that he was buried, and that he rose again the third day [h] according to the Scriptures:

5 [i] And that he was seen of Cephas, then [k] of the twelve:

6 After that, he was seen of above five hundred brethren at once; of whom the greater part remain unto this present, but some are fallen asleep.

7 After that, he was seen of James; then [l] of all the apostles.

8 [m] And last of all he was seen of me also, as of ‡ one born out of due time.

9 For I am [n] the least of the apostles, that am not meet to be called an apostle, because [o] I persecuted the Church of God.

10 But [p] by the grace of God I am what I am: and his grace which was bestowed upon me was not in vain; but [q] I laboured more abundantly than they all: [r] yet not I, but the grace of God which was with me.

11 Therefore whether it were I or they, so we preach, and so ye believed.

12 Now if Christ be preached that he rose from the dead, how say some among you that there is no resurrection of the dead?

13 But if there be no resurrection of the dead, [s] then is Christ not risen:

14 And if Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain.

15 Yea, and we are found false witnesses of God; because [t] we have testified of God that he raised up Christ: whom he raised not up, if so be that the dead rise not.

16 For if the dead rise not, then is not Christ raised:

17 And if Christ be not raised, your faith is vain; [u] ye are yet in your sins.

18 Then they also which are fallen asleep in Christ are perished.

19 [x] If in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable.

20 But now [y] is Christ risen from the dead, and become [z] the firstfruits of them that slept.

21 For [a] since by man came death, [b] by man came also the resurrection of the dead.

22 For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive.

23 But [c] every man in his own order: Christ the firstfruits; afterward they that are Christ's at his coming.

24 Then cometh the end, when he shall have delivered up [d] the kingdom to God, even the Father; when he shall have put down all rule and all authority and power.

25 For he must reign, [e] till he hath put all enemies under his feet.

26 [f] The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death.

27 For he [g] hath put all things under his feet. But when he saith, All things are put under him, it is manifest that he is excepted, which did put all things under him.

28 [h] And when all things shall be subdued unto him, then [i] shall the Son also himself be subject unto him that put all things under him, that God may be all in all.

29 Else what shall they do which are baptized for the dead, if the dead rise not at all? why are they then baptized for the dead?

30 And [k] why stand we in jeopardy every hour?

31 I protest by § [l] your rejoicing which I have in Christ Jesus our Lord, [m] I die daily.

Ver. 33. As in all churches, &c.—As appears in all well regulated Christian churches.

Ver. 36. Came the word of God, &c.—Is your church at Corinth the only one in which the word of God has been declared, that you act differently from other churches?

Ver. 38. But if any man be ignorant—That the things which I write unto you are the commandments of the Lord, Let him continue so if he will, but it must be at his peril.

Ver. 40. Decently and in order.—In a regular and orderly manner.

CHAP. XV. Ver. 1. And wherein ye stand.—And in the belief of which ye most of you continue.

Ver. 6. Of whom—the greater part are now alive, but some are dead.

Ver. 8. As of one born, &c.—As of a person no less contemptible than an abortion in nature.

Ver. 10. I am what I am.—An Apostle, though the least of all.

Ver. 11. Therefore, &c.—Therefore whether I or the other Apostles be found most among you, the doctrine preached is the same, and your belief must likewise be the same, since ye have embraced those doctrines.

Ver. 17. Ye are yet in your sins.—Ye are yet under the unexpiated guilt of sin, and consequently under its condemnation.

Ver. 18. Fallen asleep in Christ.—Who have died, whether as martyrs for their religion or otherwise, in the faith of Christ.

Ver. 20. And become the first-fruits, &c.—As the first-fruits offered under the law were a proof of the general harvest, so is the raising of Christ from the dead a proof of the general resurrection. The first-fruits were the first offering of the harvest, Christ's was the first resurrection from the dead to eternal life. The first-fruits, which were of wheat, barley, grapes, figs, apricots, olives, and dates, were presented in the Temple before the crop was touched.

Ver. 23. They that are Christ's, &c. — His apostles, martyrs, and all righteous believers.

Ver. 24. Then cometh the end.—Of the present mundane system and order of things. When he shall have delivered up—the mediatorial kingdom to God, by whose express commission he held it,—when he shall have put an end to all rule and all authority, and all power, both in the world and in the church.

Ver. 25. For he must reign, &c.—Christ's spiritual kingdom upon earth shall continue until God shall have brought the whole world, even his enemies, in subjection to him.

Ver. 27. That he is excepted.—Namely the Father. Which did put all things under him—The Son.

Ver. 28 Shall be subdued, &c.—Shall be put under subjection to Christ, then shall his mediatorial kingdom cease; then shall there be no longer any distinct dominion exercised by the Messiah, but all dominion will merge in that of the Father, that the godhead in his hypostatical and eternal union may be all in all—the source of everlasting glory and bliss to all.

Ver. 29. Why are they then baptized for the dead?—Why do they perform that sacramental rite of baptism, which typified, by the baptised person rising out of the water, the rising of the dead from the grave to life eternal.

32 If ‖ after the manner of men [a] I have fought with beasts at Ephesus, what advantageth it me, if the dead rise not? [b] let us eat and drink; for to morrow we die.

33 Be not deceived: [c] evil communications corrupt good manners.

34 [d] Awake to righteousness, and sin not; [e] for some have not the knowledge of God: [f] I speak this to your shame.

35 But some man will say, [g] How are the dead raised up? and with what body do they come?

36 Thou fool, [h] that which thou sowest is not quickened, except it die:

37 And that which thou sowest, thou sowest not that body that shall be, but bare grain, it may chance of wheat or of some other grain:

38 But God giveth it a body as it hath pleased him, and to every seed his own body.

39 All flesh is not the same flesh: but there is one kind of flesh of men, another flesh of beasts, another of fishes, and another of birds.

40 There are also celestial bodies, and bodies terrestrial: but the glory of the celestial is one, and the glory of the terrestrial is another.

41 There is one glory of the sun, and another glory of the moon, and another glory of the stars: for one star differeth from another star in glory.

42 [i] So also is the resurrection of the dead. It is sown in corruption; it is raised in incorruption:

43 [j] It is sown in dishonour; it is raised in glory: it is sown in weakness; it is raised in power:

44 It is sown a natural body; it is raised a spiritual body. There is a natural body, and there is a spiritual body.

45 And so it is written. The first man Adam [k] was made a living soul; [l] the last Adam was made [b] a quickening spirit.

46 Howbeit that was not first which is spiritual, but that which is natural; and afterward that which is spiritual.

47 [c] The first man is of the earth, [d] earthy: the second man is the Lord [e] from heaven.

48 As is the earthy, such are they also that are earthy: [f] and as is the heavenly, such are they also that are heavenly.

49 And [g] as we have borne the image of the earthy, [h] we shall also bear the image of the heavenly.

50 Now this I say, brethren, that [i] flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit incorruption.

51 Behold, I shew you a mystery; [k] We shall not all sleep, [l] but we shall all be changed, 52 In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: [m] for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed.

53 For this corruptible must put on incorruption: and [n] this mortal must put on immortality.

54 So when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, [o] Death is swallowed up in victory.

55 [p] O death, where is thy sting? O [q] grave, where is thy victory?

56 The sting of death is sin; and [q] the strength of sin is the law.

57 [r] But thanks be to God, which giveth us [s] the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.

58 [t] Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye stedfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know [u] that your labour is not in vain in the Lord.

ing you, which I have, because of your faith in Christ, I am daily exposed to the danger of being put to death for preaching the resurrection of the dead.

Ver. 32. If after the manner of men, &c.—If as malefactors are condemned to do, I have been forced to enter the amphitheatre at Ephesus and fight with wild beasts for preaching the doctrine of the resurrection, what advantage will the suffering such cruel and humiliating treatment for Christ's sake be to me if there be really no resurrection? If such were actually the fact, we had better make the most of our time, and give ourselves up to sensual enjoyments, since life is so short, and will terminate in our utter annihilation. But (Ver. 33) be not deceived by so dangerous a fallacy, and avoid the company of such as attempt to inculcate it, for, as Menander has truly said, 'bad company good morals doth corrupt.'

Ver. 36. Except it die.—Except when put into the earth it become first decomposed as the human body does when put into the grave.

Ver. 37. It may chance of wheat, &c.—It may be the grain of wheat or of some other description of corn

Ver. 40. Celestial bodies, &c.—Heavenly bodies and earthly bodies.

Ver. 42. So also is the resurrection.—As one star differs from another star in glory, the immortal, after being raised from the dead, differs from the mortal body. It is sown, &c.—It is laid in the grave in corruption.

Ver. 44. There is a natural body, &c.—For as there is a natural, so it is certain that there is a spiritual body.

Ver. 45. The last Adam.—"The second Adam has not only life, but life in himself, and a power to raise others to life."—Pyle.

Ver. 46. But that which is natural, &c.—So that we must first receive our elementary and natural, ere we can receive our spiritual and incorruptible, body.

Ver. 47. Earthy.—Having a body made out of the earth.

Ver. 50. That flesh and blood.—That human bodies, composed of elements subject to continual disorganization, a prey to disease and doomed to final dissolution.

Ver. 51. A mystery.—I unfold to you a fact not hitherto revealed to you. We shall not all sleep.—We shall not all die.

Ver. 52. And we shall be changed.—From mortal to immortal.

Ver. 51. Death is swallowed up, &c.—"Is so perfectly conquered that there shall be no death any more."—Dr. Wells.

Ver. 56. The strength of sin is the law.—"And the malignancy of sin is from this, that it is the transgression of a just and righteous law of God."—Pyle.

CHAP. XVI. Ver. 1. As I have given order, &c.—That is, with reference to its distribution.

Ver. 2. Lay by him in store.—Lay by a certain portion of his profits for the benefit of his poor brethren in Judea, according to his gains during the week preceding.

Ver. 5. When I shall pass.—When I shall have passed.

8 But I will tarry at Ephesus until Pentecost.

9 For [b] a great door and effectual is opened unto me, and [1] there are many adversaries.

10 Now [k] if Timotheus come, see that he may be with you without fear: for [1] he worketh the work of the Lord as I also do.

11 [m] Let no man therefore despise him: but conduct him forth [n] in peace, that he may come unto me: for I look for him with the brethren.

12 As touching our brother [o] Apollos, I greatly desired him to come unto you with the brethren: but his will was not at all to come at this time; but he will come when he shall have convenient time.

13 [p] Watch ye, [q] stand fast in the faith, quit you like men, [r] be strong.

14 [s] Let all your things be done with charity.

15 I beseech you, brethren, (ye know [t] the house of Stephanas, that it is [u] the firstfruits of Achaia, and that they have addicted themselves to [x] the ministry of the saints,)

16 [y] That ye submit yourselves unto such, and to every one that helpeth with us, and [z] laboureth.

17 I am glad of the coming of Stephanas and Fortunatus and Achaicus: [a] for that which was lacking on your part they have supplied.

18 [b] For they have refreshed my spirit and yours: therefore [c] acknowledge ye them that are such.

19 The churches of Asia salute you. Aquila and Priscilla salute you much in the Lord, [d] with the church that is in their house.

20 All the brethren greet you. [e] Greet ye one another with an holy kiss.

21 [f] The salutation of me Paul with mine own hand.

22 If any man [g] love not the Lord Jesus Christ, [h] let him be Anathema [i] Maran-atha.

23 [k] The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you.

24 My love be with you all in Christ Jesus. Amen.

THE SECOND EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE CORINTHIANS.—"The Second Epistle to the Corinthians was written from Macedonia within twelve months after the first, probably in the beginning of the year 57, and it was sent to Corinth by Titus, who, with other persons, were returning thither to forward the collections in Achaia for the poor Christians of Judea."—Bp. Tomline.

The occasion of St. Paul's writing this second Epistle to the Corinthians was to vindicate his person from divers imputations charged upon him by the false apostles, and to defend his ministry against some that sought to bring both himself and that into contempt. Such ministers as study that they may excel to the edifying of the church must expect to encounter with the violent opposition and virulent imputations of perverse minds, who either cannot, or will not, do so well themselves.

"Our great apostle here was charged by the false apostles with inconstancy, in promising to come to Corinth, and not coming; with pride and Imperiousness, with vanity and vain-glory, in reference to the incestuous person; they represented him as contemptible in his person, and despicable in his ministry. He therefore confutes his adversaries by a new and unusual way of arguing; namely, by boasting of his sufferings, glorying in them, and giving a large catalogue of them; he displays his calamities, blazons his crosses, vindicates his person and authority from contempt, clears himself from the charge of levity and vain-glory by rehearsing the good services he had done, and the sufferings he had undergone for the sake of Christ and his holy religion. Whence we learn that it is neither our christian nor unseemly to enlarge upon our own actions and sufferings when there is a great and necessary occasion to do so; namely, when the glory of God, the credit of our holy religion, and a just vindication of our own integrity and innocency, doth require and call for it."—Burkitt.

CHAP. 1. Ver. 3. Blessed be God.—Praised be God.

Ver. 5. For as the sufferings of Christ, &c.—For as our sufferings for Christ's sake are very great, so our consolation also aboundeth, under the sufferings, in consequence of the glad tidings of the Gospel proclaimed to us by Christ.

Ver. 6. Which is effectual, &c.—Which afflictions of ours have the beneficial effect of encouraging you to endure similar afflictions with a sincere and patient spirit.

Ver. 8. Pressed out of measure.—Exceedingly oppressed. Above strength.—Above what I could have supposed myself capable of enduring.

Ver. 9. But we had, &c.—I felt as if the sentence of death had been passed upon me, for I had no hope of escaping it: this was wisely determined by God in order that I should not trust in myself, but in him alone, who alike preserves the living and raises the dead.

10 [k] Who delivered us from so great a death, and doth deliver: in whom we trust that he will yet deliver us;

11 Ye also [l] helping together by prayer for us, that [m] for the gift bestowed upon us by the means of many persons thanks may be given by many on our behalf.

12 For our rejoicing is this, the testimony of our conscience, that in simplicity and [n] godly sincerity, [o] not with fleshly wisdom, but by the grace of God, we have had our conversation in the world, and more abundantly to you-ward.

13 For we write none other things unto you, than what ye read or acknowledge; and I trust ye shall acknowledge even to the end;

14 As also ye have acknowledged us in part, [p] that we are your rejoicing, even as [q] ye also are our's in the day of the Lord Jesus.

15 And in this confidence [r] I was minded to come unto you before, that ye might have [s] a second ‡ benefit;

16 And to pass by you into Macedonia, and [t] to come again out of Macedonia unto you, and of you to be brought on my way toward Judæa.

17 When I therefore was thus minded, did I use lightness? or the things that I purpose, do I purpose [u] according to the flesh, that with me there should be yea yea, and nay nay?

18 But as God is true, our § word toward you was not yea and nay.

19 For [x] the Son of God, Jesus Christ, who was preached among you by us, even by me and Silvanus and Timotheus, was not yea and nay, [y] but in him was yea.

20 [z] For all the promises of God in him are yea, and in him Amen, unto the glory of God by us.

21 Now he which stablisheth us with you in Christ, and [a] hath anointed us, is God;

22 Who [b] hath also sealed us, and [c] given the earnest of the Spirit in our hearts.

23 Moreover [d] I call God for a record upon my soul, [e] that to spare you I came not as yet unto Corinth.

24 Not for [f] that we have dominion over your faith, but are helpers of your joy: for [g] by faith ye stand.

CHAP. II.

A D 60.

1 Having shewed the reason why he came not to them, 6 he requireth them to forgive and to comfort that excommunicated person, 10 even as himself also upon his true repentance had forgiven him, 12 declaring withal why he departed from Troas to Macedonia, 14 and the happy success which God gave to his preaching in all places.

BUT I determined this with myself, [a] that I would not come again to you in heaviness.

2 For if I make you sorry, who is he then that maketh me glad, but the same which is made sorry by me?

3 And I wrote this same unto you, lest, when I came, [b] I should have sorrow from them of whom I ought to rejoice; [c] having confidence in you all, that my joy is the joy of you all.

4 For out of much affliction and anguish of heart I wrote unto you with many tears; [d] not that ye should be grieved, but that ye might know the love which I have more abundantly unto you.

5 But [e] if any have caused grief, he hath not [f] grieved me, but in part: that I may not overcharge you all.

6 Sufficient to such a man is this * punishment, which was inflicted [g] of many.

7 [h] So that contrariwise ye ought rather to forgive him, and comfort him, lest perhaps such a one should be swallowed up with overmuch sorrow.

8 Wherefore I beseech you that ye would confirm your love toward him.

9 For to this end also did I write, that I might know the proof of you, whether ye be [i] obedient in all things.

10 To whom ye forgive any thing, I forgive also: for if I forgave any thing, to whom I forgave it, for your sakes forgave I it † in the person of Christ;

11 Lest Satan should get an advantage of us: for we are not ignorant of his devices.

12 Furthermore, [k] when I came to Troas to preach Christ's Gospel, and [l] a door was opened unto me of the Lord,

13 [m] I had no rest in my spirit, because I found not Titus my brother: but taking my leave of them, I went from thence into Macedonia.

14 Now thanks be unto God, which always causeth us to triumph in Christ, and maketh

Ver. 12. We have had our conversation.—We have exercised our apostolical office.

Ver. 14. Have acknowledged us in part.—Some among you have acknowledged me as an apostle. That we are your rejoicing.—The cause of your rejoicing.

Ver. 15. And in this confidence.—Under this conviction. That ye might have a second benefit.—That ye might receive an additional blessing by my presence among you, the blessing of having your faith in the gospel further confirmed.

Ver. 17. When I therefore was thus minded.—Because I did not visit you, did this arise from mere capricious levity? That with me there should be, &c.—That I should determine to do or not to do according as I might be swayed by the most absurd fickleness of mind, so that no one could have any dependence upon my declarations or promises.

manifest [n] the savour of his knowledge by us in every place.

15 For we are unto God a sweet savour of Christ, [o] in them that are saved, and [p] in them that perish:

16 [q] To the one we are the savour of death unto death; and to the other the savour of life unto life. And [r] who is sufficient for these things?

17 For we are not as many, which ‡ [s] corrupt the word of God: but as [t] of sincerity, but as of God, in the sight of God speak we § in Christ.

CHAP. III.

1 Lest their false teachers should charge him with vain-glory, he sheweth the faith and graces of the Corinthians to be a sufficient commendation of his ministry. 6 Wherewpon entering a comparison between the ministers of the law and of the gospel, 12 he proveth that his ministry is so far the more excellent, as the gospel of life and liberty is more glorious than the law of condemnation.

DO [a] we begin again to commend our selves? or need we, as some others, [b] epistles of commendation to you, or letters of commendation from you?

2 [c] Ye are our epistle written in our hearts, known and read of all men:

3 Forasmuch as ye are manifestly declared to be the epistle of Christ [d] ministered by us, written not with ink, but with the Spirit of the living God; not [e] in tables of stone, but [f] in fleshy tables of the heart.

4 And such trust have we through Christ to God-ward:

5 [g] Not that we are sufficient of ourselves to think any thing as of ourselves; but [h] our sufficiency is of God;

6 Who also hath made us able [i] ministers of [k] the new testament; not [l] of the letter, but of the spirit: for [m] the letter killeth, [n] but the spirit [o] giveth life.

7 But if [o] the ministration of death, [p] written and engraven in stones, was glorious [q] so that the children of Israel could not stedfastly behold the face of Moses for the glory of his countenance; which glory was to be done away:

8 How shall not [r] the ministration of the spirit be rather glorious?

9 For if the ministration of condemnation be glory, much more doth the ministration [s] of righteousness exceed in glory.

10 For even that which was made glorious had no glory in this respect, by reason of the glory that excelleth.

11 For if that which was done away was glorious, much more that which remaineth is glorious.

12 Seeing then that we have such hope, [t] we use great † plainness of speech:

13 And not as Moses, [u] which put a vail over his face, that the children of Israel could not stedfastly look to [x] the end of that which is abolished:

14 But [y] their minds were blinded: for until this day remaineth the same vail untaken away in the reading of the old testament; which vail is done away in Christ.

15 But even unto this day, when Moses is read, the vail is upon their heart.

16 Nevertheless [z] when it shall turn to the Lord, [a] the vail shall be taken away.

17 Now [b] the Lord is that Spirit: and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty.

18 But we all, with open face beholding [c] as in a glass [d] the glory of the Lord, [e] are changed into the same image from glory to glory, even as ‡ by the Spirit of the Lord.

CHAP. IV.

1 He declareth how he hath used all sincerity and faithful diligence in preaching the gospel, 7 and how the troubles and persecutions which he daily endured for the same did redound to the praise of God's power, 12 to the benefit of the church, 16 and to the apostle's own eternal glory.

THEREFORE seeing we have [a] this ministry, [b] as we have received mercy, we faint not;

2 But have renounced the hidden things of [c] dishonesty, not walking in craftiness, [c] nor handling the word of God deceitfully; but [d] by manifestation of the truth [e] commending ourselves to every man's conscience in the sight of God.

3 But if our Gospel be hid, [f] it is hid to them that are lost:

religion by means of us to spread in every place, like the odour of a grateful perfume."—Schleusner.

Ver. 15. For we are unto God, &c.—"We have fulfilled the will of God in faithfully proclaiming the Gospel; and as he has determined that those who believe shall be saved, and those who believe not shall perish, we are equally acceptable to him though we unsuccessfully preach the Gospel to some who obstinately reject it, and so perish, as we are preaching to others who believe, and are saved."—Dr. A. Clarke.

Ver. 16. The savour of death, &c.—To those who reject the Gospel, our preaching is the odour of death; it shall be the cause of death to them, because they will not acknowledge the doctrines promulgated by us: and to those who receive the Gospel our preaching is the odour of life; it will be the cause of eternal life to them, in consequence of their embracing those doctrines. And who is sufficient for these things—but those whom God himself has rendered fit for the sacred office of proclaiming the Gospel?

Ver. 17. But as of sincerity, &c.—But we preach with sincerity, as persons inspired of God, and as more immediately in the presence of God we deliver the gospel of Christ.

CHAP. III. Ver. 1. Epistles of commendation, &c.—Allusion is here made, observes Dr. Hammond, to an ancient custom in the Apostolical primitive Church, which commonly gave their testimonies to all Christians travelling from one place to another, and recommended them to an hospitable reception.

Ver. 2 Our epistle.—Our letter of recommendation from Christ.

Ver. 3. The epistle of Christ—Christ's letter of recommendation, dictated by him, but indited by me, that is, ye have been brought unto him through my ministration.

Ver. 4. And such trust, &c.—We have perfect confidence through Christ, that God will always thus assist our labours.

Ver. 5. To think any thing.—Even to think justly upon such sacred subjects by our own unaided reason.

Ver. 6. Of the new testament, &c.—Of the new covenant; not of the old law delivered by Moses, but the new covenant which was communicated by the Spirit, for the former condemns every one to death, but the latter supplies the means of obtaining everlasting life.

Ver. 7. If the ministration of death, &c.—But if the ministration of the covenant of death, which the law of Moses undoubtedly was, was proclaimed in such a glorious manner, — when Moses descended from the mount —that the children of Israel, &c.

Ver. 8. How shall not, &c.—Shall not the ministration of that covenant commended by the Holy Spirit, which secures eternal life to the contrite sinner, be proclaimed in a still more glorious manner, by the visible effusion of the Holy Ghost upon his ministers, by their power of curing diseases, of casting out devils, and of communicating the languages?

Ver. 9. The ministration of condemnation, &c.—The ministration of that covenant which brought condemnation upon all mankind. The ministration of righteousness. The ministration of that covenant which brings righteousness and the reward of righteousness to believers.

Ver. 11. For if that which was done away was glorious.—The old covenant had no glory by comparison with the new, which so infinitely excelled it.

Ver. 12. Seeing then that we have such hope, that our ministry shall be attended with such beneficial and glorious issues, we use, &c.

Ver. 13. Which put a vail over his face.—"Which was a sign of the obscurity of the legal dispensation, and of the blindness of the Jews, who could not see the end and accomplishment of that ceremonial and typical administration, which was to be abolished by Christ and his Gospel."—Burkitt.

Ver. 14. In the reading of the old testament. The types and prophecies relating to Christ in whom they were fulfilled, they do not understand.

Ver. 15. The vail is upon their heart.—They are blinded by their own prejudices and hardness of heart.

Ver. 17. The Lord is that spirit—who shall remove this judicial blindness from their hearts. There is liberty.—Freedom from prejudice and unbelief, and their consequent blindness.

Ver. 18 But we all, &c.—"But we all, under the gospel, with open and unveiled face, beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord Jesus, are changed into the same image with him from his glory to glory derived on us, as by the spirit of the Lord, or as receiving it from the Lord and giver of the spirit."—Dr. Whitby.

CHAP. IV. Ver. 1. Seeing we have this ministry.—Seeing that we have been appointed to this ministry of the Gospel; as we have thus received proof of divine mercy, we faint not under the difficulties of the office which we have been called upon to fulfil.

Ver. 2. But have renounced, &c.—But have renounced the secret practices of dishonest teachers—not walking in craftiness, as they do.

Ver. 3. But if our gospel, &c.—But if the gospel which we preach be unintelligible, it is only so to those who are obdurately incredulous, and must perish because they will not open their understandings to the light of truth.

Ver. 4. The god of this world.—The Devil.

blinded the minds of them which believe not, lest [l] the light of the glorious Gospel of Christ, [k] who is the image of God, should shine unto them.

5 [l] For we preach not ourselves, but Christ Jesus the Lord; and [m] ourselves your servants for Jesus' sake.

6 For God, [n] who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, † hath [o] shined in our hearts, to give [p] the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ.

7 But we have this treasure in [q] earthen vessels, [r] that the excellency of the power may be of God, and not of us.

8 We are [s] troubled on every side, yet not distressed; we are perplexed, but ‡ not in despair;

9 Persecuted, but not forsaken; [t] cast down, but not destroyed;

10 [u] Always bearing about in the body the dying of the Lord Jesus, [x] that the life also of Jesus might be made manifest in our body.

11 For we which live [y] are alway delivered unto death for Jesus' sake, that the life also of Jesus might be made manifest in our mortal flesh.

12 So then [z] death worketh in us, but life in you.

13 We having [a] the same spirit of faith, according as it is written, [b] I believed, and therefore have I spoken; we also believe, and therefore speak;

14 Knowing that [c] he which raised up the Lord Jesus shall raise up us also by Jesus, and shall present us with you.

15 For [d] all things are for your sakes, that [e] the abundant grace might through the thanksgiving of many redound to the glory of God.

16 For which cause we faint not; but though our outward man perish, yet [f] the inward man is renewed day by day.

17 For [g] our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory;

18 [h] While we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen: for the things which are seen are temporal: but the things which are not seen are eternal.

CHAP. V.

A. D. 60.

1 That in his assured hope of immortal glory, 9 and in expectance of it, and of the general judgment, he labourcth to keep a good conscience, 12 not that he may herein boast of himself, 14 but as one that, having received life from Christ, endeavoureth to live as a new creature to Christ only, 18 and by his ministry of reconciliation to reconcile others also in Christ to God.

FOR we know that if [a] our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.

2 For in this [b] we groan, earnestly desiring to be clothed upon with our house which is from heaven:

3 If so be that [c] being clothed we shall not be found naked.

4 For we that are in this tabernacle do groan, being burdened: not for that we would be unclothed, but [d] clothed upon, that mortality might be swallowed up of life.

5 Now [e] he that hath wrought us for the selfsame thing is God, who also [f] hath given unto us the earnest of the Spirit.

6 Therefore we are always confident, knowing that, whilst we are at home in the body, we are absent in the Lord:

7 (For [g] we walk by faith, not by sight:)

8 We are confident, I say, and [h] willing rather to be absent from the body, and to be present with the Lord.

9 Wherefore we * labour, that, whether present or absent, we may be accepted of him.

10 [i] For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ; [k] that every one may receive the things done in his body, according to that he hath done, whether it be good or bad.

11 Knowing therefore [l] the terror of the Lord, we persuade men; but [m] we are made manifest unto God; and I trust also are made manifest in your consciences.

12 For [n] we commend not ourselves again unto you, but give you occasion [o] to glory on our behalf, that ye may have somewhat to answer them which glory † in appearance, and not in heart.

13 For [p] whether we be beside ourselves, it is to God: or whether we be sober, it is for your cause.

Ver. 6. In the face of Jesus Christ.—"Here," observes Dr. Whitby, "appears to be an allusion to the shining of the face of Moses after he had seen the glory of God." See Exod. xxxiii. 16, 19 and xxxiv. 29, 30.

Ver. 7. This treasure—Of knowledge. In earthen vessels.—In bodies subject to destruction. May be of God—May appear to be, as it really is, of God.

Ver. 10. The dying of the Lord Jesus.—By the persecutions which we endure we, as it were, represent in our bodies the sufferings and death of Christ. That the life—which Jesus resumed after his resurrection, might be made manifest in our body.—By his preserving us alive amidst the dangers to which we are exposed.

Ver. 11. Delivered unto death.—That is, to the hazard of destruction.

Ver. 12. So then death, &c.—"That is, the preaching of the Gospel exposes us to death, but unto you it brings eternal life."—Burkitt.

Ver. 13. Having the same spirit of faith—Which David had.

Ver. 14. Knowing, &c.—Knowing that if we are killed in the performance of our ministerial duties, he which raised up, &c. And shall present us—before him at the general resurrection together with you.

Ver. 15. For all things, &c.—For all things which happen to us in preaching the Gospel, &c. That the abundant grace—conferred by means of the Gospel.

Ver. 16. We faint not—We do not relax in our efforts. Though our outward man perish.—Though the body loses its energy.

Chap. v. Ver. 1. Our earthly house, &c.—Our mortal body, the tabernacle, or earthly habitation of our immortal souls. A building of God.—An immortal dwelling-place for our souls prepared and spiritualised by God, and like him eternal.

Ver. 2 To be clothed upon, &c.—To be admitted into the sanctuary of our celestial habitation.

Ver. 3. We shall not be found naked.—Our spirits being once admitted into their eternal tabernacle shall no more be confined within a corrupt and perishable body, and thus be no longer exposed to the perilous assaults of sin, as naked persons whose bodies are without protection.

Ver. 4. Not for that we would be unclothed, &c.—Not that we would entirely relinquish those bodies in which our souls dwell, but desiring to have them rendered spiritualized and immortal, that all the miseries of this temporal state may be merged in that blessedness which is for ever.

Ver. 5. Now he that hath wrought us, &c.—Now, he who has prepared us for this glorious transmutation, is God. Who also hath given unto us the earnest of the Spirit.—Who has given us a pledge, in the gifts of the Holy Spirit, which he has bestowed upon us, that we shall continually partake of that everlasting fruition.

Ver. 6. Therefore we are always confident, &c.—Therefore we are always earnest in the work of our ministry, knowing that, whilst we are at home in the body—upon earth, we are absent from the Lord in heaven.

Ver. 7. For we walk by faith, &c.—By belief in the happiness of the Invisible, not of the visible, world.

Ver. 9. Whether present or absent.—Whether present in life, or absent by death.

Ver. 10. Receive the things, &c.—Receive punishment or reward in the body, according to that, &c.

Ver. 11. We persuade men—to forsake sin, and thus evade the terror of the Lord. But we are made manifest unto God—"as faithful in this matter, and, I trust, are made manifest even to your consciences as faithful."—Macknight.

Ver. 13 For whether we be beside ourselves.—As some affirm that we are, it is for the glory of God by making his Gospel known. For your cause.—For your benefit.

Ver. 14. For the love of Christ constraineth us.—"Thus to promote his glory, and to seek your good."—Dr. Whitby. Then were all dead.—Obnoxious to eternal death.

us; because we thus judge, that [q] if one died for all, then were all dead:

15 And that he died for all, [r] that they which live should not henceforth live unto themselves, but unto him which died for them, and rose again.

16 [s] Wherefore henceforth know we no man after the flesh: yea, though we have known Christ after the flesh, [t] yet now henceforth know we him no more.

17 Therefore if any man [u] be in Christ, ‡ he is [x] a new creature: [y] old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new.

18 And all things are of God, [z] who hath reconciled us to himself by Jesus Christ, and hath given to us the ministry of reconciliation;

19 To wit, that [a] God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto himself, not imputing their trespasses unto them; and hath § committed unto us the word of reconciliation.

20 Now then we are [b] ambassadors for Christ, as [c] though God did beseech you by us: we pray you in Christ's stead, be ye reconciled to God.

21 For [d] he hath made him to be sin for us, who knew no sin; that we might be made [e] the righteousness of God in him.

CHAP. VI.

1 That he hath approved himself a faithful minister of Christ, both by his exhortations, 3 and by integrity of life, 4 and by patient enduring all kinds of affliction and disgraces for the gospel. 10 Of which he speaketh the more boldly amongst them, because his heart is open to them, 11 and he expecteth the like affection from them again, 14 exhorting to flee the society and pollutions of idolaters, as being themselves temples of the living God.

WE then, as [a] workers together with him, [b] beseech you also [c] that ye receive not the grace of God in vain.

2 (For he saith, [d] I have heard thee in a time accepted, and in the day of salvation have I succoured thee: behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation.)

3 [e] Giving no offence in any thing, that the ministry be not blamed:

4 But in all things [f] approving ourselves as the ministers of God, in much patience, in afflictions, in necessities, in distresses,

5 [g] In stripes, in imprisonments, † in tumults, in labours, in watchings, in fastings;

6 By pureness, by knowledge, by long-suffering, ¶ by kindness, by the Holy Ghost, by love unfeigned,

7 [h] By the word of truth, by [i] the power of God, by [k] the armour of righteousness on the right hand and on the left,

8 By honour and dishonour, by evil report and good report: as deceivers, and yet true;

9 As unknown, and [l] yet well known; [m] as dying, and, behold, we live; [n] as chastened, and not killed;

10 As sorrowful, yet alway rejoicing; as poor, yet making many rich; as having nothing, and yet possessing all things.

11 O ye Corinthians, our mouth is open unto you, [o] our heart is enlarged.

12 Ye are not straitened in us, but [p] ye are straitened in your own bowels.

13 Now for a recompence in the same, (I speak as unto my children,) be ye also enlarged.

14 [r] Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers: for [s] what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? and what communion hath light with darkness?

15 And what concord hath Christ with Belial? or what part hath he that believeth with an infidel?

16 And what agreement hath the temple of God with idols? for [t] ye are the temple of the living God; as God hath said, [u] I will dwell in them, and walk in them; and I will be their God, and they shall be my people.

17 [x] Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you,

18 [y] And will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty.

CHAP. VII.

1 He proceedeth in exhorting them to purity of life, 2 and to bear him like affection as he doth to them. 3 Whereof lest he might seem to doubt, he declareth what comfort he took in his afflictions, by the report which Titus gave of their godly sorrow, which his former epistle had wrought in them, 8 and of their loving kindness and obedience towards Titus, answerable to his former boastings of them.

HAVING [a] therefore these promises, dearly beloved, let us cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of God.

2 Receive us; we have wronged no man, we have corrupted no man, [b] we have defrauded no man.

3 I speak not this to condemn you: for [c] I have said before, that ye are in our hearts to die and live with you.

4 [d] Great is my boldness of speech toward

Ver. 15. That they which live—They who through his death are put in a condition of obtaining eternal life.

Ver. 16. Know we no man after the flesh, &c.—According to any mere worldly distinctions. For though we once esteemed the Messiah as a mere temporal prince, yet we now consider him no more as such.

Ver. 17. Be in Christ, &c.—That is, a true Christian. His former sins and prejudices have left him, and he has become, as it were, a new man by his conversion to a better faith.

Ver. 18. And all things, &c.—And all these things are God's work. The ministry of reconciliation—A commission to preach that Gospel which is the prolific source of reconciliation with God through Christ.

Ver. 19. To wit, &c.—Namely, the Gospel which teaches that God was in Christ, &c.

Ver. 20. We are ambassadors for Christ.—Acting as his delegates.

Ver. 21. That we might be made, &c.—That we might be righteous in the sight of God, through the merits of Christ's death and the influences of his Spirit.—Macknight.

CHAP. VI. Ver. 2. I have heard thee, &c.—"The argument drawn from hence is," observes Dean Stanhope, "that when the grace of God is offered, we must be very diligent to lay hold of, and improve it, knowing, as we must, that this life is the utmost period of the day of grace; that the continuance of life is most uncertain, and that we cannot be sure that God will extend to us the opportunities of grace, so long as life does continue."

Ver. 6. By the Holy Ghost.—By miraculous and extraordinary use of his gifts.

Ver. 7. By the word of truth, &c.—"By preaching the Gospel pure and uncorrupted; by the success and efficacy given by God to that preaching; by arming ourselves against all the temptations both of prosperity and of adversity."—Dean Stanhope.

Ver. 8. By honour, &c.—Performing our duty conscientiously, whether we be honoured or calumniated.—As deceivers.—As considered to be such.

Ver. 9. As unknown—to some, and yet well known—to many. As dying, &c.—As continually exposed to the peril of destruction from the malice of our persecutors, and yet escaping from it.

Ver. 10. As sorrowful—at the spiritual state of others, but always rejoicing—in that of our own, and of those who follow our Ministry.

Ver. 12. Ye are not straitened, &c.—"Ye are not straitened for want of room in my heart, but ye are straitened in your own affections."—Macknight.

Ver. 13. Now for a recompence, &c.—Now, in order to requite my affection for you, let your heart be likewise enlarged towards me.

Ver. 14. Unequally yoked together.—Improperly united in marriage bonds.

Ver. 17. Come out from among them.—That is, from among idolaters and unbelievers. And touch not the unclean thing.—Touch nothing that may defile or pollute you.

CHAP. VII. Ver. 1. Having therefore these promises.—Mentioned at the close of the last chapter.

Ver. 4. Great is my boldness of speech—towards you, in reproving you for your faults, and great, likewise is my glorying of you, in your obedience to the principles of that Gospel which I am commissioned to preach. I am exceedingly joyful in all our tribulation.—On account of your godly sorrow for past errors.

you, [a] great is my glorying of you: [b] I am filled with comfort, I am exceeding joyful in all our tribulation.

5 For, [c] when we were come into Macedonia, our flesh had no rest, but [d] we were troubled on every side; [e] without were fightings, within were fears.

6 Nevertheless [f] God, that comforteth those that are cast down, comforted us by [g] the coming of Titus;

7 And not by his coming only, but by the consolation wherewith he was comforted in you, when he told us your earnest desire, your mourning, your fervent mind toward me; so that I rejoiced the more.

8 For though I made you sorry with a letter, I do not repent, [m] though I did repent: for I perceive that the same epistle hath made you sorry, though it were but for a season.

9 Now I rejoice, not that ye were made sorry, but that ye sorrowed to repentance: for ye were made sorry [o] after a godly manner, that ye might receive damage by us in nothing.

10 For [n] godly sorrow worketh repentance to salvation not to be repented of: [o] but the sorrow of the world worketh death.

11 For behold this selfsame thing, that ye sorrowed after a godly sort, what carefulness it wrought in you, yea, what clearing of yourselves, yea, what indignation, yea, what fear, yea, what vehement desire, yea, what zeal, yea, what revenge! In all things ye have approved yourselves to be clear in this matter.

12 Wherefore, though I write unto you, I did it not for his cause that had done the wrong, nor for his cause that suffered wrong, [p] but that our care for you in the sight of God might appear unto you.

13 Therefore we were comforted in your comfort: yea, and exceedingly the more joyed we for the joy of Titus, because his spirit [q] was refreshed by you all.

14 For if I have boasted any thing to him of you, I am not ashamed; but as we spake all things to you in truth, even so our boasting, which I made before Titus, is found a truth.

15 And his † inward affection is more abundant toward you, whilst he remembereth [r] the obedience of you all, how with fear and trembling ye received him.

16 I rejoice therefore that [s] I have confidence in you in all things.

CHAP. VIII.

1 He stirreth them up to a liberal contribution for the poor saints at Jerusalem, by the example of the Macedonians, 7 by commendation of their former forwardness, 9 by the example of Christ, 14 and by the spiritual profit that shall redound to themselves thereby: 16 commending to them the integrity and willingness of Titus, and those other brethren, who upon his request, exhortation, and commendation, were purposely come to them for this business.

MOREOVER, brethren, we do you to wit of the grace of God bestowed on the churches of Macedonia;

2 How that in a great trial of affliction the abundance of their joy and [a] their deep poverty abounded unto the riches of their [*] liberality.

3 For to their power, I bear record, yea, and beyond their power they were willing of themselves;

4 Praying us with much intreaty that we would receive the gift, and take upon us [b] the fellowship of the ministering to the saints.

5 And this they did, not as we hoped, but first gave their own selves to the Lord, and unto us by the will of God.

6 Insomuch that [c] we desired Titus, that as he had begun, so he would also finish in you the same † grace also.

7 Therefore, as [d] ye abound in every thing, in faith, and utterance, and knowledge, and in all diligence, and in your love to us, see [e] that ye abound in this grace also.

8 [f] I speak not by commandment, but by occasion of the forwardness of others, and to prove the sincerity of your love.

9 For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, [g] that, though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might be rich.

10 And herein [h] I give my advice: for [i] this is expedient for you, who have begun before, not only to do, but also to be ‡ [k] forward a year ago.

11 Now therefore perform the doing of it; that as there was a readiness to will, so there may be a performance also out of that which ye have.

12 For [l] if there be first a willing mind, it is accepted according to that a man hath, and not according to that he hath not.

13 For I mean not that other men be eased, and ye burdened:

14 But by an equality, that now at this time your abundance may be a supply for their want, that their abundance also may be a supply for your want: that there may be equality:

15 As it is written, [m] He that had gathered much had nothing over; and he that had gathered little had no lack.

16 But thanks be to God, which put the same earnest care into the heart of Titus for you.

17 For indeed he accepted [n] the exhorta-this again, that, as he is Christ's, even so are [n] we Christ's.

8 For though I should boast somewhat more [o] of our authority, which the Lord hath given us for edification, and not for your destruction, [p] I should not be ashamed:

9 That I may not seem as if I would terrify you by letters.

10 For his letters, ‖ say they, are weighty and powerful; but [q] his bodily presence is weak, and his [r] speech contemptible.

11 Let such an one think this, that, such as we are in word by letters when we are absent, such will we be also in deed when we are present.

12 [s] For we dare not make ourselves of the number, or compare ourselves with some that commend themselves: but they measuring themselves by themselves, and comparing themselves among themselves, * are not wise.

13 [t] But we will not boast of things without our measure, but according to the measure of the † rule which God hath distributed to us, a measure to reach even unto you.

14 For we stretch not ourselves beyond our measure, as though we reached not unto you: [u] for we are come as far as to you also in preaching the Gospel of Christ:

15 Not boasting of things without our measure, that is, [x] of other men's labours; but having hope, when your faith is increased, that we shall be ‡ enlarged by you according to our rule abundantly,

16 To preach the Gospel in the regions beyond you, and not to boast in another man's § line of things made ready to our hand.

17 [y] But he that glorieth, let him glory in the Lord.

18 For [z] not he that commendeth himself is approved, but [a] whom the Lord commendeth.

CHAP. XI.

1 Out of his jealousy over the Corinthians, who seemed to make more account of the false apostles than of him, he entreateth into a forced commendation of himself, 5 of his equality with the chief apostles, 7 of his preaching the gospel to them freely, and without any their charge, 13 shewing that he was not inferior to those deceitful workers in any legal prerogative, 23 and in the service of Christ, and in all kind of sufferings for his ministry, far superior.

WOULD to God ye could bear with me a little in [a] my folly: and indeed * bear with me.

2 For I am [b] jealous over you with godly jealousy: for [c] I have espoused you to one husband, [d] that I may present you [e] as a chaste virgin to Christ.

3 But I fear, lest by any means, as [f] the serpent beguiled Eve through his subtilty, so your minds [g] should be corrupted from the simplicity that is in Christ.

4 For if he that cometh preacheth another Jesus, whom we have not preached, or if ye receive another spirit, which ye have not received, or [h] another Gospel, which ye have not accepted, ye might well bear † with him.

5 For I suppose [i] I was not a whit behind the very chiefest apostles.

6 But though [k] I be rude in speech, yet not [l] in knowledge; but [m] we have been throughly made manifest among you in all things.

7 Have I committed an offence [n] in abasing myself that ye might be exalted, because I have preached to you the Gospel of God freely?

8 I robbed other churches, taking wages of them, to do you service.

9 And when I was present with you, and wanted, [o] I was chargeable to no man: for that which was lacking to me [p] the brethren which came from Macedonia supplied: and in all things I have kept myself [q] from being burdensome unto you, and so will I keep myself.

10 [r] As the truth of Christ is in me, ‡ [s] no man shall stop me of this boasting in the regions of Achaia.

11 Wherefore? [t] because I love you not? God knoweth.

12 But what I do, that I will do, [u] that I may cut off occasion from them which desire occasion; that wherein they glory, they may be found even as we.

13 For such [x] are false apostles, [y] deceitful workers, transforming themselves into the apostles of Christ.

14 And no marvel; for Satan himself is transformed into [z] an angel of light.

15 Therefore it is no great thing if his ministers also be transformed as the [a] ministers of righteousness; [b] whose end shall be according to their works.

16 [c] I say again, Let no man think me a fool; if otherwise, yet as a fool § receive me, that I may boast myself a little.

17 That which I speak, [d] I speak it not after the Lord, but as it were foolishly, [e] in confidence of boasting.

18 [f] Seeing that many glory after the flesh, I will glory also.

19 For ye suffer fools gladly, [g] seeing ye yourselves are wise.

20 For ye suffer, [h] if a man bring you into

29 [a] Who is weak, and I am not weak? who is offended, and I burn not?

30 If I must need glory, [b] I will glory of the things which concern mine infirmities.

31 [c] The God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, [d] which is blessed for evermore, knoweth that I lie not.

32 [e] In Damascus the governor under Aretas the king kept the city of the Damascenes with a garrison, desirous to apprehend me:

33 And through a window in a basket was I let down by the wall, and escaped his hands.

CHAP. XII.

1 For commending of his apostleship, though he might glory of his wonderful revelations, 9 yet he rather chooseth to glory of his infirmities, 11 blaming them for forcing him to this vain boasting. 14 He promiseth to come to them again: but yet altogether in the affection of a father, 20 although he feareth he shall to his grief find many offenders, and publick disorders there.

IT is not expedient for me doubtless to glory. * I will come to visions and revelations of the Lord.

2 I knew a man [a] in Christ about fourteen years ago, (whether in the body, I cannot tell; or whether out of the body, I cannot tell: God knoweth;) such an one [b] caught up to the third heaven.

3 And I knew such a man, (whether in the body, or out of the body, I cannot tell: God knoweth;)

4 How that he was caught up into [c] paradise, and heard unspeakable words, which it is not † lawful for a man to utter.

5 Of such an one will I glory: [d] yet of myself I will not glory, but in mine infirmities.

6 For [e] though I would desire to glory, I shall not be a fool; for I will say the truth: but now I forbear, lest any man should think of me above that which he seeth me to be, or that he heareth of me.

7 And lest I should be exalted above measure through the abundance of the revelations, there was given to me a [f] thorn in the flesh, [g] the messenger of Satan to buffet me, lest I should be exalted above measure.

8 [h] For this thing I besought the Lord thrice, that it might depart from me.

9 And he said unto me, My grace is sufficient for thee: for my strength is made perfect in weakness. Most gladly therefore [i] will I rather glory in my infirmities, [k] that the power of Christ may rest upon me.

10 Therefore [l] I take pleasure in infirmities, in reproaches, in necessities, in persecutions, in distresses for Christ's sake: [m] for when I am weak, then am I strong.

11 I am become [n] a fool in glorying; ye have compelled me; for I ought to have been commended of you: for [o] in nothing am I behind the very chiefest apostles, though [p] I be nothing.

12 [q] Truly the signs of an apostle were wrought among you in all patience, in signs, and wonders, and mighty deeds.

13 [r] For what is it wherein you were inferior to other churches, except it be that [s] I myself was not burdensome to you? forgive me [t] this wrong.

14 [u] Behold, the third time I am ready to come to you; and I will not be burdensome to you: for [x] I seek not your's, but you: [y] for the children ought not to lay up for the parents, but the parents for the children.

15 And [z] I will very gladly spend and be spent [a] for ‡ you; though [b] the more abundantly I love you, the less I be loved.

16 But be it so, [c] I did not burden you: nevertheless, being crafty, I caught you with guile.

17 [d] Did I make a gain of you by any of them whom I sent unto you?

18 [e] I desired Titus, and with him I sent a [f] brother. Did Titus make a gain of you? walked we not in the same spirit? walked we not in the same steps?

Christ: [i] but we do all things, dearly beloved, for your edifying.

20 For I fear, lest, when I come, I shall not find you such as I would, and that [k] I shall be found unto you such as ye would not: lest there be debates, envyings, wraths, strifes, backbitings, whisperings, swellings, tumults:

21 And lest, when I come again, my God [l] will humble me among you, and that I shall bewail many [m] which have sinned already, and have not repented of the uncleanness and [n] fornication and lasciviousness which they have committed.

CHAP. XIII.

1 He threateneth severity, and the power of his apostleship against obstinate sinners. 5 And adviseth them to a trial of their faith, 7 and to a reformation of their sins before his coming. 11 He concludeth his epistle with a general exhortation and a prayer.

THIS is [a] the third time I am coming to you. [b] In the mouth of two or three witnesses shall every word be established.

2 [c] I told you before, and foretell you, as if I were present, the second time; and being absent now I write to them [d] which heretofore have sinned, and to all other, that, if I come again, [e] I will not spare:

3 Since ye seek a proof of Christ [f] speaking in me, which to you-ward is not weak, but is mighty [g] in you.

4 [h] For though he was crucified through weakness, yet [i] he liveth by the power of God. For [k] we also are weak [*] in him, but we shall live with him by the power of God toward you.

5 [l] Examine yourselves, whether ye be in the faith; prove your own selves. Know ye not your own selves, [m] how that Jesus Christ is in you, except ye be [n] reprobates?

6 But I trust that ye shall know that we are not reprobates.

7 Now I pray to God that ye do no evil; not that we should appear approved, but that ye should do that which is honest, though [o] we be as reprobates.

8 For we can do nothing against the truth, but for the truth.

9 For we are glad, [p] when we are weak, and ye are strong: and this also we wish, [q] even your perfection.

10 [r] Therefore I write these things being absent, lest being present [s] I should use sharpness, [t] according to the power which the Lord hath given me to edification, and not to destruction.

11 Finally, brethren, farewell. Be perfect, be of good comfort, [u] be of one mind, live in peace; and the God of love [x] and peace shall be with you.

12 [y] Greet one another with an holy kiss.

13 All the saints salute you.

14 [z] The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and [a] the communion of the Holy Ghost, be with you all. Amen.

The Epistle of PAUL the Apostle to the GALATIANS.

A. D. 58.

CHAP. I.

6 He wondereth that they have so soon left him and the gospel, 8 and accurseth those that preach any other gospel than he did. 11 He learned the gospel not of men, but of God: 14 and sheweth what he was before his calling, 17 and what he did presently after it.

PAUL, an apostle, (* not of men, neither by man, but [b] by Jesus Christ, and God the Father, [c] who raised him from the dead;)

2 And all the brethren [d] which are with me, [e] unto the churches of Galatia:

3 [f] Grace be to you and peace from God the Father, and from our Lord Jesus Christ,

4 [g] Who gave himself for our sins, that he might deliver us [h] from this present evil world, according to the will of God and our Father:

5 To whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

6 I marvel that ye are so soon removed [i] from him that called you into the grace of Christ unto another Gospel:

7 [k] Which is not another; but there be some [l] that trouble you, and would pervert the Gospel of Christ.

8 But though [m] we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other Gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed.

9 As we said before, so say I now again, If any man preach any other Gospel unto you [n] than that ye have received, let him be accursed.

THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE GALATIANS.—[*] St. Paul begins this Epistle after a salutation in the name of himself and all the brethren who were with him, by asserting his apostolic mission: he shows, from a brief history of his life, that he learnt the Gospel, not from man, but by immediate revelation from God; and that he entered upon his ministry by Divine appointment, without receiving any instruction or authority from those who were apostles before him; or at first holding any communication with them: that he afterwards conferred with the heads of the church at Jerusalem, and was by them, upon the fullest conviction, acknowledged to be an Apostle through the especial grace of God. St. Paul having thus proved the independence and Divine original of his mission, and that he was not a whit behind the very chiefest Apostles, 2 Cor. xi. 5, proceeds to refute the imputation of inconsistency with which he had been charged, by shewing that he had uniformly resisted the Judaizing Christians, and in particular that he had withstood and reproved St. Peter at Antioch, who through fear of the Jewish Christians had refused to associate with heathen converts; he contends that he had always maintained the Gospel was alone able to save those who believe it, knowing that a man is not justified by the works of the law, but by the faith of Jesus Christ, Chap. ii. and iii.; he expostulates with the Galatians for having suffered themselves to be seduced by false teachers from the doctrines which he had taught them, and brings to their recollection that, upon their embracing the Gospel and not the law, they had received the Holy Ghost, chap. iii. 1, 5. He then pursues the main subject of the Epistle at considerable length, and proves that the obligation of the ritual part of the Mosaic law is completely abolished, both with respect to Jews and Gentiles, chap. iii. 6, to the end of chap. iv.; and in the course of his argument he contrasts the present defection of the Galatians with their former zeal and affection towards him, and expresses a fear lest he should have preached to them in vain; he earnestly exhorts them to stand fast in the liberty with which Christ has made them free, and not to suffer themselves again to be entangled with the bondage of legal ordinances; he points out the moral and spiritual nature of the Gospel, in opposition to outward observances; and concludes with a variety of directions and precepts, all tending to the cultivation of practical virtue, chap. v. and vi."—Hp. Tomline. There is great difference of opinion concerning the date of this Epistle among learned men, some contending for the year of our Lord 52, others for the year 58. The former opinion seems the most probable.

CHAP. I. Ver. 1. Not of men, neither by man. Mine was not the appointment of men, neither was I raised to it by man.

Ver. 4. Of God and our Father.—Of God who is our everlasting Father.

Ver. 6. Into the grace of Christ.—Into the Christian covenant;—the covenant of grace.

Ver. 7. Which is not another—gospel, since there is but one.

A. D. 58.

10 For [o] do I now [p] persuade men, or God? or [q] do I seek to please men? for if I yet pleased men, I should not be the servant of Christ.

11 [r] But I certify you, brethren, that the Gospel which was preached of me is not after man.

12 For [s] I neither received it of man, neither was I taught it, but [t] by the revelation of Jesus Christ.

13 For ye have heard of my conversation in time past in the Jews' religion, how that [u] beyond measure I persecuted the Church of God, and [x] wasted it:

14 And profited in the Jews' religion above many my [*] equals in mine own nation, [y] being more exceedingly zealous [z] of the traditions of my fathers.

15 But when it pleased God, [a] who separated me from my mother's womb, and called me by his grace,

16 [b] To reveal his Son in me, that [c] I might preach him among the heathen; immediately I conferred not with [d] flesh and blood:

17 Neither went I up to Jerusalem to them which were apostles before me; but I went into Arabia, and returned again unto Damascus.

18 Then after three years [e] I [†] went up to Jerusalem to see Peter, and abode with him fifteen days.

19 But [f] other of the apostles saw I none, save [g] James the Lord's brother.

20 Now the things which I write unto you, [h] behold, before God, I lie not.

21 [i] Afterwards I came into the regions of Syria and Cilicia;

22 And was unknown by face [k] unto the churches of Judæa which [l] were in Christ:

23 But they had heard only, That he which persecuted us in times past now preacheth the faith which once he destroyed.

24 And they glorified God in me.

CHAP. II.

1 He sheweth when he went up again to Jerusalem, and for what purpose: 3 and that Titus was not circumcised: 11 and that he resisted Peter, and told him the reason, 14 why he and other, being Jews, believe in Christ to be justified by faith, and not by works: 20 and that they live not in sin who are so justified.

A. D. 52.

[a] THEN fourteen years after [a] I went up again to Jerusalem with Barnabas, and took Titus with me also.

2 And I went up by revelation, [b] and communicated unto them that Gospel which I preach among the Gentiles, but [*] privately to them which were of reputation, lest by any means [c] I should run, or had run, in vain.

3 But neither Titus, who was with me, being a Greek, was compelled to be circumcised:

4 And that because of [d] false brethren unawares brought in, who came in privily to spy out our [*] liberty which we have in Christ Jesus, [f] that they might bring us into bondage:

5 To whom we gave place by subjection, no, not for an hour; that [g] the truth of the Gospel might continue with you.

6 But of those [h] who seemed to be somewhat, whatsoever they were, it maketh no matter to me: [i] God accepteth no man's person: for they who seemed to be somewhat [k] in conference added nothing to me:

7 But contrariwise, [l] when they saw that the Gospel of the uncircumcision [m] was committed unto me, as the Gospel of the circumcision was unto Peter;

8 (For he that wrought effectually in Peter to the apostleship of the circumcision, [n] the same was [o] mighty in me toward the Gentiles:)

9 And when James, Cephas, and John, who seemed to be [p] pillars, perceived [q] the grace that was given unto me, they gave to me and Barnabas the right hands of fellowship; that we should go unto the heathen, and they unto the circumcision.

10 Only they would that we should remember the poor; [r] the same which I also was forward to do.

11 [s] But when Peter was come to Antioch, I withstood him to the face, because he was to be blamed.

12 For before that certain came from James, [t] he did eat with the Gentiles: but when they were come, he withdrew and separated himself, fearing them which were of the circumcision.

13 And the other Jews dissembled likewise with him; insomuch that Barnabas also was carried away with their dissimulation.

14 But when I saw that they walked not uprightly according to [u] the truth of the Gospel, I said unto Peter [x] before them all, [y] If thou, being a Jew, livest after the manner of Gentiles, and not as do the Jews, why compellest thou the Gentiles to live as do the Jews?

15 [z] We who are Jews by nature, and not [a] sinners of the Gentiles,

16 [b] Knowing that a man is not justified by the works of the law, but [c] by the faith

Ver. 10. Do I now persuade men or God?—Are my ministerial labours now employed to secure the favours of men or of God?

Ver. 11. But I certify, &c.—But I solemnly protest to you, &c. Is not after man.—Is not of human, but of divine authority.

Ver. 14. And profited.—Had made proficiency.

Ver. 15. Who separated me, &c.—Who, in his unerring wisdom, reared me from my birth, and eventually called me by his grace to this ministry.

Ver. 16. In me.—By me. I conferred not with flesh and blood.—With mere human advisers.

Ver. 19. The Lord's brother.—The Lord's cousin. Among the Jews all who were very near of kin were called brethren or sisters.

Ver. 22. And was unknown by face.—And was personally unknown.

Ver. 24. And they glorified God in me.—On account of my marvellous and gracious conversion to Christianity.

CHAP. II. Ver 2. And I went up by revelation.—By the express direction of Christ revealed to me. Which were of reputation.—The chief men among the Apostles.

Ver. 4. False brethren unawares brought in, &c.—Unconverted Jews pretending to be Christians, who entered privately among our worshipping assemblies to see how far we claimed liberty from the obligations of the ceremonial law of Moses, and to condemn our emancipation from the now cancelled restrictions of that law under the Gospel of Christ.

Ver. 5. By subjection.—By subjecting ourselves, as they insisted, to the regulations of the Mosaic law.

Ver. 6. But of those who seemed, &c.—But of those eminent persons before referred to (see ver. 2) namely Peter, James, and John, who appeared to be of greatest note among the Apostles of our blessed Lord, however great their distinction as ministers of his Gospel, this did not, in any way, deteriorate from my influence or usefulness as an Apostle. For they who seemed to be somewhat, &c.—For they who had acquired such distinguished reputation communicated to me no spiritual advantages during my conferences which I had with them.

Ver. 7. The Gospel of the uncircumcision.—The office of preaching the Gospel to the Gentiles.

Ver. 9. Cephas.—The Syriac name for Peter.—Who seem to be pillars.—That is, of the Church.

Ver. 11. I withstood him to the face.—I opposed him publicly.

Ver. 13. And the other Jews.—Those who had become converts to Christianity.

Ver. 14. Why compellest thou, &c.—Why wouldst thou compel, &c.

Ver. 15. Jews by nature.—By birth. And not sinners of the Gentiles.—And not, as the Gentiles were before their conversion, ignorant of God, and rejected by him on account of their impious idolatry.

Ver. 16. The works of the law.—That is, by works of law generally, whether ceremonial or otherwise, since law, of whatever kind, demands perfect obedience to its requisitions, so that no imperfect creature can be justified by such law; no man, therefore, is justified by the works of the law, but by the faith of Jesus Christ—which releases the true believer from the obligation of perfect obedience, and renders his imperfect obedience available to his salvation, when it is sincerely and devoutly made; when it is offered in full assurance of faith, it is accepted as a satisfactory compliance with the conditions of the covenant of mercy entered into with us through Christ.

of Jesus Christ, even we have believed in Jesus Christ, that we might be justified by the faith of Christ, and not by the works of the law: for [d] by the works of the law shall no flesh be justified.

17 But if, while we seek to be justified by Christ, we ourselves also are found [e] sinners, is therefore Christ the minister of sin? God forbid.

18 For if I build again the things which I destroyed, I make myself a transgressor.

19 For I [f] through the law [g] am dead to the law, that I might [h] live unto God.

20 I am [i] crucified with Christ: nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me: and the life which I now live in the flesh [k] I live by the faith of the Son of God, [l] who loved me, and gave himself for me.

21 I do not frustrate the grace of God: for [m] if righteousness come by the law, then Christ is dead in vain.

CHAP. III.

1 He asketh what moved them to leave the faith, and hang upon the law? 6 They that believe are justified, 9 and blessed with Abraham. 10 And this he sheweth by many reasons.

O FOOLISH Galatians, [a] who hath bewitched you, that ye should not obey [b] the truth, before whose eyes Jesus Christ [i] hath been evidently set forth, crucified among you?

2 This only would I learn of you, Received ye [c] the Spirit by the works of the law, [d] or by the hearing of faith?

3 Are ye so foolish? [e] having begun in the Spirit, are ye now made perfect by [f] the flesh?

4 [g] Have ye suffered [*] so many things in vain? if it be yet in vain.

5 He therefore [h] that ministereth to you the Spirit, and worketh miracles among you, doeth he it by the works of the law, or by the hearing of faith?

6 Even as [i] Abraham believed God, and it was † accounted to him for righteousness.

7 Know ye therefore that [k] they which are of faith, the same are the children of Abraham.

8 And [l] the Scripture, foreseeing that God would justify the heathen through faith, preached before the Gospel unto Abraham, saying, [m] In thee shall all nations be blessed.

9 So then they which be of faith are blessed with faithful Abraham.

A. D. 58

10 For as many as are of the works of the law are under the curse: for it is written, [n] Cursed is every one that continueth not in all things which are written in the book of the law to do them.

11 But [o] that no man is justified by the law in the sight of God, it is evident: for, [p] The just shall live by faith.

12 And [q] the law is not of faith: but, [r] The man that doeth them shall live in them.

13 [s] Christ hath redeemed us from the curse of the law, being made a curse for us: for it is written, [t] Cursed is every one that hangeth on a tree:

14 [u] That the blessing of Abraham might come on the Gentiles through Jesus Christ; that we might receive [x] the promise of the Spirit through faith.

15 Brethren, I speak after the manner of men; [y] Though it be but a man's ‡ covenant, yet if it be confirmed, no man disannulleth, or addeth thereto.

16 Now [z] to Abraham and his seed were the promises made. He saith not, And to seeds, as of many; but as of one, And to thy seed, which is [a] Christ.

17 And this I say, that the covenant, that was confirmed before of God in Christ, the law, [b] which was four hundred and thirty years after, cannot disannul, [c] that it should make the promise of none effect.

18 For if [d] the inheritance be of the law, [e] it is no more of promise: but God gave it to Abraham by promise.

19 Wherefore then serveth the law? It was added because of transgressions, till [g] the seed shall come to whom the promise was made; and it was [h] ordained by angels in the hand [i] of a mediator.

20 Now a mediator is not a mediator of one, [k] but God is one.

21 Is the law then against the promises of God? God forbid: [l] for if there had been a law given which could have given life, verily righteousness should have been by the law.

22 But [m] the Scripture hath concluded

Ver. 17, 18. "On the other hand do but consider the consequences of this principle; a Christian who relies still upon the Jewish law for his justification must allow himself to be still in a state of guilt, for the law leaves us all so. Which is as much as to say, that Christ, our Redeemer, has given us a dispensation that leaves us but where we were; namely, in an unpardoned and unjustified condition, which God forbid any Christian should hold. 18. For it is evident, beyond exception, if after having taken upon me the Christian profession, as the means of this justification, I run back again for it to the Jewish law, I am but where I was, an unjustified sinner; and act just like a foolish man who pulls down his house to make it better, and then builds it up again with the very same materials, just as it was, upon its old foundation."—Pyle.

Ver. 19. For I through the law, &c.—For I through the law of Christ, which is his Gospel, am dead to the law of Moses, as having no longer any hope of salvation from it. I have embraced that Gospel that I might live unto God, and escape the penalty of death denounced against a breach of the primitive law in Paradise.

Ver. 20. I am crucified with Christ, &c.—The carnal man is crucified—all my affections for worldly pleasures and allurements are dead within me; nevertheless I still live unto God. I am only carnally, not spiritually, dead. But Christ liveth in me.—By his spirit actuating my thoughts, and governing my conduct.

Ver. 21. I do not frustrate, &c.—"I do not, like the Judaizers, set aside the mercy of God in giving his Son, by teaching justification through works of law. For if righteousness is attainable through law, then certainly Christ hath died in vain. He need not have died to deliver us from the curse, and to obtain eternal life for us."—Macknight.

CHAP. III. Ver. 1. Who hath bewitched you.—What false teacher has so completely deluded you?

Ver. 2. By the works of the law, &c.—By performing the ceremonials of the Mosaic law, or by hearing and believing the Gospel.

Ver. 3. By the flesh?—"By circumcision and other carnal observances."—Bishop Hall.

Ver. 4. So many things.—So many persecutions from the Jews for the sake of Christianity.

Ver. 5. Or by the hearing of faith.—Or by your faithfully hearing the Gospel which he has been commissioned to preach unto you.

Ver. 7. That they which are of faith, &c.—Who seek to be justified by faith, as Abraham was, are his spiritual children.

Ver. 8. And the scripture.—That is, the divine Author of scripture. Preached before the Gospel unto Abraham.—Preached the glad tidings to Abraham before the law was given, or the rite of circumcision instituted.

Ver. 10. As many as are of the works of the law.—All who seek justification by the works of the law, are under the curse,—as not performing perfect obedience to that law.

Ver. 12. The law is not of faith.—The law has no such condition as that of obtaining justification by faith, but it exacts the most rigid and complete performance of its ordinances, declaring that the man who observes them duly shall have a legal claim to happiness in consequence of their observance.

Ver. 13. From the curse of the law.—From the penalty of the law, being made a curse for us.—having endured the penalty in our stead, by being condemned to an ignominious death as a public malefactor.

Ver. 14. That the blessing of Abraham,—namely, justification by faith. The promise of the Spirit.—The promised gifts of the Spirit.

Ver. 18. For if the inheritance be of the law, &c.—"Either then the inheritance, that is, eternal life, must belong to good men by virtue of the law, or by virtue of the promise antecedent to the law. If by virtue of the law, then the promise hath nothing to do with it. But this cannot be, because it expressly contradicts the account given of it in Scripture, which positively affirms that Abraham was intitled to it by virtue of God's promise to him."—Dean Stanhope.

Ver. 19. It was added because of transgressions.—It was added for the purpose of preventing transgression by the severity of its inflictions. And it was ordained, &c.—"It was spoken by the Angels who put it in the hand of Moses as a mediator between God and the people."—Macknight.

Ver. 20. Now a mediator, &c.—"Now Moses was a mediator, but for one part of Abraham's seed, the Israelites only; but God is but one, and so the God of all his seed in common; namely, of all that should be justified like that father of all the faithful."—Dean Stanhope

[n] all under sin, [o] that the promise by faith of Jesus Christ might be given to them that believe.

23 But before faith came, we were kept under the law, shut up into the faith which should afterwards be revealed.

24 Wherefore [p] the law was our schoolmaster to bring us unto Christ, [q] that we might be justified by faith.

25 But after that faith is come, we are no longer under a schoolmaster.

26 For ye [r] are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus.

27 For [s] as many of you as have been baptized into Christ [t] have put on Christ.

28 [u] There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female: for ye are all [x] one in Christ Jesus.

29 And [y] if ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's seed, and [z] heirs according to the promise.

CHAP. IV.

1 We were under the law till Christ came, as the heir is under his guardians till he be of age. 5 But Christ freed us from the law: 7 therefore we are servants no longer to it. 14 He remembereth their good will to him, and his to them, 22 and sheweth that we are the sons of Abraham by the freewoman.

NOW I say, That the heir, as long as he is a child, differeth nothing from a servant, though he be lord of all;

2 But is under tutors and governors until the time appointed of the father.

3 Even so we, when we were children, [a] were in bondage under the [*] elements of the world:

4 But [b] when the fulness of the time was come, God sent forth his Son, [c] made [d] of a woman, [e] made under the law,

5 [f] To redeem them that were under the law, [g] that we might receive the adoption of sons.

6 And because ye are sons, God hath sent forth [h] the Spirit of his Son into your hearts, crying, Abba, Father.

7 Wherefore thou art no more a servant, but a son; [i] and if a son, then an heir of God through Christ.

8 Howbeit then, [k] when ye knew not God, [l] ye did service unto them which by nature are no gods.

9 But now, [m] after that ye have known God, or rather are known of God, [n] how turn ye † again to [o] the weak and beggarly ‡ elements, whereunto ye desire again to be in bondage?

10 [p] Ye observe days, and months, and times, and years.

11 I am afraid of you, [q] lest I have bestowed upon you labour in vain.

12 Brethren, I beseech you, be as I am; for I am as ye are: [r] ye have not injured me at all.

13 Ye know how [s] through infirmity of the flesh I preached the Gospel unto you [t] at the first.

14 And my temptation which was in my flesh ye despised not, nor rejected; but received me [u] as an angel of God, [x] even as Christ Jesus.

15 § Where is then the blessedness ye spake of? for I bear you record, that, if it had been possible, ye would have plucked out your own eyes, and have given them to me.

16 Am I therefore become your enemy, [y] because I tell you the truth?

17 They [z] zealously affect you, but not well; yea, they would exclude ‖ you, that ye might affect them.

18 But it is good to be zealously affected always in a good thing, and not only when I am present with you.

19 [a] My little children, of whom I travail in birth again until Christ be formed in you,

20 I desire to be present with you now, and to change my voice; for * I stand in doubt of you.

21 Tell me, ye that desire to be under the law, do ye not hear the law?

22 For it is written, that Abraham had two sons, [b] the one by a bondmaid, [c] the other by a freewoman.

23 But he who was of the bondwoman [d] was born after the flesh; [e] but he of the freewoman was by promise.

24 Which things are an allegory: for these are the two † covenants; the one from the mount ‡ [f] Sinai, which gendereth to bondage, which is Agar.

25 For this Agar is mount Sinai in Arabia, and § answereth to Jerusalem which now is, and is in bondage with her children.

[§] Or, is in the same rank with

Ver. 23. Shut up, &c.—Rendered subservient to the requisitions of the law until the coming of that period when the Gospel was to be revealed, which teaches the consolatory doctrine of justification by faith.

Ver. 24. Was our schoolmaster, &c.—Was our instructor, appointed, by subjecting us to a preparatory discipline, to bring us unto Christ.

Ver. 27. Have put on Christ.—Have assumed the badge of his disciples and become members of his Church, having put on the sacred vesture of his righteousness;—that righteousness which is by faith.

Ver. 29. Abraham's seed.—That spiritual seed of Abraham to whom the promises, equally with his seed by natural generation, belong.

CHAP. IV. Ver. 1. A servant.—A bondman.

Ver. 2. Until the time appointed of the father—for giving him possession of his patrimony.

Ver. 3. Under the elements of the world.—That is, observes Dr. Macknight, "the law of Moses, and the different forms of religion which prevailed among the heathens."

Ver. 4. When the fulness of time was come.—When the time, foreordained of God, was fully come for the introduction of the Christian dispensation. Made under the law.—Born in subjection to the law.

Ver. 5. That we might receive the adoption of sons.—That we might be permitted to enter into the Gospel covenant, thus becoming the sons of God by being adopted into the Church established by Christ upon earth.

Ver. 6. Crying, Abba, Father.—"Witnessing to your spirits that you are the sons of God, and that he is your father (Rom. viii. 15, 16); and enabling you to use the language, not of servants, but of sons."—Dr. Whithy.

Ver. 7. A servant, &c.—A slave, subject to the rigorous exactions of the law, but a son, acting under a more merciful dispensation, and actuated in your obedience to its demands by love to a kind and tender father.

Ver. 8. Which by nature.—Which in reality.

Ver. 9. Beggarly elements.—Heathen abominations and unseemly forms of worship.

Ver. 10. Ye observe days.—Festival days, with superstitious reverence. And times.—And seasons.

Ver. 12. Be as I am, &c.—"Be still as affectionate to me as I am to you, and count me not your enemy because I tell you the truth, for I am still as affectionate to you as ever you were to me. I do not look upon you as persons who have done any thing with an intent to injure me; and though your false teachers have done you this injury by their pernicious doctrines, yet have they not prevailed upon you to speak evil of me, or act injuriously towards me."—Dr. Whitby.

Ver. 13. Through infirmity of the flesh.—See 2 Cor. xii. 7—12.

Ver. 14. As an angel of God.—As a messenger of God, with the greatest respect and deference, as if I had been Christ himself.

Ver. 15. The blessedness ye spake of—in having me for a teacher.

Ver. 17. They zealously affect you, &c.—The false teachers pretend great affection for you, but they are not sincere. They desire to exclude you from bestowing your love upon me, in order that ye may bestow it upon them as superior ministers of the Gospel.

Ver. 18. But it is good, &c.—"In a good cause re ought to be constant; and therefore so you ought in your affections to me, and to the doctrine which I then preached to you."—Dr. Hammond.

Ver. 19. Until Christ, &c.—Until the doctrine first taught by Christ in his Gospel be established among you.

Ver. 20. And to change my voice.—To temper my discourse, as the occasion may require.

Ver. 21. Do ye not hear, &c.—Do ye not understand the law?

Ver. 23. After the flesh.—After the ordinary course of generation, but Isaac, as Dr. Hammond observes, "was born, not by the ordinary course of nature, but above it, by the power of God and by virtue of the promise made to Abraham."

Ver. 24. Are an allegory.—Have a mystical meaning. These are the two covenants.—These are types of the two covenants. To bondage.—To the bondage of the Jewish law,—which is Agar—which is represented by Agar.

Ver. 25. For this Agar, &c.—"For Hagar, the mother of the Ishmaelites, represents the slavish and temporary dispensation of the Jewish law, which was given at Mount Sinai in the desert of Arabia; and that people of the Jews, who were to be kept under the severe discipline of it."—Fyle.

A. D 58.

26 But [s] Jerusalem which is above is free, which is the mother of us all.

27 For it is written, [b] Rejoice, thou barren that bearest not; break forth and cry, thou that travailest not: for the desolate hath many more children than she which hath an husband.

28 Now we, brethren, as Isaac was, are [i] the children of promise.

29 But as then [k] he that was born after the flesh persecuted him that was born after the Spirit, [l] even so it is now.

30 Nevertheless what saith [m] the Scripture? [n] Cast out the bondwoman and her son: for [o] the son of the bondwoman shall not be heir with the son of the freewoman.

31 So then, brethren, we are not children of the bondwoman, [p] but of the free.

CHAP. V.

1 He moveth them to stand in their liberty, 3 and not to observe circumcision: 14 but rather love, which is the sum of the law. 19 He reckoneth up the works of the flesh, 22 and the fruits of the Spirit, 25 and exhorteth to walk in the Spirit.

STAND fast therefore in [a] the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again [b] with the yoke of bondage.

2 Behold, I Paul say unto you, that [c] if ye be circumcised, Christ shall profit you nothing.

3 For I testify again to every man that is circumcised, [d] that he is a debtor to do the whole law.

4 [e] Christ is become of no effect unto you, whosoever of you are justified by the law; [f] ye are fallen from grace.

5 For we through the Spirit [g] wait for the hope of righteousness by faith.

6 For [h] in Jesus Christ neither circumcision availeth any thing, nor uncircumcision; but [i] faith which worketh by love.

7 Ye [k] did run well; [l] * who did hinder you that ye should not obey the truth?

8 This persuasion cometh not of him [m] that calleth you.

9 [n] A little leaven leaveneth the whole lump.

10 [o] I have confidence in you through the Lord, that ye will be none otherwise minded: but [p] he that troubleth you [q] shall bear his judgment, whosoever he be.

11 [r] And I, brethren, if I yet preach circumcision, [s] why do I yet suffer persecution? then is [t] the offence of the cross ceased.

12 [u] I would they were even cut off [x] which trouble you.

13 For, brethren, ye have been called unto liberty; only [y] use not liberty for an occasion to the flesh, but [z] by love serve one another.

14 For [a] all the law is fulfilled in one word, even in this; [b] Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.

15 But if ye bite and devour one another, take heed that ye be not consumed one of another.

16 This I say then, [c] Walk in the Spirit, and † ye shall not fulfil the lust of the flesh.

17 For [d] the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh: and these are contrary the one to the other: [e] so that ye cannot do the things that ye would.

18 But [f] if ye be led of the Spirit, ye are not under the law.

19 Now [g] the works of the flesh are manifest, which are these; Adultery, fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness,

20 Idolatry, witchcraft, hatred, variance, emulations, wrath, strife, seditions, heresies,

21 Envyings, murders, drunkenness, revellings, and such like: of the which I tell you before, as I have also told you in time past, that [h] they which do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God.

22 But [i] the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, [k] gentleness, [l] goodness, [m] faith,

23 Meekness, temperance: [n] against such there is no law.

24 And they that are Christ's [o] have crucified the flesh with the ‡ affections and lusts.

25 [p] If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit.

26 [q] Let us not be desirous of vain glory, provoking one another, envying one another.

CHAP. VI.

1 He moveth them to deal mildly with a brother that hath slipped, 2 and to bear one another's burdens: 6 to be liberal to their teachers, 9 and not weary of well doing. 12 He reproveth what they intend that preach circumcision. 14 He glorieth in nothing, save in the cross of Christ.

BRETHREN, [a] * if a man be overtaken in a fault, ye [b] which are spiritual, restore such an one [c] in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself, [d] lest thou also be tempted.

2 [e] Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfil [f] the law of Christ.

3 For [g] if a man think himself to be some-

Ver. 31. We are not children of the bondwoman—and therefore not bound by the servile conditions of the law which she represents, but of the free, as Isaac was, the children of promise, and consequently have the liberty of release from those legal obligations of the Mosaic dispensation, having been advanced to the freedom of the Gospel.

Ver. 8. This persuasion.—Namely, of your being bound by the obligations of the Mosaic law, did not arise from the preaching of them who first persuaded you to embrace the Gospel; I never inculcated any such doctrine, as mixing up Judaism with Christianity, for I maintain that they are incompatible.

Ver. 9. A little leaven, &c.—"The errors of one teacher are sufficient to corrupt a whole church."—Macknight.

Ver. 10. I have confidence in you—however. His judgment, his punishment, when I come among you.

Ver. 11. Then is the offence of the cross ceased.—If it be really true that I now contend for the obligation of circumcision and for obedience to the law of Moses, as some declare of me, the offence which I gave by preaching Christianity can no longer exist; why then am I persecuted?

thing, when [h] he is nothing, he deceiveth himself.

4 But [i] let every man prove his own work, and then shall he have rejoicing in himself alone, and [k] not in another.

5 For [l] every man shall bear his own burden.

6 [m] Let him that is taught in the word communicate unto him that teacheth in all good things.

7 [n] Be not deceived; [o] God is not mocked: for [p] whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.

8 [q] For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting.

9 And [r] let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season we shall reap, [s] if we faint not.

10 [t] As we have therefore opportunity, [u] let us do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of [x] the houshold of faith.

11 Ye see how large a letter I have written unto you with mine own hand.

12 As many as desire to make a fair shew in the flesh, [y] they constrain you to be circumcised; [z] only lest they should [a] suffer persecution for the cross of Christ.

13 For neither they themselves who are circumcised keep the law; but desire to have you circumcised, that they may glory in your flesh.

14 [b] But God forbid that I should glory, save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, † by whom the world is [c] crucified unto me, and I unto the world.

15 For [d] in Christ Jesus neither circumcision availeth any thing, nor uncircumcision, but [e] a new creature.

16 [f] And as many as walk [g] according to this rule, peace be on them, and mercy, and upon [h] the Israel of God.

17 From henceforth let no man trouble me: for [i] I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus.

18 Brethren, [k] the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit. Amen.

Ver. 4. But let every man, &c.—"Let every man try his own work, rather than the work of others, and if good, then shall he have boasting in himself alone, and not in another, as worse than himself". Macknight.

Ver. 5 For every man, &c.—For every man shall be responsible only for his own conduct.

Ver. 6 Communicate unto him, &c.—That is, impart to him all things necessary for his maintenance and temporal comfort.

Ver. 10. Especially unto them, &c.—Especially to all Christians who are earnest in their faith.

Ver. 12. As many, &c.—As many as affect popularity by their adherence to the law of Moses. only lest they, &c.—For no other purpose but that they may escape punishment from the unbelieving Jews for having preached the doctrine of redemption through the death of Christ, without the works of the law.

Ver. 13. That they may glory in your flesh.—In having persuaded you to undergo the rite of circumcision.

Ver. 14. By whom the world is crucified unto me.—Is rendered incapable of affecting me by its pleasures, pomps or vanities. And I unto the world.—I have no longer any disposition to follow its allurements.

Ver. 15. But a new creature.—But a person renewed in heart and mind, in short, a reformed man.

Ver. 16. Upon the Israel of God.—Upon the converted Jews.

Ver. 17. For I bear, &c.—"The Apostle calls the scars he received from stripes, chains, &c., in the service of Christ, "the marks of the Lord Jesus," by a beautiful allusion to the brands with which servants and soldiers were sometimes marked, to show to whom they belonged."—Parkhurst.

The Epistle of PAUL the Apostle to the EPHESIANS.

A D 64.

CHAP. I.

1 After the salutation, 3 and thanksgiving for the Ephesians, 4 he treateth of our election, 6 and adoption by grace, 11 which is the true and proper fountain of man's salvation. 13 And because the height of this mystery cannot easily be attained unto, 16 he prayeth that they may come unto 18 the full knowledge and 20 possession thereof in Christ.

PAUL, an apostle of Jesus Christ [a] by the will of God, [b] to the saints which are at Ephesus, [c] and to the faithful in Christ Jesus:

2 [d] Grace be to you, and peace, from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

3 [e] Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who hath blessed us with all spiritual blessings in heavenly [f] places in Christ:

4 According as [g] he hath chosen us in him [h] before the foundation of the world, that we should [k] be holy and without blame before him in love:

5 [l] Having predestinated us unto [k] the adoption of children by Jesus Christ to himself, [l] according to the good pleasure of his will,

6 To the praise of the glory of his grace, [m] wherein he hath made us accepted in [n] the beloved.

7 [o] In whom we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of sins, according to [p] the riches of his grace;

8 Wherein he hath abounded toward us in all wisdom and prudence;

9 [q] Having made known unto us the mystery of his will, according to his good pleasure [r] which he hath purposed in himself:

10 That in the dispensation of [s] the fulness of times [t] he might gather together in

THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE EPHESIANS.—"Paul having planted a famous church at Ephesus, which was the metropolis or chief city in Asia, where he had preached the Gospel for three years with eminent success, and being now a prisoner at Rome, he justly feared lest they should faint in their Christian course; and accordingly to prevent it, he wrote this Epistle to the Churches of Christ in and about Ephesus, to establish them in the faith he had preached to them, which he was now a prisoner for, and stood ready to seal with his own blood.

"The principal parts of this Epistle are two, doctrinal and practical. The former is contained in the first three chapters, in which the Apostle treats of the sublime privileges of our election, vocation, justification and adoption; the latter in the three last chapters, in which he exhorts them to constancy in the faith, to preparation for, and patience under, sufferings, and to live religiously in every relation, by making conscience of relative duties one towards another, as husbands and wives, parents and children, masters and servants, in which the life and beauty of religion lies; and so closes the Epistle, wishing them all peace and prosperity, and a mutual increase of love and charity, and advising them to manifest the sincerity of their love of Christ by the purity and uncorruptedness of their lives and conversation."—Burkitt.

CHAP. I. Ver. 1. To the saints, &c.—Those who have embraced Christianity at Ephesus, and more especially to those who have not only embraced Christianity, but who sincerely believe the Gospel of Christ Jesus.

Ver. 3. With all spiritual blessings in heavenly places in Christ.—"That is, all spiritual blessings, which may fit us for those heavenly places, provided for us in and by Christ."—Bishop Hall.

Ver. 4. As he hath chosen us in him.—According as he hath chosen us through Christ to be his people. Before him.—In his sight. In love.—"Through the exercise of our love both towards God and man."—Macknight.

Ver. 5 and 6. Having predestinated us, &c.—"Who has predestinated us Jews and Gentiles to a happy immortality (Rom. viii. 17.), through obedience to Jesus Christ, agreeably to the benevolence of his own disposition towards men of all nations; (ver. 6) in order that praise may be to him for that glorious display of his goodness, whereby he hath highly favoured us on account of him whom he declared his beloved Son, by voices from heaven at his baptism and transfiguration."—Macknight.

Ver. 7. According to the riches of his grace.—The abundance of his mercy and beneficence.

Ver. 8. In all wisdom and prudence.—"Giving us Apostles the most complete instructions in heavenly things by the inspiration of his Spirit, and at the same time prudence, that we might know when and where to preach the Gospel, so that it might be effectual to the salvation of those who heard it."—Dr. A Clarke.

Ver. 9. The mystery of his will.—The entire doctrine of the Gospel.

Ver. 10. and 11. That in the dispensation, &c.—"Namely, in the Gospel which is a dispensation calculated for the advanced state of the world, by publishing that secret to gather together all believers into one body, a visible Church, under Christ, as their head, both Jews and Gentiles; I say under him, (ver. 11) by whom even we Jews have inherited the promises that were made to the children of Abraham and of God, having been predestinated to the adoption of sons, (ver. 5) not through obedience to the law but through faith, according to the gracious purpose of him, who effectually accomplisheth all his benevolent intentions by the most proper means, according to the wise determination of his own will."—Macknight.

one [u] all things in Christ, both which are in † heaven, and which are on earth; even in him:

11 [x] In whom also we have obtained an inheritance, [y] being predestinated according to [z] the purpose of him who worketh all things after the counsel of his own will:

12 [a] That we should be to the praise of his glory, [b] who first ‡ trusted in Christ.

13 In whom ye also trusted, after that ye heard [c] the word of truth, the Gospel of your salvation: in whom also after that ye believed, [d] ye were sealed with that holy Spirit of promise,

14 [e] Which is the earnest of our inheritance [f] until the redemption of [g] the purchased possession, [h] unto the praise of his glory.

15 Wherefore I also, [i] after I heard of your faith in the Lord Jesus, and love unto all the saints,

16 [k] Cease not to give thanks for you, making mention of you in my prayers;

17 That [l] the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of glory, [m] may give unto you the spirit of wisdom and revelation § in the knowledge of him:

18 [n] The eyes of your understanding being enlightened; that ye may know what is [o] the hope of his calling, and what the riches of the glory of his [p] inheritance in the saints,

19 And what is the exceeding greatness of his power to us-ward who believe, [q] according to the working ‖ of his mighty power,

20 Which he wrought in Christ, when [r] he raised him from the dead, and [s] set him at his own right hand in the heavenly places,

21 [t] Far above all [u] principality, and power, and might, and dominion, and every name that is named, not only in this world, but also in that which is to come:

22 And [x] hath put all things under his feet, and gave him [y] to be the head over all things to the Church,

23 [z] Which is his body, [a] the fulness of him [b] that filleth all in all.

CHAP. II.

1 By comparing what we were by 3 nature, with what we are 5 by grace: 10 he declareth, that we are made for good works; 11 and 13 being brought near by Christ, should not live as 11 Gentiles, and 12 forriegners in time past, but as 19 citizens with the saints, and the family of God.

AND [a] you hath he quickened, [b] who were dead in trespasses and sins;

A.D. 64.

2 [c] Wherein in time past ye walked according to the course of this world, according to [d] the prince of the power of the air, the spirit that now worketh in [e] the children of disobedience:

3 [f] Among whom also we all had our conversation in times past in [g] the lusts of our flesh, fulfilling [*] the desires of the flesh and of the mind; and [h] were by nature the children of wrath, even as others.

4 But God, [i] who is rich in mercy, for his great love wherewith he loved us,

5 [k] Even when we were dead in sins, hath [l] quickened us together with Christ, († by grace ye are saved:)

6 And hath raised us up together, and made us sit together [m] in heavenly places in Christ Jesus:

7 That in the ages to come he might [n] shew the exceeding riches of his grace in [n] his kindness toward us through Christ Jesus.

8 [o] For by grace are ye saved [p] through faith; and that not of yourselves: [q] it is the gift of God:

9 [r] Not of works, lest any man should boast.

10 For we are [s] his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus unto good works, [t] which God hath before ‡ ordained that we should walk in them.

11 Wherefore [u] remember, that ye being in time past Gentiles in the flesh, who are called Uncircumcision by that which is called [x] the Circumcision in the flesh made by hands;

12 [y] That at that time ye were without Christ, [z] being aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from [a] the covenants of promise, [b] having no hope, [c] and without God in the world:

13 [d] But now in Christ Jesus ye who sometimes were [e] far off are made nigh by the blood of Christ.

14 For [f] he is our peace, [g] who hath made both one, and hath broken down the middle wall of partition between us;

15 [h] Having abolished [i] in his flesh the enmity, even the law of commandments contained in ordinances; for to make in himself of twain one [k] new man, so making peace;

16 And that he might [l] reconcile both unto God in one body by the cross, [m] having slain the enmity § thereby:

17 And came [n] and preached peace to you which were afar off, and to [o] them that were nigh.

CHAP. II. Ver. 1. And you hath he quickened, &c.—To you hath he given spiritual life.

Ver. 2. According to the course of this world.—According to the practice of this world, especially among the heathens. According to the prince of the power of the air.—According to the will of Satan, the prince of those demons who reside in the air. (The Jews believed that the air was inhabited by demons.) The children of disobedience.—The unconverted heathens who are enemies to the cross of Christ.

Ver. 3. And were by nature.—In our unconverted state. Children of wrath.—Obnoxious to wrath.

Ver. 6. And hath raised us up, as it were, from spiritual death, and imparted to us the everlasting privilege of finally sitting together in heavenly places with Christ Jesus.

Ver. 8. And that not of yourselves, &c.—Not by any merit of your own; it is the free gift of God.

Ver. 9. Not of works, &c.—Such salvation is not the consequence of your works by which it may be claimed as a right; thus no one can have any reason to boast of his good deeds, as the meritorious cause of salvation.

Ver. 10. For we are his workmanship, &c.—"We who believe are God's workmanship, formed through Christ Jesus to do good works; for which God before prepared us by the knowledge of the Gospel and the influences of his Spirit, that we should live in the constant performance of these."—Macknight.

Ver. 11. Gentiles in the flesh.—That is, by natural descent. Who are called, &c.—Who are contemptuously called uncircumcised by the Jews,—those who are styled, by way of distinction, the circumcised, that now exploded rite being performed on the flesh by the hands of men.

Ver. 12. Without Christ.—Unconverted.

Ver. 14. Both one.—Both Jews and Gentiles, one people of God.

Ver. 15. In his flesh.—In his body upon the cross. The enmity: the cause of that enmity between Jews and Gentiles, namely the ceremonial law consisting of numerous rites and ordinances. One new man.—One Christian community.

Ver. 16. Having slain the enmity thereby.—Having, by his sacrifice upon the cross, removed the enmity between God and them.

Ver. 17. To you which were afar off. To you, Gentiles, who were alienated from him by your idolatries. And to them that were nigh.—The Jews who were nigh to him by their privileges as his chosen people.

18 For [p] through him we both have access [q] by one Spirit unto the Father.

19 Now therefore ye are no more strangers and foreigners, but [r] fellow-citizens with the saints, and of [s] the household of God;

20 And are [t] built [u] upon the foundation of the [x] apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ himself being [y] the chief corner stone;

21 [z] In whom all the building fitly framed together groweth unto [a] an holy temple in the Lord:

22 [b] In whom ye also are builded together for an habitation of God through the Spirit.

CHAP. III.

1 The hidden mystery, 6 that the Gentiles should be saved, 3 was made known to Paul by revelation: 8 and to him was that grace given, that 9 he should preach it. 13 He desireth them not to faint for his tribulation, 14 and prayeth 19 that they may perceive the great love of Christ toward them.

FOR this cause I Paul, [a] the prisoner of Jesus Christ [b] for you Gentiles,

2 (If ye have heard of [c] the dispensation of the grace of God [d] which is given me to you-ward:

3 [e] How that [f] by revelation [g] he made known unto me the mystery; ([h] as I wrote [e] afore in few words,

4 Whereby, when ye read, ye may understand my knowledge [i] in the mystery of Christ)

5 [k] Which in other ages was not made known unto the sons of men, [l] as it is now revealed unto the holy apostles and prophets by the Spirit;

6 That the Gentiles [m] should be fellow-heirs, and [n] of the same body, and [o] partakers of his promise in Christ by the Gospel:

7 [p] Whereof I was made a minister, [q] according to the gift of the grace of God given unto me by [r] the effectual working of his power.

8 Unto me, [s] who am less than the least of all saints, is this grace given, that [t] I should preach among the Gentiles [u] the unsearchable riches of Christ;

9 And to make all men see what is the fellowship of [x] the mystery [y] which from the beginning of the world hath been hid in God, [z] who created all things by Jesus Christ:

10 [a] To the intent that now [b] unto the principalities and powers in heavenly places [c] might be known by the Church the manifold wisdom of God,

11 [d] According to the eternal purpose which he purposed in Christ Jesus our Lord:

12 In whom we have boldness and [e] access [f] with confidence by the faith of him.

13 [g] Wherefore I desire that ye faint not at my tribulations [h] for you, [i] which is your glory.

14 For this cause I bow my knees unto the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ,

15 Of whom [k] the whole family in heaven and earth is named,

16 That he would grant you, [l] according to the riches of his glory, [m] to be strengthened with might by his Spirit [n] in the inner man;

17 [o] That Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith; that ye, [p] being rooted and grounded in love,

18 [q] May be able to comprehend with all saints [r] what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height;

19 And to know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge, that ye might be filled [s] with all the fulness of God.

20 Now [t] unto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly [u] above all that we ask or think, [x] according to the power that worketh in us,

21 [y] Unto him be glory in the Church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages, world without end. Amen.

CHAP. IV.

1 He exhorteth to unity, 7 and declareth that God therefore giveth divers 11 gifts unto men, that his church might be 13 edified, and 16 grown up in Christ. 18 He calleth them from the impurity of the Gentiles, 24 to put on the new man, 25 to cast off lying, and 29 corrupt communication.

ITHEREFORE, ([a] the prisoner * of the Lord,) beseech you that ye [b] walk worthy of the vocation wherewith ye are called,

2 [c] With all lowliness and meekness, with longsuffering, forbearing one another in love;

3 Endeavouring to keep the unity of the Spirit [d] in the bond of peace.

4 [e] There is one body, and [f] one Spirit, even as ye are called in one [g] hope of your calling;

5 [h] One Lord, [i] one faith, [k] one baptism,

6 [l] One God and Father of all, who is above all, and [m] through all, and in you all.

7 But [n] unto every one of us is given grace according to the measure of the gift of Christ.

8 Wherefore he saith, [o] When he ascended up on high, [p] he led † captivity captive, and gave gifts unto men.

9 [q] (Now that he ascended, what is it but

CHAP. III. Ver. 1. For this cause.—On account of my delivering the doctrine which you have just read, I, Paul, now a prisoner, &c.

Ver. 2. If ye have heard, &c.—Ye cannot doubt of my imprisonment for you Gentiles, since ye have heard of that grace bestowed upon me, by God, for your spiritual benefit.

Ver. 3. The mystery—Of the vocation of the Gentiles into his Church and grace.

Ver. 6. And of the same body—Or Church. And partakers of his promise.—That is, of God's promise, &c.

Ver. 8. Unto me who am less, &c.—To me who, because I formerly used all my power and influence to subvert the Church of Christ, am less deserving of such a blessed distinction than the weakest Christian, was this grace of inspiration and apostleship given.

Ver. 9. What is the fellowship of the mystery, &c.—"What is the happiness arising from the communication of the mystery of the calling of the Gentiles to be joint heirs with the Jews."—Doddridge. Hid in God.—Concealed under the Mosaic dispensation in the secret purpose of God.

Ver. 10. Unto the principalities, &c.—Unto all ranks and orders of angels in heavenly places—Might be known, &c.—By the spiritual effects produced in and by the Church, of Christ might be further made known the manifold wisdom of God.

Ver. 12. And access.—To God. By the faith of him—By our faith in Christ as our Mediator.

Ver. 15. Of whom the whole family, &c.—"From whom the angels in heaven, and the saints upon earth, are styled the sons of God."—Whitby.

Ver. 18. What is the breadth, &c.—What are the various sublime and immeasurable proportions of that great plan of redemption, which has freed us from the unimaginable misery, and terrible bondage of eternal death.

CHAP. IV. Ver. 1. The prisoner of the Lord.—Who am a prisoner in consequence of having preached the Gospel of Christ.

Ver. 3. Endeavouring, &c.—"Carefully endeavour to preserve the unity which should subsist among persons animated by the same spirit; and do this by the bond of a peaceable disposition."—Macknight.

Ver. 4. There is one body.—Or Church, "and one Spirit which animates that body by his gifts: as also ye have been called to one hope of the same blessings by your calling."—Macknight.

Ver. 7. Grace according to measure, &c.—In proportion to the importance of the office, which we may be called upon by Christ to exercise in his Church, and gifts suitable to that office.

Ver. 8. When he ascended upon high, &c.—"He took those wicked spirits, who had held mankind in captivity, captive, and gave spiritual gifts, not to the Jews only, but to men of all nations."—Macknight.

Ver. 9. Now that he ascended, &c.—Now, with reference to this expression, he ascended, it can have no reasonable signification apart from the fact of his descent first upon earth, and then into the grave; he must have first done the latter before he could have ascended into heaven.

that he also descended first into the lower parts of the earth?

10 He that descended is the same also [r] that ascended up far above all [s] heavens, that he might ‡ fill all things.)

11 [t] And he gave some, apostles; and some, prophets; and some, [u] evangelists; and some, [x] pastors and [y] teachers;

12 [z] For the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, [a] for the edifying of [b] the body of Christ:

13 Till we all come § in the unity of the faith, [c] and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto [d] a perfect man, unto the measure of the ‖ stature of the fulness of Christ:

14 That we henceforth be no more [e] children, [f] tossed to and fro, and carried about with every [g] wind of doctrine, by the sleight of men, and cunning craftiness, [h] whereby they lie in wait to deceive;

15 But [i] * speaking the truth in love, [k] may grow up into him in all things, [l] which is the head, even Christ:

16 [m] From whom the whole body fitly joined together and compacted by that which every joint supplieth, according to the effectual working in the measure of every part, maketh increase of the body unto the edifying of itself in love.

17 This I say therefore, and testify in the Lord, that [n] ye henceforth walk not as other Gentiles walk, [o] in the vanity of their mind,

18 [p] Having the understanding darkened, [q] being alienated from the life of God through the ignorance that is in them, because of the [r] † blindness of their heart:

19 [s] Who being past feeling [t] have given themselves over unto lasciviousness, to work all uncleanness with greediness.

20 But ye have not so learned Christ;

21 [u] If so be that ye have heard him, and have been taught by him, as the truth is in Jesus:

22 That ye [x] put off concerning [y] the former conversation [z] the old man, which is corrupt according to the deceitful lusts;

23 And [a] be renewed in the spirit of your mind;

24 And that ye [b] put on the new man, which after God [c] is created in righteousness and ‡ true holiness.

25 Wherefore putting away lying, [d] speak every man truth with his neighbour: for [e] we are members one of another.

26 [f] Be ye angry, and sin not: let not the sun go down upon your wrath:

27 [g] Neither give place to the devil.

28 Let him that stole steal no more: but rather [h] let him labour, working with his hands the thing which is good, that he may have § to give [i] to him that needeth.

29 [k] Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouth, but [l] that which is good ‖ to the use of edifying, [m] that it may minister grace unto the hearers.

30 And [n] grieve not the holy Spirit of God, [o] whereby ye are sealed unto the day of [p] redemption.

31 [q] Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamour, and [r] evil speaking, be put away from you, [s] with all malice:

32 And [t] be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, [u] forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you.

CHAP. V.

2 After general exhortations, to love, 3 to fly fornication, 4 and all uncleanness, 7 not to converse with the wicked, 15 to walk warily, and to be 18 filled with the Spirit, 22 he descendeth to the particular duties, how wives ought to obey their husbands, 25 and husbands ought to love their wives, 32 even as Christ doth his church.

BE [a] ye therefore followers of God, as dear children;

2 And [b] walk in love, [c] as Christ also hath loved us, and hath given himself for us an offering and a sacrifice to God [d] for a sweet-smelling savour.

3 But [e] fornication, and all uncleanness, or covetousness, [f] let it not be once named among you, as becometh saints;

4 [g] Neither filthiness, nor foolish talking, nor jesting, [h] which are not convenient: but rather giving of thanks.

5 For this ye know, that [i] no whoremonger, nor unclean person, nor covetous man, [k] who is an idolator, [l] hath any inheritance in the kingdom of Christ and of God.

6 [m] Let no man deceive you with vain words: for because of these things [n] cometh the wrath of God [o] upon the children of [p] disobedience.

7 Be not ye therefore partakers with them.

8 [p] For ye were sometimes darkness, but now [q] are ye light in the Lord: walk as [r] children of light:

Ver. 11. And he gave some, &c.—And he gave some to the office of apostles, some appointed to that of prophets, &c.

Ver. 12. The body of Christ.—The church of Christ

Ver. 13. In the unity of the faith. By being united in that one faith which embraces a full knowledge of the Son of God. Unto a perfect man, &c.—Unto perfect manhood, even to that maturity of stature which shall complete our growth as Christians.

Ver. 14. By the sleight of men.—By the evil devices and cunning wiles of men whose object is to delude us.

Ver. 15. But speaking the truth, &c. "But that, preserving unity of faith and charity we may improve as members in unity with the head, and grow in all Christian knowledge whatsoever." Dr. Hammond.

Ver. 16. From whom the whole body, &c.—"That is, from which head, the whole body of Christians duly compacted together, some sustaining the office of an inferior head, some of an eye, some of an hand, &c. (1 Cor. xii. 15, 17.) by the assistance which every one of these parts, thus united together, gives to the whole, according to the particular proportion of its gifts, encreaseth in love, and so all the members edify each other."—Whitby.

Ver. 21. If so be, &c.—Forasmuch as ye have heard him through us, his accredited ministers.

Ver. 22. That ye put off, &c.—That, with reference to your wicked practices whilst ye were in a state of unconversion, ye relinquish your old habits, which are depraved by those criminal lusts that betray you into the peril of eternal death.

Ver. 23 and 24. And be renewed, &c.—And be changed in disposition and understanding, seeking an improved temper, purer affections, and more spiritual contemplations to govern your hearts; and that thus ye assume a new nature—a nature so improved by habits of virtue and godliness that it shall resemble God, who will have produced it in you, in righteousness

Ver. 25. For we are members.—For, being severally members of the same mystical body, and thus collectively united to Christ, our head, we ought the more strictly to forbear from deceiving each other.

Ver. 27. Give place to the devil.—Neither allow the devil any opportunity to tempt you into sin whilst under the influence of passion.

Ver. 30. Whereby ye are sealed, &c.—By whom ye are marked, as persons who have entered the service of Christ, until the final resurrection, when the mark will be removed, and he shall redeem his own, and place them at God's right hand for evermore.

CHAP. v. Ver. 1. As dear children.—Doing his will, and loving him affectionately, as children love a tender father, and being beloved by him in return.

Ver. 2. And walk in love, &c.—And continue in the exercise of love towards all mankind, after the example of Christ, who offered himself upon the cross a sacrifice of such perfect satisfaction unto God, or to procure universal redemption for sinners.

Ver. 4. Which are not convenient.—Which are not seemly, but on the contrary, highly unbecoming.

Ver. 5. Who is an idolator.—Because he sets up his wealth as an idol, to which he offers adoration.

Ver. 6. Because of these things.—Mentioned in the preceding verse. The children of disobedience.—The unconverted heathens.

Ver. 8. For ye were sometimes darkness, &c.—Ye were formerly immersed in the darkness of heathen ignorance and superstition, but now ye are brought into the light of the glorious Gospel, conduct yourselves as persons who have received the blessed light of that Gospel.

Ver. 9. The fruit of the Spirit is exhibited in all goodness, &c.

in all goodness and rightcousness and truth ;)

10 [t] Proving what is acceptable unto the Lord.

11 And [u] have no fellowship with [x] the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather [y] reprove them.

12 [z] For it is a shame even to speak of those things which are done of them in secret.

13 But [a] all things that are † reproved are made manifest by the light : for whatsoever doth make manifest is light.

14 Wherefore ‡ he saith, [b] Awake thou that sleepest, and [c] arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light.

15 [d] See then that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise,

16 [e] Redeeming the time, [f] because the days are evil.

17 [g] Wherefore be ye not unwise, but [h] understanding [i] what the will of the Lord is.

18 And [k] be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess ; but be filled with the Spirit ;

19 Speaking to yourselves [l] in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody in your heart to the Lord ;

20 [m] Giving thanks always for all things unto God and the Father [n] in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ ;

21 [o] Submitting yourselves one to another in the fear of God.

22 [p] Wives, submit yourselves unto your own husbands, [q] as unto the Lord.

23 For [r] the husband is the head of [s] the wife, even as [s] Christ is the head of the Church : and he is the saviour of [t] the body.

24 Therefore as the Church is subject unto Christ, so let the wives be to their own husbands [u] in every thing.

25 [x] Husbands, love your wives, even as Christ also loved the Church, and [y] gave himself for it ;

26 That he might sanctify and cleanse it [z] with the washing of water [a] by the word,

27 [b] That he might present it to himself a glorious Church, [c] not having spot, or wrinkle, or any such thing ; [d] but that it should be holy and without blemish.

28 So ought men to love their wives as their own bodies. He that loveth his wife loveth himself.

29 For no man ever yet hated his own flesh ; but nourisheth and cherisheth it, even as the Lord the Church :

30 For [e] we are members of his body, of his flesh, and of his bones.

31 [f] For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and shall be joined unto his wife, and they [g] two shall be one flesh.

32 This is a great mystery : but I speak concerning Christ and the Church.

33 Nevertheless [h] let every one of you in particular so love his wife even as himself ; and the wife see that she [i] reverence her husband.

CHAP. VI.

1 The duty of children towards their parents, 5 of servants towards their masters. 10 Our life is a warfare, 12 not only against flesh and blood, but also spiritual enemies. 13 The complete armour of a Christian, 18 and how it ought to be used. 21 Tychicus is commended.

CHILDREN, [a] obey your parents in the Lord : for this is right.

2 [b] Honour thy father and mother ; which is the first commandment with promise ;

3 That it may be well with thee, and thou mayest live long on [c] the earth.

4 And, [d] ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath : but [d] bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord.

5 [e] Servants, be obedient to them that are your masters according to the flesh, [f] with fear and trembling, [g] in singleness of your heart, as unto Christ ;

6 [h] Not with eyeservice, as menpleasers ; but as the servants of Christ, doing the will of God from the heart ;

7 With good will doing service, as to the Lord, and not to men :

8 [i] Knowing that whatsoever good thing any man doeth, the same shall he receive of the Lord, [k] whether he be bond or free.

9 And, ye [l] masters, do the same things unto them, * [m] forbearing threatening : knowing that † [n] your Master also is in heaven ; [o] neither is there respect of persons with him.

10 Finally, my brethren, be strong in the Lord, and [p] in the power of his might.

11 [q] Put on the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil.

12 For we wrestle not against ‡ [r] flesh and blood, but against [s] principalities, against powers, against [t] the rulers of the darkness of this world, against § spiritual wickedness in ‖ high places.

13 [u] Wherefore take unto you the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to withstand [x] in the evil day, and * having done all, to stand.

Ver. 10. Proving, &c.—By a course of righteous conduct.

Ver. 11. Unfruitful works of darkness.—With such mischievous practices as are common among the heathens who know not God, and live therefore, as it were, in darkness.

Ver. 12. Which are done of them in secret.—Reference is evidently here made to the Egyptian, Eleusinian, Orphic, and other religious mysteries, which were greatly celebrated among the heathens.

Ver. 13. But all things, discovered to be deserving of reproof, are thus discovered or made manifest to be so by the light of the Gospel.

Ver. 14. And arise from the dead.—From among those who are dead in trespasses and sins.

Ver. 16. Redeeming the time, &c.—Which you have lost in past negligence, by future improvement, because our days in this world are few and full of perils, and we know not how soon they may be numbered.

Ver. 18. Be not drunk, &c.—Do not indulge in excess of wine and in obscene revelry, as the heathens do, at what they call their religious feasts ; but when ye assemble at your sacred festivals conduct yourselves in an orderly and spiritual manner.

Ver. 19. Speaking to yourselves, &c.—Reciting to each other the Psalms of David, and those devout hymns and spiritual songs, dictated by the Holy Spirit, singing them, your whole hearts uniting in the sacred melody thus addressed to God.

Ver. 21. Submitting yourselves, &c.—Being mutually subservient, doing kind offices one to another, exercising reciprocal assistance and forbearance, for fear of offending God, who has enjoined this mutual subserviency and interchange of benevolence.

Ver. 22. As unto the Lord.—In the same manner as ye submit unto the Lord.

Ver. 26. That he might sanctify it by his Spirit, and cleanse it with the washing of water in baptism, " and so having purged it from the guilt and pollution of sin, might form it for himself, and train it up in the exercise of every grace, by the discipline of his word."—Doddridge.

Ver. 32. This is a great mystery.—That is, this union ; but I speak of it now more particularly as an emblem of the union existing between Christ and his Church.

Ver. 33. Nevertheless, &c.—Therefore, to speak literally, I desire that every one of you, &c.

Chap. vi. Ver. 1. In the Lord.—" In compliance with the commandment of the Lord."—Dr. Whitby.

Ver. 2. With promise.—To which a special promise is attached.

Ver. 3. That it may be well, &c.—This is the promise attached to the commandment referred to in the second verse.

Ver. 4. In the nurture, &c.—In such discipline and instruction as will render them holy members of Christ's church.

Ver. 5. According to the flesh.—Who have rule only over your bodies. In singleness of heart.—With sincerity of heart.

Ver. 10. Be strong in the Lord, &c.—Place your utmost confidence in the Lord, and in the power of his omnipotence.

Ver. 12.—For we wrestle not, &c.—For we contend not with mere human opponents, but with super-human agents : with such evil spirits as rule over those heathens who are still groping in the darkness of idolatry, and likewise with that those inferior order of spirits which reside in the regions of the air.—See chap. ii. 2.

Ver. 13. In the evil day.—In the day of temptation. And having done all, &c.—And they having done all they could to overcome you, ye may be still able to remain unsubdued either by their open assaults or secret devices.

The Epistle of PAUL the Apostle to the PHILIPPIANS.

A D 64.

CHAP. I.

3 He testifieth his thankfulness to God, and his love toward them, for the fruits of their faith, and fellowship in his sufferings. 9 daily praying to him for their increase in grace: 12 he sheweth what good the faith of Christ had received by his troubles at Rome, 21 and how ready he is to glorify Christ either by his life or death; 27 exhorting them to unity, 28 and to fortitude in persecution.

PAUL and Timotheus, the servants of Jesus Christ, to all the saints [a] in Christ Jesus which are at Philippi, with the bishops and deacons:

2 [b] Grace be unto you, and peace, from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

3 [c] I thank my God upon every [*] remembrance of you,

4 Always in every prayer of mine for you all making request with joy,

5 [d] For your fellowship in the Gospel from the first day until now;

6 Being confident of this very thing, that he which hath begun [e] a good work in you † will perform it [f] until the day of Jesus Christ:

7 Even as it is meet for me to think this of you all, because ‡ I have you [g] in my heart; inasmuch as both in [h] my bonds, and in [i] the defence and confirmation of the Gospel, [k] ye all are § partakers of my grace.

8 For [l] God is my record, [m] how greatly I long after you all in the bowels of Jesus Christ.

9 And this I pray, [n] that your love may abound yet more and more in knowledge and in all ‖ judgment;

10 That [o] ye may [*] approve things that † are excellent; [p] that ye may be sincere and without offence [q] till the day of Christ:

11 Being filled with the fruits of righteousness, [r] which are by Jesus Christ, [s] unto the glory and praise of God.

12 But I would ye should understand, brethren, that the things which happened unto me have fallen out rather unto the furtherance of the Gospel;

13 So that my bonds ‡ in Christ are manifest [t] in all § the palace, and ‖ in all other places;

14 And many of the brethren in the Lord, waxing confident by my bonds, are much more bold to speak the word without fear.

15 Some indeed preach Christ even of envy and [u] strife; and some also of good will:

16 The one preach Christ of contention, not sincerely, supposing to add affliction to my bonds:

17 But the other of love, knowing that I am set for [x] the defence of the Gospel.

THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE PHILIPPIANS.—It is the observation of Theodoret, Œcumenius, and others, that Philippi was a city of Macedonia, under the metropolis of Thessalonica.

"This Epistle is, by the same Greek scholiasts, said to be written by St. Paul when he was in bonds at Rome. That he had been in bonds some time before, we may gather from chap. i. 12, 14; from the Philippians sending Epaphroditus to him with relief, and his return to them with this Epistle after a dangerous sickness; and from his hopes to come quickly to them, chap. ii. 24; and, therefore, he is supposed, by the most exact chronologers, to have written this Epistle in the eighth year of Nero, and the sixty-second of our Lord.

"That the Apostle here warns them against the Gnostics, or that these Gnostics joined with the Judaizing Christians to persuade the Gentiles to Judaize, I have not read in any of the ancients; but the Greek scholiasts age ee in this, that he warns them against the deceit of the believing Jews, who endeavoured to corrupt them, by imposing on them circumcision, and the shadows of the law, and saying that without these they could not be justified, chap. iii. 18, 19. And this is abundantly confirmed from the whole third chapter, where the Apostle declares he judges it for their safety to write to them to beware of dogs, of evil workers, and of the concision, and by his styling them the enemies of the cross of Christ, ver. 18, 19.

"And, lastly, it is noted by Theodoret, and others of the Fathers, that Epaphroditus, mentioned in this Epistle as their messenger, chap. ii. 15, and iv. 18, was also their bishop, or the person to whom the care of their souls had been committed."—Dr. Whithy.

CHAP. i. Ver. 1. Bishops.—Dr. Hammond observes that Philippi was a metropolis which had many bishops under it, on which account it is styled, 'the chief city of that part of Macedonia,' (Acts xvi. 12,) and by Photius, the metropolis of the province of the Macedonians. And "by this," continues that learned commentator, "it appears that in Philippi there might be more bishops than one, even as many as there were cities under that metropolis."

A D 64.

18 What then? notwithstanding, every way, whether in pretence, or in truth, Christ is preached; and I therein do rejoice, yea, and will rejoice.

19 For I know that this shall turn to my salvation [y] through your prayer, and the supply of [z] the Spirit of Jesus Christ,

20 According to my [a] earnest expectation and my hope, that [b] in nothing I shall be ashamed, but that [c] with all boldness, as always, so now also Christ shall be magnified in my body, whether it be by life, or by death.

21 For to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain.

22 But if I live in the flesh, this is the fruit of my labour: yet what I shall choose I wot not.

23 For [d] I am in a strait betwixt two, having a desire to [e] depart, and to be with Christ; which is far better:

24 Nevertheless to abide in the flesh is more needful for you.

25 And [f] having this confidence, I know that I shall abide and continue with you all for your furtherance and joy of faith;

26 That [g] your rejoicing may be more abundant in Jesus Christ for me by my coming to you again.

27 Only [h] let your conversation be as it becometh the Gospel of Christ: that whether I come and see you, or else be absent, I may hear of your affairs, [i] that ye stand fast in one spirit, [k] with one mind [l] striving together for the faith of the Gospel;

28 And in nothing terrified by your adversaries: [m] which is to them an evident token of perdition, [n] but to you of salvation, and that of God.

29 For unto you [o] it is given in the behalf of Christ, [p] not only to believe on him, but also to suffer for his sake;

30 [q] Having the same conflict [r] which ye saw in me, and now hear to be in me.

CHAP. II.

1 He exhorteth them to unity, and to all humbleness of mind, by the example of Christ's humility and exaltation: 12 to a careful proceeding in the way of salvation, that they be as lights to the wicked world, 16 and comforts to him their apostle, who is now ready to be offered up to God. 19 He hopeth to send Timothy to them, whom he greatly commendeth, 25 as Epaphroditus also, whom he presently sendeth to them.

IF there be therefore any consolation in Christ, if any comfort of love, [a] if any fellowship of the Spirit, if any [b] bowels and mercies,

2 [c] Fulfil ye my joy, [d] that ye be likeminded, having the same love, being of one accord, of one mind.

3 [e] Let nothing be done through strife or vainglory; but [f] in lowliness of mind let each esteem other better than themselves.

4 [g] Look not every man on his own things, but every man also on the things of others.

5 [h] Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus:

6 Who, [i] being in the form of God, [k] thought it not robbery to be equal with God:

7 [l] But made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form [m] of a servant, and [n] was made in the [*] likeness of men:

8 And being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, and [o] became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross.

9 Wherefore God also [p] hath highly exalted him, and [q] given him a name which is above every name:

10 [r] That at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth;

11 And [s] that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.

12 Wherefore, my beloved, [t] as ye have always obeyed, not as in my presence only, but now much more in my absence, work out your own salvation with [u] fear and trembling.

13 For [x] it is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of his good pleasure.

14 Do all things [y] without murmurings and [z] disputings:

15 That ye may be blameless and † harmless, [a] the sons of God, without rebuke, [b] in the midst of a [c] crooked and perverse nation, among whom ‡ [d] ye shine as lights in the world;

16 Holding forth the word of life; that [e] I may rejoice in the day of Christ, that [f] I have not run in vain, neither laboured in vain.

17 Yea, and if [g] I be § offered upon the sacrifice [h] and service of your faith, [i] I joy, and rejoice with you all.

18 For the same cause also do ye joy, and rejoice me.

19 ‖ But I trust in the Lord Jesus to send [k] Timotheus shortly unto you, that I also may be of good comfort, when I know your state.

20 For I have no man [l] [*] likeminded, who will naturally care for your state.

21 For all [m] seek their own, not the things which are Jesus Christ's.

22 But ye know the proof of him, [n] that, as a son with the father, he hath served with me in the Gospel.

23 Him therefore I hope to send presently, so soon as I shall see how it will go with me.

24 But [o] I trust in the Lord that I also myself shall come shortly.

25 Yet I supposed it necessary to send to you [p] Epaphroditus, my brother, and companion in labour, and [q] fellowsoldier, [r] but your messenger, and [s] he that ministered to my wants.

26 [t] For he longed after you all, and was

Ver. 24. Nevertheless to abide in the flesh.—To continue to live.

Ver. 28. Which is to them.—Which steadfastness on your parts, though they may look upon it as an evidence of your destruction, will, on the contrary, be to you an earnest and full proof of salvation—or that salvation which God has promised to the righteous, and will shortly reveal to them.

Ver. 29. In the behalf of Christ.—With reference to Christ.

Ver. 30. Which ye saw in me.—When I was among you. And now hear to be in me.—Whilst I am suffering imprisonment at Rome.

Clarke.* "If there be any affectionate sympathy and tender feelings of compassion."—Macknight.

Ver. 6. Thought it not robbery, &c.—"Did not think it a robbing of God of his glory to be, like God, an object of worship to angels and men in his original state."—Macknight.

Ver. 10. Every knee should bow, of things in heaven, &c.—Both angels and men, and such as are in the state of the dead.

Ver. 12. Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling.—Earnestly co-operate with the Holy Spirit in the work of your salvation, with all due care and anxiety.

Ver. 17. Yea, and if I be offered, &c.—"And if, as in the law, the wine was poured out on the sacrifice, so it fall out, that my blood, like wine, is poured out for the offering you up a sacrifice to God, that is, in bringing you into the faith, this will be a matter of infinite joy unto me."—Hammond.

Ver. 25. But your messenger—sent by you unto me with pecuniary relief in my necessities.

full of heaviness, because that ye had heard that he had been sick.

27 For indeed he was sick nigh unto death: but God had mercy on him; and not on him only, but on me also, lest I should have sorrow upon sorrow.

Ver. 26. That he had been sick,—which he was afraid would greatly distress you.

Ver. 28. And that I may be the less sorrowful,—In consequence of the restoration of so worthy a person, for I shall fully partake of your joy.

Ver. 29. Hold such, &c.—Hold persons like him in the highest estimation.

Ver. 30. To supply your lack of service toward me—To supply that service towards me which, in consequence of your not being present with me, you were unable to perform.

CHAP. III. Ver. 1. To write the same things to you—which I have already preached to you, when I was among you, is not troublesome to me, but safe, and moreover, necessary for you.

Ver. 2. Beware of dogs.—Of idolaters. Beware of the concision.—"By this name St. Paul calls the Jewish teachers, who were not only circumcised themselves, but now, after the coming of Christ, taught that the outward circumcision of the flesh was necessary to salvation, whilst they were at the same time destitute of the circumcision of the heart." Parkhurst.

Ver. 5. An Hebrew of the Hebrews.—An Hebrew descended from Hebrews by both parents, being that of pure Hebrew lineage.

Ver. 7. What things were gain to me,—as a Jew, I was content to part with for Christ's sake, for without him I looked upon them as a loss rather than as a gain.

Ver. 8. All things, &c.—That is, all temporal distinctions and attainments; all worldly advantages whatever, &c. That I may win Christ.—The favour and love of Christ.

Ver. 9. And be found in him.—A righteous member of his mystical body.

Ver. 10. And the fellowship of his sufferings, &c.—And be ready to bear the like sufferings with him, being willing to undergo the same death as he did, should it be his blessed will; being made conformable unto his death, by dying unto sin as he died unto the world, that if I were "conformed to him in the likeness of his death, I should also be in the likeness of his resurrection."

Ver. 12. But I follow after.—But I pursue the prize, for which I, as a racer in the Christian course, contend, in order that I may lay hold of, or secure, those blessings of which the prize consists, for which I have been laid hold of by Christ Jesus to enjoy, provided I make all reasonable efforts to obtain them.

Ver. 13. I count not myself to have apprehended, &c.—That is, to have secured or laid hold of the prize, not having yet completed the race; but this one thing I do;—not heeding the portion of my Christian course already passed, I fix my whole attention upon that which is before me.

Ver. 14. I press toward the mark, &c.—I follow along the line marked out for the runners towards the goal, in order to grasp the prize destined for those who have been invited to that eternal glory in the heavens to which God calls us by the Gospel of Christ. (It will be at once seen by the classical reader that the expressions in the verses from 11 to 18, inclusive, refer to the contests at the Olympic games.)

Ver. 15. As many as be perfect.—Thoroughly instructed in our Christian duty, be thus minded—of the same belief; determined to employ our best and most earnest efforts in running for the prize. And if in any thing, &c.—And if in any point ye differ from me, this need not abate your earnestness in the Christian race, for God will eventually make you sensible of your error, and reveal to you whatever may be necessary to render you wise unto salvation.

Ver. 16. Nevertheless, whereto we have already attained, &c.—"However, to whatever part of the course we have come, while running, let us go on in the same course of doing and suffering for the Gospel, and have in view the same prize of righteousness by faith."—Macknight.

Ver. 17. And mark them, &c.—And note and emulate such as walk after the same manner as I do; so that ye may thus have them and me for an example.

CHAP. IV. Ver. 1. And longed for.—Whom I long to see.

2 I beseech Euodias, and beseech Syntyche, [d] that they be of the same mind in the Lord.

3 And I entreat thee also, true yokefellow, help those women which [e] laboured with me in the Gospel, with Clement also, and with other my fellowlabourers, whose names are in [f] the book of life.

4 [g] Rejoice in the Lord alway: and again I say, Rejoice.

5 Let your moderation be known unto all men. [h] The Lord is at hand.

6 [i] Be careful for nothing; but in every thing by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God.

7 And [k] the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus.

8 Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are [*] honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, [l] whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things.

9 [m] Those things, which ye have both learned, and received, and heard, and seen in me, do: and [n] the God of peace shall be with you.

10 But I rejoiced in the Lord greatly, that now at the last [o] your care of me [†] hath flourished again; wherein ye were also careful, but ye lacked opportunity.

11 Not that I speak in respect of want: for I have learned, in whatsoever state I am, [p] therewith to be content.

12 [q] I know both how to be abased, and I know how to abound: every where and in all things I am instructed both to be full and to be hungry, both to abound and to suffer need.

13 I can do all things [r] through Christ which strengtheneth me.

14 Notwithstanding ye have well done, that [s] ye did communicate with my affliction.

15 Now, ye Philippians, know also, tha in the beginning of the Gospel, when I departed from Macedonia, [t] no church communicated with me as concerning giving and receiving, but ye only.

16 For even in Thessalonica ye sent once and again unto my necessity.

17 Not because I desire a gift: but I desire [u] fruit that may abound to your account.

18 But [‡] I have all, and abound: I am full, having received [x] of Epaphroditus the things which were sent from you, [y] an odour of a sweet smell, [z] a sacrifice acceptable, wellpleasing to God.

19 But my God [a] shall supply all your need [b] according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus.

20 [c] Now unto God and our Father be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

21 Salute every saint in Christ Jesus. The brethren [d] which are with me greet you.

22 All the saints salute you, [e] chiefly they that are of Cæsar's houshold.

23 [f] The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.

¶ It was written to the Philippians from Rome by Epaphroditus.

Ver. 3. True yoke fellow.—Who the Apostle here addresses is not agreed by commentators. Whose names are in the book of life.—Are registered in heaven.

Ver. 5. Your moderation. Your forbearance and patience under suffering. The Lord is at hand. Is near you.

Ver. 7. And the peace of God.—That peace poured by God into the hearts of the righteous. Keep your hearts. Defend your hearts.

Ver. 8. If there be any virtue.—In these things, and if there be any grace due to those who are influenced by them, direct your earnest attention to those things.

Ver. 10. Your care of me hath flourished again, &c.—Is revived, as ye have shown by your present brought to me by Epaphroditus, though ye were equally well disposed towards me before, but had not the opportunity which his coming has now afforded you, of showing it.

Ver. 11. Not that I speak, &c.—I say not this because of my poverty, which gives me no uneasiness, for I have learned, &c.

Ver. 12. I know how to be abased, &c.—St. Paul having had experience of the different states mentioned in this verse declares that, being well acquainted with each, he knew how to conduct himself in all, and to make each subservient to his spiritual advantage.

Ver. 17. But I desire, &c.—But I desire those fruits of liberality, not for my own sake, but because they will tend to your benefit at the great day when your actions shall be weighed, and you shall be judged according to your works.

The Epistle of PAUL the Apostle to the COLOSSIANS.

A D 64

CHAP. I.

1 After salutation he thanketh God for their faith, 7 confirmeth the doctrine of Epaphras, 9 prayeth further for their increase in grace, 13 describeth the true Christ, 21 encourageth them to receive Jesus Christ, and commendeth his own ministry.

PAUL, [a] an apostle of Jesus Christ by the will of God, and Timotheus our brother,

2 To the saints [b] and faithful brethren in Christ which are at Colosse: [c] Grace be unto you, and peace, from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

3 [d] We give thanks to God and the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, praying always for you,

4 [e] Since we heard of your faith in Christ Jesus, and of [f] the love which ye have to all the saints,

5 For the hope [g] which is laid up for you in heaven, whereof ye heard before in the word of the truth of the Gospel;

6 Which is come unto you, [h] as it is in all the world; and [i] bringeth forth fruit, as it doth also in you, since the day ye heard of it, and knew [k] the grace of God in truth;

7 As ye also learned of [l] Epaphras our dear fellowservant, who is for you [m] a faithful minister of Christ;

THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE COLOSSIANS.—Colosse was a city in Phrygia, not far from Laodicea and Hierapolis, in the Lydian or Proconsular Asia. To these St. Paul had not personally preached the Gospel, nor so much as been among them, (see chap. ii. 1,) but had sent Epaphras, his disciple, to them, and he had converted them to the faith. (chap. i. 7.) This Epaphras was, at the writing of this epistle from Rome, about the year of Christ 59, a fellow-prisoner of St. Paul there (Phil. 23). And by him (as an eye-witness and principal actor in it) St. Paul being advertised of the reception of Christianity among them, and the agreeableness of their actions to their faith, sends them this epistle of consolation, to strengthen and confirm them: and the tenour and subject (and often times the expressions) of it, are much the same as those in that to the Ephesians had been, and we may thence conclude it to have been written near upon the same time with that."—Dr. Hammond.

1 He sheweth where we should seek Christ. 5 He exhorteth to mortification, 10 to put off the old man, and to put on Christ: 12 exhorting to charity, humility, and other several duties.

IF ye then [a] be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where [b] Christ sitteth on the right hand of God.

2 Set your [a] affection on things above, not on things on the earth.

3 [c] For ye are dead, [d] and your life is hid with Christ in God.

4 [e] When Christ, who is [f] our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with him [g] in glory.

5 [h] Mortify therefore [i] your members which are upon the earth; [k] fornication, uncleanness, inordinate affection, [l] evil concupiscence, and covetousness, [m] which is idolatry:

6 [n] For which things' sake the wrath of God cometh on [o] the children of disobedience:

7 [p] In the which ye also walked some time, when ye lived in them.

8 [q] But now ye also put off all these; anger, wrath, malice, blasphemy, [r] filthy communication out of your mouth.

9 [s] Lie not one to another, [t] seeing that ye have put off the old man with his deeds;

10 And have put on the new man, which [u] is renewed in knowledge [x] after the image of him that [y] created him:

11 Where there is neither [z] Greek nor Jew, circumcision nor uncircumcision, Barbarian, Scythian, bond nor free: [a] but Christ is all, and in all.

12 [b] Put on therefore, [c] as the elect of God, holy and beloved, [d] bowels of mercies, kindness, humbleness of mind, meekness, longsuffering;

13 [e] Forbearing one another, and forgiving one another, if any man have a † quarrel against any: even as Christ forgave you, so also do ye.

14 [f] And above all these things [g] put on charity, which is the [h] bond of perfectness.

15 And let [i] the peace of God rule in your hearts, [k] to the which also ye are called [l] in one body; [m] and be ye thankful.

16 Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom; teaching and admonishing one another [n] in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing [o] with grace in your hearts to the Lord.

17 And [p] whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, [q] giving thanks to God and the Father by him.

18 [r] Wives, submit yourselves unto your own husbands, [s] as it is fit in the Lord.

19 [t] Husbands, love your wives, and be not [u] bitter against them.

20 [x] Children, obey your parents [y] in all things: for this is well pleasing unto the Lord.

21 [z] Fathers, provoke not your children to anger, lest they be discouraged.

Ver. 11. These only—That is of the circumcision.

Ver. 14. Luke, supposed generally to be the Evangelist.

THE FIRST EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE THESSALONIANS.—The first Epistle to the Thessalonians is allowed on all hands to be the first Epistle that St. Paul wrote to any of the churches of God; and from it two things may be particularly noted: First, that the Apostle was full of the spirit of love: Secondly, that the church at Thessalonica was pure, upright and faithful, as we scarcely find any reprehension in the whole epistle; the Thessalonian converts had Faith that worked, a Love that laboured, and a Hope which induced them to bear afflictions patiently and wait for the coming of the Lord Jesus Christ.

"This Epistle has been divided into different parts by commentators: but these are arbitrary, the Apostle having made no division of this kind; for, although he treats of several subjects, yet he has not so distinguished them from each other as to show that he had any formal division in his mind. In the division imposed on this epistle by commentators we do not find two of them alike: a full proof that the apostle has made no divisions, else some of these learned men would have certainly found them out. Technical distinctions of this nature are of little use to a proper understanding of the sense of this Epistle."—Dr. A. Clarke.

CHAP. I. Ver. 1. Which is in God the Father, &c.—"Which is in subjection to God, the Father of the universe, whereby it is distinguished from a society of idolatrous Gentiles; and in subjection to the Lord Jesus Christ, whereby it is distinguished from a synagogue of unbelieving Jews."—Macknight.

Ver. 4. Your election of God—To be his people, although Gentiles: and thus partake the blessings of the Gospel.

Ver. 5. In power.—The power of miracles, and in the Holy Ghost—in the gifts imparted by the Holy Ghost. And in much assurance.—And with a full persuasion of its truth. What manner of men, &c.—How we conducted ourselves among you; how earnestly we exerted ourselves in order to render you wise unto salvation.

Ver. 6. Having received the word in much affliction—In consequence of the hostility of those who opposed its reception among you, and perse-much affliction, [n] with joy of the Holy Ghost:

7 So that ye were ensamples to all that believe in Macedonia and Achaia.

8 For from you [o] sounded out the word of the Lord not only in Macedonia and Achaia, but also [p] in every place your faith to God-ward is spread abroad; so that we need not to speak any thing.

9 For they themselves shew of us [q] what manner of entering in we had unto you, [r] and how ye turned to God from idols to serve the living and true God;

10 And [s] to wait for his Son [t] from heaven, [u] whom he raised from the dead, even Jesus, which delivered us [x] from the wrath to come.

CHAP. II.

1 In what manner the Gospel was brought and preached to the Thessalonians, and in what part also they received it. 18 A reason is rendered both why Saint Paul was so long absent from them, and also why he was so desirous to see them.

FOR [a] yourselves, brethren, know our entrance in unto you, that it was not in vain:

2 But even after that we had suffered before, and were shamefully entreated, as ye know, at [b] Philippi, [c] we were bold in our God [d] to speak unto you the Gospel of God [e] with much contention.

3 [f] For our exhortation was not of deceit, nor of uncleanness, nor in guile:

4 But as [g] we were allowed of God [h] to be put in trust with the Gospel, even so we speak; [i] not as pleasing men, but God, [k] which trieth our hearts.

5 For [l] neither at any time used we flattering words, as ye know, nor a cloke of covetousness; [m] God is witness:

6 [n] Nor of men sought we glory, neither of you, nor yet of others, when [o] we might have [e] been [p] burdensome, [q] as the Apostles of Christ.

7 But [r] we were gentle among you, even as a nurse cherisheth her children:

8 So being affectionately desirous of you, we were willing [s] to have imparted unto you, not the Gospel of God only, but also [t] our own souls, because ye were dear unto us.

9 For ye remember, brethren, our labour and travail: for [u] labouring night and day [x] because we would not be chargeable unto any of you, we preached unto you the Gospel of God.

10 [y] Ye are witnesses, and God also, [z] how holily and justly and unblameably we behaved ourselves among you that believe:

11 As ye know how we exhorted and comforted and charged every one of you, as a father doth his children,

12 [a] That ye would walk worthy of God, [b] who hath called you unto his kingdom and glory.

13 For this cause also thank we God [c] without ceasing, because, when ye received the word of God which ye heard of us, ye received it [d] not as the word of men, but as it is in truth, the word of God, which effectually worketh also in you that believe.

14 For ye, brethren, became followers [e] of the churches of God which in Judæa are in Christ Jesus: for [f] ye also have suffered like things of your own countrymen, [g] even as they have of the Jews:

15 [h] Who both killed the Lord Jesus, and [i] their own prophets, and have † persecuted us; and they please not God, [k] and are contrary to all men:

16 [l] Forbidding us to speak to the Gentiles that they might be saved, [m] to fill up their sins alway: [n] for the wrath is come upon them to the uttermost.

17 But we, brethren, being taken from you for a short time [o] in presence, not in heart, endeavoured the more abundantly [p] to see your face with great desire.

18 Wherefore we would have come unto you, even I Paul, once and again; but [q] Satan hindered us.

19 For [r] what is our hope, or joy, or [s] crown of ‡ rejoicing? Are not even ye in the presence of our Lord Jesus Christ [t] at his coming?

20 For ye are our glory and joy.

CHAP. III.

1 Saint Paul testifieth his great love to the Thessalonians, partly by sending Timothy unto them to strengthen and comfort them; partly by rejoicing in their well doing: 10 and partly by praying for them, and desiring a safe coming unto them.

WHEREFORE [a] when we could no longer forbear, [b] we thought it good to be left at Athens alone;

2 And sent [c] Timotheus, our brother, and minister of God, and our fellowlabourer in the Gospel of Christ, to establish you, and to comfort you concerning your faith:

3 [d] That no man should be moved by these afflictions: for yourselves know that [e] we are appointed thereunto.

4 [f] For verily, when we were with you, we told you before that we should suffer tribulation; even as it came to pass, and ye know.

cuted you greatly because you did receive it nevertheless. With joy of the Holy Ghost.—With that joy, accompanied by spiritual gifts, which the Holy Ghost imparts to them who embrace it with right minds and pure hearts.

Ver. 9. For they themselves, &c.—Who dwell among you, and have spread abroad in every place your faith to God ward,—have likewise shown what a kind reception we had among you, being entertained with the greatest hospitality and profoundest respect as the ministers of Christ, and how that, in consequence of our preaching, ye turned, &c.

Ver. 11. Ver. 1. Our entrance in unto you.—That our favourable reception was not in vain.

Ver. 2. But even after that we had suffered before—our entrance among you. With much contention—against the unconverted Jews, who opposed us vehemently.

Ver. 3. For our exhortation, &c.—Our preaching was not intended to impose upon you, or to corrupt your morals by encouraging impure desires and unholy affections, neither did we practise any guile or fraud to effect your conversion—a baseness so frequently resorted to by the heathen priests.

Ver. 5. Nor a cloak of covetousness.—Neither did we affect piety and a rigid formality of behaviour as a cloak to cover avaricious designs upon you.

Ver. 6. Have been burdensome.—Have charged you with our maintenance.

Ver. 8. But also our own souls.—But also, if needful, to have given up our lives for you.

Ver. 12. Called you unto his kingdom and glory.—To be subjects of his kingdom, established by Christ here, and inheritors of his everlasting glory hereafter, if ye continue "faithful unto the end."

Ver. 15. And are contrary to all men;—and are opposed to the rest of mankind.

Ver. 16. To fill up their sins alway.—Thus filling the measure of their iniquities as predicted by our blessed Lord. Matt. xxiii. 32—35.

Ver. 18. But Satan hindered us.—By exciting the factious Jews to oppose our again visiting Thessalonica; forcing us to retire from Berea, whither we had been obliged to flee from their fury.

Ver. 19. For what is our hope, &c.—"For what is the source of my hope and my joy, or what will be the cause of that crown, of which I shall boast in heaven? The conversion of mankind, surely. And will ye not also be my crown, when I stand before our Lord Jesus Christ at his coming?"—Macknight.

CHAP. III. Ver. 1. When we could no longer forbear, &c.—Wherefore when we could no longer endure our suspense concerning you, knowing the persecutions to which you were exposed from the rage of the unconverted Jews, we thought it better to remain at Athens, and send unto you Timothy, our brother, &c.

Ver. 3 By these afflictions.—To which you were subject on account of embracing the Gospel, no less than ourselves.

A. D. 54.

5 For this cause, [g] when I could no longer forbear, I sent to know your faith, [h] lest by some means the tempter have tempted you, and [i] our labour be in vain.

6 [k] But now when Timotheus came from you unto us, and brought us good tidings of your faith and charity, and that ye have good remembrance of us always, desiring greatly to see us, [l] as we also to see you:

7 Therefore, brethren, [m] we were comforted over you in all our affliction and distress by your faith:

8 For now we live, if ye [n] stand fast in the Lord.

9 [o] For what thanks can we render to God again for you, for all the joy wherewith we joy for your sakes before our God;

10 [p] Night and day [q] praying exceedingly that [r] we might see your face, [s] and might perfect that which is lacking in your faith?

11 Now God himself and our Father, and our Lord Jesus Christ, [* t] direct our way unto you.

12 And the Lord [u] make you to increase and abound in love [x] one toward another, and toward all men, even as we do toward you:

13 To the end he may [y] stablish your hearts unblameable in holiness before God, even our Father, at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ [z] with all his saints.

CHAP. IV.

1 He exhorteth them to go on forward in all manner of godliness, 6 to live holily and justly, 9 to love one another, 11 and quietly to follow their own business: 13 and lest of all to sorrow moderately for the dead. 17 And unto this last exhortation is annexed a brief description of the resurrection, and second coming of Christ to judgment.

FURTHERMORE then we [* a] beseech you, brethren, and [† b] exhort you by the Lord Jesus, [a] that as ye have received of us [b] how ye ought to walk [c] and to please God, so ye would abound more and more.

2 For ye know what commandments we gave you by the Lord Jesus.

3 For this is [d] the will of God, even [e] your sanctification, [f] that ye should abstain from fornication:

4 [g] That every one of you should know how to possess his vessel in sanctification and honour;

5 [h] Not in the lust of concupiscence, [i] even as the Gentiles [k] which know not God:

6 [l] That no man go beyond and ‡ defraud his brother § in any matter: because that the Lord [m] is the avenger of all such, as we also have forwarned you and testified.

7 For God hath not called us unto uncleanness, [n] but unto holiness.

8 [o] He therefore that ‖ despiseth, despiseth not man, but God, [p] who hath also given unto us his holy Spirit.

9 But as touching brotherly love [q] ye need not that I write unto you: for [r] ye yourselves are taught of God [s] to love one another.

10 [t] And indeed ye do it toward all the brethren which are in all Macedonia: but we beseech you, brethren, [u] that ye increase more and more;

11 And that ye study to be quiet, and [x] to do your own business, and [y] to work with your own hands, as we commanded you;

12 [z] That ye may walk honestly toward them that are without, and that ye may have lack [*] of nothing.

13 But I would not have you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning them which are asleep, that ye sorrow not, [a] even as others [b] which have no hope.

14 For [c] if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so [d] them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him.

15 For this we say unto you [e] by the word of the Lord, that [f] we which are alive and remain unto the coming of the Lord shall not prevent them which are asleep.

16 For [g] the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with [h] the trump of God: [i] and the dead in Christ shall rise first:

17 [k] Then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them [l] in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air: and so [m] shall we ever be with the Lord.

18 [n] Wherefore † comfort one another with these words.

CHAP. V.

1 He proceedeth in the former description of Christ's coming to judgment, 16 and giveth divers precepts, 23 and so concludeth the epistle.

BUT of [a] the times and the seasons, brethren, [b] ye have no need that I write unto you.

2 For yourselves know perfectly that [c] the day of the Lord so cometh as a thief in the night.

3 For when they shall say, Peace and safety; then [d] sudden destruction cometh upon them, [e] as travail upon a woman with child; and they shall not escape.

4 [f] But ye, brethren, are not in darkness, that that day should overtake you as a thief.

5 Ye are all [g] the children of light, and the children of the day; we are not of the night, nor of darkness.

6 [h] Therefore let us not sleep, as do others; but [i] let us watch and be sober.

Ver. 8. For now we live, &c.—"Your constancy to Christianity is the great comfort of my life."—Pyle.

Ver. 13. With all his saints.—With all his holy angels at the day of judgment.

CHAP. IV. Ver. 1. So ye would abound more and more.—In that holiness and righteousness of life commanded in the Gospel.

Ver. 4. His vessel in sanctification and honour.—That every one of you should take care to keep his body in purity, as devoted to God's service, and undepraved by dishonorable practices.

Ver. 5. Not in the lust, &c.—Not dealing it by indulging in those gross animal pleasures to which the idolatrous heathens are so much addicted.

Ver. 6. Go beyond.—Overreach. In any matter.—In the matter of which I have been speaking, or in any other of equal concernment.

Ver. 8. Despiseth, &c. Rejecteth these commands; rejecteth the commands not of man, but of God.

Ver. 10. That ye increase more and more.—In this Christian love.

Ver. 11. And to do your own business, &c.—"And to mind your own affairs."—Macknight.

Ver. 12. That ye walk honestly, &c.—That ye conduct yourselves with honesty towards the heathen.—And that ye may may have lack of nothing.—Your wants being supplied by your active industry and mutual co-operation in works of charity.

Ver. 13. Them which are asleep.—Which are dead.

Ver. 14. Will God bring with him—Into heaven, at the general resurrection.

Ver. 15. Shall not prevent them which are asleep, &c.—"Shall not anticipate those who have died in subjection to Jesus, by receiving their glorified bodies before them."—Macknight.

Ver. 16. The dead in Christ shall rise first.—That is, before the bodies of those then alive shall be clothed with immortality.

Ver. 18. Comfort one another.—When any of your friends have been removed by death, with the consolations which these inspired words are so fully calculated to impart.

CHAP. V. Ver. 1. But of the times and the seasons.—"The time of the duration of the world, and the particular season at which Christ will come to judgment."—Macknight

Ver. 3. For when they shall say.—When people shall say among themselves, peace and safety everywhere prevails.

Ver. 5. Ye are all the children of light, &c.—Ye are children of God, children of that Gospel, the light of which is as clear as the day; we are not children of the night, performing the vilest actions under the cover of darkness as the heathens do.

Ver. 6. Let us not sleep.—"Let us not stupify ourselves with sensuality."—Macknight.

7 For [k] they that sleep sleep in the night; and they that be drunken [l] are drunken in the night.

8 But let us, who are of the day, be sober, [m] putting on the breastplate of faith and love; and for an helmet, the hope of salvation.

9 For [n] God hath not appointed us to wrath, [o] but to obtain salvation by our Lord Jesus Christ,

10 [p] Who died for us, that, whether we wake or sleep, we should live together with him.

11 [q] Wherefore [*] comfort yourselves together, and edify one another, even as also ye do.

12 And we beseech you, brethren, [r] to know them which labour among you, and are over you in the Lord, and admonish you;

13 And to esteem them very highly in love for their work's sake. [s] And be at peace among yourselves.

14 Now we † exhort you, brethren, [t] warn them that are ‡ unruly, [u] comfort the feeble-minded, [x] support the weak, [y] be patient toward all men.

15 [z] See that none render evil for evil unto any man; but ever [a] follow that which is good, both among yourselves, and to all men.

16 [b] Rejoice evermore.

17 [c] Pray without ceasing.

18 [d] In every thing give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you.

19 [e] Quench not the Spirit.

20 [f] Despise not prophesyings.

21 [g] Prove all things; [h] hold fast that which is good.

22 [i] Abstain from all appearance of evil.

23 And [k] the very God of peace [l] sanctify you wholly; and I pray God your whole spirit and soul and body [m] be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ.

24 [n] Faithful is he that calleth you, who also will do it.

25 Brethren, [o] pray for us.

26 [p] Greet all the brethren with an holy kiss.

27 I § charge you by the Lord that [q] this epistle be read unto all the holy brethren.

28 [r] The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you. Amen.

The Second Epistle of PAUL the Apostle to the THESSALONIANS.

A D. 54.

CHAP. I.

1 Saint Paul certifieth them of the good opinion which he had of their faith, love, and patience: 11 and therewithal useth divers reasons for the comforting of them in persecution, wherein the chiefest is taken from the righteous judgment of God.

PAUL, [a] and Silvanus, and Timotheus, unto the church of the Thessalonians [b] in God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ:

2 [c] Grace unto you, and peace, from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

3 [d] We are bound to thank God always for you, brethren, as it is meet, because that your faith groweth exceedingly, and the charity of every one of you all toward each other aboundeth;

4 So that [e] we ourselves glory in you in the churches of God [f] for your patience and faith [g] in all your persecutions and tribulations that ye endure:

5 Which is [h] a manifest token of the righteous judgment of God, that ye may be counted worthy of the kingdom of God [i] for which ye also suffer:

6 [k] Seeing it is a righteous thing with God to recompense tribulation to them that trouble you;

7 And to you who are troubled [l] rest with us, when [m] the Lord Jesus shall be revealed from heaven with [*] his mighty angels,

8 [n] In flaming fire † taking vengeance on them [o] that know not God, and [p] that obey not the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ:

9 [q] Who shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, and [r] from the glory of his power;

10 [s] When he shall come to be glorified in his saints, [t] and to be admired in all them that believe (because our testimony among you was believed) in that day.

11 Wherefore also we pray always for you, that our God would ‡ [u] count you worthy of this calling, and fulfil all the good pleasure of his goodness, and [x] the work of faith with power:

12 [y] That the name of our Lord Jesus Christ may be glorified in you, and ye in him, according to the grace of our God and the Lord Jesus Christ.

THE SECOND EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE THESSALONIANS.—"It is generally believed that the messenger who carried the former Epistle into Macedonia, upon his return to Corinth, informed St. Paul that the Thessalonians had inferred, from some expressions in it (1 Thess. iv. 15–17; v. 6.) that the coming of Christ and the final judgment were near at hand, and would happen in the time of many who were then alive. The principal design of this second Epistle to the Thessalonians was to correct that error, and prevent the mischief which it would naturally occasion. It was written from Corinth, and probably at the end of the year 52."—Bp. Tomline.

CHAP. I. Ver. 4. Glory in you in the churches, &c.—Boast of you in all the churches, &c.

Ver. 5. Which is a manifest token, &c.—"Your sufferings being a manifest evidence of the righteous judgment of God that is to come, these persecutions and tribulations befalling you now, that, by reason of your patience and faithfulness, ye may be then counted worthy of the kingdom of God which ye not only believe and hope for, but for which ye also suffer."—Dr. Wells.

Ver. 10. When he shall come, &c.—"In that day when Christ shall come from heaven the second time, not to be despised and crucified, but to be glorified through the ministry of his holy angels, who will put his sentences in execution, and to be exceedingly admired by all the believers, on account of his justice and power; and among the rest by you Thessalonians, because our testimony concerning Jesus was believed by you."—Mochnight.

A.D. 54

2 [c] That ye be not soon shaken in mind, or be troubled, neither by spirit, nor by word, nor by letter as from us, as that the day of Christ is at hand.

3 [d] Let no man deceive you by any means: for that day shall not come, [e] except there come a falling away first, and [f] that man of sin be revealed, [g] the son of perdition;

4 Who opposeth and [h] exalteth himself [i] above all that is called God, or that is worshipped; so that he as God sitteth in the temple of God, shewing himself that he is God.

5 Remember ye not, that, when I was yet with you, I told you these things?

6 And now ye know what [k] withholdeth that he might be revealed in his time.

7 For [k] the mystery of iniquity doth already work: only he who now letteth will let, until he be taken out of the way.

8 And then shall that Wicked be revealed, [l] whom the Lord shall consume [m] with the spirit of his mouth, and shall destroy [n] with the brightness of his coming:

9 Even him, whose coming is [o] after the working of Satan with all power and [p] signs and lying wonders,

10 And with all deceivableness of unrighteousness in [q] them that perish; because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved.

11 And [r] for this cause God shall send them strong delusion, [s] that they should believe a lie:

12 That they all might be damned who believed not the truth, but [t] had pleasure in unrighteousness.

13 But [u] we are bound to give thanks alway to God for you, brethren beloved of the Lord, because God [x] hath [y] from the beginning chosen you to salvation [z] through sanctification of the Spirit and belief of the truth:

14 Whereunto he called you by our Gospel, to [a] the obtaining of the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ.

15 Therefore, brethren, [b] stand fast, and hold [c] the traditions which ye have been taught, whether by word, or our epistle.

16 [d] Now our Lord Jesus Christ himself, and God, even our Father, [e] which hath loved us, and hath given us everlasting consolation and [f] good hope through grace, 17 Comfort your hearts, [g] and stablish you in every good word and work.

CHAP. III.

1 He craveth their prayers for himself, 3 testifieth what confidence he hath in them, 5 maketh request to God in their behalf, 6 giveth them divers precepts, especially to shun idleness, and ill company, 16 and last of all concludeth with prayer and salutation.

FINALLY, brethren, [a] pray for us, that the word of the Lord [*] may have free course, and be glorified, even as it is with you:

2 And [b] that we may be delivered from † unreasonable and wicked men: [c] for all men have not faith.

3 But [d] the Lord is faithful, who shall stablish you, and [e] keep you from evil.

4 And [f] we have confidence in the Lord touching you, that ye both do and will do the things which we command you.

5 And [g] the Lord direct your hearts into the love of God, and † into the patient waiting for Christ.

6 Now we command you, brethren, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, [h] that ye withdraw yourselves [i] from every brother that walketh [k] disorderly, and not after [l] the tradition which he received of us.

7 For yourselves know [m] how ye ought to follow us: for [n] we behaved not ourselves disorderly among you;

8 Neither did we eat any man's bread for nought; but [o] wrought with labour and travail night and day, that we might not be chargeable to any of you:

9 [p] Not because we have not power, but to make [q] ourselves an ensample unto you to follow us.

10 For even when we were with you, this we commanded you, [r] that if any would not work, neither should he eat.

11 For we hear that there are some [s] which walk among you disorderly, [t] working not at all, but are busybodies.

12 [u] Now them that are such we command and exhort by our Lord Jesus Christ, [x] that with quietness they work, and eat their own bread.

13 But ye, brethren, [y] § be not weary in well doing.

14 And if any man obey not our word ‖ by this epistle, note that man, and [z] have no company with him, that he may be ashamed.

15 [a] Yet count him not as an enemy, [b] but admonish him as a brother.

16 Now [c] the Lord of peace himself give you peace always by all means. The Lord be with you all.

17 [d] The salutation of Paul with mine own hand, which is the token in every epistle: so I write.

18 [e] The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.

¶ The second epistle to the Thessalonians was written from Athens.

Ver. 2. As that the day of Christ.—Namely, his second Advent.

Ver. 3 & 4. Except there come a falling away first, &c.—"Unless there come the Apostacy first, that great defection from the true faith and worship of which I formerly spake to you; (see ver. 5) and there be revealed in the Church that man of sin, that wicked tyranny, which because it will destroy the saints, and is itself devoted to destruction, I call that son of perdition. Ver. 4. Who will first oppose and after that exalt himself above every one in heaven and on earth, who is called a God or an object of worship, civil or religious; so that he in the church of God, as a God sitteth; receiving from his deluded followers the honour which belongs to God, with great pomp shewing that he is a God, by exercising the prerogatives of God."—Macknight.

Ver. 6—11. And now ye know, &c.—"And ye know, for I told it to you likewise, what now restraineth the man of sin from exercising his imperious tyranny, in order that there may be a full display of his wickedness in the season allotted to him (7) For the hidden scheme of corrupt doctrine, on which that wicked tyranny is founded, and the pride, ambition, and sensuality which are nourished thereby, already inwardly worketh among the false teachers, only till the heathen magistrates, who now restrain them, be taken out of the way. (8) And then shall be revealed that lawless one, who will openly exalt himself above every one who is called a God. Him the Lord will gradually but utterly consume by the breath of his mouth (his speech in the Scriptures) and will render his vile arts ineffectual, for deluding mankind any longer by evident interpositions of his power. (9)

Of that spiritual tyranny, the establishment will be after the manner in which the devil hath strongly wrought to establish his empire; namely, by the exertion of every kind of power, real or fictitious, in the production of signs and miracles, which are false; or, if true, are wrought to establish false doctrines. (10) And by every deceit which wickedness can suggest, for the purpose of persuasion, among those who perish, because they do not cherish the love of true doctrine, by which they might be saved; but delight in error, that they may be at liberty to gratify their vicious inclinations."—Macknight. (For the better understanding of this difficult and obscure passage, I refer the curious reader to Bishop Newton, who has examined it with his usual skill and judgment.)

Ver. 15. Hold the traditions, &c.—Maintain those doctrines and precepts, &c.

Ver. 16. Through grace.—By his Almighty and merciful favour.

Chap. iii. Ver. 1. May have free course.—May meet with no successful opposition, but extend itself every where, and be glorified by the belief and reverence of all mankind, as it is by yours.

Ver. 5. And into the patient waiting for Christ.—The patience of Christ; (see margin) that is, such patience under your trials and afflictions as Christ endured when in the flesh, under sin.

Ver. 6. Not after the tradition.—(See on chap. ii. 15.)

Ver. 11. But are busybodies.—Impertinent meddlers who make themselves busy with the affairs of others, which do not concern them, without attending to their own.

The First Epistle of PAUL the Apostle to TIMOTHY.

A. D. 65.

CHAP. I.

1 Timothy is put in mind of the charge which was given unto him by Paul at his going to Macedonia. 5 Of the right use and end of the law. 11 Of Saint Paul's calling to be an apostle, 20 and of Hymenæus and Alexander.

[a] PAUL, an apostle of Jesus Christ [a] by the commandment [b] of God our Saviour, and Lord Jesus Christ, [c] which is our hope;

2 Unto [d] Timothy, [e] my own son in the faith: [f] Grace, mercy, and peace, from God our Father and Jesus Christ our Lord.

3 As I besought thee to abide still at Ephesus, [g] when I went into Macedonia, that thou mightest charge some [h] that they teach no other doctrine,

4 [i] Neither give heed to fables and endless genealogies, [k] which minister questions, rather than godly edifying which is in faith: so do.

5 Now [l] the end of the commandment is charity [m] out of a pure heart, and of a good conscience, and of faith unfeigned:

6 From which some [*] having swerved have turned aside unto [n] vain jangling;

7 Desiring to be teachers of the law; [o] understanding neither what they say, nor whereof they affirm.

8 But we know that [p] the law is good, if a man use it lawfully;

9 [q] Knowing this, that the law is not made for a righteous man, but for the lawless and disobedient, for the ungodly and for sinners, for unholy and profane, for murderers of fathers and murderers of mothers, for manslayers,

10 For whoremongers, for them that defile themselves with mankind, for menstealers, for liars, for perjured persons, and if there be any other thing that is contrary [r] to sound doctrine;

11 According to the glorious Gospel of [s] the blessed God, [t] which was committed to my trust.

12 And I thank Christ Jesus our Lord, [u] who hath enabled me, [x] for that he counted me faithful [y] putting me into the ministry;

13 [z] Who was before [a] a blasphemer, and a persecutor, and injurious: but I obtained mercy, because [a] I did it ignorantly in unbelief.

14 [b] And the grace of our Lord was exceeding abundant [c] with faith [d] and love which is in Christ Jesus.

15 [e] This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptation, that [f] Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners; of whom I am chief.

16 Howbeit for this cause [g] I obtained mercy, that in me first Jesus Christ might shew forth all long suffering, [h] for a pattern to them which should hereafter believe on him to life everlasting.

17 Now unto [i] the King eternal, [k] immortal, [l] invisible, [m] the only wise God, [n] be honour and glory for ever and ever. Amen.

18 This charge [o] I commit unto thee, son Timothy, [p] according to the prophecies which went before on thee, that thou by them mightest [q] war a good warfare;

19 [r] Holding faith, and a good conscience; which some having put away concerning faith [s] have made shipwreck:

20 Of whom is [t] Hymenæus and [u] Alexander; whom I have [x] delivered unto Satan, that they may learn not to [y] blaspheme.

CHAP. II.

1 That it is meet to pray and give thanks for all men, and the reason why. 9 How women should be attired. 12 They are not permitted to teach. 15 They shall be saved, notwithstanding the testimonies of God's wrath, in childbirth, if they continue in faith.

[*] I EXHORT therefore, that, first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men;

2 [a] For kings, and [b] for all that are in † authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and honesty.

3 For this is [c] good and acceptable in the sight [d] of God our Saviour;

4 [e] Who will have all men to be saved, [f] and to come unto the knowledge of the truth.

5 [g] For there is one God, and [h] one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus;

6 [i] Who gave himself a ransom for all, [k] ‡ to be testified [i] in due time.

7 [m] Whereunto I am ordained a preacher, and an apostle, ([n] I speak the truth in Christ,

THE FIRST EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO TIMOTHY.—"Timothy is the name of the person to whom St. Paul writes this and the following epistle; a name given him by his parents to testify their pious desire that this their son should fear and honour God, according to the signification of his name.

"His grandmother Lois, and his mother Eunice, bred him up in the knowledge of the Scriptures from a child; he became first the disciple and then the companion of St. Paul; was ordained by him, was very assisting to him and inexpressibly dear to that great Apostle, who knew how to value true worth in what age soever he found it; in so much that St. Paul seldom mentions his name but with a mark of honour and esteem, calling him his son, his dearly beloved son, his faithful fellow-labourer, &c. He was a person of eminent gifts and of a gracious disposition, but of a sick and weakly constitution; and being entered very young into the work of the ministry, St. Paul thought fit, in his absence from him, to write two Epistles to him, and to all succeeding ministers of the Gospel after him, directing how to demean themselves in their ministerial functions.

"In these two Epistles, and that to Titus, we have a collection of canons truly Apostolical, directing all bishops and pastors of the church how to govern themselves, and how to guide their people."—Burkitt.

CHAP. I. Ver. 2. My own son in the faith.—Whom I converted to the faith of the Gospel.

Ver. 3. No other doctrine—Than what is found in the Gospel.

Ver. 4. To fables—To those Jewish traditions which have no foundation in truth. Which minister questions.—Which occasion doubts and provoke disputes.

Ver. 6. Unto vain jangling.—Noisy declamations and empty harangues.

Ver. 7. Nor whereof they affirm.—Nor properly understanding that law which they pretend to expound.

Ver. 8. That the law is good, &c.—That the law of Moses is admirable, and was appointed for the best purposes, if it be made use of agreeably to those purposes, and not as paramount, but subservient, to the Gospel.

Ver. 9. Is not made for a righteous man, but for the lawless, &c.—The law is not established for the justification of a righteous man, but for condemning and punishing the lawless, &c.

Ver. 11. According to the glorious gospel, &c.—The condemnation of these heinous offences is plainly declared in the gospel, &c.

Ver. 12. Who hath enabled me—to perform the work of his minister.

Ver. 18. This charge.—To the Judaizing teachers. According to the prophecies.—In consequence of the revelation made to me in the favor by inspired men who have been long acquainted with thee. That thou by them, &c.—That thou being laudably incited by these revelations, mightest fight successfully in the sacred cause of Christ against the enemies of his church.

Ver. 19. Have made shipwreck.—Have wrecked or destroyed their own souls.

Ver. 20. Whom I have delivered unto Satan.—"For the destruction of the flesh, that the spirit might be saved in the day of the Lord Jesus."—Dr. A. Clarke.

CHAP. II. Ver. 1. First of all.—As a paramount duty.

Ver. 5. For there is one God.—For we Christians know that there is only one God both of Jews and Gentiles.

Ver. 6 To be testified in due time.—Which was testified at the appointed time in the sight of angels and of men; which testimony is daily extending itself among the heathens and Jewish unbelievers.

Ver. 7. I speak the truth in Christ.—"I call Christ to witness that I speak the truth."—Macknight and lie not;) [o] a teacher of the Gentiles in faith and verity.

8 I will therefore that men pray [p] every where, [q] lifting up holy hands, without wrath and doubting.

9 In like manner also, that [r] women adorn themselves in modest apparel, with shamefacedness and sobriety; not with § broidered hair, or gold, or pearls, or costly array;

10 [s] But (which becometh women professing godliness) with good works.

11 Let the woman learn in silence with all subjection.

12 But [t] I suffer not a woman to teach, [u] nor to usurp authority over the man, but to be in silence.

13 For [x] Adam was first formed, then Eve.

14 And [y] Adam was not deceived, but the woman being deceived was in the transgression.

15 Notwithstanding she shall be saved in childbearing, if they continue in faith and charity and holiness with sobriety.

CHAP. III.

2 How bishops, and deacons, and their wives should be qualified, 14 and to what end Saint Paul wrote to Timothy of these things. 15 Of the church, and the blessed truth therein taught and professed

THIS [a] is a true saying, If a man desire the office of a [b] Bishop, he desireth a good [c] work.

2 [d] A Bishop then must be blameless, [e] the husband of one wife, vigilant, sober, [*] of good behaviour, given to hospitality, [f] apt to teach;

3 [g] † Not given to wine, [h] no striker, [i] not greedy of filthy lucre; but [k] patient, not a brawler, not covetous;

4 One that ruleth well his own house, [l] having his children in subjection with all gravity;

5 (For if a man know not how to rule his own house, how shall he take care of the Church of God?)

6 Not ‡ a novice, lest being lifted up with pride [m] he fall into the condemnation of the devil.

7 Moreover he must have a good report [n] of them which are without; lest he fall into reproach [o] and the snare of the devil.

8 Likewise must [p] the Deacons be grave, not doubletongued, [q] not given to much wine, not greedy of filthy lucre;

9 [r] Holding the mystery of the faith in a pure conscience.

10 And let these also first be proved; then let them use the office of a deacon, being found blameless.

11 [s] Even so must their wives be grave, not slanderers, sober, faithful in all things.

12 Let the Deacons be the husbands of one wife, ruling their children and their own houses well.

13 For [t] they that have § used the office of a Deacon well purchase to themselves a good degree, and great boldness in the faith which is in Christ Jesus.

14 These things write I unto thee, hoping to come unto thee shortly:

15 But if I tarry long, that thou mayest know how thou oughtest to behave thyself [u] in the house of God, which is the Church of the living God, the pillar and ‖ ground of the truth.

16 And without controversy great is the mystery of godliness: [x] God was [*] manifest in the flesh, [y] justified in the Spirit, [z] seen of angels, [a] preached unto the Gentiles, [b] believed on in the world, [c] received up into glory.

CHAP. IV.

1 He foretelleth that in the latter times there shall be a departure from the faith. 6 And to the end that Timothy might not fail in doing his duty, he furnisheth him with divers precepts belonging thereto.

NOW the Spirit [a] speaketh expressly, that [b] in the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed [c] to seducing spirits, [d] and doctrines of devils;

2 [e] Speaking lies in hypocrisy; [f] having their conscience seared with a hot iron;

3 [g] Forbidding to marry, [h] and commanding to abstain from meats, which God hath created [i] to be received [k] with thanksgiving of them which believe and know the truth.

4 For [l] every creature of God is good, and nothing to be refused, if it be received with thanksgiving:

5 For it is sanctified by the word of God and prayer.

6 If thou put the brethren in remembrance of these things, thou shalt be a good minister of Jesus Christ, [m] nourished up in the words of faith and of good doctrine, whereunto thou hast attained.

7 But [n] refuse profane and old wives' fables, and [o] exercise thyself rather unto godliness.

8 [p] For [p] bodily exercise profiteth [*] little: [q] but godliness is profitable unto all things, [r] having promise of the life that now is, and of that which is to come.

9 [s] This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptation.

10 For therefore [t] we both labour and suffer reproach, because we [u] trust in the

Ver. 8. That men pray everywhere.—In all places appointed for public worship.

Ver. 12. But I suffer not a woman to teach—In public.

Ver. 14. Was in the transgression.—Fell into transgression and was thus the cause of it in the whole human race. The woman being first tempted showed that she was inferior to the man, and consequently ought to be subject to him. This seems to be the natural inference suggested by the context.

Ver. 15. She shall be saved in childbearing.—She, equally with Adam, together with all their posterity, shall be saved by means of childbearing, for thus the Saviour will be eventually ushered into the world, through whom mankind shall be redeemed from the penalty of transgression.

CHAP. IV. Ver. 1. Of them which are without.—The unconverted Jews and Gentiles who are without the church. Lest he fall into reproach, &c.—"That he may not be liable to reproach for the sins he committed before his conversion, and fall into the snare of the Devil, who, by these reproaches, may tempt him to renounce the Gospel."—Macknight.

Ver. 9. The mystery of the faith.—The sublime doctrines and revelations delivered in the Gospel.

Ver. 10. He proved—by examination.

Ver. 13. A good degree.—A higher office in the Church.

Ver. 16. The mystery of godliness. That is, of the Gospel dispensation, the importance of which to the salvation of man we now preach; and in order that this salvation might be secured to man, God was manifest in the flesh, justified in (and by) the Spirit, who bore testimony of him both at his baptism and at his configuration, who attended him through life, eminently signalized him in his death, and descended on his disciples on the day of Pentecost, for the confirmation and extension of the Gospel.

CHAP. iv. Ver. 1. Now the Spirit speaketh expressly.—Now the Spirit has expressly communicated to me. Giving heed to seducing spirits, to false prophets, and doctrines of devils,—"doctrines concerning the power of angels and departed saints, and the worship due to them, whereby the worship due to Christ, as Governor and Mediator, will be wholly neglected."—Macknight. Archbishop Tillotson, following the interpretation of Mede, understands this latter clause of the first verse as signifying "worship paid to the spirits of the dead."

Ver. 4. For every creature, &c.—For every animal, being created by God, that is fit for food, is good, and may be lawfully eaten.

Ver. 5. For it is sanctified, &c.—"For under the Gospel all meats are made lawful to us, by the command of God, allowing us to eat of every kind in moderation; also by prayer to God, that he would bless us in the use of it."—Macknight.

Ver. 8. For bodily exercise, &c.—For mortification or abstinence from meats and the lawful pleasures of marriage, or, indeed mere bodily discipline of any kind, however constant and severe, &c.

Ver. 10. For therefore.—On this account.

living God, [x] who is the saviour of all men, specially of those that believe.

11 [y] These things command and teach.

12 [z] Let no man despise thy youth; but [a] be thou an example of the believers, in word, in conversation, in charity, in spirit, in faith, in purity.

13 Till I come, give attendance to reading, to exhortation, to doctrine.

14 [b] Neglect not the gift that is in thee, which was given thee [c] by prophecy, [d] with the laying on of the hands of the presbytery.

15 Meditate upon these things; give thyself wholly to them; that thy profiting may appear † to all.

16 [e] Take heed unto thyself, and unto the doctrine; continue in them: for in doing this thou shalt both [f] save thyself, and [g] them that hear thee.

CHAP. V.

1 Rules to be observed in reproving. 3 Of widows. 17 Of elders. 23 A precept for Timothy's health. 24 Some men's sins go before unto judgment, and some men's do follow after.

REBUKE [a] not an elder, but intreat him as a father; and the younger men as brethren;

2 The elder women as mothers; the younger as sisters, with all purity.

3 Honour widows [b] that are widows indeed.

4 But if any widow have children or nephews, let them learn first to shew * piety at home, and [c] to requite their parents: [d] for that is good and acceptable before God.

5 [e] Now she that is a widow indeed, and desolate, trusteth in God and [f] continueth in supplications and prayers [g] night and day.

6 [h] But she that liveth † in pleasure is dead while she liveth.

7 [i] And these things give in charge, that they may be blameless.

8 But if any provide not for his own, [k] and specially for those of his own ‡ house, [l] he hath denied the faith, [m] and is worse than an infidel.

9 Let not a widow be § taken into the number under threescore years old, [n] having been the wife of one man,

10 Well reported of for good works; if she have brought up children, if she have [o] lodged strangers, if she have [p] washed the saints' feet, if she have relieved the afflicted, if she have diligently followed every good work.

11 But the younger widows refuse: for when they have begun to wax wanton against Christ, they will marry;

12 Having damnation, because they have cast off their first faith.

13 [q] And withal they learn to be idle, wandering about from house to house; and not only idle, but tattlers also and busybodies, speaking things which they ought not.

14 [r] I will therefore that the younger women marry, bear children, guide the house, [s] give none occasion to the adversary ‖ to speak reproachfully.

15 For some are already turned aside after Satan.

16 If any man or woman that believeth have widows, let them relieve them, and let not the church be charged; that it may relieve [t] them that are widows indeed.

17 [u] Let the elders that rule well [x] be counted worthy of double honour, especially they who labour in the word and doctrine.

18 For the Scripture saith, [y] Thou shalt not muzzle the ox that treadeth out the corn. And, [z] The labourer is worthy of his reward.

19 Against an elder receive not an accusation, but * [a] before two or three witnesses.

20 [b] Them that sin rebuke before all, [c] that others also may fear.

21 [d] I charge thee before God, and the Lord Jesus Christ, and the elect angels, that thou observe these things † without preferring one before another, doing nothing by partiality.

22 [e] Lay hands suddenly on no man, [f] neither be partaker of other men's sins; keep thyself pure.

23 Drink no longer water, but use a little wine [g] for thy stomach's sake and thine often infirmities.

24 [h] Some men's sins are open beforehand, going before to judgment; and some men they follow after.

25 Likewise also the good works of some are manifest beforehand; and they that are otherwise cannot be hid.

CHAP. VI.

1 Of the duty of servants. 3 Not to have fellowship with newfangled teachers. 6 Godliness is great gain, 10 and love of money the root of all evil. 11 What Timothy is to fly, and what to follow, 17 and wherein to admonish the rich. 20 To keep the purity of true doctrine, and to avoid profane janglings.

LET as many [a] servants as are under the yoke count their own masters worthy of all honour, [b] that the name of God and his doctrine be not blasphemed.

2 And they that have believing masters, let them not despise them, [c] because they are brethren; but rather do them service, because they are [a] faithful and beloved, partakers of the benefit. [d]These things teach and exhort.

3 If any man [e] teach otherwise, and consent [f] not to wholesome words, even the words of our Lord Jesus Christ, [g] and to the doctrine which is according to godliness;

4 He is † proud, [h] knowing nothing, but ‡ doting about [i] questions and strifes of words, whereof cometh envy, strife, railings, evil surmisings,

5 [k] § Perverse disputings of [l] men of corrupt minds, and destitute of the truth, [m] supposing that gain is godliness: [n] from such withdraw thyself.

6 But [o] godliness with contentment is great gain.

7 For [p] we brought nothing into this world, and it is certain we can carry nothing out.

8 And [q] having food and raiment let us be therewith content.

9 But [r] they that will be rich fall into temptation [s] and a snare, and into many foolish and hurtful lusts, [t] which drown men in destruction and perdition.

10 [u] For the love of money is the root of all evil: which while some coveted after, they have ‖ erred from the faith, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows.

11 [x] But thou, [y] O man of God, flee these things; and follow after righteousness, godliness, faith, love, patience, meekness.

12 [z] Fight the good fight of faith, [a] lay hold on eternal life, whereunto thou art also called, [b] and hast professed a good profession before many witnesses.

13 [c] I give thee charge in the sight of God, [d] who quickeneth all things, and before Christ Jesus, [e] who before Pontius Pilate witnessed a good [f] confession;

14 That thou keep this commandment without spot, unrebukeable, [f] until the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ:

15 Which in his times he shall shew, who is [g] the blessed and only Potentate, [h] the King of kings, and Lord of lords;

16 [i] Who only hath immortality, dwelling in the light which no man can approach unto; [k] whom no man hath seen, nor can see: [l] to whom be honour and power everlasting. Amen.

17 Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not highminded, [m] nor trust in † [n] uncertain riches, but in [o] the living God, [p] who giveth us richly all things to enjoy;

18 That they do good, that [q] they be rich in good works, [r] ready to distribute, ‡ [s] willing to communicate;

19 [t] Laying up in store for themselves a good foundation against the time to come, that they may [u] lay hold on eternal life.

20 O Timothy, [x] keep that which is committed to thy trust, [y] avoiding profane and vain babblings, and oppositions of science falsely so called:

21 Which some professing [z] have erred concerning the faith. Grace be with thee. Amen.

THE SECOND EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO TIMOTHY.—"It is generally concluded that it was not long [before] St. Paul's death that he wrote this second Epistle to Timothy; and some think it was the last epistle he wrote, in which he foretells the near approach of his own death and martyrdom, (chap. iv. 6) saying 'I am ready to be offered up, the time of my departure is at hand.'

"The design of the Apostle in this Epistle is two-fold: first to forewarn, and thereby forearm, his dear son Timothy against those heretics, seducers, and false teachers, which were then arising and creeping into the Church; and next to excite him to the utmost care and diligence in the faithful discharge of his office, exhorting him to prepare for sufferings and persecutions, from his own example set before him."—Burkitt.

pearing of our Saviour Jesus Christ, [z] who hath abolished death, and hath brought life and immortality to light through the Gospel:

11 [a] Whereunto I am appointed a preacher, and an apostle, and a teacher of the Gentiles.

12 [b] For the which cause I also suffer these things: nevertheless I am not ashamed: [c] for I know whom I have [*] believed, and am persuaded that he is able to [d] keep that which I have committed unto him [e] against that day.

13 [f] Hold fast [g] the form of [h] sound words, [i] which thou hast heard of me, [k] in faith and love which is in Christ Jesus.

14 [l] That good thing which was committed unto thee keep by the Holy Ghost [m] which dwelleth in us.

15 This thou knowest, that [n] all they which are in Asia be [o] turned away from me; of whom are Phygellus and Hermogenes.

16 The Lord [p] give mercy unto [q] the house of Onesiphorus; [r] for he oft refreshed me, and [s] was not ashamed of [t] my chain:

17 But, when he was in Rome, he sought me out very diligently, and found me.

18 The Lord grant unto him [u] that he may find mercy of the Lord [x] in that day: and in how many things he [y] ministered unto me at Ephesus, thou knowest very well.

CHAP. II.

1 He is exhorted again to constancy and perseverance, and to do the duty of a faithful servant of the Lord in dividing the word aright, and staying profane and vain babblings. 17 Of Hymenæus and Philetus. 19 The foundation of the Lord is sure. 22 He is taught whereof to beware, and what to follow after, and in what sort the servant of the Lord ought to behave himself.

THOU therefore, [a] my son, [b] be strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus.

2 [c] And the things that thou hast heard of me [*] among many witnesses, [d] the same commit thou to faithful men, who shall be [e] able to teach others also.

3 [f] Thou therefore endure hardness, [g] as a good soldier of Jesus Christ.

4 [h] No man that warreth entangleth himself with the affairs of this life; that he may please him who hath chosen him to be a soldier.

5 And [i] if a man also strive for masteries, yet is he not crowned, except he strive lawfully.

6 [k] † The husbandman that laboureth must be first partaker of the fruits.

7 Consider what I say; and the Lord give thee understanding in all things.

8 Remember that Jesus Christ [l] of the seed of David [m] was raised from the dead [n] according to my Gospel:

9 [o] Wherein I suffer trouble, as an evil doer, [p] even unto bonds; [q] but the word of God is not bound.

10 Therefore [r] I endure all things for the elect's sakes, [s] that they may also obtain the salvation which is in Christ Jesus with eternal glory.

11 [t] It is a faithful saying: For [u] if we be dead with him, we shall also live with him:

12 [x] If we suffer, we shall also reign with him: [y] if we deny him, he also will deny us:

13 [z] If we believe not, yet he abideth faithful: [a] he cannot deny himself.

14 Of these things put them in remembrance, [b] charging them before the Lord [c] that they strive not about words to no profit, but to the subverting of the hearers.

15 Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth.

16 But [d] shun profane and vain babblings: for they will increase unto more ungodliness.

17 And their word will eat as doth a ‡ canker: of whom is [*] Hymenæus and Philetus;

18 Who [f] concerning the truth have erred, [g] saying that the resurrection is past already; and overthrow the faith of some.

19 Nevertheless [h] the foundation of God standeth § sure, having this seal, The Lord [i] knoweth them that are his. And, Let every one that nameth the name of Christ depart from iniquity.

20 [k] But in a great house there are not only vessels of gold and of silver, but also of wood and of earth; [l] and some to honour, and some to dishonour.

21 [m] If a man therefore purge himself from these, he shall be a vessel unto honour, sanctified, and meet for the master's use, and [n] prepared unto every good work.

22 Flee also youthful lusts: but [o] follow righteousness, faith, charity, peace, with them that [p] call on the Lord [q] out of a pure heart.

23 But [r] foolish and unlearned questions avoid, knowing that they do gender strifes.

24 And [s] the servant of the Lord must not strive; but be gentle unto all men, [t] apt to teach, ‖ patient,

25 [u] In meekness instructing those that oppose themselves; [x] if God peradventure will give them repentance [y] to the acknowledging of the truth;

26 And that they may [*] recover themselves [z] out of the snare of the devil, who are † taken captive by him at his will.

CHAP. III.

1 He advertiseth him of the times to come. 6 describeth the enemies of the truth, 10 propoundeth unto him his own example, 16 and commendeth the holy Scriptures.

THIS know also, that [a] in the last days perilous times shall come.

Ver. 12. That he is able to keep that, &c.—To preserve my soul, which I have committed to his Almighty and merciful protection, against that day when he will raise it to the life immortal, and place it in blessed communion with Saints made perfect in heaven.

Ver. 13. Of sound words—Of sound doctrines.

Ver. 14. That good thing, &c.—The Gospel which has been entrusted to thee preserve entire, as it has been delivered to thee.

Ver. 15. All they which are in Asia.—All the Asiatic Christians.

Ver. 16. Of my chain—Of my bondage.

Ver. 18. In that day.—The great day of final account.

CHAP. II. Ver. 1. Be strong in the grace, &c. Persevere with a strong and undaunted spirit in preaching the grace bestowed upon mankind which Christ Jesus has set forth in his Gospel.

Ver. 3. Endure hardness.—Hardships.

Ver. 5 and 6. And if a man strive, &c.—And also if any one contend with Grecian games, he is not crowned unless he contend according to the laws of the combat. (Ver. 6.) "It becometh the husbandman to labour in his field before he partake of the fruits of it."—Macknight.

Ver. 8. According to my Gospel.—According to the Gospel which I preach.

Ver. 9. Wherein—For which. The word of God is not bound.—It is free—the spread of the Gospel cannot be impeded.

Ver. 10. For the elect's sake.—For the sake of those Gentiles who have been elected or chosen to be converted to Christianity.

phemers, [g] disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy,

3 [h] Without natural affection, [i] trucebreakers, [k] false accusers, [l] incontinent, fierce, despisers of those that are good,

4 [i] Traitors, heady, highminded, [m] lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God;

5 Having a form of godliness, but [n] denying the power thereof: [o] from such turn away.

6 For [p] of this sort are they which creep into houses, and lead captive silly women laden with sins, led away with divers lusts,

7 Ever learning, and never able [q] to come to the knowledge of the truth.

8 [r] Now as Jannes and Jambres withstood Moses, so do these also resist the truth: [s] men of corrupt minds, [t] † reprobate concerning the faith.

9 But they shall proceed no further: for their folly shall be manifest unto all men, [u] as their's also was.

10 [x] But ‡ thou hast fully known my doctrine, manner of life, purpose, faith, longsuffering, charity, patience,

11 Persecutions, afflictions, which came unto me [y] at Antioch, [z] at Iconium, [a] at Lystra; what persecutions I endured: but [b] out of them all the Lord delivered me.

12 Yea, and [c] all that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution.

13 [d] But evil men and seducers shall wax worse and worse, deceiving, and being deceived.

14 But [e] continue thou in the things which thou hast learned and hast been assured of, knowing of whom thou hast learned them;

15 And that from a child thou hast known [f] the holy Scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus.

16 [g] All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, [h] and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness:

17 [i] That the man of God may be perfect, § [k] throughly furnished unto all good works.

CHAP. IV.

1 He exhorteth him to do his duty with all care and diligence, 6 certifieth him of the nearness of his death, 9 willeth him to come speedily unto him, and to bring Marcus with him, and certain other things which he wrote for, 14 warneth him to beware of Alexander the smith, 16 informeth him what had befallen him at his first answering, 19 and soon after he concludeth.

I [a] CHARGE thee therefore before God, and the Lord Jesus Christ, [b] who shall judge the quick and the dead at his appearing and his kingdom;

2 Preach the word; be instant in season, out of season; reprove, [c] rebuke, [d] exhort with all longsuffering and doctrine.

3 [e] For the time will come when they will not endure [f] sound doctrine; [g] but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears;

A.D. 65

4 And they shall turn away their ears from the truth, and [h] shall be turned unto fables.

5 But watch thou in all things, [i] endure afflictions, do the work of [k] an evangelist, [l] make full proof of thy ministry.

6 For [l] I am now ready to be offered, and the time of [m] my departure is at hand.

7 [n] I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith:

8 Henceforth there is laid up for me [o] a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me [p] at that day: and not to me only, but unto all them also that love his appearing.

9 Do thy diligence to come shortly unto me:

10 For [q] Demas hath forsaken me, [r] having loved this present world, and is departed unto Thessalonica; Crescens to Galatia, Titus unto Dalmatia.

11 [s] Only [t] Luke is with me. Take [u] Mark, and bring him with thee: for he is profitable to me for the ministry.

12 And [x] Tychicus have I sent to Ephesus.

13 The cloak that I left at Troas with Carpus, when thou comest, bring with thee, and the books, but especially the parchments.

14 [y] Alexander the coppersmith did me much evil: [z] the Lord reward him according to his works:

15 Of whom be thou ware also; for he hath greatly withstood † our words.

16 At my first answer no man stood with me, [a] but all men forsook me: [b] I pray God that it may not be laid to their charge.

17 [c] Notwithstanding the Lord stood with me, and strengthened me; [d] that by me the preaching might be fully known, and that all the Gentiles might hear: and I was delivered [e] out of the mouth of the lion.

18 [f] And the Lord shall deliver me from every evil work, and will preserve me unto his heavenly kingdom: [g] to whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

19 Salute [h] Prisca and Aquila, and [i] the houshold of Onesiphorus.

20 [k] Erastus abode at Corinth: but [l] Trophimus have I left at Miletum sick.

21 [m] Do thy diligence to come before winter. Eubulus greeteth thee, and Pudens, and Linus, and Claudia, and all the brethren.

22 [n] The Lord Jesus Christ be with thy spirit. Grace be with you. Amen.

¶ The second epistle unto Timotheus, ordained the first Bishop of the church of the Ephesians, was written from Rome, when Paul was brought before ‡ Nero the second time.

Ver. 6. And lead captive.—And under the garb of sanctity persuade weak women, laden with sins, and led away with divers lusts, to embrace their doctrines which promise impunity to sin.

Ver. 8. Now as Jannes and Jambres. Pharaoh's principal magicians.

Ver. 9. As their's also was. As was the folly of Jannes and Jambres.

Ver. 16. For doctrine.—For confirming the doctrine of the Gospel.

Ver. 17. May be perfect.—In his knowledge of his duty.

Ver. 2. Be instant, &c.—Be earnest in preaching the Gospel at times without considering whether it be seasonable or not, since all times are seasonable for such purpose.

Ver. 3. Having itching ears.—Delighting to have their ears tickled with novel and agreeable doctrines.

Ver. 5. An evangelist.—A preacher of the gospel.

Ver. 8. Love his appearing.—Desire or long for his second advent.

Ver. 13. Especially the parchments.—These Dr. Benson supposes to have been the letters which St. Paul received from the churches, and the autographs of his own letters to the Churches.

The Epistle of PAUL to TITUS.

A. D. 65.

CHAP. I.

1 For what end Titus was left in Crete. 6 How they that are to be chosen ministers ought to be qualified. 11 The mouths of evil teachers to be stopped: 12 and what manner of men they be.

PAUL, a servant of God, and an apostle of Jesus Christ, according to the faith of God's elect, and [a] the acknowledging of the truth [b] which is after godliness;

2 [c] [*] In hope of eternal life, which God, [d] that cannot lie, promised [e] before the world began;

3 [f] But hath in due times manifested his word through preaching, [g] which is committed unto me [h] according to the commandment of God our Saviour;

4 To [i] Titus, [k] mine own son after [l] the common faith: [m] Grace, mercy, and peace, from God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ our Saviour.

5 For this cause left I thee in Crete, that thou shouldest [n] set in order the things that are † wanting, and [o] ordain elders in every city, as I had appointed thee:

6 [p] If any be blameless, [q] the husband of one wife, [r] having faithful children, not accused of riot, or unruly.

7 For a Bishop must be blameless, as [s] the steward of God; not self-willed, not soon angry, [t] not given to wine, no striker, [u] not given to filthy lucre;

8 [x] But a lover of hospitality, a lover of ‡ good men, sober, just, holy, temperate;

9 [y] Holding fast [z] the faithful word § as he hath been taught, that he may be able [a] by sound doctrine both to exhort and to convince the gainsayers.

10 For [b] there are many unruly and vain talkers and [c] deceivers, [d] specially they of the circumcision:

11 Whose mouths must be stopped, [e] who subvert whole houses, teaching things which they ought not, [f] for filthy lucre's sake.

12 [g] One of themselves, even a prophet of their own, said, The Cretians are alway liars, evil beasts, slow bellies.

13 This witness is true. [h] Wherefore rebuke them sharply, that they may be [i] sound in the faith;

14 [k] Not giving heed to Jewish fables, and [l] commandments of men, that turn from the truth.

15 [m] Unto the pure all things are pure: but [n] unto them that are defiled and unbelieving is nothing pure; but even their mind and conscience is defiled.

16 They profess that they know God; but [o] in works they deny him, being abominable, and disobedient, [p] and unto every good work ‖ reprobate.

CHAP. II.

1 Directions given unto Titus both for his doctrine and life. 9 Of the duty of servants, and in general of all Christians.

BUT speak thou the things which become [a] sound doctrine;

2 That the aged men be [*] sober, grave, temperate, [b] sound in faith, in charity, in patience.

3 [c] The aged women likewise, that they be in behaviour as becometh † holiness, not ‡ false accusers, not given to much wine, teachers of good things;

4 That they may teach the young women to be § sober, [d] to love their husbands, to love their children,

5 To be discreet, chaste, keepers at home, good, [e] obedient to their own husbands, [f] that the word of God be not blasphemed.

6 Young men likewise exhort to be ‖ sober minded.

7 [g] In all things shewing thyself a pattern of good works: in doctrine shewing uncorruptness, gravity, [h] sincerity,

8 [i] Sound speech, that cannot be condemned; [k] that he that is of the contrary part [l] may be ashamed, having no evil thing to say of you.

9 Exhort [m] servants to be obedient unto their own masters, and to please them well [n] in all things; not [*] answering again;

10 Not purloining, but shewing all good fidelity; [o] that they may adorn the doctrine of God our Saviour in all things.

11 For [p] the grace of God † that bringeth salvation [q] hath appeared to all men,

12 Teaching us [r] that, denying ungodliness [s] and worldly lusts, we should live soberly, righteously, and godly, in this present world;

13 [t] Looking for that blessed [u] hope, and the glorious [x] appearing of the great God and our Saviour Jesus Christ;

14 [y] Who gave himself for us, that he might redeem us from all iniquity, [z] and purify unto himself [a] a peculiar people, [b] zealous of good works.

15 These things speak, and [c] exhort, and rebuke with all authority. [d] Let no man despise thee.

CHAP. III.

1 Titus is yet further directed by Paul, both concerning the things he should teach, and not teach. 10 He is willed also to reject obstinate heretics: 12 which done, he appointeth him both time and place, wherein he should come unto him, and so concludeth.

PUT them in mind [a] to be subject to principalities and powers, to obey magistrates, [b] to be ready to every good work,

THE EPISTLE OF PAUL TO TITUS.—"The few particulars known of Titus are collected from the Epistles of St. Paul. We learn from them that he was a Greek (Gal. ii. 3.), but it is not recorded to what city or country he belonged. From St. Paul calling him "his own son after the common faith," (Tit. i. 4.) it is concluded that he was converted by the Apostle. After the Apostle's death Titus is said to have gone into Crete, where he died in the ninety-fourth year of his age. He is often called Bishop of Crete by ecclesiastical writers. St. Paul always speaks of Titus with high regard; and entrusted him as we have seen with commissions of great importance.

"The principal design of this epistle was to give instructions to Titus concerning the management of the Churches in the different cities of the island of Crete, and it was probably intended to be read publicly to the Cretans, that they might know upon what authority Titus acted."—Bp. Tomline.

Ver. 1. According to the faith of God's elect.—"For the promotion of the faith of Christians in general; they being all a chosen (an elect) generation." (1 Pet. ii. 9.)—Whitby. And the acknowledging, &c.—And to induce their acknowledgment of that truth proclaimed in the Gospel.

2 To [c] speak evil of no man, [d] to be no brawlers, but [e] gentle, shewing all [f] meekness unto all men.

3 For [g] we ourselves also were sometimes foolish, disobedient, deceived, serving divers lusts and pleasures, living in malice and envy, hateful, and hating one another.

4 But after that [h] the kindness and [i] love of [k] God our Saviour toward man appeared,

5 [k] Not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to his mercy he saved us, by [l] the washing of regeneration, and renewing of the Holy Ghost;

6 [m] Which he shed on us †abundantly through Jesus Christ our Saviour;

7 [n] That being justified by his grace, [o] we should be made heirs [p] according to the hope of eternal life.

8 [q] This is a faithful saying, and these things I will that thou affirm constantly, that they which have believed in God might be careful [r] to maintain good works. These things are good and profitable unto men.

9 But [s] avoid foolish questions, and genealogies, and contentions, and strivings about the law; [t] for they are unprofitable and vain.

10 A man that is an heretick [u] after the first and second admonition [x] reject;

11 Knowing that he that is such is subverted, and sinneth, [y] being condemned of himself.

12 When I shall send Artemas unto thee, or [z] Tychicus, be diligent to come unto me to Nicopolis: for I have determined there to winter.

13 Bring Zenas the Lawyer and [a] Apollos on their journey diligently, that nothing be wanting unto them.

14 And let our's also learn [b] to ‡maintain good works for necessary uses, that they be [c] not unfruitful.

4 He rejoiceth to hear of the faith and love of Philemon, 9 whom he desireth to forgive his servant Onesimus, and lovingly to receive him again.

PAUL, [a] a prisoner of Jesus Christ, and Timothy our brother, unto Philemon our dearly beloved, [b] and fellowlabourer,

2 And to our beloved Apphia, and [c] Archippus [d] our fellowsoldier, and to [e] the church in thy house:

3 [f] Grace to you, and peace, from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

4 [g] I thank my God, making mention of thee always in my prayers,

5 [h] Hearing of thy love and faith, which thou hast toward the Lord Jesus, and toward all saints;

6 That the communication of thy faith may become effectual [i] by the acknowledging of every good thing which is in you in Christ Jesus.

7 For we have great joy and consolation in thy love, because the bowels of the saints [k] are refreshed by thee, brother.

8 Wherefore, [l] though I might be much bold in Christ to enjoin thee that which is convenient,

9 Yet for love's sake I rather beseech thee, being such an one as Paul the aged, [m] and now also a prisoner of Jesus Christ.

10 I beseech thee for my son [n] Onesimus, [o] whom I have begotten in my bonds:

11 Which in time past was to thee unprofitable, but now profitable to thee and to me:

12 Whom I have sent again: thou therefore receive him, that is, mine own bowels:

13 Whom I would have retained with me, [p] that in thy stead he might have ministered unto me in the bonds of the Gospel:

14 But without thy mind would I do nothing; [q] that thy benefit should not be as it were of necessity, but willingly.

15 [r] For perhaps he therefore departed for a season, that thou shouldest receive him for ever;

16 Not now as a servant, but above a servant, [s] a brother beloved, specially to me, but how much more unto thee, [t] both in the flesh, and in the Lord?

17 If thou count me therefore [u] a partner, receive him as myself.

THE EPISTLE OF PAUL TO PHILEMON.—"Philemon, to whom this Epistle is written, is said to have been an eminent person in Colosse; and so that of Col. iv. 9. inclines to believe, where Onesimus, Philemon's servant, is said to be one of them. St. Paul had converted him to the faith, (ver. 19.) but that not at Colosse (for he had not been personally there, Col. ii. 1.) but in some other place, where he had also contracted a friendship with him. Onesimus had been his servant, and had stolen, and run away from him, and, coming to Rome while Paul was prisoner there, was converted by him (ver. 10.) and is now returned to his master with this Epistle of commendation, to obtain a pardon and reception for him; which consequently was written and sent from Rome where he now was in prison. (Ann. Chr. 59.)"—Hammond.

Ver 2. Apphia and Archippus.—The former supposed to be the wife, the latter the son of Philemon.

Ver. 6. That the communication, &c.—"And my prayer is, that thy liberality to the saints, which is the fruit of thy faith, may become effectual to the acknowledgment of thy good works by other Christians, who hear of such instances of thy charity."—Whitby.

Ver. 7. The bowels of the saints.—The wants of the poor Christians are mitigated by thy bounties.

Ver. 8. That which is convenient.—What is proper to be done in the matter to which I am about to refer.

Ver. 9. Being such an one as Paul the aged.—Being Paul the well known Apostle of Jesus Christ, grown old in the execution of that sacred office to which his Divine master appointed him, and one therefore who, though possessing high authority, would rather entreat than command.

Ver. 10. Whom I have begotten in my bonds.—Whom I have converted to Christianity during my imprisonment.

Ver. 11. Which in time past was to thee unprofitable.—Who formerly did thee wrong by robbing thee and quitting thy house.

Ver. 12. That is, mine own bowels.—Spiritually begotten by me, my son in the faith of Christ.

Ver. 14. Without thy mind.—Without thy privity, or consent.

Ver. 16. Unto thee, both in the flesh, &c.—"To thee, who hast a double relation to him, as one of thy family and one of thy faith."—Hammond.

Ver. 17. A partner.—In thy affection.

20 Yea, brother, let me have joy of thee in the Lord: [x] refresh my bowels in the Lord.

CHAP. I.

1 Christ in these last times coming to us from the Father, 4 is preferred above the angels, both in person and office.

GOD, who at sundry times and [a] in divers manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets,

2 Hath [b] in these last days [c] spoken unto us by his Son, [d] whom he hath appointed heir of all things, [e] by whom also he made the worlds;

3 [f] Who being the brightness of his glory, and the express image of his person, and [g] upholding all things by the word of his power, [h] when he had by himself purged our sins, [i] sat down on the right hand of the Majesty on high;

4 Being made so much better than the angels, as [k] he hath by inheritance obtained a more excellent name than they.

5 For unto which of the angels said he at any time, [l] Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee? And again, [m] I will be to him a Father, and he shall be to me a Son?

6 [n] And again, when he bringeth in [o] the firstbegotten into the world, he saith, [p] And let all the angels of God worship him.

7 And † of the angels he saith, [q] Who maketh his angels spirits, and his ministers a flame of fire.

8 But unto the Son he saith, [q] Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever: a sceptre of ‡ righteousness is the sceptre of thy kingdom.

9 Thou hast loved righteousness, and hated iniquity; therefore God, even thy God, [r] hath anointed thee with the oil of gladness above thy fellows.

10 And, [s] Thou, Lord, in the beginning hast laid the foundation of the earth; and the heavens are the works of thine hands:

11 [t] They shall perish; but thou remainest; and they all shall wax old as doth a garment;

12 And as a vesture shalt thou fold them up, and they shall be changed: but thou art the same, and thy years shall not fail.

13 But to which of the angels said he at any time, [u] Sit on my right hand, until I make thine enemies thy footstool?

14 [x] Are they not all ministering spirits, sent forth to minister for them who shall be [y] heirs of salvation?

1 We ought to be obedient to Christ Jesus, 5 and that because he vouchsafed to take our nature upon him, 14 as it was necessary.

THEREFORE we ought to give the more earnest heed to the things which we have heard, lest at any time we should * let them slip.

2 For if the word [a] spoken by angels was stedfast, and [b] every transgression and disobedience received a just recompence of reward;

4 [f] God also bearing them witness, [g] both with signs and wonders, and with divers miracles, and † [h] gifts of the Holy Ghost, [i] according to his own will?

THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE HEBREWS.—"The Epistle to the Hebrews, on which the reader is about to enter, is by far the most important and useful of all the Apostolic writings; all the doctrines of the Gospel are in it embodied, illustrated, and enforced in a manner the most lucid, by references and examples the most striking and illustrious, and by arguments the most cogent and convincing. It is an epitome of the dispensations of God to man, from the foundation of the world to the advent of Christ. It is not only the sum of the Gospel, but the sum and completion of the law, on which it is also a most beautiful and luminous comment. Without this, the law of Moses had never been fully understood, nor God's design in giving it. With this, all is clear and plain, and the ways of God with man rendered consistent and harmonious. The Apostle appears to have taken a portion of one of his own Epistles for his text—'Christ is the end of the law for righteousness to them that believe,'—and has most amply and impressively demonstrated his proposition. All the rites, ceremonies, and sacrifices of the Mosaic institution are shown to have had Christ for their object and end, and to have had neither intention nor meaning but in reference to him; yea, as a system to be without substance, as a law to be without reason, and its enactments to be both impossible and absurd, if taken out of this reference and connexion. Never were premises more clearly stated; never was an argument handled in a more masterly manner; and never was a conclusion more legitimately and satisfactorily brought forth. The matter is every where the most interesting; the manner is throughout the most engaging; and the language is most beautifully adapted to the whole, every where appropriate, always nervous and energetic, dignified as is the subject, pure and elegant as that of the most accomplished Grecian orators, and harmonious and diversified as the music of the spheres.

"So many are the beauties, so great the excellency, so instructive the matter, so pleasing the manner, and so exceedingly interesting the whole, that the work may be read a hundred times over without perceiving any thing of sameness, and with new and increased information at each reading. This latter is an excellency which belongs to the whole revelation of God; but to no part of it in such a peculiar and super-eminent manner as to the Epistle to the Hebrews."—Dr. A. Clarke.

CHAP. I. Ver. 3. Being the brightness of his glory, &c.—"Being an effulgence of his Father's glory, and an exact image of his substance, &c.—Macknight. By the word of his power—by his omnipotent power and will. When he had by himself—By himself alone.

Ver. 4. By inheritance.—By immediate descent from the Godhead.

Ver. 6. When he bringeth in the first-begotten into the world, &c.—"Namely, on the morning of his resurrection, when he was in a glorious manner begotten from the dead."—Burkitt.

Ver. 7. Who maketh his angels spirits, &c.—"Who made his angels spiritual substances, and his ministers a flame of fire—that is, the greatest, thing said of angels is that they are beings not clogged with flesh, who serve God with the utmost activity."—Macknight.

Ver. 9. Therefore God, even thy God, &c.—"Therefore, O God, thy God (John xx. 17.) hath bestowed upon thee as a king, priest and prophet, endowments whereby thou excellest all thy associates in those offices."—Macknight.

6 But one in a certain place testified, saying, [l] What is man, that thou art mindful of him? or the son of man, that thou visitest him?

7 Thou madest him ‡ a little lower than the angels; thou crownedst him with glory and honour, and didst set him over the works of thy hands:

8 [m] Thou hast put all things in subjection under his feet. For in that he put all in subjection under him, he left nothing that is not put under him. But now [n] we see not yet all things put under him.

9 But we see Jesus, [o] who was made a little lower than the angels § for the suffering of death, [p] crowned with glory and honour: that he by the grace of God should taste death [q] for every man.

10 [r] For it became him, [s] for whom are all things, and by whom are all things, in bringing many sons unto glory, to make [t] the captain of their salvation [u] perfect through sufferings.

11 For [x] both he that sanctifieth and they who are sanctified [y] are all of one: for which cause [z] he is not ashamed to call them brethren,

12 Saying, [a] I will declare thy name unto my brethren, in the midst of the church will I sing praise unto thee.

13 And again, [b] I will put my trust in him. And again, [c] Behold I and the children [d] which God hath given me.

14 Forasmuch then as the children are partakers of flesh and blood, he [e] also himself likewise took part of the same; [f] that through death he might destroy him that had the power of death, that is, the devil;

15 And deliver them who [g] through fear of death were all their lifetime subject to bondage.

16 For verily ‖ he took not on him the nature of angels; but he took on him the seed of Abraham.

17 Wherefore in all things it behoved him [h] to be made like unto his brethren, that he might be [i] a merciful and faithful High Priest in things pertaining to God, to make reconciliation for the sins of the people.

18 [k] For in that he himself hath suffered being tempted, he is able to succour them that are tempted.

CHAP. III.

1 Christ is more worthy than Moses, 7 therefore if we believe not in him, we shall be more worthy punishment than hardhearted Israel.

WHEREFORE, holy brethren, partakers of [a] the heavenly calling, consider [b] the Apostle and High Priest of our profession, Christ Jesus;

2 Who was faithful to him that [*] appointed him, as also [c] Moses was faithful in all his house.

3 For this man was counted worthy of more glory than Moses, inasmuch as [d] he who hath builded the house hath more honour than the house.

4 For every house is builded by some man; but [e] he that built all things is God.

5 [f] And Moses verily was faithful in all his house, as [g] a servant, [h] for a testimony of those things which were to be spoken after;

6 But Christ as [i] a son over his own house; [k] whose house are we, [l] if we hold fast the confidence and the rejoicing of the hope firm unto the end.

7 Wherefore (as [m] the Holy Ghost saith, [n] To day if ye will hear his voice,

8 Harden not your hearts, as in the provocation, in the day of temptation in the wilderness:

9 When your fathers tempted me, proved me, and saw my works forty years.

10 Wherefore I was grieved with that generation, and said, They do alway err in their heart; and they have not known my ways.

11 So I sware in my wrath, † They shall not enter into my rest.)

12 Take heed, brethren, lest there be in any of you an evil heart of unbelief, in departing from the living God.

13 But exhort one another daily, while it is called To day; lest any of you be hardened through the deceitfulness of sin.

14 For we are made partakers of Christ, [o] if we hold the beginning of our confidence stedfast unto the end;

15 While it is said, [p] To day if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts, as in the provocation.

16 [q] For some, when they had heard, did provoke: howbeit not all that came out of Egypt by Moses.

17 But with whom was he grieved forty years? was it not with them that had sinned, [r] whose carcases fell in the wilderness?

18 And [s] to whom sware he that they should not enter into his rest, but to them that believed not?

19 [t] So we see that they could not enter in because of unbelief.

CHAP. IV.

1 The rest of Christians is attained by faith. 12 The power of God's word. 14 By our high priest Jesus the Son of God, subject to infirmities, but not sin, 16 we must and may go boldly to the throne of grace.

LET [a] us therefore fear, lest, a promise being left us of entering into his rest, any of you should seem to come short of it.

5 And in this place again, If they shall enter into my rest

6 Seeing therefore it remaineth that some must enter therein, [e] and they to whom ‡ it was first preached entered not in because of unbelief:

7 (Again, he limiteth a certain day, saying in David, To day, after so long a time; as it is said, [f] To day if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts.

8 For if § Jesus had given them rest, then would he not afterward have spoken of another day.

9 There remaineth therefore a ‖ rest to the people of God.

10 For he that is entered into his rest, he also hath ceased from his own works, as God did from his.)

11 Let us labour therefore to enter into that rest, lest any man fall [g] after the same example of * unbelief.

12 For the word of God is [h] quick, and powerful, and [i] sharper than any [k] two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is [l] a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart.

13 [m] Neither is there any creature that is not manifest in his sight: but all things are naked [n] and opened unto the eyes of him with whom we have to do.

14 Seeing then that we have [o] a great High Priest, [p] that is passed into the heavens, Jesus the Son of God, [q] let us hold fast our profession.

15 For [r] we have not an High Priest which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but [s] was in all points tempted like as we are, [t] yet without sin.

16 [u] Let us therefore come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need.

CHAP. V.

1 The authority and honour of our Saviour's priesthood. 11 Negligence in the knowledge thereof is reproved.

A. D. 64

FOR every High Priest taken from among men [a] is ordained for men [b] in things pertaining to God, * that he may offer both gifts and sacrifices for sins:

2 [d] Who * can have compassion on the ignorant, and on them that are out of the way; for that * he himself also is compassed with infirmity.

3 And [f] by reason hereof he ought, as for the people, so also for himself, to offer for sins.

4 [g] And no man taketh this honour unto himself, but he that is called of God, as [h] was Aaron.

5 [i] So also Christ glorified not himself to be made an High Priest; but he that said unto him, [k] Thou art my Son, to day have I begotten thee.

6 As he saith also in another place, [l] Thou art a Priest for ever after the order of Melchisedec.

7 Who in the days of his flesh, when he had [m] offered up prayers and supplications [n] with strong crying and tears unto him * that was able to save him from death, and was heard † [p] in that he feared;

8 [q] Though he were a Son, yet learned he [r] obedience by the things which he suffered;

9 And [s] being made perfect, he became the author of eternal salvation unto all them that obey him;

10 Called of God an High Priest [t] after the order of Melchisedec.

11 Of whom [u] we have many things to say, and hard to be uttered, seeing ye are [x] dull of hearing.

12 For when for the time ye ought to be teachers, ye have need that one teach you again which be [y] the first principles of the oracles of God; and are become such as have need of [z] milk, and not of strong meat.

13 For every one that useth milk ‡ is unskilful in the word of righteousness: for he is * a babe.

14 But strong meat belongeth to them that are § of full age, even those who by reason ‖ of use have their senses exercised [b] to discern both good and evil.

CHAP. VI.

1 He exhorteth not to fall back from the faith, 11 but to be stedfast, 12 diligent, and patient to wait upon God, 13 because God is most sure in his promise.

Ver. 3, 4 "Wherefore, according to God's promises, we, the seed of Abraham who believe, shall enter into the rest of God. But it is a rest different from the seventh-day rest, seeing he said, concerning the believing Israelites in the wilderness, 'So I sware in my wrath, they shall not enter into my rest,' notwithstanding the works of creation were finished, and the seventh-day rest was instituted from the formation of the world: consequently the Israelites had entered into that rest before the oath was sworn (Ver 4). That the seventh-day rest is God's rest, and that it was instituted at the creation is evident, for Moses hath spoken somewhere concerning the seventh-day rest thus, 'And God completely rested on the seventh day from all his works.'"—Macknight.

Ver. 5. In this place. The ninety-fifth Psalm, already quoted.

Ver. 7, 8. Again he limiteth, &c.—"Moreover seeing the Holy Ghost specifieth a particular time for entering in, saying to the people, by David, To-day, so long a time after the nation had taken possession of Canaan, as it is written, 'To-day, when ye shall hear God's voice, commanding you to enter into his rest, harden not your hearts against entering,' (Ver. 7.) For if Joshua, by introducing the Israelites into Canaan, had caused them to rest, according to the full meaning of God's promise, the Holy Ghost would not after that, in David's time, have spoken of another day for entering into God's rest."—Macknight.

Ver. 9. There remaineth, therefore, a rest, &c.—An everlasting sabbath in heaven, for the people of God.

Ver. 10. For he, &c.—Who is a child of God, having once entered into his eternal rest.

Ver. 12. Piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit.—Searching to the most essential part of man, and showing separately what is rational and what is spiritual, discriminating the animal affections from the spiritual.

unto perfection; not laying again the foundation of repentance [b] from dead works, and of faith toward God,

2 [c] Of the doctrine of baptisms, [d] and of laying on of hands, [e] and of resurrection of the dead, [f] and of eternal judgment.

3 And this will we do, [g] if God permit.

4 For [h] it is impossible for those [i] who were once enlightened, and have tasted of [k] the heavenly gift, and [l] were made partakers of the Holy Ghost,

5 And have tasted the good word of God, and the powers of [m] the world to come,

6 If they shall fall away, to renew them again unto repentance; [n] seeing they crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put him to an open shame.

7 For the earth which drinketh in the rain that cometh oft upon it, and bringeth forth herbs meet for them † by whom it is dressed, [o] receiveth blessing from God:

8 [p] But that which beareth thorns and briers is rejected, and is nigh unto cursing; whose end is to be burned.

9 But, beloved, we are persuaded better things of you, and things that accompany salvation, though we thus speak.

10 [q] For [r] God is not unrighteous to forget [s] your work and labour of love, which ye have [t] shewed toward his name, in that ye have [t] ministered to the saints, and do minister.

11 And we desire that [u] every one of you do shew the same diligence [x] to the full assurance of hope unto the end:

12 That ye be not slothful, but followers of them who through faith and patience [y] inherit the promises.

13 For when God made promise to Abraham, because he could swear by no greater, [z] he sware by himself,

14 Saying, Surely blessing I will bless thee, and multiplying I will multiply thee.

15 And so, after he had patiently endured, he obtained the promise.

16 For men verily swear by the greater: and [a] an oath for confirmation is to them an end of all strife.

17 Wherein God, willing more abundantly to shew unto [b] the heirs of promise [c] the immutability of his counsel, ‡ confirmed it by an oath:

18 That by two immutable things, in which it was impossible for God to lie, we might have a strong consolation, who have fled for refuge to lay hold upon the hope [d] set before us:

19 Which hope we have as an anchor of the soul, both sure and stedfast, [e] and which entereth into that within the veil;

20 [f] Whither the forerunner is for us entered, even Jesus, [g] made an High Priest for ever after the order of Melchisedec.

CHAP. VII.

1 Christ Jesus is a priest after the order of Melchisedec, 11 and so, far more excellent than the priests of Aaron's order.

FOR this [a] Melchisedec, king of Salem, Priest of the most high God, who met Abraham returning from the slaughter of the kings, and blessed him;

2 To whom also Abraham gave a tenth part of all; first being by interpretation King of righteousness, and after that also King of Salem, which is, King of peace;

3 Without father, without mother, [a] without descent, having neither beginning of days, nor end of life; but made like unto the Son of God; abideth a Priest continually.

4 Now consider how great this man was, [b] unto whom even the Patriarch Abraham gave the tenth of the spoils.

5 And verily [c] they that are of the sons of Levi, who receive the office of the priesthood, have a commandment to take tithes of the people according to the law, that is, of their brethren, though they come out of the loins of Abraham:

6 But he whose † descent is not counted from them received tithes of Abraham, [d] and blessed [e] him that had the promises.

7 And without all contradiction the less is blessed of the better.

8 And here men that die receive tithes; but there he receiveth them, [f] of whom it is witnessed that he liveth.

9 And as I may so say, Levi also, who receiveth tithes, payed tithes in Abraham.

10 For he was yet in the loins of his father, when Melchisedec met him.

11 [g] If therefore perfection were by the Levitical priesthood, (for under it the people received the law.) what further need was there that another Priest should rise after the order of Melchisedec, and not be called after the order of Aaron?

12 For the priesthood being changed, there is made of necessity a change also of the law.

13 For he of whom these things are spoken pertaineth to another tribe, of which no man gave attendance at the altar.

14 For it is evident that [h] our Lord sprang out of Juda; of which tribe Moses spake nothing concerning priesthood.

15 And it is yet far more evident for that after the similitude of Melchisedec there ariseth another Priest,

16 Who is made, not after the law of a carnal commandment, but after the power of an endless life.

17 For he testifieth, [i] Thou art a Priest for ever after the order of Melchisedec.

18 For there is verily a disannulling of the commandment going before for [k] the weakness and unprofitableness thereof.

19 For [l] the law made nothing perfect, ‡ but the bringing in of [m] a better hope did; by the which [n] we draw nigh unto God.

20 And inasmuch as not without an oath he was made Priest:

21 (For those Priests were made § without an oath; but this with an oath by him that said unto him, [o] The Lord sware and will not repent, Thou art a Priest for ever after the order of Melchisedec:)

22 By so much [p] was Jesus made a surety of a better testament.

23 And they truly were many Priests, because they were not suffered to continue by reason of death:

24 But this man, because he continueth ever, hath ‖ an unchangeable priesthood.

25 Wherefore he is able also to save them * to the uttermost that come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth [q] to make intercession for them.

26 For such an High Priest became us, [r] who is holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners, [s] and made higher than the heavens;

27 Who needeth not daily, as those High Priests, to offer up sacrifice, [t] first for his own sins, [u] and then for the people's: for [x] this he did once, when he offered up himself.

28 For the law maketh [y] men High Priests which have infirmity; but the word of the oath, which was since the law, maketh the Son, [z] who is † consecrated for evermore.

CHAP. VIII.

1 By the eternal priesthood of Christ the Levitical priesthood of Aaron is abolished. 7 And the temporal covenant with the fathers, by the eternal covenant of the gospel.

NOW of the things which we have spoken this is the sum: We have such an High Priest, [a] who is set on the right hand of the throne of the Majesty in the heavens;

2 A minister * of [b] the sanctuary, and of [c] the true tabernacle, which the Lord pitched, and not man.

3 For [d] every High Priest is ordained to offer gifts and sacrifices: wherefore [e] it is of necessity that this man have somewhat also to offer.

4 For if he were on earth, he should not be a Priest, seeing that † there are Priests that offer gifts according to the law:

5 Who serve unto the example and [f] shadow of heavenly things, as Moses was admonished of God when he was about to make the tabernacle: [g] for, See, saith he, that thou make all things according to the pattern shewed to thee in the mount.

6 But now [h] hath he obtained a more excellent ministry, by how much also he is the mediator of a better ‡ covenant, which was established upon better promises.

7 [i] For if that first covenant had been faultless, then should no place have been sought for the second.

8 For finding fault with them, he saith, [k] Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah:

9 Not according to the covenant that I made with their fathers in the day when I took them by the hand to lead them out of the land of Egypt; because they continued not in my covenant, and I regarded them not, saith the Lord.

10 For [l] this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, saith the Lord; I will § put my laws into their mind, and write them ‖ in their hearts: and [m] I will be to them a God, and they shall be to me a people:

11 And [n] they shall not teach every man his neighbour, and every man his brother, saying, Know the Lord: for all shall know me, from the least to the greatest.

12 For I will be merciful to their unrighteousness, [o] and their sins and their iniquities will I remember no more.

13 [p] In that he saith, A new covenant, [p] he hath made the first old. Now that which decayeth and waxeth old is ready to vanish away.

CHAP. IX.

1 The description of the rites and bloody sacrifices of the law, 11 far inferior to the dignity and perfection of the blood and sacrifice of Christ.

THEN verily the first covenant had also * ordinances of divine service, and [a] a worldly sanctuary.

2 [b] For there was a tabernacle made; the first, [c] wherein was [d] the candlestick, and [e] the table, and the shewbread; which is called † the sanctuary.

3 [f] And after the second veil, the tabernacle which is called the Holiest of all;

4 Which had the golden censer, and [g] the ark of the covenant overlaid round about with gold, wherein was [h] the golden pot that had manna, and [i] Aaron's rod that budded, and [k] the tables of the covenant;

l Ex. 25. 18, 22. Lev. 16. 2. 1 Kings 8. 6, 7.

Ver. 15. There ariseth another Priest.—A different kind of priest from such as officiated under the Levitical institution.

Ver. 16. Not after the law of a carnal commandment.—"Not by virtue of a command or institution, which stands upon a fleshly succession; but upon that infinite power of God which continueth an endless life unto Him, without all need or possibility of a successor."—Bp. Hall.

Ver. 18. Of the commandment going before.—The ceremonial law of Moses.

Ver. 20. He.—Our Great High Priest, Jesus Christ the righteous.

Ver. 22. Of a better testament.—Than that promulgated by Moses.

Ver. 8. But the word of the oath, &c.—But the declaration of the oath which took place after the promulgation of the law.

CHAP. VIII. Ver. 2. Of the sanctuary.—Or Holy of Holies, eternal in the Heavens.

Ver. 3. That this man.—The High Priest, Jesus Christ, have somewhat also to offer—namely, in heaven, the true and eternal sanctuary, where only he could officiate.

Ver. 4. He should not be a Priest—under the Levitical covenant, seeing there are priests appointed under that covenant, who offer sacrifices according to its prescriptions.

Ver. 6. But now hath he.—Jesus, &c. Upon better promises—than those promulgated in the law.

Ver. 8. For finding fault with them.—Who acted under the first covenant.

Ver. 9. And I regarded them not.—And I abandoned them to the evil consequences arising from their not continuing in my covenant.

CHAP. IX. Ver. 1. A worldly sanctuary.—A temporal sanctuary made of materials that were of this world, and therefore perishable.

Ver. 2. Which is called the sanctuary.—or holy place, where the ordinary service of the tabernacle was performed.

Ver. 3. And after the second veil, &c.—And beyond the second veil, that most sacred portion of the tabernacle called the Holy of Holies.

Ver. 4. The tables of the covenant.—The two tables on which the moral law was engraved by the finger of God.

Ver. 5. And over it.—And over the ark which contained the two tables.

A. D. 64.

6 Now when these things were thus ordained, [m] the Priests went always into the first tabernacle, accomplishing the service of God.

7 But into the second went the High Priest alone [n] once every year, not without blood, [o] which he offered for himself, and for the errors of the people:

8 [p] The Holy Ghost this signifying, that [q] the way into the holiest of all was not yet made manifest, while as the first tabernacle was yet standing:

9 Which was a figure for the time then present, in which were offered both gifts and sacrifices, [r] that could not make him that did the service perfect, as pertaining to the conscience;

10 Which stood only in [s] meats and drinks, and [t] divers washings, [u] and carnal ‡ ordinances, imposed on them until the time of reformation.

11 But Christ being come [x] an High Priest [y] of good things to come, [z] by a greater and more perfect tabernacle, not made with hands, that is to say, not of this building;

12 Neither [a] by the blood of goats and calves, but [b] by his own blood he entered in [c] once into the holy place, [d] having obtained eternal redemption for us.

13 For if [e] the blood of bulls and of goats, and [f] the ashes of an heifer sprinkling the unclean, sanctifieth to the purifying of the flesh:

14 How much more [g] shall the blood of Christ, [h] who through the eternal Spirit [i] offered himself without § spot to God, [k] purge your conscience from [l] dead works [m] to serve the living God?

15 [n] And for this cause [o] he is the mediator of the new testament, [p] that by means of death, for the redemption of the transgressions that were under the first testament, [q] they which are called might receive the promise of eternal inheritance.

16 For where a testament is, there must also of necessity ‖ be the death of the testator.

17 For [r] a testament is of force after men are dead: otherwise it is of no strength at all while the testator liveth.

18 [s] Whereupon neither the first testament was * dedicated without blood.

19 For when Moses had spoken every precept to all the people according to the law, [t] he took the blood of calves and of goats, [u] with water, and †scarlet wool, and hyssop, and sprinkled both the book, and all the people,

A. D. 64

20 Saying, [x] This is the blood of the testament which God hath enjoined unto you.

21 Moreover [y] he sprinkled with blood both the tabernacle, and all the vessels of the ministry.

22 And almost all things are by the law purged with blood; and [z] without shedding of blood is no remission.

23 It was therefore necessary that [a] the patterns of things in the heavens should be purified with these; but the heavenly things themselves with better sacrifices than these.

24 For [b] Christ is not entered into the holy places made with hands, which are the figures of [c] the true; but into heaven itself, now [d] to appear in the presence of God for us:

25 Nor yet that he should offer himself often, as [e] the High Priest entereth into the holy place every year with blood of others;

26 For then must he often have suffered since the foundation of the world: but now [f] once [g] in the end of the world hath he appeared to put away sin by the sacrifice of himself.

27 [h] And as it is appointed unto men once to die, [i] but after this the judgment:

28 So [k] Christ was once [l] offered to bear the sins [m] of many; and unto them that [n] look for him shall he appear the second time without sin unto salvation.

CHAP. X.

1 The weakness of the law sacrifices. 10 The sacrifice of Christ's body once offered, 14 for ever hath taken away sins. 19 An exhortation to hold fast the faith, with patience and thanksgiving.

FOR the law having [a] a shadow [b] of good things to come, and not the very image of the things, [c] can never with those sacrifices which they offered year by year continually make the comers thereunto [d] perfect.

2 For then * would they not have ceased to be offered? because that the worshippers once purged should have had no more conscience of sins.

3 [e] But in those sacrifices there is a remembrance again made of sins every year.

4 For [f] it is not possible that the blood of bulls and of goats should take away sins.

5 Wherefore when he cometh into the world, he saith, [g] Sacrifice and offering thou wouldest not, but a body †hast thou prepared me:

Ver. 9. Which tabernacle, with its services, whereby the worshipper was not brought into the immediate presence of the Deity, was a parabolical instruction concerning the time which is present, during which both gifts and sacrifices are offered, which cannot, by banishing the fear of punishment, make him perfect with respect to conscience who worshippeth God. Ver. 10. With nothing but meats and drinks, and divers immersions and ordinances respecting the purifying of the body, imposed only until the time of the reformation of the worship of God by Christ, who was to abolish the Levitical services, and to introduce a worship in spirit and in truth, which may be performed in every place."—Macknight.

Ver. 17. For you know that sacrificial rites have ever attended the most celebrated covenants which God hath made with men; so that I may say a covenant is confirmed over the dead, so that it does not avail, nor has any force at all, while he by whom it is confirmed liveth. A. D. 64.

6 In burnt offerings and sacrifices for sin thou hast had no pleasure.

7 Then said I, Lo, I come (in the volume of the book it is written of me,) to do thy will, O God.

8 Above when he said, Sacrifice and offering and burnt offerings and offering for sin thou wouldest not, neither hadst pleasure therein; which are offered by the law;

9 Then said he, Lo, I come to do thy will, O God. He taketh away the first, that he may establish the second.

10 [h] By the which will we are sanctified [i] through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all.

11 And every Priest standeth [k] daily ministering and offering oftentimes the same sacrifices, [l] which can never take away sins:

12 [m] But this man, after he had offered one sacrifice for sins, for ever sat down on the right hand of God;

13 From henceforth expecting [n] till his enemies be made his footstool.

14 For by one offering [o] he hath perfected for ever them that are sanctified.

15 Whereof the Holy Ghost also is a witness to us: for after that he had said before,

16 [p] This is the covenant that I will make with them after those days, saith the Lord, I will put my laws into their hearts, and in their minds will I write them;

17 ‡ And their sins and iniquities will I remember no more.

18 Now where remission of these is, there is no more offering for sin.

19 Having therefore, brethren, [q] § boldness to enter [r] into the holiest by the blood of Jesus,

20 By [s] a new and living way, which he hath ‖ consecrated for us, [t] through the veil, that is to say, his flesh;

21 And having [u] an High Priest over [x] the house of God;

22 [y] Let us draw near with a true heart [z] in full assurance of faith, having our hearts sprinkled [a] from an evil conscience, and [b] our bodies washed with pure water.

23 [c] Let us hold fast the profession of our faith without wavering; (for [d] he is faithful that promised;)

24 And let us consider one another to provoke unto love and to good works:

25 [e] Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another: and [f] so much the more, as ye see [g] the day approaching.

26 For [h] if we sin wilfully [i] after that we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins,

27 But a certain fearful looking for of judgment and [k] fiery indignation, which shall devour the adversaries.

28 [l] He that despised Moses' law died without mercy [m] under two or three witnesses:

29 [n] Of how much sorer punishment, suppose ye, shall he be thought worthy, who hath trodden under foot the Son of God, and [o] hath counted the blood of the covenant, wherewith he was sanctified, an unholy thing, [p] and hath done despite unto the Spirit of grace?

30 For we know him that hath said, [q] Vengeance belongeth unto me, I will recompense, saith the Lord. And again, [r] The Lord shall judge his people.

31 [s] It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God.

32 But [t] call to remembrance the former days, in which, [u] after ye were illuminated, ye endured [x] a great fight of afflictions;

33 Partly, whilst ye were made [y] a gazingstock both by reproaches and afflictions; and partly, whilst [z] ye became companions of them that were so used.

34 For ye had compassion of me [a] in my bonds, and [b] took joyfully the spoiling of your goods, knowing [c] in yourselves that [d] ye have in heaven a better and an enduring substance.

35 Cast not away therefore your confidence, [d] which hath great recompence of reward.

36 [e] For ye have need of patience, that, after ye have done the will of God, [f] ye might receive the promise.

37 For [g] yet a little while, and [h] he that shall come will come, and will not tarry.

38 Now [i] the just shall live by faith: but if any man draw back, my soul shall have no pleasure in him.

39 But we are not of them [k] who draw back unto perdition; but of them that [l] believe to the saving of the soul.

CHAP. XI.

1 What faith is. 6 Without faith we cannot please God. 7 The worthy fruits thereof in the fathers of old time.

NOW faith is the [a] substance of things hoped for, the evidence [b] of things not seen.

2 For [b] by it the elders obtained a good report.

3 Through faith we understand that [c] the worlds were framed by the word of God, so that things which are seen were not made of things which do appear.

4 By faith [d] Abel offered unto God a more excellent sacrifice than Cain, by which he obtained witness that he was righteous, God testifying of his gifts: and by it he being dead [e] † yet speaketh.

should not see death; and was not found, because God had translated him: for before his translation he had this testimony, that he pleased God.

6 But without faith it is impossible to please him: for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him.

7 By faith [g] Noah, being warned of God of things not seen as yet, ‡ moved with fear, [h] prepared an ark to the saving of his house; by the which he condemned the world, and became heir of [i] the righteousness which is by faith.

8 By faith [k] Abraham, when he was called to go out into a place which he should after receive for an inheritance, obeyed; and he went out, not knowing whither he went.

9 By faith he sojourned in the land of promise, as in a strange country, [l] dwelling in tabernacles with Isaac and Jacob, [m] the heirs with him of the same promise:

10 For he looked for [n] a city which hath foundations, [o] whose builder and maker is God.

11 Through faith also [p] Sara herself received strength to conceive seed, and [q] was delivered of a child when she was past age, because she judged him [r] faithful who had promised.

12 Therefore sprang there even of one, and [s] him good as dead, [t] so many as the stars of the sky in multitude, and as the sand which is by the sea shore innumerable.

13 These all died § in faith, [u] not having received the promises, but [x] having seen them afar off, and were persuaded of them, and embraced them, and [y] confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth.

14 For they that say such things [z] declare plainly that they seek a country.

15 And truly, if they had been mindful of that country from whence they came out, they might have had opportunity to have returned.

16 But now they desire a better country, that is, an heavenly: wherefore God is not ashamed [a] to be called their God: for [b] he hath prepared for them a city.

17 By faith [c] Abraham, when he was tried, offered up Isaac: and he that had received the promises [d] offered up his only begotten son,

18 ‖ Of whom it was said, [e] That in Isaac shall thy seed be called:

19 Accounting that God [f] was able to raise him up, even from the dead; from whence also he received him in a figure.

20 By faith [g] Isaac blessed Jacob and Esau concerning things to come,

21 By faith Jacob, when he was a dying, [h] blessed both the sons of Joseph; and [i] worshipped, leaning upon the top of his staff.

22 By faith [k] Joseph, when he died, [*] made mention of the departing of the children of Israel; and gave commandment concerning his bones.

A D. 64.

23 By faith [l] Moses, when he was born, was hid three months of his parents, because they saw he was a proper child; and they were not afraid of the king's [m] commandment.

24 By faith [n] Moses, when he was come to years, refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter;

25 [o] Choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season;

26 Esteeming [p] the reproach † of Christ greater riches than the treasures in Egypt: for he had respect unto [q] the recompence of the reward.

27 By faith [r] he forsook Egypt, not fearing the wrath of the king: for he endured, as [s] seeing him who is invisible.

28 Through faith [t] he kept the Passover, and the sprinkling of blood, lest he that destroyed the firstborn should touch them.

29 By faith [u] they passed through the Red sea as by dry land: which the Egyptians assaying to do were drowned.

30 By faith [x] the walls of Jericho fell down, after they were compassed about seven days.

31 By faith [y] the harlot Rahab perished not with them ‡ that believed not, when [z] she had received the spies with peace.

32 And what shall I more say? for the time would fail me to tell of [a] Gideon, and of [b] Barak, and of [c] Samson, and of [d] Jephthae; of [e] David also, and [f] Samuel, and of the prophets:

33 Who through faith subdued kingdoms, wrought righteousness, [g] obtained promises, [h] stopped the mouths of lions,

34 [i] Quenched the violence of fire, [k] escaped the edge of the sword, [l] out of weakness were made strong, waxed valiant in fight, [m] turned to flight the armies of the aliens.

35 [n] Women received their dead raised to life again: and others were [o] tortured, not accepting deliverance; that they might obtain a better resurrection:

36 [p] And others had trial of cruel mockings and scourgings, yea, moreover [q] of bonds and imprisonment:

37 [r] They were stoned, they were sawn asunder, were tempted, were slain with the sword: [s] they wandered about [t] in sheepskins and goatskins; being destitute, afflicted, tormented;

CHAP. XII.

1 An exhortation to constant faith, patience, and godliness. 22 A commendation of the new testament above the old.

[a] WHEREFORE seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, [a] let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and [b] let us run [c] with patience the race that is set before us,

2 Looking unto Jesus the [e] author and finisher of our faith; [d] who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and [e] is set down at the right hand of the throne of God.

3 [f] For consider him that endured such contradiction of sinners against himself, [g] lest ye be wearied and faint in your minds.

4 [h] Ye have not yet resisted unto blood, striving against sin.

5 And ye have forgotten the exhortation which speaketh unto you as unto children, [i] My son, despise not thou the chastening of the Lord, nor faint when thou art rebuked of him:

6 For [k] whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth, and scourgeth every son whom he receiveth.

7 [l] If ye endure chastening, God dealeth with you as with sons; for what son is he whom the father chasteneth not?

8 But if ye be without chastisement, [m] whereof all are partakers, then are ye bastards, and not sons.

9 Furthermore we have had fathers of our flesh which corrected us, and we gave them reverence: shall we not much rather be in subjection unto [n] the Father of spirits, and live?

10 For they verily for a few days chastened us † after their own pleasure; but he for our profit, [o] that we might be partakers of his holiness.

11 Now no chastening for the present seemeth to be joyous, but grievous: nevertheless afterward it yieldeth [p] the peaceable fruit of righteousness unto them which are exercised thereby.

12 Wherefore [q] lift up the hands which hang down, and the feeble knees;

13 [r] And make ‡ straight paths for your feet, lest that which is lame be turned out of the way; [s] but let it rather be healed.

14 [t] Follow peace with all men, and holiness, [u] without which no man shall see the Lord:

15 [x] Looking diligently [y] lest any man § fail of the grace of God; [z] lest any root of bitterness springing up trouble you, and thereby many be defiled;

16 [a] Lest there be any fornicator, or profane person, as Esau, [b] who for one morsel of meat sold his birthright.

17 For ye know how that afterward, [c] when he would have inherited the blessing, he was rejected: [d] for he found no ‖ place of repentance, though he sought it carefully with tears.

18 For ye are not come unto [e] the mount that might be touched, and that burned with fire, nor unto blackness, and darkness, and tempest,

19 And the sound of a trumpet, and the voice of words; which voice they that heard [f] intreated that the word should not be spoken to them any more:

20 (For they could not endure that which was commanded, [g] And if so much as a beast touch the mountain, it shall be stoned, or thrust through with a dart:

21 [h] And so terrible was the sight, that Moses said, I exceedingly fear and quake:)

22 But ye are come [i] unto mount Sion, [k] and unto the city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem, [l] and to an innumerable company of angels,

23 To the general assembly and Church of [m] the firstborn, [n] which are [o] written in heaven, and to God [o] the Judge of all, and to the spirits of just men [p] made perfect,

24 And to Jesus [q] the mediator of the new † covenant, and to [r] the blood of sprinkling, that speaketh better things [s] than that of Abel.

25 See that ye refuse not him that speaketh. For [t] if they escaped not who refused him that spake on earth, much more shall not we escape, if we turn away from him that speaketh from heaven:

26 [u] Whose voice then shook the earth: but now he hath promised, saying, [x] Yet once more I shake not the earth only, but also heaven.

27 And this word, Yet once more, signifieth [y] the removing of those things that ‡ are shaken, as of things that are made, that those things which cannot be shaken may remain.

28 Wherefore we receiving a kingdom which cannot be moved, § let us have grace,

CHAP. XII. Ver. 1. Wherefore seeing, &c.—"Wherefore even we, like the combatants in the Grecian games, having so great an assembly of witnesses placed around us, laying aside every weight of worldly hope and fears, and cares and friendships, which encumber us in running, and the sin of apostacy, which is so easily committed, let us run with perseverance the race appointed us."—Macknight.

Ver. 3. Such contradiction of sinners.—Such malicious opposition to his doctrines.

Ver. 4. Ye have not resisted unto blood.—Though ye have endured great afflictions, ye have not suffered as Christ did, who is your great example.

Ver. 11. Which are exercised thereby.—Which are disciplined thereby.

Ver. 12, 13. Wherefore lift up, &c.—"Therefore rally your languid spirits, lift up the hands that hang down, that they may exert themselves in this glorious combat, and strengthen the feeble, tottering knees, that they may hold out to the end of this important race. And by the proper exercise of discipline in your Christian societies, and by all the other offices of true and faithful friendship, make straight paths for your feet. Regulate matters so that the way of duty may be as obvious and easy as possible, that the infirm, the lame, and the decrepit may not, by discouragements and temptations, be turned out of the way or thrown down, but that every such feeble traveller in the way of Sion may rather be healed, recovered from falls or weakness, and strengthened to a course of more strenuous and persevering duty."—Doddridge.

Ver. 15. Lest any root of bitterness.—Lest any one utterly corrupted and apostate.

Ver. 17. No place of repentance.—No change in the purpose of his father, who had pronounced the blessing upon Jacob, and therefore would not retract it.

Ver. 20. That which was commanded—namely, That if so much, &c.

Ver. 22. Mount Sion—the heavenly Jerusalem.—The visible and tangible Mount Sinai, and the invisible and intangible heavenly Sion are here contrasted.

Ver. 23. To the general assembly and church of the first-born, &c.—"To the dignity of being members of that congregation of Jews and Gentiles, composed of Apostles, the first fruits of the faith, (Rom. viii. 23.) and all those eminent faithful persons whose names are honoured and recorded in the book of God."—Hammond.

Ver. 24. And to the blood of sprinkling, &c.—And to the blood of the blessed Jesus shed for the redemption of mankind, and typified by the sprinkling of the Levitical sacrifices, that speaketh better things than that of Abel which demanded punishment on him who shed it, whilst the blood of Christ was shed for the salvation of mankind.

Ver. 25. Him that spake on earth—By Moses from Mount Sinai. Him that speaketh from heaven—Through his Son. Then, that is when he spake on earth from Mount Sinai.

Ver. 26. I shake not the earth only.—"The heathen idolatry and the powers which support it, but also heaven, the Mosaic worship and Jewish state."—Macknight.

whereby we may serve God acceptably with reverence and godly fear:

29 For [z] our God is a consuming fire.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Divers admonitions, as to charity, 4 to honest life, 5 to avoid covetousness, 7 to regard God's preachers, 9 to take heed of strange doctrines, 10 to confess Christ, 16 to give alms, 17 to obey governors, 18 to pray for the apostle. 20 The conclusion.

LET [a] brotherly love continue.

2 [b] Be not forgetful to entertain strangers: for thereby [c] some have entertained angels unawares.

3 [d] Remember them that are in bonds, as bound with them; and them which suffer adversity, as being yourselves also in the body.

4 Marriage is honourable in all, and the bed undefiled: [e] but whoremongers and adulterers God will judge.

5 Let your conversation be without covetousness; and [f] be content with such things as ye have: for he hath said, [g] I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee.

6 So that we may boldly say, [h] The Lord is my helper, and I will not fear what man shall do unto me.

7 [i] Remember them which [*] have the rule over you, who have spoken unto you the word of God: [k] whose faith follow, considering the end of their conversation:

8 Jesus Christ [l] the same yesterday, and to day, and for ever.

9 [m] Be not carried about with divers and strange doctrines. For it is a good thing that the heart be established with grace; [n] not with meats, which have not profited them that have been occupied therein.

10 [o] We have an altar, whereof they have no right to eat which serve the tabernacle.

11 For [p] the bodies of those beasts, whose blood is brought into the sanctuary by the High Priest for sin, are burned without the camp.

12 Wherefore Jesus also, that he might sanctify the people with his own blood, [q] suffered without the gate.

13 Let us go forth therefore unto him without the camp, bearing [r] his reproach.

14 [s] For here have we no continuing city, but we seek one to come.

15 [t] By him therefore let us offer [u] the sacrifice of praise to God continually, that is, [x] the fruit of our lips † giving thanks to his name.

16 [y] But to do good and to communicate forget not: for [z] with such sacrifices God is well pleased.

17 [a] Obey them that ‡ have the rule over you, and submit yourselves: for [b] they watch for your souls, as they that must give account, that they may do it with joy, and not with grief: for that is unprofitable for you.

18 [c] Pray for us: for we trust we have [d] a good conscience, in all things willing to live honestly.

19 But I beseech you [*] the rather to do this, that I may be restored to you the sooner.

20 Now [f] the God of peace, [g] that brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, [h] that great Shepherd of the sheep, [i] through the blood of the everlasting § covenant,

21 [k] Make you perfect in every good work to do his will, ‖ [l] working in you that which is wellpleasing in his sight, through Jesus Christ; [m] to whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

22 And I beseech you, brethren, suffer the word of exhortation: for [n] I have written a letter unto you in few words.

23 Know ye that [o] our brother Timothy [p] is set at liberty; with whom, if he come shortly, I will see you.

24 Salute all them [q] that have the rule over you, and all the saints. They of Italy salute you.

25 [r] Grace be with you all. Amen.

CHAP. I.

1 We are to rejoice under the cross, 5 to ask patience of God, 13 and in our trials not to impute our weakness, or sins, unto him, 19 but rather to hearken to the word, to meditate in it, and to do thereafter. 26 Otherwise men may seem, but never be, truly religious.

[a] JAMES, [b] a servant of God and of the Lord Jesus Christ, [c] to the twelve tribes [d] which are scattered abroad, greeting.

2 My brethren, [*] count it all joy [f] when ye fall into divers temptations;

3 [g] Knowing this, that the trying of your faith worketh patience.

4 But let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing.

5 [h] If any of you lack wisdom, [i] let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not; and [k] it shall be given him.

6 [l] But let him ask in faith, nothing wavering. For he that wavereth is like a wave of the sea driven with the wind and tossed.

7 For let not that man think that he shall receive any thing of the Lord.

8 A double minded man is unstable in all his ways.

9 Let the brother of low degree rejoice in that he is exalted:

10 But the rich, in that he is made low: because as the flower of the grass he shall pass away.

11 For the sun is no sooner risen with a burning heat, but it withereth the grass, and the flower thereof falleth, and the grace of the fashion of it perisheth: so also shall the rich man fade away in his ways.

12 Blessed is the man that endureth temptation: for when he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him.

13 Let no man say when he is tempted, I am tempted of God: for God cannot be tempted with evil, neither tempteth he any man:

14 But every man is tempted, when he is drawn away of his own lust, and enticed.

15 Then when lust hath conceived, it bringeth forth sin: and sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death.

16 Do not err, my beloved brethren.

17 Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning.

18 Of his own will begat he us with the word of truth, that we should be a kind of firstfruits of his creatures.

19 Wherefore, my beloved brethren, let every man be swift to hear, slow to speak, slow to wrath:

20 For the wrath of man worketh not the righteousness of God.

21 Wherefore lay apart all filthiness and superfluity of naughtiness, and receive with meekness the engrafted word, which is able to save your souls.

22 But be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves.

23 For if any be a hearer of the word, and not a doer, he is like unto a man beholding his natural face in a glass:

24 For he beholdeth himself, and goeth his way, and straightway forgetteth what manner of man he was.

25 But whoso looketh into the perfect law of liberty, and continueth therein, he being not a forgetful hearer, but a doer of the work, this man shall be blessed in his deed.

26 If any man among you seem to be religious, and bridleth not his tongue, but deceiveth his own heart, this man's religion is vain.

27 Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world.

THE GENERAL EPISTLE OF JAMES.—"James the Less was the author of this Epistle. We have no account of his call to the Apostleship, nor are any particulars recorded of him in the Gospels. In the Acts and in St. Paul's Epistles he is several times mentioned with great distinction.

"This Epistle is generally believed to have been written a short time before the death of St. James; and therefore we may place the date of it with great probability about the year sixty one.

"The immediate design of this Epistle was to animate the Jewish Christians to support with fortitude and patience any sufferings to which they might be exposed, and to enforce the genuine doctrines and practice of the Gospel, in opposition to the errors and vices which then prevailed among them. The principal source of their errors, and our's, was a misrepresentation of St. Paul's doctrine of justification of faith without the works of the law; that is, as the Apostle meant it, without the rites and ceremonies of the Mosaic dispensation; but hence some had most unwarrantably inferred that moral duties were not essential to salvation, and had therefore abandoned themselves to every species of licentiousness and profligacy."—Bp. Tomline.

A. D. cir. 60.

16 And [r] one of you say unto them, Depart in peace, be ye warmed and filled; notwithstanding ye give them not those things which are needful to the body; what doth it profit?

17 Even so faith, if it hath not works, is dead, being [*] alone.

18 Yea, a man may say, Thou hast faith, and I have works: shew me thy faith [†] without thy works, [s] and I will shew thee my faith by my works.

19 Thou believest that there is one God; thou doest well: [t] the devils also believe, and tremble.

20 But wilt thou know, O vain man, that faith without works is dead?

21 Was not Abraham our father justified by works, [u] when he had offered Isaac his son upon the altar?

22 [‡] Seest thou [x] how faith wrought with his works, and by works was faith made perfect?

23 And the Scripture was fulfilled which saith, [y] Abraham believed God, and it was imputed unto him for righteousness: and he was called [z] the Friend of God.

24 Ye see then how that by works a man is justified, and not by faith only.

25 Likewise also [a] was not Rahab the harlot justified by works, when she had received the messengers, and had sent them out another way?

26 For as the body without the [‡] spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead also.

CHAP. III.

1 We are not rashly or arrogantly to reprove others: 5 but rather to bridle the tongue, a little member, but a powerful instrument of much good, and great harm. 13 They who be truly wise be mild, and peaceable, without envying, and strife.

MY brethren, [a] be not many masters, [b] knowing that we shall receive the greater [*] condemnation.

2 For [c] in many things we offend all. [d] If any man offend not in word, [*] the same is a perfect man, and able also to bridle the whole body.

3 Behold, [e] we put bits in the horses' mouths, that they may obey us; and we turn about their whole body.

4 Behold also the ships, which though they be so great, and are driven of fierce winds, yet are they turned about with a very small helm, whithersoever the governor listeth.

5 Even so [g] the tongue is a little member, and [h] boasteth great things. Behold, how great [†] a matter a little fire kindleth!

6 And [i] the tongue is a fire, a world of iniquity: so is the tongue among our members, that [k] it defileth the whole body, and setteth on fire the [‡] course of nature; and it is set on fire of hell.

7 For every [§] kind of beasts, and of birds, and of serpents, and of things in the sea, is tamed, and hath been tamed of [‖] mankind:

8 But the tongue can no man tame; it is an unruly evil, [l] full of deadly poison.

9 Therewith bless we God, even the Father; and therewith curse we men, [m] which are made after the similitude of God.

10 Out of the same mouth proceedeth blessing and cursing. My brethren, these things ought not so to be.

11 Doth a fountain send forth at the same [*] place sweet water and bitter?

12 Can the fig tree, my brethren, bear olive berries? either a vine, figs? so can no fountain both yield salt water and fresh.

13 [n] Who is a wise man and endued with knowledge among you? let him shew out of a good conversation [o] his works [p] with meekness of wisdom.

14 But if ye have [q] bitter envying and strife in your hearts, [r] glory not, and lie not against the truth.

15 [s] This wisdom descendeth not from above, but is earthly, [†] sensual, devilish.

16 For [t] where envying and strife is, there is [‡] confusion and every evil work.

17 But [u] the wisdom that is from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, and easy to be intreated, full of mercy and good fruits, [§] without partiality, [x] and without hypocrisy.

18 [y] And the fruit of righteousness is sown in peace of them that make peace.

CHAP. IV.

1 We are to strive against covetousness, 4 intemperance, 5 pride, 11 detraction, and rash judgment of others. 13 and not to be confident in the good successes of worldly business, but mindful ever of the uncertainty of this life, to commit ourselves and all our affairs to God's providence.

FROM whence come wars and [*] fightings among you? come they not hence, even of your [†] lusts [a] that war in your members?

2 Ye lust, and have not: ye [‡] kill, and desire to have, and cannot obtain: ye fight and war, yet ye have not, because ye ask not.

3 [b] Ye ask, and receive not, [c] because ye ask amiss, that ye may consume it upon your [§] lusts.

4 [d] Ye adulterers and adultresses, know ye not that [e] the friendship of the world is enmity with God? [f] whosoever therefore will be a friend of the world is the enemy of God.

5 Do ye think that the Scripture saith in vain, [g] The spirit that dwelleth in us lusteth [‖] to envy?

6 But he giveth more grace. Wherefore

A. D. cir. 60.

he saith, [h] God resisteth the proud, but giveth grace unto the humble.

7 Submit yourselves therefore to God. [i] Resist the devil, and he will flee from you.

8 [k] Draw nigh to God, and he will draw nigh to you. [l] Cleanse your hands, ye sinners; and [m] purify your hearts, ye [n] double minded.

9 [o] Be afflicted, and mourn, and weep: let your laughter be turned to mourning, and your joy to heaviness.

10 [p] Humble yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and he shall lift you up.

11 [q] Speak not evil one of another, brethren. He that speaketh evil of his brother, [r] and judgeth his brother, speaketh evil of the law, and judgeth the law: but if thou judge the law, thou art not a doer of the law, but a judge.

12 There is one lawgiver, [s] who is able to save and to destroy: [t] who art thou that judgest another?

13 [u] Go to now, ye that say, To day or to morrow we will go into such a city, and continue there a year, and buy and sell, and get gain:

14 Whereas ye know not what shall be on the morrow. For what is your life? [x] It is even a vapour, that appeareth for a little time, and then vanisheth away.

15 For that ye ought to say, [y] If the Lord will, we shall live, and do this, or that.

16 But now ye rejoice in your boastings: [z] all such rejoicing is evil.

17 Therefore [a] to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin.

CHAP. V.

1 Wicked rich men are to fear God's vengeance. 7 We ought to be patient in afflictions, after the example of the prophets, and Job: 12 to forbear swearing, 13 to pray in adversity, to sing in prosperity: 16 to acknowledge mutually our several faults, to pray for one another, 19 and to reduce a straying brother to the truth.

GO [a] to now, ye rich men, weep and howl for your miseries that shall come upon you.

2 Your riches are corrupted, and [b] your garments are motheaten.

3 Your gold and silver is cankered; and the rust of them shall be a witness against you, and shall eat your flesh as it were fire. [c] Ye have heaped treasure together for the last days.

4 Behold, [d] the hire of the labourers who have reaped down your fields, which is of you kept back by fraud, crieth: and [e] the cries of them which have reaped are entered into the ears of the Lord of sabaoth.

5 [f] Ye have lived in pleasure on the earth, and been wanton; ye have nourished your hearts, as in a day of slaughter.

6 [g] Ye have condemned and killed the just; and he doth not resist you.

7 [o] Be patient therefore, brethren, unto the coming of the Lord. Behold, the husbandman waiteth for the precious fruit of the earth, and hath long patience for it, until he receive [h] the early and latter rain.

8 Be ye also patient; stablish your hearts: [i] for the coming of the Lord draweth nigh.

9 [k] † Grudge not one against another, brethren, lest ye be condemned: behold, the judge [l] standeth before the door.

10 [m] Take, my brethren, the prophets, who have spoken in the name of the Lord, for an example of suffering affliction, and of patience.

11 Behold, [n] we count them happy which endure. Ye have heard of [o] the patience of Job, and have seen [p] the end of the Lord; that [q] the Lord is very pitiful, and of tender mercy.

12 But above all things, my brethren, [r] swear not, neither by heaven, neither by the earth, neither by any other oath: but let your yea be yea; and your nay, nay; lest ye fall into condemnation.

13 Is any among you afflicted? let him pray. Is any merry? [s] let him sing psalms.

14 Is any sick among you? let him call for the elders of the Church; and let them pray over him, [t] anointing him with oil in he name of the Lord:

15 And the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up; [u] and if he have committed sins, they shall be forgiven him.

16 Confess your faults one to another, and pray one for another, that ye may be healed. [x] The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much.

17 Elias was a man [y] subject to like passions as we are, and [z] he prayed ‡ earnestly that it might not rain: [a] and it rained not on the earth by the space of three years and six months.

18 And [b] he prayed again, and the heaven gave rain, and the earth brought forth her fruit.

19 Brethren, [c] if any of you do err from the truth, and one convert him;

20 Let him know, that he which converteth the sinner from the error of his way [d] shall save a soul from death, and [e] shall hide a multitude of sins.

The First Epistle general of PETER.

A D cir 60.

CHAP. I.

1 He blesseth God for his manifold spiritual graces: 10 shewing that the salvation in Christ is no news, but a thing prophesied of old: 13 and exhorteth them accordingly to a godly conversation, forasmuch as they are now born anew by the word of God.

PETER, an apostle of Jesus Christ, to the strangers [a] scattered throughout Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia,

2 [b] Elect [c] according to the foreknowledge of God the Father, [d] through sanctification of the Spirit, unto obedience and the [e] sprinkling of the blood of Jesus Christ: [f] Grace unto you, and peace, be multiplied.

3 [g] Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which [h] according to his * abundant mercy [i] hath begotten us again unto a lively hope [k] by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead,

4 To an inheritance incorruptible, and undefiled, [l] and that fadeth not away, [m] reserved in heaven † for you,

5 [n] Who are kept by the power of God through faith unto salvation ready to be revealed in the last time.

6 [o] Wherein ye greatly rejoice, though now [p] for a season, if need be, [q] ye are in heaviness through manifold temptations:

7 That [r] the trial of your faith, being much more precious than of gold that perisheth, though [s] it be tried with fire, [t] might be found unto praise and honour and glory at the appearing of Jesus Christ:

8 [u] Whom having not seen, ye love; [x] in whom, though now ye see him not, yet believing, ye rejoice with joy unspeakable and full of glory:

9 Receiving [y] the end of your faith, even the salvation of your souls.

10 [z] Of which salvation the prophets have enquired and searched diligently, who prophesied of the grace that should come unto you:

11 Searching what, or what manner of time [a] the Spirit of Christ which was in them did signify, when it testified beforehand [b] the sufferings of Christ, and the glory that should follow.

12 [c] Unto whom it was revealed, that [d] not unto themselves, but unto us they did minister the things, which are now reported unto you by them that have preached the Gospel unto you with [e] the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven; [f] which things the angels desire to look into.

13 Wherefore [g] gird up the loins of your mind, [h] be sober, and hope ‡ to the end for the grace that is to be brought unto you [i] at the revelation of Jesus Christ;

14 As obedient children, [k] not fashioning yourselves according to the former lusts [l] in your ignorance:

15 [m] But as he which hath called you is holy, so be ye holy in all manner of conversation;

16 Because it is written, [n] Be ye holy; for I am holy.

17 And if ye call on the Father, [o] who without respect of persons judgeth according to every man's work, [p] pass the time of your [q] sojourning here in fear:

18 Forasmuch as ye know [r] that ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as silver and gold, from your vain conversation [s] received by tradition from your fathers;

19 But [t] with the precious blood of Christ, [u] as of a lamb without blemish and without spot:

20 [x] Who verily was foreordained before the foundation of the world, but was manifest [y] in these last times for you,

21 Who by him do believe in God, [z] that raised him up from the dead, and [a] gave him glory; that your faith and hope might be in God.

22 Seeing ye [b] have purified your souls in obeying the truth through the Spirit unto unfeigned [c] love of the brethren, see that ye love one another with a pure heart fervently:

23 [d] Being born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, [e] by the word of God, which liveth and abideth for ever.

24 § For [f] all flesh is as grass, and all the glory of man as the flower of grass. The grass withereth, and the flower thereof falleth away:

25 [g] But the word of the Lord endureth for ever. [h] And this is the word which by the Gospel is preached unto you.

CHAP. II.

1 He dehorteth them from the breach of charity: 4 shewing that Christ is the foundation whereupon they are built. 11 He beseecheth them also to abstain from fleshly lusts, 13 to be obedient to magistrates, 18 and teacheth servants how to obey their masters, 20 patiently suffering for well doing, after the example of Christ.

WHEREFORE [a] laying aside all malice, and all guile, and hypocrisies, and envies, and all evil speakings,

THE FIRST EPISTLE GENERAL OF PETER.—"The writer of this and the following Epistle was St. Peter, who styles himself an Apostle of Jesus Christ, not the universal bishop and head of the Church; nowhere do we find this holy and humble Apostle assuming, though we often find the apostate Church of Rome giving him an uncontrollable monarchy and sovereign dominion over the whole Church of Christ, and over the Apostles themselves and their successors; and, accordingly, to interpret these words of our Saviour to St Peter (St. John xxi.) 'feed my sheep,' in such a rampant sense as they have done could never, with any confidence, have been offered to the reason of mankind, had not those men subdued their reason to their interest, and subjected both to an implicit faith and blind obedience. St Peter, being the Apostle of the circumcision, writes this Epistle to the believing Jews and proselyted Gentiles, who were of the dispersion, scattered abroad in divers countries, of whom he had an especial charge, and of whose conversion he had been a principal instrument.

"The design of the Epistle was to confirm them in the Christian religion, to encourage them to constancy under the sharpest persecutions and fiery trials for the same, and to excite them to the practice of particular duties incumbent upon them in every capacity and relation in which they stood, beautifying and adorning their holy profession by a holy and becoming conversation. And accordingly he thus writes unto them."—Burkitt.

CHAP. I. Ver. 1. To the strangers.—To the Jewish and Gentile converts.

Ver. 2. Elect.—Ye who have been advanced to the privileges of the Christian dispensation. Unto obedience.—In order to your obeying the Gospel. And sprinkling, &c.—And likewise that ye might be sprinkled with the blood of Jesus Christ, as a token of your admittance into the Christian covenant.

Ver. 5. In the last time.—At the day of final judgment.

Ver. 11. Searching what, &c.—"Searching diligently of what people and of what period of time, the Spirit of Christ who inspired them did signify, when by them he foretold the sufferings of Christ and the glories which were to follow to him and to mankind after these sufferings."—Markwright.

Ver. 12. That not unto themselves, &c.—That not concerning themselves but us, they prophesied those remarkable things which are now reported unto you, &c.

Ver. 13. Gird up the loins of your mind.—Employ the entire strength of your mind;—give your whole attention. At the revelation of Jesus Christ.—At the general resurrection when he shall come in his glorious majesty to judge both quick and dead.

Ver. 17. And if ye call on the Father.—And if ye really address yourselves in sincere homage to God the almighty and universal Father.

Ver. 22. Seeing ye have purified your souls, &c.—Since ye have solemnly entered upon the reformation of your lives, by firmly embracing the Gospel through the influence of the Spirit, by which alone you can have been imbued with sincere love of your Christian brethren, see that ye do not abate that love, but continue to love one another, &c.

Ver. 23. Not of corruptible seed—not of mortal parentage.

2 [b] As newborn babes, desire the sincere [c] milk of the word, that ye may grow thereby:

3 If so be ye have [d] tasted that the Lord is gracious.

4 To whom coming, as unto a living stone, [e] disallowed indeed of men, but chosen of God, and precious,

5 [f] Ye also, as lively stones, [g] are built up [g] a spiritual house, [h] an holy priesthood, to offer up [i] spiritual sacrifices, [k] acceptable to God by Jesus Christ.

6 Wherefore also it is contained in the Scripture, [l] Behold, I lay in Sion a chief corner stone, elect, precious: and he that believeth on him shall not be confounded.

7 Unto you therefore which believe he is † precious: but unto them which be disobedient, [m] the stone which the builders disallowed, the same is made the head of the corner,

8 [n] And a stone of stumbling, and a rock of offence, [o] even to them which stumble at the word, being disobedient: [p] whereunto also they were appointed.

9 But ye are [q] a chosen generation, [r] a royal priesthood, [s] an holy nation, [t] ‡ a peculiar people; that ye should shew forth the § praises of him who hath called you out of [u] darkness into his marvellous light:

10 [x] Which in time past were not a people, but are now the people of God: which had not obtained mercy, but now have obtained mercy.

11 Dearly beloved, I beseech you [y] as strangers and pilgrims, [z] abstain from fleshly lusts, [a] which war against the soul;

12 [b] Having your conversation honest among the Gentiles: that, ‖ whereas they speak against you as evildoers, [c] they may by your good works, which they shall behold, glorify God [d] in the day of visitation.

13 [e] Submit yourselves to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake: whether it be to the king, as supreme;

14 Or unto governors, as unto them that are sent by him [f] for the punishment of evildoers, and [g] for the praise of them that do well.

15 For so is the will of God, that [h] with well doing ye may put to silence the ignorance of foolish men:

16 [i] As free, and not [k] using your liberty for a cloke of maliciousness, but as [l] the servants of God.

17 [l] † Honour all men. [m] Love the brotherhood. [n] Fear God. Honour the king.

18 [o] Servants, be subject to your masters with all fear; not only to the good and gentle, but also to the froward.

19 For this is ‡ [p] thankworthy, if a man for conscience toward God endure grief, suffering wrongfully.

20 For [q] what glory is it, if, when ye be buffeted for your faults, ye shall take it patiently? but if, when ye do well, and suffer for it, ye take it patiently, this is § acceptable with God.

21 For [r] even hereunto were ye called: because [s] Christ also suffered ‖ for us, [t] leaving us an example, that ye should follow his steps:

22 [u] Who did no sin, neither was guile found in his mouth:

23 [x] Who, when he was reviled, reviled not again; when he suffered, he threatened not; but [y] [o] committed himself to him that judgeth righteously:

24 [z] Who his own self bare our sins in his own body † on the tree, [a] that we, being dead to sins, should live unto righteousness: [b] by whose stripes ye were healed.

25 For [o] ye were as sheep going astray; but are now returned [d] unto the Shepherd and Bishop of your souls.

CHAP. III.

1 He teacheth the duty of wives and husbands to each other. 8 Exhorting all men to unity and love, 14 and to suffer persecution. 19 He declareth also the benefits of Christ toward the old world.

LIKEWISE, [a] ye wives, be in subjection to your own husbands; that, if any obey not the word, [b] they also may without the word [c] be won by the conversation of the wives;

2 [d] While they behold your chaste conversation coupled with fear.

3 [e] Whose adorning let it not be that outward adorning of plaiting the hair, and of wearing of gold, or of putting on of apparel;

4 But let it be [f] the hidden man of the heart, in that which is not corruptible, even the ornament of [g] a meek and quiet spirit, which is in the sight of God of great price.

5 For after this manner in the old time the holy women also, who trusted in God, adorned themselves, being in subjection unto their own husbands:

6 Even as Sara obeyed Abraham, [g] calling him lord: whose [o] daughters ye are, as long as ye do well, and are not afraid with any amazement.

7 [h] Likewise, ye husbands, dwell with them according to knowledge, giving honour unto the wife, [i] as unto the weaker vessel,

Ver. 8. Whereunto also they were appointed.—The disobedient were appointed to receive the punishment consequent upon falling on this stone—that is, to be broken or destroyed.

Ver. 9. A royal priesthood.—"Who bear at once the dignity of kings, and the sanctity of priests."—Doddridge.

Ver. 11. As strangers and pilgrims.—Or as travellers who, having only a temporary abode upon earth, are journeying towards a better country, where your abode will be eternal.

Ver. 12. In the day of visitation.—When overtaken by calamity, or exposed to persecution.

Ver. 16. As free, &c.—"Many of the Jews rebelled against the Romans, and against the governors sent by them, upon this very pretence, that they were a free people, and ought to preserve their liberty. And thus, they used their liberty as a cloak of maliciousness."—Whitby.

CHAP. III. Ver. 1, 2 That if any obey not, &c.—"That if any of them be disobedient to the word of the Gospel, and have refused to yield to all the other mighty arguments by which Christianity is supported, they may, without attending to the word, (Ver. 2) be gained over to the love and practice of it, by the amiable and edifying deportment of their wives, particularly beholding your chaste and spotless conversation in the fear of God."—Doddridge.

Ver. 4. The hidden man of the heart.—The inward disposition of the heart, maintaining those pure and holy affections within it which are not corruptible.

Ver. 6. As long as ye do well.—So long as you act becomingly towards your husbands. And are not afraid with any amazement.—And have no terrifying fears or apprehensions in being detected in any lapses of duty. Bishop Hall paraphrases the latter clause of the sixth verse thus: "Whose daughters ye are, if ye follow her example in well doing boldly, and constantly; and not in those weak fears to which she yielded, and was drawn into inconvenience and dissimulation thereby."

Ver 7. According to knowledge.—According to the well known conditions of conjugal union, and especially to the higher information of those whose minds have been enlightened by the precious truths of the Gospel.

and as being heirs together of the grace of life; [k] that your prayers be not hindered.

8 Finally, [l] be ye all of one mind, having compassion one of another, [m] † love as brethren, [n] be pitiful, be courteous:

9 [o] Not rendering evil for evil, or railing for railing: but contrariwise blessing; knowing that ye are thereunto called, [p] that ye should inherit a blessing.

10 For [q] he that will love life, and see good days, [r] let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile:

11 Let him [s] eschew evil, and do good; [t] let him seek peace, and ensue it.

12 For the eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, [u] and his ears are open unto their prayers: but the face of the Lord is ‡ against them that do evil.

13 [x] And who is he that will harm you, if ye be followers of that which is good?

14 [y] But and if ye suffer for righteousness' sake, happy are ye: [z] and § be not afraid of their terror, neither be troubled;

15 But sanctify the Lord God in your hearts: and [a] be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you with meekness and § fear:

16 [b] Having a good conscience; [c] that, whereas they speak evil of you, as of evil doers, they may be ashamed that falsely accuse your good conversation in Christ.

17 For it is better, if the will of God be so, that ye suffer for well doing, than for evil doing.

18 For Christ also hath [d] once suffered for sins, the just for the unjust, that he might bring us to God, [e] being put to death [f] in the flesh, but [g] quickened by the Spirit:

19 By which also he went and [h] preached unto the spirits [i] in prison;

20 Which sometime were disobedient, [k] when once the longsuffering of God waited in the days of Noah, while [l] the ark was a preparing, [m] wherein few, that is, eight souls were saved by water.

21 [n] The like figure whereunto even baptism doth also now save us (not the putting away of [o] the filth of the flesh, [p] but the answer of a good conscience toward God,) [q] by the resurrection of Jesus Christ:

22 Who is gone into heaven, and [r] is on the right hand of God; [s] angels and authorities and powers being made subject unto him.

CHAP. IV.

1 He exhorteth them to cease from sin by the example of Christ, and the consideration of the general end that now approacheth: 12 and comforteth them against persecution.

FORASMUCH then [a] as Christ hath suffered for us in the flesh, arm yourselves likewise with the same mind: for [b] he that hath suffered in the flesh hath ceased from sin;

2 [c] That he no longer [d] should live the rest of his time in the flesh to the lusts of men, [e] but to the will of God.

3 [f] For the time past of our life may suffice us [g] to have wrought the will of the Gentiles, when we walked in lasciviousness, lusts, excess of wine, revellings, banquetings, and abominable idolatries:

4 Wherein they think it strange that ye run not with them to the same excess of riot, [h] speaking evil of you:

5 Who shall give account to him that is ready [i] to judge the quick and the dead.

6 For for this cause [k] was the Gospel preached also to them that are dead, that they might be judged according to men in the flesh, but live according to God in the spirit.

7 But [l] the end of all things is at hand: [m] be ye therefore sober, and watch unto prayer.

8 [n] And above all things have fervent charity among yourselves: for [o] charity * shall cover the multitude of sins.

9 [p] Use hospitality one to another [q] without grudging.

10 [r] As every man hath received the gift, even so minister the same one to another, [s] as good stewards of [t] the manifold grace of God.

11 [u] If any man speak, let him speak as the oracles of God; [x] if any man minister, let him do it as of the ability which God giveth: that [y] God in all things may be glorified through Jesus Christ, [z] to whom be praise and dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

12 Beloved, think it not strange concerning [a] the fiery trial which is to try you, as though some strange thing happened unto you:

13 [b] But rejoice, inasmuch as [c] ye are partakers of Christ's sufferings; [d] that, when his glory shall be revealed, ye may be glad also with exceeding joy.

14 [e] If ye be reproached for the name of Christ, happy are ye; for the spirit of glory and of God resteth upon you: [f] on their part he is evil spoken of, but on your part he is glorified.

15 [g] But let none of you suffer as a murderer, or as a thief, or as an evildoer, [h] or as a busybody in other men's matters.

16 Yet if any man suffer as a Christian, let him not be ashamed; [i] but let him glorify God on this behalf.

Ver. 14. Be not afraid of their terror.—Be not afraid of that terror which your persecutors would inspire

Ver. 19. By which also, &c.—"By which spirit also, speaking in Noah (2 Pet. ii. 5) he preached to the persons now in prison."—Macknight. "The plain interpretation of this passage is the true one, namely, that Christ did preach to those men who lived before the flood, even while they lived, and, consequently, that he was before it. For though this was not done by an immediate act of the Son of God, as if he personally had appeared on earth, and actually preached to that old world; but by the ministry of a prophet, by the sending of Noah, a preacher of righteousness; yet to do any thing by another, not able to perform it without him, as much demonstrates the existence of the principal cause as if he did it of himself without any intervening instrument."—Bishop Pearson.

Ver. 21. The like figure whereunto, even baptism.—To which the deluge bore a sort of figurative resemblance, Noah and his family being there saved in the ark. Not the putting away, &c.—I do not mean the washing away the filth of the flesh only, but the thing signified thereby, the answer of a good conscience towards God.

CHAP. IV. Ver. 1. He that hath suffered in the flesh.—Whose affections, and lusts, and evil passions have been crucified or put to death in the flesh.

Ver. 2. To the lusts of men.—In obedience to the desires of unholy men, but to the will of God.

Ver. 3. May suffice us.—Has been fully sufficient.

Ver. 6. To them that are dead, &c.—To the Gentiles, who were dead in trespasses and sins, to convince them that, although they might be condemned to death in the body by the judgments of men, they should nevertheless obtain eternal life in the spirit by the power of God.

Ver. 7. The end of all things is at hand.—But as death, and thus to the dead the consummation of all things, cannot be far off to any one of you, be ye therefore sober, &c.

17 For the time is come [k] that judgment must begin at the house of God: and [l] if it first begin at us, [m] what shall the end be of them that obey not the Gospel of God?

18 [n] And if the righteous scarcely be saved, where shall the ungodly and the sinner appear?

19 Wherefore let them that suffer according to the will of God [o] commit the keeping of their souls to him in well doing, as unto a faithful Creator.

CHAP. V.

1 He exhorteth the elders to feed their flocks, 5 the younger to obey, 8 and all to be sober, watchful, and constant in the faith: 9 to resist the cruel adversary the devil.

THE elders which are among you I exhort, who am also [a] an elder, and [b] a witness of the sufferings of Christ, and also [c] a partaker of the glory that shall be revealed:

2 [d] Feed the flock of God * which is among you, taking the oversight thereof, * not by constraint, but willingly; [f] not for filthy lucre, but of a ready mind;

3 Neither as †[g] being lords over [h] God's heritage, but [i] being ensamples to the flock.

4 And when [k] the chief Shepherd shall appear, ye shall receive [l] a crown of glory [m] that fadeth not away.

5 Likewise, ye younger, submit yourselves unto the elder. Yea, [n] all of you be subject one to another, and be clothed with humility; for [o] God resisteth the proud, and [p] giveth grace to the humble.

6 [q] Humble yourselves therefore under the mighty hand of God, that he may exalt you in due time:

7 [r] Casting all your care upon him; for he careth for you.

8 [s] Be sober, be vigilant; because [t] your adversary the devil, as a roaring lion, walketh about, seeking whom he may devour:

9 [u] Whom resist stedfast in the faith, [x] knowing that the same afflictions are accomplished in your brethren that are in the world.

10 But the God of all grace, [y] who hath called us unto his eternal glory by Christ Jesus, after that ye have suffered [z] a while, [a] make you perfect, [b] stablish, strengthen, settle you.

11 [c] To him be glory and dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

12 [d] By Silvanus, a faithful brother unto you, as I suppose, I have [e] written briefly, exhorting, and testifying [f] that this is the true grace of God wherein ye stand.

13 The church that is at Babylon, elected together with you, saluteth you; and so doth [g] Marcus my son.

14 [h] Greet ye one another with a kiss of charity. [i] Peace be with you all that are in Christ Jesus. Amen.

The Second Epistle general of PETER.

A. D. 66.

CHAP. I.

* Or, Symeon. Acts 15. 14.

SIMON Peter, a servant and an apostle of Jesus Christ, to them that have obtained [a] like precious faith with us through the righteousness of † God and our Saviour Jesus Christ:

2 [b] Grace and peace be multiplied unto you through the knowledge of God, and of Jesus our lord,

3 According as his divine power hath given unto us all things that pertain unto life and godliness, [c] through the knowledge of him [d] that hath called us ‡ to glory and virtue:

4 [e] Whereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises: that by these ye might be [f] partakers of the divine nature, [g] having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust.

5 And beside this, [h] giving all diligence, add to your faith virtue; and to virtue [i] knowledge;

6 And to knowledge temperance; and to temperance patience; and to patience godliness;

7 And to godliness brotherly kindness; and [k] to brotherly kindness charity.

8 For if these things be in you, and abound, they make you that ye shall neither be § barren [l] nor unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ.

9 But he that lacketh these things [m] is blind, and cannot see afar off, and hath forgotten that he was [n] purged from his old sins.

10 Wherefore the rather, brethren, give diligence [o] to make your calling and election sure: for if ye do these things, [p] ye shall never fall:

11 For so an entrance shall be ministered

THE SECOND EPISTLE GENERAL OF PETER.—"The second Epistle of Peter was written by him a little before his death, he having received a revelation probably of his approaching departure out of this life: he writes this second letter to the Jews of the dispersion scattered through Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia, to warn them of the fiery trial, that sharp and bitter persecution which was coming upon them, and to fortify them against that apostacy from the faith, that falling from their own stedfastness, that departing from the holy commandments which these newly-converted Jews were very prone unto: he sends therefore this Epistle to establish and settle them, to strengthen and confirm them; and this is the last mention which we find in Scripture of this great and glorious Apostle."—Burkitt.

Chap. i. Ver. 1. Through the righteousness.—Through the merits of Christ, our God and Saviour.

Ver. 3. Unto life and godliness.—Unto life everlasting in the next world, and to godliness in this.

Ver. 4. Of the divine nature.—Of that purity of soul and spiritual perfection which essentially belongs to the divine nature, from which it is communicated to the saints in heaven.

Ver. 9. That he was purged from his old sins.—Cleansed from his original corruption transmitted through Adam, by the precious blood of Christ which has freed him from the bondage of that corruption, and opened before him the road to salvation.

Ver. 10. To make your calling and election sure.—To secure to yourselves the privileges and blessings of Christianity to which you have been called by God, who has chosen you to be his people. Ye shall never fall.—You shall never forfeit those privileges and blessings to which you have been called.

unto you abundantly into the everlasting kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

12 Wherefore [q] I will not be negligent to put you always in remembrance of these things, [r] though ye know them, and be established in the present truth.

13 Yea, I think it meet, [s] as long as I am in this tabernacle, [t] to stir you up by putting you in remembrance;

14 [u] Knowing that shortly I must put off this my tabernacle, even as [x] our Lord Jesus Christ hath shewed me.

15 Moreover I will endeavour that ye may be able after my decease to have these things always in remembrance.

16 For we have not followed [y] cunningly devised fables, when we made known unto you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but [z] were eyewitnesses of his majesty.

17 For he received from God the Father honour and glory, when there came such a voice to him from the excellent glory, [a] This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.

18 And this voice which came from heaven we heard, when we were with him in [b] the holy mount.

19 We have also a more sure word of prophecy; whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto [c] a light that shineth in a dark place, until the day dawn, and [d] the day star arise in your hearts:

20 Knowing this first, that [e] no prophecy of the Scripture is of any private interpretation.

21 For [f] the prophecy came not ‖ in old time by the will of man: [g] but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost.

CHAP. II.

1 He foretelleth them of false teachers, shewing the impiety and punishment both of them and their followers: 7 from which the godly shall be delivered, as Lot was out of Sodom: 10 and more fully describeth the manners of those profane and blasphemous seducers, whereby they may be the better known, and avoided

BUT [a] there were false prophets also among the people, even as [b] there shall be false teachers among you, who privily shall bring in damnable heresies, even [c] denying the Lord [d] that bought them, [e] and bring upon themselves swift destruction.

2 And many shall follow their * pernicious ways; by reason of whom the way of truth shall be evil spoken of.

3 And [f] through covetousness shall they with feigned words [g] make merchandise of you: [h] whose judgment now of a long time lingereth not, and their damnation slumbereth not.

4 For if God spared not [i] the angels [k] that sinned, but [l] cast them down to hell and delivered them into chains of darkness, to be reserved unto judgment;

5 And spared not the old world, but saved [m] Noah the eighth person, [n] a preacher of righteousness, [o] bringing in the flood upon the world of the ungodly;

6 And [p] turning the cities of Sodom and Gomorrha into ashes condemned them with an overthrow, [q] making them an ensample unto those that after should live ungodly;

7 And [r] delivered just Lot, vexed with the filthy conversation of the wicked:

8 (For that righteous man dwelling among them, [t] in seeing and hearing, vexed his righteous soul from day to day with their unlawful deeds;)

9 [u] The Lord knoweth how to deliver the godly out of temptations, and to reserve the unjust unto the day of judgment to be punished:

10 But chiefly [x] them that walk after the flesh in the lust of uncleanness, and despise † government. [y] Presumptuous are they, self-willed, they are not afraid to speak evil of dignities.

11 Whereas [z] angels, which are greater in power and might, bring not railing accusation ‡ against them before the Lord.

12 But these, [a] as natural brute beasts, made to be taken and destroyed, speak evil of the things that they understand not; and shall utterly perish in their own corruption;

13 [b] And shall receive the reward of unrighteousness, as they that count it pleasure [c] to riot in the day time. [d] Spots they are and blemishes, sporting themselves with their own deceivings while [e] they feast with you;

14 Having eyes full of § adultery, and that cannot cease from sin; beguiling unstable souls: [f] an heart they have exercised with covetous practices; cursed children:

15 Which have forsaken the right way, and are gone astray, following the way of [g] Balaam the son of Bosor, who loved the wages of unrighteousness;

16 But was rebuked for his iniquity: the dumb ass speaking with man's voice forbad the madness of the prophet.

17 [h] These are wells without water, clouds that are carried with a tempest; to whom the mist of darkness is reserved for ever.

18 For when [i] they speak great swelling words of vanity, they allure through the lusts of the flesh, through much wantonness, those that [k] were ‖ clean escaped from them who live in error.

19 While they promise them [l] liberty, they themselves are [m] the servants of corruption: for of whom a man is overcome, of the same is he brought in bondage.

20 For [n] if after they [o] have escaped the pollutions of the world [p] through the knowledge of the Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, they are again entangled therein, and overcome, the latter end is worse with them than the beginning.

21 For [q] it had been better for them not

THE FIRST GENERAL EPISTLE OF ST. JOHN.—"Of the author of this Epistle, that it was John, the beloved disciple, the same who wrote the Gospel and the Revelations, there has never been any question in the Church of God, which has from all times, without any doubt, received it into the Canon. That he begins not, as the other Apostles (all, save only the Epistle to the Hebrews) had done all their Epistles, with his name, and expression of those to whom he wrote, by way of salutation, may most fitly be interpreted by his customary practice in his other writings, who in the Gospel scarcely ever names himself, but chooses to use some circumlocution, as "he that saw," "the disciple whom Jesus loved," "he that lay on Jesus' bosom," and the like, and begins his discourse without one word of formality or title, or preface, which all the other Evangelists had used. In what year of Christ this Epistle was written, is no otherwise certain than by what may be collected from some passages in it; as chap. ii. 18, where it seems to have been a little before the great destruction which befel the Jews, called by other Apostles, "the day of the Lord," and "the last day;" but by him "the last hour," or part of that day; and again, "the true light already shining," (chap. ii. 8.) that is, the Christian bright state turning out the Mosaical shadows, or typical services, which was finally to be done at the destruction of the Temple, and now already was done in some part. And the same again appears by the many "counterfeit Christs and false prophets," that, in that ver. 18, he saith were then among them, such as Christ tells us were to be the immediate forerunners of that destruction. (Matt. xxiv.) And accordingly the whole business of the Epistle is to encourage them (chap. ii. 4.), to confirm the faith and constancy of the Christian professors, who were now solicited vehemently by those seducers, and the Church torn asunder in every place by the Gnostics (followers of Simon), who now denied the reality of Christ's coming in the flesh, and would no longer confess a crucified Saviour, or venture any persecution for that confession. That it was called anciently the Epistle to the Parthians, is affirmed by St. Augustine, meaning thereby those converted Jews which lived beyond Euphrates, of which there were great multitudes, saith Josephus. (Ant. l. xviii. c. 12.) And to them it is not improbable it was written."—Dr. Hammond.

CHAP. I. Ver. 1. That which was from the beginning—Of the Gospel dispensation, namely the word made flesh. Of the word of life.—That which has been justly called the word of life, as communicating everlasting life in heaven to those that receive it in full assurance of faith.

Ver. 2. For the life was manifested.—For he who imparted life and immortality to erring man was manifested in the flesh.

4 And these things write we unto you, [1] that your joy may be full.

5 [m] This then is the message which we have heard of him, and declare unto you, that [n] God is light, and in him is no darkness at all.

6 [o] If we say that we have fellowship with him, and walk in darkness, we lie, and do not the truth:

7 But if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and [p] the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin.

8 [q] If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, [r] and the truth is not in us.

9 [s] If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to [t] cleanse us from all unrighteousness.

10 If we say that we have not sinned, we make him a liar, and his word is not in us.

CHAP. II.

1 He comforteth them against the sins of infirmity. 3 Rightly to know God is to keep his commandments. 9 To love our brethren, 15 and not to love the world. 18 We must beware of seducers: 20 from whose deceits the godly are safe, preserved by perseverance in faith, and holiness of life.

MY little children, these things write I unto you, that ye sin not. And if any man sin, [a] we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous:

2 And [b] he is the propitiation for our sins: and not for our's only, but [c] also for the sins of the whole world.

3 And hereby we do know that we know him, if we keep his commandments.

4 [d] He that saith, I know him, and keepeth not his commandments, [e] is a liar, and the truth is not in him.

5 But [f] whoso keepeth his word, [g] in him verily is the love of God perfected: [h] hereby know we that we are in him.

6 [i] He that saith he abideth in him [k] ought himself also so to walk, even as he walked.

7 Brethren, [l] I write no new commandment unto you, but an old commandment [m] which ye had from the beginning. The old commandment is the word which ye have heard from the beginning.

8 Again, [n] a new commandment I write unto you, which thing is true in him and in you: [o] because the darkness is past, and [p] the true light now shineth.

9 [q] He that saith he is in the light, and hateth his brother, is in darkness even until now.

10 [r] He that loveth his brother abideth in the light, and [s] there is none [*] occasion of stumbling in him.

11 But he that hateth his brother is in darkness, and [t] walketh in darkness, and knoweth not whither he goeth, because that darkness hath blinded his eyes. After A. D. 90.

12 I write unto you, little children, because [u] your sins are forgiven you for his name's sake.

13 I write unto you, fathers, because ye have known him [x] that is from the beginning. I write unto you, young men, because ye have overcome the wicked one. I write unto you, little children, because ye have known the Father.

14 I have written unto you, fathers, because ye have known him that is from the beginning. I have written unto you, young men, because [y] ye are strong, and the word of God abideth in you, and ye have overcome the wicked one.

15 [z] Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. [a] If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him.

16 For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, [b] and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world.

17 And [c] the world passeth away, and the lust thereof: but he that doeth the will of God abideth for ever.

18 [d] Little children, [e] it is the last time: and as ye have heard that [f] antichrist shall come, [g] even now are there many antichrists; whereby we know [h] that it is the last time.

19 [i] They went out from us, but they were not of us; for [k] if they had been of us, they would no doubt have continued with us: but they went out, [l] that they might be made manifest that they were not all of us.

20 But [m] ye have an unction [n] from the Holy One, and [o] ye know all things.

21 I have not written unto you because ye know not the truth, but because ye know it, and that no lie is of the truth.

22 [p] Who is a liar but he that denieth that Jesus is the Christ? He is antichrist, that denieth the Father and the Son.

23 [q] Whosoever denieth the Son, the same hath not the Father: [but] [r] he that acknowledgeth the Son hath the Father also.

24 Let that therefore abide in you, [s] which ye have heard from the beginning. If that which ye have heard from the beginning shall remain in you, [t] ye also shall continue in the Son, and in the Father.

25 [u] And this is the promise that he hath promised us, even eternal life.

26 These things have I written unto you [x] concerning them that seduce you.

27 But [y] the anointing which ye have received of him abideth in you, and [z] ye need not that any man teach you: but as the same anointing [a] teacheth you of all things, and is truth, and is no lie, and even as it hath taught you, ye shall abide in †him.

28 And now, little children, abide in him; that, [b] when he shall appear, we may have confidence, [c] and not be ashamed before him at his coming.

29 [d] If ye know that he is righteous, ‡ye know that [e] every one that doeth righteousness is born of him.

CHAP. III.

He declareth the singular love of God towards us, in making us his sons: 3 who therefore ought obediently to keep his commandments, 11 as also brotherly to love one another.

BEHOLD, what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that [a] we should be called the sons of God: therefore the world knoweth us not, [b] because it knew him not.

2 Beloved, [c] now are we the sons of God, and [d] it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that, when he shall appear, [e] we shall be like him; for [f] we shall see him as he is.

3 [g] And every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself, even as he is pure.

4 Whosoever committeth sin transgresseth also the law: for [h] sin is the transgression of the law.

5 And ye know [i] that he was manifested [k] to take away our sins; and [l] in him is no sin.

6 Whosoever abideth in him sinneth not: [m] whosoever sinneth hath not seen him, neither known him.

7 Little children, [n] let no man deceive you: [o] he that doeth righteousness is righteous, even as he is righteous.

8 [p] He that committeth sin is of devil; for the devil sinneth from the beginning. For this purpose the Son of God was manifested, [q] that he might destroy the works of the devil.

9 [r] Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin; for [s] his seed remaineth in him: and he cannot sin, because he is born of God.

10 In this the children of God are manifest, and the children of the devil: [t] whosoever doeth not righteousness is not of God, [u] neither he that loveth not his brother.

11 For [x] this is the [*] message that ye heard from the beginning, [y] that we should love one another.

12 Not as [z] Cain, who was of that wicked one, and slew his brother. And wherefore slew he him? Because his own works were evil, and his brother's righteous.

13 Marvel not, my brethren, if [a] the world hate you.

14 [b] We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren. [c] He that loveth not his brother abideth in death.

15 [d] Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer: and ye know that [e] no murderer hath eternal life abiding in him:

16 [f] Hereby perceive we the love of God, because he laid down his life for us: and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren.

17 But [g] whoso hath this world's good, and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, [h] how dwelleth the love of God in him?

18 My little children, [i] let us not love in word, neither in tongue; but in deed and in truth.

19 And hereby we know [k] that we are of the truth, and shall †assure our hearts before him.

20 [l] For if our heart condemn us, God is greater than our heart, and knoweth all things.

21 [m] Beloved, if our heart condemn us not, [n] then have we confidence toward God.

22 And [o] whatsoever we ask, we receive of him, because we keep his commandments, [p] and do those things that are pleasing in his sight.

23 [q] And this is his commandment, That we should believe on the name of his Son Jesus Christ, [r] and love one another, [s] as he gave us commandment.

24 And [t] he that keepeth his commandments [u] dwelleth in him, and he in him. And [x] hereby we know that he abideth in us, by the Spirit which he hath given us.

CHAP. IV.

1 He warneth them not to believe all teachers, who boast of the Spirit, but to try them by the rules of the catholic faith: 7 and by many reasons exhorteth to brotherly love.

BELOVED, [a] believe not every spirit, but [b] try the spirits whether they are of God: because [c] many false prophets are gone out into the world.

2 Hereby know ye the Spirit of God: [d] Every spirit that confesseth that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh is of God:

3 And [e] every spirit that confesseth not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh is not of God: and this is that spirit of antichrist, whereof ye have heard that it should come; and [f] even now already is it in the world.

4 [g] Ye are of God, little children, and have overcome them: because greater is he that is in you, than [h] he that is in the world.

5 [i] They are of the world: therefore speak they of the world, and [k] the world heareth them.

6 We are of God: [l] he that knoweth God heareth us; he that is not of God heareth not us. Hereby know we [m] the spirit of truth, and the spirit of error.

After A. D. 90.

7 [n] Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God: and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God.

8 He that loveth not [o] knoweth not God; for [p] God is love.

9 [q] In this was manifested the love of God toward us, because that God sent his only begotten Son into the world, that we might live through him.

10 Herein is love, [r] not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent his Son [t] to be the propitiation for our sins.

11 Beloved, [u] if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another.

12 [x] No man hath seen God at any time. If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and [y] his love is perfected in us.

13 [z] Hereby know we that we dwell in him, and he in us, because he hath given us of his Spirit.

14 And [a] we have seen and do testify that [b] the Father sent the Son to be the Saviour of the world.

15 [c] Whosoever shall confess that Jesus is the Son of God, God dwelleth in him, and he in God.

16 And we have known and believed the love that God hath to us. [d] God is love; and [e] he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him.

17 Herein is [*] our love made perfect, that [f] we may have boldness in the day of judgment: [g] because as he is, so are we in this world.

18 There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear: because fear hath torment. He that feareth [h] is not made perfect in love.

19 We love him, because he first loved us.

20 [i] If a man say, I love God, and hateth his brother, he is a liar: for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God [k] whom he hath not seen?

21 And [l] this commandment have we from him, That he who loveth God love his brother also.

CHAP. V.

1 He that loveth God loveth his children, and keepeth his commandments: 3 which to the faithful are light and not grievous. 9 Jesus is the Son of God, able to save us, 14 and to hear our prayers, which we make for ourselves, and for others.

WHOSOEVER [a] believeth that [b] Jesus is the Christ is [c] born of God: [d] and every one that loveth him that begat loveth him also that is begotten of him.

2 By this we know that we love the children of God, when we love God, and keep his commandments.

3 [e] For this is the love of God, that we keep his commandments: and [f] his commandments are not grievous.

4 For [g] whatsoever is born of God overcometh the world: and this is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith.

5 Who is he that overcometh the world, but [h] he that believeth that Jesus is the Son of God?

6 This is he that came [i] by water and blood, even Jesus Christ: not by water only, but by water and blood. [k] And it is the Spirit that beareth witness, because the Spirit is truth.

7 For there are three that bear record in heaven, the Father, [l] the Word, and the Holy Ghost: [m] and these three are one.

8 And there are three that bear witness in earth, the spirit, and the water, and the blood: and these three agree in one.

9 If we receive [n] the witness of men, the witness of God is greater: [o] for this is the witness of God which he hath testified of his Son.

10 He that believeth on the Son of God [p] hath the witness in himself: he that believeth not God [q] hath made him a liar; because he believeth not the record that God gave of his Son.

11 [r] And this is the record, that God hath given to us eternal life, and [s] this life is in his Son.

12 [t] He that hath the Son hath life; and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life.

13 [u] These things have I written unto you that believe on the name of the Son of God; [v] that ye may know that ye have eternal life, and that ye may believe on the name of the Son of God.

14 And this is the confidence that we have [*] in him, that, [x] if we ask any thing according to his will, he heareth us:

15 And if we know that he hear us, whatsoever we ask, we know that we have the petitions that we desired of him.

16 If any man see his brother sin a sin which is not unto death, he shall ask, and [y] he shall give him life for them that sin not unto death. [z] There is a sin unto death: [a] I do not say that he shall pray for it.

17 [b] All unrighteousness is sin: and there is a sin not unto death.

18 We know that [c] whosoever is born of God sinneth not; but he that is begotten of God [d] keepeth himself, and that wicked one toucheth him not.

There is a sin which will be punished with death because the sinner is impenitent. I do not say concerning it that the spiritual man should ask God to recover such a person by miracle. Ver. 17. THE SECOND EPISTLE OF JOHN.—"This and the Third Epistle of St John have been both very improperly ranked under the denomination, general, or catholic; since each is inscribed to a single person; one to a woman of distinction, styled here the elect lady; and the other to Gaius, probably the same person with Gaius of Corinth, who is styled by St. Paul his host, and is celebrated for his hospitality to the brethren; a character very agreeable to that which is here given of Gaius by the Apostle John.

"There is no fixing the date of these two Epistles with any certainty. It in a great measure depends on the date of the first Epistle, soon after which, it is generally agreed, both these were written. And this, indeed, appears exceeding probable, from that coincidence, both of sentiment and expression, which occurs in all these epistles; and from hence it is inferred that the state of things in the Christian church, referred to in these smaller Epistles was very much the same as it was in the time of writing the first Epistle, and that the Apostle having lately written it, had it now particularly in his view, and the sentiments and expressions of it present to his mind. And possibly about the same time that he sent his first Epistle to Christians in general, he might send his second to this honoured lady, and his third to his friend Gaius in particular, as a mark of peculiar regard."—Doddridge.

Ver. 1. The elder.—John was supposed to be ninety years of age when he wrote this epistle, and being likewise an Apostle, the title eminently became him. Unto the elect lady—Unto the most excellent or noble lady, or, it may signify, to the most pious Christian lady.

Ver. 3. The Son of the Father, in truth and love.—"That is, the true and beloved son of the Father."—Whitby.

Ver. 4. Walking in truth.—Observing the precepts, and embracing the precious doctrines of the Gospel.

Ver. 8. That we lose not, &c.—That we, the appointed ministers of Christ, lose not our labour in having wrought a good work in you by converting you to the Christian faith.

Ver. 9. Hath not God, &c.—Does not confess God as his father and Christ as his Redeemer—he has really an interest in neither.

The Third Epistle of JOHN.

After A. D. 90.

He commendeth Gaius for his piety, 5 and hospitality, 7 to true preachers: 9 complaining of the unkind dealing of ambitious Diotrephes on the contrary side, 11 whose evil example is not to be followed: 12 and giveth special testimony to the good report of Demetrius.

[a] THE elder unto the well beloved Gaius, [a] whom I love * in the truth.

2 Beloved, I † wish above all things that thou mayest prosper and be in health, even as thy soul prospereth.

3 For I rejoiced greatly, when the brethren came and testified of the truth that is in thee, even as [b] thou walkest in the truth.

4 I have no greater joy than to hear that [c] my children walk in truth.

5 Beloved, thou dost faithfully whatsoever thou doest to the brethren, and to strangers;

6 Which have borne witness of thy charity before the Church: whom if thou bring forward on their journey ‡ after a godly sort, thou shalt do well:

7 Because that for his name's sake they went forth, [d] taking nothing of the Gentiles.

8 We therefore ought to receive such, that we might be fellowhelpers to the truth.

9 I wrote unto the Church: but Diotrephes, who loveth to have the pre-eminence among them, receiveth us not.

10 Wherefore, if I come, I will remember his deeds which he doeth, prating against us with malicious words: and not content therewith, neither doth he himself receive the brethren, and forbiddeth them that would, and casteth them out of the Church.

11 Beloved, [e] follow not that which is evil, but that which is good. [f] He that doeth good is of God: but he that doeth evil hath not seen God.

12 Demetrius [g] hath good report of all men, and of the truth itself: yea, and we

THE GENERAL EPISTLE OF JUDE.—"Judas or Jude, called also Lebbeus and Thaddeus, was the son of Alpheus or Cleophas, the brother of James the Less, the cousin german of our Saviour, and one of the twelve Apostles. His call to be a disciple of Jesus is not recorded: and, except in the catalogue of the Apostles, he is mentioned only once in the Gospels; see John xiv. 22. He is not spoken of in the Acts of the Apostles; nor is any circumstance, on which we can depend, recorded of him in any ancient author. His Epistle is addressed 'to them that are sanctified by God the Father, and preserved in Jesus Christ, and called;' (ver. 1.) that is, to all Christians without any distinction. From a passage in ver. 17 and 18, it is evident that the Epistle was written some time after St. Peter's Epistles, and St. Paul's Epistles to Timothy, in which the prophecies alluded to in those verses are contained."—Bishop Tomline.

Ver. 1. To them that are sanctified, &c.—"That is, to all Christians, without any distinction."—Bishop Tomline; see Introduction.

Ver. 3. The common salvation.—The salvation formed on the Gospel.

Ver. 4. Who were before of old ordained.—"Of whom it was before written or prophecied that this should be their condemnation." Whitby.

Turning the grace of our God into lasciviousness.—"So perverting the doctrine of the Gospel as to teach that it even countenances and encourages lasciviousness."—Dr. Wells.

Ver. 6 Which kept not their first estate—who continued not in that original state of purity in which they were created, but listened to the suggestion of ambition, and broke out into open rebellion against God.

Ver. 7. Going after strange flesh.—Indulging in the most disgusting and unnatural lusts.—Suffering the vengeance of eternal fire.—"Having their cities so consumed by fire as to be incapable of being rebuilt, and thus exhibiting in their punishment a proper emblem of that eternal fire which is to be the punishment of the wicked at the last day."—Dr. Wells.

Ver. 9. Yet Michael, &c.—"But how different was the conduct of Michael the archangel, when, contending with the devil, he disputed about the restoration of the Jewish church and state by Joshua the High Priest, Zech. iii. 1. Though that malicious spirit was clothed with no authority of office, he (Michael) did not attempt to bring against him a reviling accusation; but mildly said, the Lord rebuke thee, Satan."—Macknight.

Ver. 12, 13. These are spots, &c.—"It is impossible to describe them by any comparisons that are black enough to reach them. When they are invited to gratify their appetites, it is indifferent to them whether it be to an idol feast, or a feast of charity among the true worshippers of God. They bring nothing but scandal and danger to all they communicate with. The lewdness and slanders of their conversation are as blasting as a tempest, and a virtuous word or action is no more to be expected from them than fruit is from a tree that is perfectly withered and stubbed up. They vent their shameful and malicious calumnies as plentifully as the sea throws out its foam in stormy weather; and while they set up for teachers and doctors, guides and lights to other men, they are no better than those irregular meteors, that deceive and mislead the mariner in a dark night. And accordingly eternal darkness and the utmost degree of misery will be their final portion."—Pyle

SCHEME AND ORDER OF THE PROPHECIES IN THE BOOK OF REVELATIONS.

	Chap.	A.D.
A Prophetic Vision in the Isle of Patmos, representing Christ, his care of the Churches, promising a revelation, with cautions and exhortations suitable to the then present state of the Church and to its future state in after ages, to encourage patience and constancy in the faith	I. ver. 19.
First part of the Revelation, relating to the things that are, or the then state of the Church..
Seven Epistles to the Seven principal Churches in Asia, describing their present state, with cautions and exhortations suitable to it	II.
Second part of the Revelation, relating to the things that shall be hereafter, or to the state of the Church in the ages to come after the time of the vision, with cautions and exhortations suitable to it	III.
Scene of the Visions—The throne of God, the consistory above and heavenly Church, representing God's power, majesty, authority, providence, and sure event of all his purposes	IV.
A Sealed Book, containing a Revelation of the state of the Church in after ages, given to the Lamb to open, or to Jesus Christ to reveal, for the good of the Church, by St. John	V.
Chorus of Angels and Saints; or the whole heavenly Church sings a Psalm of praise to the Lamb.
The Revelation begins by opening the Sealed Book, which describes the future state of the Church in seven successive periods.
Seven Periods.—First Period, shewing the state of the Church under the heathen Roman Emperors, from about the year 95, to about the year 323.
The Seals of the Book opened in order	.....	96 - 323
Seven Seals. The First Seal represents a White Horse, the rider with a crown, going forth to conquer; signifying the Kingdom of Christ, or the Christian religion preaching against the opposition of Jews and heathens.
The Second Seal represents a Red Horse; power given to the rider to take peace from the earth; signifying the first memorable judgment on the persecutors of Christianity, in the destruction of the Jews under Trajan and Hadrian	.....	100—138
The Third Seal represents a Black Horse, the rider with a great balance to measure corn; signifying great scarcity of provision, near to famine, in the time of the Antonines	.....	138 193
The Fourth Seal represents a Pale Horse, the name of the rider, Death; signifying a great mortality and pestilence, wherewith the Empire was punished in the reigns of Maximin and Valerian	.....	193—270
The Fifth Seal represents the souls of the martyrs under the altar, their reward and deliverance in a short time; signifying the severe persecution in the reign of Diocletian, with an encouragement to constancy, suitable to such times of difficulty	.....	270 - 304
The Sixth Seal represents earthquakes, the sun darkened, stars falling from heaven; signifying great commotions in the empire from Maximin to Constantine the Great, who put a period to the persecution of the heathen Rome	.....	304 - 323
The interval between the first and second periods represents an angel sealing 144,000 with the seal of the living God; signifying great numbers forsaking the idolatrous worship of the heathen Roman empire, and embracing the profession of Christianity	VII.
Chorus of the heavenly Church, blessing God for his salvation. One of the elders shows St. John the happiness of those who were faithful and constant to true religion, in the great trial of so grievous a persecution	ver. 9.
Period 2.—The Second Period reveals the state of the Church and providence, in the times following the reign of Constantine during the invasion of the empire by the northern nations; the rise and first progress of the Mohammedan imposture, till the stop put to it in the western empire, which reaches from about the year 337 to 750	VIII.	337—750
Seven Angels receive seven trumpets to sound
Seven Trumpets.—The First Trumpet represents hail and fire mingled with blood, cast on the earth; signifying great storms of war, to fall on the empire, and the blood shed in the reign of the Constantine family and their successors, till things were settled under Theodosius	.....	337 - 379
The Second Trumpet represents a mountain burning with fire, cast into the sea, whereby it became blood; signifying the invasion of Italy by the northern nations, and taking the city of Rome by Alaric	....	379—412
The Third Trumpet represents a burning star falling upon the rivers which became bitter; signifying the ravages in Italy, putting an end to the Roman empire, and founding a kingdom of Goths in Italy itself	.....	412—493
The Fourth Trumpet represents a third part of the Sun and Moon darkened; signifying the wars in Italy between Justinian's Generals and the Goths, whereby the exarchate of Ravenna was erected, and all remaining power and authority of Rome suppressed	.....	493 - 568
The Fifth Trumpet represents the bottomless pit opened, and locusts coming out of it; signifying the rise of the Mohammedan religion and empire, and the great progress of both, till a stop was put to them by a contention for the succession	IX.	568—675
The Sixth Trumpet represents four Angels loosed, which were bound in the river Euphrates; signifying the re-union of the divided Saracen power, the invasion of Europe by them, and thereby the conquest of it, till defeated by Charles Martel	.....	675—750
Period 3.—The Third Period of the Vials reveals the state of the Church and Providence, in the times of the last head of Roman government, represented by the beast, for 1,260 years to its final overthrow, from about the year 756 to about 2016	.....	756—2016
An Angel, or Messenger, brings a little Book, the remainder of the Sealed Book opened by the Lamb, and gives it to St. John to eat; signifying a further Revelation of what was to follow in order of time, to the end of the world	X.
Three general divisions of this period
The First general description represents the temple measured; part given to the Gentiles; two witnesses prophecy in sackcloth 1260 days: signifying the corrupt state of the Church, and the constancy of some faithful witnesses to the truth, though under severe persecutions during this whole period	XI.
The Second general description represents a woman forced to fly into the wilderness for safety, and protected there 1260 days; signifying the persecution and preservation of the Church during the same period	XII.
The Third general description represents a monstrous wild beast rising out of the sea, with seven heads, ten horns, as many crowns and titles of blasphemy, who was to continue forty and two months; signifying that new Roman power, which should use its authority to promote idolatrous worship, and to persecute all who would not submit to it, and should be supported by another power like unto its own form and constitution, during the same period	XIII.
The Chorus of the Heavenly Church celebrates in a hymn the happiness of those who remain faithful and constant	XIV.
An Angel descends from heaven to declare the severe punishment of the enemies of truth and pure religion in this period..
Seven Angels receive seven cups full of the wrath of God; signifying that the enemies of truth and pure religion in this period, shall be severely punished in the course of it, as well as they shall be utterly destroyed in the end	XV.
The oracle gives order to the Seven Angels to pour out their vials or cups	XVI.
Seven Vials.—The First Vial poured on the earth; a grievous sore on the worshippers of the beast; signifying the great commotions throughout the whole empire, under the family of Charles the Great, by which that family becomes extinct, and by which both the empire and crown of France are transferred to other families	.....	800 - 988
The Second Vial poured on the sea, it becomes as the blood of a dead man; signifying the great bloodshed of the Holy War, to recover Jerusalem from the Saracens	.....	1040 1190
The Third Vial poured on the rivers and fountains, they become blood; signifying the bloody civil wars between the Guelphs and Ghibellines, the Papal and Imperial factions,—when the Popes were driven out of Italy into France	.....	1300—1371
The Fourth Vial poured on the Sun, which has power given it to scorch men; signifying the long wars in Italy, Germany, France, and Spain, occasioned by a long schism in the Papacy. The Turks take Constantinople and put an end to the eastern empire. Pestilential diseases occasioned by intemperate heat	.....	1378—1530
The Fifth Vial poured on the seat of the beast, his throne; signifying the Reformation, and the confirmation of it by the principal states of Europe, notwithstanding all opposition from the Pope, and in opposition to the Papal authority	.....	1560—1660
The Sixth Vial poured on the river Euphrates, makes way for the Kings of the East. This seems in the order of the prophecies, to be yet future; but may likely mean some invasion of the Pope's dominions from its Eastern boundary, or the Adriatic	.....	1670—1860
The Seventh Vial poured on the air, the seat of Satan's empire, describes the utter ruin of this persecuting idolatrous Roman government, or mystical Babylon, at the end of this period	.....	1860—2016
The Angel Interpreter more fully explains the character of this idolatrous persecuting power, which should corrupt the Church and persecute the faithful during this period	XVII.

	Chap.	A.D.
Another Angel sent from heaven to confirm the utter and lasting destruction of this mystical Babylon, as a punishment for her idolatrous corruptions and persecutions
Chorus of the heavenly Church sings the praise of God for his righteous judgments	XVIII.
A Vision of Christ leading an army out of heaven, strongly represents the certain accomplishment of this prophecy	XIX.
Period 4.—An Angel sent from heaven to shut up Satan in the bottomless pit, as in a secure prison, for one thousand years, during which time there will be a very happy state of the Church, in purity, peace, and prosperity	XX.
Period 5.—After the thousand years of the Church's prosperity shall be expired, Satan will be loosed again for a short season, a new attempt will be made to revive the corruptions of the Church, and a spirit of persecution, which shall end in the final destruction of Satan's power, and of all the enemies of pure and true religion	ver. 7.
Period 6.—The general resurrection and final judgment; the everlasting destruction of the wicked	ver. 11.
Period 7.—The Seventh Period concludes the whole prophecy, in the vision of new heaven and a new earth; representing, in strong images, the extent, security, riches, and grandeur of the heavenly Jerusalem; signifying the consummate happiness of the heavenly state	XXI.
Thus the prophecies of this revelation issue in an eternal sabbath: the sure reward of all who shall be found faithful and constant in the true religion of Jesus Christ	XXII.
The conclusion confirms the truth and certainty of these prophecies; warns against corrupting them; exhorts to hope their accomplishment; a useful spirit and temper, to give good men consolation in all their present afflictions, and to preserve them from the corruptions of religion, how prevailing soever in their own times; which is the useful, moral, and principal doctrine of all these prophecies	ver. 6.

THE REVELATION OF ST. JOHN THE DIVINE.—"Though the authority of this book was called in question in the beginning of the third century, on this the no reasonable objection against receiving it into the sacred Canon; for perhaps no part of the New Testament, though of unquestionable authenticity and credit, was more universally acknowledged, or mentioned with higher respect, during the two preceding centuries. Dr. Mill observes that, in a few years after it was written, it was numbered among the apostolical writings, by the Churches of Asia, the neighbouring Churches of Syria and Samaria, the more distant ones of Africa, Egypt and Rome, and the other Churches of Europe. Accordingly, Mr. Lowman, citing this remark of Dr. Mill, makes the following additional observation:—'Such a book hath received more early, more authentic, or more satisfactory attestations.'

"Its canonical authority being debated so late as the third century, when it had been universally admitted before, appears to have arisen from the opposition made to those absurd opinions, which it is well known were entertained by several fathers, concerning the millenium; these being entirely grounded upon an injudicious and mistaken interpretation of some prophecies contained in this sacred book, Cæius, with some others, to end the controversy as speedily and effectually as possible, weakly and indiscreetly ventured to deny the authority of the book, which had given occasion to it. If the reader would see this argument handled at large, and the sentiments of the ancients represented fully and distinctly, he may consult Dr. Mill's Prolegomena, Sir Isaac Newton's Observations on the Apocalypse, Dr. Twell's third part of his Critical Examination of the New Text and Version, and Dr. Lardner's second part of the Credibility of the Gospel History, passim.

"This prophetic book is entitled The Revelation of Jesus Christ, which he sent and signified by his angel to his servant John. There is, in my opinion, very little reason to doubt that the John here mentioned was the Evangelist of that name, and the Author of the three Epistles. For concerning this John, antiquity agrees that he was banished to Patmos in the reign of Domitian, for his adherence to the Christian faith. And the author of this book informs the churches of Asia (chap. 1. ver. 9.) that he, their brother and companion in tribulation, and in the kingdom and patience of Jesus Christ, received these revelations, when he was in the isle called Patmos, for the word of God, and testimony of Jesus Christ. And if, with some learned men, we apprehend that the tradition of the Evangelist John being banished to the isle Patmos was occasioned by this passage of The Revelation, it shows, at least, that it was the most early, as well as most generally, received opinion of the ancients that the author of this book was the same with St. John the Evangelist. This book is commonly called The Revelation of St. John the Divine. But this appellation of its author is not of canonical authority: it was first given to St. John by Eusebius, not to distinguish him from any other person of the same name, but on account of those mysterious and sublime points of divinity, with the knowledge of which he seems to have been favoured above his fellow Apostles."—Doddridge.

"The general design of this prophecy is to support the minds of faithful Christians, under all afflictions on account of religion: to teach them that however true religion should be opposed, however they might suffer for the Christian faith and worship, they might assure themselves of God's care and protection. Though God did not design to place his Church in such a state of outward power and prosperity as to be free from afflictions and persecution (which, therefore, they were not rashly to promise themselves, and weakly to expect), yet they might promise themselves, and expect, that God would preserve the true religion, by the care of his providence from being borne down by any power of opposition; that he would often severely punish the enemies of true religion, and make known his judgments upon them, as heretofore on Egypt and Babylon; that he would give often to the faithful constant deliverance out of their dangers, success and victory over their enemies; that he would often raise up eminent and powerful persons, who shall defend and encourage the Christian faith and worship, and that in the end truth and righteousness shall prevail over all opposition from error and unrighteousness, and the patience and constancy of the faithful shall be finally crowned with a state of complete peace, perfection, and happiness."—Lowman.

CHAP. I.—This chapter is an introduction or preface to the prophecies contained in this book. It represents the first vision St. John saw, the manner in which this revelation was made to him, and gives, in very lively figures, a view of the majesty, glory, and power of our Lord Jesus Christ now in his exalted state. It teaches Christ's care of his church, now that he is at the right hand of God, in very beautiful and strong expressions, chiefly taken from the ancient prophets; very proper to confirm the faith and patience of good Christians, to encourage their perseverance, under all their afflictions; this being the principal design of the whole book.

PARAPHRASE.—Ver. 1. This book contains a revelation of many secrets made known by Christ, concerning the present and future state of the Church, and which the divine wisdom directed should be made known by immediate revelation to his faithful servants, containing an account of many things that should shortly begin to be accomplished and which he revealed by his angel, or messenger, to his servant John in the following visions. Ver. 2. Which John has faithfully recorded as they were revealed to him by Christ, even as he faithfully testified what he had seen of Christ's actions upon earth. Ver. 3. These prophetic visions are of such use that he will be truly blessed who shall so read this prophecy as to follow the instructions contained in it, for the various particulars of it will soon begin to be accomplished. Ver. 4. I, John, who saw these visions, salute the seven churches which are in Asia, wishing them all spiritual happiness from the eternal God and from the Holy Spirit (signified by the seven spirits mentioned in the text). Ver. 5. And from Jesus Christ, whom God raised from the dead, and thereby gave full evidence of our own resurrection, and has made him supreme over all persons of whatsoever dignity and power; to whom we are under the greatest obligations, as he so loved us as to wash us from our sins in his own blood; Ver. 6. And has consecrated us to the service of his Church, constituting us a kingdom of priests to honour God and his Father, and to give us the privilege of a near approach unto him; to him let the Churches ascribe glory and dominion for ever and ever, Amen. Ver. 7. This prophecy which I now record is agreeable to former prophecies concerning Christ's kingdom (see Dan. vii. 13; Zech. xii. 10; Matt. xxiv. 30). Such manifestations there of his power and glory the Christian church had all reason to believe and hope for. Ver. 8. And we have the more reason to heed these predictions because they are in effect promises of that supreme and unchangeable Being who is able to accomplish all his purposes from the beginning of time to the consummation of all things. Ver. 9. Know then the time and occasion of the following revelations were the isle that is called Patmos, [a] for the word of God, and for the testimony of Jesus Christ.

10 [b] I was in the Spirit on [c] the Lord's day, and heard behind me [d] a great voice, as of a trumpet,

11 Saying, [e] I am Alpha and Omega, [f] the first and the last: and, What thou seest, write in a book, and send it unto the seven churches which are in Asia; unto Ephesus, and unto Smyrna, and unto Pergamos, and unto Thyatira, and unto Sardis, and unto Philadelphia, and unto Laodicea.

12 And I turned to see the voice that spake with me. And being turned, [g] I saw seven golden candlesticks;

13 [h] And in the midst of the seven candlesticks [i] one like unto the Son of man, [k] clothed with a garment down to the foot, and [l] girt about the paps with a golden girdle.

14 His head and [m] his hairs were white like wool, as white as snow; and [n] his eyes were as a flame of fire;

15 [o] And his feet like unto fine brass, as if they burned in a furnace; and [p] his voice as the sound of many waters.

16 [q] And he had in his right hand seven stars: and [r] out of his mouth went a sharp two-edged sword: [s] and his countenance was as the sun shineth in his strength.

17 And [t] when I saw him, I fell at his feet as dead. And [u] he laid his right hand upon me, saying unto me, Fear not; [x] I am the first and the last:

18 [y] I am he that liveth, and was dead; and, behold, [z] I am alive for evermore, Amen; and [a] have the keys of hell and of death.

19 Write [b] the things which thou hast seen, [c] and the things which are, [d] and the things which shall be hereafter;

20 The mystery [e] of the seven stars which thou sawest in my right hand, [f] and the seven golden candlesticks. The seven stars are [g] the angels of the seven churches: and [h] the seven candlesticks which thou sawest are the seven churches.

CHAP. II.

What is commanded to be written to the angels, that is, the ministers of the churches of 1 Ephesus, 8 Smyrna, 12 Pergamos, 18 Thyatira: and what is commended, or found wanting in them.

UNTO the angel of the church of Ephesus write; These things saith [a] he that holdeth the seven stars in his right hand, [b] who walketh in the midst of the seven golden candlesticks;

2 [c] I know thy works, and thy labour, and thy patience, and how thou canst not bear them which are evil: and [d] thou hast tried them [e] which say they are apostles, and are not, and hast found them liars:

3 And hast borne, and hast patience, and for my name's sake hast laboured, and hast [f] not fainted.

4 Nevertheless I have somewhat against thee, because thou hast left thy first love.

5 Remember therefore from whence thou art fallen, and repent, and do the first works; [g] or else I will come unto thee quickly, and will remove thy candlestick out of his place, except thou repent.

6 But this thou hast, that thou hatest the deeds of [h] the Nicolaitanes, which I also hate.

7 [i] He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; To him that overcometh will I give [k] to eat of [l] the tree of life, which is in the midst of the paradise of God.

8 And unto the angel of the church in Smyrna write; These things saith [m] the first and the last, which was dead, and is alive;

9 [n] I know thy works, and tribulation, and poverty, (but thou art [o] rich) and I know the blasphemy of [p] them which say they are Jews, and are not, [q] but are the synagogue of Satan.

10 [r] Fear none of those things which thou shalt suffer: behold, the devil shall cast some of you into prison, that ye may be tried;

thus: I, who am a fellow-sufferer with you on account of the Gospel of Christ, was in banishment in the isle of Patmos, for my faithful adherence to the religion of Christ and to the truth of his Gospel. Ver. 10. There, on that solemn day especially dedicated to the Lord's service, the spirit of prophecy came upon me, and I heard a voice loud as the sound of a trumpet, distinctly saying unto me, Ver. 11. I am Alpha and Omega, I begin and finish all things from the beginning to the end of time; regard the revelations thou shalt receive as coming from me: record them for the use of the church, and send them in particular to the seven churches in Asia.

Ver. 12. That voice called my attention to whence it might proceed, when I saw the following prophetic representation; a lamp of pure gold, having seven branches, like the lamp in the holy place of the Temple. Ver. 13. And I beheld a person in the midst of this lamp, not having an angelical, but a human, appearance, and dressed in the High Priest's robe, namely, the ephod, or sacred garment worn by that functionary. Ver. 14. The appearance of this person was very glorious. His head and hair were exceeding white and lustrous. Ver. 15. His eyes were excessively bright, and the lower parts of his body like refined and polished metal, and his voice was strong and full as the sound of a vast mass of agitated or rolling water. Ver. 16. He held in his hand what seemed to be seven stars, and a sharp two-edged sword appeared to proceed from his mouth, and his whole appearance resembled in glory the meridian sun. Ver. 17. I was struck with such awe that I fell at his feet in a swoon, but, raising me up with his right hand, he said unto me; "Fear not, for though you may observe something in this vision of the majesty, power and authority of my everlasting kingdom; 18. Yet observe, also, that this vision represents the High Priest and Saviour of the Church, who died to redeem it unto God, to consecrate it a peculiar people, and who now ever lives to protect and bless it; who has all authority both in this life and in the next, to save it eternally. Ver. 19. Record, therefore, what this vision reveals concerning the present and future state of the Church. Ver. 20. The meaning of it is this. The stars represent the pastors or bishops of the Church, and the candlesticks the Churches themselves consecrated to the service of God, following the instruction of their faithful pastors, shining as lights in the world, and honouring their profession of my Gospel before men."

CHAP. II. In this and the following chapter we have the prophecies concerning the then present state of the Church, or the things which are (chap. I. 19), by which the state of the seven Churches in Asia, at the time of the vision, seems to be described. This part of the prophecy is designed to show the constant care of Christ over the Church, both in the punishment of apostacy, and in the blessings of faithfulness and constancy. Each of these Epistles is then to be considered as containing proper directions in every state of the Church, it will represent the state of the Church in every age, as in every period of time there will be some similar things to be commended, and some to be blamed.

PARAPHRASE.—Ver. 1. As the Churches in Asia labour under many trials, declare, as from the Holy Spirit of Revelation, my care of them. To the Church of Ephesus in particular, write thus:—Though in heaven, I am nevertheless concerned for the protection of my religion upon earth. I will therefore give all encouragement and assistance to the Churches, to adorn the Christian religion by purity of doctrine, worship, and manners. Ver. 2. And acquaint the Church of Ephesus further that I know it is careful to preserve good works, diligent and zealous in the duties of religion, not tolerating those evil persons who would corrupt its purity by the scandal of their impious lives, but, examining the doctrines of such as would falsely assume the character of Apostles, has preserved the purity of faith and doctrine, as well as of life and manners; Ver. 3. And borne great afflictions with exemplary patience from a right principle of affection to my name and Gospel, not having fainted under any difficulties or opposition. Ver. 4. There are however some things in the behaviour of this Church which deserve censure, notwithstanding there is much that is commendable in it. Tell its members, in my name, that their affections for the institutions of the Gospel are not so warm as they once were. Ver. 5. Say to them, this declension of your love calls for repentance and reformation. If you will not repent and perform your first works, I will shortly punish your disobedience by depriving you of the privileges of the true church. Ver. 6. Notwithstanding however that your affections have cooled, you have nevertheless this to recommend you; you highly condemn the idolatrous customs of the unclean Nicolaitanes, which I likewise greatly condemn. Ver. 7. Let him, therefore, who is disposed to receive useful instruction attentively consider what the spirit of wisdom reveals to the Church, being assured that whoever shall overcome in the Christian warfare shall enjoy a state of fruition in eternity, such as our first parents would have enjoyed in the earthly paradise, had they not, through being overcome by temptation, lost the inestimable privilege of eating of the tree of life. Ver. 8. Write also to the church of Smyrna, and give it to understand these things as a revelation from a mighty and gracious Saviour, who was before all things, and of whose kingdom and power there shall be no end. Ver. 9. Let the members of that church know that I am not acquainted with their true condition. I know their diligence in support of the gospel, and the persecutions they endure in consequence; in particular their poor estate, though they have reason to account themselves rich, as, in consequence of their good works, they enjoy the Divine favour. Let them further understand, I am aware of the opposition they meet with from those who boast in the privileges of the true church, but whose pretences are false and blasphemous. Ver. 10. Charge them that they fear none of the sufferings and ye shall have tribulation ten days: [a] be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee [b] a crown of life.

11 [c] He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; He that overcometh shall not be hurt of [x] the second death.

12 And to the angel of the church in Pergamos write; These things saith [y] he which hath the sharp sword with two edges;

13 [z] I know thy works, and where thou dwellest, even [a] where Satan's seat is: and thou holdest fast my name, and hast not denied my faith, even in those days wherein Antipas was my faithful martyr, who was slain among you, where Satan dwelleth.

14 But I have a few things against thee, because thou hast there them that hold the doctrine of [b] Balaam, who taught Balac to cast a stumblingblock before the children of Israel, [c] to eat things sacrificed unto idols, [d] and to commit fornication.

15 So hast thou also them that hold the doctrine [c] of the Nicolaitanes, which thing I hate.

16 Repent; or else I will come unto thee quickly, and [f] will fight against them with the sword of my mouth.

17 [g] He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the hidden manna, and will give him a white stone, and in the stone [h] a new name written, which no man knoweth saving he that receiveth it.

18 And unto the angel of the church in Thyatira write; These things saith the Son of God, [i] who hath his eyes like unto a flame of fire, and his feet are like fine brass;

19 [k] I know thy works, and charity, and service, and faith, and thy patience, and thy works; and the last to be more than the first.

20 Notwithstanding I have a few things against thee, because thou sufferest that woman [l] Jezebel, which calleth herself a propheteſs, to teach and to seduce my servants [m] to commit fornication, and to eat things sacrificed unto idols.

21 And I gave her space [n] to repent of her fornication; and she repented not.

22 Behold, I will cast her into a bed, and them that commit adultery with her into great tribulation, except they repent of their deeds.

23 And I will kill her children with death; and all the churches shall know that [o] I am he which searcheth the reins and hearts: and [p] I will give unto every one of you according to your works.

24 But unto you I say, and unto the rest in Thyatira, as many as have not this doctrine, and which have not known the depths of Satan, as they speak; [q] I will put upon you none other burden.

25 But [r] that which ye have already hold fast till I come.

26 And he that overcometh, and keepeth [s] my works unto the end, [t] to him will I give power over the nations:

27 [u] And he shall rule them with a rod of iron; as the vessels of a potter shall they be broken to shivers: even as I received of my Father.

28 And I will give him [x] the morning star.

29 [y] He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches.

CHAP. III.

2 The angel of the church of Sardis is reproved, 3 exhorted to repent, and threatened if he do not repent. 8 The angel of the church of Philadelphia, 10 is approved for his diligence and patience. 15 The angel of Laodicea rebuked, for being neither hot nor cold, 19 and admonished to be more zealous. 20 Christ standeth at the door and knocketh.

AND unto the angel of the church in Sardis write; These things saith he [a] that hath the seven Spirits of God, and the seven stars; [b] I know thy works, that thou hast a name that thou livest, [c] and art dead.

2 Be watchful, and strengthen the things which remain, that are ready to die: for I have not found thy works perfect before God.

which such wicked persons may heap upon them; though God for the trial of their faith, may permit them to be cast into prison, and they may undergo great trouble for some time, nevertheless, exhort them to be faithful even unto death, assuring them that their faithfulness shall finally be rewarded with a state of happiness and glory for ever. Ver. 11. Let then every man consider attentively what the spirit of revelation teaches the church. Whosoever shall thus overcome the temptations of the world, shall not be hurt by the death of his soul in the world to come, but shall be delivered from everlasting destruction, the punishment of the condemned. Ver. 12. Send likewise an epistle to the bishop of the church in Pergamos: acquaint the members of that church that those instructions and admonitions come from their Saviour, represented by the two edged sword proceeding from his mouth, to signify his power as a mighty governor, his readiness to punish apostates, and to bless those who are uniformly obedient to the precepts of his gospel. Ver. 13. Let them know that I consider their good works and also the temptations of the place in which they abide, where the powers of darkness have numerous adherents. Yet even during that period of persecution, when a faithful minister of my Gospel was put to death in their city where those adherents of Satan abode and practised many cruelties upon them, still they could not be prevailed upon to deny my name and religion. Ver. 14. There are, however, some things among them which require reformation. As the wicked advice of Balaam prevailed upon the children of Israel, to commit fornication with the daughters of Moab, and to join with them in their idolatry, so are there some in the Church of Pergamos who have been persuaded to eat things sacrificed unto idols, and to practise incontinency. Ver. 15. There are, indeed, some who go so far as to embrace the doctrines of the Nicolaitanes, which justify such practices, and which I, therefore, utterly detest and condemn. Ver. 16. Charge them to repent and reform, else, as the Israelites, seduced by the daughters of Moab, were punished by a plague, I will speedily punish them in such a manner as shall evince my determination to avenge the desecration of my Church, and abuse of my Gospel. Ver. 17. Let all who are disposed to receive instruction attend to the warnings and encouragements given by the spirit of prophecy. To him who overcometh temptation, I will bestow the spiritual manna, or bread of life, and I will give him a stone, with an inscription upon it, which shall be his warrant to receive a reward so great that none can rightly comprehend the value of it, but such as shall be possessed of it. Ver. 18. Write also to the Church and bishop of Thyatira, as from me the Son of God, who discerns all the secrets of mens' hearts, whose dispensations towards mankind will be found glorious in purity, and upright in judgment. Ver. 19. I observe thy good behaviour. As I approve thy faith, patience, and conduct in times of persecution, so am I pleased to find thy zeal in my service improving, and becoming more conspicuous than at first. Ver. 20. Yet are there some things which require to be reformed. You follow too nearly the example of Jezebel, who polluted Israel with her abominable practices, in countenancing such evil persons as pretend to revelation, and thus seduce my servants to commit fornication, and eat things offered in sacrifice unto idols. Ver. 21. Though I have allowed these persons time to reform their vile behaviour, yet they continue impenitent. Ver. 22. Know, then, I will severely punish those offenders, and all who are partakers with them in their wickedness; instead of ease and pleasure they shall have sorrows and tribulations; except they repent, and forsake, their evil deeds. Ver. 23. Let them know the punishment of these false teachers shall be so remarkable that the Churches will observe a divine power in it, and learn to respect my government. As I know the secrets of mens' hearts, I exercise judgment in giving to every man according to his works. Ver. 24. But let all who have kept themselves from the pollutions of those doctrines promulgated by the emissaries of Satan, be assured that my Gospel shall impose no new restraints upon them, as these false teachers would insinuate, but only confirm the laws of truth and righteousness. Ver. 25. Let them be steadfast unto the end, in maintaining the doctrines and precepts of my Gospel. Ver. 26. Acquaint them further that, if they resist temptation and persevere in that faith which they have received from me, they shall finally prevail over the superstitions of the heathens. Ver. 27. However obstinate these may be, in opposing the truth, my power shall subdue their obstinacy, and give success to a faithful defence of my gospel against idolatry, and other pagan abominations. Ver. 28. I will further give to the faithful members of my Church a clear understanding of the blessings of evangelical truth over heathen error; the 'day-star' shall rise in their hearts, and they shall ultimately "shine as the brightness of the firmament and as the stars for ever and ever." Ver. 29. Let every one, disposed to receive instruction, attend to these directions given to the Churches by the Spirit of Revelation.

CHAP. III. Ver. 1. Write also to the bishop of the Church of Sardis, as from me who have all spiritual gifts at my disposal, and declare unto him that I know the behaviour and state of its members. I know that though they maintain a reputation for faith and holiness among men, yet have they lost it in the sight of God. Ver. 2. Exhort them, therefore, that they watch over themselves in order to confirm those good principles now grown so weak as near to be extinguished; for even the good which remains among them is very defective, and requires much improvement to render it accept

3 [d] Remember therefore how thou hast received and heard, and hold fast, and [e] repent. [f] If therefore thou shalt not watch, I will come on thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee.

4 Thou hast [g] a few names even in Sardis which have not [h] defiled their garments; and they shall walk with me [i] in white: for they are worthy.

5 He that overcometh, [k] the same shall be clothed in white raiment; and I will not [l] blot out his name out of the [m] book of life, but [n] I will confess his name before my Father, and before his angels.

6 [o] He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches.

7 And to the angel of the church in Philadelphia write; These things saith [p] he that is holy, [q] he that is true, he that hath [r] the key of David, [s] he that openeth, and no man shutteth; and [t] shutteth, and no man openeth;

8 [u] I know thy works: behold, I have set before thee [x] an open door, and no man can shut it: for thou hast a little strength, and hast kept my word, and hast not denied my name.

9 Behold, I will make [y] them of the synagogue of Satan, which say they are Jews, and are not, but do lie; behold, [z] I will make them to come and worship before thy feet, and to know that I have loved thee.

10 Because thou hast kept the word of my patience, [a] I also will keep thee from the hour of temptation, which shall come upon [b] all the world, to try them that dwell [c] upon the earth.

11 Behold, [d] I come quickly: [e] hold that fast which thou hast, that no man take [f] thy crown.

12 Him that overcometh will I make [g] a pillar in the temple of my God, and he shall go no more out: and [h] I will write upon him the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, which is [i] new Jerusalem, which cometh down out of heaven from my God: [k] and I will write upon him my new name.

13 [l] He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches.

14 And unto the angel of the church [o] of the Laodiceans write; [m] These things saith the Amen, [n] the faithful and true witness, [o] the beginning of the creation of God;

15 [p] I know thy works, that thou art neither cold nor hot: I would thou wert cold or hot.

16 So then because thou art lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, I will spue thee out of my mouth.

17 Because thou sayest, [q] I am rich, and increased with goods, and have need of nothing; and knowest not that thou art wretched, and miserable, and poor, and blind, and naked:

18 I counsel thee [r] to buy of me gold tried in the fire, that thou mayest be rich; and [s] white raiment, that thou mayest be clothed, and that the shame of thy nakedness do not appear; and anoint thine eyes with eyesalve, that thou mayest see.

19 [t] As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten: be zealous therefore, and repent.

20 Behold, [u] I stand at the door, and knock: [x] if any man hear my voice, and open the door, [y] I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me.

21 To him that overcometh [z] will I grant to sit with me in my throne, even as I also overcame, and am set down with my Father in his throne.

22 [a] He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches.

able with God. Ver. 3. Direct them, likewise, to remember what doctrines have been delivered to them in my Gospel, that they may maintain the faith, worship, and rule of life, therein taught. For, if they disregard this injunction, they may expect some sudden visitation which shall overtake them as unexpectedly as when a thief surprizes a house in the night. Ver. 4. There are a few members of the Church of Sardis, however, who have preserved themselves from the common corruption; inform them that I hold them worthy, and will therefore distinguish them with marks of my favour. Ver. 5. My favour, indeed, shall be extended to every one who, by perseverance in faith and purity, shall overcome the temptations of this evil world; his name shall remain on the register with those to whom I have given the promise of eternal life. I will own him as my disciple before my Father and the holy angels at the day of judgment. Ver. 6. Let every one carefully meditate on these directions sent to the Churches by the Spirit of prophecy. Ver. 7. Write, likewise, to the bishop of the Church of Philadelphia as from me, the Holy One, anointed with the Holy Ghost and with power to the sacred office of Mediator between God and man, who have received all authority in my spiritual kingdom as the promised son of David; so that none can exclude from the privileges of the heavenly kingdom those upon whom I shall confer them; and none can bestow them upon those to whom I shall deny them. Ver. 8. Give them to understand that I know their state; I have given them the opportunity of propagating my Gospel, and of thus improving themselves in righteousness; nor shall they be deprived of it: but as they have been faithful in their ministry, and have not relinquished their faith in me: Ver. 9. I will, therefore, protect them against such evil persons as, by promoting the cause of error, prove themselves to be ministers of Satan; nay, I will cause those persons to honour them with the meekest submission, as convinced that I favour them with peculiar marks of my affection. Ver. 10. Encourage them moreover with this hope, that as they have hitherto patiently followed my directions, under their present tribulation, I will give them further assistance to persevere under greater trials and temptations. When Christians shall everywhere be subjected to new tests of their faith and constancy, theirs shall be approved even at the time when many shall fall, and forfeit the blessings of true religion. Ver. 11. Exhort them to persevere in their good state, lest by yielding to any new temptation they lose their hope, and their final reward. Ver. 12. For he that so overcomes shall have a high degree of honour in the presence of God, which he shall surely enjoy without fear of losing it; he shall enjoy God's glory in the heavenly Church, and shall partake of my glory in the perfection of the eternal state. Ver. 13. Let every one, desirous of useful instruction, attend to what the spirit of prophecy, in this epistle, directs the Church to observe. Ver. 14. Finally write to the bishop of the Church of the Laodiceans as from their Saviour, whose testimony is faithful and true, who is able to accomplish every thing he promises, as he is the author of the whole creation, and has supreme dominion over every creature. Ver. 15. Acquaint them that I know how indifferent they are in the cause of religion; they make some pretences to it but without any sincere zeal. Ver. 16. Assure them, however, from me, that if they continue thus indifferent I shall utterly reject them, as the stomach rejects what is disagreeable to it. Ver. 17. Now they imagine that they have need of nothing, but let them know that they are in want of all things truly good. They are really in a wretched state, poor in the fruits of holiness, ignorant of the perfection of religion, and destitute of that righteousness which is of God by faith. Ver. 18. Exhort them that they may be more zealous to obtain the true riches, that they may be fruitful in good works, that the righteousness of God, by faith, may cover their sins, and the sanctification of the Spirit adorn their souls; that, by a true understanding of the perfection of religion, they may see what they are to aim at, and to hope for. Ver. 19. They will then observe a kind design in the visitations of Providence, and improve them as a wholesome discipline of warning, correction, and amendment. Ver. 20. Direct them to consider this warning as a proper opportunity of improvement; which, if they shall faithfully attend to, they shall enjoy the blessings of my presence and favour. Ver. 21. For he who shall overcome temptations shall as surely have his sufferings rewarded by a participation in the glory of my kingdom as my sufferings have been rewarded with supreme dominion both in heaven and earth. Ver. 22. And let every one so disposed attend to these instructions which the Spirit of prophecy delivers to the Churches.

CHAP. IV.—The vision contained in the preceding chapters represented the state of the Church at the time of the vision, or in the words of the oracle (chap. 1. 19) "the things which are," and gave suitable directions to the Churches, to encourage their faith and perseverance. Now, St. John records a second vision, in which the oracle revealed to him "the things that shall be hereafter." (chap. i. 19,) or the things which were to come to pass in successive order, from the time of the vision till the mystery of God should be finished. In order to raise the greater attention of the Church, God is represented as seated on his heavenly throne, surrounded by the whole assembly of the heavenly Church. His majesty and power, his faithfulness to his covenant and promise, in the care of his Churches, are described in very lively images, together with the high regard the Churches ought always to have for the councils, designs, and orders of Providence, published in so solemn a manner in the general assembly of heaven.

PARAPHRASE. Ver. 1. After I had seen the foregoing vision, and noted down what I was ordered to send to the Churches, a new vision was pre-first voice which I heard was as it were of a trumpet talking with me; which said, [b] Come up hither, [c] and I will shew thee things which must be hereafter.

2 And immediately [d] I was in the Spirit: and, behold, [e] a throne was set in heaven, and one sat on the throne.

3 And he that sat was to look upon like a jasper and a sardine stone: [f] and there was a rainbow round about the throne, in sight like unto an emerald.

4 [g] And round about the throne were four and twenty seats: and upon the seats I saw four and twenty elders sitting, [h] clothed in white raiment; [i] and they had on their heads crowns of gold.

5 And out of the throne proceeded [k] lightnings and thunderings and voices: [l] and there were seven lamps of fire burning before the throne, which are [m] the seven Spirits of God.

6 And before the throne there was [n] a sea of glass like unto crystal: [o] and in the midst of the throne, and round about the throne, were four beasts full of eyes before [p] and behind.

7 [q] And the first beast was like a lion, and the second beast like a calf, and the third beast had a face as a man, and the fourth beast was like a flying eagle.

8 And the four beasts had each of them [r] six wings about him; and they were full of eyes [s] within: and [t] they rest not day and night, saying, [u] Holy, holy, holy, [v] Lord God Almighty, [x] which was, and is, and is to come.

9 And when those beasts give glory and honour and thanks to him that sat on the throne, [y] who liveth for ever and ever,

10 [z] The four and twenty elders fall down before him that sat on the throne, [a] and worship him that liveth for ever and ever, [b] and cast their crowns before the throne, saying,

11 [c] Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honour and power: [d] for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created.

CHAP. V.

1 The book sealed with seven seals: 9 which only the Lamb that was slain is worthy to open. 12 Therefore the elders praise him, 2 and confess that he redeemed them with his blood.

AND I saw in the right hand of him that [a] sat on the throne a book written within and on the backside, [b] sealed with seven seals.

2 And I saw a strong angel proclaiming with a loud voice, Who is worthy to open the book, and to loose the seals thereof?

3 And no man [c] in heaven, nor in earth, neither under the earth, was able to open the book, neither to look thereon.

4 And I wept much, because no man was found worthy to open and to read the book, neither to look thereon.

5 And one of the elders saith unto me, Weep not: behold, [d] the Lion of the tribe of Juda, [e] the Root of David, hath prevailed to open the book, [f] and to loose the seven seals thereof.

6 And I beheld, and, lo, in the midst of the throne and of the four beasts, and in the midst of the elders, stood [g] a Lamb as it had been slain, having seven horns and [h] seven eyes, which are the [i] seven Spirits of God sent forth into all the earth.

7 And he came and took the book out of the right hand [k] of him that sat upon the throne.

8 And when he had taken the book, the four beasts and four and twenty elders fell down before the Lamb, having every one of them [m] harps, and golden vials full of [o] odours, [n] which are the prayers of saints.

9 And [o] they sung a new song, saying, [p] Thou art worthy to take the book, and to open the seals thereof: [q] for thou wast slain, and [r] hast redeemed us to God by thy blood [s] out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation;

sented to me. I perceived a part of the heavens opened, through which, as through a door, I could perceive what was done within. The first thing I heard was a loud voice like the sound of a trumpet, which said, come up hither, and the decrees of Providence in future times shall be revealed unto thee. Ver. 2. Immediately the Spirit of Revelation came upon me, and I had the following prophetic vision. There appeared to me as if a throne was set up in heaven; and I beheld a person sitting upon the throne. Ver. 3. And his appearance was extremely glorious, beyond what can be represented by the lustre of the most precious gems. There was, moreover, in this representation a rainbow round the throne, expressive of the divine majesty and glory, and of his faithfulness to his covenant. Ver. 4. Round the throne were placed twenty-four seats, and twenty-four elders, or chief ministers, were seated upon them, clothed in white garments, expressive of their dignity; and, by way of eminent distinction, they wore coronets of gold upon their heads. Ver. 5. From the throne there issued flashes of flame like lightning, accompanied with sounds like thunder, representing the awful majesty of Jehovah. And, as in the holy place of the Temple, there were seven lamps continually burning before the divine presence; so I saw here the likeness of seven lamps burning before the throne of God, to signify the seven spirits of God, with what purity, constancy, and zeal the spirits of just men made perfect serve the Almighty in the general capacity of the heavenly Church. Ver. 6. And as there was in the Temple a laver of brass, called a sea, from the vast quantity of water it contained, for the priests to wash themselves in; so here I beheld a vessel much more glorious, so transparent as to resemble the purest crystal. And I saw, moreover, in the middle of each side of the throne, in the whole circuit, four living creatures, representing the cherubim, which appeared covered with eyes before and behind, so that they saw every way around them. Ver. 7. The first of these creatures had the face of a lion, the second that of a calf, the third that of a man, and the fourth resembled a flying eagle; to express the strength, firmness, constancy, understanding, good will, and ready alacrity with which they serve God. Ver. 8. These creatures had, moreover, each six wings, which they used to express their reverence, covering their faces and feet, to shew their readiness in performing the divine commands, and every day and night they unite in adoration of God, saying, Holy, holy, holy Lord God Almighty, who ever was, and is, and for ever will be supreme and omnipotent. Ver. 9. And when the cherubim, the representatives of the angels, nearest the throne, began their adoration of God by a solemn thanksgiving; saying Glory, honour and thanks be to the living and eternal God who sits upon the throne; Ver. 10. They were immediately answered by the four and twenty elders, who, rising from their seats, prostrated themselves before the throne, and, casting their crowns before it, worshipped the eternally-living God who sat upon it, uniting in the following doxology. Ver. 11.

Thou, O Jehovah, art most worthy to receive the joint adoration of angels and of saints, ascribing all glory, honour, and power unto thee; for thou art the supreme God who hast created all things, to whose will and power they all owe their being, and by whom they still continue to be what they are.

CHAP. v. Ver. 1. I further beheld in my vision that the person sitting with such glorious majesty on the throne, held in his right hand a scroll, so rolled up that what was in it could not be read, and sealed without with seven seals, so that it could not be unsealed; thus figuratively expressing that the divine counsels, to be executed in their appointed time, though registered, so to speak, were, for the present, hid from human knowledge. Ver. 2. I now saw an angel of chief power who loudly exclaimed, Is there any one able and fit to reveal the divine counsels registered in this book, and bring them into execution? Ver. 3. Neither was any angel or saint in heaven, nor man upon earth, nor any departed soul, able to reveal these divine counsels, much less to accomplish them. Ver. 4. This gave me much concern, that no being whatever was to be found able to understand, reveal and accomplish the counsels of God. Ver. 5. But I was delivered from my fears by one of the elders who bad me not to weep; for though no one was yet found able to reveal and execute those purposes of God, in the course of his future providence, yet that there was one person described in ancient prophecy as "the Lion of the tribe of Juda," the true Messiah, who has obtained power to reveal these divine counsels to his Church, and assure their accomplishment. Ver. 6. I now observed a new representation, as of a lamb which had been slain in sacrifice, standing close to the throne, within the circle of the cherubim and elders, and nearer the throne than either. This lamb appeared to have seven horns and seven eyes, to represent those divine attributes of power, wisdom, and goodness, by which the Messiah, figured by this lamb, was able to reveal God's will with respect to the world and his Church, and to accomplish all the merciful designs of his providence. Ver. 7. I next saw this symbol of that divine person, so fully qualified to reveal the divine purposes, actually undertake their accomplishment; for he drew near, and received the scroll out of the right hand of Him who sat on a throne. Ver. 8. No sooner had this been done, than the whole consistory above joined in a solemn act of adoration to the Lamb of God. I beheld the cherubim, represented by the four living beasts, (chap. iv. 6,) together with the elders, prostrate themselves before him; each of those had harps and golden censers full of incense, signifying the prayers and solemn worship of the Church, as the priests and Levites, in the Temple, were wont to worship the Lord Jehovah. Ver. 9. They joined in praising the Lamb with a new hymn, saying, Thou art worthy, O Lamb of God, to undertake the revelation and accomplishment of God's purposes towards the world and his Church, for thou wast slain a propitiatory sacrifice for the redemption

10 [t] And hast made us unto our God kings and priests: and we shall reign on the earth.

11 And I beheld, and I heard the voice of many angels [u] round about the throne and the beasts and the elders: and the number of them was [x] ten thousand times ten thousand, and thousands of thousands;

12 Saying with a loud voice, [y] Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honour, and glory, and blessing.

13 And [z] every creature which is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I saying, [a] Blessing, and honour, and glory, and power, be unto him [b] that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever.

14 [c] And the four beasts said, Amen. And the four and twenty elders fell down and worshipped him [d] that liveth for ever and ever.

CHAP. VI.

1 The opening of the seals in order, and what followed thereupon, containing a prophecy to the end of the world.

AND [a] I saw when the Lamb opened one of the seals, and I heard, as it were the noise of thunder, [b] one of the four beasts saying, Come and see.

2 And I saw, and behold [c] a white horse: [d] and he that sat on him had a bow; [e] and a crown was given unto him: and he went forth conquering, and to conquer.

3 And when he had opened the second seal, [f] I heard the second beast say, Come and see.

4 [g] And there went out another horse that was red: and power was given to him that sat thereon to take peace from the earth, and that they should kill one another: and there was given unto him a great sword.

5 And when he had opened the third seal, [h] I heard the third beast say, Come, and see. And I beheld, and lo [i] a black horse; and he that sat on him had a pair of balances in his hand.

6 And I heard a voice in the midst of the four beasts say, [k] A measure of wheat for a penny, and three measures of barley for a penny; and [k] see thou hurt not the oil and the wine.

7 And when he had opened the fourth seal, [l] I heard the voice of the fourth beast say, Come, and see.

8 [m] And I looked, and behold a pale horse: and his name that sat on him was Death, and Hell followed with him. And power was given † unto them over the fourth part of the earth, [n] to kill with sword, and with hunger, [o] and with death, [p] and with the beasts of the earth.

9 And when he had opened the fifth seal, I saw under [q] the altar [r] the souls of them that were slain [s] for the word of God, and for [t] the testimony which they held:

10 And they cried with a loud voice, saying, [u] How long, O Lord, [x] holy and true, [y] dost thou not judge and avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth?

11 And [z] white robes were given unto every one of them; and it was said unto them, [a] that they should rest yet for a little season, until their fellowservants also and their brethren, that should be killed as they were, should be fulfilled.

12 And I beheld when he had opened the sixth seal, [b] and, lo, there was a great earthquake; and [c] the sun became black as sackcloth of hair, and the moon became as blood;

13 [d] And the stars of heaven fell unto the earth, even as a fig tree casteth her ‡ untimely figs, when she is shaken of a mighty wind.

14 And the heaven departed as a scroll when it is rolled together; and every mountain and island were moved out of their places.

15 And the kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bondman, and every free man, hid themselves in the dungeons and in the rocks of the mountains;

16 And said to the mountains and rocks, Fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb:

of mankind unto God. Ver. 10. And hast made thy Church a kingdom of priests unto God consecrated to his service; we may therefore assure ourselves that thy kingdom and Church shall be protected from this evil world, and finally prevail over it. Ver. 11. When the cherubim and elders had thus expressed their adoration of the Lamb, the united assembly of the heavenly hosts, in number beyond calculation, united their voices with the cherubim and elders saying, Ver. 12. Worthy is the Lamb of God, slain for our redemption, to receive from his Church an acknowledgment of his power, and of the riches of his grace, wisdom, and strength; and to whom we ought to ascribe all honour and glory with the devotion of most grateful hearts. Ver. 13. And I further heard this act of praise extended through every part of the creation, like the whole congregation of Israel joining with the priests and Levites in their worship; for every creature with one voice said, Let us ascribe all blessing, honour, and glory, and power, to him that sitteth on the throne, and to the Lamb of God, our blessed Redeemer, for ever and ever. Ver. 14. This solemn act of worship was concluded by the cherubim saying, Amen. And the twenty-four elders prostrating themselves in profound adoration before the true God, who liveth and reigneth from everlasting to everlasting.

CHAP. VI. This chapter contains the first period of prophecy and a description of the state of the Church, under the empire of heathen Rome, from the time of the date of the prophecy to about the year of Christ 323. Each of the prophetical descriptions are, in part, some hieroglyphical picture and motto, or some representation in the style and figurative expressions of ancient prophecy, describing some dispensation of providence peculiar to the several successive states of the Church and empire, during the space of time continued in this period.

PARAPHRASE.—Ver. 1. After I had beheld the sealed book delivered into the hands of the Lamb of God, that he might communicate, for the benefit of his Church, the purposes of God revealed in it, I saw in my prophetic vision that he proceeded to open the seals of the book in order; and when he had opened the first, I heard one of the four cherubim call upon me with a voice that seemed as loud as thunder, and he said, "Approach nearer to the scroll that you may see what appears in it, now it is opened." Ver 2. Looking immediately upon that part of the scroll which had been unrolled on opening the seal, I saw a hieroglyphic figure, with a motto. There appeared the form of a man sitting on a white horse, with a bow in his hand, and a crown given unto him; so that he appeared as a prince setting out on some great expedition. He had a bow, an ensign of war; a crown, an ensign of command; and he rode a white horse, a symbol of triumph. In conformity with this representation was the following motto: "Go forth, conquering and to conquer"—a promise of success and triumph. Ver. 3. I further saw, when the Lord opened the second seal, and so unfolded another portion of the scroll, that what was contained in this portion was exposed to view. Then the second of the cherubim called upon me, as the first had done, saying, "Come near the scroll, and look upon this description, designed to represent the future state of the Church and of the world. Ver. 4. And when I approached, there appeared the representation of another horse, the colour of blood, expressing great slaughter by means of the rider, which the motto explained: "To take peace from the earth, and that they should kill one another." This meaning of the representation was further confirmed by the figure of a great sword, put into the rider's hands, signifying that the enemies of the Christian faith should destroy each other, and thus execute upon themselves the judgments of God for their opposition to the truth, and persecution of righteousness. Ver. 5. I now observed the Lamb open the third seal, and heard the third cherubim bid me approach and see what was contained in that part of the scroll opened to sight, and looking in it I perceived another figurative representation, namely, a black horse, expressive of a season of affliction; and the person who sat on it had a pair of balances in his hand, as if to weigh the corn, to signify great scarcity, and to threaten the world with famine. Ver. 6. This interpretation was confirmed by a voice from the cherubim, saying, "In the times of this prophecy, the price of a measure of wheat, the daily food of one man, shall be a Roman penny, (about seven-pence half-penny, English money,) the price of his daily labour, and three measures of barley shall only cost the same sum. And yet that there may not be a total scarcity, see that thou, who appearest as the executioner of this judgment, let the olive trees and vines remain unblasted, to show that God in judgment remembers mercy. Ver. 7. Again I saw the Lamb unfold that portion of the scroll fastened by the fourth seal, when the last of the four cherubim called upon me to approach and observe what was represented on it. Ver. 8. I then beheld another figurative representation, namely, a pale horse, an emblem of mortality, and its rider bore the name of Death, and a figure representing hell or the grave, was his attendant, which emblematical representation was explained by an inscription—"Let them kill the fourth part of the earth;" intimating that they should destroy a considerable part of heathen Rome, by the following judgments of God, the sword, famine, pestilence, and wild beasts. Ver. 9. Upon opening the fifth seal, I saw in my vision a great number of persons who had been slain in the several persecutions of the Church for their perseverance in the faith of Christ, lying at the foot of the golden altar of incense, intimating that their constancy unto death was acceptable in the sight of God. Ver. 10. And I heard those martyrs expressing their faith in Christ, for whose religion they had suffered, saying with united voices, "O Lord God, righteous in all thy ways, and faithful in all thy promises, when will it please thee to make way for the glorious state of thy Kingdom, and peaceful state of thy Church, by breaking the power of Satan, and of their idolatrous persecutors?" Ver. 11. And I beheld further that to each of those martyrs was given a white garment as a mark of the divine approbation; but with respect to the divine judgments, which were to make way for the peaceful state of the Church, they were directed to wait a little longer; for though many had been slain for the testimony of Jesus, yet were there others of their brethren who should bear a like honourable testimony to the Christian faith: the remaining time of trial, however, should be short, when the attestation of the faithful martyrs for Christ should be complete, and then God, having accepted their prayers, would make way for a powerful and prosperous state of the Church. Ver. 12. And I again beheld when the Lamb opened the sixth seal, the representation of great disorder, for it seemed as if the earth was shaken by violent convulsions; the sun was in a total eclipse, and the moon appeared of a dusky red, the colour of blood. Ver. 13. The stars seemed to fall like meteors upon the earth, as blasted fruit is blown from the trees to the ground by a violent storm. Ver. 14. And the apparent disorder in the universe was so great that the heavens seemed to be rolled together, like a scroll of parchment, and the mountains and islands, the most secure from earthquakes, were so uprooted or destroyed as not to be restorable; to signify such a downfall of the empire of heathen Rome as should never be recovered. 15. And so general was the punishment of the idolatrous enemies of the Christian faith that it reached all ranks and conditions of men, making them with such apprehension and terror that persons of the highest distinction, and of the greatest wealth, those who exercised the chief authority, or were renowned for their valour—in short, persons of every denomination, whether bond or free, endeavoured to find out some hidden retreat, where those judgments might not reach them. Ver. 16. Nay, they were so dispirited as to be rather desirous of being buried under the mountains and rocks than exposed to such terrible judgments from the anger and power of Him whose religion they had so long opposed, and whose Church they had so violently persecuted. Ver. 17. Now the appointed time of his Almighty wrath is come, they are made sensible that no room is left to them either for defence or escape.

CHAP. VII. The former chapter concluded the first period and the sufferings of the Church under the persecutions of heathen Rome. The second period of prophecy begins with the opening of the Seventh Seal, and is contained in the events which attend the sounding of the trumpets; an account of which is given in the eighth and ninth chapters. In this chapter we have an account of a little interval to describe the state of things between the two periods. After the prophetic vision which represented the first period, St. John saw, in other visions, what is related in this chapter. This seems a representation of a state of peace throughout the earth, especially in the Roman empire, and of the great number of persons in every nation who embraced the Christian faith, of the encouraging protection given to the Church of Christ, of thankful acknowledgments for the divine power and goodness, by the whole Church; and finally, of the happy state of all the faithful confessors and martyrs, who, after a short period of tribulation for the truth of Christ, and constancy in his religion, have arrived to a state of everlasting rest in heaven.

PARAPHRASE. (Ver. 1.) Now after my former visions, which represented God's providence towards the Church and world, to the downfal of heathen Rome, the state of the Church and world immediately to follow was exhibited to me in another prophetic vision, in which I beheld four angels, signifying the government of providence as directed by God's command, and executed by his ministers. These angels appeared as placed at the four chief points whence the winds usually blow, to restrain them from blowing violently in any part of the earth; to show that God designed to put a stop to those commotions which had so much disturbed it, and to give the Church and world a period of repose. (Ver. 2.) I next beheld another angel, — ascending from the eastern point of heaven, who appeared with the seal of God in his hand, as sent upon some especial message; as he advanced, he proclaimed with a loud voice that the commotions of the world should cease for a time; (Ver. 3.) That a state of peace should continue until he had sealed the servants of God with the distinguishing mark or seal of the Christian church, the testimonial of their consecration to God's service, and of his peculiar favour to them as his Church and people. (Ver. 4.) And the number of those thus sealed was very great; it was a number that figuratively expressed many persons of all people and nations professing the Christian faith, and serving God in the worship of the Christian Church, it being the square number of twelve multiplied by a thousand. (Ver. 5, 6, 7, 8.) This multitude of people professing the Christian faith were as if a proportionate number had been sealed out of every tribe of Israel according to the number of their patriarchs; as if now, in their stead and represented by them, all the nations of the earth were to be blessed as the true Israel of God in Christ, for it was represented to me in my prophetic vision, as if twelve thousand were sealed in the tribe of Judah, as many in the tribe of Reuben, and a like number in each of the other tribes. (Ver. 9.) After I had beheld this prosperous state of the Church, I saw all the saints in heaven uniting in a solemn act of praise. The hymn was begun by an innumerable multitude of all nations clothed in white garments as marks of piety and honour; they had likewise branches of palm in their hands as emblems of joy and victory. (Ver. 10.) And they cried aloud—"Salvation be ascribed to our God, supreme in heaven and earth, who sitteth on the throne, and to the Lamb of God who has power to protect and save all his faithful servants." (Ver. 11.) Then the angels who stood round the throne, together with the twenty-four elders, and the cherubim, represented by the four living creatures, prostrated themselves before God's throne, and joined with the saints in their hymn of praise. (Ver. 12.) To which they said Amen; adding, "let all ascribe unto God blessing, glory, wisdom, thanksgiving, honour, power, and might, for ever and ever, Amen." (Ver. 13.) In order to give me some exact information concerning those persons, who were clothed in white robes, one of the elders, led me on by a question to ask a fuller account of them: (Ver. 14.) Upon which he gave me the following. The persons thus distinguished were lately grievously persecuted for their constancy in the faith of Christ, but having persevered unto the end, they have received the blessings promised in his Gospel; they are now cleansed from all impurity through his most precious blood, and advanced to that state of glory in which you now behold them. (Ver. 15.) They are accounted worthy to appear in God's immediate presence, and have obtained the honour and happiness of a constant attendance upon him; while, like his holy angels, they never cease praising him, and the divine presence will be to them an everlasting source of bliss. (Ver. 16.) They shall be subject to no more thirst any more; [a] neither shall the sun light on them, nor any heat.

17 For the Lamb which is in the midst of the throne [z] shall feed them, and shall lead them unto living fountains of waters: [y] and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes.

CHAP. VIII.

1 At the opening of the seventh seal, 2 seven angels had seven trumpets given them. 6 Four of them sound their trumpets, and great plagues follow. 3 Another angel putteth incense to the prayers of the saints to the golden altar.

AND [a] when he had opened the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven about the space of half an hour.

2 [b] And I saw the seven angels which stood before God; [c] and to them were given seven trumpets.

3 And another angel came and stood at the altar, having a golden censer; and there was given unto him much incense, that he should [*] offer it with [d] the prayers of all saints upon [e] the golden altar which was before the throne.

4 And [f] the smoke of the incense, which came with the prayers of the saints, ascended up before God out of the angel's hand.

5 And the angel took the censer, and filled it with fire of the altar, and cast it [†] into the earth: and [g] there were voices, and thunderings, and lightnings, [h] and an earthquake.

6 And the seven angels which had the seven trumpets prepared themselves to sound.

7 The first angel sounded, [i] and there followed hail and fire mingled with blood, and they were cast [k] upon the earth: and the third part [l] of trees was burnt up, and all green grass was burnt up.

8 And the second angel sounded, [m] and as it were a great mountain burning with fire was cast into the sea: [n] and the third part of the sea [o] became blood;

9 [p] And the third part of the creatures which were in the sea, and had life, died; and the third part of the ships were destroyed.

10 And the third angel sounded, [q] and there fell a great star from heaven, burning as it were a lamp, [r] and it fell upon the third part of the rivers, and upon the fountains of waters;

11 [s] And the name of the star is called Wormwood: [t] and the third part of the waters became wormwood; and many men died of the waters, because they were made bitter.

12 [u] And the fourth angel sounded, and the third part of the sun was smitten, and the third part of the moon, and the third part of the stars; so as the third part of them was darkened, and the day shone not for a third part of it, and the night likewise.

13 And I beheld, [x] and heard an angel flying through the midst of heaven, saying with a loud voice, [y] Woe, woe, woe, to the inhabiters of the earth by reason of the other voices of the trumpet of the three angels, which are yet to sound!

CHAP. IX.

1 At the sounding of the fifth angel, a star falleth from heaven, to whom is given the key of the bottomless pit. 2 He openeth the pit, and there come forth locusts like scorpions. 12 The first woe past. 13 The sixth trumpet soundeth. 14 Four angels are let loose, that were bound.

AND the fifth angel sounded, [a] and I saw a star fall from heaven unto the earth: and to him was given the key of [b] the bottomless pit.

2 And he opened the bottomless pit; and [c] there arose a smoke out of the pit, as the smoke of a great furnace; and the sun and the air were darkened by reason of the smoke of the pit.

3 And there came out of the smoke [d] locusts upon the earth: and unto them was given power, [e] as the scorpions of the earth have power.

4 And it was commanded them [f] that they should not hurt [g] the grass of the earth, neither any green thing, neither any tree;

CHAP. VIII. This chapter opens with the second period of this prophecy, which begins upon opening the Seventh Seal, and is distinguished by the sounding of seven trumpets. The period of the trumpets contains a prophetic description of the state of the world and Church, — for a considerable period after the empire became Christian, during its continuance under the successors of Constantine. It describes the great devastation of the Roman dominions by the several nations which broke in upon them and finally put an end to the Commonwealth. It describes a time of great calamity, showing the Church what it was to expect in new dangers and oppositions, after it should be delivered from the persecutions of heathen Rome. And when the Christian religion should have the protection of the laws and the favour of the emperors, the Church would still have great need of caution, watchfulness, and constancy; there would, however, be this encouragement to faithfulness and perseverance, that although the opposition at this period would be great, yet that this should not prevail against the cause of truth, but that the Christian faith should be preserved, and in the end triumph over all opposition, as it had previously done over the opposition of heathen Rome.

PARAPHRASE.—Ver. 1. After the time allowed for sealing the servants of God, I had a further revelation, showing what would be the future state of the Church. I observed the Lamb upon the seventh seal; and it immediately seemed to me as if there had been a profound silence in heaven for about half an hour, like the silence observed in the temple worship among the Jews when the whole congregation was occupied in private prayer. Ver. 2. And next I beheld seven chief angels standing before the throne of God, as attendants to receive his orders, and to each was given a trumpet. (Ver. 3.) Then I saw, like the priest in the Jewish temple chosen to offer incense by lot, another angel, standing at the golden altar, having a golden censer filled with incense to offer with the prayers of the saints who were engaged in solemn silence at their private devotions. (Ver. 4.) And I perceived the smoke of the incense offered by the Angel, with the prayers of the saints, ascend before God as a testimony of his gracious acceptance of their worship. (Ver. 5.) And I further beheld that the Angel who had offered the incense, took his censer, and descending from the golden altar to the altar of burnt offering, he filled it with burning coals and cast them upon the earth; immediately there arose a violent tempest, accompanied with thunder and lightning, and an earthquake, representing new commotions and great calamities in the world. (Ver. 6.) I now perceived the seven Angels preparing to sound their trumpets. (Ver. 7.) The first angel sounded; there immediately followed a terrible storm of hail and fire mingled with blood, which destroyed a great portion of the vegetation upon the earth; a significant representation of serious disorders in the world, attended with much devastation and bloodshed, among all ranks of men. (Ver. 8.) After this, the second angel sounded, and there appeared as if a great mountain on fire were cast into the sea, by which a considerable portion of its waters was turned into blood. (Ver. 9.) And the creatures living in the sea, and the ships passing over it, were destroyed in vast numbers. This represented a judgment of dismemberment and destruction that should overtake the capital of the Roman empire and many of the provinces. Ver. 10. Next the third angel sounded, upon which a large star, like a flaming torch, seemed to fall from heaven upon a great part of the rivers and fountains of waters; Ver. 11. Which caused them to become bitter as if wormwood had been mixed with them, so that they occasioned the death of many persons by being thus rendered unfit to drink. This part of the vision denoted a further judgment upon the Roman empire, signifying its utter desolation and downfall. Ver. 12. Now the fourth angel sounded, and the events to follow were represented by a very great darkness, as if a dense cloud had so overpowered the skies that neither the light of the sun, moon, nor stars, could be perceived through it; so far was it from being as bright as an ordinary day that it was even more gloomy than an ordinary night. This represented the final desolation of the Imperial city which God's judgments had doomed, like ancient Babylon, to the loss of all dominion and power. Ver. 13. After this I perceived an angel, as it were, flying through the midst of heaven, and proclaiming with an audible voice, — "Though the judgments signified by the four trumpets which have already sounded, are very great, greater still remain, to be inflicted in the events to follow upon the sounding the three latter of the seven trumpets."

CHAP. IX. PARAPHRASE.—Ver. 1. When the fifth angel sounded his trumpet, I saw what appeared to be a star fall from heaven, or an angel descend from thence, to whom was given the key of the abyss. This fitly represented a commission from God to permit Satan to plague the world with some great temptations; as if he, at the head of his apostate angels, were let loose to disturb the earth. Ver. 2. Now I saw the angel who had the key of the abyss open it, and immediately there ascended a smoke so thick that it resembled the smoke of a vast burning furnace, intercepting the light of the sun, and rendering the whole atmosphere perfectly dark; symbolizing those great errors at this time prevalent, and that darkness of understanding so frequently attended with violence and destruction. Ver. 3. And this smoke brought with it locusts which distributed themselves over the earth, and they had power given unto them to do mischief similar to that possessed by scorpions. This expressed, by a strong and vivid figure, a vast multitude of people marching with great speed to plunder and destroy their neighbours. Ver. 4. To these locusts was given an express command that they should not destroy the grass or fruits of the earth, but do hurt only to human beings, yet to none but such as had not the seal of God in their but only those men which have not [b] the seal of God in their foreheads.

5 And to them it was given that they should not kill them, [l] but that they should be tormented five months: and their torment was as the torment of a scorpion, when he striketh a man.

6 And in those days [k] shall men seek death, and shall not find it; and shall desire to die, and death shall flee from them.

7 And [l] the shapes of the locusts were like unto horses prepared unto battle; [m] and on their heads were as it were crowns like gold, [n] and their faces were as the faces of men.

8 And they had hair as the hair of women, and [o] their teeth were as the teeth of lions.

9 And they had breastplates, as it were breastplates of iron; and the sound of their wings was [p] as the sound of chariots of many horses running to battle.

10 And they had tails like unto scorpions, and there were stings in their tails: [q] and their power was to hurt men five months.

11 [r] And they had a king over them, which is [s] the angel of the bottomless pit, whose name in the Hebrew tongue is Abaddon, but in the Greek tongue hath his name * Apollyon.

12 [t] One woe is past; and, behold, there come two woes more hereafter.

13 And the sixth angel sounded, and I heard a voice from the four horns of the golden altar which is before God,

14 Saying to the sixth angel which had the trumpet, Loose the four angels which are [u] bound in the great river Euphrates.

15 And the four angels were loosed, which were prepared † for an hour, and a day, and a month, and a year, for to slay the third part of men.

16 And [x] the number of the army [y] of the horsemen were two hundred thousand thousand: [z] and I heard the number of them.

17 And thus I saw the horses in the vision, and them that sat on them, having breastplates of fire, and of jacinth, and brimstone: [a] and the heads of the horses were as the heads of lions; and out of their mouths issued fire and smoke and brimstone.

18 By these three was the third part of men killed, by the fire, and by the smoke, and by the brimstone, which issued out of their mouths.

19 For their power is in their mouth, and in their tails: [b] for their tails were like unto serpents, and had heads, and with them they do hurt.

20 And the rest of the men which were not killed by these plagues [c] yet repented not of the works of their hands, that they should not worship [d] devils, [e] and idols of gold, and silver, and brass, and stone, and of wood: which neither can see, nor hear, nor walk:

21 Neither repented they of their murders, [f] nor of their sorceries, nor of their fornication, nor of their thefts.

foreheads. This may mean that those locusts are to be understood figuratively as a great multitude of spoilers; still in this extraordinary judgment of God on a corrupt Church, he would take care to preserve the interests of true religion and Christianity among his faithful people. Ver. 5. And I further perceived in this vision, that the locusts were not permitted to destroy those whom they assailed, but only to torment them for a certain period of time; the pains inflicted were such as those produced by the sting of a scorpion. Ver. 6. Yet though these spoilers had a command not to destroy, but only to torment men, they should, however, render their lives so uneasy that these unhappy sufferers would rather die than continue in their misery. Ver. 7. The appearance of these figurative locusts was not like this insect in its natural state, but they resembled horses prepared for battle, having on their heads what seemed to be golden coronets, and their faces resembling the human countenance. Ver. 8. Though, however, their countenances were manly, their hair was effeminately braided; nevertheless they were as intent upon rapine and destruction as if they had the teeth of lions. Ver. 9. As they were thus fitted to destroy, they were as well protected against opposition as if armed with breastplates of iron; and they assailed their enemies with a great noise, as if many chariots and horses were rushing into battle. Ver. 10. They had, moreover, tails with stings in them, as scorpions have, and thus though locusts they had power to torment as scorpions have, which they exercised for a considerable period of time. Ver. 11. And they had a king over them, that evil spirit, the prince of the powers of darkness, who, from the many evils which he is perpetually inflicting upon mankind, is called the destroyer. Ver 12. Such woe and peril the Church is to expect when God shall give permission to the destroyer to punish the sins of men; and even when this woe shall be passed, the Church is to look for yet further woes, when the sixth and seventh angels shall sound their trumpets. Ver 13. And further in my prophetic vision, when the sixth angel sounded his trumpet, I heard a voice proceeding from the golden altar which stood before the divine presence, as in the temple; where the angel, having a golden censer, offered incense with the prayers of all the saints (chap. viii. 3), to express that no intercession should avail to prevent any longer the execution of the following woes. Ver. 14. This voice from the altar of incense was directed to the sixth angel who had just sounded his trumpet commanding him to set the four angels at liberty, who were for the present restrained in and about the eastern parts, that their restraint being taken off they may again execute the judgments of God. Ver. 15. Accordingly the four destroying angels were set free and permitted to afflict the inhabitants of the earth for a determined time; their restraint was taken off, however, but for a season, as if the very time was ascertained by years, months, days, and even hours, in which they have a permission to punish the world, by destroying a number of its inhabitants. Ver. 16 I soon perceived in my vision a further explanation of the four destroying angels, for there appeared a numerous army of horsemen, so many as hardly to be expressed in plain numbers, being two hundred thousand thousand. Ver. 17. And of this martial host both horses and riders were represented as very terrible; the latter appeared in bright armour, having breastplates as if of fire, jacinth, and brimstone, which seemed like a mixture of fire and smoke, and their horses had a most frightful appearance, for they looked as fierce as lions, and from their mouth they emitted fire and smoke. Ver. 18. And by these terrible armies, a great part of the people whose countries they invaded were slain, so that the miserable inhabitants suffered all the evils of slaughter, as well as of rapine. Ver. 19. And the destructive power of these formidable armies was so great that they were represented as resembling those serpents noticed by naturalists, with two heads, one at each end of their bodies, and capable therefore of doing harm, both with their heads and tails; so that not only was their front terrible when they marched, but they did great mischief also in their rear, and wherever they left parties behind them in the countries they had overrun. Ver. 20. Notwithstanding, however, these severe judgments upon the world in consequence of the corruptions of true religion, they who escaped were not reformed by them, they still continued to defile the pure worship of God with idolatrous rites, giving themselves up to all kinds of wickedness, for they worshipped demons, making likewise angels, departed souls, and the images of saints, objects of superstitious adoration. Ver 21. In such a state of spiritual corruption, they continued, as might naturally be expected, impenitent and unreformed; so that all the vices of the heathens were practised by them, such as deceit, injustice, uncleanness, debauchery, poisonings, and open murders.

CHAP. x. The foregoing chapters have given us a prophetic description of the two first periods, or of the state of the world and Church, under the persecution of heathen Rome; of the troubles occasioned by the invasions of the northern nations, which broke the power of the Roman empire, and divided it into several new governments; finally of the rise and progress of the Mahommedan religion, which caused so many evils throughout the greater part of the world.

This Tenth chapter seems to be an interval between the second and third periods, in which the scene of the vision alters; preparation is made for a new prophecy, representing a new state of the world and of the Church, for a new period of forty-two months, "a time, times, and half a time," or twelve hundred and sixty days, being the days of the voice of the seventh angel, when the mystery of God shall be finished.

The scene of vision is represented different from the foregoing; it is not now before the throne of God in heaven, as in the fourth chapter, but on earth, as the first scene, chap. 1. For St. John saw an angel come down from heaven, (ver. 1.) the angel stood on the sea and on the earth, and he lift up his hand to heaven, (ver 5.) when he sware that time should be no longer.

This introduction to the third period represents an angel coming down from heaven, with a little book open in his hand. A voice from heaven directs St. John to take the little book from the angel, and to eat it up; because he was still to continue his prophecy, and to reveal many things contained in it: for he was to prophecy again concerning many people and nations, and tongues, and kings. (Ver. 11.) Or he was to represent in new prophetic descriptions, the state of the Church and world, in the times that should successively follow the former times of which he had already prophecied, and which was to contain a prediction, as is afterwards declared, for the space of twelve hundred and sixty prophetical days; the meaning of which will be best explained by the paraphrase.

PARAPHRASE.—Ver. 1. After my former vision I beheld another, introductory to a further revelation concerning the state of the Church and the world I saw a mighty angel descend from heaven. He was represented as clothed with a cloud, a mark of great power and majesty: a rainbow, the symbol of God's covenant of mercy, encircled his head; his appearance was very

4 And when the seven thunders had uttered their voices, I was about to write: and I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, [f] Seal up those things which the seven thunders uttered, and write them not.

5 And the angel which I saw stand upon the sea and upon the earth [g] lifted up his hand to heaven,

6 And sware by him that liveth for ever and ever, [h] who created heaven, and the things that therein are, and the earth, and the things that therein are, and the sea, and the things which are therein, [i] that there should be time no longer:

7 But [k] in the days of the voice of the seventh angel, when he shall begin to sound, the mystery of God should be finished, as he hath declared to his servants the prophets.

8 And [l] the voice which I heard from heaven spake unto me again, and said, Go and take the little book which is open in the hand of the angel which standeth upon the sea and upon the earth.

9 And I went unto the angel, and said unto him, Give me the little book. And he said unto me, [m] Take it, and eat it up; and it shall make thy belly bitter, but it shall be in thy mouth sweet as honey.

10 And I took the little book out of the angel's hand, and ate it up; [n] and it was in my mouth sweet as honey: and as soon as I had eaten it, [o] my belly was bitter.

glorious, for his face shone with a brightness resembling that of the sun, and his feet with a splendour as if they had been pillars of fire. Ver. 2. And he held a small scroll unrolled in his hand, the remaining part of the sealed scroll which the Lamb had opened, and he stood with one foot upon the sea, and the other on the earth, the prophecies yet to be revealed out of the small scroll, relating to the greater part of the inhabitants of the world. Ver. 3. This angel uttered his proclamation with a voice as loud as the roaring of a lion: upon which I heard seven distinct voices as from the clouds of heaven, and loud as thunder. Ver. 4. As I was about to write down what was spoken from the seven thunders, I was forbid by another voice from heaven, saying unto me, "Do not write down those things which the seven thunders have uttered, as they may not be publickly revealed in this prophecy." Ver. 5. But though I was not allowed to reveal what the seven thunders had uttered, yet the angel proceeded to give a further revelation of God's providence towards the world and his Church, and, to confirm the truth of his revelation, he took an oath in the most solemn manner; Ver 6. For, lifting his hand to heaven, he sware by the eternal God, the Creator of all things, that the glorious state of the Church, though sure to be consummated according to God's promise, should not be yet: Ver. 7. But in the next period, or in the days of the voice of the seventh angel who was yet to sound the mystery of God in his providence towards the Church, should be perfected; and then, as he had promised in the prophetic oracles, the glorious state of the Church should no longer be be deferred. Ver. 8. I was then directed by another voice from heaven to go up to the angel who stood upon the sea and upon the earth, and receive from him the small scroll which he held open in his hand. Ver. 9. And I did as the voice from heaven commanded me, desiring the angel to give me the small scroll, which he did, saying unto me, "Take it, read it through, and digest its contents, and thou shalt find in the events it will reveal to thee occasion for comfort and joy, for grief and sorrow." Ver. 10 I accordingly took the scroll out of the angel's hand, and found it to contain things which imparted great consolation to me, and things which gave me deep concern. Ver. 11. The angel informed me that I was to consider the prophecies contained in it as not intended only for my own instruction, but that they concerned many nations and people, and that I was to make them known for the public use and benefit of the Church.

CHAP. XI. We now come, in this and the following chapter, to the third and longest period of this prophecy, distinguished by the seven vials, as the former periods were by the seven trumpets and seven seals.—As this is a much longer period than either of the foregoing, it seems to have a more copious description, and its state is represented by several prophetic images, as by measuring the Temple; by the prophecy of two witnesses; by the vision of a woman flying into the wilderness; and the representation of one wild beast rising out of the sea, and of another coming up out of the earth. So that here are two distinct representations of the state of the Church during this period; and another representation of the persecuting power from whence this afflicted state of the Church should proceed: and in the end of this, as in each period, there is a representation of the Church's deliverance out of its afflicted state. And in particular the afflictions of the Church are to end with this period, leaving it in the most happy state of peace and prosperity; and not to be succeeded, in a very short time, by a new period of afflictions to try the faith of the saints.

It appears that the two witnesses, — the woman in the wilderness, — and the beast, are several representations of the same period in different views. The times for the witnesses to prophecy in sackcloth is a thousand two hundred and sixty days (chap. xi. 3.) The woman is nourished in her place in the wilderness for a time, and times and half a time (chap. xii. 14.) or three years and a half: equal to twelve hundred and sixty days, according to the ancient year. And so the prophecy itself interprets it, (chap. xii. 6.) "And the woman fled into the wilderness, where she has a place prepared of God, that they should feed her there a thousand two hundred and sixty days." It is further observed concerning the period of the beast, that power was given to him to continue forty and two months; a time equal to three years and a half, or twelve hundred and sixty days. They are, therefore, to be looked upon as different descriptions of the same period for the more distinct explanation of the prophecy.

But before we enter upon the particular meaning of each representation, it may be well to observe something as to the beginning and continuance of this period. As interpreters have given different accounts of both, it has occasioned no little uncertainty in the various interpretations offered of it.

The papists are very unwilling that protestants should find any corruptions of the Romish Church in this prophecy. They have, consequently employed all their ingenuity and learning to finish all the prophecies in this book in much less time than twelve hundred and sixty years, in the down-fall of heathen Rome when, under Constantine, the empire became Christian, A. D. 323. They therefore make the time of this period no more than twelve hundred and sixty natural days, or three common years and a half.

There are also some learned interpreters, among protestants, who think the whole prophecy reaches but to a short period of time. Grotius, and after him, Dr. Hammond, make the duration of this period much less than twelve hundred and sixty years; for to understand that number of days for so many years, according to the style of prophecy, is inconsistent with their favourite schemes, and must quite overthrow them. But the opinion which assigns a short time to the prophecy appears expressly contrary to its intent, which is to extend to the day of judgment. It is likewise a circumstance to strengthen the interpretation of days by years, that as it is most agreeable to the style of prophecy in general, so is it most agreeable to the plan of this prophecy in particular. Let us now see how justifiable the prophetic interpretation of a day for a year is in this place. It is agreeable to the ancient style of Scripture in the days of Moses. (See Numb. xiv. 34.) The punishment of the people was to be as many years as the days of their transgression; so that each day for a year seems in allusion to some known method of counting, in which days were answered by years. The prophetic style of Ezekiel further confirms it (chap. iv. 6.) The prophet is directed "to lie on his right side, and bear the iniquity of the house of Judah forty days" This is explained to signify, according to the style of prophecy, so many years. I have "appointed thee each day for a year." So that, in this figurative interpretation, each day in the prophetic representation is to be answered by a year in the historical event. In the prophecy of Daniel this manner of prophetic expression is used again. (See Daniel ix. 24.) All who considered this a prophecy relating to the Messiah, for which there are unanswerable reasons, must consider the seventy weeks as so many times seven years, not as so many weeks of natural days.

The particular circumstances of this prophecy add further strength to this interpretation, that the twelve hundred and sixty days are to be understood of so many years. The order of the prophecies of this book show that these twelve hundred and sixty days contain the whole duration of the third period, or the whole interval in which the witnesses prophecy, the woman is in the wilderness, and the beast has power given unto him. That is the whole interval of the Church's sufferings, to that glorious state of it when Satan shall be shut up in the bottomless pit for a thousand years. In this period, the seven vials of God's wrath are to be poured out, and all the historical events relating to them accomplished; this period is at last found the mystery of God shall be finished. These events are too many, and the times in which they are to be accomplished too long, to be comprised within three years and a half, or twelve hundred and sixty natural day.

The order of the periods show this third is not to begin until the two former are passed, until the nations, which had destroyed the Roman empire, had divided it among themselves: till another form of government should be established in Rome, which, on some accounts, should be called the seventh, and, on other accounts, the eighth, form of government when Rome, once the powerful mistress of the world, after she had lost her dominion, should be restored to power, and continue during twelve hundred and sixty days of this period, and then be utterly overthrown.

Thus, as a great variety of concurring circumstances show the beginning of this period, about the year 756, when the popes were invested with the temporal dominion of Rome, in which only time, and several descriptions of this period do all exactly agree; the twelve hundred and sixty days of this prophecy are to last so long as this power is to continue; which seems evidently to show that we are not to understand twelve hundred and sixty natural days the time of this period, but so many prophetic days in which a day is given for a year.

It being necessary to premise much concerning the prophetic account of time in this period, I shall only further observe that we have three distinct representations of it in the eleventh, twelfth, and thirteenth chapters. The first, by the figure of measuring the Temple, and prophesying of the two witnesses; the second, by the figure of the woman in the wilderness; and the third, by the persecution and power of the beast.

PARAPHRASE.—Ver. 1.—After this I beheld, in the visions of prophecy, a new representation of the future providence of God towards the Church. A measuring rod was put into my hand, with which I was directed to measure the Temple, and the court where the altar stood, and in which the priests performed the Temple services. This fully represented the true worship of God, and such as were faithful worshippers of him. Ver. 2. But the outer court of the Temple, where the general congregation of the Israelites used to assemble for public worship I was commanded not to 5 And if any man will hurt them, [l] fire proceedeth out of their mouth, and devoureth their enemies: [m] and if any man will hurt them, he must in this manner be killed.

6 These [n] have power to shut heaven, that it rain not in the days of their prophesy: and [o] have power over waters to turn them to blood, and to smite the earth with all plagues, as often as they will.

7 And when they [p] shall have finished their testimony, [q] the beast that ascendeth [r] out of the bottomless pit [s] shall make war against them, and shall overcome them, and kill them.

8 And their dead bodies shall lie in the street of [t] the great city, which spiritually is called Sodom and Egypt, [u] where also our Lord was crucified.

10 [z] And they that dwell upon the earth shall rejoice over them, and make merry, [a] and shall send gifts one to another; [b] because these two prophets tormented them that dwelt on the earth.

11 [c] And after three days and an half [d] the Spirit of life from God entered into them, and they stood upon their feet; and great fear fell upon them which saw them.

12 And they heard a great voice from heaven saying unto them, Come up hither. [e] And they ascended up to heaven [f] in a cloud; [g] and their enemies beheld them.

13 And the same hour [h] was there a great earthquake, [i] and the tenth part of the city fell, and in the earthquake were slain ‡ of men seven thousand: and the remnant were affrighted, [k] and gave glory to the God of heaven.

14 [l] The second woe is past; and, behold, the third woe cometh quickly.

15 And [m] the seventh angel sounded; [n] and there were great voices in heaven, saying, [o] The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; [p] and he shall reign for ever and ever.

16 And [q] the four and twenty elders, which sat before God on their seats, fell upon their faces, and worshipped God,

17 Saying, We give thee thanks, O Lord God Almighty, [r] which art, and wast, and art to come; because thou hast taken to thee thy great power, [s] and hast reigned.

18 [t] And the nations were angry, and thy wrath is come, [u] and the time of the dead, that they should be judged, and that thou shouldest give reward unto thy servants the prophets, and to the saints, and them that fear thy name, [x] small and great; [y] and shouldest destroy them which § destroy the earth.

19 And [z] the temple of God was opened in heaven, and there was seen in his temple the ark of his testament: and [a] there were lightnings, and voices, and thunderings, and an earthquake, [b] and great hail.

measure because it should be allowed to be profaned by the Gentiles. This represented the great corruption of the common worship, by the admission of heathen abominations; which the steadfast corruption I was assured would continue forty-two prophetic months, or as many years as there are days in these months, being twelve hundred and sixty. Ver. 3. Yet, in this prevailing corruption, God will raise up witnesses to the truth who shall testify and denounce the divine judgments against the apostacy. Like the prophets of old, they shall meet with great opposition, and prophecy in garments of mourning, yet they shall persevere in asserting the truth, and in opposing the prevailing corruptions. Ver. 4. This small congregation of faithful worshippers shall be constantly supported in their profession of true religion, as if a lamp were always kept burning by a constant supply of oil from a living olive tree continually replenishing it, that it may never be extinguished. Ver. 5. Moreover the judgments which shall be denounced by these witnesses against their persecutors and the enemies of religion, shall be as surely executed as were the judgments denounced by the prophets of old. God will assuredly punish such as despise their warnings with many terrible visitations of his wrath. Ver. 6. He will vindicate the honour of these witnesses to the truth by a remarkable visitation in their times, as in those of the ancient prophets; as for instance, when Elijah prayed, and it rained not on the earth; or as when Moses turned the waters of Egypt into blood. God will surely avenge their cause as his own, and punish their enemies with those plagues which, according to his direction, they shall denounce against them. Ver. 7. Nevertheless, while these witnesses are faithfully bearing testimony against the corruptions of the Christian faith, that persecuting power, afterwards to be described, shall rise out of the bottomless pit, and continually oppose them; so far prevailing as to impose many evils upon them, and even to destroy them. Ver. 8. They shall be treated with such cruel severity, by their persecutors, as to be denied the common decencies of sepulture; their corpses shall be cast into the streets of the great city, spiritually called Sodom and Egypt, on account of the abominable profligacy of its citizens, in which Christ has been, as it were, crucified afresh by the persecutors of his people, and by those corruptions which have been allowed to enter into his Church. Ver. 9. The corruption, in the interval of this period, shall be so great that people, in all places, shall be violently prejudiced against these faithful witnesses, insomuch that they shall deny their bodies the decencies of burial, and express the fierceness of their wrath, by subjecting them to all kinds of public disgrace. Ver. 10. And the inhabitants of the earth shall rejoice in this persecution, expressing it by exchanging gifts as a testimony of mutual congratulation; for they now hope to be delivered from the troubles occasioned by the constant reproofs of those prophets, and the judgments with which they threatened them on account of their corruptions. Ver. 11. Though, however, the enmity of their persecutors prevailed, it will be but for a limited time, for the power of God, in their deliverance, shall be heaven saying unto them, Come up hither. And they ascended up to heaven in a cloud, and their enemies beheld them. A. D. 96.

sun, and the moon under her feet, and upon her head a crown of twelve stars:

2 And she being with child cried, [a] travailing in birth, and pained to be delivered.

3 And there appeared another † wonder in heaven; and behold [b] a great red dragon, [c] having seven heads and ten horns, [d] and seven crowns upon his heads.

4 And [e] his tail drew the third part [f] of the stars of heaven, [g] and did cast them to the earth: and the dragon stood [h] before the woman which was ready to be delivered, [i] for to devour her child as soon as it was born.

5 And she brought forth a man child, [k] who was to rule all nations with a rod of iron: and her child was caught up unto God, and to his throne.

6 And [l] the woman fled into the wilderness, where she hath a place prepared of God, that they should feed her there [m] a thousand two hundred and threescore days.

7 And there was war in heaven: [n] Michael and his angels fought [o] against the dragon; and the dragon fought and his angels,

8 And prevailed not; neither was their place found any more in heaven.

9 And [p] the great dragon was cast out, [q] that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, [r] which deceiveth the whole world: [s] he was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him.

10 And I heard a loud voice saying in heaven, [t] Now is come salvation, and strength, and the kingdom of our God, and the power of his Christ: for the accuser of our brethren is cast down, [u] which accused them before our God day and night.

11 And [x] they overcame him by the blood of the Lamb, and by the word of their testimony; [y] and they loved not their lives unto the death.

12 Therefore [z] rejoice, ye heavens, and ye that dwell in them. [a] Woe to the inhabiters of the earth and of the sea! for the devil is come down unto you, having great wrath, [b] because he knoweth that he hath but a short time.

13 And when the dragon saw that he was cast unto the earth, he persecuted [c] the woman which brought forth the man child.

14 [d] And to the woman were given two wings of a great eagle, [e] that she might fly [f] into the wilderness, into her place, where she is nourished [g] for a time, and times, and half a time, from the face of the serpent.

15 And the serpent [h] cast out of his mouth water as a flood after the woman, that he might cause her to be carried away of the flood.

16 And the earth helped the woman, and the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed up the flood which the dragon cast out of his mouth.

17 And the dragon was wroth with the woman, [i] and went to make war with the remnant of her seed, [k] which keep the commandments of God, and have [l] the testimony of Jesus Christ.

period of prophecy, that is, the state of the Church and world in the days of the voice of the seventh angel; or while the woman who fled into her place in the wilderness, was nourished there "for a time, times and half a time," or three years and a half, equal to twelve hundred and sixty prophetical days, the exact time in which the witnesses were to prophecy. As the former representation showed the true religion should be preserved among a few faithful confessors, though in a constant state of severe persecution, so this represents the state of the Church, under the figure of a woman, so persecuted as to be obliged to fly into desert places to hide herself, yet preserved and fed there, notwithstanding all the endeavours of a furious serpent, ready to destroy her.

This plainly describes an afflicted and persecuted state of the Church in general, during this period; in which false and idolatrous worship shall be in great power, and the faithful profession of the true religion shall expose men to great danger; however, the true worshippers of God shall be preserved, though in an obscure state, and be enabled, notwithstanding all opposition, to maintain the truth unto the end.

PARAPHRASE.—Ver. 1. I beheld in a second vision another representation of this period: there appeared in heaven a woman of a most beautiful and majestic form; she seemed to be encircled with sunbeams as with a glory, and to stand upon the moon, her head being adorned with a crown in which were set twelve stars, expressive of her great dignity. Ver. 2. She was represented to me as a fruitful mother ready to be delivered of a child and to bless the world with a numerous posterity. Ver. 3. I now saw another extraordinary representation—a great red dragon with seven heads and ten horns, and a crown on each head, to show there was a powerful enemy of the Church, intent to make use of its power to destroy it, if possible. Ver. 4. The power of this dragon was so great that he seemed with his tail to strike a great number of the stars from their places in the heavens, and to watch the woman with great attention, as if ready to destroy her child as soon as it should be born; title expressing the great power of Satan and his kingdom, and his unwearied endeavours to stay the progress of the Gospel. Ver. 5. The woman, however, brought forth a man child, to intimate that the Christian Church should be continued by a constant succession of converts, notwithstanding all opposition. Thus Christ's kingdom should prevail over all enemies, and overcome all opposition, as the ancient oracles prophesied concerning him, "that he should rule all nations as with a sceptre of iron." As soon as this child was born I beheld it caught up to God, to intimate his care of the true Christian Church, and its security under divine protection. Ver. 6. I perceived that the woman was likewise preserved, but it was by flying into the wilderness, where she was protected by Divine Providence during this entire period, to intimate that the condition of the Church would be difficult and dangerous during this interval, yet that the divine protection should preserve it, as the Israelites were fed with manna, and Elijah by ravens. Ver. 7. The state of the Church was further represented by a battle in the air, between Michael and his angels on the one side, and the dragon, or the devil, and his party, on the other. Ver. 8. But the latter were totally defeated and driven from the field of battle. Ver. 9. Thus the great dragon, that old serpent called in Scripture the Devil and Satan, who has corrupted the whole world, was cast down with his host of followers; intimating that there should be a severe contention between faithful Christians and the maintainers of error, which should end in a complete victory over the enemies of true religion. Ver. 10. And I perceived this blessing of the Church was acknowledged by a public act of thanksgiving unto God in heaven, who had thus manifested his power in the advancement of his spiritual kingdom, by the profession and practice of Christianity among his people; for now Satan, the malignant accuser of our brethren, who accused them day and night before God for not conforming to the idolatrous worship of heathen Rome, is cast out, the power and kingdom of God is established, and the authority of his Church shall henceforward prevail over all opposition. Ver. 11. But the power by which they have overcome this terrible enemy, Satan and his confederate angels, is the blood of the Lamb: and as their Saviour confirmed his doctrine with his blood, they were ready to confirm their testimony to the truth by constancy unto death, which many of them suffered, and obtained the glorious distinction of martyrs. Ver. 12. Let therefore all the inhabitants of heaven rejoice before God at this glorious triumph over Satan, but woe is still to come upon the inhabitants of this terraqueous globe, for Satan though subdued is not destroyed; he will be still able to do much mischief, and will attempt it with the fiercer wrath, as the period of his power is much abridged. Ver. 13. The devil will show his fury now, that, in defiance of his opposition, Christianity so universally prevails against idolatry, so long supported by the vast authority of heathen Rome. He will still find out new ways to persecute the church, and those who are careful to preserve the purity of true religion. Ver. 14. The Christian church, however, represented by the woman, appeared to be assisted against the wrath of the devil: eagle's wings were given to her that she might escape into a place of safety, provided for her during the continuance of this period. Ver. 15. But Satan endeavoured to prevent her escaping to a place of security: he appeared to cast out of his mouth a vast flood of water to destroy her before she should reach the wilderness, where he knew she would be secure. Ver. 16. But this danger to the church was to be averted by a remarkable interposition of providence, in raising up several eminent persons in the world to help the escape of his faithful worshippers; as if the earth had been commanded to open and receive the flood, that it might not overtake and destroy the fugitives. Ver. 17. This greatly enraged the devil, who continued with renewed fury to persecute the true worshippers of God according to the purity of the Gospel and revelation of Jesus Christ; who would not submit to the idolatrous doctrines and corrupt worship introduced into the Church at this period.

CHAP. XIII.—In this chapter we have a farther account of the church and of the world in this third period. The representation of the wild beasts in this vision refers to the same times with the two former visions of the witnesses prophesying in sackcloth, and the woman flying into the wilderness. Power is given unto the beast to continue or to make war and prevail forty-two months (ver. 5).

This vision gives a more distinct account of the manner and means by which the true Church and worshippers of God should be persecuted, represented by the woman's flying into the wilderness, and slaying the witnesses. So that this representation, in conjunction with the two former, will afford us a sufficient description of the state of providence and the church, with the useful lessons of caution, patience, and faithfulness, in times of great corruption and danger, which are the principal intentions of the Spirit of prophecy throughout these revelations.

PARAPHRASE.—Ver. 1. After the two preceding visions, I beheld a third, further to explain them. I seemed to be standing upon the sea shore when upon his horns ten crowns, and upon his heads the [e] name of Blasphemy.

2 [e] And the beast which I saw was like unto a leopard, [d] and his feet were as the feet of a bear, [e] and his mouth as the mouth of a lion: and [f] the dragon gave him his power, [g] and his seat, [h] and great authority.

3 And I saw one of his heads [i] as it were † wounded to death; and his deadly wound was healed: and [k] all the world wondered after the beast.

4 And they worshipped the dragon which gave power unto the beast: and they worshipped the beast, saying, [l] Who is like unto the beast? who is able to make war with him?

5 And there was given unto him [m] a mouth speaking great things and blasphemies; and power was given unto him ‡ to continue [n] forty and two months.

6 And he opened his mouth in blasphemy against God, to blaspheme his name, [o] and his tabernacle, and them that dwell in heaven.

7 And it was given unto him [p] to make war with the saints, and to overcome them: [q] and power was given him over all kindreds, and tongues, and nations.

8 And all that dwell upon the earth shall worship him, [r] whose names are not written in the book of life of the Lamb slain [s] from the foundation of the world.

9 [t] If any man have an ear, let him hear.

10 [u] He that leadeth into captivity shall go into captivity: [x] he that killeth with the sword must be killed with the sword. [y] Here is the patience and the faith of the saints.

11 And I beheld another beast [z] coming up out of the earth; and he had two horns like a lamb, and he spake as a dragon.

12 And he exerciseth all the power of the first beast before him, and causeth the earth and them which dwell therein to worship the first beast, [a] whose deadly wound was healed.

13 And [b] he doeth great wonders, [c] so that he maketh fire come down from heaven on the earth in the sight of men,

14 And [d] deceiveth them that dwell on the earth [e] by the means of those miracles which he had power to do in the sight of the beast; saying to them that dwell on the earth, that they should make an image to the beast, which had the wound by a sword, [f] and did live.

15 And he had power to give § life unto the image of the beast, that the image of the beast should both speak, [g] and cause that as many as would not worship the image of the beast should be killed.

16 And he caused all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and bond, [h] ‖ to receive a mark in their right hand, or in their foreheads:

17 And that no man might buy or sell, save he that had the mark, or [i] the name of the beast, [k] or the number of his name.

18 [l] Here is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count [m] the number of the beast: [n] for it is the number of a man; and his number is Six hundred threescore and six.

I perceived a wild beast rise out of the sea, or abyss, having seven heads and ten horns, with a crown upon each horn and a blasphemous inscription upon each of its heads: to denote a new form of government, to be erected in Rome, by the great commotions of the world, after the subversion of the Imperial authority, and the division of the empire into ten distinct and independent kingdoms. Ver. 2. And this beast appeared to bear some particular resemblance to several beasts of prey, being generally like a leopard, but having the feet of a bear and the countenance of a lion. These strange peculiarities aptly typified the rising of a new empire, powerful, tyrannical, and cruel. And Satan, who had hitherto caused grievous persecutions to the true worshippers of God, under the several great monarchies of the world, would engage this new power, advanced in the seat of the last of those monarchies, the Roman empire, to persecute the true religion in a more terrible manner than had been done before it. Ver. 3. I perceived also in my vision that one of the heads of the beast had received what appeared a mortal wound, but it was healed up, though the scar remained. This cure was so remarkable that all the world were astonished at it. These particulars denoted that this new power arose in the Roman empire after that empire had received such a wound in one of its heads, or forms of government, as left no probable prospect that it would ever exercise sovereign dominion any more; and that it would much amaze the world to see the imperial authority of Rome revive in that new form of government represented by the beast. Ver. 4. The world was generally seduced to comply with the idolatrous practices introduced afresh by the dragon, or Satan, by means of this newly erected power in Rome, the greater part of the world acknowledging this authority and submitting to it without opposition, supposing it vain to withstand it. Ver. 5. The manner in which the beast exercised the power he had received was thus represented, that he claimed unlimited authority to enforce what he required, and the time he was permitted to establish idolatry was the same as the term of the woman flying into the wilderness, namely forty-two months, equivalent to twelve hundred and sixty prophetical days, or so many natural years. Ver. 6. And this new erected government of Rome used the authority it had acquired in making ordinances for the establishment of idolatry, forcing the church to comply with them by all methods of persecution and oppression. Ver. 7. This new power by divine permission became so great that it prevailed against God's true worshippers either in fixing their compliance with the corruptions established under its sanction, or persecuting them for their constancy to the pure faith; and this oppressive power was extended over many countries and people. Ver. 8. Insomuch that all the inhabitants of the earth, so to speak, where this power extended were prevailed upon to yield obedience to its authority, such only excepted as were registered in the book of God's remembrance, or were heirs of eternal life according to the promises of Christ's Gospel, who from the beginning was the true Propitiation and Mediator of acceptance and of blessing. Ver. 9. And now let every faithful christian attentively consider the cautions, warnings, consolations and encouragements of this prophecy. Ver. 10. For every one may be assured that God will finally render to every man according to his works, and punish the foes of his church in due time, with a punishment equal to their tyranny and persecution. This consideration may serve to support the faith of the saints who shall finally triumph over all their enemies. Ver. 11. I further beheld in my vision a second beast rising out of the earth, having two horns like those of a lamb, while his voice resembled that of a dragon; representing another persecuting government exercising its authority with a show of meekness and charity, but carrying on against pure religion the opposition of Satan, and promoting idolatry by persecution. Ver. 12. And this second persecuting power had all the authority of the first, which it employed to spread the power of the new Roman government beyond the limits of its own proper dominion, so as to compel the several nations to yield obedience to the influence revived in Rome, after it had so long been deprived of all authority, and seemed to have lost all hope of recovering it.* Ver. 13. This persecuting power shall promote idolatrous worship by pretended miracles, as if, like Elijah, it could bring down fire from heaven. Ver. 14. The effects of these pretended miracles, over a great part of the world, were artfully improved to persuade those imposed upon by them almost to deify the pope, or erect an idol to his honour; so that they were persuaded it was their duty to defer in all things to his authority as to that of God himself. Ver. 15. This idol, erected to the pope's honour, was not a mere dumb image, but, like those statues of the heathen divinities, which gave forth oracles as if animated by an indwelling spirit. Thus, the institutions of the pope were promulgated by the subordinate clergy, as oracles demanding the most implicit religious obedience from all nations; these ministers supported the papal authority with all their might and influence, treating them as worthy of death who should refuse submission in the least particular.

Ver. 16. The obligation of entire submission to the papal decrees was carried so high that persons of all ranks were to make public acknowledgment of it, as servants were wont to be marked by their masters, or as persons consecrated to some heathen divinity used to distinguish themselves by some badge denoting the divinity whom they served. Ver. 17. It was made so penal for any to omit this profession of obedience to the papal constitutions, that no man was permitted to buy or sell, but was deprived of all civil privileges, if he did not make it in some way or other. Ver. 18. It will be a great point of knowledge in this mystical description, to find out by a given number the name of the beast, so as to know when this idolatrous power shall arise, and thence ascertain the meaning of this prophetical representation. Now there is a certain number which, by the mode of computation usual among men, will teach it: that number is six hundred and sixty-six.†

CHAP. XIV. In this chapter the scene of the prophetical vision is changed from earth to heaven: from a view of the Church under the persecution of the beast, to a view of the Church in the presence of the Lamb, delivered from the state of corruption and oppression in this world, and arrived at a state of complete perfection in the next.

This vision, then, represents the certain destruction of the enemies of truth in the end, however they may prevail for a while. It shows the great reward of the faithful,—the dreadful punishment of apostates. Thus this part of the prophecy unites the strongest principles of warning, caution, encouragement and hope, than which nothing could be more beneficial to the Church under such a condition of providence. When we consider the chapter in this view, it will show us a more easy and natural connection between this vision and the foregoing than is usually observed, rendering the whole plan more exact and regular than it is usually thought to be.

* For an account of the second beast here mentioned, Mr. Lowman's excellent note is well worth consulting. † See Lowman's note.

his Father's name written in their foreheads.

2 And I heard a voice from heaven, [d] as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of a great thunder: and I heard the voice of [e] harpers harping with their harps:

3 And [f] they sung as it were a new song before the throne, and before the four beasts, and the elders: and no man could learn that song [g] but the hundred and forty and four thousand, which were redeemed from the earth.

4 These are they which were not defiled with women; [h] for they are virgins. These are they [i] which follow the Lamb whithersoever he goeth. These [k] were redeemed from among men, [l] being the firstfruits unto God and to the Lamb.

5 And [m] in their mouth was found no guile: for [n] they are without fault before the throne of God.

6 And I saw another angel [o] fly in the midst of heaven, [p] having the everlasting Gospel to preach unto them that dwell on the earth, [q] and to every nation, and kindred, and tongue, and people,

7 Saying with a loud voice, [r] Fear God, and give glory to him; for the hour of his judgment is come: [s] and worship him that made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and the fountains of waters.

8 And there followed another angel, saying, [t] Babylon is fallen, is fallen, [u] that great city, because she made all nations drink of the wine of the wrath of her fornication.

9 And the third angel followed them, saying with a loud voice, [x] If any man worship the beast and his image, and receive his mark in his forehead, or in his hand,

10 The same [y] shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is [z] poured out without mixture into [a] the cup of his indignation; and [b] he shall be tormented with [c] fire and brimstone in the presence of the holy angels, and in the presence of the Lamb:

A. D. 96.

11 And [d] the smoke of their torment ascendeth up for ever and ever: and they have no rest day nor night, who worship the beast and his image, and whosoever receiveth the mark of his name.

12 [e] Here is the patience of the saints: [f] here are they that keep the commandments of God, and the faith of Jesus.

13 And I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, Write, [g] Blessed are the dead [h] which die in the Lord † from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit, [i] that they may rest from their labours; and their works do follow them.

14 And I looked, and behold a white cloud, and upon the cloud one sat [k] like unto the Son of man, [l] having on his head a golden crown, and in his hand a sharp sickle.

15 And another angel [m] came out of the temple, crying with a loud voice to him that sat on the cloud, [n] Thrust in thy sickle, and reap: for the time is come for thee to reap; for the harvest [o] of the earth is ‡ ripe.

16 And he that sat on the cloud thrust in his sickle on the earth; and the earth was reaped.

17 And another angel came out of the temple which is in heaven, he also having a sharp sickle.

18 And another angel came out from the altar, [p] which had power over fire; and cried with a loud cry to him that had the sharp sickle, saying, [q] Thrust in thy sharp sickle, and gather the clusters of the vine of the earth; for her grapes are fully ripe.

19 And the angel thrust in his sickle into the earth, and gathered the vine of the earth, and cast it into [r] the great winepress of the wrath of God.

20 And [s] the winepress was trodden [t] without the city, and blood came out of the winepress, [u] even unto the horse bridles, by the space of a thousand and six hundred furlongs.

PARAPHRASE.—Ver. 1. I now saw a more encouraging vision in another figurative description of the state of the Church. A Lamb, signifying Christ, appeared standing on Mount Sion, the place on which the Temple stood, and therefore an emblem of the Church; having the symbolical number of a hundred and forty-four thousand, which represented the true Apostolical Church, consisting of faithful worshippers who had the seal of their consecration to God as his favoured people. Ver. 2. I observed further, in my vision, how this heavenly Church was employed, and heard the sound of a voice as from heaven, strong as the roaring of the sea, and loud as thunder, but harmonious as if a multitude of voices were joined in full concert, accompanied by musical instruments, as in the temple service on earth. Ver. 3. They were engaged in a most solemn act of worship before the throne of God, which was surrounded by the four living creatures, and twenty-four elders, representing the Cherubim, the patriarchs and apostles, and denoting the junction of the Jewish and Christian Churches.—This hymn being a new composition, the full understanding of it was confined to those persons who, having been solemnly consecrated to God, were delivered from those corruptions so generally prevailing in the world. Ver. 4. These are such as persevered both in bodily and spiritual purity. They did not forsake Christ to join in idol-worship. They were constant in maintaining the institutions of his Gospel, though exposed to persecution in consequence. As the first-born and first-fruits under the law were holy and consecrated to God, so were these persons redeemed from among the rest of mankind, and freed from the antichristian corruptions of the Church, to serve God according to the uncorrupted doctrines of the Christian faith. Ver. 5. They were such as worshipped God in sincerity and truth, and are therefore accepted of Him as members of his true Church, holy and without blemish. Ver. 6. And, as a further motive to patience and constancy, this vision of the happy state of faithful Christians was followed by another. I perceived an angel flying through the air, as a messenger bearing some important tidings to this lower world. This was to proclaim to all people the unchangeable constitution of the Christian religion, together with the certainty of its everlasting rewards and punishments. Ver. 7. He declared with a loud voice in order to command attention, that God would inflict a severe punishment on all the corruptors of true religion; that the hour of his judgment should certainly come, as it had been foretold. It therefore gratify concerned all to fear and give glory to God, for such worship is due to the Creator of all things. Ver. 8. This more general sentence against idolatrous corruptions of the Christian faith was applied particularly to the antichristian abominations of this period, for the first angel was followed by a second, who proclaimed that Babylon was to be destroyed, signifying Rome, which had abused her latter as well as her former power, in propagating idolatrous doctrines. Ver. 9. These two angels were succeeded by a third, to show the great importance of the message. This latter angel declared the peril of complying with the then prevailing corruptions; denouncing a severe judgment against all who should submit to this anti-christian power, or pretend obedience to it by any public act of acknowledgment. Ver. 10. For he declared all such persons obnoxious to the most fearful wrath of God, which will be so terrible that death shall not free him from it, but they shall suffer everlasting agonies in the presence of Christ and his holy angels. Ver. 11. Their torments shall be eternal, as well as infinite. They shall never know rest, but live through an eternity of exquisite and immitigable agony. Ver. 12. Now shall the patience of the saints be perfected. Their perseverance will consist in this, that in spite of persecution they will steadfastly maintain the truths of the Christian revelation, in opposition to all doctrines contrary to it, by what authority soever they may be imposed upon the Church.—Ver. 13. As a further encouragement to righteous Christians, I was directed by a voice from heaven to declare the unspeakable blessings of the faithful: as they die in the faith, they die in the favour of God and of Christ. The spirit of revelation assures them, not only of an end to all their afflictions, but that they shall be rewarded everlastingly in a state of perfect happiness. Ver. 14. The sure execution of the judgments denounced against the corrupters of the Christian religion was confirmed by another vision. Christ was represented sitting upon a bright cloud, as upon a seat of judgment. He appeared as a man with a golden crown on his head, the ensign of sovereign power; and, to express the design of his appearance to judgment, he bore in his hand a sharp sickle, a symbol of ready destruction. Ver. 15. Soon after, I beheld another angel descend from heaven, the true temple of God, to deliver the order from God, when the execution of his judgments should commence. He spoke with a very loud voice to him who sat on the cloud,—"Thrust in thy sickle and reap, for the world is ripe for judgment; let it no longer be delayed." Ver. 16. Upon which God's order was instantly executed; the inhabitants of the earth were cut off as corn is cut down with a sickle at the appointed time of harvest. Ver. 17. I now beheld another angel coming out of the true Temple, which is heaven; he likewise had a sharp sickle in his hand to assist in this execution of the enemies of true religion. Ver. 18. And another angel came out from the altar, on which fire was kept continually burning; he was sent with orders to the angel who had the sharp sickle; these he delivered with a loud voice, saying,—"Begin to execute the divine judgments on this evil generation; the appointed time of God's vengeance is come, and the wickedness of the earth's inhabitants has made them ripe for destruction." Ver. 19. Immediately the angel began to cut down those wicked persons, and delivered them over to divine vengeance, which should press them hard, as grapes in a wine press, with grievous afflictions. Ver. 20. The destruction of these enemies of true religion was great beyond expression; it appeared as if their blood was shed in such abundance that it covered the earth for several miles, and so deep as to reach up to a horse's breast.

CHAP. XV. The prophecy proceeds, in this and the following chapters, to open further the appointed punishment of Rome, for her opposition to the faith, and her persecutions of the saints. This chapter exhibits the solemn manner in which preparation is made for the execution of these judgments, as the next describes their actual consummation. The happy state of God's faithful servants, and the joyful thanksgivings with which they celebrate the divine goodness in the protection of their cause, are very elegantly represented to encourage their constancy and perseverance.

PARAPHRASE.—Ver. 1. And I had another wonderful vision, as in heaven; seven angels appeared, agreeable to the number by whom God executed his judgments in the former periods, who were appointed for the consummation of his final judgments on the enemies of the Christian Church, in which his wrath was to be finally completed in the full and final destruction of his Antichristian enemies. Ver. 2. I moreover saw, as in a former vision, (chap. iv. 6.) a large crystal vessel, like the molten sea in the Temple, but far more glorious, and it was so irradiated with the reflection which fell upon it from the throne of God that its waves seemed mingled with fire. Round this crystal vessel stood those happy servants of God who by their faith and patience had preserved themselves from the Antichristian apostacy, not having acknowledged the authority of the beast by any act of submission. They had, as in the temple service, harps in their hands to accompany their psalms of praise with symphonies of music. Ver. 3. Those happy saints were employed in singing praises to God for their victory and present bliss; as the Israelites celebrated his mercy for their deliverance at the Red Sea, in a hymn composed by Moses, so these saints, having obtained a more signal deliverance and salvation by Christ, offered a song of praise, saying, "Thy works, O Lord God Almighty, are great and wonderful; thy ways, as the king of saints, are most righteous and faithful. Ver. 4. What abundant reason have all people to worship thee, and give honour to thy name; for who is like unto thee? All nations shall acknowledge thee as the one true God, by worshipping before thee, being convinced by thy judgments that, as thou overthrowest them that rise up against thee, so art thou the strength of thy people and their salvation." Ver. 5. When this hymn was concluded, the last judgments of God were further shown to me. I beheld the inmost part of the Temple, the seat of God's glory and of the oracle, opened, as when the high priest went into the Holy of Holies. Ver. 6. And I perceived seven angels appointed to execute these judgments, issuing from the most holy place, as having received their instructions from the oracle of God. They appeared in habits like those worn by the high priest, when he entered the holy place to consult the oracle. Ver. 7. When these angels issued from the most Holy place, their commission was revealed in the following prophetic representation; one of the four living creatures, representing the cherubim, gave to each of them a vial or cup, filled, not with incense, as in the Temple service, but with deadly ingredients, expressive of God's wrath, who, as he is the everlasting God, is able to judge and to punish his enemies according to their works. Ver. 8. Upon which the cloud of glory, the symbol of the divine presence, seemed to fill the Temple, as when that divine presence entered the tabernacle erected by Moses, so that it was not to be approached until God's judgments should be finished; to express that the glory of his justice, power and truth, were highly concerned in the complete execution of these judgments.

CHAP. XVI. The following chapter contains the judgments signified by the seven vials full of the wrath of God; it gives a prophetic representation of each of them in their order; being an exact description of the more eminent judgments of God on the inhabitants of the earth, for their enmity to true religion, and persecution of the saints during this third and last period.

PARAPHRASE.—Ver. 1. The angels having received their instructions from the oracle, and their vials full of God's wrath from one of the cherubim, I heard the voice of the oracle command them to pour out the vials in order, as the inhabitants of the earth were ripe for those judgments appointed by divine justice for their punishment. Ver. 2. The first angel immediately poured out his vial upon the earth. This was followed by a grievous plague upon such as had embraced those errors by which the Christian faith had been corrupted, or were instrumental in persecuting the faithful worshippers of Christ. They were punished with sore afflictions, as if painful ulcers had broken out upon their bodies. Ver 3. After the divine judgments, signified by pouring out the first vial on the earth, the second angel poured out his vial on the sea, upon which its waters became as congealed blood, so that no creatures could live in the sea, but all died. This represented another judgment upon the promoters of the great apostacy, and the persecutors of God's faithful servants. Ver. 4. The third angel now poured out his vial, filled with divine wrath, upon the rivers and fountains of waters which immediately became blood—an emblem of great slaughter among those anti-Christian powers who destroyed God's true and unoffending worshippers. Ver. 5. The angel who executed this latter judgment on the kingdom of the beast, acknowledged the righteousness of God, and began his praise saying, "How does thy righteousness appear in thy ways of providence, O God, who art unchangeable in thy perfections, and constant in thy righteous administration throughout all ages; how manifest hast thou made it to them who will consider thy ways by this judgment on the kingdom of the beast. Ver. 6. They have cruelly destroyed thy saints and prophets; thou hast, therefore, visited them with merited retribution, and given them, as it were, blood to drink, by the great effusion of their own." Ver. 7. This praise was continued by another angel, who stood by the altar, to express the consent of the heavenly Church to extol the Lord God Almighty, and to celebrate his justice in punishing the enemies of truth, and the persecutors of his faithful people. Ver. 8. I further beheld in my vision the fourth angel pour out his vial upon the sun, by which its heat was rendered so intense as to cause great suffering to the inhabitants of the earth. Ver. 9. They were terribly afflicted by this scorching heat, which produced famine, and various dreadful distempers; nevertheless, these fearful visitations made no impression upon their hearts, for they blasphemed God who had thus justly punished them, instead of repenting of those sins which had brought such terrible inflictions upon them. Ver. 10. I now beheld in my vision the fifth vial poured out, in which period the divine wrath was more remarkably to affect the throne of the beast. The authority of his antichristian empire was to be vastly obscured, and 11 And [d] blasphemed the God of heaven because of their pains and [e] their sores, [f] and repented not of their deeds.

12 And the sixth angel poured out his vial [g] upon the great river Euphrates; [h] and the water thereof was dried up, [i] that the way of the kings of the east might be prepared.

13 And I saw three unclean [k] spirits like frogs come out of the mouth of [l] the dragon, and out of the mouth of the beast, and out of the mouth of [m] the false prophet.

14 [n] For they are the spirits of devils, [o] working miracles, which go forth unto the kings of the earth [p] and of the whole world, to gather them to [q] the battle of that great day of God Almighty.

16 [t] And he gathered them together into a place called in the Hebrew tongue Armageddon.

17 And the seventh angel poured out his vial into the air; and there came a great voice out of the temple of heaven, from the throne, saying, [u] It is done.

20 And [d] every island fled away, and the mountains were not found.

21 [e] And there fell upon men a great hail out of heaven, every stone about the weight of a talent: and [f] men blasphemed God because of [g] the plague of the hail; for the plague thereof was exceeding great.

the extent and influence of his government greatly abridged: so that the people gnawed their tongues for vexation, as persons full of anguish and rage. Ver. 11. These terrible judgments, however, produced no reformation in those enemies of the Christian faith, on the contrary, they blasphemed the supreme Governor of the world on account of the evils which had befallen them, but did not repent of their sins. Ver. 12. Now the sixth angel poured out his vial; the punishment figuratively represented by it was drying the river Euphrates, so famous as a boundary against the invasion of the eastern nations, that they might have an easy passage to invade their neighbours, signifying that a way should be prepared for the enemies of this antichristian kingdom to break in upon it. Ver. 13. I further saw, as if the dragon, or emblem of the devil, and the beast, or emblem of this anti-christian power, and the false prophets, or emblem of those who propagated these antichristian doctrines, cast forth each of them an unclean spirit resembling a frog. Ver. 14. These three unclean spirits represented persons who had the bad qualities of demons, opposing religion by false reasonings, and pretences to miraculous works. They were engaged in employing all their wicked devices to excite the princes of the earth to unite against the cause of God and his religion, and make a vigorous effort to establish error and corruption. Ver. 15. When it had been thus foretold what these evil spirits would do, the Spirit of Wisdom added a useful caution that the faithful in Christ should use great care to prevent themselves from being deceived; that they should remember the Messiah's warning that his second coming would be with surprise, as when thieves come unexpectedly in the night. Let all who would faithfully persevere watch over themselves, to maintain their purity, lest, when Christ come, they be exposed to shame, without any covering for their sin. Ver. 16. For Satan, by these evil spirits, shall gather for destruction many of all ranks into one place called, in the Hebrew language, Armageddon, or mountain of Megiddo, because it was to be a place more remarkable for slaughter than Megiddo had ever been. Ver. 17. Upon this last effort of the anti-christian powers, to support the throne of the beast, the seventh angel poured out his vial into the air, the immediate seat of Satan's empire. The meaning of this was explained by a voice from the throne of the temple in heaven saying, "It is done, the mystery of God is accomplished, this last vial of God's wrath has fully consummated his judgments, on the persecutors of his Church, in their final destruction." Ver. 18. Now the air, on which the last vial was poured out, appeared in violent commotion, followed by thunder and lightning, and an earthquake, such as had never been witnessed since the creation of man, to represent the terrible commotions in the world, when God should appear in so remarkable a manner to destroy the powers of the prince of the air, with his associated anti-christian powers upon earth. Ver. 19. The effects of this tempest and earthquake reached the several cities of the anti-christian nations, and the great imperial city itself. It threw down many cities, and divided Rome into several parts, to denote that this great judgment should punish the mystical Babylon with exemplary severity. Ver. 20. This punishment was so general that it extended everywhere. It was like a hurricane that reached even islands and mountains, utterly subverting both. Ver. 21. And a violent storm of hail fell out of heaven among men, the stones of which were of so extraordinary a weight as to dash in pieces all who fled into the open fields for safety, to signify that his terrible judgment was so general that none should be able to escape the danger. Yet, even these severe inflictions did not overcome the obstinacy of the enemies of truth and righteousness; instead of being reformed by them, they blasphemed God so much the more for the plague of the hail, which was very great, being accompanied with the most extensive devastation.

CHAP. XVII. The former vision represented a very afflicted state of the Church; the true worshippers of God, few in number, driven from society, flying into the wilderness for safety from persecution, prophesying in sackcloth, in a state of oppression and mourning, often put to death for their testimony to the truth; yet the time of this afflicted state is limited to twelve hundred and sixty years, or prophetic days; at the end of which period this persecuting power shall be destroyed, purity, truth, and righteousness, which were suppressed, shall flourish in a state of security and peace.

This is a much longer period of prophecy than either of the two foregoing. To make the intention of it more clear and evident, one of the angels who poured out the vials of God's wrath is sent to St. John as an interpreter, more fully to explain it.

An angel or interpreter was a known part in the ancient drama. Here one is sent to interpret this part of the prophecy to us, and we may justly look up to the angel's interpretation as a sure key, which will warrant an application of the several representations; and so far as an angel from heaven explains it, we may be assured we have the true meaning of it; so that by the help of this explanation in the prophecy itself, we have a sure interpretation of some of the more important parts of the vision, and of such as will make the interpretation of the rest very probable.

PARAPHRASE.—Ver. 1. After I had seen the afflicted state of the Church in this last period, and the punishment of its enemies, one of the angels appointed to pour out the vials of divine wrath, called me to him that he might explain more particularly some things concerning these judgments, and the characters of the persons on whom they were to be inflicted, which should sufficiently mark them out as an idolatrous power ruling over many nations and people: Ver. 2. With whose idolatrous doctrines and practices the sovereigns of the world and their subjects have been greatly corrupted, so that they have been prevailed upon by this prostitute to join in polluting the worship of the Christian Church by abominable superstitions and idolatries. Ver. 3. Having informed me the design of his message, I was transported by the angel in my vision into a wilderness, where I saw a woman riding on a beast, adorned with scarlet trappings; it had seven heads and seven horns, with many blasphemous inscriptions, to show that this idolatrous power was the same anti-Christian Roman government, meant by the beast, which, in a former vision, I saw rise out of the sea. Ver. 4. This prostitute, who sat on the beast, was clothed in the imperial habit, wearing purple and scarlet robes; she was likewise adorned with gold and jewels, to show her high quality and great riches; she had further a golden goblet in her hand, with which she intoxicated persons, enticing them to join in her superstitions and idolatry. Ver. 5. This character of an idolatrous persecuting government, represented by the prostitute, was confirmed by an inscription on her forehead to the following purpose: This is a mystical personage, meaning under the name of Babylon, a power like that of this ancient empire, a great promoter of idolatry, and by whose authority it was propagated among many nations. Ver. 6. When I perceived how furious this government was represented towards the faithful followers of Christ, so as to shed their blood as the blood of the saints, and with the blood of [z] the martyrs of Jesus; and when I saw her, I wondered with great admiration.

7 And the angel said unto me, Wherefore didst thou marvel? I will tell thee the mystery of the woman, and of the beast that carrieth her, which hath the seven heads and ten horns.

8 The beast that thou sawest was, and is not; and [y] shall ascend out of the bottomless pit, and [z] go into perdition: and they that dwell on the earth [a] shall wonder, [b] whose names were not written in the book of life from the foundation of the world, when they behold the beast that was, and is not, and yet is.

9 And [c] here is the mind which hath wisdom. [d] The seven heads are seven mountains, on which the woman sitteth.

10 And there are seven kings: five are fallen, and one is, and the other is not yet come; and when he cometh, he must continue a short space.

11 And the beast that was, and is not, even he is the eighth, and is of the seven, [e] and goeth into perdition.

12 And [f] the ten horns which thou sawest are ten kings, which have received no kingdom as yet; but receive power as kings one hour with the beast.

13 These have one mind, and shall give their power and strength unto the beast.

14 [g] These shall make war with the Lamb, and the Lamb shall overcome them: [h] for he is Lord of lords, and King of kings: [i] and they that are with him are called, and chosen, and faithful.

15 And he saith unto me, [k] The waters which thou sawest, where the whore sitteth, [l] are peoples, and multitudes, and nations, and tongues.

16 And the ten horns which thou sawest upon the beast, [m] these shall hate the whore, and shall make her desolate [n] and naked, and shall eat her flesh, and [o] burn her with fire.

17 [p] For God hath put in their hearts to fulfil his will, and to agree, and give their kingdom unto the beast, [q] until the words of God shall be fulfilled.

18 And the woman which thou sawest [r] is that great city, [s] which reigneth over the kings of the earth.

CHAP. XVIII.

2 Babylon is fallen. 4 The people of God commanded to depart out of her. 9 The kings of the earth, 11 with the merchants and mariners, lament over her. 20 The saints rejoice for the judgments of God upon her.

AND [a] after these things I saw another angel come down from heaven, having great power; [b] and the earth was lightened with his glory.

2 And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying, [c] Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and [d] is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and [e] a cage of every unclean and hateful bird.

3 For all nations [f] have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, and the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, [g] and the merchants of the earth are waxed rich through the [*] abundance of her delicacies.

4 And I heard another voice from heaven, saying, [h] Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues.

5 [i] For her sins have reached unto heaven, and [k] God hath remembered her iniquities.

If mad with rage, it struck me with great astonishment that a power professedly Christian should be so intoxicated with pride and cruelty. Ver. 7. Then the angel interpreter distinctly informed me that, when I should fully understand what this persecuting power was, my wonder would be much abated. I will, therefore, says he, give a more distinct account of the signal wickedness and punishment of this mystical Babylon. Ver. 8. Know then that this persecuting power shall be a revived authority in the city of Rome, which was once before destroyed by the righteous judgment of God, for persecuting the truth; another tyrannous power shall arise after it; this, by means of false doctrines and those hellish principles by which Satan corrupts the world, shall greatly prevail; corrupt part of the Church, who, by their anti-Christian spirit, show they are not Christians, shall be surprised and pleased with it, and the greater part shall rejoice in the revival of a power to promote their corruptions and to persecute all who have the conscience and integrity not to comply with them. Ver. 9. Let those who desire to understand this prophecy attend to this key of explanation, and it will give them knowledge in its meaning. Let those take for granted that this persecuting power is the city of Rome, so well known by its situation on seven hills. Ver. 10. But, said the angel, observe, further, that seven kings are also signified, to express more distinctly under what form of government this persecuting power should arise in Rome. Observe that out of seven forms of government, five are already passed: the present is the sixth; after this there shall be another, which, when it comes, is to continue only for a short period. All these are to pass in succession, before that form of government shall arise in Rome, signified in this prophecy by the beast. Ver. 11. For the form of government here prophesied of may on some accounts be reckoned as an eighth; though yet for other reasons it may be accounted as a seventh, and shall in its appointed time be as surely destroyed as were the several forms of government in succession before it. Ver. 12. To show more distinctly the time of the beast in this prophecy, observe the ten horns as designed to signify several distinct kingdoms, none of which yet exist, but are to arise on or about the same time with this last form of Roman government; you are therefore to consider the time of this persecuting power contemporary with ten other kingdoms, to be formed hereafter, in the Roman empire. Ver. 13. When these kingdoms shall be erected, they shall all unite their power and authority to support this anti-Christian persecution of the faithful servants of Jesus. Ver. 14. They shall join in war with Christ and his Church, but though the faithful shall suffer much, they shall overcome these powerful conquerors of the Roman empire, under the guidance of the Lamb, whom God has constituted Lord of lords and King of kings; and God will assuredly protect those whom he has called to the privileges of his Church, and who shall be found faithful to the cause of his religion against all opposition, however powerful. Ver. 15. The heavenly interpreter further informed me that I was to understand by that part of the vision in which I saw the prostitute sitting on many waters, the great extent of that persecuting power over many governments, being supported by the united force of the several nations settled in the Roman empire. Ver. 16. Yet for the comfort of the faithful it is revealed that these very nations who will thus, for a time, support the idolatry and persecution of the beast, shall at length become sensible of her extravagant claims and grievous oppressions, and highly resent them; they shall not only withdraw their protection from her, but employ their power against her; they shall strip her of her ornaments, deprive her of her riches, expose her, bring her to destruction by fire and sword, and by all the shame, and calamities of war. Ver. 17. For God, though he permits the kings of the earth to support the idolatry and tyranny of the beast for a time, yet it is only for the period of this prophecy; when that is concluded he will put it in their hearts to fulfil his further will, in the destruction of that power which they before supported. Ver. 18. Finally, to understand this vision, observe that the kingdom of the beast is a kingdom in the same great city which you now see to be the empress of the world, and which has subjected so many kingdoms of the earth to its dominion.

CHAP. XVIII.—In the former chapter the angel interpreter has given us a key to the meaning of the prophecy, which describes this third and longest period, in which the saints were to suffer for their faith and constancy; that they might expect a time of temptation and suffering; that they might be more careful to confirm their faith and patience, and encourage their perseverance.

This chapter represents another angel sent from heaven, to reveal the sure judgments of God on these enemies of the Christian religion, to foretell their sure destruction, and in as eminent a manner as God ever appeared to punish Babylon or Tyre. This part of the prophecy is very proper for the general design of it, to caution good Christians against the corruptions of the age in which they live, to give them consolation in their sufferings, through hope in the divine protection, of deliverance in a proper time, and of a glorious reward in the end.

PARAPHRASE.—Ver. 1. Now after the angel had so far explained the last vision, another angel was sent from heaven to show the downfall of that anti-christian power represented in it. In order to give weight to this message, it pleased God to entrust it to one of superior rank from his court in heaven, to show the importance of his trust who was commissioned to proclaim the divine decree. Ver. 2. And, as he drew nearer, he proclaimed, with an audible voice, Babylon is fallen! this mystical Babylon shall as surely perish as ancient Babylon formerly did, and become an equal example of ruin. As a city quite destroyed and utterly desolate, it shall be the resort of filthy birds and beasts of prey. Ver. 3. The angel declaring the judgment of Rome shows at the same time the reason of so heavy a punishment, because she had not only been herself guilty of idolatry, and persecuted the true Christian faith, but had likewise corrupted the princes and nations of the earth, as if she had given them a cup of poisonous composition to disturb their understanding, and excite their worst passions; she had prevailed upon them to commit the same sins of which she was guilty, and to propagate her corruptions from ambitious motives, urged by the incitements of luxury and the prospects of gain. Ver. 4. When this angel had declared the punishment of Rome, a voice from heaven was heard cautioning all good christians to keep themselves from supporting and propagating these prevailing corruptions, lest they partake in that guilt which will render them liable to the dreadful visitations that shall overtake the originators and supporters of such corruptions. Ver. 5. For these may be assured that a decree has been pronounced against them in heaven, and the terrible execution of it shall visibly shew that God will

6 [l] Reward her even as she rewarded you, and double unto her double according to her works: [m] in the cup which she hath filled [n] fill to her double.

7 [o] How much she hath glorified herself, and lived deliciously, so much torment and sorrow give her: for she saith in her heart, I sit a [p] queen, and am no widow, and shall see no sorrow.

8 Therefore shall her plagues come [q] in one day, death, and mourning, and famine; and [r] she shall be utterly burned with fire: [s] for strong is the Lord God who judgeth her.

9 And [t] the kings of the earth, who have committed fornication and lived deliciously with her, [u] shall bewail her, and lament for her, [x] when they shall see the smoke of her burning,

10 Standing afar off for the fear of her torment, saying, [y] Alas, alas that great city Babylon, that mighty city! [z] for in one hour is thy judgment come.

11 And [a] the merchants of the earth shall weep and mourn over her; for no man buyeth their merchandise any more:

12 [b] The merchandise of gold, and silver, and precious stones, and of pearls, and fine linen, and purple, and silk, and scarlet, and all † thyine wood, and all manner vessels of ivory, and all manner vessels of most precious wood, and of brass, and iron, and marble,

13 And cinnamon, and odours, and ointments, and frankincense, and wine, and oil, and fine flour, and wheat, and beasts, and sheep, and horses, and chariots, and ‡ slaves, and [c] souls of men.

14 And the fruits that thy soul lusted after are departed from thee, and all things which were dainty and goodly are departed from thee, and thou shalt find them no more at all.

15 [d] The merchants of these things, which were made rich by her, shall stand afar off for the fear of her torment, weeping and wailing,

16 And saying, Alas, alas that great city, [e] that was clothed in fine linen, and purple, and scarlet, and decked with gold, and precious stones, and pearls!

17 [f] For in one hour so great riches is come to nought. And [g] every shipmaster, and all the company in ships, and sailors, and as many as trade by sea, stood afar off, 18 [h] And cried when they saw the smoke of her burning, saying, [i] What city is like unto this great city!

19 And [k] they cast dust on their heads, and cried, weeping and wailing, saying, Alas, alas that great city, wherein were made rich all that had ships in the sea by reason of her costliness! [l] for in one hour is she made desolate.

20 [m] Rejoice over her, thou heaven, and ye holy apostles and prophets; for [n] God hath avenged you on her.

21 And a mighty angel took up a stone like a great millstone, and cast it into the sea, saying, [o] Thus with violence shall that great city Babylon be thrown down, and [p] shall be found no more at all.

22 [q] And the voice of harpers, and musicians, and of pipers, and trumpeters, shall be heard no more at all in thee; and no craftsman, of whatsoever craft he be, shall be found any more in thee; and the sound of a millstone shall be heard no more at all in thee;

23 [r] And the light of a candle shall shine no more at all in thee; [s] and the voice of the bridegroom and of the bride shall be heard no more at all in thee: for [t] thy merchants were the great men of the earth; [u] for by thy sorceries were all nations deceived.

24 And [x] in her was found the blood of prophets, and of saints, and of all that [y] were slain upon the earth.

surely remember, in his own fitting time, to execute judgment upon them. Ver. 6. Her punishment shall then be equal to her crimes, and she shall not only receive full retaliation for her numerous crimes and tyrannies, but be doomed to double penalties for her great and crying enormities. Ver. 7. She shall receive sorrow and torment in proportion to her former pride and luxury, although now she greatly rejoice in her prosperity and glory, power and authority, as securely and permanently settled. Ver. 8. Yet her vain security shall hasten her downfall; it shall be one part of her punishment that her plagues shall come upon her at once in full extremity; all the calamities of famine, sorrow and death shall come suddenly upon her. Her vast power and pride shall not be able to secure her from the justice of that supreme Judge who is mighty to execute the vengeance he has decreed. Ver. 9. So that the princes of the earth who supported her corruptions, and shared in her prosperity, shall be unable to afford her support under the awful visitation of divine vengeance; they will do no more than fruitlessly condole with her, and lament her desperate condition, when they behold all these calamities fall suddenly upon her. Ver. 10. They shall be so confounded at the sight that, like persons affrighted, they will endeavour to get as far as possible out of the danger, and only express their astonishment at calamities so awful and so little expected, saying, Alas! what a dreadful judgment is come upon the world, that so mighty a city should be so suddenly destroyed! Ver. 11. Her merchants, and others who partook in her prosperity, shall not be able to help her in this hour of her extremity; they will only weep for her misery and their own loss in her destruction, when all future commerce with her shall be cut off, and no man, by her means, shall obtain any more wealth, credit, or power. Ver. 12. The destruction of Rome shall much resemble that of ancient Tyre, when her extensive trade, the foundation of her riches, power, and pride, was at once stopped; when she lost the whole of her rare merchandise, consisting of all sorts of valuable commodities, such as gold, silver, precious stones, pearls, fine linen, scarlet and thyine-wood, together with various manufactures in ivory, precious wood, brass, iron and marble. Ver. 13. She shall trade no more in those things which administer to luxury and pride, as spices, perfumes, wine and oil, the finest flower and corn; neither shall she traffic in beasts and sheep, in horses and chariots, in slaves and human souls. Ver. 14. So great shall be the misery of Rome, in the day of God's vengeance, that nothing shall remain in her in which she used to take delight; she shall be spoiled of things that contributed to her former luxury and greatness, nor ever be able to recover them. Ver. 15. Those persons who administered to her pomp and luxury shall be seized with fear when they behold her torments; they shall fly from her to a distance, lest, as they were partakers in her guilt, they should be involved in her punishment; their joy shall be turned into weeping and wailing. Ver. 16. They shall utter their sorrow in bitter complaints, saying, Alas! alas! what dreadful calamities have overtaken this mighty city, once so admired and adored, which she in all the pride, and with all the pomp, of riches and grandeur! Ver. 17. But now is suddenly spoiled of all her great riches, and fallen into the utmost poverty; so that the common people who profited themselves in her inferior offices shall be as useless to her as her most powerful friends; they likewise shall forsake her, and, consulting their own safety, remove from her as far off as they can. Ver. 18. When they see her, as a city, burnt down to the ground, and the smoke ascending as it were from every part of her ruins, they shall cry with astonishment, "Was ever the foundation of any city like unto this, once so great and mighty, now in ruin and misery!" Ver. 19. They shall, as in cases of the deepest mourning, put ashes upon their heads, and cry out with great anguish of heart, "O the inexpressible misery of this city, that used to enrich all who had dealings with her; such was her interest, power, and wealth, that all favoured by her were certain of making their fortune, yet is she now unexpectedly brought to destruction, and unable to help either herself or her friends." Ver. 20. But, added the angel, though these great judgments will fill the hearts of many with sorrow, it will afford joy to all sincere christians, for whom these revelations are made. The apostles, prophets and saints of God will have reason to rejoice in so signal an instance of divine protection, for it is to avenge the cause of his church and faithful servants that He does so severely punish this persecuting city. Ver. 21. Further to confirm her irrecoverable ruin, another mighty angel appeared in my vision, who plunged a huge stone, like a great millstone, into the sea, and he explained the mystical action by these words, "This mystical Babylon shall thus sink never to rise again." Ver. 22. So great and lasting will be the ruin of this persecuting city that there shall be in her no more entertainment for the rich; no more employment for the artificer or craftsmen of whatever kind, nay, not even for persons employed in the most menial offices, such as preparing corn for the daily consumption of her citizens. Ver. 23. Neither shall the inhabitants of that city be continued by new marriages, and a succession of families: no bridal-song, no songs, no ceremonies of nuptial joy shall ever more be seen or heard in it, but it shall be desolate and without inhabitants, because it has been guilty of so much pride, idolatry, and cruelty; sins which God punishes with exemplary severity, especially when persons abuse their power and riches, not only to corrupt themselves, but to spread corruption every where by their influence and example. Ver. 24. So great has been her superstition and cruelty that she has exceeded the severest persecutions; she has wantonly spilt the blood of thousands for being faithful to their calling in Christ: by sanctioning the cruelty of former persecutors she has involved herself in their guilt, as she is herself guilty of the innocent blood shed throughout the earth, subject to her authority, and in virtue of her canons and decrees. Having now filled up the measure of her own sins it is but just that so heavy a punishment should fall upon her.

CHAP. XIX.—The prophecies relating to this third period concluded with a severe punishment of Rome for her pride, luxury, superstition, and idolatry, especially for her cruel persecution of all found faithful to their duty in preserving the purity of the Christian doctrines and worship. When Rome that fell, as evil, that Babylon, to rise no more, the heavenly church is introduced as a chorus, to praise God for his righteous judgments. This excellent hymn of praise, sung by the united voices of angels and saints in heaven, strongly represents to all christians, and to every church upon earth, what a grateful sense they ought to have of God's faithfulness in their protection, and of his righteous judgments in punishing the persecutors of religion. Though for wise reasons, and for a limited time, God may permit the righteous to suffer from the enemies of righteousness, nevertheless the final event of things shall surely show God's faithfulness in blessing his people, and his justice in punishing their enemies. A just reason for consolation, gratitude, and praise.

PARAPHRASE.—Ver. 1. When the angel had informed me of the destruction of that persecuting power which was to arise in this third period, I saw in a further vision as if the whole church were assembled, and with united voices singing a hymn of praise to God, saying "Alleluiah, let us ascribe salvation, glory, honor and power unto Jehovah, the only true God, who is our God. Ver. 2. For his judgments show him to be just, righteous, faithful and true: his punishment of Rome for her pride, superstition, idolatry, and persecution, evinces his righteousness; he has illustriously manifested the truth of his promises in avenging the blood of his servants upon her, who so cruelly put them to death for their faith in Him, and their constancy in his religion." Ver. 3. And they concluded their hymn, saying, Alleluiah: Let God be praised, who has put an end to the power of persecution for ever. This persecuting city shall lie waste, from generation to generation, never to be restored. Ver. 4. This hymn being ended, the twenty four elders, representing the Church, and the four living creatures, representing the cherubim, prostrated themselves before Jehovah, and concluded the praises of the heavenly Church, saying, "Amen, Alleluiah; so let Jehovah our God be praised." Ver. 5. Then immediately came a voice, as from the throne itself, addressed to all the faithful servants of God, that they should heartily unite in praising him, and in exalting his name. Ver. 6. Upon this the whole Church began to celebrate his praises in another hymn; their united voices were as the noise of the sea, or of thunder. They began their song of praise, saying, "Alleluiah: for Jehovah is the only true God, whose Almighty power and supreme dominion extend throughout the universe. Ver. 7. Let allwho truly love and fear him rejoice heartily, and give him all honour, now that he has so signally accomplished his promises; for now the true Church of Christ, as his bride, is appointed to receive public marks of his affection, in a state of happiness and dignity suitable with her relation to him. Ver. 8. As it is usual for bridegrooms, at their marriage, to present to their brides rich ornaments and apparel, so, at this time, the Church of Christ shall be presented with suitable ornaments; it shall be adorned with righteousness and true holiness, ornaments far more valuable and honourable than the most costly habits of eastern princes, or of the ancient priesthood. Ver. 9. The angel then, directing his speech to me in particular, bid me notice this part of the prophecy, and write it down for the use and consolation of the true Church, which may rest satisfied, in full assurance of hope, that all the promises of this prophecy shall surely be accomplished, for they are the faithful and never-failing word of God. Ver. 10. I was about to throw myself at the angel's feet, in token of my reverence and thankfulness, when he prevented me, declaring that in this revelation he was, like myself, employed as a servant of God, and that therefore I was to consider him, although an angel as one of my brethren commissioned by Jehovah to reveal things relating to Christ and his Church; that the visions which revealed to me so many things concerning the future state of the Church, proceeded from the same spirit of prophecy as all true revelation does. "Worship not me, then," says the angel, "but God, whose servants we both are in this revelation, and from whom we have both received the same spirit of prophecy." Ver. 11. A new scene was now presented before me. The gates of heaven were thrown open, for an army to march out. This army was led by a person mounted on a white horse, such as generals were accustomed to ride on solemn processions. He appeared to be the person to whom God had given all power, and committed all judgment, who was to accomplish all his promises in faithfulness, and execute all his judgments in truth, for the protection of his people, and for the punishment of their enemies. Ver. 12. His aspect was noble, his eyes being bright and piercing, and his head adorned with many crowns, denoting his numerous conquests, and extended empire: so great was the dignity conferred upon him that no one but himself could fully comprehend it. Ver. 13. He was dressed in a robe of deep red, as if it had been dipped in blood, to express that Jesus, who, for his voluntary obedience unto death, was highly exalted, and had a name given to him which is above every name, should fulfil this prophecy in the utter destruction of the enemies of his government. The slaughter of them should then be so great that their blood would be sprinkled on his garments. Then he should be celebrated under the glorious title of the Word of God. Ver. 14. The prophetic vision represented this general followed by the armies of heaven: they were likewise mounted on white horses, and clothed in splendid habits, and in the finest linen, to signify that now the Church should attain to a state of triumph and peace; that their faith should be highly rewarded, and their happiness far above that enjoyed by Rome in the glory of her greatest conquests. Ver. 15. The vision further represented a sharp sword, apparently coming out of Christ's mouth, to signify that he had full power of the sword of divine justice; that now he was about to use it in the strict execution of justice upon the enemies of true religion; that he would chastise them as with a rod of iron, and punish them with the severest vengeance of divine wrath. Ver. 16. Finally, I observed an inscription on one part of his garment, which covered his thigh, where the sword is usually worn. In this inscription he was styled, King of Kings, and Lord of Lords, to signify that he possessed dominion over all the kingdoms of the earth.

Ver. 17. As I beheld this general marching with his army on this great expedition, the event of it, in the total destruction of his enemies, was declared by the voice of an angel who seemed to stand in the sun, and, with a very audible voice, invited the birds of the prey to the carcases of the slain as to a great feast, which the vengeance of God on his enemies would shortly provide for them. Ver. 18. In which feast they should prey on the corpses of a numerous army; many persons of the highest rank would remain unburied on the field of battle, so that the birds of prey should devour the flesh of kings, of great captains, of mighty men, as well as that of common soldiers, and their horses. Ver. 19. And I beheld in my vision another army opposed to the Christ and the heavenly army which he led.

The beast, representing the persecuting power of Rome, in conjunction with the kings of the earth, who, aided and supported it, gathered their forces together to oppose all reformation of the errors, superstition, idolatry and persecution. Ver. 20. But Christ and his saints obtained a complete victory over them. The persecuting power, represented by the beast, together with the false prophet, and all the supporters of the beast, were made prisoners to suffer a more exemplary punishment by the hand of justice; for these were subsequently sentenced to be burnt alive, and had their sentence executed upon them, being cast into a pit of burning brimstone. Ver. 21. As to the rest, the persons of inferior rank, who had abetted the apostacy, they fell in the field of battle, and were left there unburied as a prey to the fowls of the air, a strong figure expressing their utter destruction.

CHAP. XX. This chapter represents a new state of the Church, upon its deliverance from the persecution and corruption of the third period, or during the reign of the two beasts for two-five hundred and sixty prophetic days or years. That long state of oppression is to be succeeded by a long continuance of peace and prosperity; a fourth period is described, which is to last for a thousand years. The last two periods ended in a deliverance of the Church, but those deliverances were of short continuance, and attended with considerable defects; but now, after the Church shall have passed through this third trial of faith and patience, it is to attain a state of very great prosperity, and to remain in it for a considerable length of time. This is the happy state of the Church, which, from the continuation of it, for a thousand years, is usually called the Millenium.

PARAPHRASE. Ver. 1. After I had seen in my former prophetic vision the overthrow of the last persecuting power of Rome, the state of the Church to follow was represented to me in a new vision; for I beheld an angel as if descending with a message from God's throne, his commission being expressed by a double symbol; he held in his hand the key of the bottomless abyss, and likewise a strong chain, such as is used upon prisoners to prevent their escape. Ver. 3. I soon perceived the nature of this angel's mission, for he seized on the Old Serpent, or Satan, bound him, and committed him to close custody for a thousand years. Ver. 3. The angel having cast him into the abyss, put a seal upon it to prevent his escape, and that he might no more deceive the nations. This was Satan to be confined for a thousand years, at the expiration of which the wise providence of God would take off his restraint, though only for a short period. Ver. 4. The Church being thus delivered, its happy state was thus further represented; I saw thrones erected, and persons seated on them to whom the charge of government and administration of justice were committed, who persevered with the constancy of martyrs in their Christian profession against all opposition, neither yielding to the prevailing corruptions, nor acknowledging in any way, the authority of the antichristian power of the beast; such as these the spirit of prophecy declared were the persons permitted to reign with Christ for those thousand years. Ver. 5. While this happy state of the Church shall continue, the party of the beast shall not recover any portion of their former power till the expiration of the thousand years. This happy state of the Church will be called, "life from the dead, or the first resurrection." Ver. 6. In this eminently glorious state of the Church, its members shall be both holy and happy, free from all affliction, and from the apprehension of trouble; the second death shall not hurt them, they, being consecrated to God by their Christian profession, shall live as his priests, and reign in a state of purity, peace and glory under Christ's protection and favour. Ver. 7. It was further communicated to me in my vision that this happy condition of the Church was not to be perpetual; for, at the end of the thousand years, Satan shall be released from the abyss. Ver. 8. Immediately he shall renew his seductions of the evil disposed among mankind; and he shall find such persons in several parts of the earth who, like the descendants of Gog and Magog, the Scythians and Tartars, shall assemble in vast numbers in order to disturb the peace and prosperity of the Church. Ver. 9. They shall advance so suddenly, and in such a manner, that they shall surround the peaceful habitations of the saints, and besiege them even in their camps and capital cities; but God will protect his servants, and destroy their enemies; he will cast fire out of heaven upon them as he threatened Gog and Magog in the ancient prophets (Ezek. xxxix. 1, &c.) Ver. 10. And Satan, the promoter of this new apostacy, shall be cast into a lake of fire and brimstone, where he shall be everlastingly punished with the beast and false prophet. Ver. 11. And I further beheld what was to follow this judgment of Satan. The general judgment was represented to me as follows: I saw a glorious throne erected, and a person sitting on it, at the sight of whom the whole constitution and frame of the world changed and passed quite away, so that the present earth and skies were seen no more. Ver. 12. I next beheld a general resurrection of the dead. All ranks and orders of men appeared before God's judgment seat, and the records of their actions were produced; and another scroll was unfolded, called the book of life, in which is entered the name of every man who has entered into God's service, and expunged where they fall off from him. And the dead were all impartially judged out of the things written in the books according to their works with impartial, but inflexible, justice. Ver. 13. The judgment was so general that all the dead, without exception, were raised again to life, to be judged according to their works, whether they perished in the sea, or on land, or were consigned to the grave; all in the invisible state of the dead were brought forth to this universal judgment. Ver 14. After this general resurrection to judgment there shall be no more natural death; they who are judged shall not return to their graves, for Death and Hades shall be destroyed. But there is a second death, the portion of all who shall be found guilty, and condemned in this day of universal judgment. Ver. 15. For as many as shall not then appear to be true and faithful Christians, and as such to be registered in the rolls of the true Church of Christ, shall be punished as the enemies of God's government, and of true religion; they shall be cast into a lake of fire, and suffer a second death in a state of everlasting destruction.

CHAP. XXI. We are now come in the course of these prophecies to the end and consummation of all things. This vision stands in the prophecy, after the last attempt of the enemies of religion had been defeated; after the dead, both small and great, had appeared before God's judgment seat, and were judged according to their works; after all the wicked were doomed to everlasting punishment, and all who were not found written in the book of life were cast into the lake of fire.

This order of the prophecies seems to point out to us that the new heavens and new earth, represented in this vision, signifying that state of unchangeable perfection and heavenly happiness to which the faithful servants of the living God shall be advanced when all their trials in this life shall be ended.

The seventh and last period concludes the entire plan of providence, finishing in a perpetual sabbatism.

PARAPHRASE.—Ver. 1. After the foregoing visions, I beheld a perfectly new state of things; the heavens, and the earth on which we now live, being dissolved in fire, there appeared a new heaven and a new earth, in which there was no sea; to signify there should be no turbulent spirits to disturb the peace of that happy state. Ver. 2. The blessedness of this state was further represented to me by the model of a noble city, as a new Jerusalem; this model seemed to descend gradually out of heaven and approach nearer to me in the air, that I might observe it more distinctly. I perceived it was adorned with all the splendour used at marriage solemnities. Ver. 3. Moreover a voice from heaven explained the meaning of this vision, informing me that God would accomplish all that good to his faithful worshippers which his tabernacle denoted to them at the seat of his presence, and testimony of his favour; that he would bless them, as his favoured people, with all protection and happiness. Ver. 4. For such shall be the blessed effects of his presence with them, that they shall meet with no more troubles to draw tears from their eyes, as in the present life; they shall be no more subject to death; every thing that can cause pain or sorrow shall be removed from them. These were the afflictions of mortality; they have, however, passed away, and shall be endured no more. Ver. 5. The happiness of this state was confirmed by the oracle from the throne—"Take notice that God will make an entire change of all things in the form and state of the world, nor shall any of its former afflictions remain. Record this declaration and promise; they contain nothing but what is most certainly true, and in due time shall be faithfully accomplished. Ver. 6. And now shall be the consummation of all things. God will execute all his purposes, from the beginning to the end: he will abundantly satisfy the hopes and desires of eternal life of his faithful servants; happiness will ever flow in upon them as water ever comes from an overflowing fountain. Ver. 7. They who resist the temptations of a corrupt world shall not lose their reward. God himself will be their God, their portion and happiness for ever. He will receive them as his children, and confirm their right as such to inherit the blessings of eternal life. Ver. 8. But such as are distrustful of the divine promises, all who have indulged themselves in abominable vices, who have been guilty of murder, fornication, deceit, idolatry, and lying, shall have their portion with Satan, to whose party they have united themselves, and with him shall undergo the punishment of the second death in the lake that burneth with fire and brimstone. Ver. 9. Besides this more general account of the happiness of the faithful, an angel or interpreter was sent to give me a more particular description of the glory of that blessed state. It was one of the seven angels having the seven vials full of the last plagues, as seen in the foregoing vision. He called me to approach him, saying he would show me more distinctly the model of the holy city, the new Jerusalem, adorned as the bride of the Lamb on her marriage festival. Ver. 10. Then the spirit of prophecy changed the scene of my vision. I seemed to stand on a high mountain whence I could distinctly survey the entire model of this heavenly city, of divine plan and workmanship, which was let down from heaven. Ver. 11. It had a glorious brightness like that of the Shechinah, or celestial glory in the Temple, the symbol of God's presence, so that the model shone with the lustre of a diamond, to express its surpassing beauty and splendour. Ver. 12 and 13. It appeared surrounded with a thick and high wall, to denote the great security of its inhabitants. It had twelve gates, three on each side of the wall, facing the east, west, north and south, and at every gate stood an angelic guard. Each gate was named after one of the twelve tribes, as appeared by an inscription upon it, figuratively showing who had a right to be admitted by the angelic guards; expressing likewise the great honour of that city in which angels were appointed guards, an honour properly due to the majesty of God's presence, and to the seat of it. Ver. 14. The foundations of the city were adorned with inscriptions of the names of the twelve apostles, who had this honour as the founders of the Christian Church, under Christ's immediate authority; figuratively showing that they who shall erect their faith on the foundation of apostolical doctrine and institutions will be surely advanced to this holy and blessed state. Ver. 15. I now perceived that the angelic interpreter had a golden measuring rod, with which he measured the several parts of this holy city; by which was to be understood its vast extent, together with the exact order and proportion of every part of it, signifying that it was prepared for a vast multitude of inhabitants, and that every thing designed for the blessed in this immortal state was prepared with the greatest order, beauty, and exactness. Ver. 16. Upon being measured it appeared an exact square of great extent, being fifteen hundred miles in compass, each side measuring three hundred and seventy-five miles. It was so regularly built that all its edifices were of the same proportions, and exactly uniform. Ver. 17. Upon measuring the wall, I perceived that it was five hundred and forty cubits according to the common measure used among men, for such a measure was made use of by the angel in measuring the wall. Ver. 18. The walls were built with extraordinary magnificence, being composed of large masses of stone resembling jasper; the city was everywhere adorned with pure gold, and shone with the brilliancy of crystal. Ver. 19 and 20. The lower parts of the wall were adorned with precious stones of uncomthe eleventh, a jacinth; the twelfth, an amethyst.

21 And the twelve gates were twelve pearls; every several gate was of one pearl: [e] and the street of the city was pure gold, as it were transparent glass.

22 [f] And I saw no temple therein: for the Lord God Almighty and the Lamb are the temple of it.

23 [g] And the city had no need of the sun, neither of the moon, to shine in it: for the glory of God did lighten it, and the Lamb is the light thereof.

24 [h] And the nations of them which are saved shall walk in the light of it: and the kings of the earth do bring their glory and honour into it.

25 [i] And the gates of it shall not be shut at all by day: for [k] there shall be no night there.

26 [l] And they shall bring the glory and honour of the nations into it.

27 And [m] there shall in no wise enter into it any thing that defileth, neither whatsoever worketh abomination, or maketh a lie: but they which are written in the Lamb's [n] book of life.

CHAP. XXII.

1 The river of the water of life. 2 The tree of life. 8 The light of the city of God is himself. 9 The angel will not be worshipped. 18 Nothing may be added to the word of God, nor taken therefrom.

AND he shewed me [a] a pure river of water of life, clear as crystal, proceeding out of the throne of God and of the Lamb.

2 [b] In the midst of the street of it, and on either side of the river, was there [c] the tree of life, which bare twelve manner of fruits, and yielded her fruit every month: and the leaves of the tree were [d] for the healing of the nations.

3 And [e] there shall be no more curse: [f] but the throne of God and of the Lamb shall be in it; and his servants shall serve him:

4 And [g] they shall see his face; and [h] his name shall be in their foreheads.

5 [i] And there shall be no night there; and they need no candle, neither light of the sun; for [k] the Lord God giveth them light: [l] and they shall reign for ever and ever.

6 And he said unto me, [m] These sayings are faithful and true: and the Lord God of the holy prophets [n] sent his angel to shew unto his servants the things which must shortly be done.

7 [o] Behold, I come quickly: [p] blessed is he that keepeth the sayings of the prophecy of this book.

8 And I John saw these things, and heard them. And when I had heard and seen, [q] I fell down to worship before the feet of the angel which shewed me these things.

9 Then saith he unto me, [r] See thou do it not: for I am thy fellowservant, and of thy brethren the prophets, and of them which keep the sayings of this book: worship God.

10 [s] And he saith unto me, Seal not the sayings of the prophecy of this book: [t] for the time is at hand.

11 [u] He that is unjust, let him be unjust still: and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still: and he that is righteous, let him be righteous still: and he that is holy, let him be holy still.

12 [x] And, behold, I come quickly; and [y] my reward is with me, [z] to give every man according as his work shall be.

13 [a] I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end, the first and the last.

14 [b] Blessed are they that do his commandments, that they may have right [c] to the tree of life, [d] and may enter in through the gates into the city.

mon magnitude and lustre, being emblems of the preciousness and value of the Apostles' doctrine and holiness of life. They further denoted the perfect glory and bliss of all the inhabitants of this glorious city, they being ever in the immediate presence, and under the immediate protection, of God. Ver. 21. Every gate of it was made of one entire pearl, and the place of public assembly was paved with a stone, bright and transparent as crystal, and in pure gold. Ver. 22. Though there was no temple in this city the deficiency was abundantly supplied by the paternal presence of Jehovah and of the Lamb, who were its temple. They were present in it in a much more glorious manner than when they were present in the earthly Jerusalem. Ver. 23. This New Jerusalem had no need of the sun or moon to give it light, as upon earth. The presence of God himself and of Christ did unceasingly enlighten it, as the divine glory enlightened the Holy of Holies in the earthly temple. Ver. 24. This city shall be the everlasting dwelling place of all true believers out of every nation upon earth. The glory of it shall far exceed what could be produced in a city "made with hands," if all the Sovereigns of the world were to bring the whole of their riches to beautify and adorn it. Ver. 25. There will be no occasion ever to close its gates, for the perpetual light of God's glory admits of no night. In this heavenly Jerusalem there is an eternal and unclouded day; its inhabitants shall dwell for ever in the undiminished possession of all joy, security, and peace. Ver. 26. All that can contribute to render their abode honourable and glorious shall be found there, as if every thing precious, beautiful, and distinguished, were centered in this celestial Zion. Ver. 27. Let it, however, be borne in mind that all unworthy persons, idolators, those who lead impure lives, hypocrites, liars, shall have no portion in this happiness, a blessedness peculiar to the faithful servants of God and of Christ—to such as are registered among the true followers of the Lamb.

CHAP. XXII. The first five verses of this chapter are but a continuation of the prophetic description of the New Jerusalem, and should have formed part of the twenty-first chapter.

PARAPHRASE.—Ver. 1. The angel directed me to observe further in this plan of the New Jerusalem, which I saw in my vision, that a river of water, perfectly pure and transparent as crystal, perpetually issued out of the throne of God and of the Lamb; to represent a constant provision for the bliss of the inhabitants of this celestial city. Ver. 2. As this river flowed through the chief street, in the midst of the city, there were planted on either side of it trees, resembling the tree of life in Eden, the fruits of which should make the inhabitants immortal. These trees yielded a great variety of delicious fruits, and in such plenty that they had ripe fruit all the year round; even the leaves possessed such healing virtues that they were a certain remedy against all kinds of weakness and indisposition. Ver. 3. So great will be the happiness of the faithful in Christ Jesus that nothing shall interrupt it; nothing shall be done to excite the divine displeasure, there shall be neither afflictions nor punishments, but the blessing of God's and of Christ's favour shall be perpetual; the saints shall serve God everlastingly with gratitude, affection, constancy, and joy. Ver. 4. For in that happy state they shall enjoy His eternal presence, and be made partakers of his perfection and glory. Like the High Priest of old, they shall have "holiness to the Lord" on their foreheads, expressive of their entire devotion to God and as an indelible mark of his favour. Ver. 5. Then there shall be no interruption of their bliss. There no darkness shall ever appear, for the happiness of those inhabiting the heavenly Zion, as it proceeds from God himself, will not only be everlasting, but perfect. Having the light of his eternal glory they shall require no light from any created object, but reign with God and their Redeemer for ever and ever. Ver. 6. The angel who had showed me the plan of the heavenly Jerusalem, confirmed to me the truth of these prophecies, and the faithful performance of all which had been represented to me in my vision. He assured me that these were not like the deceitful promises of false prophets or credulous enthusiasts; that the same God who inspired the prophets of the ancient Church so punctually to foretell the circumstances of Christ's first appearance, had sent his angel to support the faith of the Christian church, by those revelations which shall soon begin to be accomplished and continue to be fulfilled in a series of events to the end of time. Ver. 7. Christ himself testifies to the truth of these promises. He solemnly declares that he will himself fulfil them and that shortly, in the order marked out for their fulfilment. Blessed then will they be who shall so attend to the prophecies of these visions as faithfully to follow the directions contained in them. Ver. 8. And I, John, who have committed these revelations to writing for the constant use of the Churches, do solemnly declare that I saw and heard them. And now my visions appearing to be at an end, I bowed myself to the ground before the angel who had shown me those things in token of my deep respect and gratitude. Ver. 9. But he prevented me, bidding me not to consider him the author of these prophetic visions, but as a fellow-servant of the prophets, and as such employed with them in the service of God. All the praises of the Church, therefore, should be given exclusively to God, who only is to be acknowledged the author of these revelations, and who alone bestows the spirit of prophecy for the encouragement and consolation of the faithful. Ver. 10. The angel then charged me not to keep those prophetic visions from the Church, for the things revealed in them would soon begin to be accomplished. Ver. 11. The providence of God will, indeed, permit things to continue in the world just as these prophecies have represented them. Men of evil principles and corrupt lusts will continue evil and corrupt, but the righteous and holy will persevere in their righteousness and holiness. Ver. 12. And to confirm this, Christ will come according to his promise, and everlastingly reward all his faithful servants and punish the wicked for ever and ever. Ver. 13. For he is the Lord of the whole creation, by whom all things began, and by whom all things are to be consummated; so that he will execute his righteous will, through all the revolutions of time, and nothing can hinder the full accomplishment of his word. Ver. 14. Blessed then are they who shall be induced by these revelations to continue in a course of Christian purity, for such have a full assurance of hope that they shall be for ever admitted into the blessed state of heavenly perfection. Ver. 15. But the wicked shall not partake of this blessedness. All they who, like dogs, bite

16 [g] I Jesus have sent mine angel to testify unto you these things in the churches. [h] I am the root and the offspring of David, and [i] the bright and morning star.

17 And the Spirit and [k] the bride say, Come. And let him that heareth say, Come. [l] And let him that is athirst come. And whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely.

18 For I testify unto every man that heareth the words of the prophecy of this book, [m] If any man shall add unto these things, God shall add unto him the plagues that are written in this book:

19 And if any man shall take away from the words of the book of this prophecy, [n] God shall take away his part [o] out of the book of life, and out of [o] the holy city, and from the things which are written in this book.

20 He which testifieth these things saith, [p] Surely I come quickly; [q] Amen. [r] Even so, come, Lord Jesus.

21 [s] The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.

and devour the innocent, who indulge themselves in sins of uncleanness, or who attempt to maintain the corruptions of religion by falsehood or forgery, shall be for ever excluded. Ver. 16. The Lord Jesus Christ finally gave me the fullest assurance of hope, by affirming it was he who sent his angel, and who caused me to see these prophetic visions in which the state of the Church and of the world was represented to me. The same person described in the ancient prophecies as the son and offspring of David, the day-spring from on high, the true Messiah or God's anointed, confirmed the truth of all these revelations by his own testimony. Ver. 17. And now the prophecies of this book reveal truths of so much consequence to sincere Christians;—now these prophecies are so fully confirmed by the spirit of prophecy and by the testimony of Jesus Christ;—the Church, his spiritual bride, should greatly rejoice in them, and endeavour to confirm his faith by them. For every one who sincerely desires a portion of these blessings, and will seek for them as the true religion of Christ directs, shall be sure to receive them through God's grace, as he has faithfully promised. Ver. 18. And now I have exactly related what I saw and heard in these prophetic visions, let me solemnly conjure every person into whose hands this faithful record of them shall fall, that they treat them with the reverence due to communications direct from God;—that they venture not to add anything to them; let them keep as close as they can to the true meaning and intention of their prophetic spirit, for they may be assured that God will severely punish any impious rashness, by inflicting on them the curses denounced in these prophecies against deceivers and false pretenders to prophecy. Ver. 19. On the other hand let no one presume to expunge any prophecy from this book; let no one discredit the authority of any of these revelations as useless, dangerous, or unworthy the Spirit of God; let no one endeavour to pervert their true meaning and intention, to serve any evil views of his own. Such unworthy treatment of the word of prophecy will justly forfeit the blessings and happiness with which these prophecies encourage the faithfulness and constancy of sincere Christians. Ver. 20. As then Jesus, the author of these revelations, assures a certain accomplishment of them in their times and seasons, let the whole Church join with me in saying, Amen. Let all faithful Christians with joyful hope and hearty desire continually say—"Even so, come Lord Jesus," accomplish thy promises in their order, and, finally, crown the faith, patience, and constancy of thy servants with life eternal. Ver. 21. Meanwhile, may the favour and blessing of Jesus Christ our Saviour be with all true Christians; may his grace support and comfort all who suffer for his name, and keep them to the glory of his heavenly kingdom. Amen!
